coverstory Hidden talent: 'I Can See Your Voice' reveals more secret voices

They say you can fake it 'til you make it, and there is nowhere that idiom is more true than on "I Can See Your Voice." The musical mystery game show returns for its third season Tuesday, Sept. 19, on Fox, as host — and series creator — Ken Jeong ("The Afterparty") leads contestants through a series of guessing rounds centered around six talented lip-synchers.

Among the "secret voices" are true vocalists and imposter songbirds who all perform on stage to stellar pre-recorded vocals, but only the real singers perform to their own backup track. If the contestant correctly identifies a genuine performer in the final round without hearing a single note, they're singing all the way home with the $100,000 grand prize. Whether the secret voices are retired vocalists, up-and-coming artists, hobbyist singers or just convincing fakes is only revealed once the contestant locks them in for elimination or their final selection.

This season, Fox promises "all-new theme nights," featuring duets between celebrity musicians and contestants' "secret voices" picks — for better or worse. The contestants don't know just how many of the six secret voices are good or bad singers, meaning that while each elimination round reveals the true voice of one of the lip-synchers, the contestants have no clue whether they're producing sweet music or a train wreck in the final duet performance.

The duets ratchet up the nail-biting tension for the contestants, panelists, studio audience and musicians alike. Singer-songwriter and "The Masked Singer" winner, Jewel (You Were Meant For Me," 1995), made an appearance in the second season of "I Can Hear Your Voice," and after having aided the night's contestant from the panel, she herself was nervous to hear if the secret voice really had pipes when they took the stage together. Luckily the secret voice was hiding a true talent for crooning.

Contestants on "I Can See Your Voice" have limited information on the secret voices — they are defined solely by their occupation — leaving the lip-synchs as the most credible evidence of performance prowess. Throughout the elimination rounds, contestants get help from a panel of celebs anchored by Adrienne Bailon-Houghton ("The Real") and Cheryl Hines ("Curb Your Enthusiasm") with a rotating chair of guest judges and featured musical artists.

In addition to the panel, contestants have the opportunity to use the "golden mic" (an impression from a celebrity offscreen about the lip-synch performances), a look into a day in the life of one of the secret voices, a testimonial from a secret voice's biggest fan and a peek into the secret voice's home. Not every clue is a helping hand, however, as the tools at the contestants' disposal are filled with both genuine hints as well a. ings.

A final interrogation round before the contestant locks in their ultimate selection allows them to ask one of the remaining two secret voices as many questions as they can in 30 seconds. They can ask anything they want, except for the secret voice to belt out a quick tune. Whether seeing a secret voice waffle over their answers or come prepared sets off alarm bells is up to the contestant to decide.

The season premiere of "I Can See Your Voice" follows another mystery voice competition series making its second season premiere the same night. "Name That Tune" returns with more of its celebrity edition. Celebrity contestants including athletes, TV personalities, actors and musicians compete to identify songs in a series of challenging games, affording the celebs the chance to win over $150,000 for their charity of choice if they really know their tunes.

tastyt∨ BY CAROLINE COLLACUTT Spooky sweets: 'Halloween Wars' returns for 'unlucky' Season 13

A fan-favorite for foodies and Halloween lovers alike, this seasonal series has revived itself once again, ushering in autumn alongside a familiar face as Jonathan Bennett ("Mean Girls," 2004) returns to host the latest (and spookiest) season of "Halloween Wars," premiering Sunday, Sept. 17, on Food Network.

After leaving the series during Season 11 to focus back in on his acting career, Bennett now returns to the "Halloween Wars" kitchen, replacing interim host Zak Bagans ("Ghost Adventures"), who appeared as a ghostly, virtual host for the past two years. "It's so exciting!" Bennett shared in a recent interview. "I was off the show for a few years and this is my triumphant return. I'm coming back for season 13. That is even more exciting because it plays right into the spookiness of all of it."

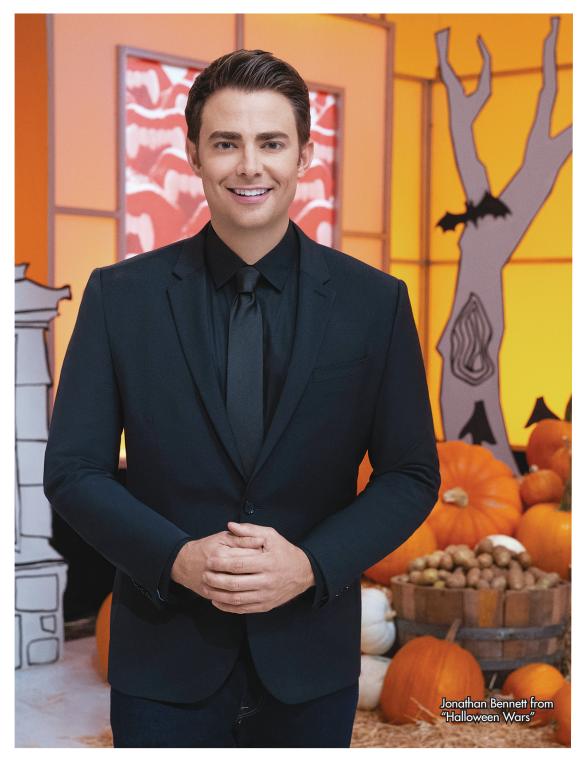

Returning alongside Bennett are some of the series' fan-favorite, classic components, including pumpkin carving, cake decorating and sugar blowing — but be prepared for shocks galore, as this unlucky season promises some new and exciting surprises along the way.

The series' first three episodes act as the "Halloween Wars" qualifying rounds, with Bennett asking the teams to complete a series of increasingly difficult tasks, including the "Monster Mashup," where each group must choose two of the scariest monsters imaginable and meld both into one ghastly creation; a round based on the 1973 classic film, "The Exorcist;" and a fairy tale-based challenge that just may lead to one team's "happily ever after," as this season's judges — Aarti Sequeira (Season 6 winner of "Food Network Star") and Shinmin Li ("Holiday Wars") — eliminate one bunch of bakers, carvers and confectioners each round.

Following episodes will be split into two challenges: the "Small Scare," where teams have 45 minutes to complete an edible interpretation of a spooky theme, and the "Spine Chiller," where the time limit is extended to five hours, allowing for ultimate creativity.

Keeping to theme for this 13th season, this year's teams feature some of the show's spookiest puns yet, with names like Team Sweet Screams, Pumpkins Up the Volume, Snax Sabbath, Spice Ghouls, Pumpkin Posse, Trick or Sweet and more, with each team hopeful to prove their deliciously deadly talent in the kitchen and win the final, $50,000 grand prize.

Season 13 of "Halloween Wars" begins Sunday, Sept. 17, on Food Network.

World, defeating Stefanos Tsitsipas in a must-win match 1-6, 7-6 (11), 10-8, saving four points and breaking the team's winless curse, giving it a 13-8 victory.

This also marked the retirement of 20-time singles major champion and former singles No. 1 Roger Federer as he and longtime rival Rafael Nadal fell in doubles to Team World's Jack Sock and Francis Tiafoe, 4-6, 7-6 (2), (11-9).

Excited to get a crack at his third Laver Cup, Tiafoe looks to bring that same energy and focus this weekend, hoping for a repeat.

"There's no doubt that last year's Laver Cup win was right up there as a career high for me," Tiafoe told reporters. "It was an unbelievable feeling to finally lift that trophy after coming so close in the past, and I can't wait for another shot this year.'

But it all came to a screeching halt when Mike blew up his father's career. From directors Morgan Neville and Jeff Malmberg, narrated by Jeff Daniels, and featuring Charlie Day as a young-er Veeck, this documentary is keeps you laughing through a comeback story unlike any other.

Anne Hathaway

OF GET REAL (1999-2000 SERIES) ON FOX

the picture earned her an MTV Movie Award.

Returns were mixed on her movies that followed immediately, including "Nicholas Nickleby" and "Ella Enchanted," but she sampled another medium by putting her singing talents to work in a 2002 New York staging of "Carnival." She eventually got back on the box-office track with the 2004 sequel "The Princess Diaries 2: Royal Engagement" and moved from that into a variety of screen projects encompassing "Brokeback Mountain" and "The Devil Wears Prada." Hathaway has returned to TV on occasion, as a host of "Saturday Night Live" and the Oscars, and she also appeared in the streaming projects "Modern Love" and "WeCrashed" (serving as an executive producer of the latter as well). Additionally, her voice has been heard in episodes of "The Simpsons" and "Family Guy." P12 Friday, September 15, 2023 L ENTERTAINMENT GUIDE L Clay Today

Q: Didn't Anne Hathaway have a weekly series role some time ago?

A: She did. The Oscar winner (for "Les Miserables") got her big break in "Get Real," a Fox series that aired during the 1999-2000 season. The seriocomic show about a dysfunctional family also was the first major credit for Jesse Eisenberg ("The Social Network"), who played Hathaway's younger brother; Eric Christian Olsen, later of "NCIS: Los Angeles," also portrayed one of the show's three siblings. Though the series lasted only that one season, it didn't take long for Hathaway's movie career to get going. John Travolta still has "Saturday Night Fever"

John Travolta had done some movies before it, but "Saturday Night Fever" announced loudly that he truly had arrived.

At the time he made the iconic 1977 drama - which MGM+ shows Tuesday, Sept. 19 - the actor already was a television star, thanks to his Vinnie Barbarino role on the sitcom "Welcome Back, Kotter." As popular as he was on that show, he redefined himself with a surplus oi charisma as "Fever's" Tony Manero, a paintstore employee and half-hearted gang member who lives for the nights he spends as the king of the dance floor at a disco in Brooklyn, N.Y.

Tony sees an opportunity to do more with his moves when the disco stages a contest. Fervent admirer Annette (Donna Pescow) is desperate to be his partner, but he has his eyes and mind set on Stephanie (Karen Lynn Gorney), whom he spots displaying her talent on the floor one night. He proposes that they team up, but the personal differences between them quickly become apparent, with Stephanie eager to be a social climber (boasting about meeting the likes of Laurence Olivier through her job) while Tony is relatively content with his station in life.

Through a series of advancements and setbacks, their relationship does develop, but it's to the credit of director John Badham and his team that it's never the sole focus of "Saturday Night Fever." Tony's work and family lives also get substantial attention, as does his connection to his pals, some of whom play rougher and more careless. And atmosphere is everything in the picture, right from the opening credits that show Travolta doing Tony's famous strut through the streets as he downs pizza and attempts a pickup or two.

That sequence is backed very notably by 'Staying Alive," one of the Bee Gees tunes furnished for the film - and those contributions resulted in one of the best-selling movie soundtracks of all time, with Yvonne Elliman ("If I Can't Have You") and Tavares ("More Than a Woman") also scoring hits from it. "Staying Alive" also gave "Saturday Night Fever's" 1983 sequel its title, but of the two stories, the first definitely is the one to catch (though the second does have its devotees, too).

James Marshall OF TWIN PEAKS ON ABC

Q: Is James Marshall still actina?

A: The launch of the cult-classic drama series "Twin Peaks" in the late '80s launched James Marshall's career with it. And the revival of the show in 2017 revived it. After appearing in the revival season of the series on Showtime, which ended a pretty lengthy dry spell on his resume, Marshall was cast as a lead in two other shows. However, only one of them was actually released 'The Pact" is a post-apocalyptic sci-fi show released last year on the streaming service Roku. It's aired one season so far, but there's no word yet on a second round

"The Pact" was the second attempt to put Marshall into a show after the new "Twin Peaks." The first was "Three Knee Deep," another sci-fi series that was produced independently but was never released.

This process was very much a repeat of his career arc after the first run of "Twin Peaks." When the iconic and deeply strange drama debuted in 1989, Marshall was a struggling young actor taking bit TV roles where he could. But suddenly he had a central role on the most talked-about show on TV, playing the moody-butdreamy young biker James Hurley. From there his career took off. It peaked (if you'll pardon the pun) in 1992, a year after the show ended, when he appeared in three notable big-screen films.

He starred in "Twin Peaks: Fire Walk With Me," a prequel to the series; and "Gladiator," a boxing movie and teenage drama. But most notably, he had a key supporting role as one of the young soldiers on trial in the multi-Oscar-nominated courtroom drama "A Few Good Men." After that big year, the buzz fizzled and he struggled to find roles of the same calibre. However, he kept working. He took roles here and there, in diverse projects such as the fami-ly-friendly "Air Bud: Golden Receiver" (1998) and the gritty legal drama "High Crimes" (2002), until David Lynch and "Twin Peaks" came calling again.

realitytv BY CAROLINE COLLACUTT Behind the catwalk: Campbell. Crawford. Evangelista and Turlington share in new series

Directed by Academy Award-winner Roger Ross Williams ("The 1619 Project") and Larissa Bills ("On Pointe"), the captivating new documentary series, "The Super Models," asks, "How do you define the word 'supermodel," letting the best in the business answer once and for all when it premieres Wednesday, Sept. 20, on Apple TV+.

From One Story Up and Imagine Documentaries, "The Super Models" tells the story of four iconic women through four parts, welcoming Naomi Campbell ("Zoolander 2," 2016), Cindy Crawford ("Fair Game," 1995), Linda Evangelista ("Sex and the City") and Christy Turlington ("No Woman, No Cry," 2010) - often considered the world's original supermodels — to speak for themselves in unprecedented interviews, inviting viewers behind the catwalk as this series shines a spotlight on the lives, friendship and industry-shifting careers of these world-renowned superstars.

Apple TV describes: "'The Super Models' travels back to the 1980s, when four women from different corners of the world united in New York. Already forces in their own right, the gravitas they achieved by coming together transcended the industry itself. Their prestige was so extraordinary that it enabled the four to supersede the brands they showcased, making the names Naomi, Cindy, Linda and Christy as prominent as the designers who styled them.

"Today, the four supermodels remain on the front lines of culture through activism, philanthropy and business prowess. As the fashion industry continues to redefine itself — and women's roles within it — this is the ultimate story of power and how four women came together to claim it, paving the way for those to follow."

During a recent interview with British Vogue, Campbell shared her excitement for the upcoming series. "It's about our life and times together: our friendship, careers, our womanhood, our motherhood," she explained. British Vogue went on to share more. "There's no word yet on who else has weighed in on their seismic impact on the industry, but we expect that countless designers - from established names who collaborated with them during those formative decades to rising stars who were strongly influenced by their unapologetic glamor and joie de vivre - will make appearances."

celebritypipeline The facts behind a "Marvel"-ous run

Q: Why did ABC run the "Ms. Marvel" series recently, when it was made for Disney+? - Kim Banner, via e-mail A: In a sense, it was all in the family to do so, since ABC and Disney+ are under the same corporate banner. However, there were some other reasons that giving the show (which is up for three Primetime Emmy Awards) a broadcast-network run was deemed desirable.

For one thing, it helped ABC fill two Saturday nights of programming while the SAG-AFTRA actors' strike had many new productions on hold. (ABC often books non-sports Saturday nights with repeats, so it can be argued that more benefit might have been gotten from putting "Ms. Marvel" on a different night during the "regular" television season.) Also, the show is a prelude to the forthcoming theatrical feature "The Marvels," in which Iman Vellani will reprise the role of Kamala Khan/Ms. Marvel ...so running the series for a broadcast-TV audience also served as a massive trailer for the movie.

Q: I see that CBS has an "FBI True" series in its fall lineup. Is that a part of the network's regular "FBI" franchise? - Dan Hilliard, Woonsocket, R.I.

A: Sort of, though it's not a drama show like the ones made for the network by executive producer Dick Wolf. He's not involved in "True," which – owning up to its title – finds actual federal agents discussing cases they've handled. The 2013 Boston Marathon bombing is one example, and for and many facts as are known about the investigations the agents recap, the show is made quite personal by their reflections on how their work has affected them.

Originally shown by sister outlet Paramount+, "FBI True" is slated to be a Tuesday entry on CBS starting Oct. 3. Appropriately, it will precede weekly repeats of the fictional "FBI" show that stars Missy Peregrym, Zeeko Zaki, Alana De La Garza and Jeremy Sisto.

BEST KEVIN COSTNER MOVIES

"The Big Chill" (1983): If you don't remember Costner being in this comedy-drama, you're forgiven ... since, in the final edit, only his arm and his hair have significant parts during the opening credits. He was cast as Alex, the suicidal triend the other central characters mourn, but director Lawrence Kasdan cut him out of most of the film.

"Silverado" (1985): Kasdan made up for the "Big Chill" excising by giving Costner one of the principal parts in this traditional Western, with Kevin Kline, Scott Glenn and Danny Glover among the other main stars.

"No Way Out" (1987): Costner is terrific as a Navy man caught in intrigue after his secret lover (Sean Young), the mistress of a government bigwig (Gene Hackman), is accidentally killed.

"The Untouchables" (1987): Costner successfully reinvents Treasury man Eliot Ness, who pursues mobster Al Capone (Robert De Niro) and partners with a veteran Chicago cop (Oscar winner Sean Connery) in director Brian De Palma's film.

"Bull Durham" (1988): Costner cements his amiable-athlete image in this baseball comedy, teaming him romantically and memorably with Susan Sarandon (though co-star Tim Robbins was her real-life partner for many years). "Field of Dreams" (1989): Ask any man what his favorite Costner movie is, and chances are good that this baseball-diamond-building drama is the one. The picture encompasses many great performances, also including those of Ray Liotta and (in his last movie appearance) Burt Lancaster.

"Dances With Wolves" (1990): Costner became a film auteur relatively early on, directing and starring in this Oscar winner about a Civil War lieutenant who truly goes his own way. With his multiple accolades here, Costner shot to the top of virtually every producer and casting director's "want" list.

"JFK" (1991): This really is director Oliver Stone's film, but Costner is fine as District Attorney Jim Garrison, leading a massive cast packed with stars from Kevin Bacon and Tommy Lee Jones to Jack Lemmon and Walter Matthau. "The Bodyguard" (1992): It certainly isn't the most profound movie ever made, but it sure is entertaining. Costner plays a former Secret Service man hired to protect a threatened superstar (Whitney Houston), and sparks fly between them; the film also yielded a top-selling soundtrack led by Houston's cover of Dolly Parton's "I Will Always Love You." "A Perfect World" (1993): Costner challenges his screen image he had up to that time as an escaped, hostage-holding convict on the run from a Texas Ranger (Clint Eastwood, also the director here).

"Tin Cup" (1996): As a golf pro who rediscovers his lost ambition, Costner is excellent, matched excellently with Rene Russo as the picture's central romantic couple.

"Message in a Bottle" (1999): A very sensitive Costner helps to boost Nicholas Sparks' story of a couple (with the then-billed Robin Wright Penn as the other half) brought together by a discovered love letter.

"The Upside of Anger" (2005): Costner lets himself go, to great effect, as a jock-turnedradio personality who romances a mother of four (Joan Allen) apparently deserted by her husband.

"The Company Men" (2010): Costner does fine work as the sympathetic-to-a-point brother-in-law of a newly downsized corporate employee (Ben Affleck).

"Man of Steel" (2013): It isn't "his" movie, but Costner is perfectly rustic and heartfelt as Jonathan Kent, the Earth father of the traveler from Krypton who will become known to the world as Superman.
