Growth and maintaining quality of life was on the mind of every candidate.

"I love the small-town atmosphere and I think we can keep the small-town attitude," he said. "It's a community where everybody gets to know everybody. I would like it to be easier to solicit more business into our town."

With present and future growth in the city, Stutts stressed maintaining the town's history and monitoring the impact of the

"I don't want to lose the history and I think the majority of residents feel that way," Stutts said.

"We don't want to come in and rebuild the town into something we don't recognize. I don't believe growth is bad. You have to balance it."

The council is guaranteed to see a new council member in the race between businessman Ken Mudge and former Green Cove Springs Police Department officer Thomas Michael Smith.

Bill that established elections crimes unit moves to Florida House floor

By Tristan Wood For FloridaPolitics.com

A bill establishing an election crimes investigations unit, banning ranked-choice voting, and requesting a study to look into changes to vote-by-mail forms passed its final House committee Monday.

HB 7061, sponsored by Republican Rep. Daniel Perez, passed the House Appropriations Committee along party lines. The legislation, which emerged from the House Public Integrity and Elections Committee earlier this month, contains several of Gov. Ron DeSantis' "election integrity" priorities.

An amendment to the bill during the meeting made it almost identical to SB 524, which passed its final committee last Thursday. The amendment asks supervisors of elections to maintain voter roll lists annually instead of every two years, one of DeSantis' requests.

It also removed a section requiring the last four digits of a voter's Social Security number, driver's license or photo ID on vote-by-mail ballots. The amendment also adds a fine to organizations if a person collecting voter applications on its behalf changes someone's party affiliation without consent. The fine is $1,000 per altered application.

However, one difference between the House and Senate versions exists. The House version would erase from state law a provision prohibiting poll workers from asking voters to provide additional information or to recite their home address when presenting their ID.

Abdelilah Skhir, a voting rights policy strategist for the ACLU of Florida, said during public comment that the legislation was a solution in search of a problem. He said that people are already being caught for voter fraud under current laws and adding investigators in the executive branch without in-statute protections could lead to partisan issues in the department.

"Individuals who broke the law were caught and held accountable for their misdeed," Skhir said. "We have real needs to address in Florida and this is not one of them."

During Monday's meeting, criticism from Democrats focused on forming the investigations unit and concerns that a part of the bill that makes ballot harvesting a third-degree felony could harm people who turn in ballots for family and friends without being aware of the law.

Bill pushing public notices to county website heads to House floor

By Tristan Wood

For FloridaPolitics.com

he House took up a bill last week that would roll back a deal in last year's public notice legislation, allowing counties to publish those notices on a county website.

HB 7049, sponsored by Republican Rep. Randy Fine (Melbourne Beach), would give governmental agencies the option to publish public notices on a publicly accessible website of a county the notice takes place in instead of in a print newspaper.

Last year's bill removed a long-standing rule requiring notices to exclusively appear in subscription-rich newspapers and allowed notices to be published online in addition to a local newspaper. The 2021 bill sought to remove the newspaper requirement altogether. However, lawmakers and the Florida Press Association hammered out a deal to allow governments to continue posting notices in newspapers as well as on the Florida Press Association website.

This year's bill undoes that requirement, allowing notices to be published on "a publicly accessible website of a county."

On the House floor Tuesday, Fine said the legislation is meant to end what he called government subsidies to newspapers through the requirement, instead giving businesses options as to where they post their public notices.

"It's simply creating options for folks to get better distributions at a lower cost," Fine said.

The bill also tries to take into account counties and people with limited internet access that could be impacted by the change to digital. It requires local govFine's attempt to move public notices away from newspapers started shortly after the Florida Today in Melbourne posted a 2018 column "Rep. Randy Fine's bullying of local leaders is bad for Brevard County."

ernments and governmental agencies to buy an ad once a year in a publication "delivered to all residents and property owners throughout the government's jurisdiction" letting them know that they can register to receive public notices by email or mail. They will then send legally required advertisements and public notices to all those that opt in to receiving them in that way.

Additionally, the bill requires a governmental agency located in a county with a population fewer than 160,000 to first hold a public hearing to determine that its residents have sufficient access to the internet before transitioning their notices to the county website.

The bill now awaits third reading on the House floor.

From Clay Today:

The legislation includes the advertisement of public notices – things like sheriff's auctions, debt notices, foreclosures or court actions. Public notices in Clay County have been an important source of information provided by Clay Today for decades. Fine also said newspapers were from a bygone era.

"We disagree with Rep. Fine's assertion that print newspapers are no longer an important vehicle for local information," said Clay Today Publisher and FPA Board Chairman Jon Cantrell. "Clay

Rep. Fentrice Driskell said the punishment could be a cost not worth the offense to the taxpayers, as it costs $100,000 to imprison someone for five years, the maximum prison time under a third-degree felony.

"That's not something to make light of," Driskell said. "Is it really that we want to punish someone for five years for trying to help people vote? It's problematic."

Rep. Ben Diamond said the legislation is not necessary because DeSantis and election officials called the 2020 Florida election the gold standard.

"My concern, very candidly, is we are making this change not based on data, not based on information, but based on politics and to fuel political points. This is not a good place to be as a legislature," Diamond said.

Perez said exceptions to the ballot harvesting law, like for family members, would limit how the punishment hike could harm good actors.

He also said he had a list of convicted election fraud cases in the state that demonstrates there is a problem that adding the investigations unit would solve. When Driskell and other legislators asked him how many cases were on the list and what they involved, he declined to cite them or provide a total number, but offered to meet with them after the committee meeting.

Perez also pushed back against claims that the legislation would limit people's right to vote.

"I am pretty certain there is not one person in this room or in this state that can say they wanted to vote, but the laws of this state did not allow (them) to do so," Perez argued.

The legislation's next stop is the House floor.

Fine said Florida taxpayers spend about $200 million a year advertising in county publications.

He didn't say how much it would cost for counties to create, collect and post public notices on their websites, or how much it would cost to print and mail notices.

Fine's attempt to move public notices away from newspapers started shortly after the Florida Today in Melbourne posted a 2018 column "Rep. Randy Fine's bullying of local leaders is bad for Brevard County."

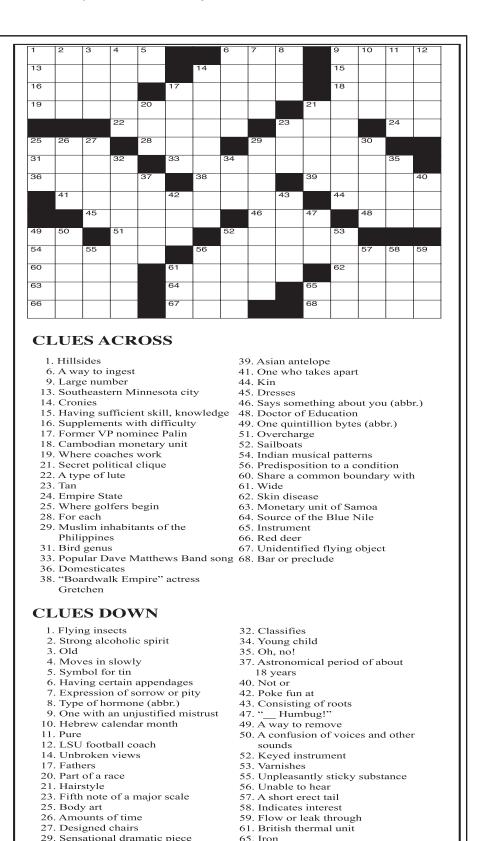

The editorial board of local newspaper Florida Today has criticized Fine's per-

Fine, along with Sen. Dennis Baxley (R-Ocala), started his campaign against local newspapers less than a year later.

Soon-to-be Eagle Scout's project helps former elementary school

By Nick Blank

FLEMING ISLAND – An eighth-grader's final Eagle Scout project will benefit her former school.

Amelia Hart attends Orange Park Junior High and spent seven years at Fleming Island Elementary. She wanted to give back by building two benches and two picnic tables with shade at the school's playground.

She looked over her work on a hot Saturday afternoon.

"There's no seating whatsoever, so the teachers have to stand. If kids don't play, they have to stand," Hart said.

Hart added she met with school officials in November to gauge their interest. She said the labor took about two hours to complete and everything was installed Saturday.

Becoming an Eagle Scout is not an easy task with acquiring the merit badges and submitting the proposal. All Hart needs to finalize is meet with a board of review and complete some paperwork.

"It's a long process, but it is worth it," she said.

Hart tied for first place in the Earth and Environmental Sciences category at the Clay County Science Fair and she's going to the state championship for the History Fair. She also participates in school and county soccer teams. Hart said her drive comes from a love of competition.

"In soccer, I'm trying to beat the other team. All the other stuff is competitive. It helps if your friends are in it," Hart said. "Scouts is more of a team thing."

Hart's mother, Stephanie Boccieri, said Hart's older brother was an Eagle Scout. Boccieri was proud of Hart and said the project is about coming full circle for her daughter.

"She's just dedicated. She follows through and is a go-getter," Boccieri said. "When Eagle Scout was on the table, she was going to do it."

Troop 892 is based out of Fleming Island. Scoutmaster Kerry Clark said Hart filled a need in the community. Clark said Eagle Scout projects can get chaotic, but Hart has been organized.

Clark also joked that with Hart becoming an Eagle Scout so young, she can be a mentor for the next four years.

"It's good. You gave back to a place that nurtured you," Clark told Hart Saturday. "You took your time and nurtured the kids behind you."

"The school is near and dear to my heart," Hart added. "I love this school."

Author addresses group on challenge of Parkinson's Disease

By Nick Blank nick@claytodayonline.com

ORANGE PARK – Greg Ritscher remembers his morning appointment in April of 2011, a life shattering event for the self-described "warlord of commerce" then in his mid-50s.

He was told he had Parkinson's Disease, a neurodegenerative disorder impacting the nervous system, which affects millions of people around the world. It has no known cause of cure.

"I was facing south in (Denver's) Swedish Medical Center in Suite 510 when I heard the words, 'You have Parkinson's,'" Ritscher said. "That changed the course for the rest of my life."

Ritscher's experience spurred him to write "Rising Above Parkinson's" and he spoke to about 30 people at the Orange Park Library Saturday afternoon, recalling his adversity and motivations, offering encouragement and providing tips for adjusting with the disease.

He said there are about 40 types of the disease. The symptoms range from tremors, muscle rigidity, fatigue, constipation, lack of smell and difficulty speaking.

Quoting Mike Tyson, "Art of War" author Sun Tzu and referring to the parable of Noah, Ritscher said his goal is instilling control and ownership of the disease, learning its origins, understanding the disease's reach and enduring it.

Greg Ritscher used his book "Rising Above Parkinson's" to about 30 people at the OP Library.

"Parkinson's is the club you never wanted to join, but once you're in the club, let's have fun," he said.

He broke down the history of the disease, more than 200 years of scientists building on each other's work. English doctor James Parkinson identified the disease in the 1820s and French neurologist Jean-Martin Charcot discovered the disease was neurological. Future findings emphasized the importance of dopamine with the disease. The disease causes cells to die off and creates a dopamine deficit, which impacts motor functions. Ritscher compared the disease to moving trash around a house without taking it out.

Ritscher, now based in Florida, said he's comfortable with being an ambassador for Parkinson's, unafraid to talk about the disease's uncomfortable aspects such as drooling and constipation. He said he didn't want to be a victim and the disease gives people a chance at reflection.

He reached out to family and friends and asked how they thought the disease affected him.

"To a person, they said I was a kinder, gentler person ... much more approachable," he said, taking a long pause. "When you live your life to become an ambassador of the disease, the only way the old normal can go away is the new has to emerge, just as the plants and nature, how that works."

To encourage the audience, he joked about his heavy use of acronyms such as Future Expectations Appear Real (FEAR) or Control, Ownership, Origin, Reach and Endurance (C.O.O.R.E). He spoke on the "Noah Principle," where a person in a time of crisis can't predict rain, but they can build an ark. He deconstructed the phrase "Opportunity Nowhere," which can be split into "Opportunity Now Here."

"The exact same letters in the exact same language, in the exact same order," he said. "... A totally different life, the only difference is that space right there."

Socializing and exercising are the key, Ritscher added. Long-term goals are also important to keep going. For Ritscher, the aim is walking his granddaughter down the aisle. He said he writes letters to her when the disease is impacting his sleep.

"That's probably 20 years away," he said. "That's a long time with Parkinson's, but if anyone can do it, it's me."

Clay High's Class of '01 honors late teacher with donation

By Nick Blank nick@claytodayonline.com

GREEN COVE SPRINGS – A former Clay High School graduating class stepped up to the plate with this year's donation to the Claire McCool Memorial Scholarship Foundation. McCool was a long-time math teacher at the school and died of cancer in 2017. She was 62.

Instructors Julie Breindel-Hill and Olivia Sweat were good friends of McCool. They said the scholarship helps two to four students with about $1,000-$2,500. And this year, the class of 2001 is donating $2,001.

"We're surprised every year," Breindel-Hill said of finding sponsors.

Nicole Sanders is a member of the school's graduating class of 2001. COV-ID-19 canceled two potential 20-year class reunions. Former student Thea Berns recommended McCool's scholarship, Sanders said.

"We asked everyone to donate part of their ticket and most people said yes.

Members of the graduating class of 2001 presented a check for $2,001 to the Claire McCool Memorial Scholarship fund at Clay High.

That's how we got $2,001," Sanders said. "Everyone knew Miss McCool."

Breindel-Hill said McCool coached a few sports and attended as many games as she could. Breindel-Hill described McCool as energetic, kind and keen to keep track of students after they graduated.

"She tried to keep kids out of trouble. She tried to cheer them on," Breindel-Hill said. "People would often refer to her as the greatest cheerleader for the students."

McCool had two large blue chairs in her room where students could relax. She was a confidant for students, Breindel-Hill said.

"People could come to her classroom and tell you their woes or share things about their lives, they would sit there and talk with her," Breindel-Hill said.

"She was always smiling," Sanders recalled. "I can see her smiling right now, coming down the hall."

Sweat said McCool had two children who attended Clay High and a classroom decorated with Florida Gators items. She said McCool always had nicknames for students and was a shoulder to lean on.

"She was so good with students that were going through something hard," Sweat said. "She would take that time to pull them aside to talk to them, to just really be a mentor to them."

When Sanders was about to leave, Sweat gave her a hug.

"We're glad you did that," Sweat told her.

Kids First of Florida selects LaRosa at its CEO

For Clay Today

MIDDLEBURG – The board of directors at Kids First of Florida has selected Sal LaRosa as Chief Executive Officer for the nonprofit agency. The organization serves child welfare and adoptive services in Clay County.

LaRosa comes to the agency with extensive experience in child welfare, most recently serving as an Associate Director at Daniel Memorial, a nonprofit child services organization in Duval County. He started at Kids First in early February and has been meeting with staff and becoming oriented to the system of care the agency provides in Clay County.

"I have a passion for working with children and helping them during times of crisis and change," LaRosa said. "I am looking forward to working with the talented and dedicated staff here at Kids First."

At Daniel, LaRosa supervised all daily activity of the Family Service Counselors and Supervisors including caseloads, court functions, training, scheduling, and more. Prior to his work at Daniel, LaRosa served as Dean of Discipline at Charter Schools USA and is served in the United States Navy. He holds a Bachelors degree in Psychology and a Masters degree in Business Administration. Irene Toto, who has been the Chief Executive Officer for both Kids First of Florida and Clay Behavioral Health Center for 16 years, said she is excited about the addition of a new CEO at Kids First.

"The two agencies have grown over the past several years, and it is time that each agency had its own CEO," Toto said. "I am excited about this next chapter for all of us and believe that there is much success ahead for KFF, our valued partners and, of course, for the children and families that we serve. This will make our system of care in Clay County even stronger."

Kids First will soon be scheduling meetings for adoptive and foster families and other community stakeholders to meet with the new CEO.

Kids First of Florida is a communitybased nonprofit agency that provides child welfare and foster care services in Clay County. There are currently more than 450 children under care at Kids First of Florida. Clay Behavioral Health Center provides mental health and substance abuse disorder counseling and treatment to adults, teens, children and families in Clay County. Last year, the agency served about 4,200 clients at six locations.

Clay Electric lineworkers win at Lineman Competition

FORT PIERCE – Clay Electric lineworkers won first place in the crossarm change out event at the annual Florida Lineman Competition last weekend, beating competitors from across the state.

The team, consisting of David Poncher, Lee Lambert and Joel Baker, took third place overall in the Journeyman Team Competition.

Clay's apprentice lineworkers, Craig

Smith and Gaige Griffis, also did well. Smith took second place overall and Griffis placed fourth. Smith took home two other trophies, one for placing second in the hurtman rescue and one for placing third in the running angle poly bell change out event.

The annual competition brings electric lineworkers from all over the state together to demonstrate their skill and knowledge in the craft of line work. Competitors took on various challenges, such as replacing crossarms and insulators on utility poles, changing out transformers and completing a simulation of rescuing injured lineworkers. Competitors earned points for completing the tasks as quickly as possible and lost points if safety standards and proper work practices were not followed. Journeyman teams, which include at least one lineworker who has been in the industry for five years or more, are made up of three lineworkers. Apprentices compete individually.

Six apprentice Clay Electric lineworkers and one journeyman team took part in the competition. In all, 20 journeyman linemen teams – totaling 65 journeyman competitors, 72 apprentices and 43 judges from 11 utilities participated.

By Natalie Gilstrap For Clay Today

KEYSTONE HEIGHTS - Genesis Fitness is celebrating 21 years of business. Owner Todd Sigmon started his business because of his love for sports and athletic activities. 'From an early age, I have always sort of been into sports and athletics and just had a passion for those kind of things," he said

He figured that starting a gym would be a good way to work since he would be doing what he loves.

Genesis Fitness provides a variety of equipment for its members. Treadmills, ellipticals and weights are just a few of the equipment available in the gym. In addition, Genesis Fitness provides classes such as Yoga, Silver Sneakers for seniors, Hip Hop Fitness. Core. Cardio and Pilates with instructors on hand. The gym also offers a social hub which has been a positive influence in Keystone.

"I do kind of see the gym as not only a place where you can get healthy and improve the quality of your life, but also develop friendships," Todd said. "There is a camaraderie that comes along with going to a gym and kind of learning everybody's name just getting to know each other."

Recently Genesis Fitness has seen an increase of members returning back to the gym.

"Certainly in the last six months or so I've see a pretty dramatic return to a sort of pre-pandemic membership totals," Todd said.

He said in 2020, COVID kept his older members away and the business saw a dramatic drop in memberships.

CORRESPONDENT PHOTO BY NATALIE GILSTRAP Although the pandemic led some to online workouts, Genesis owner Todd Sigmon said there' always will be a a need for personalized training at a gym

"Obviously in 2020 with COVID we saw fairly dramatic drop. Approximately about 20% of our membership are 65 and older. For good reason, they stayed away. Some have come back, a lot have not.

With the introduction to technology, owners who are in the same business as Todd have faced other challenges besides COVID. The introduction of computers has changed the way gyms do business and home fitness programs have made exercising at home readily available. However, Todd says that gyms will always be around.

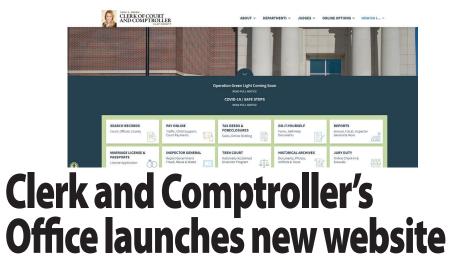

"I think there's always going to be a place for gyms because of the social component," he said.

Todd loves his job and offers advice for possible new business owners.

"For new business owners mainly, understand that there will be set backs and there will be pit falls that you encounter along the way," he said. "Don't get discouraged.

Believe in what you have to offer. Believe in vourself and try to remember two important rules in business. No. 1, the customer is always right and No. 2, when the costumer is wrong see rule No. 1.'

Orange Park council debates front yard parking

By Nick Blank

nick@claytodayonline.com

Green Cove

ORANGE PARK – Town council members addressed aesthetics vs. the property rights when it comes to how people park in their front yards.

In a short 75-minute meeting Tuesday night, the council moved the item to the Planning and Zoning Committee to find the best option.

It began with Town Manager Sarah Campbell telling the board the town prohibits parking in front lawns, but nothing in code prevents expanding driveways. She presented examples of residents using gravel or pavers to extend driveways, saying they were "legally circumventing" the town's ordinances. "If you'd like to set a certain direction you'd like to see, or you'd like this to be discussed by the Planning and Zoning Board in any way ... we're happy to work with you on whatever you're thinking," Campbell said.

Vice-Mayor Eddie Henley said the homeowners are in compliance at the moment. He said it may be an improvement for residents to repair driveways in some cases and asked if the issue was an epidemic or just a small sample.

"Someone who decided they wanted to expand and resurface what's there, it definitely would be a significant improvement for the town," Henley said.

Campbell added this is a minor issue in the grand scheme of things, but there is no prohibition against someone paving their front vard, which raises the question about minimum green space requirements for front yards.

"Some of it is based on the current culture of our town. If we lived in Arizona, no we wouldn't be having this conversation," she said. "There is no grass in front yards, everything is paved, or rock or gravel. It really is up to the council."

Council Member Susana Thompson asked if vehicles in front yards impacted the ability of emergency workers to do their jobs on calls. Council Member John Hauber warned about driveways turning into junkyards. He asked for people to show respect for one another and wanted the solution to be equitable for both sides.

"I'm all for the rights of the property owners, but with some people taking advantage of the situation, where do we draw the line?" he asked. "That's what it really boils down to."

Moving the matter to the Planning and Zoning Board was approved with a 5-0 vote.

Heights Junior-Senior High, based his candidacy off of working for the business community and his displeasure with some of the city's COVID-19 policies, he said.

"With the right leadership, I think the future is great if we do the right things and get small businesses here," Mudge added. "We need to continue to promote small business.'

Mudge said he grew up in Orange Park, but he grew to love Green Cove Springs. He called for measured and responsible growth. He said he has some concerns with possible changes to city's downtown and said he would try to target wasteful spending if elected.

"We can continue the growth, but we want to have sensible growth for the small town we have and love here," Mudge said.

Smith, a 2005 Clay High School graduate, said he has a public servant mentality. He's worked for GCSPD and the Clay County Sheriff's Office.

"I really wanted to serve the community in a different form," Smith said. "I love the quality of life and want to preserve the quality of life."

One of Smith's platforms is growth with a purpose. That means being smart about what direction the city chooses to head in, he said. He highlighted incentives for businesses and families as well as bolstering and improving the city's infrastructure.

"It's about giving small businesses freedom." Smith said. "For me, the biggest thing is getting the infrastructure in place, the parking, roadways and traffic." Super Tuesday is April 12.

Penney Farms christens new historic museum

By Nick Blank nick@claytodayonline.com

PENNEY FARMS – At a ceremony last week, town and Clay County officials opened the Penney Farms Historic Museum for business.

The museum is in the former Penney Farms Volunteer Fire Department building on Clark Avenue. The fire station closed in 2011. The museum stores founder J.C. Penney's efforts to bring homesteaders from other parts of the country to the farm and their lives once they settled and items they used.

Last fall, some of the items were on the floor, in boxes or on tables for a soft opening, but as the crowd passed through last week, old pictures, ledgers, tools and clothes adorned the walls. A large aerial still photo of the town in the late-1920s shows the houses on an orderly grid. There is a section of the museum dedicated to New Hope, a nearby Black community.

"We got it done," Penney Farms Grant Writer Cathie Parrott said.

The Rev. Mark Davies told the crowd the building is a testament of what a previous generation has done for the future. He referenced Penney's Golden Rule stores and what they stood for.

"May all who enter it explore its memories and strengthen their resolve for our children and grandchildren like what our mothers and fathers have done for us," Davies said.

Town Manager David Cooper said the county, town council and private donations completed the project.

"I hope when you enter this museum you see the efforts made, enjoy the displays and take part of the town of Penney Farms with you when you leave," Cooper said. County Commissioner Mike Cella lauded the efforts of County Tourism Development Director Kimberley Morgan. He repeated Penney's saying, "I do not believe in excuses. I believe in hard work as the prime solvent of life's problems."

"I can tell you David Cooper and Cathie Parrott are the personification of that quote," Cella said.

Former County Commissioner Gayward Hendry sang "Amazing Grace." He said museums are important because they remind people where they come from.

"It's a place to give historical perspective, when otherwise we're just floating around on the water," Hendry said.

County Commissioner Kristen Burke said the museum was an excellent opportunity to teach younger generations. County Manager Howard Wanamaker said the town has stayed true to Penney's vision.

"We think it's very important we recognize that and celebrate this historic museum," Wanamaker said.

GCS City Council fortifies its downtown designation

By Don Coble don@claytodayonline.com

GREEN COVE SPRINGS – The City Council better defined businesses that will need to apply for temporary permits or for special exemptions during its meeting Tuesday night to enhance the downtown area ahead of its ambitious 2045 Comprehensive Plan.

Outdoor storage, trade contractors with fleet parking, laundromats, brewpubs, vape, cigar and smoke shops and pawn shops all will operate with special exemptions, which means it can operate without zoning restrictions as long as it promotes the public health, safety, welfare, morals, order, comfort, convenience, appearance, prosperity or general welfare of the location, according to the city's planning and zoning director, Mike Daniels. Exemptions are granted by the Planning and Zoning Commission.

Multi-family units will operate with a permit, which requires approval by elected or appointed officials.

The change to the downtown business district also allows some to do business on the sidewalk, as long as they allow for any people in today's culture will claim that God is silent. I assure you, that couldn't be further from the truth! We've either forgotten how to listen or aren't sure how to do it.

Jeremiah 33:3: "Call to me and I will answer you and tell you great and unsearchable things you do not know."

Through the prophet Jeremiah, God clearly says that if we call to Him, He will answer. Never doubt God's earnest desire to speak truth, love, and power into your heart. He longs to fill you with good things and empower you in life. His guidance can take you from where you are to where you are destined to be.

Never doubt God's earnest desire to speak truth, love, and power into your heart. He longs to fill you with good things and empower you in life.

But how do we hear God's voice? How do we know when God is speaking to us?

It starts in your prayer time and reading of scripture. During those times, make time to listen. We tend to fill up time in our daily devotion with a lot of reading or a lot of words. But it's important to also take time to just be in the Lord's presence and listen for His voice.

My wife has a plaque in her office, it was given to me, and I gave it to her. It simply says, "Be Still". It's a great reminder of this scriptural teaching.

Psalm 46:10 says, "Be still and know I am God". In the simplicity of those words. you find an important element of hearing the voice of God.

Imagine a conversation we have with anyone else. If they are speaking to us but we are doing something else and not listening, we miss the primary thought they are trying to convey. It's the same way in our times of prayer and reading scripture in our devotions. If we don't take time and be still during these practices, we'll never hear the Lord speak in our life.

Commit to taking the time to listen to the Lord. Try to recognize His presence in every area of your life. Invite Him into your everyday routine. When you do, you can rest assured He'll show up. The main thing we can do is make time to listen, and God will speak incredible things into your life.

Evil Woman-The American ELO electrifies Thrasher-Horne

By Kathleen Chambless For Clay Today

ORANGE PARK – With all of the fantastic performers playing the Thrasher-Horne Center it can be hard to pick which shows to attend, or favorite shows you've been to. Evil Woman-The American ELO checks both of those boxes.

For fans of the hit English band of the '70s, this show hit every expectation. Lead singer Kevin Fafard embodies Jeff Lynne to a T. and when alongside vocalist Rebecca Catalona the songs became near perfect renditions. With the incredible musical talents of their very own orchestra section led by violinist Nancy Crockford, hit songs like "Don't Bring Me Down" and "Mr. Blue Sky" were lovingly performed for their audience of thrilled Electric Light Orchestra enthusiasts.

Musical director Nigel Holland introduced songs with fanfare, the first half featuring some of ELO's most iconic songs. While the band shone when it played all together, the periodic spotlights on each of the elements really allowed the members to do what they did best. The piano and keyboard combined in "Living Thing" and a violin solo brought the song to life.

Though the first act focused mainly on ELO's most popular songs, the band also threw in a few of their own favorites into the setlist. "Jungle" was a favorite among the group, and with a heavy drumline that kept the audience nodding in time, it likely became a few others new favorite as well. "Evil Woman", the band's namesake drew an ovation at the end and blew our expectations out of the water.

The second half began with fanfare as the group launched into "Can't Get it Out of My Head".

Songs like "Showdown," "Sweet Talkin' Woman" and "Last Train to London" only solidified the feeling that this concert was something special. For so many, this music defined their childhood, and despite the years, it defined mine as well.

"Strange Magic," has always been one of my favorite songs. Hearing it in concert performed with the synthesizers and bass it deserved, after so long of hearing it on the radio or mixed in with other songs on my playlists was an experience I'll hold as closely as some of my older peers in the crowd.

I have always been a fan of Electric Light Orchestra, call it good genes, but I admit some of the songs played during the second half were new to me. Because of that, however, it almost felt like attending

Ricky Nelson Remembered

Twin sons to celebrate their father's legendary music at Thrasher-Horne

By Kathleen Chambless For Clay Today

ORANGE PARK – When you hear the name Nelson, one family shines brightly. With The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet, Ricky Nelson and NELSON, the dynasty is ranked by the Guinness book of world records as the only family with three generations of hitmakers.

Thhe legacy continues as Matthew and Gunnar Nelson twin sons of the late Ricky Nelson bring a show to the Thrasher-Horne Center of the Arts on March 10 that celebrates their father's music and his impact on the world.

Ricky Nelson Remembered is a multimedia performance that combines music with storytelling to share the history of the iconic musician to old and new fans alike, Matthew Nelson shed some light on the show and some of the stories they have in an interview with Clay Today last week.

"We have the benefit of his entire life being documented on film ... the show was put together for all of our fans who would ask us to play some of the stuff that our dad wrote. It seemed better to do a whole show rather than a few songs and an anecdote," Matthew said.

Ricky Nelson got his start as a voice actor on the radio, but he was known for a long time as a comedy actor.

"His audience watched him grow up on television. Ricky was an introvert, Elvis was an extrovert, so a lot of kids related to him for that," Matthew said.

Much of the work that he had to over-

Twins Matthew and Gunnar Nelson will play the music and tell stories of their father, Ricky Nelson, on March 10 at the Thrasher-Horne Center in Orange Park.

"It was like critics had to admit that he had all of this talent going for him as a musician. It was like them having to admit that the head cheerleader has a brain." the son continued. So much of Nelson's life was spent trying to be what other people wanted him to be and acting the way others expected of him - something Matthew remembers well.

"There are so many changes he went through that mirror how so many people's lives changed as time passes. It sort of gives you a better understanding of who he was as a guy, not just as this overachieving musician and this spectacularly beautiful person," he said.

For Matthew and Gunnar, their family was their everything. "We didn't know celebrity. To us, they were just our family. Growing up as a kid in the '60s in Hollywood, you were surrounded by that," Matthew said.

With family and friends as successful as they were, it only follows that the Nelson twins have a healthy dose of respect for hard work and practice as well as their past. "A lot of what we see happen, it happened with my dad, and hopefully it'll happen for Gunnar and I is that this carries forward," he said. "We want to leave that legacy. I look at this whole thing as a wonderful opportunity that I have to be proud of my family that came before me."

The Ricky Nelson Remembered concert will hit the stage at 7:30 p.m. Tick-

The Polyphemus moth: A unique creature

By Carolyn Warren

Garden Club of Orange Park Birds, Bees, Butterflies and Moths Chairman

CLAY COUNTY – Winter arrived and many of our trees lost their leaves. Look up into a tree's canopy and you may see a cocoon attached to a branch. I did recently and was surprised to see five parchment-like cocoons in my River Birch tree. I found that another cocoon had fallen to the ground and was still attached to part of the twig. There was a hole in the top of the cocoon. I did research regarding the shape and color of the cocoon and learned that the cocoon was that of a Polyphemus Moth, and the hole indicated a moth had emerged.

I learned this moth is relatively common throughout Florida. I also learned that this moth spends the winter in its cocoon and usually emerges in March. Since Florida often has relatively mild winters in January and February, it could also emerge during this time period. With our warm weather this past January, it must have emerged. This moth only lives a few days after emergence, just long enough to mate and start the next generation. The adult does not have mouth parts and cannot feed. The adult moth's entire energy supply is what it accumulated in its caterpillar stage.

Be on the lookout this Spring and see if you can spot one of these moths, frequently seen at night around streetlights.

Winn-Dixie donates $250k to Red Cross to support Ukraine

For Clay Today

JACKSONVILLE - Southeastern Grocers Inc., parent company and home of Winn-Dixie grocery stores, together with the SEG Gives Foundation, made a donation of $250,000 to the International Committee of the Red Cross to support Ukraine and its citizens as they fight to defend their country. As the grocer proudly stands with Ukraine and those who support peace, SEG will also donate 100% of the proceeds from its private label Ukrainian vodka to the cause for the next 31 days as a nod to Ukraine's official declaration of independence nearly 31 years ago. Anthony Hucker, President and CEO of Southeastern Grocers, said: "At Southeastern Grocers, we are guided by doing the right thing; we recognize the people of Ukraine need our help, and they need it now. That's why we are immediately directing funds to the International Committee of the Red Cross to support the victims of the war in Ukraine. This decision is a natural extension of our belief that there is greater power in unity than there is in division; we believe that we are all stronger together."

SEG is proud to help those in need and to support the international arm of the American Red Cross to globally aid the citizens of the world. Through SEG's longstanding partnership with the American Red Cross, the grocer has aided the organization in countless disaster relief missions. Gilbert had other dogs, which made for an easier transition away from her torturous past.

'The transition wasn't difficult at all our other dogs welcomed her right into the family," Gilbert said. "We have adjusted well, it's like she's always been here and she was meant for our family. She has the best personality and is super gentle with our baby. We have a 1-year-old who just adores her 'Arwoo.'

Including babies born after the rescue, 310 animals were placed for adoption on Nov. 13. Five days later, every animal was in a new home.

Since then, only one has been returned to Clay County Animal Control for "health reasons.'

Clay County officials put all of the animals taken from the 1.29-acre lot -104dogs, 72 chickens, 28 pigs, six goats, two turtles, six pigeons, two quail and a duck and a goose – up for adoption after a Clay County judge took custody away from Michelle Wilkie. Residents were required to apply for an appointment time in advance of the event and the order was set randomly after each applicant was vetted.

Wilkie eventually was charged with 47 counts of animal cruelty. Her next court appearance will be on March 8.

Meanwhile, the animals who survived the horrible conditions - officials found skeletal remains throughout the property and in locked cages - now have the care and attention they deserved.

Indy Sardelli adopted a dog from a litter delivered by one of the rescued dogs. She said Hazel is so happy, she also gets along with the family cat.

"Previously I had volunteered with CCAS at the clay county fairgrounds during the massive seizure of various animals last October," she said. "I had been fortunate enough to continue my volunteering service at the shelter after the animals found their forever homes. During my time I was able to adopt from the last litter of puppies born to one of the seized momma dogs.

Since Feb. 5 Hazel (formerly Marigold) has been a welcomed addition to our family of rescues. We absolutely adore her and are so grateful to have the opportunity to offer her a life of health and happiness! DELAND - St. Johns Country Day School senior Julia Boaventura, amidst waves of underclassmen around her for a 2022 season that saw her Lady Spartans appear to be mortal with three regular season losses, snapped a 0-0 halftime tie with Shorecrest Prep in the Class 2A championship game with two goals out of the halftime lockers to give St. Johns an 11th straight state title; 2-0 the final.

Boaventura, by her own admission was slightly off her game in the first half but was dialed back in by her team and Spartan coach Mike Pickett.

"Especially me in the first half, I was thinking this was my last time playing, so it was really hard," said Boaventura heading to Southern Mississippi next fall. "The second half, we all played together and I thank God I had the two opportunities to score. I am so happy right now."

"Numbers; we get a couple of our veterans to do what they do; get to the podium, maybe with bonus point wins, and the rest of the team follow with top 10 finishes, that's the key," said Reape, who saw his 2022 squad swat away a torrid chase by Suwannee High at the region 1-1A championship won by Clay with five individual titles. "It's been a long time since we had five region champions. Josh (Kumpf) had a big match, Luke (Boree) and Dominic (Martin) did what was expected with Ethan (Larsen) showing off his athleticism with his win. Ethan's pin was the swing match. Garrett Tyre is top ranked in the state and beat a guy who is probably second ranked in the state."

Along the way, Clay, with 251-180 team title score over Suwannee and Wakulla (149.5) showed off some depth in the Blue Devil lineup beyond his senior leadership.

"Eleven qualifiers; five region champions and some great matches from our young guys is very positive for a good run at state," said Reape. "We're seeing guys who were banged up with injuries getting back on the mat and contributing."

Clay opened the championship round with three straight third place finishes against a hard-charging Suwannee Bulldog team who opened their lightweight divisions with a region title at 106, runnerup at 113, a second region title at 126 followed by a second runnerup at 132.

"They have returned to the Suwannee High wrestling; tough and scrappy, that has been their history," said Clay 182 champion Dominic Martin. "Over the years, it was Wakulla and us battling at the top with Suwannee just behind. It keeps up sharp knowing that they are coming strong on us."

Reape noted that Clay had the meat of his lineup in the upper weights while Suwannee did not.

Left: Luke Boree executed a last second takedown to win a 3-1 decision over Yulee's Dylan Johns for the region title at 145. Right: Ethan Larsen was a pseudo-upset pin winner over Florida High's Xander Hawkes for the 170 title.

Top ranked Garrett Tyre got a third period pin against Raines' state placer Jamari Watson in the second thrilling championship match for the pair. Right: Clay coaches Jim Reape, left, and Hunter Hill have put together a team of veterans and new faces to put the Blue Devils in position to a top five finish at state.

With back-to-back thrillers for wins from Kumpf at 138 (a 5-2 win) and Boree at 145 (a last second 3-1 win), Clay swung the momentum pendulum back to the Blue Devils to put a bit of space on Suwannee.

Boree, who had turned a 1-1 tie with Yulee's Dylan Johns with just six seconds left in the match, blasted a single leg takedown just before the buzzer to win 3-1.

"I guess I wanted to keep people excited," said Boree, who won his second region title (138 last year). "I've learned to be a little more offensive this year. I was okay with overtime, but Coach Hill (Hunter Hill) was yelling to go big move."

Larsen, at 170 and a 170 state qualifier last year, knocked out Suwannee's James Prentice in the semifinal then came back for a late pin on Xander Hawkes of Florida High.

Larsen fought to a 4-4 score after two periods before snaring Hawkes with a pin.

"Ethan and Josh are so explosive on the mat and they are learning to use that to win matches like today," said Reape. "One of the big surprises was Wilbon (Kedric at 195) who lost in the final but is having a great end of season run using his speed and power and learning to wrestle better. He is always moving."

Reape cited his two leaders; Martin and Tyre, as keys to the team success in Lakeland.

"Both got pins in their finals and that's bonus points," said Reape. "Garrett has wrestled the Raines guy (Jamari Watson) twice and both have been brutal matches. That may be the state title match next week."

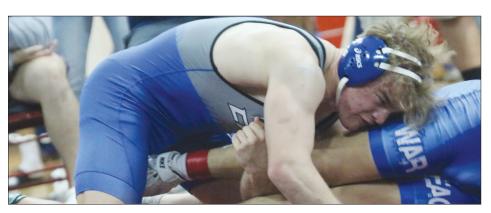

Martin, with his first region title after sixth at state finish last year at 152, faced off against a familiar foe in Tyler Edenfield of Wakulla who had Martin on his back going out of bounds in a close call in the first period with Martin up 2-1. Martin got one more single leg takedown to go up 4-1 into the second period. Martin would build to a 13-2 score with three-point tilts at will into the third period before pinning Edenfield. "That's more bonus points," said Reape.

Wilborn would last just a minute against North Bay Haven's David Mercado (55-1, region runnerup last year at 195) before getting pinned.

For Tyre, the opportunity to get to the state meet after a debacle last year against Fleming Island that got him penalized for the district tournament and ending his junior season, has been his motivation to not let the emotion of his big matches; twice with Watson, control the match. Watson, third at 195 last year, got the double on his first shot to go up 2-0 early in the first round with Tyre escaping to go into the second period down 2-1. Ironically, Watson beat Mercado in the consolation rounds at last year's state championships. Both fought to a 5-4 score; Watson up, into the third period with 1:16 on the clock before Tyre scored off an ankle grab and pinned Watson with less than a minute to go.

"He was definitely coming at me real solid with that double leg takedown this time," said Tyre, who beat Watson in the Clay Rotary final with a late match escape. "He's making me better knowing that him and I may be the state final match next week."

Clay's thirds went to freshman Jacob Bucci at 106, freshman Braden Glavin at 113 and senior Maverick Rainwater at 120. Rainwater lost a 9-7 semifinal match to Raines' De'Quon King, third last year at 113.

Clay senior Dominic Martin won with a third period pin over Wakulla's Tyler Edenfield.

Weird season for Fleming Island ends

By Ray DiMonda Correspondent

PONTE VEDRA BEACH - As the Fleming Island High School Golden Eagles boys' basketball team; shocked from a 9-0 season start to a 12-12 finish due to a controversial illegal player situation, powered through the district and region playoffs with exciting come-from-behind wins over Buchholz High's Bobcats, Tallahassee's Lincoln High Trojans, and the Fletcher High Senators all in the comfortable confines of The Nest at Fleming Island High School, it was time to pack up the bags and head over to Ponte Vedra as the number two seeded Golden Eagles would take on the number one seeded Sharks inside the Shark Tank for the opportunity to travel to the Class 6A Final Four.

After a grueling pace, with 22.5 left in the first half, off a Sharks time out, Ponte Vedra had the throw in, worked the ball around to drain the clock, and nailed a three pointer at the buzzer to deflate the Fleming Island morale and go into the locker room up 31-30. The Golden Eagles had an error filled third quarter that was simply too much to recover from as Ponte Vedra won 60-49 to advance to the Class 6A Final Four.

"The third quarter was key," said Fleming Island Head Coach Traavis Chandler.

"We came out a little flat, we let them hit some shots, and we kind of lost our rhythm on offense."

Now number two seeded, the Sharks move into the state semi-finals, to take on number three seeded Winter Haven. For the north Florida area, Ponte Vedra is joined by Andrew Jackson in 4A, North Florida Education in 2A and Bradford County in 1A as Final Four teams. The very physical game was at breakneck speed all evening and both teams had minor issues early as two minutes came off the board before the Sharks finally broke the ice with a two point basket, only to have Fleming Island come right back with a Gavin Rayes three-pointer to give the Golden Eagles an early 3-2 lead. The entire first half looked like everyone would be in for a last second shootout. That was until the teams went into the locker room.

No Doubt: Golden Eagles pound region 2A wrestling

By Randy Lefko Sports Editor

TALLAHASSEE - With more than 130 points difference between first place and second place, the Fleming Island High wrestling team left little doubt that they would continue to grind away against all comers as the Golden Eagles lineup bashed the region 1-2A lineup for their first region title among a slew of 3A region titles Saturday afternoon at Tallahassee Chiles High School.

"When we went to Class 2A, it was all about the different wrestling styles and new faces for our team," said Fleming Island coach P.J. Cobbert. "What people don't see on this team because we do have a lot of young faces is that this team just trains hard, competes hard and executes every day, every match. There really was very little anxiety by the young guys who came here today."

Young guys included twin freshman brothers Shane and Laird Duhaylungsod, both leaving as region champions; Shane Duhaylungsod, at 106, taking out Mosley sophomore sensation Derrick Williams (51-4) with a strategic 9-7 decision. Williams was a Clay Rotary champion, a Flagler Rotary champion and the district 1-2A champion prior to facing Duhaylungsod.

"Those guys are smart enough to not read about the guys they will wrestle, but to just go out there and do what they do," said Cobbert. "The whole team has that same mentality. Here is how we wrestle, beat us."

For Laird Duhaylungsod, at 120, the finals' opponent was a very familiar face in Middleburg High's freshman Wyatt Leduc, also a junior high opponent, also a Keystone Memorial opponent this year, who has also enjoyed a remarkable first varsity season with Duhaylungsod winning a 4-0 title. Duhaylungsod's main foe en route to the Leduc match was also a Mosley veteran in junior Sam Tolomeo (39-17, state qualifier at 106 2021) whom Duhaylungsod annihilated to the tune of a 14-0 major decision.

Sandwiched between the Duhaylungsod brothers is another freshman, unbeaten freshman and top-ranked in 2A Jayce Paridon at 55-0 who smoked his way through his lineup with three pins and a 12-3 major decision.

Joshua Sandoval, at 170, who is in top three ranks, lost a quarterfinal match to Matanzas' Jordan Mills on a 6-5 decision then got back to beat Niceville's Martin Black by pin for third place.

"He just gave up some points on two moves that the other guy got the call on," said Cobbert. "He's a state meet stud and will be there next week."

Cobbert got a runnerup from 285 Ethan Hoffstetter, a third from Ronan Bozeman at 160 over Trevion Sermons of Orange Park, and a third from Christopher Chop at 152 by pin over Lincoln's Connor Edwards.

"What's scary is that we get them all back but one next year," said Cobbert. "Some we will have for three more years."

Leduc, in his matches to the final, dispatched of Fletcher senior Ryden Ashmore (37-9, twice the district 3-2A champion) with a 7-0 decision.

Leduc and the Middleburg High Broncos have seen a skyrocket season behind first year coach Coll Robertson, a former Ridgeview High state qualifier and a longtime Lake Asbury Junior High coach with a string of North Florida Athletic Conference and Clay County titles under his mentorship of young athletes in Clay County.

Robertson, with assistant Richard Duisenberre, have collected two girls at the FHSAA state meet plus four boys Saturday to the big show; Leduc; senior state qualifier last year Riley Girgis, second at 126 with 4-2 loss to New Smyrna Beach senior Jamey Bruner (46-4, state qualifier 126); sophomore 113 state qualifier Grady

Woodard at 120, and freshman Jackson Hornback at 106 who lost to Mosley's Derrick Williams in his second bout, then rolled back to a third place finish with three pins in consolation then an 18-3 tech fall in the third place match.

"It's great to see guys I had coached and coached against at the junior high level get to the state meet level so quickly at their high schools," said Robertson, who won four of five Northeast Florida Athletic Conference titles in his five years at Lake Asbury Junior High School. "I think Wyatt (LeDuc) wrestled Laird Duhaylungsod in junior high with Shane wrestling Clay's Jacob Bucci a few times."

In the team scores, Fleming Island ousted Tallahassee Lincoln 249-115.5 for the top spot with New Smyrna Beach third at 110. Middleburg scored 87.5 for sixth with Ridgeview, with 220 Derrick Mosley second after pins of 26 and 33 seconds in his prelim matches, finished 15th with 41.5 and Orange Park 21st with 16 points.

Orange Park had just two wrestlers; Trevion Sermons at 160, fourth, and Goeffrey Jules-Delice at 195 who won one match.

FLAGLER PALM COAST - After a dramatic, final match win for their district 1-3A wrestling title last week, Oakleaf High was kind of expecting to storm the castle at Flagler Palm Coast in their region 1-3A championship and first year coach Rory Roderick got out of the fort with three state qualifiers in his rookie campaign.

"I appreciate the energy and support of everyone around this program to get us this far," said Roderick. "We got 10 guys to the regions and three to the state meet."

Oakleaf's three qualifiers; third place finishers Marcus McGee at 132; Jordan Mitchell at 285 and Keon Barrientos at 126 will have some company with two girls' team wrestlers; Adrienna Barrientos and Jazzmine Moore joining the squad's trip to Lakeland. McGee is a returning state qualifier, going 0-2 last year.

Barrientos had one of the more formidable paths to the third place match with a pin over Kellen Chapman of Deland (40-18) and an 8-3 win over Creekside's Conner Wright, a state qualifier last year, in the consolation semifinal in a repeat of the district championship.

McGee, who faced off with Mandarin's Jameel Smith in the consolation semifinal also in a repeat of the district final at 132 won by McGee, kept Smith, a sixth place finisher in 3A last year, from a repeat trip to Lakeland with a 5-0 win. Mc-Gee later won 8-1 over Ryan Culbertson of Seminole High.

At 285, where Mitchell sealed the district title last week with an 11 second pin lost by pin to Timber Creek's Peter Nesheiwat (42-10) before battling back to win via pin over Ocala Forest's Cane Fernandez for third place.

Also for Oakleaf, freshman Angel Rodriguez, at 106, lost in the consolation semifinal to be one match from a state meet invitation; Ion Hortinela, at 113, in a surprise pin for the district title, got one match away with a win over Nease Jason Choi, the district final lineup won by pin by Hortinela; Lincoln Morales at 120, won one match, Ronan Polinsky, a state qualifier who was one match from a state medal last year at 152, now at 160, finished 2-2 with a loss to Apopka in the second round; Mason Ganion at 170 who won one match, Onjel Caraballo at 182, who lost in his semifinal then lost in consolations to Deland's Gavin Rodriguez-Cavro, whom Caraballo beat in his first round match, and Ben Gaddis at 220, who finished 2-2.

Also in 3A, Bartram Trail, coached by former Orange Park High coach Chad Parker and former Fleming Island High second place medalist Evan McCall, got three wrestlers to state with 120 region champion Ethan Vugman, fourth at 106 last year, leading the trio.

a crossbar deflection from Lauren Mateo, but Shorecrest goalie Sonoma Kasica, just a sophomore, kept the Spartans off the scoreboard with astounding deflections and saves in front of her net.

After eight shots on goal in the first half, Kasica blanked the Spartans in the opening stanza before Pickett found her vulnerability.

"She (Kasica) was unbelievable," said Pickett. "Crazy good. Best keeper we played all year. She kept them in the game and all they needed was one chance and they (Shorecrest) are winning the game. We needed to get the end line on her and draw her out of the middle of her goal. She was too good on shot stopping. We did it twice and cashed them in.'

Asked if she saw it go in where she wanted it to. Boaventura admitted "I think I did. My heading is something I've been working on and getting better at."

"Especially me in the first half, I was thinking this was my last time playing, so it was really hard. The second half, we all played together and I thank God I had the two opportunities to score. I am so happy right now."

Just four minutes later, with a feeding pass from Towers, Boaventura, off her left foot three meters outside the penalty box line, blasted a cannon shot by Kasica to put her team out front 2-0.

With her mind still in a whirlwind, the senior commented on the second goal. "The feed was perfect. Just that opportunity for me to score again. I can't believe it. I don't have the words right now and just have to celebrate with my team now."

the Chargers to only three shots on goal, with sophomore keeper Roxy Mathews owning shutouts in the entire seven game playoff run.

"At first I was really nervous," said Mathews. "This was the first time playing a championship not as a field player. After the first five minutes and seeing we had most of the control, I settled down and I knew I just had to do my best."

Late in the game, on one of the Chargers shots that had a laser beam for a corner, Mathews got 10 feet tall, arms up and robbed a sure goal.

"When I made that save, I was like, wow I'm confused. Was that going in, was it not going in?," said Mathews. "At the moment, it didn't feel real," as the goal tender followed her instincts and deflected the shot that could have changed the face of the game. "I'm very happy I went for it. As a goalkeeper, you never know, should you go for it, should you not? I'm just glad I did."

Through the 2022 seven game playoff run, St. Johns amassed a total 50 points and held all seven opponents to zero goals.

The momentum train boarded by the Sharks before the half just seemed to gain speed when the teams reemerged from the locker rooms. Meanwhile- the Golden Eagles chose the wrong night to come out flat from the break.

"The third quarter was definitely the difference," said Chandler.

The Sharks (26-3) smelled blood in the water and quickly took advantage. The Golden Eagles were missing typical layups and inside the arc field goals. The Sharks always had a "garbage man" stationed under the net to come away with the rebounds and used lightening quick passes to rocket the ball down court and score.

"We had to make a decision to stop their drive or stop their three," said Chandler.

The Shark's shuffle and cut offense in the third was another issue Fleming Island had a hard time getting a handle on.

"That shuffle cut offense is tough to guard," said Chandler, "You have to make rapid decisions. At times we just didn't make the right decision."

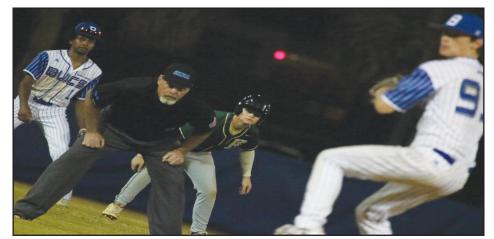

When the Golden Eagles did come up with a stop, 11 times the Sharks came up with a steal and nearly all resulted in points. Even after timeouts and dialing it back in. Chandler could not find the secret sauce to slow down the Sharks in the third.

"I thought guys got a little fatigue and they stopped crashing the glass," said Chandler.

Out by 14 points at the end of the third, the Shark domination only needed to roll on for eight more short minutes.

With the double-digit lead, and Fleming Island going cold in three-point land, the Sharks went into passing and clock killing mode in the fourth, seemingly able to score at will any time Fleming Island would get the ball and put two more on the board. With 3:18 to play, when Fleming Island drew to only nine points back, 54-45, the Sharks simply turned up the wick and went to work. "As Coaches, maybe we could have made more adjustments, but... PV played one heck of a game."
