LEARNING IN THE VIRTUAL REALM

Torrey Proctor of Prairie Hills AEA shows how virtual reality is more than just games; it can be the teaching tool of the present

"I'll go in and actually teach classes with a teacher there, and I'll roll up my sleeves and teach computer science, robotics, desktop fabrication like 3D printing, laser-cut engravers and so on, and then one of the new things I'm working on is virtual reality. The technology has changed quite a bit in the last year," Proctor said.

Proctor said virtual reality (VR) presents a host of opportunities for students to be creative, to collaborate with people across the world, even to craft things in virtual reality. VR can boost student learning in every subject, even physical education.

"You can exercise in VR. I do it every morning. I have an app that I'm subscribed to. I'm boxing. I have a personal trainer that I work with. It's pre-recorded, but he's right there in front of me," Proctor said.

City council tours electric production plant to start facility tour series

By Amy H. Peterson

Bret Mace took city council members on a tour of Estherville's electric production facility at Monday evening's council meeting. By the end of the tour, city council member Brandon Carlin said, "As impressive as the equipment is, I'm just as impressed with the knowledge of the people working there." Mace is foreman of the electrical production department. Brad Friesner, electric utility superintendent, and operator Dale Bradley also led the facility

Mace said the city of Estherville has five generation units: Engine #2, Nordberg, is used only in an emergency situation. It does not meet EPA ruling on emissions. The remaining four engines: #3 Cooper (4.200 HP, 3,000 kw), #4 Enterprise (5,574 HP, 3,500 kw), #5 Enterprise (5,574 HP, 3,500 kw), and #7 Cooper (4,200 HP, 3,000 kw) run at 80% capacity due to the age of the units. The units range in origination from 1960

Iowa Lakes Trustees approve President Newhouse's retirement plans

The Iowa Lakes Community College Board of Trustees accepted College President Valerie Newhouse's decision to retire, effective June 30. 2022. Newhouse has served as President since 2009 and is the institution's 7th president.

From the very beginning, the Iowa Lakes Community College Board of Trustees has been consistently impressed and grateful for Newhouse's remarkable leadership and tremendous service and commitment to the college and the communities within the Iowa Lakes five-county district and like home, and we are a family – everything about Iowa Lakes, from our dedication to living our mission, vision, and values to our wonderful students, employees, Board, alumni, and friends. It truly has been a privilege to be a part of this remarkable institution," President Valerie Newhouse.

'The Board of Trustees and I are incredibly grateful for President Newhouse's significant success in leading the college and are thankful for her longevity of service to our institution. Her constant and thoughtful leadership throughout the unimaginable challenges brought on by COVID-19 has left Iowa Lakes in a place of strength. Her announcement regarding early retirement will allow us ample time and a competitive advantage for our next presidential search," said Janice K. Lund, Board President.

During Newhouse's tenure, Iowa Lakes Community College has stayed true to the college's mission, with a dedication to providing quality lifelong educational opportunities through transformative growth both fiscally and through quality educational experiences. Additionally, Newhouse's leadership at Iowa Lakes has elevated the college's presence within the five-county region and throughout the state of Iowa. Newhouse began her relationship with Iowa Lakes Community College in 1986 when she started working in adult and continuing education. Twenty-three years later, she became President of the institution after holding various other roles such as Executive Vice President, Vice President of Administration, Emmetsburg Campus Associate Dean and Secondary Programs Coordinator/Supervisor.

Her dedication to Iowa Lakes is evident through the extensive infrastructure projects and progressive programming offerings she pioneered over the past 13 years. The facility projects include the new cutting-edge beef and farm lab facilities, the SERT renovation project, the Construction Technology Building, and the 2016 Bond Referendum that contributed to the construction of the Algona Campus addition and drainage project, Student Center addition and drainage project in Emmetsburg, the Janice K. Lund Performing Arts Center on the Estherville Campus, the facade and roofing improvements in Spencer and the Industrial Training Center on the Spirit Lake Campus.

Additionally, she has been instrumental in the implementation of advanced institutional programming options, including the Veterinary Technician, Heating, Ventilation, and Air Conditioning Technology, Technology, Electrical Engineering Technology, Water Quality Technician, and most recently, the Cosmetology program and Junior Reserve Officer Training (JROTC) programming.

Newhouse has received various awards and honors during her career, including the Governors Volunteer Award for work with literacy students, the Chief Administrator Award in 2017 from the Iowa Association of Community College Trustees, and the Distinguished Higher

Conservation Board discusses banquet, building project

The Emmet County Nature Center Foundation and Emmet County Conservation Board discussed the upcoming March 19 banquet and Nature Center building project at their Thursday, Jan. 6 meeting.

Mart to give health talk

BY TENA SUNDE

At this time of year, many are reflecting on self-improvement efforts which often include trying to be more healthy. This evening we are hosting a special event, thanks to sponsorship from the Friends of the EPL, which should prove helpful.

Jackie Mart will be joining us to speak about Holistic Healthy Eating and Weight Loss at 6:30pm on Thursday the 20th. The program takes place via Zoom with limited seating available to view it at the library. We encourage you to log on from home, if you are able. You may also find the event listing on our Facebook page and simply click the "join" button to be connected when the time comes. A shortened Zoom link is https:// tinyurl.com/y5usnn9u and the full length (if that doesn't work) is https://us06web.

wd=ZUhTWlBzb0JhNGlVR-3p0UFE1ZVk5QT09.

From her program description, Jackie states "People try all the "fad diets" and either give up or gain all the weight back. Weight loss is about eating whole, unprocessed foods and committing to a healthy lifestyle. Most "diet foods" are loaded with chemicals, additives, are devoid of nutrients, and actually make you gain more weight! I will go over the 3 Powerful Principles of Nutrition and how to feed your body what it needs to look

mote healing on the inside!" In addition to this live event, we have a wealth of materials related to diet, exercise, various health topics, organization, mental health, hobbies, and much more. We are sure to have materials to support whatever you've decided to focus on in the new year, and would be happy to set you up with a free library card and show you how to use both our physical and online resources. If spending less is a goal of yours, stop in and see how we can connect you to resources such as Consumer Reports Online. If you've resolved to spend less on Amazon, we can also show you how to access tens of thousands of ebooks, digital magazines, and downloadable audiobooks which are free to you through your library card.

Because we have our Friends group to thank for our ability to host special programs such as the one we will have tonight, I'd like to also mention that their 2022 membership drive is currently open for new and renewing members. Visit the library's website at www. estherville.lib.ia.us and scroll to the "About" section to find the Friends' page where you can join online. Memberships are just $5 for students or seniors, $10 for individuals, $20 for families, and $50 for businesses. You may also stop in and fill out a form in person, if preferred. Memberships are accepted year-round, run until the end of the calendar year, and come with the benefit of receiving our quarterly newsletter by mail or email (your preference).

Whatever your goals for the new year, we hope that you'll take the time to explore how the library might be of assistance. We continue to offer the ability to reserve items online or over the phone (712-362-7731), and will continue to give patrons the option of curbside delivery all of the hours we are open. At this point our facility continues to require masks inside the building, and you'll find they are provided in our entry.

That's the question Tony A. Powers, former sportscaster at WHO Radio and Television in Des Moines, Iowa, tried to answer in his moving novel, Famous People You Might Meet in Eternity.

Powers recounts what he can only describe as a dream, a vision, perhaps even a real experience as he lay under sedation for what he thought was routine knee surgery. What he experienced was far more.

Powers' profession as a sportscaster had an obvious impact on many of the historic figures he met. In addition to Presidents Ronald Reagan and George Washington, Powers spoke with Nile Kinnick, Johnny Orr, Johnny Bright and Harry Caray, themselves immortals in the sports world. Sometimes humorous, always moving, Powers brings all his characters again to life.

This is what coach Jim Valvano had to say about his

"I only hope that my life served as a role model for our future athletes and coaches. I'll say it again: don't give up, don't ever give up in everything

When legendary sportscaster Harry Caray asked Powers if was merely having a preview of death, Powers said:

"As strange as it sounds, Harry, I believe so. I don't feel dead. I threw the football with Nile Kinnick, played golf with Coach Orr, shot arrows with Olympic gold medalist Doreen Wilber, saluted our first president George Washington, and received some jellybeans from former president and former WHO Radio sportscaster Ronald Reagan. And I just talked Cub baseball with you, Harry. How could I be dead?"

And this is what Jesus had to

"In answer to our first question, no, you're not dead. You've still got some time left on earth. I wanted to give you a little preview of what to expect in eternity. I want you to go back to earth and proclaim my name and do my will. Of course, people will not believe you if you tell them you've seen me in eternity. I want people on earth to believe what they have not seen. You're one of the few who have seen, Tony, and believed."

Whatever your faith, whether you even believe in an afterlife, there are some lessons in Powers' novel. The main one would be that we should enjoy and appreciate our families and those close to us while we're in

Inspirational Insight: Sudden Loss

I have been the pastor for some 300+ funerals. I had my mother pass a year ago November, but when my oldest son, Mat, was ushered off to heaven from Covid-19 complications a few days ago, I am gaining a great deal of empathy and understanding for those who suffer that kind of loss. I have been very aware of the many details surrounding a funeral service as I have helped hundreds of families in making so many decisions when they have few ideas in mind, or even those things that would be acceptable in

I have discovered that it is a very different thing when you are personally in the center of the swirling whirlwind of details and going through mail trying to figure out where my son owes money, what bank and insurance accounts he has, making dozens of calls to find out what will need to be done to end coverage or stop the verification of certification, etc. etc., ad infinitum. It is wearing mentally, physically and spiritually. I feel like stopping my writing on this article right now and taking a nap. Lack of sleep is an added impact that compounds everything else that is happening. The wonderful upside is that we do not walk decisions. Right now I am through this valley of the It is a powerful blessing to His loving arms around you. beat. I have spent 12 hours shadow of death alone. The know we have a God who

I also have many immigrant friends who do not share the same religion, who grew up on the other side of the world, who lift up prayers because they know my faith. One of those friends wrote, "We are from different religions and countries, but when we think of your feelings, we cry... May God bless you."

The View From Here

The 2022 session began on January 10th. During the first week we heard the Governor, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, and the Major General of the Iowa Guard give us updates. We also heard from the majority and minority leadership of the Senate. These speeches, especially that of the Governor, help set the tone and direction for the legislative season. There seems to be agreement that we should attractive place to live. The Governor's proposal was to make Iowa's personal income tax a flat tax of 4%; this would be less than half of the top rate today. That would mean that an average Iowa family will pay $1300 less than they do now. The Governor also wants to eliminate taxes on all retirement income. To be fair to farmers, she would make a retired farmer's cash rent income tax free.

workforce, and make Iowa an

Some may say these goals will cost the state too much. That was said in 2019 as well when we passed the biggest tax cut in Iowa's history. Senator Whitver reminded us in his opening remarks: "Recently, Iowa was rated as one of the best states for opportunity. We were named the state in the strongest position to withstand the Covid pandemic and we were also named the fastest state to recover from it. After 5 years of a Republican trifecta, Iowa's success is no longer subjective - it's objective."

Highlights with Henry

Hey everyone! It's great to be back at the Capitol and the first week back was busy. I attended committee meetings and met with other Representatives and Senators. I also attended Governor Reynolds' Condition of the State address in which she outlined some of her legislative priorities for the year. I am ready for a busy session and glad to be back in Des Moines to represent you all and all of Iowans. - Tax Cuts for Retirees:

This week the governor made several tax-related recommendations in her annual State of the State address. The provisions reduce taxes on individual income, retirement income, and corporate income.

For individual income tax, the Governor recommends (beginning in tax year 2023) implementing four tax brackets ranging from 4.4 percent to 6.0 percent. After that, her plan eliminates the top rate annually until a 4 percent flat tax rate is achieved in tax year Another change the Governor recommends is fully exempting retirement income. Her recommendation is that beginning in tax year 2023, Iowans age 55 and older would be exempt from state tax on retirement income earned from individual retirement account distributions, tax-(IRA) able pensions, and annuities. Additionally, the Governor's plan includes that beginning in tax year 2023, Iowa farmers 55 and older who farmed for at least 10 years but have retired from farming operations can elect an exemption of income from either cash rent or farm crop shares for all years the income is earned or elect one, lifetime election to exclude the net capital gains from the sale of farmland. - Governor Reynolds

Launches New Teacher,

Paraeducator and Health Careers Apprenticeship programs:

Gov. Reynolds announced the launch of a first-in-the-nation Teacher and Paraeducator Registered Apprenticeship Grant Program Tuesday during her annual Condition of the State Address.

The grant program will provide opportunities for current high school students to earn a paraeducator certificate and associates degree and paraeducators to earn their bachelor's degree all while learning and working in the classroom. The program will begin in the 2022-2023 school year.

The Iowa Department of Education (DOE) and Iowa Development Workforce Agency (IWD) will use $9M in American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) Elementary and Secondary School Education Relief (ESSERIII) funds to create the model program which will train and educate current high school students and paraeducators for the next step in their teaching careers while they learn, work, and get paid in Iowa schools.

During her address, Gov. Reynolds also announced the new Iowa Health Careers Registered Apprenticeship Program aimed at both providing high school students with the opportunity to explore health care careers while getting paid and helping to addrazess the health care workforce shortage.

Puzzles/Advice

Risk to Chemotherapy Patient From Healthy Cat is Small

Roach

DEAR DR. ROACH: My neighbor is battling cancer for the third time. The medical personnel she sees when she goes for her chemotherapy treatments are urging her to get rid of her two cats. They claim the cats are a danger to her health. Wearing gloves and a mask while cleaning litter boxes will not help. Why? What do the cats have that can hurt someone going through chemotherapy? -- S.C.

ANSWER: Cancer chemotherapy frequently causes damage to the body's immune system. Many types of chemotherapy work against fast-growing cells, and while cancer cells are fast-growing, your neighbor's healthy immune system cells, especially white blood cells, are also fast-growing and can be damaged by the chemotherapy. Avoiding potentially infectious agents is therefore wise advice for people going through chemo.

There are several potential infections that can be transmitted from cats to humans. The one we worry about most is probably toxoplasmosis, a protozoan infection. Toxoplasmosis is a big concern in people with HIV, but also can be an issue in people who have recurrent chemotherapy or have a more prolonged reduction in immune system function. However, toxoplasmosis can be effectively avoided by wearing gloves while changing the litter box, keeping the cats indoors and feeding them only high-quality cat food and never raw meat.

Cat bites or scratches can be very serious, especially to someone with an immune system that is less than perfect. If her cats occasionally bite or scratch, that would be a prob-

There are a few other uncommon zoonotic diseases (ones that can be transmitted from animals to humans) that might be of concern. Her cats' veterinarian would be a useful resource to find out more. The cats should, of course, be thorbe the issue, but allergies are usually less of a problem during chemotherapy.

The risks from a healthy indoor cat are very small. Risks must always be balanced against the very strong feelings people have for their pets, especially at a vulnerable time. I would not recommend separating a person from her cats without very good reason, and would want to know exactly why, since it's not clear to me in this case.

DEAR DR. ROACH: I am an 80-year-old man with Type 2 diabetes. I have been told that I have a heart "prebeat" but that I should not worry unless it becomes random and misses beats. I do not have atrial fibrillation and have passed several stress tests. I can feel a rapid heart rate, especially at night. I can usually stop it by heaving my chest. Am I at risk for a serious event? -- R.G.B.

ANSWER: Premature heart contractions can come from either the top chambers of the heart (premature atrial contractions) or the bottom (premature ventricular contractions). Both are common, but neither is usually the sign of serious heart disease. The fact that you have found a way to stop them suggests to me that you are more likely having premature atrial contractions, which can come in runs of multiple beats (runs of premature ventricular contractions is called ventricular tachycardia and is very seri-

Evaluation of this common concern often includes a longterm electrical study of the heart, such as wearing a Holter monitor, a 24-hour recording of every heartbeat. If that has not been done, and you remain concerned, it might be reasonable to ask your doctor about obtaining one. If you have had one, and it showed nothing serious, then you are at no increased risk above the not-insignificant risk of an 80-year-old man with diabetes.

Dr. Roach regrets that he is unable to answer individual questions, but will incorporate them in the column whenever possible. Readers email questions to To Your Good Health@med.cornell.edu. © 2021 North America Synd., Inc.

Wolfpack avenges ELC loss

Fourth-quarter rally falls short

By David Swartz

HULL - As the team responsible for Class 2A No. 1 Western Christian's only loss this season, the Estherville Lincoln Central boys knew the Wolfpack would be looking for revenge as the teams met up on Tuesday.

In the first meeting of the season on Dec. 7, ELC made 15 3-pointers – nine in the third quarter - to defeat Western Christian, 82-74, for the first time since 1986.

ELC needed a similar effort Tuesday, but injury and illness have taken a toll on the lineup with three players - Tristan Howard, Grant Love and Logan Nissen – unavailable for the rematch.

The Midgets took a good run at the Wolfpack. Down by 15 points, 52-37, entering the fourth quarter, ELC had consecutive 3-pointers from Ryan Schiltz, Blake Evans and Jack Jensen and two free throws from Owen Larson to cut the deficit to eight, 56-48.

However, that was as close as they would get, as Western Christian prevailed 68-58.

"We're playing some good basketball and I'm very pleased with how we're playing," said ELC coach Nick Gruhlke. "Short three guys (from the first meeting), it could be easy to fold if you don't have the character and toughness - we showed we have that."

ELC started well against the Wolfpack. Owen Larson hit his first two 3-pointers and then assisted on a layup to Jack Jensen as the Midgets opened the game with an 8-0 run. Western Christian stormed back with a 15-4 run to lead 15-12. ELC's Adrian Vaughn was fouled on a 3-point attempt right before the end of the quarter and he converted all three as the teams ended the first quarter tied at 15-15.

ELC didn't fare as well in the second quarter as the Wolfpack threatened to run away with the game. The Midgets scored just seven points while Western Christian took a 35-22 lead into the locker room.

ELC did well to keep pace with the Wolfpack in the third quarter. Schiltz, who didn't score in the first half, scored 11 of his team-high18 points in the third period to keep ELC within striking distance.

Larson finished with 14 points and Vaughn had five.

ELC senior Ryan Schiltz scored all 18 of his points in the second half against Western Christian, but the Wolfpack prevailed over the Midgets, 68-58, on Tuesday.

Martindale hits 300-win milestone

H Stokes, Nitchals each score 21 to beat Wolfpack

> By David Swartz Managing Editor

HULL – The Estherville Lincoln Central girls left no doubt that they would give their coach, Don Martindale, his 300th career girls' basketball victory on Tuesday.

Senior Jaydan Nitchals hit her first two 3-point attempts to start the game and hit another in the first quarter as the Midgets raced out to a 20-4 lead. ELC, ranked fourth in Class 3A, expanded its lead throughout the night on the way to a 59-29 victory.

Martindale, who was a longtime coach at Spencer, now has 68 victories as the ELC girls head coach the past five years. He will be inducted into the Iowa Girls Coaches Association Hall of Fame during the 2022 Girls State Tournament.

"It's been a blessing with all the players that have bought in to what we're trying to do, the assistant coaches I've had and the parent support from the community," said Martindale. "300 wins is a milestone and I appreciate everyone that's been a part of it along the way."

ELC's success this season has come in forcing opponents to make turnovers. Unofficially, Western Christian had 18 turnovers in the first half as ELC led 36-17. The Wolfpack finished with 30 turnovers on the night.

Nitchals and Haylee Stokes

led the Midgets' effort with 21 points apiece. Nitchals had five of ELC's six 3-pointers in the contest. 'When a player like her catches fire, you have to give her the ball," said Martindale. Meanwhile Stokes took her points where she could with drives to the basket and the free throw line, where she was "What do you do with a player like that?" said Martindale

"You let her go with that basketball savvy. She can play up-tempo, the mid-range game - she's turning into a special player." Jordyn Stokes and Jasey Anderson each chipped in five points while Rylee Yager had four and Kaitlyn Tendal had Shayla Van Beek led Western Christian with nine points.

ELC (13-2 overall, 5-0 in the Lakes Conference) is home today against Emmetsburg (8-6). ELC defeated the E'Hawks earlier this season, 61-25, on Dec. 21. ELC travels to Milford on Saturday to play the Okoboji Pioneers (7-6). The Midgets return to Lakes Conference play next Tuesday for their second meeting of the season against Cherokee (10-5). ELC defeated the Braves, 61-25, in their first meeting on Dec. 14.

ELC coach Don Martindale will be inducted into the Iowa Girls Coaches Association Hall of Fame during the 2022 Girls State Basketball Tournament.

Sister Ruth announced that in keeping with President Nixon's Phase II, some reductions will be made in charges to patients in room rates and ancillary expenses. Ancillary expenses include charges for various tests and subsidiary services. 'This is with a hope," she said, of further reductions in the future, with a policy of keeping quality health care at the lowest possible ■ After coasting to a rather mediocre lead through the first half, Estherville outscored Sibley 27-12 in the third quarter of action Friday to gain an 86-66 win and its eighth Lakes win against two losses. It proved to be the finest third quarter of the season for the Midgets as a nine point halftime lead, 38-29, was opened up to a 24-point lead to put the game out of Sibley's reach. Doug Brant would end up with a career high 22 points for the game, Bob Grems had 22, and Wayne Hess 14 as the only Midgets to hit in ■ French II students at Estherville-Lincoln Central know that you don't have to travel oversees to visit a French-speaking region. This summer approximately 10 students will visit Canada's French-speaking Quebec province – the first trip for Estherville-Lincoln Central youth. Led by second-year teacher Karisti Cormier and a chaperone, the group will spend six days and five nights in the Canadian province. According to Cormier, the goals of the trip include giving students hands-on experience talking with native ■ After spotting Storm Lake a substantial lead to open the game, Estherville-Lincoln Central battled back. The Midgets rallied and
