The Bottom Line

Here's an important fact. Each year, colon cancer claims more lives than either breast cancer or prostate cancer, making it the second leading cause of cancer death in the United States.

But there's good news! If detected early, colon cancer is preventable and treatable. In fact, it is estimated that 60% of colorectal cancer deaths could be prevented if appropriate screenings were performed on a regular basis. Palo Alto County Health System offers a variety of screening options, including colonoscopies, and encourages patients over 50 or with higher risk factors to schedule a consultation.

Take the time to take a closer look. Bottom line—it could add years to your life!

Let PACHS help you with the prevention of colorectal cancer. Visit us at www.pachs.com for more information about screenings or call 712-852-5500 to schedule an appointment today!
