Tides of crime: Secrets and murder abound in Season 2 of 'Annika'

It's Scottish crime with a Scandinavian twist this autumn as Season 2 of the BBC series "Annika" premieres on PBS Masterpiece, Sunday, Oct. 15. An interesting clash of northern European cultures, the two worlds meet seamlessly due to the titular character's Norwegian roots and the often-folkloric nature of the crimes she encounters at work.

The series' main character, DI Annika Strandhed, has been a hit with audiences across the pond since the original radio series premiered in early January 2017 on the U.K.'s BBC Radio 4. The radio series, titled "Annika Stranded," wrapped Sept. 4, 2020, but for lovers of the series, the story continues on television, complete with Nicola Walker ("MI-5") in the role of Annika — no doubt a familiar voice for fans who jumped over from the radio play.

Both series follow Strandhed, a former Oslo-based "murder squad" police officer, as she relocates to a remote region of Scotland to head up the country's first-ever Marine Homicide Unit. Given her dedication to the job and a lifelong love of fast-moving boats, Strandhed seems poised as the perfect fit to lead the new team. That said, her cohort DS Michael McAndrews (Jamie Sives, "Guilt") has other opinions.

McAndrews attended police college with Strandhed, but the two detectives selected career paths that took them in opposite directions, causing them to drift apart. While McAndrews is clearly supportive of Strandhed and finds her to be a very intelligent leader, he still believes himself to have been a better candidate for her position as leader of the MHU. Nevertheless, the pair must find a way to work together — thankfully McAndrews' duties as head diver keep him busy and away from Strandhed much of the time.

Working alongside the two team leads are DC Blair Ferguson (Katie Leung, "Harry Potter and the Goblet of Fire," 2005), who provides data analysis and tech support for the team; DS Tyrone Clarke (Ukweli Roach, "Blindspot"), a former drug unit investigator who prefers to work alone; and DCI Diane Oban (Kate Dickie, "The Green Knight," 2021), who oversees all police proceedings within the precinct and often has the final say on how the MHU operates.

Joining the MHU this season is DC Harper Weston (played by Varada Sethu, "Jurassic World Dominion," 2022), a motorcycle-riding trainee who, given her youth, may act as a second person to provide Strandhed a bit of insight regarding her daughter, Morgan (Sylvie Furneaux, "Red Rose"). This guiding role has previously only been played by Ferguson, who is of a similar age to Weston and only a few years older than Morgan herself.

What we do kn ' ' 1 into Season 2 — and there is quite a bit, given that the season (or "series," as it is referred to in the U.K.) has already premiered on its home channel of BBC One — is that the very first episode centers on a "brutal drowning" death that has been recorded on a mobile phone. When the cellphone is turned in to police and passed over the the MHU, Strandhed and her team jump into action to try to identify and catch the murderer responsible.

"Annika," like "Annika Stranded," is created by Nick Walker, who is of no known relation to the franchise's leading actress. Despite the popularity of both series, "Annika" remains Walker's only credit to date on IMDb.

Season 2 of "Annika" also sees the return of Paul McGann ("Queen of the Damned," 2002) as Jake Strathearn, Taylor Goodwin ("Goodbye Charlie," 2015) as Femi Talla, and budding star Sophie Sloan as Madison McAndrews, while Sven Henriksen ("Varg," 2008), Cora Bissett ("High Times") and new talent Mya Milne join the cast.

Monster munchies: Duff Goldman and Rosanna Pansino host creepy cookie contest

Sugar, spice and everything spooky: Season 2 of "Halloween Cookie Challenge" airs Mondays through October on Food Network.

"Celebrity pastry chef Duff Goldman and social media sensation Rosanna Pansino celebrate the wildest and most colorful holiday of the year!," Food Network describes. "They'll bring together the best cookie makers in the country to compete in two challenges and create the creepiest, spookiest and tastiest Halloween cookies ever made! The winner takes home a trick-or-treat bag filled with $10,000!"

And that's $10,000 every episode. New contestants park their brooms at the kitchen door and take on Goldman and Pansino's cookie challenge every week, showcasing talent from far and wide.

So far this season, the competing cookie confectioners have faced monsters big and small, exploring what would happen if our favorite Halloween treats had a taste for us, too. Bakers have been asked to: make two-sided trick-or-treat bags — with one side being light and fun while the other is dark and spooky — out of lemon candies, black licorice and peach rings; decorate cookies with scary self-portraits; craft life-size oozing zombie parts out of cookies, overflowing with gooey marmalades and jams; and create creepy, 3D haunted mirrors — each old and cracked with crunchy treats like kettle chips, pretzels and corn chips.

This week, "Edible stained glass is one of the most colorful and bewitching trends in the cookie world, and four cookie experts make glowing Halloween stained-glass cookies," the network promises. "After one cookier is eliminated, the remaining three masters build giant, elaborate Halloween fun houses that would thrill any Halloween carnival-goer. The judges will really feel like they are at a carnival as the bakers must incorporate fun fair flavors like caramel apples, grilled corn, popcorn balls and deep-fried sandwich cookies."

In the season's final episode, the final four competing cookie makers hope to scare the pants off hosts Goldman and Pansino by making edible, three-story haunted houses. Then, in the last round, Food Network has shared that, "The three remaining cookiers host a séance by making playable spirit boards. To make sure there is maximum 'spirit' in their boards, they will include spirits like apple brandy, cinnamon whiskey, coffee rum and black currant liqueur."

A rambunctious carnival filled with delicious treats, Season 2 of Food Network's "Halloween Cookie Challenge" airs new episodes Mondays through October.

Martin Odegaard and Gunners look to kick off London derby with a bang

The 2023-24 Premier League season continues as the London derby kicks off at Stamford Bridge this weekend. Chelsea hosts Arsenal, Saturday, Oct. 21, with all Premier League action broadcast live on NBC.

After a breakthrough season last year that saw the Gunners win their first 16 games — marking their best start to a campaign, including returning to the Champions League after a six-year absence — Arsenal has looked similarly strong to start the 2023-24 campaign. In fact, they're already sitting with double digits in points and getting contributions from players collectively.

With Arsenal fielding the second-youngest team last season, a significant boost to its squad has been in the midfield position, with newly appointed captain Martin Odegaard a large reason for its newfound success.

Since his arrival to the squad from Real Madrid, the immediate impact the Norwegian has displayed can't be understated. His vision in the midfield has sparked the offence at the right times, providing timely assists for Bukoyo Saka and Leonardo Trossard spreading out the offence and providing the Gunners with a more balanced attacking game.

His ability to control the tempo and provide timely balls proves why Arsenal has him as part of its long-term plans, recently signing him to a five-year contract, making him the clubs highest paid player.

While Arsenal have been trending upward, the same can't be said about Chelsea. This season has been nothing short of disappointing as the Blue Devils currently sit in the lower half of the standings, following a season that Adding to an already difficult season, coach Mauricio Pochettino has had a difficult time fielding a full-starting 11 squad at any point this season, with injuries to several first-team players, including star captain Reece James.

Simon Cowell

OF AMERICA'S GOT TALENT ON NBC

Q: Was Simon Cowell one of the original judges on "America's Got Talent"?

A: No, but he still played a major part in the NBC series from the start, since he created it. (He also has been an executive producer of the show from the beginning.) Piers Morgan, Brandy Norwood and David Hasselhoff made up the judging panel for the first season in 2006, with Regis Philbin as the host. At the time, Cowell was intending to make a similar contest for British television, but some complications ultimately held that up and he turned his attention to making a U.S. version. The result was a summer hit for NBC, and it also jump-started the originally planned British edition, which premiered in 2007 and also continues. From there, the concept expanded even more, with versions still being done in Canada, Cambodia, France, India and Spain (among other locations).

A judge on the British version from the start, Cowell became an on-air "America's Got Talent" presence beginning with the 11th season – this year has marked its 18th round – but he wasn't present for the live episodes during Season 15, due to a back injury. Substitute judges were enlisted initially, but the number of judges then was reduced from four to three in Cowell's absence, with Howie Mandel (who has been with the show since Season 5), Heidi Klum and Sofia Vergara holding forth with those duties. Actually, Klum also missed some of Season 15 due to illness, with Vergara's fellow "Modern Family" alum Eric Stonestreet filling in for her.

"Life On Our Planet" - Season 1 (Netflix — Oct. 25, Series Premiere)

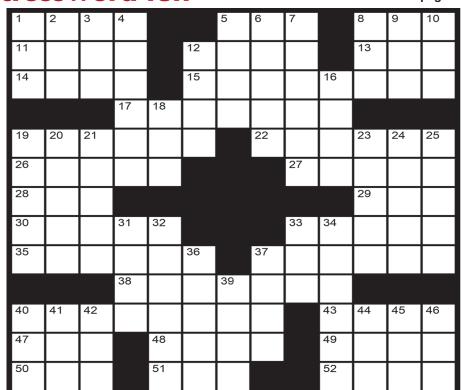

This is the story of life's epic battle to conquer and survive on planet Earth. Guess Who?

I am a race car driver born in North Carolina on October 10, 1974. I followed my legendary father into the racing business, but made a name for myself by winning the Daytona 500 twice in my career. I remain one of the most popular drivers of all time.

ANSWER: Dale Earnhardt.

"The Enfield Poltergeist" (AppleTV+ — Oct. 27. Miniseries Premiere)

This new, four-part documentary series tells the story of the most famous poltergeist haunting in history through original audio recordings made inside the house as the events unfolded. BY JAY BOBBIN

"Gone Girl" made a bold move from page to screen

It's hard to think of many movies of the past decade that have had more expectations to work against than "Gone Girl."

At the time of its publication, former entertainment journalist Gillian Flynn's best seller was read by just about anybody who wanted to stay current with pop culture ... and once you know its twists and turns, telling the story in another medium and still keeping it surprising and thrilling is one enormous task.

Leave it to David Fincher to prove himself the man for the job. The "Social Network" and "Fight Club" director made a 2014 movie of the book that's almost completely compelling, the problem being a home stretch in which the picture (adapted by Flynn herself) breaks some of its own rules.

By and large, though, "Gone Girl" - which Cinemax shows Monday, Oct. 16, and Friday, Oct. 20 – does its genre proud. Casting rarely suspect in the disappearance. What happened is recounted in a flashback-heavy nature, fueled largely by Amy's diaries, painting both herself and Nick in ways expected and not. The resulting scenes play to gets more ideal than Ben Affleck as relatively callow bar owner Nick, whose wife Amy (Rosamund Pike) vanishes on their fifth wedding place, and not surprisingly, Nick soon becomes a anniversary. A struggle appears to have taken the strengths of Affleck's persona, and even if his largest praise has come from his directing lately, "Gone Girl" is a reminder of just how good an actor he can be with the right material.

It's also a revelation where Pike is concerned. Having long offered reliable support to male stars, dating back to the James Bond caper "Die Another Day," the British actress truly came into her own as the presumed victim who has been labeled by her parents (David Clennon and the late Lisa Banes) as "Amazing Amy."

> Neil Patrick Harris, Tyler Perry and Sela Ward are among other "name" performers in the film, but especially notable is Carrie Coon as Nick's twin sister and business partner. Also known from HBO's "The Leftovers," her work here is of the sort that still may have many viewers paying major attention and asking, "Who is that?"

Ione Skye

OF SAY ANYTHING ON 20TH CENTURY STUDIOS

Q: Is Ione Skye still acting? I was such a fan of hers when I was younger.

A: You can still be a fan of Ione Skye's today she's just a little harder to find.

In contrast with her it-girl '80s period, these days she mostly pops up in quirky supporting roles on TV or in indie films.

For example, she showed up for a single episode of the buzzy Netflix series "Beef" earlier this year, playing a literal witch who gives an ominous warning to a younger version of the main character (played in the present day by Ali Wong, "Always Be My Maybe," 2019). And she had a supporting role on the Australian surfer-themed drama "Barons," which was cancelled by CW this summer after just four episodes.

She can get these sorts of roles now thanks to the fame she built in her '80s heyday when she was appearing in stylish, cool and talked-about projects such as "Say Anything" (1989) and "River's Edge" (1986). That plus (let's be honest) a pretty distinctive name, a famous pedigree (she's the daughter of '60s folk-pop star Donovan) and a series of relationships with edgy rock stars that got her into the tabloids, meant that in the late '80s, Ione Skye was a pretty big deal.

As is almost always the case, that kind of fame doesn't last. And while she lost some of her buzz, she didn't lose her impeccable taste in roles.

She appeared — now as a supporting star — in some of the coolest movies of the '90s, such as the high-concept anthology movie "Four Rooms" (1995), the small indie picture "But I'm a Cheerleader" that only later was adopted as a gay-cinema classic, and the zeitgeist-grabbing "Wayne's World" (1992). That has continued into the present day. Her roles in "Beef" and, a few years ago, on "Arrested Development," mean she's still a fixture in buzzy projects.

Harrowed household: New documentary highlights wealth and racial discrepancies through one family's story

From director Raoul Peck ("I Am Not Your Negro," 2016), the 2023 documentary "Silver Dollar Road" premieres Friday, Oct. 20, on Prime Video.

Having premiered at the Toronto

International Film Festival earlier this year in September, this documentary draws upon reporting done by Lizzie Presser for the nonprofit organization ProPublica, following one Black family's battle to save the land they've owned for generations. Reels family members have inhabited their waterfront property for over 100 years, but as the property-hungry land developers began to endlessly harass them, the once-picturesque homestead became a symbol for the ever-growing wealth and racial discrepancies across the county.

"More than a century ago, a generation removed from slavery, the Reels family acquired a 65-acre plot of coastal land in North Carolina," a recent article by Vanity Fair shares. "They built it up over generations into a haven for Black Americans in the South, a welcoming and safe community rich with outdoor resources and social activities. ... Anchored by Silver Dollar Road, a bustling residential street that ran through the middle of the plot, the land was designated low value at sale, but that changed with consistent investments, the beautiful waterfront homes and surrounding nature. With that came interest from white developers, and with that came a cruel exploitation of tenuous existing legal protections for ancestral holdings."

Prime Video describes the following: "From Academy Award nominee Raoul Peck, 'Silver Dollar Road' follows the story of the Reels family as told by the matriarch, Mamie Reels Ellison, and her niece Kim Renee Duhon, two fierce and clear-eyed women bending to safeguard valiantly their ancestors' land and their brothers and uncles Melvin and Licurtis, who were wrongfully imprisoned for eight years — the longest sentence for civil contempt in North Carolina history."

With 90 hours of footage captured as videographers followed Lizzie Presser through her investigation, the film gives an in-depth look at one individual family's story — one that mirrors that of many.

Missy Peregrym's "FBI" absence was for a good reason

Q: I've been watching many repeats of "FBI" lately. How long was Missy Peregrym off the show last year? - Steve Cooper, Philadelphia, Pa. A: She was out for the last several episodes of Season 4 in 2022, for a maternity leave for the birth of her second child, and she was written out of the CBS drama temporarily by having her character – Special Agent Maggie Bell – sidelined by exposure to sarin gas. The episode in which that happened comes up fairly frequently in the rotation of repeats shown by ION Television and Pop. (Season 5 has not been part of that package yet.)

Peregrym remained absent for the first six stories at the start of the fifth season, during which time Shantel VanSanten continued her guest stint as Special Agent Nina Chase, who served as a member of the team while Maggie was recuperating. The latter character's return was greeted with warm reception by the other characters, mirroring (from what Peregrym told us at the time) the spirited "welcome back" that the actress got from her co-stars.

Q: Is there any hope that another network will pick up the reruns of "George Lopez" that used to be on TBS? - Horst Masch, Venice, Fla.

A: There's always hope, though as of the time of this writing, we don't have any details on that sitcom's return elsewhere. It had a pretty lengthy run as an early-morning TBS entry, but that channel has been in the process of changing its lineup by giving additional weekday time to such shows as "The Big Bang Theory" and "Young Sheldon," and recently adding "Modern Family."

It's possible that when Lopez's current series – "Lopez vs. Lopez" – returns to NBC for its second season, that might inspire another outlet to pick up "George Lopez" for another run. (The earlier series also had extra star power behind the scenes, since Sandra Bullock was among its executive producers; she also was a guest star on the show several times.) Never give up hope, but as of the moment, another go for 'George Lopez" doesn't appear imminent.

BEST BETTE DAVIS MOVIES

"Of Human Bondage" (1934): Davis plays cruel waitress Mildred, who coldly toys with an earnest admirer's (Leslie Howard) emotions, in this adaptation of the W. Somerset Maugham classic.

"Dangerous" (1935): Davis earned her first Academy Award as an actress whose drinking problem leads to trouble for her and others.

"The Petrified Forest" (1936): Working again with Leslie Howard, with Humphrey Bogart added, Davis stars in the Robert E. Sherwood play about crossed paths at a diner.

"Satan Met a Lady" (1936): This variation on "The Maltese Falcon" casts Davis as the femme fatale who tries to sway a private eye (Warren William) her way.

"Jezebel" (1938): Sort of a pre-"Gone With the Wind," this Davis staple saw her score her second Oscar as a willful Southern belle trying to win back her ex-fiance (Henry Fonda).

"Dark Victory" (1939): In one of Davis' most popular movies, she stars as a socialite who develops a brain tumor, then falls in love with the doctor (George Brent) who operates on her.

"The Private Lives of Elizabeth and Essex" (1939): Davis and Errol Flynn have the title roles in the tempestuous royal love story.

"The Letter" (1940): Another W. Somerset Maugham work was the source of Davis' turn as a murder suspect whose claim of self-defense might unravel because of a certain letter.

"The Little Foxes" (1941): Lillian Hellman's play centers on a wealthy Southern family — with Davis playing one member — beset by problems while also causing them for others.

"Now, Voyager" (1942): A spinster, portrayed by Davis, undergoes a radical transformation after spending time in a sanitarium.

"The Corn is Green" (1945): A schoolteacher (Davis) becomes the patron of a promising student (John Dall) in the screen version of Emlyn Williams' play.

"A Stolen Life" (1946): Davis plays twin sisters, one of whom "steals" the other's identity — and husband (Glenn Ford) — after a drowning.

"All About Eve" (1950): "It's going to be a bumpy night," indeed. The classic backstage drama stars Davis as a veteran stage star targeted by an ambitious admirer (Anne Baxter).

"Pocketful of Miracles" (1961): The last movie directed by Frank Capra features Davis as a down-and-out woman who has convinced her soon-to-visit daughter (Ann-Margret) that she's a member of New York society.

"What Ever Happened to Baby Jane?" (1962): Davis' later career got a big jolt from this legendary chiller, pairing her with Joan Crawford as former-actress siblings engaged in psychological terror. Turner Classic Movies presents the film on Tuesday, Oct. 17.

"Hush ... Hush, Sweet Charlotte" (1964): The same team behind "What Ever Happened to Baby Jane?" furnished Davis with another tale of family strife turned horrifying.

"The Nanny" (1965): Davis is terrifically chilling as said minder of children, who matches wits with a sawy and suspicious youngster (William Dix)

"Death on the Nile" (1978): Agatha Christie's puzzler places Davis among the suspects during a cruise on which Hercule Poirot (Peter Ustinov) probes an heiress' murder.

"The Whales of August" (1987): Davis was near the end of her career when she worked with such other screen veterans as Lillian Gish and Vincent Price in the story of widowed sisters (Davis, Gish) and what may be their last Maine summer.
