

Muller case lands in federal court

By Eric Cravey

JACKSONVILLE – The case of Trumaine Devone Muller, 33, of Jacksonville, earned national attention in May 2017 when Sheriff Darryl Daniels announced the reputed drug dealer would face first-degree murder charges for selling fentanyl-laced heroin that led to the death of an Orange Park college student.

Now, a year later, without little fanfare, Muller’s case is weaving its way through the courts, but not on the state level where it all began. With his case being passed on to United States District Court, a federal grand jury indicted Muller on four felony charges in the November 10, 2016 death of 18-year-old Ariel Jade Brundige who died of a drug overdose in an apartment in the 1400 block of Berrier Street in Orange Park.

Trumaine Muller

Muller faces 20 years in prison for intentionally selling the fatal drugs to Brundige the prior day, but after further investigation, Muller now faces three new charges of selling other drugs on other dates.

Count two of the indictment cites a case in which Muller allegedly “knowingly and intentionally” sold a mixture of heroin that included a detectable amount of furany-fentanyl, a schedule I drug under U.S. law. This sale allegedly took place on January 31, 2017, however, the federal indictment filed this year on May 10 does not give details about where the drug sale took place.

Clay County Memories

By Mary Jo McTammany tamctammany@comcast.net

The sweet taste of Independence Day, 1900s-style

In the early decades of the 1900s, the Fourth of July was a big deal in Clay County.

Feelings of patriotism loomed large but it was also the perfect time for a break.

The date falls in the middle of the hot Florida summer. It was an event to look forward to through the monotonous, first half of the summer and remembered with fondness through the dog days of July and August.

By today's standards, the celebrations were not spectacular. Events of varying size were planned in all parts of the county to recognize the founding of the nation. Green Cove Springs, as the county seat and the most populated area, gathered the largest crowds and organized the biggest show.

As the date approached, merchants and town residents unpacked the holiday paraphernalia of assorted ribbons and bunting and American flags. Gradually, the town took on the theme of red, white and blue.

Churches and social clubs planned their displays, mostly game booths for children with prizes for all and special foods for judging and sale. Despite the heat, wood stoves in kitchens all over town stayed fired up for days in preparations despite the heat. For rural women isolated at farmsteads on lonely dirt trails miles from neighbors with never ending chores that needed redoing almost before they were done the mid-summer break was a gift sent from God.

The streets of Green Cove Springs bustled even though most of the tourists and hotel staffs had packed up and headed North in April. Streets were crammed with wagons, horses and in the later decades backfiring automobiles. A circus could not have provided more excitement.

After some rural families shared a picnic lunch under the trees, the older children scattered and the men migrated toward the bandstand and parking area to lean against something, confer about politics and make deals. The women settled toddlers and babes on quilts to nap and commenced to revel in the real purpose of the day – simple conversation.

But, as peaceful and innocent as this scene may seem, there was always a tension in the air. In this time at the turn of the century, law enforcement was a fragile thing. Men were accustomed to looking out for their own. As Sheriff Weeks said when he and Arch Murrhee separated in the woods north of Green Cove Springs to capture a gang of bank robbers it was "every man for himself."

As harmless as the participants might appear, every man was more than likely armed with a pistol; some of the women too. A few who would later be returning home on lonely dark roads kept rifles or shotguns near to hand. The roads held danger from ambush by escaped turpentine camp convicts and assorted homegrown troublemakers.

In the afternoon, a fiddler would take the stage with rousing selections and assorted toe-tapper songs. As shadows deepened, families packed up and began to drift off home.

For one little girl in Orange Park, this was the best part – sucking a sugar soaked lemon half when the lemonade barrels were cleaned out at the very end.

alleged Muller drug sale that took place on February 8, 2017 in which the drug mixture was made up of heroin and cocaine.

Count four is a charge of possession of a firearm by a convicted felon dating to an offense that occurred on February 8, 2017. According to the indictment, Muller was in possession of a Smith & Wesson .38-caliber special plus P revolver on that date.

The indictment also cites prior felony convictions in state courts dating back to July 28, 2005, when Muller was convicted of grand theft. In 2006, he was convicted for possession of a firearm by a convicted felon and in 2007, 2008 and 2011, he was convicted of possession of cocaine and the sale of cocaine. He also has convictions for evidence tampering and introducing contraband into a county detention facility.

On May 23, U.S. Magistrate Judge Patricia Barksdale held an arraignment for Muller – who is also known by the nicknames Jolly and Lucky – in a federal courtroom in Jacksonville. Muller pleaded not guilty to all four counts in the May 10 indictment. He is currently in federal custody while he awaits a status conference set for Aug. 20 in Jacksonville before Judge Marcia Morales Howard. He could go on to a jury trial as early as Sept. 4.

In the original Muller case, a Clay

Ariel Bundige

County grand jury indicted Muller along with Brundige's boyfriend, Tyler William Hamilton, 26, and friend Christopher Allen Williams, 32, for manslaughter related to her death. Both were with the victim when she purchased the narcotics and when she died. The incident occurred at Williams' residence in the 1400 block of Berrier Street. Hamilton and Brundige also worked together at the Cracker Barrel restaurant in Orange Park.

During a highly-dramatized press conference held in May 2017, Daniels sent out a warning signal for those who sell drugs in Clay County.

"For someone who would sell heroin or bring in fentanyl, and thinks that it's OK to bring these products into Clay County, I have more disdain for them than I have the regular criminal," Daniels said. "We've talked about dragging people from the gates of hell in the past, so we don't have to do that, just get the hell out of Clay County."

While she was not present at Daniels' press conference, State Attorney Melissa Nelson issued a statement supporting the indictment.

"The opioid crisis is a very real and steadily growing issue that threatens the safety and well-being of our community," said State Attorney Melissa Nelson in a prepared statement.

Shortly after the news of the indictment hit the internet, the Libertarian Reason Foundation jumped on the case.

"The sheriff's office says this is the first time it's ever charged someone with murder for a drug overdose. One slight problem: It's not entirely clear under what legal authority they've brought this charge," writes Scott Shackford, the associate editor at Reason.com.

Pipe and drum corps updates name, reaches next generation

By Karassa Stinchcomb
For Clay Today

FLEMING ISLAND – Bagpipes and drums aren’t what most people think of when they hear the word ‘band.’ People typically think of a guitar, drums and a singer or two, but certainly not bagpipes.

Formerly known as Clay County Pipes and Drums Corps., First Coast Highlanders bagpipe and drum band performs at various events year-round but also teaches the willing how to play the bagpipes.

Art Tenney, 71, of Starke, started the band in 2009 because he wanted to play his bagpipes without having to be in a competition band. He has been playing bagpipes for 49 years and was the Clay County Sherri’s Office bagpiper before starting the band.

The band is made up of seven students, seven pipers and five drummers with a total of 19 members. Members range in age from 9 years to 74 years old. Tenney believes no one is too young or too old to learn the bagpipes.

“We’ll teach anyone, it doesn’t matter how old they are,” Tenney said. “We’ll teach somebody at 8-years-old if we think they can do it, or if they’re 108-years-old and they want to, we’ll teach them. There’s no limits.”

Brothers Blake, 12, and Tyler Buterbaugh, 9, of Middleburg, are both students in the band. Blake is learning how to play bagpipes and Tyler is learning how to play drums.

“Our mom heard about them and she called Art to find out how we can get involved and learn to play instruments,” Tyler Buterbaugh said.

Brooklyn Harrell, 11, of Orange Park, has been learning the bagpipes for a year-and-a-half. She first saw Tenney play at St. Giles’ Presbyterian Church near Orange Park and decided she wanted to play as well.

“I wanted to play because it’s something I never heard before,” Harrell said. “It’s a lot of practice and work, and I mess up sometimes, but I just have to practice, practice, practice.”

People interested in joining First Coast Highlanders don’t have to be Scottish, however, many of its members have Scottish roots.

Evan Brown, 60, of Raiford, Fla., is the band’s lead drummer and president. He joined the band in 2011 to feel connected to his Scottish heritage. He would like younger generations to get involved and learn how to play drums and bagpipes.

“I would like to encourage young people to take up drumming,” Brown said. “I have two adult students and one kid and that’s a good start, but we would like to build up the band more with some more members to

Gaps in schools, rural counties persist in diversion programs

By A.G. Gancarski
FloridaPolitics.com

The American Civil Liberties Union of Florida, the Southern Poverty Law Center and the James Madison Institute were among the groups discussing this year's iteration of the Caruthers Institute report "Stepping Up: Florida's Top Juvenile Pre-Arrest Diversion Efforts" on a Tuesday morning conference call.

Dewey Caruthers, president of The Caruthers Institute, which conducts the study, said that juvenile civil citations have "widespread support across the political spectrum," with conservatives and liberals agreeing that diversion is the best remedy for "common juvenile misbehavior."

Caruthers said these programs help public safety, improve outcomes and save taxpayer money.

One major move: "civil citations" are now rebranded as "pre-arrest diversion" programs. "This language is both more expansive and more accurate – unlike traditional citations, juveniles who receive civil citations must report to a program that includes a needs assessment and sanctions beyond a simple fine."

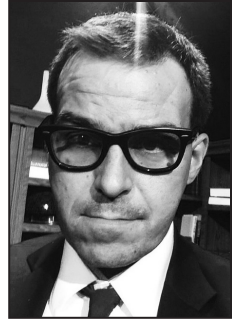

Circuit level diversion programs are required by the state starting July 1, with the first report due in October.

For advocates, this year's report took a look at best practices and how they translate into results. Many of the conference call speakers noted that this approach is one with self-evident benefits, and spotlighted the intersection of smart "restorative justice" policy and the interests of taxpayers and policy makers.

Demographically, there is equity among both gender and ethnicity in the use of diversion. Utilization across the board is 58 percent, with Latinos topping out at 65 percent, and whites at 57 percent. Diversion is more likely in incidents in schools (75 percent of the time) versus incidents in the community (52 percent).

Scott McCoy, senior policy counsel of the Southern Poverty Law Center, said that "we're doing better with the racial disparity problem," though there are still gaps in schools.

According to the report, "As illustrated

It happened again. Over the past two weeks, I've gotten a hard lesson on how important crime information is to our readers. This time, it started with the June 14 edition of Clay Today.

That week, we had what seemed to be a record number of obituaries and death notices paired with what seemed to be a record shortage of pages. Three pages of obituaries and death notices and accompanying photos telling of the passing of loved ones overshadowed our weekly list of arrests and bookings as we tried diligently to place them all inside 32 pages.

Yet when readers called in to ask why the arrests and bookings were missing, and I explained that they were bumped due to obituaries being inordinately lengthy, my explanation did not matter. I even explained how the info box on page 15, beside the two scant police briefs, was there to direct readers to our website, claytodayonline.com. We had collected and compiled arrests and bookings, we just didn't have room for them in the paper. We believed that posting arrests and bookings online in full would be enough. After two weeks of phone calls, I hear you loud and clear, Clay County.

For many callers, the online posting did not suffice.

by past editions of this study, there has been a consistent disparity in the frequency at which students of color are arrested for eligible offenses at school.”

Black students are still almost 2.5 times as likely as white students for school arrests, per the report. Leon County is the worst, with black students being 11.67 times more likely than white students for arrests.

The issues with racial equity in school usage of this policy was the worst news of this report, which by and large shows strides, with evidence-based progress.

The state’s top three counties using pre-arrest diversion are Monroe at 97 percent, Miami-Dade at 95 percent and Pinellas at 93 percent.

Rural counties are laggards on this front, and there is room for improvement for next year’s report.

“Nearly all the top-performing jurisdictions have a policy that presumes law enforcement officers should issue a pre-arrest diversion in all eligible instances. Arrests, with few exceptions, must be justified in writing by the law enforcement officer,” the report reads.

Caruthers noted that in top-performing jurisdictions, civil citation is a “presumptive norm” and that law enforcement training is annualized for veterans and part of orientation for new hires.

Many jurisdictions have utilization rates of 90 percent or higher, Caruthers said.

Monroe County was singled out for routing youthful offenders into diversion programs within 24 hours of the offense.

And diversion is effective as a deterrent. According to the report, only 4 percent of juveniles in these programs reoffended over the next 12 months.

The biggest barrier to diversion are arrests for domestic violence.

The report lauds Duval and Hillsborough counties for strides made from previous years, with memoranda of understanding driving a policy change.

“Duval County adopted a new memorandum of understanding in May 2017 expanding its use of pre-arrest diversion by defining eligibility, addressing the process of citing an eligible youth, and strengthening its Teen Court program. This has led to an increase in utilization from 27 percent in 2016 to 59 percent in 2017. The county had an average 90 percent utilization in the first quarter of 2018, positioning it to be a top performer in 2018,” the report states.

Duval had racial disparities in utilization that have abated, as of 2018, with increased usage, a priority of State Attorney Melissa Nelson that has become policy.

Michelle Morton, Juvenile Justice Policy coordinator of the ACLU, asserted the “increased advocacy ... changed the culture,” turning around Duval’s approach to these issues.

McCoy noted that “racial disparity” issues have been mitigated in Duval due to “increased utilization” of diversion programs.

Hillsborough County, meanwhile, “adopted a new memorandum of understanding in August 2017 expanding its use of pre-arrest diversion by expanding the list of eligible offenses. The County continues to exclude 13 misdemeanors that are eligible in other counties.”

“The new agreement followed a one-year pilot study using pre-arrest diversion for marijuana possession. This led to an increase in utilization from 37 percent in 2016 to 50 percent in 2017. The county had an average 60 percent utilization in the first quarter of 2018.”

A more expansive list of eligible offenses would lead to better results, according to multiple speakers on the call.

Office – changes over which we had no control.

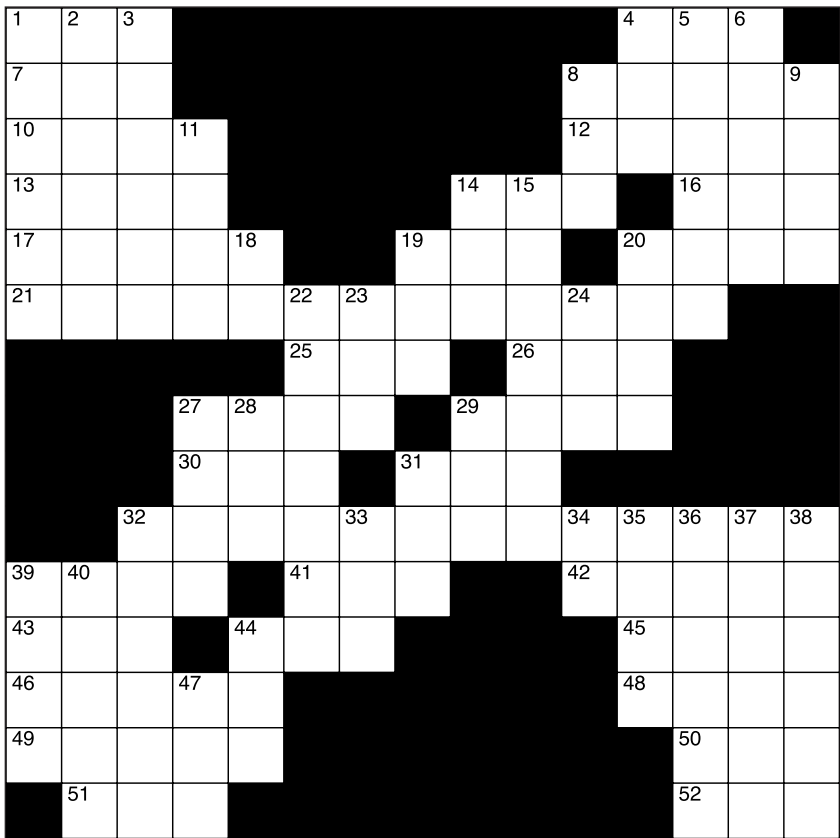

CrimeWatch, if you recall, was rather informative. It gave readers a snap shot of where thefts, burglary to structures, burglary to autos and criminal mischief crimes were taking place all over Clay County. The three times a week email from the sheriff’s office stopped when the CCSO rolled out a new web-based format with little fanfare or explanation to the public.

I wonder if anyone called the sheriff’s office with the same earful I received: “I don’t go online.”

About the same time of CrimeWatch’s demise, Clay’s Most Wanted just trickled away without any discussion or explanation. Regardless of the lesson we learned about arrests and bookings – which returned to the paper last week and will remain going forward – it’s always great to hear from readers. It’s even better to hear from readers who are passionate about something.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Agencies stay prepared in active shooter exercise

By Kile Brewer
Staff writer

ORANGE PARK – A catastrophic event can sometimes lead to positive change.

After the February 14 shooting in Parkland, schools and first responders across the state took stock of their own communities and are now trying to create change that would prevent a similar event from happening again.

Last Thursday at Ridgeview High, representatives from various agencies throughout Clay County met for an active shooter tabletop discussion. This was not a simulation where school administrators sat in a gym and watched via monitors a drill unfold. The June 21 event was simply a conversation between every line of defense the schools have in preventing or stopping a shooter.

"In the past, the administrators of various schools would be at those type of [simulation] exercises, kind of witnessing and observing what was going on," said Clay County Sheriff's Office information officer Keith Smith. "What we tried to cover today was that first initial eight hours of when the incident takes place, during those initial critical hours of locking down the school, getting it back to where the kids are getting out of the school, reuniting them with their parents, and then the coordination with us, the Clay County School Board, with their public information officer Nicole Snyder and just working together from there."

Smith explained that, though everyone from the schools to law enforcement, fire and rescue and county emergency staff have a general idea of what to do, it's beneficial to ensure that everyone is in sync.

"We're familiar with what each others' policies and procedures are," he said, "We just wanted to make sure that all the administrators are doing the same thing, that Wilkinson Junior High is doing it the same way as Coppergate Elementary, and identifying who's going to be doing what. Because after it happens, it's too late. That's what we're ultimately going to be doing – providing that unified command and making sure we're all working together."

Smith said that several questions had been brought up that might take some additional thought and preparation. Any unanswered questions will not have to wait until next summer.

For example, he said he has talked with School Superintendent Addison Davis and the two agreed that there should be updates throughout the school year where everyone comes back together on a weekend or after school to make sure the awareness remains top-of-mind.

"We are all extremely busy in our jobs and our work, but we have to carve out time such as this in order to protect our greatest assets, which is our students along with our employees," said Davis, who played a key role in the event.

"We wanted to make sure that we had all major players in the same room to have discussions about an unfortunate situation if ever exposed to it. This allows us to have a heightened awareness and allows us to have a deeper conversation about how we address issues within our schools and within our community," Davis said.

After the training, representatives from the Florida Health Department, through local sponsorship from the Northeast Florida Healthcare Coalition, provided "Stop the Bleed" kits for each Clay County school at the event and provided training to schools on how to use the first aid items in the kits.

According to the Department of Homeland Security, "Stop the Bleed" is a national awareness campaign to cultivate grassroots efforts that encourage bystanders to become trained, equipped, and empowered to help in a bleeding emergency while waiting for fire and rescue to arrive.

Wreaths Across America gearing up for holidays

KEYSTONE HEIGHTS – It is time to begin talking about the annual Wreaths Across America program called "Christmas in July."

Each year, family members of fallen military members lay wreaths on gravesites as a symbol that the servicemember is not forgotten during such a special time of year. The largest Wreaths Across America event takes place at the Keystone Heights city cemetery and is spearheaded by Joan Jones and Harry Keenan.

Donors are asked to use the codes, FLKHMG and FLO-217 to ensure their donations are earmarked for the Clay County event. Otherwise, without the codes, their donations go to the national nonprofit's pool of funds used to purchase wreath all over the U.S.

This year, donors can get one wreath for $15, but if they buy two for $30, the nonprofit throws in a third wreath for free.

In the past three years, the Keystone Heights event has grown so large that there have been more wreaths than there are military veterans buried in the city cemetery. Jones and Keenan donated the wreaths to cemeteries at Middleburg United Methodist Church and at least two other locations in Clay County.

This year, the Wreaths Across America

Clay County is on the air

How amateur radio is making the world a small place

By Kenneth Detwyler Jr.

ORANGE PARK – Members of the Clay County Amateur Radio Emergency Service and the Orange Park Amateur Radio Club recently reached out to the world.

Amateur radio operators turned classrooms into command centers as they hunkered down for its annual National Field Day for ham radio enthusiasts held June 23 at Orange Park High.

“To me it was always a sort of fascinating thing,” said Jeff Martin, a guest at the field day. “I’ve talked to people, the farthest was in the Indian ocean. It’s really interesting. I like it as a hobby.”

Amateur, or ham radio, is the use of radio frequencies for non-commercial communications.

The objective of the field day, is for ham radio groups to make contact with as many states across the country as possible in 24 hours, all while running on a generator, in order to simulate an emergency situation.

However, the ultimate goal of the event is to increase public awareness and incite interest in amateur radio. Attendees were able to learn more about the science behind radio operation and learn how to obtain an Federal Communications Commission license to broadcast on their personal radios.

Amateur radio also plays a pivotal role in emergency communications during natural disasters. During Hurricanes Hermine, Matthew and Irma, ARES set up shop in Clay County shelters and were able to provide alternate communication between shelters. In the event of an Emergency Operation Center communication break-down during a storm, ARES can step in as an auxiliary. During some of the most catastrophic disasters of recent years, Clay County amateur radio was able to intercept and help relay messages to first

River Road project to go out to bid

ORANGE PARK – After a debate that lasted nearly an hour, Orange Park Town Council voted to stay the course and keep its River Road Improvement Project on its Capital Improvement Projects list but not before the project appeared to be doomed.

In what could be described as the 11th hour, council members Ron Raymond, Roland Mastandrea and Alan Watt almost killed this project until Watt changed his mind in what ended as a 3-2 vote with Raymond and Mastandrea voting no.

Improving the pot holes and manhole covers that extend above the roadway on River Road has been debated for at least a year. In a previous debate about the project, the council directed staff to finalize design plans to prepare for it to go out to bid. After receiving those directions, Public Works Director Chuck Pavlos made his way to the podium during the June 26 regular council meeting to explain that the final design is ready. Unfortunately for Pavlos, Raymond and Mastandrea were unhappy and Watt had questions.

The source of Raymond’s unease came from a lack of full public consent, which according to Raymond, was supposed to happen. Pavlos, though, said that 100 percent consent was never a part of the direction given to his team, but rather, a general consensus instead, which the River Road community did get involved.

“All of the specific items you mentioned are in here, but the thing in question is the term, ‘consensus of the homeowner,’” Pavlos said. “I don’t know

Rotarians award annual grants

ORANGE PARK – Fourteen nonprofits in Clay County split $27,750 in donations from The Rotary Club of Orange Park on June 19. The grants are a culmination of the fundraising events held the previous nine months by Rotarians. “This is an event that takes every member of our club to pull off and we do this every year to the benefit of so many charitable groups,” said Pam Wolbert, event chair. From left in front, Rotary Club event chair Pam Wolbert, Denise Dreyer of Boy Scouts, Jennifer Friddell of Clay Pace Center for Girls, Beth Clark of BASCA, Triciarae Stancato of Girl Scouts, Mandy Hendon, of Orange Park Athletic Association and Kim Lewis of Salvation Army Clay County. “The motto is: If all else fails, amateur radio,” said Scott Roberts, assistant emergency coordinator and public information officer of Clay County ARES. “We don't want to wait until everything fails, we want to be there to help before that happens.”

As the fast-paced age of social media seems to over shadow radio communications, ARES and OPARC are still determined reach the next generation of amateur broadcasters.

“Amateur radio has the reputation of being for your grandpa, and it's not that way anymore, a lot of kids are getting involved,” said Roberts. “The older people are starting to pass on, we need to get the younger people involved, so when there is an emergency and there is no communication, we've got radio operators.

According to Roberts, kids as young as 9 in Clay County are involved with the club and have received their FCC license to use ham radios.

Obituaries

Brannen – Patricia ‘Pat’ Ann Brannen

Brannen – Patricia “Pat” Ann Brannen, age 72, also known as Pat or Nana by her family, passed on to the Lord peacefully on June 20, 2018 at Baptist Medical Center in Jacksonville, after struggling with complications from Pneumonia. Pat was born May 18, 1946 in Jacksonville, Fla., the daughter of Roy and Emma Brown. Pat was a retired Cosmetologist of over 40 years and was also a Drug and Alcohol Counselor with a master’s degree in psychology and seminary. Pat will always be remembered by her love of family, passion for the Lord, and her joy in being outside to take in nature or drop a line in the water for the next big catch (or sometimes not so big). Her big heart and “truths” would always make for a great time when getting together. Pat alongside her husband, Steve, raised their four daughters and extended family members, Robert and Jason Vires, as a close and loving family. When Pat and her daughters would get together it was often said “there was no denying that bunch of attractive and strong women.” Of course, nothing could get between Nana and her seven grandchildren as she was always their biggest supporter and friend. Pat was preceded in death by her parents; brother, Lloyd “Billy” Brown; and sister, Betty “Bea” Blakeney. Pat is survived by her loving husband, Stephen Nathaniel Brannen; her daughters, Sherrie (David Murray) Brannen Johnson, Lisa (Mike) Selby, Stephanie (John) Wingard, and Misty Roper; her 7 grandchildren, Cody Wingard, Taylor McDaniel, John Wayne McDaniel, III, Trevor Johnson, Mackenzie Wingard, Madison Johnson, and Drew Roper; her great grandson, John Wayne McDaniel, IV; her seven nieces; four nephews; and numerous other relatives and close friends. A Celebration of Pat’s Life will be held on Saturday, June 30, 2018 at 11:00 am at Faith Memorial Baptist Church in Jacksonville, Fla. with Pastor Brian Baker and Pastor Bob Anderson officiating. The family will receive friends on Friday, June 29, 2018 from 6:00 to 8:00 pm at the church. In lieu of flowers, please make donations to Raiford Road Church - Celebrate Recovery at 9201 South State Rd. 121, Macclenny, Fla. 32063. Arrangements are under the care and direction of V. Sandra ‘Sandi’ Anne Toupin

Sandra “Sandi” Anne Toupin, 71, passed away at Bailey’s Center Community Hospice, June 24 2018, surround by loved ones. She was born September 5, 1946 in Bridgeport, Conn., the youngest of seven siblings. Sandi attended Milford High School in Connecticut where she met her future husband, Richard. She graduated in 1964 and the high school sweethearts were married a year later in 1965. In 1974, the young couple and three kids, relocated to Orange Park, Fla. where they owned The Printing Press and Graphix Unlimited for 14 years. After selling their first business in 1988, Sandi and her husband moved to historic St. Augustine and spent a year renovating the historic home. In 2004, she and Richard bought Sir Speedy of Orange Park, running the business together until they sold the business in 2017.

Sandra Toupin

She enjoyed traveling, camping, sewing and dancing to the oldies. She loved going to the beach and often talked about becoming a beach bum. When she retired, she spent 4 months indulging in one of her favorite pastimes, traveling the United States. She is survived by her husband of 52 years, Richard Toupin, her sister Lena Nelson, and her three children: Lisa Marie Gray, Richard James Toupin Jr, and Thomas Christopher Toupin. Along with 6 grandchildren and 12 nieces and nephews. The Memorial Service will be held at Craig Funeral Home, 1475 Old Dixie Hwy, St Augustine, Florida

One-mil hike to be on ballot

By Wesley LeBlanc
Staff Writer

FLEMING ISLAND – Clay County voters will see a question on the ballot asking to approve an additional one mill of ad valorem tax to fund school safety and operating expenses.

“Shall an additional one (1) mill of School District ad valorem millage tax, beginning July 1, 2019, and ending June 30, 2023, be approved to enhance the safety and security of students and staff, and provide for necessary operating expenses of the School District?” reads the Aug. 28 ballot question.

lot question.

This exact ballot question was at the center of discussion during May’s monthly school board meeting where it sort of ended up in limbo.

Then, arising from referendum limbo, the ballot question came up again during the June 7 regular school board meeting. This time, though, the referendum was met with a number of constituents who support it as it stands, and a few who do not.

OPHS teacher Laura Mayberry, who spoke on behalf of teacher’s union President Renna Lee Paiva said the additional funds from the one mill could help fund health insurance for the district.

“If [legislators] aren’t going to fund us, then we are going to have to fund us, and that’s what this millage increase is about,” Mayberry said. “This additional mill would cost the average Clay County property owner $100 a year. That’s $8.33 a month and the increase would bring in approximately $10 million for our public schools and that is money desperately needed.”

we're defining that, but I think we have consensus of the homeowner. We've had 10 meetings, I think, on this project and many public hearings, so I think the homeowners have expressed their concerns and we've addressed those concerns."

This did little to soothe Raymond's concerns, despite Pavlos clearly explaining that he followed the direction from the previous council. When it came time for Mastandrea to speak, he showed concern over the lack of future proofing in the final design, and problems that grew from previous project involvement from the firm that helped design the River Road Project Improvement plan.

Watt's concerns revolved around the lack of ribbon curving in the final design, which Pavlos said could quickly and easily be added in, and the utilization of non-bump traffic calming, which John Bartholomew, one of the masterminds behind Orange Park's traffic calming policy, explained falls on the residents of the area rather than the final design of the project.

According to the traffic calming policy adopted by the council, the residents of an area would have to band together with a majority opinion on which traffic calming devices would be deployed before the council discusses them in a public setting.

Mayor Gary Meeks and Council member Connie Thomas had little to say except that she was satisfied with the final design presented by Pavlos. Thomas and Meeks expressed the opinion that the council has sat on this for long enough and that it was time to get this project out to bid.

"We're going to kill this thing tonight if we continue like this," Meeks said.

When it came time to vote, the council was polled individually. Meeks and Thomas voted yes. Mastandrea and Raymond voted no. Watt, after expressing that despite his feelings it was time to move forward with the project, voted yes, finalizing the River Road Improvement Project design plans. Now, this plan will seek bids for construction.

Next up was council approval of a finalized five-year CIP, which has been a topic of discussion for quite some time. According to Town Manager Sarah Campbell, the June 26 meeting was the last meeting the CIP could be adopted before moving into budget planning for 2018-19.

"The CIP has been prepared using the strategic priorities established by the Town Council in 2018. The Town Council may certainly adjust the CIP to reflect different priorities prior to the final adoption," states a letter from Campbell to the council. "Per the Town Charter, Council must adopt the CIP before the end of June. The public hearing for final adoption is scheduled for [the night of the June 26 regular council meeting]."

One of the most notable changes the CIP endured came after a vote made during the Feb. 6 regular council meeting where the council voted 5-0 to move $500,000 from the town's balance, or reserve fund, to the general fund budget. At the time, then-council member Meeks cited that the purpose of the reserve was for times like these, referring to the town's need for money to continue Hurricane Irma cleanup and stormwater maintenance.

"If we are going to do this, $81,000, I just don't think that's going to touch it," Meeks said, referencing the $81,000 freed up for Irma cleanup from the CIP. "This is what the $5 million is for – it's for a rainy day and the rainy day is here."

Toward the latter half of the meeting, the council voted 5-0 to spend $75,258.61 on a Bobcat Skid Sheer vehicle that, according to Pavlos, will speed up street debris cleanup by 25 percent following storms and other natural events.

The almost three-hour meeting ended with Meeks calling for faster meetings and suggested council ask their questions to staff before each meeting so as not to spend time doing so during the regular meetings. Raymond expressed his disagreement and stated he would do no such thing.

"I hate to disappoint you Mr. Mayor, but I think the time to ask those questions is here, right in front of God and everybody," Raymond said.

Citizens invited to become informed about hurricane season

MIDDLEBURG – Clay County officials are reaching out and trying to get more citizens interested in hurricane preparedness during 2018.

Clay County Emergency Management is holding a Hurricane Irma Citizen Recovery Meeting on July 12 at the Middleburg High School Cafeteria at 3750 County Rd. 220 from 6-8 p.m. Officials will discuss the availability of upcoming programs that can potentially assist Clay County residents whose homes were substantially damaged by Hurricane Irma, particularly those which have repetitive or severe, repetitive flood losses. According to a statement from Emergency Management, there are approximately 250 Clay County homes that are considered substantially damaged and cannot legally rebuild unless they elevate their home to the new flood standards. The assumption is that many residences will either need assistance with elevation or will be seeking assistance with property acquisition.

State and FEMA officials will also be on hand to discuss the upcoming programs that could assist these and possible future devastated homeowners.

Agency representatives will discuss such topics as program eligibility, program capabilities, match requirements, program requirement, the application process, periods of performance and program restrictions.

Northeast Solite, shut down operations in the mid-1990s.

The problem, however, is that Solite eventually became a site that did nothing but burn toxic waste in enormous kilns. Day and night, the factory would burn its kilns so hot that the mortar between the bricks would melt out after a few months of use, according to former employees.

The item had already been unanimously denied at the June 13 Planning Commission meeting where nearly 20 residents spoke against the proposal. However, the buyer's consultant Susan Fraser — who once served as head of the Clay County Planning Department — sweetened the deal and returned to the BCC with hopes of getting that decision overturned. Unfortunately for her, the commissioners did their homework, and voted a unanimous 5-0 to deny the proposal.

Fraser asked the BCC for a continuance to move the debate to the Aug. 14 BCC agenda. She also mentioned some changes since the Planning Commission meeting, including decreasing the proposed housing density from three units per acre to 2.5. Meanwhile, the standard for the area is around one, and a promise to do additional testing of the site prior to building new homes there. This was not good enough for the audience, though they kept their "boos" to a minimum.

Buyer Michael Danhour spoke after Fraser and said he is also concerned about pollution and would agree to additional testing before he built any homes. However, said he would have to be held at his word as there would be nothing stopping him from just building on the site as-is should the zoning be changed and the property sold.

Once the board had heard testimony from the buyer and his representative, commission chair Gavin Rollins banged the gavel and opened public comment. Each speaker pleaded to the board to deny anything that would allow the sale of this property before it is cleaned up.

The audience painted a picture of a decades-long cover-up by Northeast Solite, a company that had caused potentially catastrophic health issues and abandoned the site once operations ceased in 1996.

Multiple speakers with backgrounds in field and lab testing listed chemicals present such as arsenic, lead, dioxin and cyanide. One resident cited that of the 13 original homes near the former Solite facility, 10 nearby residents had died of cancer since 1996. Former employees told stories of black smoke pouring from the stacks during the night, when no one could see, as well as an outright disregard for their safety as they were frequently assured that respirators were not necessary as the chemicals were being burned and would not get into the air.

One man had lesions covering his arms that he claimed were turning into cancer, another lives with a defibrillator on his chest after suffering a massive heart attack at age 28 before being laid off by Solite. He had spent countless hours in the furnaces where the waste was being burned attempting to patch areas where mortar had burned from the walls.

Employees and neighbors of the property cited a multitude of birth defects and cancer deaths, all of which they attribute to their proximity to the site that burned toxic waste for decades. Michael Zelinka Sr.'s said his wife became pregnant with twins after his stint at Solite.

"My son, Michael, had a twin brother," Zelinka had written. "He fit in the palm of my hand. He survived 2 minutes after birth. Michael was born legally blind, he has dyslexia. He was born a year and a half after I stopped working at Solite."

After nearly two hours of public comments, Commissioners asked Stoneridge Farms for a rebuttal and Albert Galliano took the podium.

According to the Florida Division of Corporations, Stoneridge Farms has been an inactive corporation since 2016. The Department of State's sunbiz.org website shows Stoneridge Farms is a subsidiary of Northeast Solite. Galliano, who introduced himself as a representative of Stoneridge Farms, is in Clay County actively trying to sell assets owned by the officially inactive company.

Galliano promised that the site would be cleaned up, and laid no blame on Solite. He said they were willing to put up $2 million from the sale of the residential piece of the property toward cleaning up the most polluted areas that are yet to be cleared by the DEP, $2 million that the DEP required to be stored in escrow for that very use when clearing the properties in question for future use.

"We did things the way they were supposed to be done," Galliano said.

After Galliano sat down, Commissioner Mike Cella began the discussion and asked Galliano why Stoneridge Farms, or rather, Solite, hadn't started cleaning the site upon the shutdown in 1996. Galliano ducked the question and gave a history of Solite, and explained that when the company divided up its assets they sold off parts that were undesirable, such as Stoneridge Farms. He then said that they currently don't have enough money to do the cleanup which is why they're trying to sell the property and make up the funds necessary to begin remediation.

Galliano went on to reluctantly admit that Stoneridge Farms is a subsidiary of Northeast Solite. Cella knew this and knew that the two companies share the same president and the same mailing address in Virginia. He then went on to cite Solite's estimated $31 million in revenues in 2017, refuting Galliano's claims that Stoneridge is broke.

"There's a certain level of uncertainty because there's a lot of uncertainty that you're portraying," Cella said. "... how are we supposed to believe that you're going to be yearly reporting and then update the bank money to do the cleanup if we can't even get you to pay the $300 that it takes to file as a corporation in the State of Florida?"

Following Cella, the rest of the commission shared his distrust for Galliano and Stoneridge Farms, with Diane Hutchings getting Galliano to admit his position as one of the five vice presidents for Northeast Solite, not Stoneridge Farms.

"These are our neighbors, these are people that we have family ties to, we love them. You're from out of town, you worked here for a while, but you don't live here anymore, do you? We've been left with a mess and it is going to be cleaned up," Hutchings said. "We're done, there is no more talk of development, there is only talk of cleanup."

The commissioners continued with Gayward Hendry requesting that he be the one to make the motion to deny everything Northeast Solite had requested, and to deny any continuance or further action on the issue until the site had been completely cleaned up. Hendry suggested the site would make a nice county or state park.

"It's gotta get cleaned up and you guys have to pay for it, you made the profits and you left and that's just not the way [things are done]," Rollins said. "I believe government has a responsibility to rein in people who basically just come in and raid a community and then leave. That's what I intend to do, I'm not sure exactly the strategy, but I intend to do whatever we have the ability to do within our power to hold you accountable and responsible."

After the 5-0 vote to deny, the board directed county staff to put an item on the first agenda in July where they could discuss with the county manager and county attorney their best steps for ensuring Northeast Solite pays to clean up the property.

handed down the ruling after hearing arguments in the case on June 19 in a Clay County courtroom. Mobley's original complaint also challenged Supervisor of Elections Chris Chambless' decision to allow Hoover on the ballot.

"We are on solid ground with the discretionary authority vested in a constitutional office, like that of Chambless as detailed by the Florida Division of Elections 2016 Supervisor's Handbook and the 1974 Bayne v. Gibson case, which has stood for over 40 years," Hoover said. "And furthermore, I truly believe that this is the right thing to do. I have to go with that belief and I have to have faith that this is the right thing to do, mainly for the people of Clay County."

Judge Maltz ruled that Hoover simply did not file her documents on time, therefore, she missed the official deadline to qualify and should not be on the ballot.

"Fla. Stat. 105.031(5)(a) makes clear that in order for Hoover to have qualified for the judicial race at issue, in addition to being present at the Clay SOE office before the noon deadline, she had to submit all her qualifying paperwork by the deadline. The uncontested evidence demonstrates that Hoover failed to meet the statutory requirements to qualify because her Form 6 Financial Disclosure was not received by Ms. Hogan, the Clay SOE filing officer, before the noon May 4, 2018 deadline," states the ruling. "There were no exceptional or special circumstance that prohibited Hoover from meeting the deadline — only the fact that she waited until the last minute to begin the process."

Unlike Hoover, Chambless said the judge's ruling was not ambiguous and he will move on and prepare the ballot for the August Primary until he gets orders to do otherwise as a result of Hoover's appeal.

"The judge's orders were clear so, at this time, we are going to comply with the order," Chambless said. "Qualifying ended last Friday at noon, and the ballot is currently being coded as we speak, so we will continue with the judge's orders until there is something that changes."

Not only does Hoover feel this case is important for the people of Clay County, but she believes it will matter to all of Florida as well.

"I truly believe that we have a very good legal argument on this matter and its really best that this case goes to the district court of appeal because this is the kind of issue that is going to affect statewide policy," Hoover said. "It's going to have much broader implications than Clay County — it could affect the entire state."

As far as the appeal goes, Hoover and her team plan to continue forward with the same arguments presented during the June 19 court session. Despite choosing not to appeal, Chambless still believes his original decision to allow Hoover to qualify weren't necessarily wrong.

"I guess, first and foremost, I did not expect the verdict that would side with the plaintiff for the mere reason that everything we do is to ensure that the process is open and transparent," Chambless said. "I never contemplated that the law was to require me to look at the timing of the candidate completing the document in such an uber-critical way, Hoover's documents being 12 minutes late."

On May 29, Mobley filed the complaint against Hoover and Chambless, stating that she believed Hoover's name should not be on the ballot because Hoover failed to properly, accurately and punctually qualify on time.

Mobley's office referred comments to her lawyers, Paul Renner and Michael Fackler. Renner was unavailable for comment as he was out of the country and, at press time, Fackler, has not returned calls for this story.

Water, water, everywhere...

GREEN COVE SPRINGS – Rain is usually a welcome sight for gardeners, helping to keep the soil moist, our plants growing and our irrigation systems off. However, this year has been extremely wet for many people in our county and some plants are starting to show their complaints that it has just been too wet. Here are some tips on how to tell if your landscape is waterlogged and how to protect your plants.

When is Wet too Wet?

Many of our landscape plants may actually be quite happy with the last few months, especially in landscapes that are found on sandier upland soils. For these sites, which often dry following rain events in just a couple of days or less, you are likely just having to mow the grass more often and get to keep your irrigation system off.

However, if you live on the eastern side of the county, where the heavier black soils are found, your plants may be showing signs of water stress. If roots stay saturated too long they cannot properly exchange oxygen in the soil and then can become damaged or die. Look for symptoms such as leaf yellowing, drooping or wilting foliage, leaf drop, die-back or even plant death. In fact, the effects of too much water look a lot like drought damage.

If your plants were under standing water or the ground has been soggy and soaked for a long period of time, it is likely you may see some damage but it does also depend on the type, age, and overall health of your plants.

Dealing with Water Stress

If your plants are showing the signs of water stress, the best first step is to

Rain can be a blessing to the garden, but there is such a thing as too much of a good thing.

try to get them to dry out. If in containers, put them up on blocks or gravel to allow drainage and clear any blockage of the pot's drain holes. If in the ground, pull back mulch away from the plant for a few days and allow the soil to dry. Hopefully the weather will cooperate as well and give your plants some time to recover.

Additionally, if it is raining consistently, you should not need to irrigate your landscape or lawn.

Make sure your rain shut-off device is working properly or just turn off your irrigation system until dry weather returns and your plants actually need it. This will save you money and keep water from going to waste.

Wait and See

After water damage, you may have to wait awhile to see how the plant recovers.

There is no steadfast rule on which plants will pull through or not, but just treat them right and give them time. Some plants are still just now showing their damage from Hurricane Irma.

You may also have additional issues with diseases after having too much water in the landscape, with turf diseases such as brown patch or take-all able to flourish and many root rots being found in other landscape plants. If the plant does succumb to the issue, try to find species that tolerate wet conditions better when you are replanting.

If you have any horticultural, agricultural, 4-H, or family and consumer science questions, contact the University of Florida/IFAS Clay County Extension Office online at <http://www.clay.ifas.ufl.edu> or call by phone at (904) 284-6355.

Cops treated to free meal

KEYSTONE HEIGHTS – Volunteers from the Gainesville-based Grit Foundation served 120 meals to members and their families who work for the Clay County Sheriff's Office last weekend at Mike Roess Gold Head Branch State Park. Volunteers included U.S. Rep. Ted Yoho(R-3), at left, and Susan Carter of Orange Park. "It's a tradition amongst first responders to come together over a home cooked meal and this was a great way to kick off this mission of supporting our hometown heroes," said Matt Harrison, Foundation president and Nitty Gritty Cooking Team Leader. Leftover food from the June 23 event was donated to the food rescue program, Waste Not Want Not.

Elvis

I am Elvis. I am only a year old and I am a Tabby. I am super friendly and love to be pet. I am not opposed to snuggling and want it to be with you!!!! The staff at Safe Animal Shelter will be sad to see me go, but also rejoice because Elvis has left the building off to my forever home.

Bill

I am Ernie. I am 2 years old and a beautiful hound. I am very people shy though. I need to be pet and coddled and spoken to very nicely in order to come out of my shell. I play well with other dogs. Cats don't seem to bother me either, which is probably why I was rejected as a hunting dog. My instincts are to let them crawl on me or walk by me. I'm still working on that "leash" thing, you have to carry me outside and then put it on. If you have a yard I can play in, that would be nice. Come and get me and love me always.

Turner indicted for murder, more

GREEN COVE SPRINGS – A Clay County Grand Jury handed down an indictment against a Keystone Heights man for first-degree murder and other charges.

The grand jury indicted Joe Arthur Turner, 28, on the additional charges of sexual battery and burglary with assault or battery in the death of Jordan Cooper, a woman with intellectual disabilities.

Police found Cooper's body in the attic of her parents' home on December 11, 2017 after she had been missing since around Thanksgiving. Her body had been concealed under insulation.

Joe Turner

Turner was questioned about Cooper while he was held in the Clay County Jail on a separate, unrelated burglary charge when he became linked to Cooper's murder.

A Jan. 19 press release from CCSO said, "Evidence obtained during that investigation subsequently linked Joe Arthur Turner to Jordan Cooper's murder, sexual assault and the burglary of her residence."

The evidence in question included women's clothing in Turner's possession that matched the description of items taken from Cooper's home. DNA testing conducted on the clothing matched DNA from Cooper's home and the sexual assault kit.

At press time, Turner remained in the Clay County Jail without bond while awaiting trial for both the previous burglary and the Cooper case.

Sexual battery arrest made

ORANGE PARK – An Orange Park man was arrested at his home on June 26, at 12:58 p.m., for allegedly committing custodial sexual battery.

On June 26, the victim and her mother arrived at the Clay County Sheriff's Office Orange Park Substation where they explained to police what had happened. According to the police report, Eugene Vargas, 54, forced the victim, of whom he had custody, twice to engage in sexual intercourse.

Eugene Vargas

After further questioning and investigation, police arrived to Vargas' residence in the 3700 block of Silver Bluff Boulevard near Orange Park and arrested him. Vargas, once in police custody, was transported to the Clay County Jail and charged with custodial sexual battery of a victim under the age of 18. He is currently in the Clay County Jail with bond amount set at $250,003.

Man exposes himself, gets arrested

ORANGE PARK – A Clay County Sheriff's Officer arrested an Orange Park man for indecent exposure the afternoon of June 24.

According to the police report, Stephen James Newman was arrested at a Walgreens in the 2600 block of Blanding Boulevard after an officer responded to a call about a suspicious person. According to the police report, the officer arrived on the scene to find Newman lying under a tree in the corner of the parking lot.

Stephen Newman

The report states that Newman appeared to be sleeping and there was a strong odor of alcohol and urine around him at 1:45 p.m. Also, nearby was an 18-pack of beer, three unopened beer cans, one open beer can and several empty beer cans.

The officer woke up Newman after several attempts, however, Newman was too intoxicated to sit up or keep his eyes open. Newman reportedly pulled out his male genitalia and began urinating while still laying on his back causing the urine to land on himself and the ground around him. The officer noted in his report that multiple people were walking in and out of the store and through the parking lot as this occurred.

The officer handcuffed Newman and sat him on the curb, however, due to being intoxicated, Newman fell to his side and struck his face on the curb twice. The officer called Clay County Fire Rescue to assess Newman's injuries and transported him to Orange Park Medical Center for medical clearance due to the level of intoxication. After being medically cleared, Newman was transported to the Clay County Jail where he is being held with a bond amount of $2,502.

Man turns himself in child porn charges

GREEN COVE SPRINGS – A Middleburg man faces charges of 10 counts of child pornography possession after an investigation by authorities.

The Clay County Sheriff's Office reports that Donald Wayne Avitt, 61, was booked

at the Clay County CCSO headquarter on June 21 at 2 p.m. after turning himself in after learning there was an outstanding warrant for his arrest.

The heavily-redacted report offered virtually no details of the case or of how law enforcement became aware that Avitt allegedly owned child pornography. However, the report does state that Avitt is an employee of the Fleet Readiness Center at Naval Air Station Jacksonville.

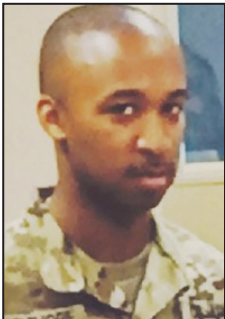

At press time, Avitt remained in the county jail where his bond is set at $250,030.

Missing soldier case results in death investigation

CAMP BLANDING – What began as the search for a missing soldier at Camp Blanding has now turned into a death investigation, according to the Clay County Sheriff's Office.

On June 20, officials reported that Alabama Army Reservist Calyn McLemore went missing after being with about 70 other soldiers on a course designed to test their navigation skills through heavy vegetation.

Two days later, a report by Clay County Emergency Management Director John Ward reported that the exercise was cancelled, a search for McLemore began. The search included air units that used heat signature programs in an effort to pick up on the signature of McLemore. No such signature was found, but a missing soldier’s map and score card was found in the wooded area near the exercise area. As a result, an additional 500 responders were requested to help with the search. Two days later, on June 22, some 200 people responded to the search area in Camp Blanding.

The Clay County Sheriff’s Office reported that evening that McLemore’s body was found in a wooded area but a cause of death had not yet been determined.

The Florida Highway Patrol, Baker County Sheriff’s Office, Clay County Fire Rescue, Marion County Sheriff’s Office and Jacksonville Sheriff’s Office and their accompanying air units, as well as the Civil Air Patrol assisted in the search for McLemore.

Child sexual battery charges filed

ORANGE PARK – A man Orange Park man faces charges of having sex with a minor after an investigation by authorities.

The Clay County Sheriff’s Office arrested Frederick Paul Wilbanks, 43, on June 20, after he was found to have abused a victim between the ages of 12 and 18 years of age.

According to the report, Wilbanks was the victim’s legal guardian at the time of the incidents and the sexual battery had started in January of this year and last occurred on June 10. No other details were made available on the heavily-redacted report. Wilbanks was transported to the Clay County Jail after his arrest where he remains on a $250,000 bond. He faces a felony for sexual battery on a child. He is set to appear in court on July 18.

Elder abuse charged lodged against son

MIDDLEBURG – A Middleburg man faces allegations he struck his elderly mother with a broom handle.

The Clay County Sheriff’s Office arrested Richard Glen Ellis II, 43, on June 25 after it was reported to police he had struck his 70-year-old mother with a broom handle on her leg. According to the report, Ellis came into the home he shares with his mother yelling and eventually went over to where she was sitting and struck her on the left leg with a broom handle. Police did not report any visible injuries on the man’s mother.

The incident was called in to police by a third party who had received a call from the mother after the incident. Neither Ellis or his mother would provide written statements, but based on interviews with the two and an interview with the person who called in the assault, Ellis was arrested

Stand for truth

Recently I have written in this column about two of my offspring. The other one now must be included. So, I will tell you of a true incident that involves my first daughter, who is my middle child.

It was Christmas season and all the adults had gone shopping. Except me. I had been left with the responsibility of several young children. The parents had decided they would rather be anywhere else than with a gang of rowdy kids. My daughter, Kimberly, was about 6 or 7 years old and she was one of the ringleaders of the “children’s chaos” I had to deal with that day.

Looking for a way to calm them, I said I was taking them to the mall to see Santa Claus. Kim rebelled. Atypical of her, she was the most uncontrollable of the gang of kids this time. My effort to appease the gang with the Santa visit met strong resistance from her. On the way to the mall, Kim kept saying “I don’t want to see Santa; I don’t even believe in him anyway; he is not even real.” All the while, as we left the car, she was crying and pulling on me to stop. “I don’t believe in Santa; I don’t want to see him,” she kept crying with copious tears. As we started walking into the mall, Kim became very silent. Looking down the long opening, she saw the red suit and white beard. I felt her pulling hard on my hand. She wanted me to stop walking. I did and as she wiped tears from her eyes, she said to me rather quietly and very seriously. “Daddy, can you tell I’ve been crying.”

She didn’t want Santa to know she had been crying. She was right in her statements of non-belief in him, but now, just in case...

Error and untruth are prevalent in our country today. You and I must distinguish the truth from the error and take our stand for unbending truth. There are moral issues that are disguised as political policy.

The issues today do not include Santa Claus. I would expect a 6 or 7 year to be impacted by such a cultural icon. But we are adults. More than that, we should be spiritual adults who recognize and proclaim truth. We are in a spiritual war. Let your devotional Scriptures today include Ephesians 6:10-20. Then determine that your posture will be standing for truth.

land said. “But whatever you do in life, have fun with it because if you don’t have fun with it, why do it?”

After becoming independent from Clay County Sheriff’s Office, the band has had to rely on sponsors and donations for funding.

In 2014, the band was one of three bands from the United States who were invited to play in Scotland to celebrate the 700th anniversary of the Battle of Bannockburn.

Practice is held every Thursday night at 5 at Orange Park Presbyterian Church. The band is available for a variety of events including, weddings, Kirkins, funerals, parties and other events.

Craig Morgan to headline Eighth Annual Freedom Fest

ORANGE PARK – Country music entertainer Craig Morgan will headline the music lineup for the 8th annual Freedom Fest on June 30 at Orange Park Mall. Families are invited to enjoy the special event, an early Independence Day celebration, to honor first responders and military families, particularly those based out of Naval Air Station Jacksonville, Naval Station Mayport and Camp Blanding.

Freedom Fest will kick-off at 5 p.m. with performances by local bands and artists. Guests are welcome to bring chairs and blankets to enjoy the show in a relaxing atmosphere. Families can take part of a bike decorating contest, bounce houses, splash park, military displays and other fun activities. Morgan will take the stage at 7:30 p.m. where he will be followed by Freedom Fest's signature fireworks spectacular that begins around 9 p.m.

A U.S. Army veteran, Morgan made a name for himself as a country music icon with such hits as the four-week No. 1, "That's What I Love About Sunday." Having also the reputation as a TV personal-

Saturday, June 30

Bring the whole family to our 8th annual Freedom Festival and enjoy a day of festivities to honor our military and first responders. There will be plenty of fun for everyone - from bounce houses, rock wall and games for the young ones, to food trucks and fireworks for the young at heart.

Venue: JC Penney parking lot

Time: 5:00 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

Headliner: Craig Morgan

Local Bands: The John Taylor Band
Stephen Quinn and Band
(American Idol top 50 this season)

National Anthem: Orange Park Chorale

ity, celebrated outdoorsman and patriotic Army veteran, Morgan has charted 25 songs on Billboard and thrills massive crowds with signature hits, including "Bonfire," "Almost Home," "Redneck Yacht Club," "International Harvester," "This Ole Boy" and "Wake Up Lovin' You."

In 2008, Morgan received one of country music's highest honors when he was inducted as a member of the Grand Ole Opry in 2008. Prior to becoming a country music star and TV sensation, Morgan spent 17 years serving in the Army and Army Reserves. He is an avid supporter of America's military who has made 14 overseas trips to perform for troops and is a recipient of the 2006 USO Merit Award. In addition to a prolific country music career, he hosts the award-winning TV show "Craig Morgan: All Access Outdoors" and this spring, premiered the docuseries "Morgan Family Strong" on UP TV, which follows Morgan and his close-knit family as they launch the family's passion project – Morgan Farms.

"Orange Park Mall is excited for the return of this family friendly summer event," said Gi Teevan, marketing director at Orange Park Mall. "Our dynamic shopping, dining and entertainment options provide the perfect backdrop for guests to enjoy Freedom Fest. We're looking forward to another successful event to celebrate our local heroes who put their lives on the front lines."

American Pride Fourth of July

ORANGE PARK – Moosehaven's annual American Pride 4th of July promises to please families and kids alike this year along the scenic St. Johns River in the heart of Orange Park.

The day includes local and national country music artists who are sure to please as we celebrate our nation's Independence Day. The music kicks off at 5 p.m. with local favorite Lyndie Burris presenting the National Anthem.

From 5:10 to 6:15 p.m., Burris will wow the crowd with her favorites. And from 6:30 to 7:45 p.m., the band Highway Jones hits the stage. and Michael Ray, who will headline the event, at 8 p.m. The event kicks off at 2 p.m. with arts and crafts vendors, food and beverage vendors and, of course, live entertainment on the pavilion stage. The annual celebration of fireworks will begin at approximately 9:20 p.m. Don't miss this fantastic event as Moosehaven honors our great nation.

Lyndie Burris

Having grown up in Middleburg, Lyndie Burris is no stranger to country music.

"It is what I was meant to sing," she said.

Burris began singing at age three, and her love for performing and for country music shines each time she takes the stage. Her heartfelt sentiment seeps into her music as naturally as the St. Johns River.

Like many world-famous artists, Burris began her career singing in church and was influenced early-on by such icons as Christian artist Amy Grant.

When she was 19, Burris started singing in a restaurant after the owner's son saw her perform at a local fair. Burris formed a band in 1997 and began performing in North Florida and South Georgia. With talent and tenacity, Burris gained recognition in Florida publications and with the region's local radio as one of the area's top female performers. Burris has opened for acts such as Charlie Daniels, Kellie Pickler, Blake Shelton, Chuck Wicks and Tracy Lawrence.

Burris loves nothing more than being on the stage and singing her heart out.

"There is nothing more amazing than looking out into a crowd and knowing you are reaching someone," said Burris. "Singing is what I love. It's all I've ever wanted to do."

After spending 8 years in Nashville pursuing her dreams, Burris relocated back home to Clay County with her husband and son and continues to perform around the Northeast Florida area on a regular basis.

Highway Jones

Often described as a tight musical family, Highway Jones is a four-piece music making machine from Jacksonville that includes second-generation players.

The band has more than 60 years of combined experience and specializes in high-energy music and original songs, including a cool mixture of rock, blues and female rock, current and past. Highway Jones performs at all venues locally, and many festivals in and around Northern and Southern Florida.

Lead guitar and lead vocalist Tim Kates arrived in Jacksonville at age 12 and began playing guitar. In his career, he has played alongside such musical icons as members of Molly Hatchet, Lynyrd Skynyrd and Johnny Van Zant. He has also opened for Foghat and Mountain with Leslie West. After taking a 7-year hiatus from Jacksonville, where Kates played with a blues and classic rock group in Texas, he is back and ready to rock. Kates is inspired by the ability of a song to take you back to where and when you first heard it, and how music can impact your emotions and heal your soul.

Lead vocalist and rhythm guitar player Cindy Davenport is an award-winning singer/songwriter and a Jacksonville native. She has been singing professionally for more than 20 years and is a Nashville recording artist. Davenport has opened for many bands, including Faith Hill, Aaron Tippin, Travis Tritt and Sawyer Brown.

Highway Jones

Also a strong rock vocalist, Davenport enjoys singing a wide variety of music and strives to make sure everyone in the audience is up on their feet.

Travis Kates, who plays bass guitar, rhythm guitar and vocals, has played in many bands of all different genres ranging from gospel and country to rock and metal. He has performed all over the United States having just recently finished with the Sean Peace Band. He also comes from a strong musical background.

Drummer and vocalist Jacob Kates – also a Jacksonville native – is the Highway Jones lead cowbell player and he is a part of a very musical family. He started playing drums at age 12 and his musical influences include his family as well as Alex Van Halen and Jason Bonham. Jacob Kates has played in several local bands for the past five years.

Clark Hill

At age 31, Clark Hill stands at the crossroads of youth and experience, each enhancing the other. Without even trying he projects a sense of who he is and why he's here.

"Up until just a few years ago, I hadn't really found myself. I was a young parent with two kids and a wife. I excelled at every

Our Country Day

‘Stars on the Boulevard’ is theme for 50th Annual
Our Country Day

KEYSTONE HEIGHTS – The Keystone Heights Our Country Day July 4th festivities begin this year on Saturday, June 30 and culminates with activities that go all day Wednesday, July 4.

Happy Birthday, America as Our Country Day celebrates this year using the theme, “Stars on the Boulevard.”

On June 30, get ready to dance in one of Northeast Florida’s richest traditions, the Our Country Day Street Dance in its new location. This year’s street dance will be held at Riviere Tire at 7374 Sunrise Blvd. from 6-11 p.m. There will be lots of food and beverage vendors plus rides and games for the kids and, of course, music to keep you dancing.

This year’s street dance features local recording artist “Relentless.” They play high energy music that includes covers, powerful vocals and creative originals.

Arts, crafts, food and beverage vendors will be featured in Keystone Heights around city hall from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m., while music will also be featured throughout the day. And don’t miss the baby crawl, which begins at 9 a.m. in Keystone’s Theme Park behind city hall. Registration starts at 8:30 a.m.

The Our Country Day parade begins at 11 a.m. In years past, it has always featured a marching band, floats, bicycles, Shriners, buggies, bicycles, beauty queens, tractors, clowns and more surprises. Prizes are awarded to units for such categories as closest to theme, commander’s choice, the best marching band and others.

At 1 p.m. at the park, behind city hall, join in on some summer fun and participate in our annual watermelon eating contest, which will have more prizes than ever before. Registration starts at 12:30 p.m.

Fireworks will be at Keystone Beach Park again this year at 9:30 p.m., weather and a burn ban permitting. Due to crowd-size restrictions, visitors should arrive early.

There will be live music by Frazzled and the Our Country Day will have food and beverages for sale. Entry into the beach park will require each spectator to have a mandatory armband – no exceptions – and this year armbands will cost $1. Armbands will go to the first 4,000 buyers, the absolute limit to entries to the beach park, so get yours early. Armbands will be available on June 1 and can be bought at city hall, My Brand (formerly Mallards Dollarama), Genesis Fitness and other Healthy Living 4U.

The Keystone Heights Our Country Day celebration is a yearly tradition that’s fun for all. Even if you’ve never been to Keystone Heights, come back home to July 4 to celebrate American independence on Our Country Day.

Special thanks go to sponsors The City of Keystone Heights, Riviere Tire and Clay Electric.

Northeast Florida Safety Council offers fireworks safety tips

JACKSONVILLE — Everyone loves to celebrate our nation's birthday but it doesn't seem official unless there are fireworks. But unfortunately, fireworks are a major cause of injuries during the summer, according to the Northeast Florida Safety Council, Inc.

The Council offers general safety rules for handling fireworks and guidelines for specific types of fireworks. General rules include:

- Never allow young children to handle fireworks
- Older children should use them only under close adult supervision
- Anyone using fireworks or standing nearby should wear protective eyewear
- Never light them indoors
- Only use them away from people, houses and flammable material
- Only light one device at a time and maintain a safe distance after lighting
- Never ignite devices in a container
- Do not try to re-light or handle malfunctioning fireworks
- Soak unused fireworks in water for a few hours before discarding
- Keep a bucket of water nearby to fully extinguish fireworks that don't go off

Sparklers

Sparklers are a lot more dangerous than most people think. Parents don't realize they burn at about 2,000 degrees — hot enough to melt some metals. Sparklers can quickly ignite clothing, and many children have received severe burns from dropping sparklers on their feet.

Bottle Rockets

These small rockets are attached to a stick, lit by a fuse and typically fired from a bottle. Teens have been known to have bottle rocket wars, firing them at one another and causing chest, head and eye injuries. The greatest concern by physicians are injuries to the eye that could result in reduced vision or even blindness.

Firecrackers

Firecrackers are designed to explode on the ground. They are often linked together by one long fuse and explode in a series. They are designed to be very noisy, but they also can cause burns and other serious injuries.

Roman Candles

Roman candles eject multiple exploding shells from a tube the user holds in his or her hand. There have been numerous reports of children and adults losing fingers, experiencing severe burns and other injuries, which are sometimes caused when the device gets jammed.

M-class Fireworks

Just don't use them. Every year people will explode M-80s, M-100s, even M-250s. The unmistakable explosions associated with these devices can rattle the windows of homes for blocks. They are produced illegally and without quality control, have short fuses and cause hundreds of extremely severe injuries each year.

Keeping your pets safe on and around the 4th of July!

TIP N01

Skip the parades with your pets—hot temperatures can dehydrate your pets and scorching blacktop and concrete surfaces can cause severe burns to your pets' paws.

TIP N02

Loud, crowded fireworks displays are no fun for pets—refrain from the urge to take your pets with you.

TIP N03

Frightened from the sounds of fireworks, dogs often hop their fences and bolt. Keep pets inside the house with a favorite treat or toy.

TIP N04

Keep the radio or television on for your pets to help mute the sound of fireworks.

TIP N05

Make sure your pets are wearing current identification tags. It can help reunite you with your pets should they become lost.

Did you know?

The July 4th and the days leading up to and after Independence Day are a very busy time for local shelters?

Pets often become frightened and frantic by the noise of the celebratory fireworks and run away from home or their owners to try to escape the noise.

Keep your pets safe during the Fourth of July celebrations with these basic safety tips...

job I got but every day I walked out of my house feeling like I wasn't doing anything with my life. But even then, I knew what it meant to leave your mark on the world. I knew I wouldn't be here today without my parents. We weren't a wealthy family but they helped me in every way. My dad worked for 25 years in a prison; he hated it but he did it so we could live comfortably."

He said he kept searching for something he could achieve because he knew he wanted to leave a legacy.

In some ways, Hill will acknowledge, things had come to him too easily. Growing up in northern Florida, on the land his grandparents once called home, he worked on the family farm, planting and harvesting corn, black-eyed peas, maybe some okra and tomato plants. In school he earned high grades almost without trying.

Following the footsteps his dad had made as a college football star, Hill played linebacker and then tight end on his high school team, always as a starter, never experiencing a losing season. Shortly before graduating he passed his exam as an EMT fireman; after earning his diploma, he went to work.

"Basically, I was a paramedic except I couldn't push meds," he explains. "I could run an IV, pull a line, do advance cardiac. And I was 18 years old."

Hill showed his musical gift early too. As far back as second grade, he performed in talent shows and dressed as Elvis.

"I dyed my hair and everything," he said, chuckling.

In church he sang with the children's choir and later was appointed to lead the praise band on Wednesday night services. For several years just before Christmas he performed at Disney World with the high school chorus.

"It was funny because my main interests were football and weight lifting," he said. "I mean, I enjoyed music – I was a huge Vince Gill fan and I loved Johnny Cash and Hank Jr. But I never thought that music would have anything to do with my future."

One fateful day, at a moment of difficulty in his marriage, he went to have a wisdom tooth removed. First, the anesthesia wore off in the middle of surgery and shortly after that, the dentist accidentally broke Hill's jaw. He went home, hoping to just weather the pain alone. By the way, it was his birthday too.

After a while his brother-in-law showed up and insisted that Hill come along as he headed out to play a gig with his cover band. Never mind that Hill hadn't touched a guitar for several years. "Just watch my hands," he was told. "If you sound bad, we'll turn you off. Enjoy yourself."

He did. Hill began sitting in frequently, getting his guitar chops back, singing backup and even taking the lead on Lynyrd Skynyrd's "Simple Man" and a few other tunes. He began writing as well, beginning with "Papa's Song," an appreciation of his late grandfather. Eventually, the band's lead singer invited him to play it as a solo acoustic performance during intermission.

He said people liked his song.

"Almost that quick, man, they became fans and started coming to shows just to watch my acoustic set an hour and a half into the show. I noticed that people were listening to me. They paid attention to the stories I wrote into my songs, they wanted to know more. Right then, I felt I'd found what I'd been looking for," Hill said.

It didn't take long for Hill to pack up and head with his father and brother-in-law to Nashville. CMA Music Fest 2012 was in full swing as they arrived. "It was a horrible time to pound on doors," he remembers, laughing. "But I'm not kidding; we went into every building on Music Row and dropped off my homemade business cards. I came in with nothing but my passion, like, 'Hey, man, let's do this!'"

Making friends quickly, Hill got to know Craig Morgan, who introduced him to his drummer Mike Rogers. They hit it off and agreed to work together on a full-length album, with Rogers producing. Creatively, they clicked from the start.

"We agreed that this would be about me finding my natural sound without forcing anything," Hill said. "Mikey grew up in the outskirts of Myrtle Beach, so we both came from the same small-town, family-oriented place."

They emerged from the studio with an album Hill calls People Like Me. It's a varied package, with tracks that rock hard like they do it in the South with "Stage Song", honor the love of his life in "Swerve", celebrate with the reggae-flavored "Don't You Worry Bout' Me" and mourn in "I Hate That Car" a romantic breakup, testify with dignity and deep emotion in "How Great Thou Art" and proudly proclaim the small-town virtues that define who Hill is, musically and personally in "Those Were the Days."

After Hill performs, stay around for the fireworks display over the St. Johns River at 9:20 p.m.

Hyams-to-Snyder show highlights Jags 7-on-7

By Randy Lefko
Sports Editor

JACKSONVILLE — Fleming Island High football may have found a diamond in the rough at a new position as 6 foot 6 inch former offensive tackle Sam Snyder has emerged as the best-kept pass catching secret in Clay County.

“He had a great three game series, but we have to get another guy on the other side or teams will be doubling or tripling him in the fall,” said Fleming Island coach Damenyum Springs. “Overall, I give us a “3” out of 10 for the day. We had a lot of misread defensive coverages, I saw fatigue making some mistakes and we have to get people in the right formation and schemes on offense.”

Snyder, who has seen offers from numerous colleges around the country including a recent Wake Forest offer, became the key target of quarterback Dean Hyams in the Jacksonville Jaguars 7-on-7 tournament held on the Jaguars’ practice fields in Jacksonville June 20.

“Between him and Aaron Ramirez, we have two pretty fast guys that can get downfield,” said Springs. “Snyder has been clocked at 4.5 seconds for 40 numerous times and, with his reach, he can go get balls way above the defense. Aaron is fast and a smart player.”

In their first two scrimmages, against 6A-Ocala Vanguard and 5A-Westside high schools, Hyams was smooth in delivery in lofting his passes toward the skyscraper called Snyder for three scores against Vanguard and two against Westside. Though Fleming Island lost both scrimmages and a third against Raines, coach Damenyum Springs saw some offensive action that will keep enemy defenses on edge with slot back Aaron Ramirez also making a handful

Clay pass game ignited by Kocak-to-LeSage

By Randy Lefko
Sports Editor

JACKSONVILLE — Clay High junior wide receiver last year, quarterback possible this year Spencer LeSage looked a bit rough with his passing arm in the Blue Devils’ 7-on-7 scrimmage against Ed White High on June 21, but sophomore quarterback T.K. Kocak ignited a few highlight passes (to LeSage) that may have clarified some of the offense decisions for Clay coach Joshua Hoekstra.

“Spencer will tell you himself that he likes catching the ball, but we have three guys; LeSage, Kocak and senior Turner Erstad, who comes back from an injury, to see what pans out at that quarterback,” said Clay coach Joshua Hoekstra. “Though we did pass a bit more last year, passing has not been a major part of our offense, but I like these scrimmages to let guys see other athletes.”

Without their vaunted run game to bolster offensive production, Clay looked a bit tentative in the passes-only scrimmage that saw untimely dropped passes and routes run the wrong way for LeSage. Mostly rolling out to throw against the highly athletic White secondary, LeSage

Cobbert's Academy wrestlers look for national top spot

CHS Hughes to team with FIHS Jackson

By Randy Lefko
Sports Editor

GREEN COVE SPRINGS – With a smile and a wink on Fri., June 22, North Florida Wrestling Academy coach P.J. Cobbert emits a look of confidence on the final day of practice before traveling to ESPN's Wide World of Sports arena for the 2018 AAU Scholastic Duals national championship of wrestling on Sat., June 23 for five days of grinding against the best wrestlers in America.

"We are not going down with a team of power wrestlers like we did last year, but last year, we didn't go down thinking we would get second in the nation either," said Cobbert, referring to the Academy's second play finish in the big-school Community I division after a tough 43-30 loss to Rhino Wrestling Club of Pennsylvania in the championship match. "We just went down and grinded and almost came home with a national title. I really don't know yet what we have here because we are so young. Because of last year's finish, we will be in a tough pool."

Cobbert will be traveling to Disney with yet a second consecutive Class 3A trophy after chasing down powerhouse South Dade High.

"The program keeps feeding itself knowing that our formula of conditioning, training and technique is working," said Cobbert. "Kids come here knowing the competitive level we strive for and that has made the program grow more and more. Great wrestlers make great wrestlers better when they practice against each other everyday."

Cobbert is confident in his young squad with a handful of veterans returning and two state champions; 3A-113 champion Briar Jackson of Cobbert's Fleming Island High team that finished second overall to powerhouse South Dade High, and 1A-138 champion Peyton Hughes of Clay who also finished second in team points behind perennial powerhouse Lake Highland Prep.

For the 2018 Academy team, Cobbert loses three unbeaten All-Americans from last year's team; Class 3A state champions Ryan Smenda and Paul Detwiler to college and 2017 Class 3A champion Jason Davis, now a sophomore wrestler at Southeastern University.

"Adding Hughes to the roster will help with the experience level of the team because we are very young this year," said

KISSIMMEE – Among the elite wrestlers of Florida, Clay High's state runner-up Steve Chopek has piled up a handful of day one and day two wins at the AAU Scholastic Duals National High School Wrestling Championships held June 23-28 in Disney's ESPN Wide World of Sports.

Chopek, second in Class 1A for Clay at 120 pounds, is now wrestling with the Spec Ops team that is chockful of state title holders and medalists including Tampa Prep's Anthony Artolona (1A state champ 152) and Ben Buhler (1A state champ 113) and Tallahassee Lincoln's Justin Grant (third in 2A, 170).

In day two action on Monday, Chopek won by pin over South Dakota Blue's Dane Christopher; then won a major decision 9-1 over Jared Kuhns of Contender Elite Legend of Pennsylvania in round two action. Spec Ops won both matches decisively; 69-9 and 41-17.

In day one action on Sunday, Chopek won his first match 7-3 over Iowa Black's Caleb Fuessley, in a 36-25 win for Spec Ops. Match two was a 68-3 blowout of Roughhouse Boys of Tennessee with Chopek winning by pin.

Spec Ops got a loss to Michigan Blue Pitbulls, 24-22 with Chopek winning a tough 8-7 match over Derek Giallombardo, a Michigan state champion at 125 pounds with a 55-3 high school season record.

In their final match, a 37-22 win over US Wrestling Academy of Missouri, Chopek lost a 4-3 match to Jack Lenox, a Missouri state qualifier with a 53-8 season record.

KISSIMMEE – After a rough outing in last year's AAU Scholastic Duals Wrestling National Championships in the rugged big-school Community I division that saw the Oakleaf Spartans wrestling squad get one win in four days, a move to the Developmental Division comprised of younger teams, Oakleaf has found renewed success on the mat after two days of action. Matches will continue to June 28.

"I think the kids are wrestling great and gelling together with their teammates," said Oakleaf coach Wes Champs, who finished Pool play Monday night in fourth place and got seeded into the Silver championship bracket for a shot at a 10th-20th place finish. "We got kids from Middleburg, Creekside, Miami and three from Orange Park High. They've practiced hard together and now are competing as a team."

Note: The North Florida Wrestling Academy White team, fifth in Pool play with a 3-3 record, advanced to the Bronze championship bracket in the Development rankings. At 126 and 132, Storm Mercado finished unbeaten with three pins, a major decision and a 6-3 win. Matthew Ross has just one loss.

Oakleaf closed day one with a 3-2 team record with wins over Westerville, NC, (54-16); a loss to the Ohio Titan Red of catch and run plays for big gains.

Two key wrestlers for the North Florida Wrestling Academy squads at the AAU Scholastic Duals national championship tournament will be Briar Jackson, left, on the Black Community I squad, and Hunter Herrington, on the Red Community II team. The Academy has three teams in Disney; NFWA Black in Community I, NFWA Red in Community II and NFWA White in Developmental. Wrestling action started June 23 and will continue through June 28.

Fleming Island's top running back from the pocket, DeWayne McBride was mainly a blocking back for the event.

"We had Max Michaels playing on the offense side, but defense needs to get better and he may return to that side," said Springs. "Both Vanguard and Westside were hitting routes behind our linebackers and in front of safety Jacob Ashe. Our linebackers have to pick those guys up."

Two of Snyder's three scores against Vanguard, a 35-2 loss, came in the end zone with outstretched hands putting Snyder's reach far above any unwitting defender. Snyder's first was an Odell Beckham like one-hander in the corner of the end zone while his second was a button hook above the center of the Vanguard defense.

On defense, defensive back Ernie Jones, who got lost in one crossing pattern that became an Ocala score, had a handful of pass breakups against the high-powered Vanguard receiver corps with Landon Perry manning the opposite corner. Jacob Ashe and Middleburg High transfer Andrew Thomas both roamed the middle of the defense with tags on under routes in front of them.

"Andrew is probably going to be our utility guy with his overall speed," said Springs. "We'll keep trying guys back there because we got beat a bunch of times against Vanguard and against Westside, two good throwing teams."

Against Westside, a 24-20 loss, saw Snyder make a nifty crossing pattern catch on the dive to set up a Ramirez scoring grab in the corner of the end zone. Ramirez would get a second score on an out pattern in the end zone that showed off some good footwork to stay in bounds.

Snyder also used his leaping ability and wingspan to outfight for a lofted ball that put Fleming Island in scoring position.

On defense, Fleming Island got a game-ending interception on the goal line from Perry one of the Golden Eagles' leaders on defense last year. Perry made a nice pass breakup on the play before his pick.

Not playing defense was Max Michaels who was at a slot back position on offense for the scrimmages.

"He has a good nose for the ball and may have to go both ways until we get out linebackers straight," said Springs.

Westside, with one of the more highly sought wide outs in north Florida, was able to move downfield on the Fleming Island defense with mainly sideline passes.

"With two new coaches; offense Ryan Wolfe and defense Kyle Kennard, the kids have some new terminology to learn," said Springs. "Both of those guys (Wolfe from Clay, Creekside; Kennard from Oakleaf) offer a lot. It may take some time."

Fleming Island is set to attend a full pads camp July 10-12 at Jacksonville University.

was victimized by numerous "coverage" sacks, with no receiver finding open turf, and forced to gently scramble downfield to a play-ending whistle.

"We were missing a couple guys to summer things, but we wanted to show up and compete," said Hoekstra. "Christian Sweat will compete for a wideout spot with Jared Glisson, who caught a touchdown against White, and some others."

With passes complete to 6'-4" wideout Austin Anderson with passes to Derrek Holt and newcomer Will Kendrick, son to twice Clay wrestling champion William Kendrick, coming in the early offensive series, LeSage switched with Kocak after four series and slotted himself off the scrimmage for a look at Kocak's ability in the pocket.

On the sideline was projected starter Turner Erstad, a senior, who is set to return from a 2017 injury.

Kocak, as agile and mobile as LeSage from the pocket, found his Lake Asbury Junior High counterpart with a long scoring pass in one of his early series with LeSage making an acrobatic over-the-shoulder grab behind the White secondary. Kocak almost connected with LeSage on a second long pass, but the pass was a few inches off LeSage's fingertips.

In one other completion between the pair, LeSage gathered in a timed pattern to the sideline for a quality gain.

On defense, White exploited deep routes against the Clay defense with deep post patterns that got big chunks of yardage. Crossing patterns worked as well as Commanders' coach Kevin Sullivan has had good success over the summer in his upcoming second year at the helm. Sullivan took over after leaving Atlantic Coast High School and commented that his group has become a quality bunch of athletes after two years of turmoil under numerous coaches.

"Senior Dylan Taylor was missing to a wrestling competition and is our main guy at safety," said Hoekstra. "He gets everyone in proper position prior to the snap."

Clay did get one interception late in the scrimmage from defensive back Tristan Keith.

Clay had a scrimmage set for Tues., June 26 at Creekside with one more in early July before starting preparations for the fall.

Jackson, the Class 3A champion at 113 with an explosive 47 second pin and 10-1 record at last year's nationals. "He adds a lot of championship level preparation both before the matches and during the week."

Returning to the Academy lineup from last year are Trace Insalaco, Luke Chop, Tyler Williams, Jaquan English, Anthony Breeden and Jose Concepcion. Lou Gagliardo, third at 106 for Fleming Island, will also bring championship credentials to the lineup with his coming from Clay last year to join the Golden Eagles. Gagliardo has two third place finishes in Class 1A for Clay.

"Williams is the most seasoned young guy we got out there because he went to the big dance this year (state qualifier)," said Cobbett. "The young guys have the advantage of having to wrestle under last year's team for the past two years."

In the small school Community II national lineup last year, NFWA fielded a B team that lost in the silver division championship with three bracket wins before falling in the final. NFWA is set to compete in three different divisions in 2018. Most of those wrestlers were part of the 2018 Junior Varsity State champ team under coaches Kurt Lear and Randy West.

"We keep growing and I want to expose these young guys to the rigors of this type of wrestling," said Cobbett. "A big arena, lots of whistles and great wrestling is tough sometimes to absorb on the first go-round."

Hughes has been training with NFWA group and will add his fluid, attacking style to the lineup with his most accomplished year at Clay landing him two wins over two-time state champion Noah Castillo of 1A champions Lake Highland Prep and eventually a state title.

"Training here gives me a good place to workout, great practice partners; bunch of reasons," said Hughes. "Here, there is a forced pace that is pushed. I've been rolling with Jaquan (English, fourth in 3A)."

KISSIMMEE — With shocking day one losses to state champion Briar Jackson and fourth placer Jaquan English, the North Florida Wrestling Academy relied on team depth to win their opening matches at the AAU Scholastic Duals Wrestling National championships Monday in Kissimmee's ESPN Wide World of Sports arena.

Against Austintown Fitch Falcons of Ohio, many times a key opponent for NFWA, Class 3A champion Briar Jackson fell 3-2 at 113 while English, fourth in 3A last year, lost 13-4 to put a damper on the opening match of the four day tournament.

No. 2 team; a win over Land O' Lakes Wild Things (FL) (44-33) and Bulldog WC (FL) (46-30) with their second loss to Brawlers Bird Gang of Pennsylvania (63-9).

"Ethan, Cameron and Jordan Mobley are all with just one loss with Jacob Moore losing two," said Champs. "Unfortunately, Dustin Tollison of Middleburg High suffered a concussion and is out for the rest of the tournament."

Against the Brawlers Bird Gang, Broughton lost by pin for his lone loss with Gustilo losing a tough 13-12 decision. Mobley was the lone Oakleaf winner with a 5-1 win with the Spartans getting a forfeit at 195. Day two saw Oakleaf open with a 48-30 win over AYWO Rockets of Tennessee and a loss to Team STL Captain America of Missouri (42-33) to finish pool matches at 4-3.

Against Westerville, Oakleaf got wins from Owen Bronson at 120, Cameron Broughton at 126 by 15 second pin; David Parkes by pin, Ethan Gustilo by pin, Jacob Moore by pin and Caleb Dickens by pin. Broughton and Moore are Orange Park High wrestlers joining the Oakleaf team under coach Wes Champs and Tyler DeHart. In their loss to Ohio Titan, Gustilo and Broughton won by pins with Moore and Mobley getting their first losses.

Oakleaf rebounded against Land O'Lakes with Broughton getting his third pin, Parkes pinning, Gustilo pinning and Moore pinning to lead the Spartans. A pin by Ryan Delgado at 220 fueled the Spartans' close win.

Against Bulldog WC, the same trio; Broughton, Gustilo and Moore all dominated with wins a fourth time to lead the Spartans. Egan Gustilo, Ethan Gustilo's younger brother, won by pin to open the Spartan scoring.

Against AYWO on Monday, Oakleaf won six straight matches after losing the first two to build a substantial lead with Broughton, Parkes, Gustilo, Lillian Prentice and Dustin Tollison all winning. Three final wins from Jordan Mobley, Moore and Delgado sealed the win for Oakleaf and put their 4-2 team record on notice for a shot at the Gold championship bracket.

Oakleaf had a final pool match on Monday at 3 p.m. against Team STL Captain America of Missouri with a 4-1 record.

Note: Team STL Captain America won 42-33. Both teams exchanged three consecutive wins with Team STL taking the first three with a major, a tech fall and a pin to go up 15-0 before Broughton, Parkes and Gustilo all pinned to give Oakleaf an 18-15 lead. Team STL then won three more; a decision, a forfeit and a pin to go ahead.

Williams at 126 took the lead 11-7 with the two noted losses then stormed behind wins from Peyton Hughes, Trace Insalaco and Tanner Hill, a transfer from Nease High, to build the lead to 24-7 before winning 39-13 with losses to Luke Chop and Isaiah Graham preceding wins from Jeffrey Lascano, Michael Nix, Raul Gonzalez and Jose Concepcion.

The Academy rebounded with a 37-27 second round win over the Ohio Devils squad with Gagliardo and Jackson opening with an 11-2 win and a pin. English also rebounded with a pin with Hughes pinning. Graham won his match at 170 with Concepcion getting a rare loss by pin in the third period.

North Florida blasted Cypress Bay Wrestling Club 69-6 in their last match on Monday with two matches Tuesday and a final pool match at noon on Wed., June 27 . Pinning against Cypress Bay were Gagliardo, Jackson, Williams, English, Hughes, Insalaco, Chop and Nix. Hill won 5-0 at 152.

The NFWA Red team, in the small school Community II division won their first match, a 50-21 decision over Hartland Gold of Michigan.

Late Monday, the NFWA Red team won their round two match, 56-19 over Tallahassee War Noles. NFWA Red registered six pins in the win; Hunter Herrington, Dalton Baysinger, Garrett Cole, Gavin Smith, Nick Janssen and Anthony Breeden.

REVISED LEGAL NOTICE PUBLIC HEARING

The Town of Penney Farms is considering applying to the Florida Department of Economic Opportunity (DEO) for one or more Small Cities Community Development Block Grants (CDBG) for the 2017 CDBG program year. Each grant is expected to not exceed $600,000. CDBG funds may be used for one of the following purposes. 1. To benefit low and moderate income persons; 2. To aid in the prevention of elimination of slums or blight; of 3. To meet other community development needs of recent origin having a particular urgency because existing conditions pose a serious and immediate threat to the health of welfare of the community and where other financial resources are not available to meet such needs. The categories of activities for which these funds may be used are in the areas of housing, neighborhood revitalization, commercial revitalization, or economic development and include such improvement activities as acquisition of real property, loans to private-for-profit business, purchase of machinery and equipment, construction of infrastructure, planning/design, rehabilitation of houses and commercial buildings, and energy conservation. In developing an application for submission to DEO, the Town of Penney Farms must plan to minimize

Not all ERs are alike when it comes to Stroke.

Emergencies can happen at any time, to anyone. And few medical emergencies are more time-sensitive than a stroke – a “brain attack” starving brain cells of vital oxygen. Because time is of the essence in treating a stroke, it’s important to know:

- The most advanced stroke treatment possible is available through Baptist Clay
- Baptist Clay Emergency is designated Acute Stroke Ready – and was the first ER of its kind in the state of Florida to receive this certification
- The stroke team at Baptist Clay is ready 24/7 with lifesaving treatment – and is part of Baptist’s comprehensive stroke network, with the highest level of care

Advanced stroke treatment is not available everywhere. It’s important to get to the right place the first time.
