cover story Revisiting 'Australia': Film gets a revamp in new series 'Faraway Downs'

We all roll our failures over in our minds from time to time, so it would make sense that even blockbuster film directors are no different. In cultural memory, the 2008 epic drama "Australia" has remained a dim corner in director Baz Luhrmann's spectacular filmography, which includes massive hits such as "Romeo + Juliet" (1996) and "Elvis" (2022). Luhrmann went back to the drawing board to give "Australia" a second chance and came away with the new miniseries "Faraway Downs," premiering Sunday, Nov. 26, on Hulu.

Using additional footage cut from the original movie, "Faraway Downs" spans four hours, split into six episodes, adding new layers to the story told in "Australia." The series, like the film, stars Nicole Kidman ("Special Ops: Lioness") as Lady Sarah Ashley, a British widow who inherits her late husband's sprawling cattle station, called Faraway Downs, on the cusp of the Second World War in 1939. Having made the trip to Australia to convince her husband to sell the property before he died, Lady Sarah has a man known simply as The Drover (Hugh Jackman "The Son," 2022) lead the cattle to Darwin for sale.

The pair lead a team and the cattle on a risky adventure across the outback and manage to thwart a rival rancher looking to achieve a meat monopoly in the region of Northern Australia. Lady Sarah and Drover find love on their trip to Darwin and return to Faraway Downs intent on making the station the success that her late husband couldn't. Trouble comes for them when the well-being of Nullah (Brandon Walters, "Operation Buffalo"), the Indigenous Australian boy that the two have been caring for like an adoptive son, is threatened and acts of war loom over Northern Australia.

When the reworked miniseries was announced in June 2022, Luhrmann shared in a statement the intent behind both the original film and "Faraway Downs," saying, "I originally set out to take the notion of the sweeping, 'Gone With the Wind'-style epic and turn it on its head — a way of using romance and epic drama to shine a light on the roles of First Nations people and the painful scar in Australian history of the 'Stolen Generations.' In the film, Nullah is left orphaned after his mother dies trying to evade police, who are attempting to forcibly separate him from his family. The Stolen Generations of ludes quite clearly to what "Faraway Downs" will expand on with its longer runtime and segmented installments. More depth will be paid to Indigenous history in the series and Luhrmann's original ending, cut in favor of a happier final act in "Australia," will finally be seen by audiences.

The first episode of "Faraway Downs" screened at SXSW Sydney Screen Festival in October, and The Guardian reported that the soundtrack was "given a contemporary First Nations overhaul," including a song from Budjerah ("Ready for the Sky"), whose music plays over an opening credits sequence animated by Indigenous artists.

"Faraway Downs" also stars Bryan Brown ("Darby and Joan") as Lesley (King) Carney, a rival cattle farmer; David Wenham ("Pieces of Her") as Neil Fletcher, the station manager at Faraway Downs who is secretly working with King Carney; Jack Thompson ("High Ground," 2020) as Kipling Flynn, accountant of Faraway Downs; David Gulpilil ("The Leftovers") as King George, an elder and Nullah's grandfather; and David Ngoombujarra ("The Circuit") as Magarri, Drover's brother-in-law.

The trailer for the series is a real blast from the past, seeing Kidman and Jackman as they were a decade and a half ago. Kidman's Lady Sarah promises to "bring Faraway Downs back to life" while beauty shots show off the incredible landscapes of Australia. Lady Sarah and Drover protect Nullah from officers and spruce up the station, meanwhile, the Second World War is on Darwin's doorstep.

While Kidman has spent most of the last decade starring and receiving nominations for her performances in critically acclaimed TV series, such as Top of the Lake," "Big Little Lies" and "The Undoing," alongside her Hollywood film projects, Jackman hasn't been seen on the small screen since his career beginnings outside of voice acting gigs like in Netflix's "Human Resources.

Book a return trip down under and see "Australia" as you've never seen it before when the premiere episode of "Faraway Downs" drops Sunday, Nov. 26, on Hulu.

mixed-race Indigenous children were removed from their homes to live in church-run missions throughout the latter half of the 19th and into the 20th century, as late as the 1970s in some parts of Australia. Luhrmann added in his statement: "While 'Australia' the film has its own life, there was another telling of this story; one with different layers, nuances and even alternative plot twists that an episodic format has allowed us to explore." Luhrmann al-

Have a huge holiday meal upcoming and no idea what to cook? No problem — just ask Selena. The brand-new series special, "Selena+Chef: Home for the Holidays," is a seasonal cooking extravaganza, premiering Thursday, Nov. 30, on Food Network.

This upcoming holiday-centric series is set to feature four weekly, all-new episodes led by global superstar Selena Gomez ("Only Murders in the Building"), who will be joined by her best friend, Raquelle Stevens ("Giving Back Generation"), and some expert celebrity chefs as together, they learn how to prepare perfect holiday meals for visiting friends and family.

The network has shared that the season's guest chefs include Eric Adjepong ("Tournament of Champions"), Alex Guarnaschelli ("Alex Vs. America"), Michael Symon ("Symon's Dinners Cooking Out") and Claudette Zepeda ("Top Chef"), offering fans a taste of what's to come with brief descriptions of each episode.

"In 'Selena + Alex,'" they share, "chef Alex Guarnaschelli and Selena prepare roast beef and 'Chantilly' mashed potatoes for a tree-trimming party." Next: "Michael Symon pops by for a 'Surf & Turf' Christmas as he and Selena tackle steaks and lobster" and "chef Claudette Zepeda plans a Mexican feast with a traditional Latin Christmas dish of tamales and a unique twist on a historic salad."

During the final episode — "Selena+Eric" — the group make some resolutions and ring in the new year, as chef Eric Adjepong helps Selena (along with Gomez's grandparents and younger sister, Gracie) prepare a special brunch, including shrimp & banana grits and his own take on malva pudding — redefining what it means to "take the cake."

When asked about the upcoming series, Gomez shared her excitement, saying, "the holidays have always meant so much to me. It was an honor to have these amazing chefs in my kitchen to introduce some of their favorite foods and what makes the holidays special for them."

From showrunners Shauna Minoprio ("Top Chef") and Melissa Stokes ("Craftopia"), the series is produced by Gomez for July Moon Productions, alongside producers Eli Holzman ("Undercover Boss") and Aaron Saidman ("American Idol") of Sony Pictures Television's The Intellectual Property Corporation (IPC).

playerprofileBY ROBERTO JOZEFLamar Jackson looks for anotherMVP performance against Chargers

It's time for another thrilling NFL Sunday, as the Baltimore Ravens head to the City of Angels for their Week 12 matchup against the Los Angeles Chargers at SoFi Stadium in Los Angeles, Sunday, Nov. 26, with the game broadcast live on NBC. It's been vet another MVP season for the Lamar Jackson, as the Pompano Beach, Florida, native and the Baltimore Ravens have led the AFC North all season long — including outscoring three different teams with a winning record by a combined 103-12 while holding teams to an impressive total of 13.8 points per game (as of Nov. 5).

And, if the Ravens weren't scary enough for their opponents, 26-year-old Jackson has been world class straight out of the gates, having already thrown for over 2,000 passing yards and counting, while completing 70.5 per cent of his passes — the highest mark of his career. In his two encounters against the Chargers, Jackson holds a passer rating of 83.0 with 371 yards, two touchdowns and two interceptions.

The last time Baltimore clashed with Los Angeles, the Ravens put on a dominant performance, winning 34-6 and holding the Chargers to 208 total yards and one touchdown, never allowing quarterback Justin Herbert to find his groove, including an interception by then-Ravens safety DeShon Elliot.

Overall, the Ravens are 8-6-0 against the Chargers and they'll look to improve that record this weekend with an explosive offence that's proven to be a handful for any opposing teams.

| Full name: Lamar Demeatrice Jackson Jr. Birthdate: Jan. 7, 1997 (26) Birthplace: Pompano Beach, Fla., U.S. | Height/weight: 6-0/215 pounds Team(s)/number: Baltimore Ravens (2018 - Present), No.8 Honors and achievements: NFL Most | Valuable Player (2019), First-team All-pro (2019), Two-time Pro Bowl (2019, 2021), NFL passing touch- downs leader (2019), Heisman Trophy (2016) |
