Throwback drive-in entertainment with COVID-19 guidelines at Orange Park Mall

ORANGE PARK – Drive-In movies are back in Clay County.

What was once a staple of entertainment but faded out with increased technology over time is back – at least for the time being – the Orange Park Mall.

“Cinema Under the Stars,” as the free drive-in is called, requires one ticket a vehicle. The tickets can be gotten online at EventBrite.

From Thursday to Sunday nights at 9 p.m., over a four-week run, the mall is providing moviegoers to see movies in the JC Penney parking lot showing Marvel, Disney and Pixar films.

Moviegoers not only enjoyed a free movie in the Orange Park Mall parking lot, they got to watch it the way their parents did while growing up - including filling a cooler with drinks, homemade snacks and fresh air.

Clothes Closet and Food Pantry maintains high goals, low profile

By Bruce Hope
bruce@opcfla.com

ORANGE PARK – The Clothes Closet and Food Pantry of Orange Park may not be the most well-known establishment in town, but it is essential.

Residents of Orange Park and Fleming Island, who are in need of food, have an option to receive help. Carole Bright has worked at the Clothes Closet and Food Pantry for the past 13 years.

Volunteers at the Clothes Closet and Food Pantry have plenty of supplies for anyone who needs assistance.

“It’s a Christian-based organization,” said Bright. “It started in the early ‘60s. A lady started from the trunk of her car. She saw a need; she had people that would give.”

The Clothes Closet and Food Pantry has grown over the years. Bright estimates that it now feeds an average of 30-50 families weekly. Those in need aren’t charged. Everything comes from donations, both in actual food and monetary. Recently a local car dealership donated 1,000 pounds of ground beef to the pantry.

“In these hard times, we have people coming out of the woodwork saying we want to help you,” Bright said. “Normally we do pick up from grocery stores, so that helps. Publix and Walmart are really good to us.”

Typically, those in need would receive a referral to the pantry via their churches. However, with most churches and their offices remaining closed at this time, the pantry is urging those who need assistance to come and get food.

“All gifts come from God,” said Robert Gorski, who has been at the pantry for over five years. “The fact that I have the ability to do this makes me happy, and I’m

Royal returns with loftier goals as GCS mayor

By Bruce Hope
bruce@opcfla.com

GREEN COVE SPRINGS – The city of Green Cove Springs has a new mayor.

Sort of.

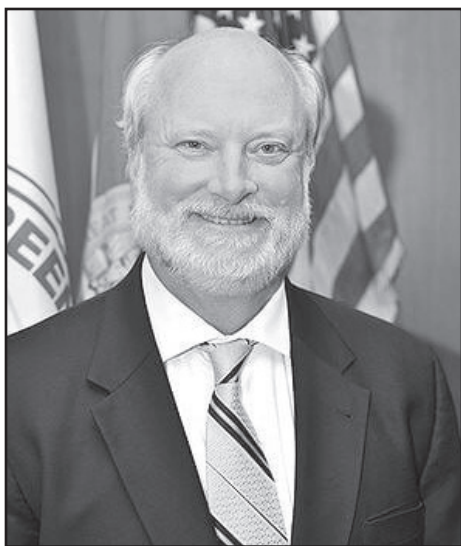

Van Royal, the 67-year-old southwest Florida native who has made Green Cove Springs his home for the last 30 years, was sworn in last week for his second term as mayor.

Royal is a busy member of his community. He has held numerous leadership positions in and around Green Cove Springs. He is the owner of Exit Magnolia Point Realty, a board member of Ascension St. Vincent's Hospital, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of Penney Retirement Community and a board member of the Clay County Economic Development Council.

It's safe to say that he cares a great deal about what takes place around him.

His first term as mayor was five years ago. It is a rotating position among the sitting board members.

"The renovation of Spring Park, particularly the pool," said Royal of what he thought was the biggest accomplishment during that first term. "[It took] two years, and it was a $3.2 million project, with help from Clay County and the state of Florida."

Mayor Van Royal

In the interim, he sat on the city council, working consistently towards helping Green Cove Springs to be its best.

This year makes Royal's eighth as a member of the Green Cove City Council. He is always careful to acknowledge his fellow council members for any advances made, as everything must happen by consensus.

A significant focus for the next year (his current term as mayor), is to facilitate a return from the COVID-19 pandemic.

"We know that it will be a challenging route and one that we will find different opinions on," said Royal. "But I do have great trust in our city government leaders and county government leaders that we will recover, but I hope we don't lose too many small businesses in the process. It's not our only focus, but cautiously guiding reentry, and then becoming a cheerleader for decisions that we made as far as the businesses." Royal is a forward thinker. He has some goals for this term. He looks forward to bringing businesses back safely, completion of the Augusta Savage Center and opening up Walnut street to more small businesses in the downtown area.

More than anything, though, Royal is grateful for the opportunity.

"I am thankful to be a part of a community of employees, staff, and citizens that look after each other," said Royal. "I see a community that never forgot about each other, and I'm thankful for that."

Keystone's Stanley writes winning essay from home during pandemic shutdown

By Wesley LeBlanc
wesley@opcfla.com

KEYSTONE HEIGHTS – A local senior used his final days of high school to win a national scholarship.

Garrett Stanley is a Keystone Heights Junior-Senior High student that is the recipient of the national Students of History scholarship. He won this scholarship by writing an essay about an impactful lesson he learned in his U.S. history class – and he did it while at home after the school was closed as a precaution for COVID-19. By finishing his senior year at home, his essay about circumstances in history is more-timely than ever.

"You had to write an essay about a historical lesson or activity you did in history class that meant a great deal to you or had an impact on your life," Stanley said. "In my U.S. history class, we all had to line up like an assembly line when learning about child labor laws."

Stanley said the activity and greater lesson about the horrible history surrounding child labor in America's past opened up his eyes to how fortunate we tend to be today, even if we are stuck at home during a pandemic. Children were working in 90-degree sweatshops with no windows and no breaks, making maybe two cents a day, Stanley said, and knowing that helps you appreciate how fortunate we can be today.

Stanley learned of this scholarship about two months ago and quickly got to work on his essay that would earn him the national recognition.

"It made me feel very special and grateful to win," Stanley said. "Out of all the kids that submitted essays, my essay won."

The scholarship was less of a surprise to his teacher, Keith Walker. Walker has been teaching for 31 years, with 16 years of his tenure spent at Keystone Heights Junior-Senior High. Walker said if his classrooms were filled with a bunch of students like Stanley, his job would be too easy.

"He's a really good kid," Walker said. "He's very active in class discussions, very dependable and always consistent day in and day out. I never had to worry about Garrett not doing what he needed to do so it's not really a surprise to me that he won that scholarship."

Part of the scholarship contest required Stanley to obtain a letter of recommendation from Walker. He said it was easy to recommend Stanley.

Walker taught Stanley in American government and economics and called him one of his best students.

"It's impressive, too, because it's his senior year," Walker said. "When seniors hit that last semester of high school, they tend to check out, but Stanley didn't. He continued to get As, ace tests and showed up every day ready to work."

Stanley said this scholarship will help pay for tuition at Florida Gateway College in Lake City where he'll study to become an electrical engineer.

Local hospitals: There's no reason to be scared to go to ER

County's facilities taking extra measures to ease concerns over COVID-19

By Wesley LeBlanc

FLEMING ISLAND — Hospitals in Clay County hospitals and emergency centers want residents to know that there is no reason to be scared of going to the hospital, even during the COVID-19 pandemic.

This is because only about 2% or less of the patients in Clay County's major hospitals like Baptist Clay Medical Campus, Baptist Oakleaf ER and Orange Park Medical Center have tested positive for the novel coronavirus. Baptist Vice President of Ambulatory Campuses and System Emergency Services Darin Roark, OPMC CEO Lisa Valentine and Clay County Chamber President Wendell Chindra gathered at the chamber's office Wednesday morning to urge the public about the dangers of avoiding medical care.

"There is a fear factor or misinformation going on in the community right now and I wanted to address that," Chindra said. "I personally visited all of our hospitals in Clay County. One of the problems that we're running into is we are hearing sad stories that our residents are not going to the emergency rooms and going from having a sickness to critical care because they're delaying their hospital or medical care needs so today my plea or ask is simple: it is safe."

Roark said Baptist facilities are doing a number of things to ensure patients and staff are safe. He said that temperature screenings and daily sanitizations are routine. He said the hospital is utilizing highly advanced robot

Trump has ‘zero interest’ of relocated GOP convention to Miami, Jacksonville

By A.G Gamcarski
For FloridaPolitics

“Zero interest.” That’s what President Donald Trump now says he has in re-locating the 2020 Republican Convention from Charlotte.

Trump, who began Memorial Day beefing with North Carolina’s Democratic governor over potential constraints on this summer’s convention and threatening to move the event, walked back the proposition in a subsequent tweet.

“I have zero interest in moving the Republican National Convention to Doral in Miami,” Trump tweeted, “as falsely reported by the Fake News @nytimes in order to stir up trouble. Ballroom is not nearly big enough & would like to stay in N.C., whose gov. doesn’t even know if he can let people in?”

While it’s uncertain what “trouble was stirred up,” more certain was Floridians’ interest in hosting the event, including the chair of the Republican Party of Florida.

“The Republican Party of Florida would welcome the opportunity to host the Republican National Convention. Florida is committed to ensuring a safe, secure and successful event for President Trump and all attendees,” asserted Chairman Joe Gruters Monday.

Gruters’ comments came hours after the President issued what amounted to a jump ball for the summer event’s location. On Tuesday, Jacksonville Mayor Lenny Curry suggested Jacksonville as a possible site for the convention.

“I love the Great State of North Carolina, so much so that I insisted on having the Republican National Convention in Charlotte at the end of August,” Trump tweeted.

“Unfortunately, Democrat Gov. Roy Cooper is still in shutdown mode & unable to guarantee that by August we will be allowed ... to head to beautiful North Carolina in August. They must be immediately given an answer by the Governor as to whether or not the space will be allowed to be fully occupied. If not, we will be reluctantly forced to find, with all of the jobs and economic development it brings, another Republican National Convention site.”

Cooper’s office responded that state officials are working with the GOP on convention decisions “and will review its plans as they make decisions about how to hold the convention in Charlotte.”

VP Mike Pence, on Fox and Friends, floated Florida as a potential location, along with Georgia and Texas, two other states “farther along on reopening than North Carolina.”

Some lessons learned during COVID-19 leave lasting memories, bumps on head

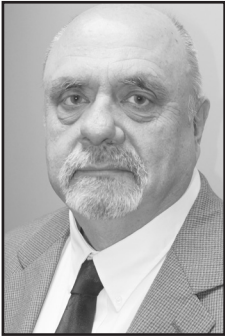

By Don Coble
Managing Editor

As we slowly get back to normal following months of concern and confusion created by COVID-19, it’s clear some things will never be the same.

Personal space now is more than a preference. It’s a requirement. Washing hands and using sanitizing lotion has made obsessive compulsive disorders seem ordinary.

But there so much more we’ve learned from COVID-19.

Like most men, I didn’t understand just how important beauty and nail salons were to women. Unfortunately, I learned the hard way when I asked my beautiful girlfriend (yes, I’m pandering) if she had just baked something. When she asked why, I said, “It looks like you have flour in your hair.”

Don Coble

Through trial and error, I then found a frozen bag of blueberries helped soothe the pain and the knot on my head that followed my comment about flour in the hair of my beautiful girlfriend (still pandering).

We also learned how much we’re starting to hate the terms “new normal,” “in these challenging times” and “in a world ...”

Did you know if you have facial recognition on your cellphone, it won’t work if you’re wearing a mask?

And while we’re talking about masks, is it really necessary to wear a mask if you’re the only one in a car?

Another thing COVID-19 has done as pushed gas prices from unexplainable and obscene to absurd. There is no reasonable explanation why prices jumped as much as 50 cents a gallon in one week. I guess they think we’re being distracted by the virus and wouldn’t notice.

Now that we know how the novel coronavirus started, it’s safe to say most of us won’t be eating bats or Asian anteaters in the future. Also, what does this do to the future of buffets?

If it wasn’t for COVID-19 I wouldn’t have realized how much I don’t like the smell of bleach.

And while it’s noble for entertainers to offer at home concerts, it’s not the same. Watching “Thunder Road” isn’t the same with a bowl of fruit in the background. It also makes you eager for our favorite bands to get back on stage. I can’t wait to hear Johnny Van Zant to say “Turn it Up” before Mark “Sparky” Matejka starts the “Sweet Home Alabama” lick when Lynyrd Skynyrd returns to its tour.

Now that grocery stores have one-way traffic for its aisles, have you noticed no matter what you’re looking for, traffic is being routed in the opposite direction?

According to Yelp!, garlic rolls have been the most-delivered foods in Florida during the pandemic. Other interesting on-the-go foods include sushi in both Nebraska and South Carolina, burritos in New Hampshire, egg rolls in Montana and SPAM musubi in Nevada.

The event will not be strictly-virtual, say campaign organizers, even as actual administration members are leery of potential problems.

A week ago, Republican National Committee chairwoman Ronna McDaniel vowed on a call with reporters that the convention slated for Aug. 24-27 would be held at least partly in person.

During a subsequent Charlotte-area visit, Health and Human Services Secretary Alex Azar sounded less certain when discussing convention preparations. He did not refer to a traditional in-person convention as a certainty, but rather noted that “we’re several months away from the possibility of the RNC.” Azar also praised Cooper’s reopening moves.

The state reported nearly 24,000 positive cases Monday, a daily increase of about 740. On Saturday, the state reported 1,100 new cases, its biggest daily jump. Monday’s state tally includes about 750 deaths and 600 current hospitalizations.

Before Monday, Cooper and Trump had displayed little friction during the pandemic. While Cooper has urged the federal government to provide more testing supplies and protective gear, he’s avoided criticizing Trump by name. Trump, meanwhile, has largely refrained from calling out Cooper as he has other Democratic governors.

Winn-Dixie, St. Augustine Distillery donate hand sanitizer to Clay’s frontline

GREEN COVE SPRINGS – Winn-Dixie and the Winn-Dixie Gives Foundation partnered with St. Augustine Distillery to recently donate nearly 200 one-liter bottles of the distillery’s locally-made hand sanitizer to police and fire departments serving on the frontline in Clay County.

The Clay County Police and Fire Rescue departments will be presented with their hand sanitizer donation at Winn-Dixie store to help keep responders safe and healthy while taking care of their local communities.

With further appreciation for their hard work and sacrifice, the Winn-Dixie Gives Foundation will also present each department with a $100 gift card to help stock their kitchen pantries.

This donation is part of a larger effort to provide nearly 2,000 one-liter bottles of St. Augustine Distillery’s hand sanitizer, to frontline warriors serving the First Coast in Duval, Clay, St. Johns, Nassau and Flagler counties. The hand sanitizer was produced locally by St. Augustine Distillery to fulfill the critical needs of the community and help reduce the spread of COVID-19.

Normal

One good thing about being stuck at home more than normal is are number of home projects I’ve completed. I’ve replaced a drain motor on my washing machine, door lock, fixed my trunk lock, cleaned my grill and changed all of my refrigerator and air conditioning filters.

Of course, all the time home means I’m finding more projects to get done.

I don’t know the tolerance for the number of times I can watch “Two and a Half Men,” “That 70’s Show,” “Law and Order” re-runs, but I’m getting close. By the way, how many times are they going to show the four Indiana Jones movies?

And with so much attention being spent on COVID-19, it’s been easy to overlook this ominous fact: hurricane season officially starts next week.

Thomas leaves spot on Orange Park Town Council

Former mayor to concentrate of campaigning for county commission seat

By Wesley LeBlanc
wesley@opcfla.com

ORANGE PARK – Council member and former Orange Park Mayor Connie Thomas has resigned to focus on her campaign for a spot on the county commission.

Thomas put in her letter of resignation to the town council last week, a day after her term as mayor came to an end with the council's appointment of Alan Watt. While the letter might have been turned in recently, Thomas said the decision was made earlier this year.

"I give 110% to what I'm doing," Thomas said. "I did that as a council member and as a mayor. Once I finished being mayor, I resigned and that's to give 110% to my campaign [for county commissioner]."

Thomas said she resigned to give the remaining council enough time to select a replacement before the town begins financial forecasting and budget-making meetings, which will begin in just a few weeks. Thomas said the resignation probably would have occurred sooner had the COVID-19 pandemic not happened.

She said it wouldn't have been right to resign at that point.

"I thought to myself, 'I can't put in my resignation during this,'" Thomas said. "I really had to take it week by week and I wanted to be there for the community during these hard times. In the past few weeks, with the state opening up and things starting to relax, and with my time as mayor coming to an end, the door to resign began to open."

Thomas resignation comes during a dispute over the proposed Orange Park Plaza project. People both for and against the project have been passionate about their feelings, and their contention has been apparent during recent council meetings. Thomas said she holds to her belief the town should align with the "wonderful visioning" happening right now by way of planning company Haskell's visioning services.

She said Haskell has worked hard to bring the community voice together and whatever happens in the future needs to align with that vision.

"I made this decision months ago as I already knew I needed to step down to give 110% to my campaign," Thomas said on her timing of the resignation. "I'm running against people with a lot of time but I still have to work. I also have to get especially creative with my campaign right now because of everything going on. I can't get in touch with the community as I normally would [during the pandemic] so we're having to think out of the box."

"That's another facet to all of this. I feel good about my decision and I know this [county commission] is my next step. It's what I'm supposed to be doing. I'm supposed to represent our town and community on a broader scale and bring everything I care about in our town to the district."

Despite 'worse-case scenario' projections, tourism dollars keep coming in for Clay

By Wesley LeBlanc
wesley@opcfla.com

CLAY COUNTY – The Tourism Development Council discussed the effects of COVID-19 during its latest meeting on May 20.

The last TDC meeting was held on March 11 and at that point, the majority of Clay County was open for business but unbeknownst to the county, just days away from the coronavirus shutdown. The shutdown has begun to ease as restaurants and businesses open back up with new rules and the TDC's meeting was the first time the council was able to discuss the virus' effects on tourism dollars.

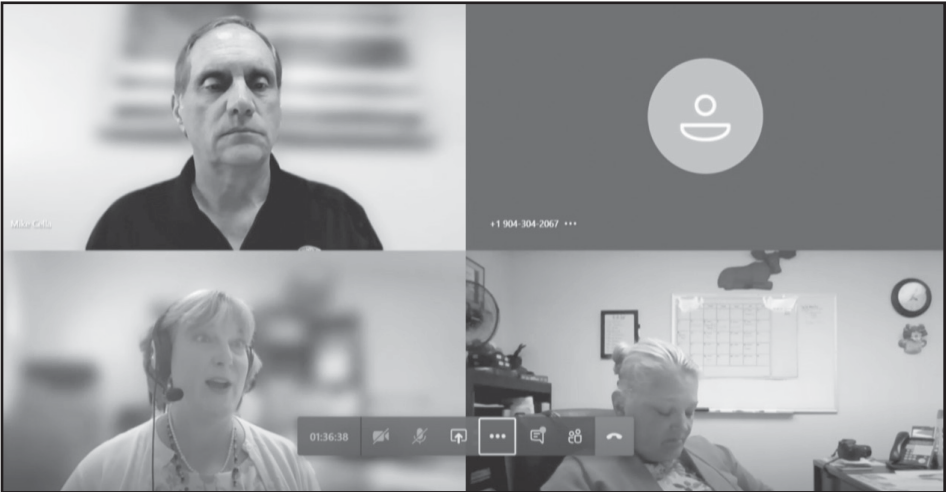

"What we've prepared for you is a worst-case scenario for the entire fiscal year and where that put us was at $579,714 for the year for bed tax collection which is a significant cut to the budget," tourism director Kimberly Morgan said. "We were running 17% ahead and we [have now] made a 62% cut with that number."

Morgan said the good news is that the April bed tax collections, which actually covers March, were $89,000. That puts the TDC $34,000 ahead, according to Morgan. While the collection lines for April, May, June and July are listed as zero as a precaution, the collection dollars are already more than zero.

This means the bed tax collections have already exceeded the worst-case scenario, Morgan said. That doesn't mean the county's tourism numbers are in the clear.

"For the fiscal year, we cut all travel, any specific promotions that we're doing, any remainder of the specialty items...of any of that budget that's left," Morgan said. "We cut familiarization tours significantly in this fiscal year and then we're also foreseeing that there will not be a carry forward in the next year's budget for the grant line time."

Costs associated with training, operation supplies and other non-essentials were cut as well. Expenses related to tours were cut as well. All of these cuts were made in an effort to keep staff and marketing around as opposed to laying off staff and cutting marketing costs. Marketing has, however, been delayed, Morgan said.

The Atlanta Parent magazine is one place Clay County's tourism dollars are put into for marketing. Instead of marketing in the month of May, marketing was pushed back to a target of late summer. Morgan cited the coronavirus as a reason to push marketing back. People aren't necessarily traveling right now but later this summer, they could be, which is why it makes sense for marketing dollars to be moved to months later in the year.

sanitizers to help clean facilities clean and proper personal protective equipment is utilized at all times. Valentine said OPMC is following the same procedures.

Patients with the coronavirus are in a separate wing of the hospital. Features such as air flow control keep everything confined to those wings and separate from all other areas of the hospital, Valentine and Roark said of their respective hospitals. Staff that come into direct contact with the virus are sent home to isolation and aren't able to return until after a set number of days and negative test readings.

Roark said none of Baptist's staff have contracted the virus although some have been sent home as a safety precaution.

Valentine said people that need hospital care should go to the hospital and that they shouldn't fear the possibility of contracting the virus.

"Our hospitals have taken extreme measures to protect patients and staff," Valentine said.

"Our hospitals are safe," Roark said. "We want you to get the care that you need and the care you deserve and it's very important to not delay care when you have signs of sickness, illness or injury because delaying care can do more harm than good."

Local Mellow Mushroom raises some dough for Ronald McDonald House

By Wesley LeBlanc
wesley@opcfla.com

FLEMING ISLAND – Clay County’s local Mellow Mushroom will be able to feed families following a recent charity drive.

The Legacy Restaurant Group, which has nine restaurants throughout Northeast Florida – five of those being Mellow Mushroom locations – turned into a day about the surrounding community. For every pizza purchased, a meal will be donated to the Ronald McDonald house in Jacksonville.

“We’ve supported them in the past and they help a lot of families hurt in troubled times, be it the coronavirus right now or something else entirely,” Legacy Restaurant Group COO Michael Phillips said. “They focus on stabilizing families and getting them back on their feet so our goal is to sell a bunch of pizzas today and have some funds set aside to donate meals to those families next month.” The Ronald McDonald House in Jacksonville isn’t operating due to COVID-19, but Phillips said they’re expected to re-open in June. Mellow Mushroom then will donate meals to the families there.

Clay County’s only Mellow Mushroom is located on Fleming Island. Families dining in at the restaurant and ordering out were encouraged to order a pizza to help raise funds for the company’s charity drive.

“If someone is ordering a hoagie, for example, we might encourage them to order a pie instead and tell them about why it’s special to order a pizza on this day,” Phillips said.

One family, the Albach’s, said they ordered an extra pizza just to support the cause, even though their family doesn’t typically order three pizzas on pizza night.

Phillips said this is the first time Mellow Mushroom has participated in project like this. He said it’s a cooperative effort between the franchisor in Atlanta and the franchisees. It’s a natural extension of Mellow Mushroom’s hospitality.

“Being in the service and hospitality business, we touch a lot of people whether local or passing through,” Phillips said. “We feel it’s important for us to succeed and support causes that really support the people within the communities and more so those who are in need at the highest level. The Ronald McDonald house really fosters that message and takes care of their people so it’s an easy organization for us to support with something like this.”

Because it is Mellow Mushroom’s initial charity drive, Phillips said awareness was created mostly through social media and emails. He said customers were lightly encouraged in-house to purchase pizza for the drive, but the next time Mellow Mushroom does a food drive, they’ll push even harder to raise funds.

“It’s a win-win for the community, our brand and our ability to help someone in need,” Phillips said. “That’s what the service business is all about.”

Community Hospice & Palliative Care celebrates first anniversary

FLEMING ISLAND – One year ago, Community Hospice & Palliative Care opened the new office in Clay County at 4689 U.S. Highway 17, Suite No. 9.

Due to continued expansion, Community Hospice & Palliative Care outgrew its former office location in Orange Park on Blanding Boulevard. The decision was made to find a location with ample parking, increased office space, and community meeting space where Clay County groups and residents could meet free of charge.

The office in Fleming Island was opened on May 28 and it increased the overall footprint by 1,000 square feet to better serve the community.

“I can’t believe it’s been a year since we opened our office in Fleming Island,” says Mary McElroy, Senior Vice President of Hospice Services. “We very much appreciate the support from our Clay County community, and we will continue to provide outstanding care and service for our patients and their families.”

glad that I have this opportunity to do it and give back to the community. Time flies when you're having fun."

Bright says that while the pantry is well stocked, they can always use food.

Things like breakfast items, canned meat, and peanut butter and jelly are always needed.

"Almost every family gets peanut butter and jelly," she said.

Donations come from various places, from individuals, to larger chains and even vacation bible schools who hold food drives and more.

"One year, a vacation bible school collected over 400 boxes of cereal for us. The kids can pick it out, it's not very expensive, and it doesn't break. So that was huge for that church," Bright said.

Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the pantry's current hours of operation are Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to noon on the first, second and third Saturdays of the month.

"Methamphetamine, fentanyl and drug paraphernalia were recovered and deputies arrested eight people," CCSO released on its social media pages. "In addition to an overdose death that occurred earlier this month, the sheriff's office has received numerous complaints in recent days regarding outrageous behavior exhibited by individuals high on narcotics and the decreased quality of life in an otherwise quiet neighborhood.

"The sheriff's office is committed to targeting and enforcing the use and sale of illegal narcotics in our county and the improvement of the quality of life for our citizens."

Former CCSO deputy ordered jailed until federal trial

Travis Pritchard charged with having affair with 15-year-old girl

JACKSONVILLE – U.S. Attorney Maria Chapa Lopez announces the detention and indictment of Travis Ryan Pritchard, 36, of Green Cove Springs. Pritchard was initially charged by criminal complaint and, on May 15, was ordered detained in federal custody pending trial.

On May 20, a grand jury returned an indictment charging Pritchard with online enticement of a minor and attempted online enticement of a minor to engage in sexual activity. If convicted, Pritchard faces a minimum mandatory penalty of 10 years, and up to two life terms, in federal prison.

According to court documents, Pritchard was employed as a deputy with the Clay County Sheriff's Office. At the time of the alleged offense, he was assigned to the DUI unit. From December 2019 through May 2, Pritchard used an online chat application to communicate with a 15-year-old girl with whom he had engaged in sexual activity on a weekly basis.

An indictment is merely a formal charge that a defendant has committed one or more violations of federal criminal law, and every defendant is presumed innocent unless, and until, proven guilty.

This case was investigated by the Green Cove Springs Police Department and Homeland Security Investigations. It is being prosecuted by Asst. U.S. Attorney Kelly S. Karase.

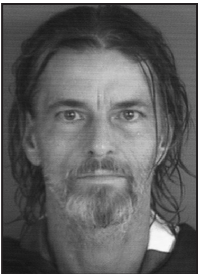

Any person who has additional information or knows of someone who may have been a victim is urged to contact the Department of Homeland Security, Homeland Security Investigations, at 1-866-DHS-2ICE or www.ice.gov/web-form/hsi-tip-form.

Man arrested for trying to outrun CCSO on stolen motorcycle

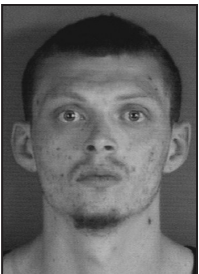

MIDDLEBURG – A Green Cove Springs man was arrested for drugs and dealing in stolen property after he tried to outrun the Clay County Sheriff's Office on May 20 after he ran a stop sign at Blanding Boulevard and Peppergrass Street.

According to the arrest report, a deputy was forced to chase Carver in a high-speed chase on Blanding. Carver was forced to wreck the motorcycle while trying to avoid a tractor-trailer.

He eventually was caught in the Walgreens Pharmacy parking lot.

Man busted for setting girlfriend’s clothes on fire

ORANGE PARK – A local man was arrested after he admitted to setting some of his girlfriend’s clothes on fire during a drunken rage.

Zachary Michael Murdock, 23, was charged on May 23 with criminal mischief and failed to obtain a permit.

According to the arrest report, Murdock arrived home in a taxi after a night of drinking. He and his girlfriend had been fighting, according to CCSO, so he took some shirts outside and set them on fire.

When sheriff’s office deputies arrived, they found the pile of smoldering clothes.

Primitive tent camping to reopen on district lands

CLAY COUNTY – The St. Johns River Water Management District has reopened campsites on district lands. Both first-come/first-serve and reservable campsites are open.

Sites include Black Creek Ravines in Middleburg and Bayard Conservation Area in Green Cove Springs.

Reservable campsites require a reservation 24 hours in advance and a permit from the district. To view reservable camping sites and to make a reservation, visit the district's online camping reservation system at <https://www.camplife.com/reservation/landingPageHandler?campgroundName=St+Johns+River+Water+Management+District>.

District lands are wild, natural and scenic places. Only primitive tent camping is allowed on district lands and only at designated locations. No travel trailers, campers or RVs are allowed. Many campsites are in remote areas. Some offer limited amenities such as portable toilets, picnic tables and non-potable water.

The district reminds visitors to follow all social distancing and health advisories. Take drinking water, insect repellent and hand sanitizer.

Camping areas on district lands have been closed since March 20 following guidance from the state of Florida and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention to prevent the transmission of COVID-19.

Garden Club concerned about plight of Monarch butterflies

ORANGE PARK – The Monarch butterfly is among the most recognized, studied and loved of all North America's insects. The annual migration/life cycle of the Monarch butterfly is dependent upon conservation of habitat in all three North American countries: United States, Canada and Mexico.

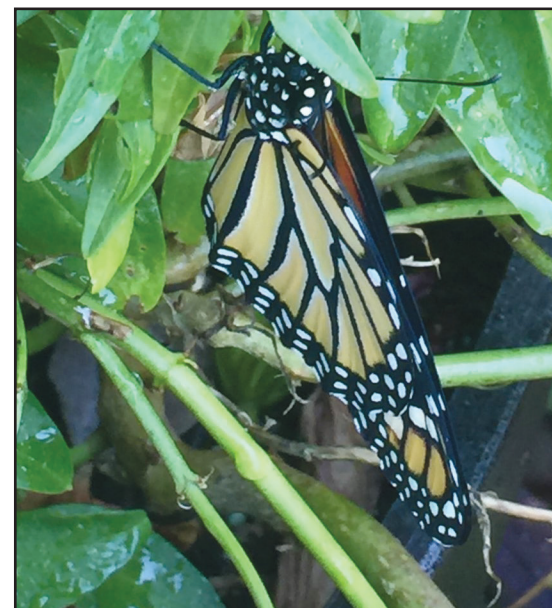

Monarchs are disappearing as are milkweeds, their host plants. Milkweed is the only plant the Monarch butterfly lays its eggs on and the caterpillar eats.

The Monarchs have suffered a population decline upward of 90% in recent decades. The blame for this loss has been the displacement of the milkweed by genetically modified crops and urban sprawl.

The Garden Club of Orange Park is encouraging everyone to join in this conservation effort by planting native milkweeds in your flower gardens. Monarch butterflies are pollinators and need flowers for nectar.

Grow the milkweed, count the caterpillars on the milkweed, and submit your data to Monarch Watch at <http://www.MonarchWatch.org>.

National Pollinator Week is June 22-28. The theme this year is: "Our future flies with pollinators". You can visit these websites to learn more about pollinators -- <http://www.pollinator.org/pollinator-week>; <http://fws.gov/pollinators/>; and <http://www.nwf.org>.

“If I Were the Devil”

This week’s column is adapted from a long ago radio script by the renowned broadcaster Paul Harvey. This was the script of his broadcast on April 3, 1965.

If I were the devil – I mean, if I were the prince of darkness, I’d want to engulf the whole world in darkness. And I’d have most of its real estate as well as most of its population, but I wouldn’t be happy until I had seized the ripest apple on the tree: You.

So I’d set about, however necessary, to take over the United States. I’d subvert the churches first. I’d begin with a campaign of whispers with the wisdom of a serpent. I would whisper to you as I whispered to Eve: do as you please. To the young I would whisper that the Bible is a myth. I would convince them that man created God instead of the other way around. And the old I would teach to pray after me, “Our father which art in Washington...”

And then I’d get organized. I’d educate authors in how to make lurid literature exciting so that anything else would seem dull or non-interesting. I’d saturate TV with dirtier movies. I’d pedal narcotics to everyone I could. I’d sell alcohol to ladies and gentlemen of distinction: I’d tranquilize the rest with pills.

If I were the devil, I’d soon have families at war with themselves, churches at war with themselves, and nations at war with themselves, until each in its turn was consumed. And with promises of higher ratings, I’d have mesmerizing media fanning the flames.

If I were the devil, I would encourage schools to refine young intellects, but neglect to discipline emotions; just let their emotions run wild. Until before you knew it, you’d have to have armed policemen, drugsniffing dogs and metal detectors at every school house door.

Within a decade, I’d have prisons overflowing; I’d have judges promoting pornography. Soon I could evict God from the court house, then from the school house, and then from the houses of Congress. And in his own churches I would substitute psychology for religion and deify science. I would lure priests and pastors into misusing boys and girls and church money.

If I were the devil, I’d make the symbol of Easter an egg, and the symbol of Christmas a bottle. If I were the devil, I’d take from those who have and give to those who wanted until I had killed the incentive of the ambitious.

What’ll you bet I couldn’t get whole states to promote gambling as the way to get rich. I would caution against extremes and hard work, in patriotism, in moral conduct. I would convince the young that marriage is old fashioned, that swinging is more fun, that what you see on TV is the way to be, and thus I could undress you in public, and I could lure you into bed with diseases for which there is no cure.

In other words, if I were the devil, I’d just keep right on doing what he’s doing. www.firstagcc.org

Fitness centers reopen to build muscles, lift hopes

GREEN COVE SPRINGS — Steven Kelley's face wrenched and his eyes squinted, only to be replaced by an occasional wince of pain, every time he pulled the elastic band as tight as a banjo string.

Workouts for the Green Cove Springs City Councilman and former mayor are fun again, even if it means sweating and discomfort.

Anytime Fitness manager Minda Solano sprays down one of her treadmills. Each machine is disinfected every hour.

"I'm just happy to get back to normal," he said during his workout at Fitness Anytime at the Cove Plaza. "When you work five or six days a week, this is a nice way to let off some steam."

Kelley, who also owns Spring Park Coffee, was relieved when the restrictions were lifted May 18 for gymnasiums and fitness centers out of caution for COVID-19.

The president gave states the latitude to unlock the doors at fitness centers on May 11, but Gov. Ron DeSantis decided to extend the lockdown for another week to make sure there were significant guidelines to protect residents.

Additional guidelines did little to keep members from pumping iron.

"It's nice to be open again because the community really needed it," said Anytime Fitness manager Minda Solano. "We're all so happy to be back at work. The members have been gracious."

Solano's center has added several layers of precautions. Maximum capacity is limited to 50% and each workout station is separated by at least six feet.

In addition, every member is asked to grab a spray bottle of disinfectant to wipe down every machine after use. When the workout is done, the bottles are dropped off at a different table.

"We disinfect the bottles of disinfectant," Solano said.

Every-other cardiovascular machines like treadmills, stair climbers and ellipticals, are closed to assure social distancing, Solano said. And every machine is wiped down hourly, regardless of use.

Other gyms and fitness centers also have reopened. The Barco-Newman Family and Dye Clay YMCAs turned on the lights last Monday, while facilities like Achieve Fitness Center on Fleming Island also are back in business.

“I had to pull everything out and do the best I could do,” Kelley said. “What takes me 45 minutes here took more than an hour-and-a-half at home. I had to be creative at home.”

Kelley said he doesn’t mind the restrictions. He just wants feel the burn again.

“Whatever procedure, I don’t care,” he said. “Your emotional health is just as important as your physical health. Now that it’s summer, this is as good as it gets.”

Drive-in

pany, Washington Prime Group, partnered with the Arts District to create an outdoor movie-going experience for local viewers.

“This has been an overwhelming experience to be able to provide this to Clay County,” said Randy Bowman, OP Mall General Manager. “To watch people come out with their families and experience drive-ins for the very first time, or for others to bring back memories, people who haven’t gotten out before because they’re still a little bit nervous are coming out to this. It’s a way to bring their families out, and people are having a lot of fun with it.”

The viewers were guided in their vehicles to their spots, which were positioned to maintained social distancing guidelines. Some remained inside their cars for the duration of the films, others got out and sat in folding or lawn chairs. Some with pickup trucks even set up comfortable cushioning in the truck beds and watched from there.

The side of the JC Penney store at the Orange Park Mall was the perfect place to set up a screen and invite people to enjoy the drive-in experience. The mall said movies will continue for another two weekends.

To help augment the experience, some food trucks such as Father’s Heart BBQ, Caveman Shaved Ice, Kona Shaved Ice and Honey Roasted Corn have also been onsite (the mall did not charge them) so that moviegoers could purchase snacks and food.

“The first week was a little slow [in terms of turnout],” said Chelsea Commodari, Marketing Director for the mall. “We have the capacity in the lot with social distancing guidelines for about 250 cars with six feet between each car and the ability for cars to pull out if they need to. The first weekend we saw about 65-75 cars.

The second week we’ve been at about 150.

“We’ve gotten a lot of great feedback from the community. Obviously, it’s a free event. We wanted to do something to bring the community together in a safe way, and I think that this a great opportunity for my generation and younger generations to be able to experience this. It’s very nostalgic, and I think people are really enjoying it, so I’m very happy.”

Former Orange Park High and Liberty University standout football athlete Jacob Hagen smiles while offering defensive skills to Markus Stevens at recent camp action at Walter Odum Park.

Hagen, Plummer, Silberman bringing NFL talk back home

By Ray DiMonda
Correspondent

ORANGE PARK - Three Clay County football standouts returned home from their college and NFL experiences to share (grind) with area athletes the push, shove and sweat of preparing for next level play as county officials contemplate loosening up restrictions on working out and gathering for season preparations.

"Let's be honest," said Orange Park High standout Terrance Plummer, who has been pushing to return to the NFL after a stellar career at the University of Central Florida, some spot duty in the NFL with the Minnesota Vikings and Washington Redskins and even a Grey Cup championship with the Toronto Argonauts in the Canadian Football League. "This is one of the craziest times in America. This Corona Virus took away one half of my season over in the XFL, my buddy Jake (Jacob Hagen) didn't have the opportunity to get back because of quarantine, and right now I can't imagine being a high school kid who has a dream."

Plummer was joined at Bel-Med's Walter Odum Park by former Raider teammate Jacob Hagen, a Liberty University standout with NFL spots with the Pittsburgh Steelers and the St. Louis Rams and an injury-

PLAYERS OF THE YEAR

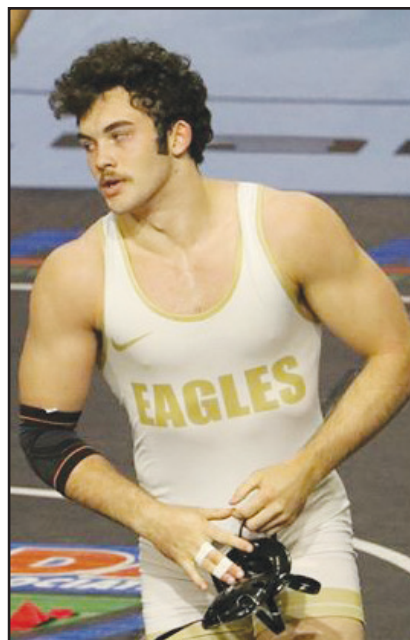

School-by-School excellence

By Randy Lefko
Sports Editor

ORANGE PARK - Fleming Island High senior wrestler Chad Nix suffered his lone loss of the season at a Christmas tournament to an eventual Georgia state champion and then went scorched Earth to his own state title.

Keystone Heights High junior golfer Camille Jackson fulfilled a three year journey of hers not to get to the state golf championship, which she did, but to bring her team with her for the ride.

For their individual excellence that led to team success, Nix and Jackson

Fleming Island High wrestler Chad Nix dominated from December to his state championship with a flurry of first period pins along the way.

are named the Clay Today Male and Female Players of the Year.

For Nix, headed to Campbell University in the expected fall season to continue his wrestling, dominated in the first period spans of his matches that followed his Christmas loss with 40 straight wins including a 3-0 win for the Class 3A title. Nix was third for Fleming Island in his junior year (195) and third for Jensen Beach in Class 2A (195) before coming to Fleming Island.

For Jackson, who has been the most consistent golfer in Clay County for nearly four years since her eighth grade first visit to the Class 1A championship tournament, 2019 was her shot at getting the entire team to the Big Show with her leadership permeating the rest of her team; sister Candace and seniors Sloan Siebert, Ashton Ludwig and Savannah Heinz.

For the rest of the county, the players of the year from each school were chosen by Clay Today Sports Editor Randy Lefko and his sports staff (Ray DiMonda, Doug Deters, Don Long) to have had the best year of sports action for their respective schools

Class 2A, again with an unbeaten record to the final, can return and garner that elusive gold as Lake Highland Prep’s nationally ranked team has excluded itself from Florida state wide post season competition to concentrate on its national prowess.

Aysia Hill

Ridgeview’s girls weightlifting team had its share of success with depth bringing a district title and a region top three finish behind powerhouses Clay and Baker County all on the diminutive shoulders of senior Aysia Hill. Hill, who battled back from a no-show last year because of weight, stormed her season in dramatic style, to finish second in Class 1A at 129 pounds. Hill finished runnerup to Emily Bennett of Arnold, the defending 139 pound state champion who dropped down to 129 for 2019.

Orange Park sprinter Alex Collier did not get a chance to defend his 400 meter state title, but clocked in impressive season times before his season ended.

Orange Park

Alex Collier

The one guy who was not given the chance to make Raider history was Orange Park High senior track sprinter Alex Collier. Collier, the defending 400 meter Class 3A champion, and a third place in the 100 meters last year, was on his way in explosive fashion of being in the mix for a possible double or triple gold medal performance at this year’s state meet with major splits in all three sprints; 100, 200 and 400 coming prior to the season shutdown.

Macie Faucett

For the Lady Raiders, without an injured key player on the court all season, Orange Park High girls basketball team got about as much elbow and knee skid marks on the floor from senior Macie Faucett as one could give up before 911 would be called. Faucett, as aggressive a player on the backline of the Lady Raider volleyball team, was fearless in her chasing of loose balls as she was in launching timely three-pointers for coach Fred Coles.

Middleburg

Chase Carroll

Only a freshman, golfer Chase Carroll had to survive some near-scare final finishes just to get to the state final on his first season, but the younger brother of state champion Cody Carroll, now at University of North Florida, proved that following and watching his big bro’ was as much a learning experience as it was a challenge to surpass. Carroll was three strokes off winning at districts, then went to playoffs to get his ticket to state. At the region meet, Carroll was on top of the leaderboard early, fell back in disastrous form, then regrouped with seven pars and a birdie to earn his state berth. Carroll finished 25th in Class 2A with a tough second round of play proving troublesome.

Britany Range

Middleburg High basketball shooter Britany Range had her mojo going for the Lady Broncos with a flurry of 20-plus point games including two 30-plussers to push the Lady Broncos to a district title and a region playoff berth on top of an upset win over previously-unbeaten University Christian in regular season play. Range also was a major net presence for the Lady Broncos’ volleyball team with a team-leading 251 kills for the season. Range will head to Seton Hall University to continue her basketball in the fall.

Fleming Island

Dean Hyams

Fleming Island senior quarterback Dean Hyams finished a four year career with an unbeaten season and two playoff games.

With Nix nabbing the Clay Today Player of Year, Fleming Island High senior quarterback Dean Hyams is the Fleming Island male player of year after finishing his four-year career with a flurry; an unbeaten regular season, a region playoff win and a near-miss region playoff loss to Niceville High. Hyams, recently signed to Kentucky Wesleyan University (NCAA Div. II), was masterful in his command of close games; Lake Minneola and Fletcher that came down to second half saves and a 17-14 thriller over First Coast. With nearly 2,000 yards passing with seven scores, Hyams was not overwhelming in statistics, but effective in keeping drives moving down-field with his 96.3 quarterback rating, as the Golden Eagles offense was one of the trickiest to defend.

Emma Grimm

Fleming Island’s girls swimming 200 medley relay squad of sisters Sarah and Emma Grimm, Abree Clark and Christine Johnson could be named as a four-man player of year, but breaststroker Emma Grimm provided the damaging leg of the quartet to set the path to the gold medal.

Middleburg High freshman Chase Carroll showed some steely mettle in getting to the golf state tournament via a playoff hole.

Left: Fleming Island’s girls 200 medley relay swim team, led by Emma Grimms’ scintillating breaststroke leg, knocked out a gold medal performance that can get better as all four swimmers return. Center: St. Johns Country Day School sophomore Matthew Stratton predicted “damage” against his foes and delivered with a second in state cross country finish. Right: Keystone Heights junior forward Dean Hogg busted the school’s scoring record and got a region playoff run for the Indians.

The same quarter was second in the 200 free relay as well. Grimm would finish 11th in the 100 breaststroke.

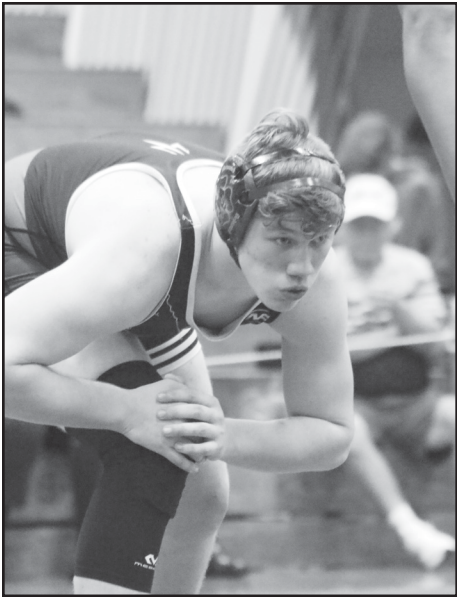

Clay

Garrett Tyre

Just a sophomore, 220 pound wrestler Garrett Tyre got beat up in his early matches; one in particular in Valdosta, but stayed the course to finish fifth in Class 1A in a mild turnaround for the young grappler battling in a tough weight class. Tyre, 47-16 for the year, had season records of 62-5 and 63-3 for his two primary state opponents with his semifinal loss to the eventual two-time state runnerup.

Sara Stotler

For junior swimmer Sara Stotler, swimming fast is common, swimming faster is the goal as the next great Blue Devil swimmer not named Dressel got a second in the 200 individual medley and second in the 100 butterfly, by just .01 second, in a year of speed for all of Class 2A. In both races, Stotler made gallant races in the second half to nearly catch the early leaders. Stotler also lead top 10 finishes in two relays; fourth in 200 medley, eighth in 200 free.

Clay High’s Garrett Tyre had strong turn-around season to get state wrestling medal.

St. Johns Country Day School

Matthew Stratton

When sophomore distance running ace Matthew Stratton predicted “pain” for his opponents for his upcoming cross country and track seasons, most snickered at the youngsters brashness except that Stratton backed it up with performance. A come-from-behind final mile flurry in the Class 1A state race got Stratton second place and one of the fastest times in the state, plus a much-coveted finish ahead of rival Junious Brown of Maclay, a senior headed to Florida State University. Brown won district and region titles over Stratton with some coy gamesmanship by Stratton’s coach, dad Greg, giving Matthew the best finish of the season; 20 seconds faster than Brown’s region split 15:59.95, at the state race.

Paige Crews

As the middle of two standout soccer sisters, Spartan forward Paige Crews had the dilemma of being the learner from the older, the teacher of the younger. With older sis Peyton rocking at Texas Christian University and young sis Paige wearing an ankle boot, Paige took it upon herself to be the distributor of statistics from her center forward/midfielder slot to lead the Lady Spartans to yet another state soccer title; this one number eight in row, in Class 2A. Crews had three scorers under 20 goals, a 24-1 record and a final fifth place national ranking, according to Maxpreps.

Keystone Heights

Dean Hoggs

A school record in soccer goals is Dean Hoggs for this year and could be on the docket when he returns next. The junior scatback for the Indians’ soccer smashed in 47 goals and got the Indians into the region playoffs with two games with five goals and one with four with a handful of multiple goal games throughout the season.

Camryn Williams

With Camille Jackson dominating the golf scene and getting the Clay Today Player of Year nod for girls, junior distance runner Camryn Williams is the Keystone Heights player of year with a superb best-in-county finish; 19:44.58 for 34th in Class 2A, followed by a scintillating early 1600 meter race in the spring as prelude to a possible state meet medal finish if not for the season termination. In her state run, Williams beat two of the three runners that finished ahead of her at the region 2-2A race.

Left: Clay High Sara Stotler sliced to fast finishes in two events for silver medals at the state swim championships. Center: St. Johns Country Day School’s Paige Crews powered Lady Spartans to eighth consecutive title. Right: Keystone Heights High junior Camryn Williams peaked at the right time for best finish at state cross country then doubled up with one of fastest early 1600 meter races in track.

shortened stint in the new American Football League, and Ian Silberman, a Fleming Island High graduate offensive lineman, a University of Florida Gator that finished as a Boston University Terrier before duty in the NFL with the San Francisco 49ers, Oakleaf Raiders, Cleveland Browns, Indianapolis Colts and Carolina Panthers and recent play in the XFL in New York.

“We just want to give back and we have to train ourselves, so why not give a kid an opportunity to have a chance,” said Plummer. “When this virus stuff is over, the guys who come here won’t be behind the 8-ball on those kids who can afford to go to expensive training facilities.”

When the trio got to Odum Field, it was with a passion for preparing at the highest level to be ready to compete for a starting position.

“Our motto and name will be Roll Dogs,” said Hagen, noting Roll Dog is a noun meaning a good friend or best friend. “I grew up with TP (Plummer) and coaching is something we want to get into later in our lives. Why not start some of that now? Roll Dogs, any time, anywhere, throw us in there; it’s a mentality.”

The Plummer/Hagen duo developed a plan. One or two days a week, Plummer texts the group the day, and they meet up at a local park.

On Saturday, Plummer and Hagen brought out some basic equipment, cones, a running ladder, and of course some music, then began to run the group through professional and D-1 college level drills.

It’s not just about football either, said Hagen, who wants to express the role of young athletes as leaders and roll models. Both Hagen and Plummer have concern over young folks making mistakes with their lives on social media.

Orange Park High football standout Terrance Plummer, also a Fiesta Bowl defensive most valuable player and an NFL player, shows some defensive hand work during drills at the Walter Odum Park workouts that he and Raider teammate Jacob Hagen have been offering to local athletes.

“You’re not going to college to play ball unless you’re a leader,” said Plummer, the Defensive Most Valuable Player for UCF’s 2014 Tostitos Fiesta Bowl win over Baylor along with Offensive MVP Blake Bortles, a former Jacksonville Jaguar quarterback. “Coaches want players coming to the program that provide something besides just good talent. If they are clowning around and acting the fool, it’s not the way. Look at Tom Brady, Ed Reeves, they don’t care what people say about them and they are always leaders.”

“Where else are you going to push yourself this hard, then when you are done, you can lean on the shoulder of a former NFL player?,” said Hagen. “They are not only going to help you, they’ll hold you up when you need it.”

On the field, the pros were not just barking out what to do. All of them going 100 percent on every drill, then encouraging all the players to follow.

Silberman admitted his last month or so was just sitting on the couch and surfing social media before seeing his former cross-town rivals posts.

“You no what, and it’s no disrespect, but I heard about it through the digital grapevine,” said Silberman. “I just wanted to come out here and see how I can help.”

Silberman seemed right at home after warm-ups, pulling a young student lineman to the side and personally tutoring him for over an hour.

“He came out here with a willingness to workk,” said Silberman. “If someone comes out here and wants to put in the work, I’m going to workout with them and try to get them better then he was when he came. He was here, had his mind right, worked hard and I hope he learned some things. Like all of us, the quarantine has us in less than perfect shape. But getting out here will make us all better.”

Silberman was hitting it hard; “I haven’t been in a gym since the XFL closed down” and getting a really good sweat going. When he missed a step, just like everyone out there, he dropped and knocked out his pushups.

“It doesn’t make any sense to sit on the side and just tell them what to do,” said Silberman. “It’s one thing to tell somebody how to do a drill, it’s another to watch them do it full speed and then break it down for you. It’s making all of us better.”

After a full 90 minutes in searing heat and even some rain, Plummer brought it all home with his closing remarks.

“Why not create the atmosphere, we know, that it takes to get to the next level,” said Plummer. “We want our city, our counties to be that much better. Clay, Duval, St. Johns, the whole Jacksonville area has always been a hot bed of talent. I don’t know to many guys that made it to our level, that have given it back to the kids. We’re all Roll Dogs.”

For more information on the workouts, contact either Terrence Plummer or Jacob Hagen through Social Media via Twitter, Facebook, or Instagram.

Area runners take the Miles de Mayo Challenge

By Randy Lefko
Sports Editor

FLEMING ISLAND - With all running races stopped after the Gate River Run 15K for the Coronavirus shutdown, area runners have taken to competing in a hi-tech way; the Miles de Mayo Challenge, a virtual challenge.

"The world shut down after the River Run," said Jacqueline Kroggel, a Fleming Island runner and also a swim coach at Fleming Island High School. "We have to find ways to blow off some energy."

Just past the midway point of May, Fleming Island's Pavement Killers run group's Cinzia Rothrock was up at 5 a.m. to meet her fellow runners; Vanessa Lain, Jacqueline Kroggel, Jennifer Otero (with husband Chris), Tracy Pfuntner and Millie Thrasher. All showed up at Eagle Harbor's Tennis Club facility with APP-equipped cell phones and Garmin GPS devices ready to add to their monthly challenge; the Deland-based Miles de Mayo Challenge.

"I have almost 150 miles with my goal at 200," said Rothrock. "I'm not sure how it started. Pretty much, we do it on our own, take a screen shot of your GPS, then email that information with your bib number to the host." Rothrock noted there is a male runner who has accumulate nearly 40 miles a day since his start with a commanding 600-plus miles.

For the rest of May 2020, a handful of area road runners will be armed with their GPS and APPs to take on the same effort in a virtual challenge called Miles de Mayo Challenge. Based on Deland, the Miles de Mayo Challenge features a month long mileage challenge (run, run/walk, walk).

"I don't think they expected as many people to log on to their idea," said Rothrock. "I think it's like 1800 people now."

Dan Matuszczak, one of the co-owners for Red Pointer Productions, who anticipated 500 participants, the overwhelming response required a rapid response tech team to keep things running smoothly.

"Yeah there were definitely snags that we had to quickly realize and manage on the go," said Matuszczak. "There really wasn't any software on the shelf ready for this kind of virtual challenge so we had to plan for the unknown. The first day we had so much action on the leaderboard and data entry that it basically crashed. We had to act quick and get another one build and functioning in a couple hours that could handle it all. We have a team behind the scenes entering in the mile submissions basically around the clock."

For the group and for Lain and her friends, the element of competition that has been missing since the nation has been staying at home has added to the vast interest. "Our last race was the Gate River Run 15K in Jacksonville in March," said Lain. "Because I'm working at home, I have to get out at 4-5 a.m. to get my miles in so I can start work about 8 a.m. I have a group to run with in Ponce Inlet also."

On the Miles de Mayo Challenge Leaderboard (May 22), updated every five minutes with runners entries, the top total is 687.47 miles with two other runners above 600 miles.

From the Eagle Harbor group, Lain is in ninth place with 361.4 miles with double digit totals near 20 miles; 10.5 to a top day of 20.2 on May 19. Pfuntner is at 254.76 with Kroggel at 244.2, Thrasher is at 217.66. Rothrock has 142.66 miles. Chris Otero at 91.87. Jen Otero is at 78.17 with son Colton at 47.93.

"The challenge is a good way to just get out of the house," said Kroggel, who has three children to tend to in her house. "They have actually been pretty good at reminding me when I have to go run."

For the end game, most of the runners were pushing their totals for a coveted 300 mile T-Shirt.

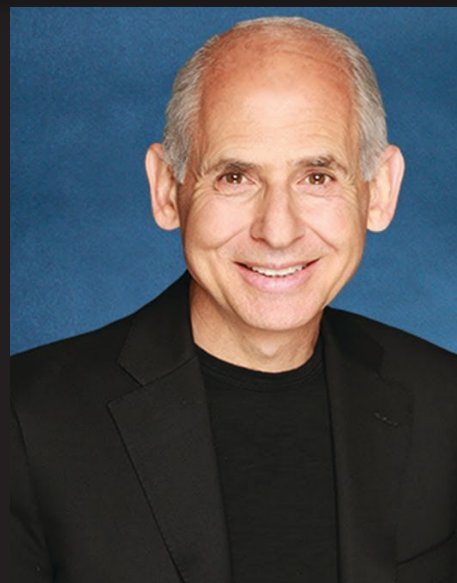

"The shirts go every 50 miles with the 300 the big one," said Kroggel. "With the River Run the final race before they shut down the world, this is our release."

For the Oteros, who have roped son Colton into the challenge, it's a family together incentive.

"We have him in on it and he has to do three miles every day," said Jennifer Otero. "We go with him, take the dog and make a trip of it."
