

Council appoints Cathey, Harwell

By Scott Pearson
Associate Editor

The Lewisburg City Council will return to full strength in September after a special called meeting on Tuesday afternoon.

The three sitting members of the council unanimously voted to appoint Jack Cathey to fill the remaining term of 2nd Ward Councilman Artie Allen, who passed away in June.

The council interviewed Cathey and five other residents who'd expressed interest in filling the seat on Wednesday and Thursday last week.

Each were asked 11 questions regarding their qualifications, availability, and assessment of the city's strengths and needs during the 30 minute interview period.

The other interested candidates were Fletcher Cathey, Jon Faill, John Christmas, Vicki Michael, and John Murray.

Cathey was nominated by Councilman Joe Bradford and confirmed by Councilmen Bam Haislip and Jerry Gordon.

Additionally, Mayor Jim Bingham stated at the close of the session that Peggy Harwell, widow of 3rd Ward Councilman C. H. Harwell, would be appointed, as well, to fill the remaining term of her husband, who passed away at the end of July.

Both new members of the council will be sworn in prior to the new council work session scheduled for September 7.

The remaining terms for both seats run through August 31, 2022.

Census numbers confirm growth

By Scott Pearson
Associate Editor

The US Census Bureau released data last week confirming what causal observers have known for a while: Marshall County is growing.

The county and municipality-level data from the 2020 Census provides real numbers to support the anecdotes.

Marshall County grew by 12.09% compared to the 2010 census numbers, totalling 34,318 residents.

That is an increase of 3,701 from the 2010 official count of 30,617. In 2000, the county population was 26,767.

Marshall County now ranks as the 44th most populous of the state's 95 counties.

The county's municipalities followed the trend.

CHPD increases impaired-driving enforcement

The Chapel Hill Police Department is partnering with the Tennessee Highway Safety Office (THSO) to increase impaired-driving enforcement in the months of August & September. The THSO's statewide Booze It and Lose It campaign is part of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration's Drive Sober or Get Pulled Over nationwide mobilization.

The CHPD will be conducting a sobriety checkpoint in an effort to reduce impaired drivers in Marshall County, TN. The check point will be on Saturday August 21, 2021, and will be located in the corporate city limits of Chapel Hill. According to Police Chief Andrew Kon, the Chapel Hill Police Department is committed to protecting its residents and is taking the initiative to conduct its first roadblock this year.

Increased state and national messaging about the dangers of drunk driving, coupled with increased sobriety checkpoints and high visibility enforcement, aim to drastically reduce the number of drunk-driving crashes, injuries, and fatalities this year.

The consequences of a single

DUI conviction for a first-time offender in the state of Tennessee may include costly fines, court costs, legal fees, jail time, mandatory drug and alcohol treatment, and/or the installation of an ignition interlock device in his/her vehicle.

The THSO provides grant funding to support the Chapel Hill Police Department's increased enforcement efforts during the Booze It and Lose It campaign. For more information about the THSO, please visit www.tntrafficsafety.org.

Silents, please: Dixie Theatre takes patrons back in time

On Saturday, August 21 at 7:00 PM, the Dixie Theatre will take patrons back in time to a Golden Age of film comedy.

Harold Lloyd's masterwork "Safety Last" will screen for one night only with live piano accompaniment. Alongside Charlie Chaplin and Buster Keaton, Lloyd is considered one of the greatest comedians of the silent era.

Produced in 1923, "Safety Last" made Lloyd the king of Thrill Comedy. Its climax on a high-rise department store includes the iconic scene of him dangling from a clock. That image has been referenced in movies such as "Back to the Future", "Shanghai Knights", "Hugo", and more.

Lloyd did most of the stunts in the film himself, despite injuries from a terrible accident: he was posing for a publicity photo with what everyone thought was a prop bomb, when the device exploded. His right hand was badly mangled, his thumb and forefinger blown off. For the rest of his career, Lloyd wore a specially-made prosthetic glove to disguise the loss. But if you look closely, the glove is visible in many scenes.

Five years after "Safety Last", movies learned to talk: "The Jazz Singer" was the first successful "talkie." With sound came the end of an art form.

The biggest of the silent clowns - Chaplin, Keaton, Lloyd - continued making films in the sound era, but rarely matched the greatness of their early work. Only a few - like Laurel and Hardy - had an easy transition to talkies.

But silent films were not meant to be seen in silence. Many theatres had organs, and large venues sometimes employed entire orchestras. Even the small neighborhood movie house usually had a piano playing along.

For this screening, accompaniment will be provided by Joyce Herring, a pianist, teacher, writer and singer who has an eclectic background in music and drama. As a child she received piano instruction from Willa Wade Newman, composer of one of the Tennessee state songs. She was a student of Roland Schneller at Blair Academy of Music and Dr. Lucian Stark at George Peabody College. While pursuing a career in special education, Joyce remained active in a variety of venues from classical accompanist to rock keyboardist. Now retired with her husband Tom, Joyce enjoys hanging out with their five granddaughters, attending Lewisburg First Methodist Church, and taking on occasional musical projects.

With its skillful blend of comedy and thrills, "Safety Last" is suitable for the whole family (despite a few scenes with unfortunate stereotypes.) For free general admission tickets, visit mcc.ticketleap.com. The theatre is located at 110 West Church Street in Lewisburg.

Donna Jean Campbell

Mrs. Donna Jean Campbell, 73, of Lewisburg, died Sunday morning, August 15, 2021, at her home. A native of South Haven, MI, she was the daughter of the late Baisel and Hazel Boyle Simons.

Following high school, Donna moved to Virginia with her sister, and began working as a secretary for the Federal Bureau of Investigation. She met a young Vietnam veteran, Edwin "Ed" Campbell, returning from services who followed her back to Michigan. Their journey together started with their marriage on July 27, 1968, and continued until Ed's death on January 21, 2017.

Donna drove a school bus for many years with the Swartz Creek (MI) School System. When Ed's job relocated them to Tennessee in November of 1990, Donna officially retired as a homemaker and mother.

Soon after relocating to their home in Lewisburg, Ed & Donna became active at the Westvue Church of Christ, placing their membership in 1991. As Ed was called to serve the congregation as an elder, Donna was called to the life of an elder's wife. She faithfully conducted herself as such, becoming an example to others. As a faithful member of the church, she was active in the youth group as her children grew and she taught the Tuesday Ladies Bible Class for several years.

Donna is survived by three sons, Chad Mitchell (Cindy Hickok) Campbell of Lewisburg, Jeremy Edwin (Cindy Reid) Campbell of Cornersville, and Ryan Jeffrey Campbell of Lewisburg; three grandchildren, Cassie Campbell (Dylan) Burns of Cornersville, Emily Jean Hobby and David Jonathan Hobby, both of Lewisburg; cousins and extended family.

In addition to her parents and husband, Edwin Mitchell Campbell, she was preceded in death by her sister, Margaret Diane Simons.

The family will receive friends from 3 until 5 PM on Thursday at Westvue Church of Christ. A Celebration of Life will be conducted at 5 PM at the church. Online condolences may be made at www.CallNFC.com. Nashville Funeral & Cremation is assisting the family with final arrangements.

Patricia Riney Green

Patricia Riney Green died peacefully August 14, 2021, at her Nashville home at the age of 92. Pat Green was a citizen of Lewisburg for 15 years and was the widow of Thomas Bagley Green, Sr., who was mayor of Lewisburg from 1963 to 1966. Tom Green was the son of prominent life-long Marshall County residents W. E. Green, Sr. and Velma Bagley Green, and the brother of the late Will Ed Green, Jr.

Born August 10, 1929, in Louisville, Ky, to John Manuel Riney and Mary Elizabeth Campbell Riney, Pat Riney graduated from Knoxville Catholic High School and the University of Tennessee, majoring in Education and History. While at UT, Pat served as President of the Women's Student Government Association and was one of nine 1951 graduates selected as Torchbearer. More importantly, she met Tom Green of Lewisburg. They married in 1952 and together built a strong, exemplary partnership of faith and family, love and commitment, service and selflessness that endured beyond Tom's death in 2006.

During their years together in Lewisburg, Tom and Pat Green began their family of four sons, and Pat established many cherished life-long friendships.

Tom initially managed the Marshall County Farmers' Co-Op, then owned a small business, and was a dynamic civic leader, winning two elections for mayor. Pat was a lifetime lover of reading and her UT education made her a qualified librarian. As such, her involvement enabled the county to receive federal funds to enhance the Hardison Elementary School Library. She also worked with many others to improve the Marshall County Memorial Library, its physical facilities, its book collection, and its accessibility to all residents. The Tom Green family was one of the founding families of St. John the Evangelist Catholic Church in Lewisburg.

In 1966, Tom joined Third National Bank to lead its department of Regional Development. In 1967, the family moved to Nashville. Shortly thereafter, Pat joined the Christ the King Catholic School faculty as the junior high English and Social Studies teacher. So began a great 25-year legacy of education, dedication, inspiration and care. She spent the later part of her career as the school librarian, sharing her passion for reading and recommending just the right book for each student. Upon retiring, Pat continued to serve Christ the King Catholic Church and to live out her deep faith every day.

Pat is pre-deceased by her parents; husband, Thomas Bagley Green, Sr.; brother, John M. Riney, Jr.; sisters, Sister Elizabeth Riney, R.S.M., Mildred Lee Riney, and Mary Margaret "Peggy" Riney Arrowsmith; special cousin, James F. McCloud; and two special aunts, Mary Mildred Riney and Blanche Riney McCloud.

Pat is survived by her four sons: Thomas B Green, Jr. (Pam), B. Riney Green (Lynn), John C. Green (Mary), and William L. Green (Susan), all of Nashville; eleven grandchildren; and five great-grandchildren.

A funeral Mass was held on Tuesday, August 17, 2021, at Christ the King Catholic Church, 3001 Belmont Boulevard, Nashville, Tn 37212. Pat donated her body to Vanderbilt University Medical School. In time, her remains will be interred in Lone Oak Cemetery, Lewisburg, Tn, alongside those of her beloved husband.

In lieu of flowers, the family suggests donations to Christ the King Catholic School (3105 Belmont Blvd), Room at the Inn (P.O. Box 25309, Nashville, Tn 37202), the Marshall County Memorial Library, or another suitable charity that serves the needs of others.

Kimberly Suzanne Wilson Ray

Kimberly Suzanne Wilson Ray, 58, of Lewisburg, TN, passed away the weekend of August 7, 2021.

Kim was a loving mother, at times embarrassingly affectionate with her kids and grandson, and always quick to say how proud she was of even the smallest accomplishments. She demonstrated the values she wanted her children to learn, including service to others and one's country, compassion, and kindness. As a nurse, she was beloved by patients and their families for her warm manner and endless empathy. She was also a Flight Nurse in the U.S. Air Force Reserves and was thrilled when her son, Trey, entered the same branch of service after college. Throughout her life, Kim excelled at everything she put her mind to -- she was a state champion long-distance runner in high school; she put herself through college as a young mother of two and graduated with honors; and she won several awards for her skill as a nurse. Her laugh was loud and genuine, her smile was beautiful and frequent, and her love for family, friends, and animals of all kinds was boundless.

Kim is survived by her daughter, Julie and grandson, Aidan; her son, Trey; her mother, Mary Jane; her brother, Rick; and many, many friends, including Erika, both Annettes, Pamela, and her pastor, Julie. She is also survived by her former husband and dear friend, Walter.

of broadcasting honest. Her grandfather, Fred Mustain, was a sports broadcaster for WJJM for many years.

Mayor Mike Keny worked with him and knew him well. "Fred Mustain was a sports icon in Marshall County. He was a tremendous radio broadcaster and his signature call "Holy Cow" will ring in the ears of Tiger fans forever. Like all great broadcasters he was a master story-teller who captured your attention and his friendly, folksy manner made him a welcome visitor via the airwaves into many Marshall County homes. It just feels right - there's another Mustain that is a part of the broadcasting world at WJJM."

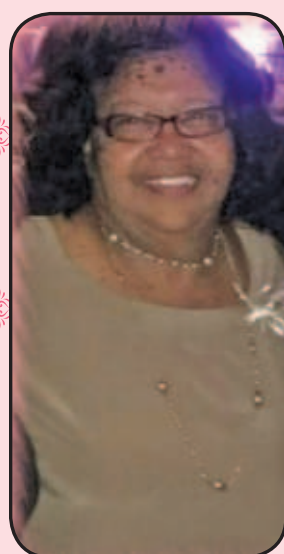

Mustain passed away in August of 1997 at the age of 50. Taylor never met her grandfather but she knows what a great person he was and she gets her inspiration of the love of broadcasting from him. She uses his name while on the radio as the host of the morning show, "Taylor Mustain in the Morning."

While attending CHS, Taylor helped broadcast numerous high school baseball games. She really enjoyed calling games and soon realized the field of study she desired to major in - Communications/Broadcasting. She also called football games and even a rodeo on Station 90.3 WUTM while attending UTM.

Missie Haislip, owner of WJJM, said she is thrilled to have Taylor on the staff. "She is an excellent addition and a great asset to the WJJM family as she continues in her grandfather's footsteps. She is a little bit of sunshine and we are so proud to have her."

Thank You

Our world has been turned upside down ever since we experienced the passing of our dear Mae Tom Knott. Words cannot describe the void that Mae Tom's death has left behind. Your thoughtfulness has helped to ease this pain for a short while, and we are grateful for it.

We are never ready for the loss of someone we love. Suddenly, our lives are changed forever, and all we have left with are memories. These memories are often shared with others who are also feeling the loss. Thank you for your calls, cards, floral tributes, visits and any acts of kindness shown to us during this time. Your support is a small beacon of hope, a reminder that there were many people sharing in our grief. Mae Tom will remain in our hearts forever and we know we will see her again because death is not the end.

According to CNN, pandemic fears and enhanced unemployment benefits have left the nation facing a serious shortage of qualified school bus drivers.

The problem is acute -- despite districts implementing recruitment campaigns, offering sign-up bonuses, and even fudging on the standards. ("Question one. Fill in the blank: The wheels on the bus go round and...") "Wait, wait. Don't tell me. I got this. Round and ... covered with sprinkles!")

I hope the shortage will make society stop taking bus drivers for granted. (I know that I'm right behind the drivers. Especially when I'm in a hurry to get somewhere and it seems like every other house has the whole von Trapp Family Singers crew traipsing out to the bus. "Climb every mountain... miss every appointment..." But I digress.)

Driving a school bus is still a largely thankless job, even in the districts where the school board publicly recognizes the drivers. ("Let's hear it for our drivers. We can't get along without them. Next order of business. We have a new low bid on urinal cakes. Urinal cakes: we can't get along without them.")

No matter how much newly hired drivers love kids, once they get behind the steering wheel, they flash back to the mantra of childhood: "I scream, you scream, we all scream for...no apparent reason. Hey, why is the driver always singing '99 Bottles of Tylenol on the Wall?")

The stressful duties of bus drivers remind me of the Ann Richards quote "Ginger Rogers did everything that Fred Astaire did. She just did it backwards and in high heels." Similarly, a bus driver does a lot of the things a principal does, only while navigating 10 tons of metal through heavy traffic.

Yes, bus drivers are trapped in a work environment where rubber bands and paper footballs fly freely, where No. 2 pencils are irresistibly drawn toward major arteries, where first-graders are exposed to birds-and-bees lectures by sophomores ("If the bee has dreamy hair and his own car for getting to a hypothetical minimum-wage job, just go for it") and where more cheese is cut than in a five-star French restaurant.

Back in my day, someone might smuggle a pocketknife or live frog onto the bus. Today, you're just as likely to hear someone explain, "I don't mind sitting on the back seat. I have to make sure no one goes out the emergency exit anyway. I don't know which is worse -- gym class or running my human trafficking operation by myself while my brother has mono."

Ideally, drivers are just a caring adult performing a valuable service. But sometimes they get "thrown under the bus" by passengers. Like when it's THEIR FAULT they hit a few potholes and little Gavin can't start and finish his detailed diorama of Shakespeare's London on the way to school.

Many drivers go above and beyond the call of duty -- consoling passengers who fell asleep and missed their stop, collecting Christmas gifts for underprivileged children and reuniting students with backpacks and other items they forgot. ("Thank you for dropping off my life-size model of Henry VIII's skeleton. Now, tell my parents how it wasn't my fault that I forgot it.")

Hug a school bus driver today -- unless they're already playing air guitar to a classic rock station while driving with their feet.

The wheels on the ambulance go round and round...

Three cheers for us 'middles'

By Tom Purcell

You ignored August 12th didn't you?

That's when the world celebrates National Middle Child Day every year, but you ignored it just as you have ignored us "middles" our entire lives!

I'm the third-born child in a family of six -- an only boy with five sisters.

As a tyke I longed for the acceptance of my older sisters. At times, they doted over me but other times they were repulsed by their stinky, sweaty baby brother who always had a nose full of boogies.

I was permanently banished to the back seat of our station wagon, which faced the rear window, and which is why I spent most of my childhood in a state of motion sickness.

When my sisters were teeny boppers, they, like all girls in America, were infatuated with pop singer David Cassidy.

Since he sported a shag haircut -- he parted his hair down the middle and feathered it over the sides of his noggin -- they were determined that I get one, too.

I became the first kid in St. Germaine Catholic School to do so and by the end of the school year every single boy had the David Cassidy cut.

When my three younger sisters arrived, and as my older sisters started doing their own things outside the family unit, I evolved into the older brother and finally was treated with a little respect.

The experience I had as a middle child in the '70s is one that few kids experience today -- mainly because there are so few large families today.

In our neighborhood, a small '70s family had three kids, but most families had four to six and a few had more than 10.

Now, with both parents working and the cost of raising children considerably higher than it was 40 years ago, most parents prefer to have one or two kids, according to The CUT.

For several reasons, this trend is not good for the rest of us.

The unique characteristics of a middle child are honed by his or her experiences in the family pecking order.

For starters, we are good mediators.

In my family, I always disliked seeing my siblings arguing and always sought to moderate and quell them -- and I still do. I'm happiest when we are all getting along.

The International Business Times reports that because middle children "are more willing to compromise and look at all sides of a question," they turn out to be excellent negotiators compared to first-born or last-born children.

Is the lack of middles one of the unheralded causes of eroding civility? Could be.

I'd also argue that we middles have a highly refined sense of humor -- which is also beneficial to our national health and well-being.

Humor is how we got attention. Using comic relief is also how we calm everyone down in stressful times and improve the discourse and the general happiness of our friends and family.

I've long thought that first-borns and last-borns are generally the most focused and ambitious family members who go on to become leaders in their chosen fields, but I was surprised to learn that half of our presidents were middle children, according to Business Insider.

Joe Biden is the oldest of four, so he probably doesn't know how to use the most powerful middle-child negotiating tactic to neutralize his opponents: threaten to use their toothbrushes!

It was always going to end this way in Afghanistan

By Dick Polman

Anyone who professes to be shocked by the Taliban victory in Afghanistan has not been paying attention.

It was always bound to happen. It was merely delayed because Uncle Sam kept his trillion-dollar finger in the dike for 20 years. Were we fated to remain forever, in a land that had already proved fatally inhospitable to the British and the Russians and Alexander the

The harbingers of failure had long been obvious, but most Americans, benumbed by the war, had long ago stopped paying attention. In 2019, word leaked that the U.S. officials entrusted with propping up the Afghan regime were disgusted with their proteges, saying in memos and private interviews that "after almost two decades of help from Washington, the Afghan army and police are still too weak to fend off the Taliban."

They were weak largely because they were deeply corrupt. In the private words of Ryan Crocker, a former U.S. ambassador, "they're useless as a security force because they are corrupt down to the patrol level." Nevertheless, as another U.S. official admitted to government interviewers in 2015, "The less they behaved, the more money we threw at them."

Fairly or not, President Biden will own the humiliating images of retreat -- but, in reality, the Afghanistan debacle was authored by American presidents from both political parties. What we're seeing now is a bipartisan clustermuck.

It was launched by George W. Bush, who committed us to the impossible task of nation-building. (From his 2005 Inaugural address: "It is the policy of the United States to seek and support the growth of democratic movements and institutions in every nation and culture," even though, he admitted, "our country has accepted obligations that are difficult to fulfill.")

It was sustained by Barack Obama, who approved a troop surge in 2009 and whose military spokesmen kept saying there was light at the end of the tunnel (Gen. James Mattis to Congress in 2010: "We're on the right track now.")

It landed in the capacious lap of Donald Trump, who decided it was time to get out, who invited the Taliban to Camp David in 2019 ("We're getting along very, very well with the Taliban"), and who set a May 1, 2021 withdrawal deadline for U.S. forces.

Nevertheless, Republicans are predictably hammering Biden, conveniently forgetting that antiwar sentiment has long been rampant in their own ranks. Mitt Romney, the Republican's presidential nominee in 2012, said of Afghanistan in 2011: "We've learned that our troops shouldn't go off and try and fight a war of independence for another nation."

As recently as last April, Trump endorsed Biden's announced intention to withdraw the troops: "Getting out of Afghanistan is a wonderful and positive thing to do. I planned to withdraw on May 1, and we should keep as close to that schedule as possible."

"Biden understood that the choice was between getting out or being stuck there with no end in sight, and he rightly judged that the former was better for the United States," wrote historian and veteran conservative commentator Daniel Larison. "The fact that the Afghan government has lost so much ground so quickly proves that the U.S. failed in building a functioning state that could fend for itself... Far from showing the folly of Biden's decision, it confirms the wisdom of it. A state as rickety and incapable of protecting itself as this one would not have been saved by delaying withdrawal a few more months or even years."

As Biden said on Saturday, "One more year or five more years of U.S. military presence would not have made a difference if the Afghan military cannot or will not hold its own country. And an endless American presence in the middle of another country's civil conflict was not acceptable to me."

That view also jibes with the sentiments of the most Americans. He'll likely take a hit in the short run as the images of surrender resonate globally -- although that's akin to blaming President Gerald Ford for our chaotic final departure from Vietnam in 1975 -- but the fact remains that the current withdrawal is supported by 70 percent of Americans, including 56 percent of Republicans.

What most Americans appear to understand -- even while mostly tuning out the war -- is that leaving Afghanistan is basically the least bad option. There's no point in investing a few more trillion dollars and more American bodies just to keep meeting the definition of insanity, the compulsion to do the same thing over and over again in expectation of a different result. It takes wisdom and political courage to face reality.

MARSHALL COUNTY DEVOTIONAL PAGE

“Verily I say unto you, Whosoever shall not receive the Kingdom of God as a little child, he shall not enter therein. And He took them up in His arms, put His hands upon them, and blessed them.” – Mark 10:15,16

Many times we hear about grace and quickly say, “Amen!” However grace is really understood when grace is demonstrated – especially when it was demonstrated by our Lord Jesus! While Jesus was with His disciples answering questions, a continual flow of parents brought their children to Him so that He would lay His hands upon them and pray a blessing over them. Therefore the disciples took it upon themselves to rebuke the parents for this interruption. This displeased the Lord Jesus because He just taught them about humiliation. Now they were doing the opposite. Instead of humbly making room for the children, they were pushing them away and scolding the parents.

At that time, the Jewish legalistic mindset was that young children were a distraction for the work of the Kingdom of God. So we have the Lord Jesus once again going against the conventional wisdom of established religion by identifying with these little children by taking them into His arms. How awesome it is to see that the Lord Jesus does not see it as a burden to take up children and pray a blessing over them. In Numbers 11:11-14, Moses complained to the LORD about how the Children of Israel was a “burden” to him. He did not want to take them up and lead them any longer. This is a great spiritual lesson, because John 1:17 says, “For the law was given by Moses, but grace and truth came by Jesus Christ.” This teaches us that Moses, who represents the law, sees God’s people as a burden and refuses to take them up in his arms and carry them. Understand that the law has no compassion for the people. The law only points out and complains about the faults of the people and cannot help. That is the nature of the law. However, the Lord Jesus Christ is the personification of all grace. Christ found pleasure in receiving these children into His arms, and He will also receive all who come to Him in child-like faith. Jesus showed grace to these parents and to the children, while at the same time

He demonstrated to the disciples what grace looks like and what grace sounds like.

Dear soul we can never make too much of grace. The law is quick to condemn us, complain about us, and reject us as an unfit burden not to be helped, but the God of all grace is ready to receive us. Grace takes you up in His arms with great pleasure and does for you what you cannot do for yourself while pronouncing an eternal blessing upon you. All who come to the Lord Jesus with a child like spirit is promised to find grace and will enter into the Kingdom of God!

Welcome to our Church

Church members deliver gift bags to residents

By Patty Tucker Blackburn
Tribune staff

Members of the Bethlehem Baptist Church, located at 3347 Franklin Pike, displayed their generosity while taking their time to purchase and assemble gift bags for residents at NHC-Lewisburg. "Christmas in July" was the theme dedicated to this occasion.

In 2020, the church members made and delivered 25 bags to residents at NHC-Lewisburg. The bags, filled with goodies, were given to those who received the fewest visitors during the year. Due to COVID, the bags were left with the staff who delivered them to the 25 residents. The staff noted that those who were given a bag were overjoyed and asked if it could be possible for all residents to receive such a gift in the future. With this suggestion by the staff, a plan was carried out.

The committee at the church, led by Pat Holt and Emily Gordon, made a list of items for the bags and informed the congregation. They received an overwhelming number of items - enough to fill 82 beautiful bags. Placed in the bags were colors, coloring books, snacks, crossword puzzles, stuffed animals, toiletries, bottles of melted snowmen (water), exercise cushions, cards signed by church members, Aunt Helen's ABC Bibles verses, and more.

They had planned to deliver the bags on July 23rd, but due to a conflict at NHC-Lewisburg and COVID at church, the date was changed to August 12th.

Several members of the church and Santa, Lonnie Bennett, were dressed in flip flops with multi colored leis. Jerry Gordon displayed his Christmas spirit by wearing red reindeer antlers. Christmas music played on the CD player as members handed out the bags to the residents who were seated in the dining area at NHC-Lewisburg. You should have seen the ladies and gentlemen look through those bags! They were so excited as they pulled out the items, one at a time.

As they looked through their bags, Emily Gordon played several tunes on the piano as everyone sang along and clapped. Jingle Bells and Jesus Loves Me were the two favorites. Emily also asked what was their most memorable present they received as a child. One lady said she and her brother had presents under the Christmas tree and while their parents were gone, they opened them. Her present was a Crissy doll and her brother's present was a drum set. She was then asked how her parents reacted since they opened their presents early and she said they didn't like it at all! Another favorite memory was having photos made with Santa at Harvey's Dept. Store.

The residents at NHC-Lewisburg and the members of Bethlehem Baptist Church thoroughly enjoyed themselves during "Christmas in July." It is always a pleasure to give gifts as well as to receive them.

Giving back should be a goal of everyone. Giving back creates a community altruism that creates a culture of respect, caring, and concern. We should make giving a priority in our lives.

La Leche League of Lewisburg families join with Mayor Mike Keny as he signs a resolution recognizing August as National Breast-feeding Month in Marshall County. The group is holding its annual family and community picnic in celebration on August 21 from 10:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Harmon Park in Lewisburg. Those interested are welcomed to join in the gathering, potluck picnic, and prizes on offer. LLL of Lewisburg has had events since the initiation of World Breast-feeding Week in 1990. According to the World Health Organization, breast-feeding promotes better health for mothers and children alike. Increasing breast-feeding to near-universal levels could save more than 800,000 lives worldwide every year, the majority being children under six months. Breast-feeding decreases the risk of mothers developing breast cancer, ovarian cancer, type 2 diabetes, and heart disease. It is estimated that increased breast-feeding could avert 20,000 maternal deaths each year due to breast cancer. For more information on the Lewisburg chapter of La Leche League, call or text accredited leader Anna Childress at 931-637-5810.

The selection begins at the local Lodge level and continues through State and National judging. 2021 ENF Legacy Awards The 2022 contest and application will open on September 2, 2021 and the deadline for 2022 applications is February 7, 2022.

The Elk must also be a paid-up member through March 31, 2022. Great-grandchildren are not eligible.
2. The applicant must be a high school senior.
3. The applicant must apply online only. The 2022 Legacy Awards application deadline is February 7, 2022.

2. The Elk sponsor's membership will be verified through the BPOE Grand Lodge headquarters.
3. When a student registers to complete the online application, both the applicant and Lodge Secretary will be notified by email.
4. If you have questions about your online Legacy Awards application, contact the ENF Scholarship Office via email at scholarship@elks.org.

5. Upon receipt of the application, the applicant will receive a notification that the application was received. Winners will be announced in late April 2022.

Note: Because the contest begins in one Lodge year and the winners are announced in the next, a Legacy Award could go to the child or grandchild of a lapsed member. An applicant's Elk parent or grandparent must be a paid-up member in good standing at the time of application, but if the Elk chooses not to renew membership, that decision will not affect the outcome of the Legacy Awards contest.

Rockets face tough schedule, focused on one opponent at a time

By Anthony S. Puca
Sports Writer

After great spring practice and a successful Lift-A-Thon, the Forrest Rockets have continued to work hard during the summer and the first couple weeks of school as they prepare for the 2021 campaign that kicks off Friday night at archrival Eagleville.

“We will worry about Eagleville in Week 1, right now we are focused on ourselves and we are just trying to get better every day,” said fourth-year Forrest head coach Eli Stephenson. “Our kids come to work every day, our attendance is excellent, and they come in with a great attitude and get better every day.”

“That first spring practice wasn’t very good, but we got better every day and the kids are really starting to get there, we just want to peak at the right time.”

Stephenson sports a 24-12 overall record, a 12-4 region record, 3-3 in the postseason, and one region title in 2019.

Road warriors

Usually the home field is an advantage, but that is not the case in this rivalry as the Rockets hold a 6-4 road record and the Eagles have won five-out-of-nine at Chapel Hill since 2003.

Forrest has claimed three straight double digit wins over the Eagles, who dropped down to Class A this season.

“It’s always a close game over there, we can’t score on them, they can’t score on us, it’s a defensive battle year in and year out,” Stephenson said. “We love playing those games, it’s a rivalry game for us and it’s always special playing Eagleville.”

of rivalry games, maybe the biggest of all is the Week 2 home opener versus intra-county rival Cornersville.

The Rockets have won the last 13 Battles of the North and the South, including a 49-14 win in the last meeting in 2014 at the Murrey E. Holton Memorial Field in Chapel Hill.

“We are really looking forward to playing them, we haven’t played them in a while,” Stephenson said. “Coach (Gerard) Randolph does a great job with them, they are always physical, fundamentally sound, and they really get after it.” “That is what we try to do around here, we have about the same philosophy and that will be a big game for both of us and I hope the crowd is really big.”

The Bulldogs last win in the series came in 1996 in a 13-7 victory at Frog Bottom.

In Week 3, Forrest opens up Region 5-AA play when they host the Loretto Mustangs, who have lost all four region meetings with Chapel Hill since 2017.

“Loretto was young last year, they have a lot of returning players and they always have some good athletes,” Stephenson said. “They will be a lot better this year and that will be a good region game to open up with.”

Things don’t get any easier in Week 4 as Forrest travels to Lynchburg in what may be the longest lasting rivalry of all for the Rockets as these games date back to near the turn of the 20th Century.

Forrest has won six straight over a Moore County squad that spent a couple years near the .500 mark before busting out to an 11-2 record last season with their only two losses coming against eventual Class A state champion Fayetteville, including a 38-29 loss in the state tournament quarterfinals.

“Moore County is a solid ballclub, coach (Kris) White has done a great job, they are fundamentally sound and physical,” Stephenson

Lady Rocket spikers drop 2 to start week

Staff report

It’s been a tough start of the season for the Forrest Lady Rockets, dropping two matches to start the season this week.

On Monday, the Lady Rockets traveled to Unionville and took on a veteran Viqueen team that qualified for the state sectional a season ago.

Community won the match convincingly, posting a 25-9 Set 1 win, and followed with a 25-8 Set 2 victory.

The Viqueens finished the match with a 25-2 win in the third set.

While the offense was difficult to come by on Monday against the Viqueens, the Lady Rockets did show some improvements on the scoreboard on Tuesday at Cascade, despite falling in straight sets.

Rockets edge Richland at Horton

Staff Report

CHAPEL HILL — The Forrest Rockets won a close match on Tuesday afternoon at Henry Horton, beating out Richland by four strokes to claim the team victory.

Cascade's Evan Woosley-Reed, the two-time defending state champion, won medalist honors with a 36.

But several Rockets were hot on his heels.

Consistent scoring from across the Forrest lineup were the name of the game as Noah Brown and Sebastian Thompson each shot a 44, while Trey Williamson and Kelton Grubbs each carded a 50.

In the girls' side of the match, Forrest's Maggie

Browning turned in a strong showing with a 46, but it wasn't enough to overcome a sharp outing by Cascade, who won the match with an 81.

In addition to Browning's 46, Ava Edmondson shot a 61 for a 107 team score.

said. "It's always tough going over there down in that hole, but we are looking forward to it and it will be a good game for us."

Homecoming versus the Eagles

Region 5-AA foe Summertown travels to Forrest for homecoming in Week 5 as the Eagles will try to break an all-time four-game stranglehold by the Rockets, including a Covid-19 forfeit last season and seven point losses in 2018 and 2019.

"It's become a pretty nasty rivalry, I think it comes from all those years of playing baseball and basketball," Stephenson said. "They are a tough team to play, they have great athletes, they are country kids, and they play hard from the first whistle to the last whistle."

Forrest has a couple of all-time thorns in the side, one being Waverly and the other the Marion County Warriors, who will host the Rockets in Week 6.

It will be the longest road trip of the regular season for Forrest when they travel to Jasper in an attempt to break a 0-3 record versus a Marion County squad that knocked the Rockets out of the playoffs with wins at Chapel Hill in 2009, 2015, and 2016.

"I look for one long trip a year in case you have to go a long way for the playoffs," Stephenson said. "It's going to build our team, win or lose."

"We saw them in the passing league and they have some good looking cats playing."

The Rockets stay on the road in Week 7, travelling to Wartrace for another heated rivalry contest with the Champions, who knocked off Forrest 17-14 at Chapel Hill last season to break a six-game losing streak over the blue and white.

TSSAA realignment has the Champions back in the same region with Forrest after spending four years in Region 4-AA.

"Cascade got us last year, that was a tough one, and we let that get away from us," Stephenson said. "It's been a rivalry in the past, coach (Jake) Tyree has built them back up, so we just have to play our game and we will be alright."

Week 8 brings some rest for the Rockets as they get the week off from a game night before hitting the road again in a Week 9 region matchup at Richland.

Forrest has not played the Raiders since 2010 when they won 35-0 at Chapel Hill and the Rockets sport a 4-2 over the Giles County school since 2003.

"We have not played them a long time in the regular season, but coach (Nick) Patterson is building a good program and he is building it the right way," Stephenson said.

Last two games at home

Another longtime foe comes to town in Week 10 as the East Robertson Eagles make the long trek from Cross Plains in an attempt to bust a five-game Forrest winning streak, including a 10-0 opening season loss last year in the rain at "The Rock".

"I'm glad they have to come here again," Stephenson said. "They have the Taylor Groves kid too and they are going to be athletic, so we just have to play our style of football."

Groves, who recently recommitted from Michigan, is one of the top 10 football prospects in Tennessee according to the 247Sports Composite.

Michigan State, Notre Dame, Ole Miss, Tennessee, Virginia Tech, Cincinnati, Florida, Georgia, and North Carolina are all now in the running to sign the four-star athlete.

Groves had a huge sophomore season in 2019, compiling 57 tackles and seven interceptions on defense and had 49 catches for 739 yards and five TDs on offense. He suffered a minor knee injury last season and played in only seven games for the Eagles.

The colorful regular season schedule ends in style as the Mt. Pleasant Tigers come to town for the first region game between the two programs since 2004.

The Tigers have won four out of the last six meetings versus Forrest since 2003, including the last four in a row and playoff wins in 2006 and 2012 at Mt. Pleasant.

"Mount Pleasant always has great athletes, we just have to keep them in front of us," Stephenson said. "That's the key to that game."

After a 6-4 regular season record in 2020, look for the Rockets to improve to 8-2 and make a strong playoff run.

FMS Rockets roll over Eagles in season opener

By Anthony S. Puca
Sports Writer

After a disappointing 2-4 record in 2020, the FMS Rockets have reloaded their arsenal and they unloaded the full barrage on Eagleville in Thursday night's season opener at the Murrey E. Holton Memorial Field in Chapel Hill, blasting the Eagles 40-8.

"I think overall we improved from last week which was exciting to see," FMS coach Tony Johnson said. "With the heat index, we were indoors all week so that was unfortunate, we had five days without conditioning, so when we got out here we were a little winded, we were sucking air."

"So I'm proud our guys could dig deep even though we are a little out of shape right now and put a full ballgame together and compete against a good Eagleville team."

The Rockets only had five offensive possessions in the Duck River Valley Conference contest and scored touchdowns on four out of the five series, plus they added two defensive scores in the blow-out win.

"We are kind of that all gas, no brakes mentality," Johnson said. "We like to hit it quick."

Forrest had 156 total yards in the game and all came via the running attack with Eli Bell leading the way with 54 yards on five carries, Cohen Grissom had 43 yards on four touches and a touchdown, seventh-grade standout Fletcher Fields only toted the rock once and that was a 24-yard TD run.

Antonio Marable also made the most of his lone carry, scoring on a 21-yard run and quarterback Ryan Hill had two carries for 14 yards, including a 1-yard score on a keeper.

"We have multiple backs that run the football really, really hard and hit the holes," Johnson said. "Cohen Grissom, Antonio Marable, Fletcher Fields, and Eli Bell are all really good running backs and Jacob Tincher is coming along, he is a seventh-grader that has never played before, he got to play this fifth-quarter JV and if he keeps working, he will eventually get some touches too, so with our backs, I couldn't ask more from them."

Eagleville won the toss and deferred and that was a big mistake as FMS scored on their second snap with Grissom scoring from 41-yards out, breaking several tackles while snaking through the entire Eagleville defense.

Hill added the 2-point run to make it 8-0 and FMS never trailed in the contest.

The Rockets' defense forced a three-and-out that included a Bell 8-yard tackle for loss.

A poor Eagleville punt gave the Rockets great field position at the Eagles' 39-yard line and after a 10-yard gain by Grissom on first down, Fields took the rock to the house on second down and Antonio Marable tacked on the 2-point run to make 16-0 with 4:22 remaining in the first quarter.

FMS continued its defensive dominance on Eagleville's second possession as Chris Ogletree came up with a fourth down sack to give the ball back to the Rockets at the Eagleville 32-yard line.

The Eagleville defense tried to stay in the game as they stopped the Rockets on downs after a fourth down incompletion on the final play of the first quarter.

The Eagles got a little offense going as they drove to near the midfield stripe, but a fourth down incomplete pass gave the ball back to the Rockets at the Eagleville 49-yard line with 3:45 remaining in the first half.

Three consecutive runs by Marable, Bell, and Hill moved the ball to the one-yard line where Hill punched it in for a touchdown.

Grissom added the 2-point run to put the Rockets up 24-0 and three plays later the first half ended.

The Eagles took the second half kickoff and began to march down the field, ending up on the FMS 13-yard line after a nice pitch and catch from Ayden Vestal to Camden Cole.

On the next snap, Cole fumbled and Kasen Owen scooped up the rock at the 11-yard line and raced untouched 89 yards for the touchdown.

Marable run it in for two more points to put FMS up 32-0 with 4:14 remaining in the third quarter.

Eagleville put together its only scoring drive of the contest on the next possession, driving 55 yards with Vestal scoring on a 1-yard run and Blair Carter added the 2-point run to make it 32-8 with 7:08 remaining in the contest.

The Rockets were stopped on downs by the Eagles on the next offensive series before a big hit by Marable in the Eagleville backfield fired up the squad and Fields put the icing on the opening night cake when he picked off Vestal and raced 65 yards to pay dirt.

"I'm super proud of our defense, we let two big plays go, but that happens and everybody gets beat sometimes, their tight end and their receiver both made really, really good catches where we were in position," Johnson said. "But, we are really, really proud of our defense holding the line tonight."

Bell added the 2-point run to cap off the blowout for the Rockets, who travel to Fayetteville this week.

Forrest has not beaten the Tigers since the 2015 season.

"We haven't beat Fayetteville since 2015, that was the last time we went undefeated and won the DRVC championship," Johnson said. "We have to build on this win right here."

"Fayetteville always is super athletic, they always seem to have a tall quarterback that can run and throw and they always have some really good running backs and receivers, so we have to play really sound football, be more physical and come out with that win."

In fifth quarter action, seventh-graders Tincher and Maddox Puca made some big plays with Tincher scoring on two long touchdown runs and Puca scored on a 53-yard pick-six.

Bama ranked No. 1 in preseason poll...again

By RALPH D. RUSSO
AP College Football Writer

Another college football season will start with everyone chasing the Tide.

Alabama is No. 1 in The Associated Press Top 25 preseason poll for fourth time in the past six seasons.

Coming off its sixth national championship under Nick Saban, the Crimson Tide enters the season loaded with potential replacements for the record-breakers and NFL draft picks who have moved on, including Heisman Trophy winner DeVonta Smith.

Alabama received 47 of 63 first-place votes from the panel of sports writers and broadcasters in the poll presented by Regions Bank. Oklahoma is No. 2, just ahead of No. 3 Clemson (each received six first-place votes).

Ohio State, which lost to the Tide in last season's championship game, is No. 4 after receiving a first-place vote. Georgia received three first-place votes and rounds out the top five.

The 2020 Buckeyes were emblematic of a bizarre season played through the pandemic, suiting up for only eight games after the Big Ten didn't kickoff until late October. The season was riddled with postponements, cancellations, and players and coaches missing games across the country because of COVID-19. There was little nonconference play and none among Power Five conference teams.

Amid all the chaos and frustration was a familiar ending: The season came to a close with Alabama on top.

Last year's Tide staked a claim as the greatest team of the Saban dynasty. Alabama went 13-0, facing 11 Southeastern Conference teams and playoff showdowns with Notre Dame and Ohio State.

"The challenge is you've got to rebuild with a lot of new players who will be younger, have new roles, less experience, and how do they respond to these new roles?" Saban said. "That's why rebuilding is a tremendous challenge. That's why it's very difficult to repeat."

The most powerful offense in the country lost Smith, quarterback Mac Jones and running back Najee Harris, all first-round NFL draft picks this year. The next wave of blue-chippers stepping into bigger roles includes running back Brian Robinson, receiver John Metchie and quarterback Bryce Young, a former five-star recruit from California.

"Bryce has endless potential," Saban said.

Since the AP started the preseason poll in 1950, only 11 teams that started No. 1 also ended the season as No. 1. Alabama was the last to do it, in 2017, the middle season of three straight in which the Crimson Tide took the preseason top spot. Alabama finished second in 2016 and '18.

No program faces higher expectations than Alabama going into any season: The Crimson Tide is the only team in the country to start each of the last 13 seasons ranked in the top five.

And no program has been better at meeting those expectations: Along with the six national titles, the Tide has three more top-four finishes over the previous 12 years and has never ended a season ranked lower than 10th.

Poll points

— Alabama is now tied with Ohio State for the second-most preseason No. 1 rankings with eight. Oklahoma has the most with 10.

— Only two teams have gone wire-to-wire as the No. 1 team in the country during a season. Southern California was the last in 2004, with Heisman Trophy winner Matt Leinart. The first was undefeated Florida State in 1999, possibly the best team of the Bobby Bowden era. Bowden died earlier this month at 91.

— No. 8 Cincinnati of the American Athletic Conference is the first team from outside the Power Five leagues to be ranked in the preseason top 10 since Louisville started ninth in 2012. That was the Cardinals' final season as a member of the AAC before joining the Atlantic Coast Conference.

The defending AAC champion Bearcats have the best preseason ranking for a non-Power Five or BCS conference team since Boise State was No. 5 to begin 2011. The Broncos out of the Mountain West finished that season No. 8.

Rarities and firsts

— Sun Belt rivals No. 22 Coastal Carolina and No. 23 Louisiana-Lafayette are ranked in the preseason poll for the first time. It's the first time the conference has had any teams ranked in the preseason.

— No. 7 Iowa State is ranked in the preseason for the third straight season after having only one previous appearance in the preseason poll (1978). The Cyclones had never been ranked better than 20th to begin a season. They also have never been ranked higher at any point than the No. 8 they reached last year on the way to finishing ninth.

— No. 10 North Carolina has its best preseason ranking since being No. 7 in 1997 during coach Mack Brown's first stint with the Tar Heels.

— No. 17 Indiana is ranked in the preseason poll for the first time since 1968. The Hoosiers finished last season at No. 12, the second-best final ranking in program history. Indiana has never started and finished a season ranked.

Conference call

No. 6 Texas A&M starts with its best preseason ranking since 1995 when the Aggies were No. 3. Coach Jimbo Fisher's team also gives the SEC three teams in the top six, joining Alabama and Georgia.

Heupel latest coach hoping to turn around Vols

KNOXVILLE (AP) — Josh Heupel knows exactly what he walked into as the latest head football coach of the Tennessee Volunteers — a tradition-filled program that has struggled of late.

“This is one of the iconic programs in all of college sports, in all of college football,” Heupel said.

Tennessee has plenty of history with this the 125th season in school history. The Volunteers have won 13 Southeastern Conference football championships and count six national championships, the last in 1998. But their last SEC Eastern Division title came in 2007.

Heupel is the fifth different coach — not counting interim or acting coaches — since the end of the 2008 season. He takes over a program that went 3-7 last season and currently is in the midst of an NCAA investigation into the recruiting issues that cost Jeremy Pruitt and nine others their jobs in January.

The man who quarterbacked Oklahoma to a national title and who went 28-8 over the past three seasons at UCF sees opportunity in Knoxville. He has 14 starters back from a team that lost seven of its final eight games in 2020.

“We have an opportunity to celebrate the great traditions while putting a new age approach on it,” Heupel said. “Our kids and our staff, they’re all there because of that. They chose the power of T for those reasons. Our staff chose the power of T for those reasons.”

Long gone

Tennessee’s roster is very different after 13 scholarship players left for the transfer portal, which includes the Vols’ top rusher, starting quarterback and top tackler. Eric Gray transferred to Oklahoma after averaging 85.8 yards rushing. Quarterback Jarrett Guarantano, who threw for a team-high 1,112 yards, now is at Washington State, and linebacker Henry To’o To’o went to rival Alabama. Five others were dismissed.

Also gone is top wide receiver Josh Palmer, though he was a third-round draft pick by the Los Angeles Chargers. The Vols lost a pair of starters on the offensive line with Trey Smith a sixth-round pick by the Kansas City Chiefs and Brandon Kennedy not returning after six years in college.

Transfer portal additions

Heupel helped mitigate the heavy losses by bringing in 13 players, eight after spring practice. That includes quarterback Joe Milton, who left Michigan; senior linebacker Juwan Mitchell who led Texas in tackles last season; wide receiver JaVonta Payton from Mississippi State; and cornerback Brandon Turnage who left Alabama.

Offensive boost

Heupel has a strong record of offensive success, and UCF ranked second in 2020 with 568.1 yards of total offense a game and eighth scoring 42.2 points a game. The Volunteers certainly can use an offensive boost after ranking just 108th in scoring with 21.5 points a game and 102nd nationally with 346.2 yards a game.

He has five starters back on offense and could have a new starter at quarterback. Harrison Bailey started the final three games last season as a freshman. But Heupel not only landed Milton as a transfer, he also added

Hendon Hooker from Virginia Tech to boost competition at that spot.

Neyland turns 100

Tennessee is celebrating the 100th year at Neyland Stadium all year long. The stadium currently seats 102,455, making it the fifth-largest in college football, after starting as Shields-Watkins Field in 1921 with seating for 3,200.

Schedule

Heupel will have a chance at a quick turnaround if only because of this season’s slate. The Vols open Sept. 2 hosting Bowling Green on Sept. 2 followed by visits from Pittsburgh and Tennessee Tech before their first SEC game. They wrap up their nonconference schedule Nov. 20 hosting South Alabama.

They have back-to-back road games starting Sept. 25 at Florida on Sept. 25 followed by a trip to Missouri on Oct. 2. They also visit Alabama on Oct. 23 and Kentucky on Nov. 6.

Tennessee hosts South Carolina, Ole Miss, Georgia and Vanderbilt.

No rebuild for Tide, just reloading

By JOHN ZENOR
AP Sports Writer

The bad news for Alabama: The Heisman Trophy-winning receiver and his quarterback are gone, along with the star tailback and Southeastern Conference defensive player of the year.

The good news: It’s Alabama and there is always an abundance of talent to replace players.

The defending national champion Crimson Tide lost the usual boatload of talent to the NFL after the second perfect season of coach Nick Saban’s career. They’re still ranked preseason No. 1 for the fourth time in six years, led by new quarterback Bryce Young and a defense that appears capable of picking up any slack for an offense breaking in new playmakers.

Nobody replaces talent better than Saban, but he’s quick to point out that the replacements will typically be younger and less experienced.

“That’s why rebuilding is a tremendous challenge,” he said. “That’s why it’s very difficult to repeat.”

Not to mention a daunting Southeastern Conference schedule.

Even with six national titles during the Saban era, Alabama has only successfully defended once, in 2012.

Alabama must replace six first-round NFL draft picks, including receiver DeVonta Smith, quarterback Mac Jones and tailback Najee Harris from one of the nation’s most explosive offenses. But Young is a heralded former 5-star recruit who has, according to wide receiver John Metchie III, “endless potential.”

Brian Robinson Jr. finally gets his chance to play a bigger role after backing up Harris, a Heisman finalist like Jones and the winner Smith. A couple of former five-star prospects are among those also vying for carries.

The defense didn’t lose nearly as much talent and even added former Tennessee standout Henry To’oTo’o to an already loaded group of linebackers led by Christian Harris and Will Anderson. Gone is cornerback Patrick Surtain Jr., one of the first-rounders and the SEC’s top defender.

The highest rating recruiting class ever in the 247Sports composite rankings has plenty of potential contributors.

rated quarterback recruit at Alabama, rated as the second-best prospect nationally in 2020 according to the 247Sports composite rankings. He’s even raking in close to seven figures in name, image, likeness money, according to Saban, before starting a single game.

Young didn’t log a huge number of snaps as a freshman behind Jones, but he’s drawn praise from Saban and teammates so far.

“I’m really excited for him to get his shot,” Metchie said.

Replacing Sark

Saban’s latest head coach-turned-offensive coordinator is former Houston Texans and Penn State coach Bill O’Brien. O’Brien replaces Steve Sarkisian, who parlayed his Alabama success into his own return to a head coaching job at Texas. He’s one of four new offensive assistants, including ex-Jacksonville Jaguars head man Doug Marrone (offensive line).

New receivers

The last two years, four Alabama receivers have been first-round draft picks. Even if the Tide doesn’t keep that string going, they should be in good hands. Metchie had 55 catches for 916 yards last season. The group is bolstered by the transfer of speedster Jameson Williams from Ohio State, along with talented freshmen like Agiye Hall and Ja’Corey Brooks.

Linebacker U bet

Alabama was already loaded at linebacker even before To’oTo’o arrived to help replace Dylan Moses.

Anderson started every game as a freshman and ranked third in the SEC with seven sacks and 10.5 tackles for loss. Harris was a semifinalist for the Butkus Award. Christopher Allen led the SEC with 13 tackles behind the line. To’o To’o brings another veteran presence to the defense after starting for two seasons with the Volunteers.

“We thought Henry was one of the best players, defensive players in our conference, in watching him play at Tennessee, and we had recruited him in high school,” Saban said. “We thought he was an outstanding player in high school. We’re talking about a fine young man who’s very intelligent, very instinctive player, very conscientious.”

Former Vols poised for impact at new schools

By STEVE MEGARGEE
AP Sports Writer

Tennessee hasn’t finished a season ranked higher than 22nd since 2007, yet there still figures to be a heavy Volunteer flavor to the playoff picture this year.

Or to put it more accurately, an ex-Volunteer flavor.

While the transfer portal was particularly active during the most recent offseason, no team lost more star power than Tennessee, which fired coach Jeremy Pruitt in January when school officials said an internal investigation found serious NCAA violations.

Three teams ranked in the top 10 of The Associated Press Top 25 landed notable former Tennessee players.

No. 1 Alabama landed ex-Tennessee linebacker Henry To’o To’o. Running back Ty Chandler transferred from Tennessee to No. 10 North Carolina.

But the Tennessee presence is most notable at No. 2 Oklahoma. The Sooners have three former Vols in running back Eric Gray, defensive back Key Lawrence and offensive tackle Wanya Morris.

“Definitely for me as a running back, the history of the ‘RBU,’ so many great running backs came through here, the history of the offense at Oklahoma, just the OU program in general, I was definitely attracted to it from day one,” Gray said. “Once I got to the transfer portal, I kind of knew Oklahoma was the school I wanted to go to.”

There are a number of transfers who should make an impact this season and it’s no surprise this list features a couple of former Tennessee players:

and 2019 before opting out of the 2020 season.

Kentucky QB Will Levis (Penn State)

Levis will be the starting quarterback for Kentucky’s Sept. 4 season opener with Louisiana-Monroe. Levis appeared in 15 games for Penn State and went 61 of 102 for 644 yards with three touchdowns and two interceptions. Kentucky might not be the only SEC East team handing its starting quarterback job to someone who arrived by transfer this offseason. Tennessee’s quarterback competition includes Michigan transfer Joe Milton and Virginia Tech transfer Hendon Hooker, as well as Harrison Bailey.

Florida State QB McKenzie Milton (UCF)

Milton is a two-time American Athletic Conference offensive player of the year who finished eighth in the Heisman Trophy balloting in 2017 and sixth in 2018, but he suffered ligament, nerve and artery damage to his knee in November 2018 and hasn’t played in a game since. Milton, who won his last 24 starts at UCF, now is attempting a comeback with Florida State and competing with Jordan Travis for the right to open the season as the Seminoles’ starting quarterback.

Georgia DB Tykee Smith (West Virginia)

Smith was a third-team Associated Press All-America selection for West Virginia last season. He had 61 tackles — eight for loss — and two interceptions in 10 games. Smith also had 53 tackles and two interceptions as a freshman in 2019. Smith will be part of a Georgia secondary that also includes Clemson transfer Derion Kendrick.

Alabama Henry To’o Too (Tennessee)

To’o To’o was a two-year starter at Tennessee who recorded a team-high 76 tackles last season. He also had 10 tackles for loss. He had 72 tackles as a freshman in 2019. Alabama coach Nick Saban says To’o To’o has benefited from his familiarity with the system after playing at Tennessee for Pruitt, a former Alabama de-

Tebow’s football comeback ends after being cut by Jags

By MARK LONG
AP Pro Football Writer

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — Tim Tebow’s comeback and NFL career are over.

The Jacksonville Jaguars waived Tebow on Tuesday, parting with the 2007 Heisman Trophy winner who switched from quarterback to tight end in hopes of rejuvenating his pro football career.

“We knew that was an uphill battle for Tim,” said coach Urban Meyer, who recruited Tebow to nearby Florida. “Players loved him, locker room loved him, but it was the right thing (to do).”

Tebow’s blocking ranged from awkward to awful in Jacksonville’s preseason opener against Cleveland on his 34th birthday. The polarizing player went viral for two botched attempts on the opening drive of the third quarter Saturday night, the second one more egregious than the first.

“He has a bunch of good plays but can’t have a bad play at that position,” said Meyer, who spoke to Tebow about the roster decision Monday night and again Tuesday morning.

Tebow also failed to record a catch against the Browns and got no snaps on special teams. Meyer said Tebow’s play lacked consistency, especially in tackling. And if Tebow were going to make Jacksonville’s 53-man roster, he needed to be a special teams contributor.

Meyer said he expects this to be the end of Tebow’s playing career.

“I would guess it is,” Meyer said. “We didn’t get that deep with it. Obviously he’s his own man, elite warrior, elite competitor. But he’s also 34 years old.”

Tebow was shielded from the media circus that followed him during other NFL stops and never publicly addressed his return after nearly six years away from the game. The Jacksonville native responded on Twitter and thanked his hometown team for a chance.

“Thankful for the highs and even the lows, the opportunities, and the setbacks,” Tebow wrote. “I’ve never wanted to make decisions out of fear of failure and I’m grateful for the chance to have pursued a dream.”

Tebow opened training camp as Jacksonville’s fourth- or fifthstring tight end after switching positions this year. He was trying to return to the NFL after spending the previous five years in the New York Mets’ organization. He hit .223 with 18 home runs and 107 RBIs while never making it to the big leagues.

He asked Meyer for a tryout after retiring from baseball in January. Meyer obliged and ended up giving him a one-year contract worth $920,000, the minimum for a player with three accrued NFL seasons. The low-risk deal included no guaranteed money, so Tebow had to make the team to earn a dime.

And that was always the uncertain part. Jacksonville entered camp with three tight ends essentially locked into roster spots: run-blocking specialist Chris Manhertz, fellow veteran James O’Shaughnessy and fifth-round draft pick Luke Farrell.

Former and current NFL players criticized Meyer for giving Tebow a roster spot and pointed out a number of more deserving tight ends on the street. But many of Tebow’s teammates welcomed him with open arms.

Looking to retire early? Ask yourself these 4 questions first (StatePoint) The pandemic has changed our lives in numerous ways. As a result of all the upheaval, many people are reassessing their priorities and thinking about early retirement. According to Pew Research, 28 million baby boomers retired in 2020 and a recent study found 39% plan to retire by 65, while 18% said they plan to retire by age 59. Before taking that step, here are four questions to ask yourself.

1. Can I afford to stop working? Look at your retirement savings, your life expectancy, your projected income and annual expenditures in retirement. You'll want to consider unforeseen circumstances down the line that could be costly, such as the need to reside in a nursing home. Use the free retirement calculator and resources available at fidelity.com to help you make a realistic determination as to whether you can afford to retire now, or whether you need to keep earning your full-time salary for a few more years.

2. Do I need life insurance after retirement?

There is no one-size-fits-all answer here. However, those carrying debt into retirement, such as mortgages and personal loans, should consider a life insurance plan. Today, many baby boomers are financially supporting children and grandchildren and have significant debt. According to the National Council on Aging, the median consumer debt for households headed by someone aged 65 or older is 4.5 times higher now than in 1989. Paying off a mortgage is one of the most common reasons to purchase a life insurance policy. Doing so can help ensure your family is able to enjoy the home they love without the burden of outstanding payments.

"You would do anything to ensure your family has a bright future and having insurance is a simple and affordable way to protect them," says Louis Colaizzo, senior vice president of Erie Family Life. "Life insurance can help loved ones maintain the standard of living they are accustomed to."

So, how much would you need to leave behind? Calculate your needs with the life insurance calculator available at erieinsurance.com/life-insurance or contact an independent Erie Insurance agent to discuss options.

3. How will I get health insurance? The current Medicare eligibility age for most people is 65, so if you plan retire before then, you'll need to find another way to get health insurance. Even after you're covered by Medicare, health care expenses can add up, especially if you're on a fixed retirement income. Some insurance companies, including Erie Insurance, offer Medicare supplemental insurance to help pay the portion of expenses not covered by Medicare.

4. How will I spend my time? Retirement can come with ample newfound free time you may not be accustomed to. While that can sound amazing to those working full-time, the transition can be jarring. Whether it's volunteering, taking up new creative hobbies or traveling, planning now for how you will spend your time is a good idea to stave off boredom.

As you consider when to stop working, first ask yourself these four questions so you can take the appropriate steps to help ensure your retirement reality matches your retirement dreams.

Sudoku maker Maki Kaji, who saw life's joy in puzzles, dies

By Yuri Kageyama
AP Business Writer

TOKYO (AP) — Maki Kaji, the creator of the popular numbers puzzle Sudoku whose life's work was spreading the joy of puzzles, has died, his Japanese company said Tuesday. He was 69 and had bile duct cancer.

Known as the "Godfather of Sudoku," Kaji created the puzzle to be easy for children and others who didn't want to think too hard. Its name is made up of the Japanese characters for "number" and "single," and players place the numbers 1 through 9 in rows, columns and blocks without repeating them.

Ironically, it wasn't until 2004 when Sudoku became a global hit, after a fan from New Zealand pitched it and got it published in the British newspaper The Times. Two years later, Japan rediscovered its own puzzle as a "gyakuyunyu," or "reimport."

Kaji was chief executive at his puzzle company, Nikoli Co., until July and died Aug. 10 at his home in Mitaka, a city in the Tokyo metro area.

Maki traveled to more than 30 countries spreading his enjoyment of puzzles. Sudoku championships have drawn some 200 million people in 100 countries over the years, according to Tokyo-based Nikoli.

Sudoku was also never trademarked except within Japan, driving its overseas craze, Nikoli said.

"Kaji-san came up with the name Sudoku and was loved by puzzle fans from all over the world. We are grateful from the bottom of our hearts for the patronage you have shown throughout his life," the company said in a statement.

Originally, Sudoku was called "Sujii-wa-Dokushin-ni-Kagiru," which translates to, "Numbers should be single, a bachelor." In recent years, Sudoku, believed to be the world's most popular pencil puzzle, has come out in digital versions.

Born in the main northern island of Hokkaido, Maki started Japan's first puzzle magazine after dropping out of Keio University in Tokyo. He founded Nikoli in 1983, and came up with Sudoku about the same time.

Yoshinao Anpuku, who succeeded Kaji as Nikoli's chief executive, said Kaji made friends easily and had a "unique and playful approach toward life."

"Our mission is to pursue Maki's vision and possibilities," Anpuku said.

Nikoli has provided original puzzles to more than 100 media companies, 10 of them foreign ones.

Major Japanese newspaper Mainichi in its obituary credited Kaji for starting the puzzle sections at bookstores, as well as introducing the word "Sudoku" into the Oxford English dictionary.

Kaji is survived by his wife Naomi and two daughters. Funeral services have been held among close family. A separate memorial service is being arranged by Nikoli, but details were still undecided.
