Carol Burnett marks a big birthday with NBC special

BY JAY BOBBIN

For anyone who's ever thought Carol Burnett's birthday should be a national event, now it is.

One way in which the much-beloved comedy icon will spend her special day Wednesday, April 26, is "Carol Burnett: 90 Years of Laughter + Love," NBC's new all-star celebration of her. The show will be filled with tributes from many of her friends and peers, including Dame Julie Andrews and former "Carol Burnett Show" cohorts Vicki Lawrence and costumer Bob Mackie ... as well as Cher, Lily Tomlin, Ellen DeGeneres, Steve Carell, Amy Poehler, Aileen Quinn ("Annie") and Bill Hader (to whom Burnett learned she is related on PBS' "Finding Your Roots With Henry Louis Gates, Jr." recently).

Additional guests including Katy Perry, Bernadette Peters, Kristin Chenoweth, Billy Porter and Jane Lynch perform musical segments during the show, each commemorating a significant part of Burnett's career. Among those are Burnett's portrayal of Miss Hannigan in the 1982 film of "Annie," and her trademark singing of "I'm So Glad We Had This Time Together" (complete with ear-tug message to her grandmother) at the end of each episode of "The Carol Burnett Show."

"It was quite a night," six-time Primetime Emmy Award winner Burnett says of the March taping of the program. "I'm still kind of reeling from it. It's not a roast or a birthday party, it's really a variety show. A lot of my dear friends were there, and my 'chum' Julie Andrews was by my side the whole evening; she lives back East, and she flew out just for this. I was totally gobsmailed, I have to say!"

Burnett also has a Tony, a Grammy, a Mark Twain Prize for American Humor, a Presidential Medal of Freedom and a Screen Actors Guild Life Achievement Award among her many other accolades. Additionally, she has seven Golden Globe Awards, and that ceremony r... honor after her for contributions to television; appropriately, she was its first recipient.

The Burnett birthday event is, she reflects, "really a retrospective of everything I've ever done, practically, starting way back with my almost-first television appearance ... on 'Omnibus.' Then, (the special) covers 'The Garry Moore Show' when I was a regular on that, and movies that I've done, and TV appearances other than my own show. But, of course, 'The Carol Burnett Show' is in there, too."

Expect the late Harvey Korman, Tim Conway and Lyle Waggoner to be seen bountifully in "Carol Burnett Show" clips during the NBC special, but there will be no doubt who the evening's central talent is. And just as it's been for so many years, those physically near her – as well as those watching at home – will be so glad still to be in her orbit.

A book, a new home and a milestone for 'Delicious Miss Brown'

It's been an eventful past few months for Kardea Brown.

This past fall, she moved into her dream home on the South Carolina coast, where she recently completed filming the the eighth season of her Food Network series "Delicious Miss Brown" (which included its milestone 100th episode). Also that October, she released her first book, "The Way Home: A Celebration of Sea Islands Food and Family With Over 100 Recipes," which quickly made its way onto the New York Times bestseller list.

Brown had been considering writing a book for the past four years but like with many things these days, the idea really got legs during the pandemic. After she was approached by an editor at Harper Collins to do a book in 2020, she found herself spending the next nearly two years developing and testing recipes, many of which were her interpretations of family recipes.

The final product is dedicated to the place where her love of food took hold, the Sea Islands of South Carolina and Georgia, and those who taught her how to cook.

"I grew up in a family where my great-grandmother and my grandmother never wrote their recipes down," Brown explains. "And so I realized this is my opportunity to pay homage to my grandmother and my great-grandmother, and this is a place where some of their recipes and my interpretations of their recipes could live.

"And so that's why I knew that once this opportunity came – and it did – that this cookbook would be based on that, and it would also give people a glimpse into who I am. You know, everyone knows 'Delicious Miss Brown' but I wanted people to see who Kardea Brown was as well."

As for "Delicious Miss Brown," now in its eighth season on Sunday afternoons, she'll also be trying out a few ideas in her brand new kitchen.

"I'm kind of doing a lot of fusion food so I'm mixing some of my Lowcountry spin," she explains. "I have an entire episode dedicated to Greek and Middle Eastern cuisine. We're going to do an episode where I go horseback riding with a friend, and so we're going to do like a (Kentucky) Derby theme. We are going to celebrate some of the holidays like Mother's Day and Father's Day, and so there's going to be some brunch items on the menu.

"Of course, we're going to have lots of seafood," she continues. "But yeah, we're just switching up a little bit."

Conforto seeks to recapture All-Star form with Giants

In the category of most intriguing offseason free agent signings, we present for your consideration Michael Conforto.

Indeed, the slugging outfielder with the sweet lefty swing was supposed to be a perennial All Star by now. But injuries and inconsistent play short-circuited his career with the New York Mets, who opted to let the Washington State native test the market following a poor 2021 season.

So now, the nine-year veteran is starting over. He spent all of 2022 as an unsigned free agent, recovering and rehabbing from shoulder surgery, then over the winter signed a two-year, $36 million contract with the San Francisco Giants with the idea that he would be their starting left fielder.

If he's the player he was in his best years in New York, that will prove to be a bargain. He was an All Star in 2017, hit 34 homers in 2019 and was a middle-of-the-lineup force as recently as the pandemic-shortened 2020 season, when he batted .322 with nine homers, a .412 on-base percentage and an OPS of .927 in 54 games. But a nightmarish 2021 of .232, 14, .344, .729 and a subsequent shoulder injury followed and Conforto was left to salvage his flagging career elsewhere.

Early returns have it that his comeback is on track. In the first two-plus weeks of preseason play, Conforto reports his throwing shoulder feels normal and that he could be moved to his usual haunt of right field, a position that requires a stronger arm, if needed. His swing also appears to be rounding into shape with three homers in his first seven games.

He'll get a chance to show his old team they made a mistake when he and the Giants close out a four-game home series against the Mets Sunday, April 23, on ESPN.

April 23 “Movie: Air”

Ben Affleck directed and stars in this drama movie about shoe salesman Sonny Vaccaro (Matt Damon) and how he led Nike in its pursuit of the greatest athlete in the history of basketball, Michael Jordan, to partner in the Air Jordan athletic shoe brand. Jason Bateman, Chris Messina and Viola Davis also star. (ORIGINAL)

April 23 “Movie: Woman Thou Art Loosed”

Adapted from the self-help novel by T. D. Jakes, this 2004 drama tells the story of a young woman named Michelle (Kimberly Elise, “The Manchurian Candidate”), who must come to terms with a long history of sexual abuse, drug addiction and poverty. Loretta Devine, Debbi Morgan and Michael Boatman also star for director Michael Schultz (“Car Wash”).

April 23 “Movie: A Tourist's Guide to Love”

After a surprise break-up, a travel executive (Rachael Leigh Cook, “She’s All That”) takes an undercover assignment to check out the tourism industry in Vietnam and winds up falling for her expat tour guide (Scott Ly, “Animal Kingdom”) in this romantic comedy from director Steven K. Tsuchida (“Resort to Love,” “Younger”). Ben Feldman and Missi Pyle also star. (ORIGINAL)

“Dino Ranch: Season 2” (April 26)

The adventures continue for the Cassidy family in the sophomore round of this animated series, in which they tackle life in a fantastical “pre-western” setting where dinosaurs still roam and discover the thrill of ranch life and the unpredictability of the great outdoors.

OF CSI VEGAS ON CBS

Q: How do you like depicting the work of forensic investigators on “CSI: Vegas”?

A: It’s amazing, like when we were doing the research for this, finding out how people can spend like three days in the bottom of a lab, just down in some DNA ... trying to figure out the stories of what happened to people’s loved ones. We’re on the amazing side of it, where we get to just sit and have like all the best of the best just at our beck and call (them) to be able to write a story about that.

For me, it’s hard to imagine (that at this) very second, there are people in the basements and the bowels of buildings doing this very thing that this show is talking about. (They) were in there last night, maybe got to work at 5:00 and maybe are on their second body or on their second tray of DNA. It really takes a lot just to put yourself in somebody else’s shoes like that.

Q: Are you enjoying playing the leader of the show’s CSI bureau?

A: I’m the youngest of three daughters, so it feels like vengeance on my sisters that I get to tell people what to do. My sisters always were the boss of me, so that’s nice.

It’s a fit. Women are very capable beings, you know. It’s just nice to be in the shoes of being able to step into that capability and, in so doing, set the example for other women and other people who want to step into that capability.

Q: How is it to have original “CSI: crime Scene Investigation” cast member Marg Helgenberger on your show now!

A: Can I say, as a member of this iteration, what a joy it is to have Marg here ... an absolute joy. The knowledge that she brings along with her, the kindness, the humility, the grace, the intel – just the experience.

In focus

“Queen Charlotte: A Bridgerton Story”
 (Netflix — series premiere, May 4)

From Shonda Rimes comes this prequel to the Netflix period drama “Bridgerton” that tells of how the young Queen Charlotte’s marriage to King George sparked both a great love story and a societal shift, creating the world of the Ton inherited by the characters in “Bridgerton.” India Amarteifio, Corey Mylchreest and Golda Rosheuvel head the cast.

“Fix My Flip” (HGTV — season premiere, May 4)

Real estate agent Page Turner helps a father/daughter flipping duo, Allison and Juan, who have flipped several houses, but haven’t made much money in the process. Making matters worse, the pair don’t see eye-to-eye on design or where to allocate dollars for their latest project in Huntington Beach in this Season 2 opener. After advising them to do a full renovation reset, Page shows them the necessary updates, easy improvements and budget-friendly amenities that will help sell the home at their desired price point.

Padma Lakshmi

“Taste the Nation With Padma Lakshmi: Season 2” (Hulu — season premiere, May 5)
 Padma Lakshmi (“Top Chef”) continues her exploration of diverse communities across the U.S. that have so heavily shaped what American food is today. Her stops in the sophomore round include Puerto Rico, where ketchup is used to some disagreement on the local dish pasteles; Washington, D.C., to dine on an Afghan feast; and Appalachia, where she discovers inventive recipes, humble ingredients and the joys of playing banjo.

‘Morning Glory’ has fun skewering morning shows

Its edges may not be as sharp as those of “Network” or “Broadcast News,” but “Morning Glory” puts television to the test in its own modest way. Being shown by MGM+ on Wednesday, April 26, the 2010 comedy doubles as both a romance and a satire, hinging on the personal and professional lives – which eventually merge – of Becky Fuller (played by an extremely engaging Rachel McAdams), an ambitious TV-news producer downsized out of her job at a New Jersey morning show. Through sheer force of personality, she convinces a lowly network’s news honcho (Jeff Goldblum) to hire her as the latest of many executive producers of “Daybreak,” a program that’s an industry joke. Literally. Taking charge by dismissing the skeezy male co-anchor (“Modern Family’s” Ty Burrell), Becky finds herself in immediate need of someone to partner with attitude-dripping co-host Colleen Peck (a droll Diane Keaton). Enter Mike Pomeroy, a legendary newsman sitting out the rest of his lucrative contract, which will be voided if he turns down a job the network offers him ... and as the pompous, humorless Pomeroy, Harrison Ford is pure comedic gold. His low growl is good for a laugh with virtually every line. Becky’s love life also picks up thanks to news-magazine producer Adam Bennett (a charming Patrick Wilson), but his real role here is to be a sounding board for Becky. His own encounters with Pomeroy make him declare the new morning anchorman “the third worst person in the world,” and Becky soon finds truth in that as Pomeroy stubbornly refuses to do most of what she asks of him. Late director Roger Michell had experience in romantic comedies (“Notting Hill”), but the main creative engine behind “Morning Glory” is screenwriter Aline Brosh McKenna, who also serviced other heroines wonderfully both before (“The Devil Wears Prada”) and after (“Crazy Ex-Girlfriend”) this film. She makes Becky someone truly to root for, but that’s also to the immense credit of star McAdams.

OF HEARTS IN THE GAMEON HALLMARK CHANNEL

Q: What do you like about the publicist you play in “Hearts in the Game”?

A: She’s a little outside of my normal comfort zone, and it was so fun. This movie definitely has beautiful emotional beats, and I love the stories that Hallmark is telling now, but this is such a different character for me. She’s feisty and confident and outspoken, and it was a challenge to play someone who feels she’s always great at what she does. This also touches on things that I haven’t seen in a Hallmark movie, like mental-health issues. I work with this amazing organization that’s all about that; I’ve become their spokesperson, and then to get offered a movie in which mental health is one of the key points – I was like, “Wow.”

Q: Since your “Hearts in the Game” character Hazel is charged with refining the image of a baseball player she was romantically inclined toward in high school, are you a baseball fan anyway?

A: It’s funny. My mom loves baseball, so I grew up with it kind of in the background, but I’ve never been a massive fan myself. I certainly enjoy it, since it is part of my history. I think Marco Grazzini does a wonderful job of playing a major-league pitcher. The producers sent us to training camp, and we took batting practice! I hadn’t held a baseball bat since ... well, I don’t even remember the last time I did, but it was so cool to do it for this.

Q: You made a multiple-picture deal with Hallmark, which “Hearts in the Game” and another film coming later this year complete. Do you envision continuing to work for the channel?

A: I think this is my ninth (movie for them), and I’m so grateful. It’s not lost on me that I’m part of the “family” now, but I still feel so new to it. I’ve also done a bunch of independent romcoms. I just try to keep working as an actress.

PBS' 'Iconic America' reveals untold stories behind great American symbols

BY GEORGE DICKIE

Fenway Park, the Statue of Liberty, the American cowboy – these are all symbols of Americana and the American way of life. And now a series upcoming on PBS explores their history, the good and the bad.

"Iconic America: Our Symbols and Stories With David Rubenstein," premiering Wednesday, April 26 (check local listings), delves into the pasts of these iconic symbols – which include not only the above but also the Hollywood sign, the Golden Gate Bridge, the Gadsden (aka "Don't Tread on Me") Flag, the American Bald Eagle and Georgia's Stone Mountain – to uncover little-known stories and examine how the meaning behind them has changed over time.

So in the eight episodes, viewers will learn that the Golden Gate Bridge was the target of more than 4,000 lawsuits before its construction, the initial idea behind the Statue of Liberty had nothing to do with immigration and the original American cowboy didn't carry guns or fight native inhabitants.

And in Wednesday's opener on Fenway Park, we learn that not only did the Boston Red Sox miss out on Babe Ruth, whose sale to the Yankees gave rise to the fabled "Curse of the Bambino" that was widely blamed for the franchise's 86-year championship drought, but also another all-time great.

"One of the other problems is they refused to have any African American players," Rubenstein explains. "They were the last franchise to have African American players. They gave a tryout to a guy named Willie Mays and he wasn't good enough for the team so they didn't buy him. So if they had taken Willie Mays, maybe the curse wouldn't have been such a big curse."

Rubenstein, a billionaire businessman and philanthropist, believes that Americans knowing about their country's history is vital to maintaining democracy. And he hopes that what is put forth here will stimulate viewers' curiosity about our shared past.

When Adam Sandler helped enliven 'Saturday Night'

BY JAY BOBBIN

Q: I enjoyed seeing the "Saturday Night Live" clips of Adam Sandler on the Mark Twain Prize tribute to him. Which years was he on that show? – Ken Steele, via email

A: He was on the legendary NBC program from 1990 to 1995, first as a writer and then as a featured player. Characters such as Opera Man (which Idina Menzel channeled on that recent Mark Twain Prize special on CNN) and other contributions including "The Chanukah Song" made him an audience favorite.

Sandler maintains that he was fired from the show, just as his movie work was starting to gain traction with "Billy Madison." When he returned to "SNL" in 1999 as a guest host, he didn't fail to rub it in about his alleged firing, noting how much his films had grossed (translation: a lot) in the time since he had left.

Q: Will "Press Your Luck" be back? – Judy Simmons, via email

A: It will. Elizabeth Banks will return as host (and an executive producer) of the ABC game-show revival for a fifth season starting June 29. She'll tackle that again after directing a recent hit movie, "Cocaine Bear," and she also has other projects in the works including "Bedrock," an animated Fox sequel to "The Flintstones" for which she'll supply the voice of the adult Pebbles. Banks will be an executive producer on that show, which currently is at the pilot stage.

Al Pacino of "Dog Day Afternoon"

BEST SIDNEY LUMET MOVIES

"12 Angry Men" (1957) Lumet moved from directing television dramas to guiding theatrical films with this searing jury-deliberation drama (adapted, ironically, from a TV play) produced by principal star Henry Fonda.

"Long Day's Journey Into Night" (1962) Tackling a (or, to some people, "the") defining Eugene O'Neill work was a brave move for someone still young in his moviemaking, but Lumet drew indelible performances from Katharine Hepburn and Jason Robards.

"Fail-Safe" (1964) Fonda worked with Lumet again by playing the U.S. president in this tense drama sparked by a pending, erroneously ordered nuclear attack on Moscow.

"The Pawnbroker" (1964) Rod Steiger is brilliant under Lumet's direction as a concentration-camp survivor who continues to be haunted by his wartime experiences.

"The Hill" (1965) In the first of the multiple movies he made with Lumet, Sean Connery took a very effective break from the world of Agent 007 as an incarcerated British soldier subjected to grueling punishment.

"The Offence" (1973) A gritty melodrama he got financed in exchange for returning as James Bond in "Diamonds Are Forever," Connery excels for Lumet as a dispirited British police detective who reaches the end of his rope.

"Serpico" (1973) A run of holiday-season hits for Lumet over several consecutive years began with the true story of an honest New York police detective (superbly played by Al Pacino) who risked his life by turning informant on corrupt peers.

"Murder on the Orient Express" (1974) Lumet's wonderfully stylish version of the Agatha Christie mystery is – just as the ads promised – "the who's who in the whodunit," encompassing everyone from Albert Finney (as master sleuth Hercule Poirot) and Connery to Lauren Bacall and Oscar winner Ingrid Bergman.

"Dog Day Afternoon" (1975) Pacino and Lumet collaborated on another fact-based tale, the saga of a bank robbery gone extremely awry ... with surprises about the reason behind the attempted heist eventually emerging.

"Network" (1976) Fueled by Paddy Chayefsky's take-no-prisoners script, the Lumet-directed indictment of the TV-news business (which time has made seem less like satire) was rewarded with Academy Awards for the writer and performers Peter Finch (posthumously), Faye Dunaway and Beatrice Straight.

"Prince of the City" (1981) Lumet revisited the theme of an honest cop turned whistleblower with this long but engrossing drama, another true story with marvelous acting by the Treat Williams-led cast.

"The Verdict" (1982) Paul Newman gives arguably his career-high performance for Lumet as a downtrodden lawyer given a chance at personal and professional redemption by a case he decides to try rather than settle.
