Chapel Hill turmoil: “Something’s got to change”

By Scott Pearson
Associate Editor

The Chapel Hill Mayor and Board of Aldermen met for just over three hours on Monday night and ended the meeting facing another search for a key town hall employee.

Aldermen voted to terminate the contract of Town Recorder and Treasurer Ruth Magallanes, after an agenda item innocuously listed as “Discussion of respective duties of Town Administrator and Recorder/Treasurer” spiraled into an examination of issues within town hall that had been festering for weeks.

“It feels like everyone isn’t working on the same team,” said Alderman Jonathan Gilbert.

“Something’s got to change,” said Mayor Mike Faulkenberry.

One issue was obviously the uncertainty when a draft budget for the current fiscal year, which began July 1, would be produced.

The town is still operating with the budget from the past fiscal year after receiving an extension from the state comptrollers office due to staff turnover during the period of the budget process.

Town Attorney Todd Moore allowed the steep learning curve involved in the transition between private sector and public sector accounting.

“Not having progress on a budget in September is concerning,” he said.

Magallanes took the position at the first of

May, moving into the public sector after accounting experience in private business.

She replaced Chris Lowe, who had moved to the Marshall County School System as chief financial officer earlier in the year.

It was apparent from the discussion that Magallanes and Town Administrator Amanda Harrington, hired in June, had experienced difficulties working together.

Both had apparently been taking their concerns to Faulkenberry, Moore, and members of the board.

Frustration with the situation was evident from several of the aldermen and mayor.

Morton described the situation as “Nasty, dirty, and I want to go home and take a shower.”

Harrington had emailed Moore a list of concerns regarding Magallanes, which Moore had forwarded to the board members Monday morning.

Harrington had also asked Moore about the possibility of a closed door meeting of the aldermen regarding the issues, which Moore pointed out was only possible under Tennessee sunshine laws when legal action or threat of legal action was involved.

Harrington did not address specific issues during the following discussion, citing language in her employment contract which forbids causing embarrassment to the town.

“I am extremely limited in what I can say in a public meeting by my contract,” she said.

Faulkenberry was particularly adamant that the situation could not continue, expressing the opinion more than once that the two could no longer salvage a working relationship and that the board would have to make a decision between one or the other.

Magallanes, for her part, said that she thought the two could still work together but expressed some of the difficulties she was experiencing.

“If I ask a question, she (Harrington) get upset,” Magallanes said.

“She’s just mean to me, all the time,” she added, citing one occasion where she did not feel safe in the building with Harrington.

Ultimately, Gilbert made the motion to terminate Magallanes’ contract with the town, seconded by Alderman Marion Joyce.

With Magallanes, as recorder, calling the roll for her own termination, Gilbert, Joyce, and Alderman Joe Sedlak voted in favor.

Aldermen Dale Brown and Morton abstained.

“I can’t determine whether one is right or wrong,” said Morton.

Alderman Brian Williams was absent after hurricane relief work in Louisiana.

Despite the vote, Magallanes finished out the meeting.

“She really stood up and finished this meeting out,” said Faulken-

Lewisburg tables annexation

By Scott Pearson
Associate Editor

The Lewisburg City Council faced a routine agenda on Tuesday night.

The council voted to table the second and final reading of an annexation and rezoning request for a parcel of Gupton Road, that borders the city limits on Mooresville Highway.

The owner requested annexation to connect to city water and sewer services as well as a zoning change allowing for a planned urban development.

City Attorney Steve Broadway said that there were still issues to be worked out in the process.

Development toward the western side of Lewisburg is paused, regardless, since a recent determination by the Tennessee Department of Environment and Conservation that a bottleneck in sewage lines, leading to overflows that exceed agency limits, must be repaired before additional capacity added.

Several neighbors of the parcel in question attended the meeting in case the matter was considered.

Lewisburg Fire Chief Larry Williams presented the results of the city’s ISO evaluation. The lower the Insurance Services Office number the better, reflecting the level of fire protection and impacting home insurance rates.

The city maintained it’s grade of 3 on a 10 point scale, placing with the top 10 percent of fire departments nationwide.

“Maintaining a Grade 3 is pretty awesome for a department our size and a city our size,” he said.

The council passed on first reading a resolution which will move the citizen’s comment period during council meetings to the beginning of the agenda from the current position at the end of meetings.

A 4th Ward resident had asked Councilman Jerry Gordon why the period came after any council votes during the session.

Councilmen approved three separate grant applications for the city’s Parks and Recreation Department. All three are 100 percent grants, requiring no matching funds from the city.

The council further extended the temporary paid leave policy for city employees relating to the COVID-19 pandemic through November 30. The measure has been extended several times from the original term, as coronavirus infection rates have only expanded.

As a final measure, and after some discussion, aldermen unanimously approved two months of salary for Magallanes as a separation package.

"I think that's the least we could do considering how this all went down," said Morton. "I support it because I think she got the short end of the stick."

While the situation within town hall took center stage, other items on the agenda were discussed.

Bids were accepted for brush pickup and mowing services from private firms after the town saw several employees depart.

"Everyone we had doing that has left us," said Faulkenberry, to a resident questioning delays in brush removal.

A bid for replacement of two HVAC units at town hall was approved, as was an annual maintenance contract for the town's HVAC units.

Further research is required into the status of a proposal in which the town would contribute $20,000 per year for five years for maintenance of the Chapel Hill baseball and softball league fields.

Whether the proposal, made when the agreement changed from a lease agreement for the fields to a transfer of ownership, had ever been contractually agreed or simply agreed in principle will need to be determined by the town.

The funds would need to be part of the budget process, regardless.

A motion to dissolve the town's utility board was deferred to a future meeting.

The board will also look into complaints of insufficient water pressure in the Spring Creek Farms neighborhood.

The civic and community service organizations he has served over the years include the Lewisburg Lions Club, the Lewisburg Industrial board of directors, and president of the Marshall County Chamber of Commerce.

TBA-member banks can submit nominations for the honor. The TBA board of directors reviews and approves the applications.

"One of the main missions of the Tennessee Bankers Association is to encourage our members to be involved in making our industry better and in making their communities better places to work and live," said Colin Barrett, TBA president. "A sound heart is the life of the flesh: but envy the rottenness of the bones." - Proverbs 14:30

The writer of Proverbs warns of the powerful and corrupting aspects of the one who gives way to envy. Envy, which eats like a consuming disease into the very bones and marrow of a man's moral and spiritual being, does so in such an unsuspecting way. For example, a person can be aware of one's anger, but envy can hide in the dark corners of a person's heart without being detected. That's why our opening scripture contrast a "sound heart" opposite that of "envy." A "sound heart" is a healthy heart that has good wholesome intentions towards another. However, envy has to do with resentment and ill will against someone. This resentment is a non-physical personal attack against another. For example, instead of thanking God for the blessings that your neighbor has with their gifts and abilities that you do not have, there arises a resentful desire wanting that person out of the way so that what they have becomes yours. Really, envy is all about wanting another person out of the way so as to have what they have. It may not be physical things, it may be just the joy that they have, or the relationships that they enjoy, and so the envious person becomes green in color. Yes, as the old saying goes, "Green with envy."

Envy is described in different ways, but understand that envy is not jealousy. Even though the two are related, jealousy fears to lose what it has, while envy is pained at seeing another have it. In other words, we are jealous of our own possessions, but we are envious of another man's possessions or abilities.

Once there happened to be an eagle who was envious of another bird who could fly better than he could. One day the eagle saw a sportsman with a bow and said to him, "I wish you would bring down that other bird up there." The man said he would if he had some feathers for his arrow. So the envious eagle pulled out one of his feathers from his wing. The arrow was shot, but it didn't quite reach the other bird because he was flying so high. The eagle pulled out another feather, then another, and another – until he had plucked out so many of his own feathers that he himself couldn't fly. Then the sportsman turned and looked at the eagle and shot the envious eagle. Dear child of God, if we are envious of others, the one we will actually hurt the most by our foolish actions will be ourselves.

Envy, like rotted wood, is not detected until the damage is usually done. So let us be proactive and deal with envy quickly. Lets pray to God and ask Him to search us, to try us, and show us if there be any wicked way of envy in us (Psalm 139:23,24).

Are you bathing too frequently?

By Danny Tyree

When I worked at my late uncle's junkyard during junior high school, one of the regular customers (a crusty coot who resembled a cantankerous Roy Rogers sidekick wannabe) assured us that he luxuriated in a steaming bathtub each and every night.

We were skeptical, but it still burned in my brain an image of grimy tumbling tumbleweeds popping through the suds. Brrrrr.

Anyhow, for the past several decades I've taken the uprightness of a daily shower for granted.

But a recent social media kerfuffle over celebrity couples with lax personal hygiene standards for themselves and their children started me researching the topic of showering/bathing frequency.

Times change. When I was working up a sweat at the junkyard, "Dueling Banjos" was on the AM radio. Now the internet is full of Dueling Dermatologists.

Some dermatologists tell us that the polite-society-approved daily cleanup is the safest bet. Others warn that it can be wasteful or even harmful to bathe more than three or four times a week (with exceptions for sponge baths for armpits, feet and private parts).

Emboldened by the second group of skin doctors, myriad rebels are only too happy to rain on the parade of people who actually enjoy the physical and emotional aspects of the bathing ritual. ("I demand a retraction! We don't rain on anyone. They might feel compelled to rub themselves dry with a towel! Oh, the humanity!")

The passion of these zealots catches me off-guard. With all the geese and swans to worry about, who would have imagined that Rubber Duckie would be atop 2021's endangered waterfowl list? Who imagined that singing in the shower would be reduced to "Well, I'm a-runnin' down the road/Tryin' to loosen my...TO BE CONTINUED"?

Proponents of infrequent bathing have mastered both positive and negative reinforcement to achieve their goals. My Google research for this column uncovered websites that promised my skin would be "vibrant and radiant" if I just cut back on washing. I think that ship has already sailed – and brushed its starboard hull against both cheeks, if my mirror is any indication.

Some websites warned me that too-frequent bathing could disrupt my skin's microbiome. Seriously, if a little soap and water causes my good bacteria that much anguish, I'm not too confident about how they would handle a cage match with my BAD bacteria. Maybe the good bacteria should just quit while they're ahead and accept a "participation" ribbon.

Several experts touted cutting back on the amount of water used as a means of SAVING THE PLANET. I can just picture Jack Bauer of "24" racing against the clock to thwart such water-wasting villains. ("He showered for five minutes and ONE SEC-OND! Noooooooooo!")

Millions of people are on edge after being browbeaten for the unintended consequences of their daily baths/showers. They keep waiting for the other shoe to drop. ("No, don't drop the other shoe yet. THAT little piggie isn't due for a bath until the day after tomorrow!")

Seriously, what other intricate systems are we messing up? If you trim your nose hair, will it blow out your Achilles tendon? Enquiring minds want to know.

Do what's best for you. Consider your skin type, the season and your level of exertion. Get a professional opinion. Get a second opinion.

"I'll even give you a third opinion. Your B.O. killed my canary. I hated that canary. You're welcome."

Biden putting Jackson's theory of executive power to the test

By Carl Golden

In his book "American Lion," a biography of President Andrew Jackson, author/historian Jon Meacham describes Jackson's philosophy of governing as presidential primacy. The occupant of the office, he felt, should be granted wide latitude and discretion in wielding executive authority.

As the only official elected by the nation at large, Jackson – the nation's seventh chief executive – believed the office was not an arm of government; rather, it was the heart of government.

In the wake of President Biden's extraordinary exercise of power – ordering some 100 million American citizens to accept vaccinations against the COVID-19 virus – Jackson's theory will be tested.

After months of resisting mandating a mass vaccination program, Biden placed the nation on a wartime footing, ordering private sector employers of more than 100 persons to require workforce immunizations or twice weekly testing for those who refuse. The Occupational Health and Safety Administration (OSHA) will administer the effort.

Violations would lead to fines of $14,000 per case, and those who reject the vaccine and the testing regimen could presumably lose their jobs.

The scope of the order was breathtaking. Gone were months of suggesting, encouraging, recommending and urging, replaced by an order from the occupant of the highest office in the land.

The ink was still wet on his executive order when lawsuits were announced challenging the directive and arguing the president had exceeded his constitutional authority. Republican governors and members of Congress expressed outrage, crying that the president had trampled on constitutionally protected individual and privacy rights.

Much of the backlash involved accusations that the president and, by extension, Democrats were guilty of a concerted effort to accrue greater power and control over the American people and eroding historic freedoms.

Some were more cynical, arguing the administration was engaged in a "wag the dog" strategy, calling for a major policy step to distract attention from the disastrous withdrawal of the American military from Afghanistan, an issue which dominated news and political coverage for weeks and drove Biden's public approval rating into the 40% range.

Positioning the president as a leader in fighting the most serious public health crisis in a century was the administration's real goal, critics alleged, to head off becoming bogged down in a never ending, non-winnable debate over the botched withdrawal from Afghanistan.

The president struck back swiftly, challenging opponents to "have at it" if they chose to proceed in the courts.

With the country experiencing 150,000 new COVID-19 cases a day and 1,500 deaths daily, Biden said he concluded that dramatic action was crucial as the virus' Delta variant overwhelmed hospitals and medical facilities.

Biden accused governors and legislatures that prohibited mask wearing and vaccinations of a "cavalier attitude" toward children in particular, implying they were complicit in risking lives and blamed those who refused the vaccine for the out-of-control virus spread. Their refusal, he said, "has cost us all."

The public seems to agree with him, with a majority supporting a vaccination mandate for people in the workplace, on airplanes and public transportation, and in restaurants and entertainment venues.

The Republican opposition strategy rests on preserving individual freedom to decide medical care, while the administration has framed the debate around government's responsibility to act decisively to protect public health.

A presumed constitutional right to refuse a vaccine, the administration argued, does not translate into a constitutional right to expose others to a potentially lethal pathogen.

Biden, in effect, has asked the American people to choose between safety for themselves and their families and a desire to keep government out of their personal lives. A majority has opted for the former while softening their view of the latter.

The data has made the choice a bit easier: 40.8 million infections and 660,000 deaths in the United States since the pandemic's onset – both the highest in the world.

Some Republicans believe the vaccination mandate will harm Democrats in the 2022 midterm congressional elections, that the principles of freedom and a non-interfering government will prove stronger than concerns over a highly contagious but treatable infection.

Jackson left office 184 years ago, and whether his governing theory will be vindicated will likely be decided by the 21st Century judicial system.

A revival of horse sense?

By Tom Purcell

Here's another interesting COVID-enabled trend to ponder: More Americans are leaving big cities and the suburbs to live in rural communities, according to NextAvenue.com.

I hope the trend grows because it would be good for the American psyche.

As it goes, the move to the country makes a lot of sense to some people.

In rural America, you can buy more land and bigger houses for a lot less money. That's great for retirees.

With crime on the uptick in big cities, more Americans are seeking low-crime rural areas.

And now that remote work has become common, why not move into the wilderness and enjoy nature every day?

My house is located on the edge of the suburbs on a tract of land surrounded by trees. While the suburbs are on one side of my humble homestead, rural America is immediately on the other.

My rural neighbors have long been suspicious of me.

I barely know how to start, let alone fix, a tractor motor. Worst of all, I hire people to do work on my house, instead of doing it myself.

It's hard for me to forget one regrettable instance in which I got a flat tire on my wheelbarrow.

I strapped the thing into my sedan's trunk and headed up the long hill to my neighbor's house for help.

As I neared his home, I saw him with his friends: the first friend was the guy who bulldozed my driveway, the second was the guy who painted my house and the third was the guy who gave me an estimate on my gutters.

I saw in their eyes a look of sickening distress — a distress that turned to disgust when they saw a gun rack in the rear window of my Nissan Maxima, which I'd installed with the hope of ingratiating myself with them.

My suburban neighbors on the other side are equally suspicious of me.

I told them I'm a writer who works out of his home, but they are certain I'm in the witness protection program.

Suburban people don't understand rural folk.

Suburbans are sheltered from many of life's difficulties. A man is celebrated, not shunned, by other suburban men for hiring a landscaper to mow his lawn.

If our government's reckless cycle of spending and debt eventually causes everything to come crashing down, my suburban neighbors will likely lose their jobs and their homes, but my rural neighbors will carry on without missing a beat.

Rurals are self-sufficient and fiercely independent. They grow and hunt their own food. They build their own homes.

They preserve the ingenious "can-do" American spirit, never backing down from a problem until they resolve it.

This was once the land of hardy pioneers who only wanted to be left alone to create their own homesteads and freely pursue their happiness.

That sentiment, no longer alive or well in urban America, still thrives in rural America.

People who resettle in rural communities soon realize they must be more self-reliant. Big-city hospitals are far away. The niceties of suburban malls require a long drive.

But working with your hands, fending for yourself and reconnecting with nature has a way of making you sensible. We used to call it "horse sense."

Goodness knows our country is running short on horse sense these days. Hopefully, as more Americans relocate to rural America, we'll get more of it.

CES donation: Safe and healthy

With the spread of Covid-19, Cornersville Elementary is doing all it can to help keep our students safe and healthy. In order to do that, CES reached out to Waste Management to see if the company could donate a reusable water bottle for each student at Cornersville Elementary School. Waste Management was able to donate the water bottles and delivered them to the school. Mrs. McKay, the school counselor at CES, greatly appreciates the donation and Waste Management's willingness to help. Pictured with several CES students are Stacey Cothran of Waste Management and Chris Evoy, Waste Management Cedar Ridge Landfill Manager.

Rockets grind out gritty win at Moore Co.

By Anthony S. Puca
Sports Writer

LYNCHBURG — The Forrest Rockets had a lot to play for Friday night at Moore County, most notably for their injured teammate Micah McClendon, who suffered a serious spinal cord injury one year ago in the longstanding rivalry at Chapel Hill.

The Rockets lost that game last year and were looking for revenge on the scoreboard over their admired rival Raiders from Lynchburg, who displayed nothing but class in supporting McClendon and the Chapel Hill community after the unfortunate injury.

In what has been a hallmark for the Rockets (3-1, 1-0) this season, defense, ball control/security and some clutch offensive scoring led to a bruising 21-7 win in a series that dates back to the turn of the 20th Century.

“I knew this would be a tough game and an emotional game,” Forrest coach Eli Stephenson said. “This was the first anniversary for Micah and the boys and they wanted to win for him. They played hard, left everything out there and got the win for him.”

The Forrest defense has been superb through the first four games this season, giving up just 7.5 points per game and the Raiders met the quota, scoring on a fourth quarter touchdown while gaining a measly 60 yards on the ground.

“Our defense is doing a great job and it starts up front with our D-Line,” Stephenson said. “Our D-Line shut down the run and our linebackers were flying to the ball and they were having fun.”

Chapel Hill also won the all-important turnover battle 3-1 and ran 22 more plays than the Raiders while picking up 21 first downs and holding Moore County to 10.

“Its momentum, when you force turnovers you gain the momentum and if you are able to strike then, you can beat them while they are down,” Stephenson said. “So we have to keep getting those turnovers and keep pushing on.”

Six potential points were also left out there on two missed field goals by the Rockets.

The Rockets continued to display a balanced running attack, spreading 324 yards of rushing around nicely with Chris Davis leading the way with 98 yards on 12 carries. The senior scored two touchdowns, on a one-yard second quarter plunge and he finished off the Forrest scoring with a big 21-yard fourth quarter jaunt that cemented the win.

Tayton Swift was the workhorse with 14 carries for 69 yards while Liam Bell had a another solid outing with 68 yards on 10 touches.

Brenton Burchell only had four carries, but made the most of them as he gained 43 yards, and McCalister Wilson averaged 13 yards per carry with three touches for 39 yards.

“We were taking what they gave us,” Stephenson said. “Our tailbacks Davis and Bell did a great job running in between the tackles, we got our sweep and power going with Burchell and Swift and Wilson on the counter, and when it works like that it works out pretty good for us.”

“It’s all about that offensive line up front, Coach (Kyle) Stacey does an awesome job with those guys teaching technique and getting after fundamentals and they took that out here and performed.”

Forrest won the toss and deferred, sending the Moore County offense out to the field first and the Raiders put together a nice opening drive, marching to the Rockets’ 25-yard line where a pass to the end zone was intercepted by Burchell for a touchdown.

The first Forrest offensive drive stalled to force a punt and Moore County went on the move again, back to the Forest 25-yard line where Bell came up with a huge fourth down stop on Lynchburg quarterback Connor Partin.

Bell ran for three yards on first down for the Rockets before Forrest quarterback Hunter Bennett found Swift on a swing pass that went for a first down and Bell followed with a 13-yard run to move the chains again.

Wilson scored on the next play, but it was called back for holding and the scoreless first quarter ended with Forrest on the Moore County 36-yard line.

The Rockets picked up one first down after the penalty, but another infraction pushed them back again.

An interception by Keller Morey ended the drive with 7:49 remaining in the second quarter.

The Forrest defense came back with a big three-and-out, ending on a third-down sack by Carson Yates before the Rockets finally got on the board via a four-play, 60-yard drive that was highlighted by a Davis 38-yard run with Bennett capping off the series with a one-yard quarterback keeper.

Gavin Grissom’s first of three successful extra point boots on the night was true and Forrest led 7-0 with 3:47 left in the first half.

Moore County threw three-straight incomplete passes before punting the ball back to Forrest, but the Rockets went three-and-out to give the ball back to the Raiders, who could not score before the first half ended.

The Rockets put together a drive to open the second half, but it stalled out at the Moore County 29-yard line where a 47-yard field goal attempt by Grissom fell just inches short of the goalpost.

Three plays into the next Moore County drive, Layne Strasser came up with a fumble for the Rockets, who used the momentum to score again.

The Rockets went to the Wildcat formation with Swift behind center and he led Chapel Hill to the Moore County goal line where Davis punched it in from one yard out to give the Rockets a 14-0 lead with 5:58 remaining in the third quarter.

Moore County had to score to stay in the game, but the Forrest defense had other ideas as they came up with their third turnover of the game when Christian Hammond jumped on a fumble at the Raiders’ 30-yard line with 4:26 left in the third quarter.

The Rockets turned the miscue into points via a backbreaking four and half minute drive that ended on Davis’ 21-yard touchdown run that put Forrest up by three touchdowns.

The Forrest defense continued to stay strong, forcing another Moore County punt and the Rockets drove to the Raiders’ 28-yard where Grissom’s 45-yard field goal attempt could not rest was still in control with 6:12 remaining in the game.

The Raiders refused to be shutout at home as they finally got on the board on Partin’s touchdown run with 5:25 remaining in the contest.

The Forrest offense did exactly what they had to do as they held the ball for the rest of the game, running 12 plays that ate up the clock to secure the win.

The Rockets entertain Region 5-AA foe Summertown this week for homecoming and are looking to stay focused, knowing the Eagles will be coming to Chapel Hill with hopes of spoil-

Forrest was awarded a Covid-19 forfeit over the Eagles last season and hold a 4-0 record over the Lawrence County squad that lost by seven points at home to the Rockets in 2018 and 2019.

“Summertown is a going to be a tough game, they play hard,” Stephenson said. “It’s a region game, so we just have to have a good week of practice and get ready for them.”

Forrest beat the Eagles 49-0 at Chapel Hill in the first meeting between the two squads when Summertown (2-1, 1-0) was just in its third season of participating in varsity football.

Sluggish 1st half too much for Lady Rockets to overcome

By Chris Siers
sports@t-g.com

BELL BUCKLE — A sluggish first half by the Forrest Lady Rockets ultimately proved too much for the Forrest Lady Rockets to overcome in a district match on Monday afternoon at Cascade.

Cascade found the back of the net twice in each half and escaped with a 4-1 win over Forrest.

“I think the first half is what did us in. In the second half, we played a lot more of a solid game. Our girls played hard,” Lady Rocket coach Jason Ellis said.

Cascade found the back of the net on the first score of the night following a chance goal that was rebounded in front of the goal for the 1-0 lead barely 11 minutes into the match.

The Lady Champions doubled their lead on another goal that managed to squeak past the Lady Rocket defense in the 29th minute.

That score held through the remainder of the half.

“In the first half, we didn’t pressure the ball. They beat us to every 50-50 ball,” Ellis added.

Cascade added a third score following a break-away down the left flank by Abby Harris barely five minutes into the second half.

A fourth Lady Champion goal came from Eve Speirs in the 58th minute.

But Forrest didn’t go down without a fight.

Continuing to press the ball onto the Cascade end of the field, its as Maddie Stalneker who broke through and avoided the shutout with a score on a direct kick just outside the right corner of the box in the 71st minute.

Monday’s loss was the first of the season for the Lady Rockets as their record falls to 3-1-1.

Forrest returns to action this evening with another road trip scheduled at Community.

Tigers' late spark at Tullahoma not enough

By Chris Siers
sports@t-g.com

TULLAHOMA — For over 40 minutes of game time, the Tullahoma Wildcats (3-0, 1-0) were able to stymie Marshall County and held the Tigers out of the end zone.

But a resilient Tiger offense led by quarterback Devonte' Davis saw Marshall County (3-1, 1-1) score three touchdowns in a span of six minutes late in the fourth quarter.

Even with the late surge, the Wildcats were able to answer with a late score to hold off the Tigers' rally for the 28-20 win over Marshall County.

"I think that was the biggest takeaway tonight. We got down, but I'm so proud of the way we kept fighting even after getting down 21-0. We kept fighting and finally some good things started happening. I hate we couldn't have played the game cleaner in the first half and found a way to get a score or two," Tiger coach Thomas Osteen said.

After forcing a Wildcat punt on the first possession of the game, Marshall County took over possession from its own 14-yard line and moved the ball well at times, but was hampered by three penalties for 20 yards on the drive, which ultimately predicated a turnover on downs at the 5:22 mark of the first quarter.

Tullahoma milked the clock on the following drive and finally punched the ball into the end zone when quarterback Ryan Scott burst through the defensive line for the first strike of the night.

After forcing a three and out, a short punt set Marshall County up with a first down inside the Tigers' 40-yard line.

Three plays later, Scott found a crease and scampered 22 yards for the second score in barely four minutes of game time.

But after the scores on back-to-back Wildcat drives, Marshall County took possession on its own 11-yard line and methodically moved the ball well, but again saw the drive stall due to untimely penalties that prompted a punt with 2:21 left in the half.

The Tigers' offense continued to struggled to move the chains into the second half and on the first drive of the third quarter, Marshall County was off the field following a quick three and out that took just 2:12 off the clock.

Tullahoma in turn, took possession on the Tigers' 39-yard line following a punt that went just 16 yards.

It was on that Wildcat possession, however, that things began to turn for the Tigers.

Although Tullahoma was able to press inside the Marshall County 20, a false start on the 13-yard line forced the Wildcats to settle for a field goal, instead of a fourth down conversion attempt.

On the field goal try, the Wildcats botched the snap and the Tigers came up with the ball on the 25-yard line. Once again, Marshall County was able to move the ball well into Wildcat territory, but a fourth-down run by Demari Braden was spotted short of the first down marker, giving the ball back to the Wildcats.

Tullahoma in turn took advantage of the short field and Scott notched his third score of the night on a three-yard run with 10:38 left in the fourth.

And then the drama came.

Needing a quick-strike, the Tigers saw Davis go to the air and complete 4-of-5 passes on the following drive for 76 yards, including a 35-yard touchdown pass to Lamarion Pierce with 7:49 left in regulation.

Wyatt Joyce's successful kick after cut the Wildcat lead to 21-7.

Needing a spark, Marshall County opted for the onside kick, which was recovered by Kortez Ingram on the 48-yard line.

Seven plays later, Davis scrambled on third down and connected with Jayden Randolph in the end zone for the second touchdown in just over two minutes.

Tullahoma answered the late spark by the Tigers after a short kickoff set the Wildcats up with a first down at their own 40-yard line.

Keishawn Cummings took the first play on the drive 59 yards to the Marshall County one-yard line.

He finished the drive two plays later with the fourth Wildcat touchdown of the night.

Once again trailing by two touchdowns, Davis moved the Tigers downfield with precision, completing a pair of passes for 57 yards on the drive, including a 38-yard strike to Pierce to once again bring Marshall County within one score.

The kick after, however, failed on a bad snap, leaving the Wildcats' advantage at eight points.

The one-two punch of Cummings and Scott gave the Tigers' defense fits all night, despite only giving up a handful of big gains.

Jayden Randolph hauls in a 12-yard touchdown pass from Devonte' Davis in the fourth quarter.

"We knew it would be tough. The combination of him (Scott) and 18 (Cummings) running the ball, it's just so tough to defend. They have three or four offensive linemen up there. We didn't stop them, but to control them the way we did. We were happy for the most part that we bottled them up and didn't give them chunk plays," Osteen said.

Cummings' 59-yard run in the fourth quarter was the longest play from scrimmage for either team.

Davis was the spark plug for the Tigers' offense, completing 15-of-21 pass attempts for 216 yards and three touchdowns.

He added 32 yards on 16 carries on the ground as well.

Demari Braden was the work horse for the Tigers' ground attack, totaling 75 yards on 15 carries.

Pierce was Davis' top target on the night, hauling eight catches for 121 yards and two touchdowns.

"We're going to use it as a learning experience. Tullahoma is a good football team. Not going to take anything away from them. but it just shows how good you have to play to beat someone of their caliber," Osteen said.

The loss was the first blemish on the schedule for the Tigers, but could end up being an important game for how the Region 5-AAAA shakes out.

Currently, Tullahoma joined Pearl Cohn and Montgomery Central as the only three teams in the nine-team region without a loss in the league.

"You can look down your ledger as a coach and see what reality is. Pearl Cohn is really really good. In reality, there were probably some home playoff games at stake tonight, but that's OK. Our goal is to win enough games to hopefully play Tullahoma again," Osteen said.

The No. 5 ranked Cornersville Bulldogs (3-1, 1-0 ) fresh off a dominating performance in last Friday's 39-0 win over region foe Huntland, returned to the friendly confines of "Frog Bottom" on the campus of Cornersville High School, as they welcomed the Region 4-A Clay County Bulldogs, themselves a top twenty ranked team in 1A, before a packed house.

The Clay County Bulldogs, flashing speed and big play capabilities, rolled over the Cornersville Bulldogs to the tune of a 38-12 shellacking.

Clay County was led by running back Alec Kerr who scored in almost every way possible - a punt return, two pass receptions, a three-yard run and a two-point conversion for a total of 26 points.

Cornersville was led by Ben Franklin who carried the ball 12 times for 54-yards.

Defensively Barrett Powers led Cornersville with six tackles and Rhett Woodard added 4.5 tackles.

Bulldog Head Football Coach Gerard Randolph said, "We knew coming in that they (Clay County) had some athletes that could make plays and that's what they did tonight. We didn't help ourselves as we played behind the chain tonight and against a good team, it will get you beat every time. We have got to eliminate big plays. That cost us tonight."

Cornersville won the toss and elected to defer until the second half.

Clay County, after an Eli Welch kickoff, began their first possession at their own 27-yard line and began immediately to move the ball.

Clay County quarterback Nate Adams completed two passes that moved the ball to the Clay County 40-yard line.

An offensive holding call moved the ball back 10 yards but on the next play Adams found Weston Birdwell down the far sidelines, who went up and took the ball away from the Cornersville defender, then raced down field before Cornersville's Hunter Fitzgerald tracked him down at the five-yard line.

The Cornersville defense bowed its back and Wesley Pigg, Barrett Powers and Rhett Woodard made stops in the shadow of the goal line.

On fourth down Pigg stopped Clay County and Cornersville took over on downs.

The Clay County defense was up to the challenge and Cornersville went three-and-out with Tyler Brockman punting the ball away to the waiting Kerr, who started up field, broke to the middle of the field and raced 45 yards for the touchdown.

After the PAT was blocked, Clay County led 6-0.

Cornersville took the ensuing kickoff and with Ben Franklin and Riley Qualls rushing the ball moved to the Clay County 49-yard line.

The drive stalled and Brockman again punted a booming kick to the Clay County 11-yard line.

After Cornersville's Blake Jones stopped Kerr in the Clay County backfield, Adams on second down found Kerr over the middle and the running back juiced two Cornersville defenders and raced down field for a 90-yard touchdown run after catch.

The PAT was no good and with 2:37 left in the first quarter, Clay County led 12-0.

Cornersville came roaring back as Mason Calahan took the kickoff and raced down the Clay County sidelines and would have scored but for that man Kerr, who raced him down at the Clay County one-yard line.

From there Riley Qualls rushed into the end zone for the touchdown but the two-point try was no-good, but Cornersville had cut the lead in half, 12-6.

Cornersville's offense still was sputtering and after another Brockman punt, the Clay County Bulldogs began a 13-play drive, aided by two Cornersville penalties, that moved the ball downfield.

Adams again found Kerr for a four-yard touchdown, but once more the two-point conversion was no good leaving the score with an 18-6 Clay County advantage.

After another three-and-out, Cornersville

Mason Calahan patiently waits for an opening and darts upfield for a short gain.

left Clay County with good field position at their own 45-yard line.

Clay County went to work with Joseph Marcom running for 20 yards then Adams found Birdwell for a 35-yard touchdown and the visitors pushed their lead out to 24-6, with another two-point conversion failing to find the end zone.

Cornersville pulled up its bootstraps and before the half wound down, they drove, on a nine-play drive, to the Clay County two-yard line but were denied as Woodard was downed in the back field to turn the ball over on downs to Clay County.

That stop left the score at 24-6 in favor of the visitors.

Cornersville took the second-half kickoff and began a 13-play drive to keep the ball away from the quick striking Clay County offense.

With Franklin running hard for Cornersville and quarterback Caden White finding Riley Qualls with a crisp pass, the home Dawgs moved down the field.

Woodard plowed for yardage, Qualls and Wesley Pigg slashed through the Clay County line, then White lofted a pass toward the goal line that was tipped by Clay County.

But Eli Welch, using his basketball jumping skills, grabbed the ball at the Clay County three-yard line.

Two plays later White snuck into the end zone and though the two-point conversion was no-good, the faithful home crowd breathed a little easier as again Cornersville cut the lead in half, 24-12.

Clay County responded with an eight-play drive, once again helped by a defensive penalty by Cornersville.

Cornersville had Clay County third and 13 at the Bulldog 43-yard line but Adams found Brayden Allred with a pass that went for 46 yards to the Cornersville 11-yard line.

After a Cornersville pass interference, Kerr again ran for a touchdown, and with the two-point conversion again failing, the lead was now 30-12, Clay County.

The Cornersville offense struggled for the BELL BUCKLE — Legendary Chapel Hill football coach Homer Jones came out of retirement in the spring to help his grandson Tony Johnson fine tune his talented Forrest Middle School squad and attempt to make a run for the Duck River Valley Conference title that has eluded the Rockets since 2014.

Jones saw much promise in the squad and he was correct as the Rockets stormed out of the gate this season with an undefeated record.

FMS took a 3-0 start to long-time rival Cascade Thursday night, but Jones wasn't there to see it as he was hospitalized with Covid-19 earlier in the week.

"Homer means a lot to us as a coaching staff and he means a lot to this team," Johnson said.

"He coached for over 30 years for Forrest and he came out of retirement to coach with me and coach these young guys because he sees the potential in this group.

"He is the reason we are so physical and so mentally tough and these guys are thinking about him just like he is thinking about us."

The Rockets were good medicine for Homer as they walloped the Champions 44-0 to move to 4-0, one win away from hosting the conference title game.

"We were a little worried after that big win last week that our heads would be big coming in, but we have been preaching to these guys to stay humble and stay hungry and to leave no doubt that we are the best team on the field," Johnson said.

"We definitely did that tonight on offense, defense, and special teams, it was a lot of fun."

Jones received the game updates Thursday night in the hospital from Johnson and told the coach to tell the team, "It was a great victory and he wanted to know how they adjusted to the unbalanced set." That's Homer!!

FMS takes on Cannon County for middle school homecoming next Thursday night at the Murrey E. Holton Memorial Field in Chapel Hill, hopefully with Homer back at practice and on the sidelines for game night.

"We need to win, it's homecoming, it's a big week, it's a fun week for these kids, and it can be distracting at this age, but I think we will be really focused and come out ready to get that win," Johnson said.

The Rockets put the game at Cascade away very early as they piled on 36 first half points, beginning with a Fletcher Fields pick-six on the Champions' second play from scrimmage.

The Forrest defense stymied the Champions again and the offense took over at their own 23-yard line after the punt.

A long run on second down by Cohen Grissom plus 15 yards on a Cascade personal foul gave Forrest great field position before a holding call set them back.

Three snaps later, Fields ran for a first down and Grissom followed with a bruising run down to the Cascade seven-yard line.

Two plays later, FMS quarterback Ryan Hill punched it in from the one-yard line on the final play of the first quarter and then ran the rock in again for two more points to make it a 14-0 contest.

Grissom drilled the ensuing kickoff that pinned the Champions back at their own 15-yard line where disaster was looming.

The Forrest defense pushed them back to the shadow of their goal line and a fumbled punt gave the Rockets the ball at the one-yard line where Hill scored on a keeper two plays later to put FMS up 20-0.

Cascade still had no answer for the FMS defense, going three-and-out again and another bad snap gave the Rockets the ball on the Champions' 43-yard line.

"I think our defense a lot of times is more impressive than our offense," Johnson said. "We watch a lot of film and these guys watch a lot of film on their own and they already have a game plan in their heads and we say stuff they already know what we are going to say.

"We are very sound on defense and we love giving out those Zero bars the next week."

On the next snap, Hill found a wide open Bell on a seam route for an easy touchdown and then Hill made it 28-0 with a two-point run with 3:05 remaining in the first half.

FMS stopped Cascade on three plays after the ensuing kickoff and got the ball back with 48 seconds left in the first half.

A false start on the Rockets made it first-and-15 before Grissom busted a first down run to the Cascade 37-yard line and Fields followed with a run to the 26.

With 25 seconds remaining until the break, Hill dropped back and found Fields behind the Cascade defense for a touchdown and Hill tossed the two-point conversion pass to Bell in the corner of the end zone, giving FMS an insurmountable 36-0 halftime lead.

The first team offense played the first series of the second half and kept pounding the rock as they reached the Cascade 15-yard line where Hill capped off his spectacular night with a 15-yard touchdown toss to Bell. Grissom bulled in for the two-point conversion and the 44-0 lead.

Hill went 3-for-3 for 89 yards and three touchdowns. Cascade kept their starters in and the Rockets played the second team defense that bent, but did not break as they held their ground to complete the shutout win.

The Rockets have recorded back-to-back shutouts, outscoring their three on-field opponents 122-8.

FMS also has a forfeit win over Manchester.

Cornersville's Wesley Pigg said, "We should have scored more points and defensively we should have played better. They were fast, but that's what Mondays are for—go back and hit the sleds and get better."

Riley Qualls add, "We came out flat. They made more plays than we did. We didn't execute, and we didn't stay in front of the chains."

5 ways to stay busy and active in retirement

(StatePoint)
Many people look forward to their retirement for years. However, once it begins, they may find all the newfound free time overwhelming.
If you're planning on retiring soon, having a plan for how you'll spend your time is important for your health and happiness. Here are five ideas for staying mentally and physically active, as well as engaged in your community:
1. Start a walking meet-up: Host a morning walking group in your neighborhood. A brisk morning walk is a low-impact way to get in shape and keep your heart healthy. Plus, the fresh air and camaraderie is good for your mental wellbeing. To ensure the group's success, keep meet-up times consistent and let participants know in advance the pace and distance you plan to walk. You may even want to start a fun tradition, such as ending every stroll session at a local coffee shop.

2. Become a tax expert: Consider taking an online course on how to do taxes and become a resource for friends during tax season. Get prepared by visiting the IRS site, which provides information on tax return preparer credentials and qualifications, as well as details about how this year's tax laws have changed and how they'll impact deductions. Equip yourself with a good printing calculator, such as the HR-170 from Casio, which features two-color printing and Cost/Sell/Margin functionality. The calculator allows you to check and correct up to 150 steps and print your calculations after correction so you can maintain accuracy. Plus, its clock and calendar features will help you stay organized.

3. Volunteer your skills: Many recent immigrants need logistical help getting situated in the United States. If you speak a foreign language, consider volunteering through your local library or community center. Become a literacy buddy to your new neighbors or help them complete essential paperwork, such as job applications and school enrollment forms.
4. Learn music at your own pace: It's never too late to begin your music education. Whether you're learning to play the piano for the first time or revisiting an old passion, new tools will allow you to hone your skills independently and effectively. Check out Casiotone keyboards, which are portable and well-suited for any level of play, as most of the models have features that will guide you through its built-in songs by either a key-lighting system or an on-screen step-by-step process. With the ability to slow the tempo to aid in practice, or learn melodies individually by selecting left-hand or right-hand parts only, you can quickly master favorite tunes and build your musical confidence.

5. Read the classics: Are there classic books you've always wanted to read but have never gotten around to? Use your abundance of free time to finally make your way through your literary bucket list. Whether it's "Moby Dick" or "Ulysses," consider inviting friends to participate. Challenging titles will be more easily and enjoyably tackled with friends and a discussion schedule.
To promote your health and happiness in retirement, keep your body and mind active and engaged.

Originally, Gatlinburg was to be clear cut and mined

By Bill Carey
TN History for Kids

Hindsight's 20/20, and humans have never been able to predict the future.
Today we associate Gatlinburg with hotel rooms, kid-friendly museums, rides, tourist traps, mountain scenery and hiking. A century ago, practically no one foresaw this. Gatlinburg and the forests and mountains surrounding it were just another place for heavy industry.
You see, long before there was a paved road to Gatlinburg, there was the Knoxville, Sevierville and Eastern Railroad. The KS&E connected Knoxville to Sevierville by 1909. Seven years later it announced that it would be extended to Gatlinburg.
"A Knoxville to Gatlinburg railroad?" you may wonder. "Wouldn't that have been great for tourism?"
Not exactly. This was long before the Great Smoky Mountains National Park and the Space Needle. If you read newspapers of that era, you will find that the railroad had a different purpose altogether:
"It is the belief of many, who have been in the country between Sevierville and Gatlinburg, that the line will result in great development of the timber resources of that section," reported the Sept. 30, 1916, Knoxville Journal Tribune.
"As soon as the road is completed, the iron ore land and the timber land will be worked, and that section of the country will be alive industrially as it has never been before," said the Feb. 7, 1917, Knoxville Sentinel. "Knoxville manufacturers will be given access to some high-grade magnesium iron ore."
A few months later, the Journal Tribune published a long article about Sevier County's business potential. It mentioned lumber, limestone quarries, the Walker Milling and Produce Company, the Sevierville Mills and the Dixie Canning Company. There was no mention of day hikers, t-shirt shops, and the Ripley's Believe It or Not Museum because back then no one could foresee a time when ordinary people owned cars and took family vacations to the mountains.

By 1920 there were indications that the railroad was paying dividends in the "development" of Gatlinburg and the area around it, to the delight of business leaders in Knoxville. In 1920 the LeConte Hardwood company began clear-cutting a 20,000 acre tract of virgin forest between Elkmont and Gatlinburg. Two years later, a school desk factory called Sevier County Manufacturing was organized in Gatlinburg. "The plant is located in the great hardwood belt and has excellent waterpower for its operation," the May 10, 1922, Sentinel reported.
Also, to put this in context: heavy logging was also taking place on the other side of the Tennessee Smokies—in the area between Townsend and Elkmont.
However, it was in the midst of all this "development" that people did vacation in Gatlinburg, staying at places such as the Mountain View Hotel (which opened in 1916). Many of them fished, hiked and contemplated whether it made more sense to preserve the scenery rather than tear it down.
According to "Birth of a National Park in the Great Smoky Mountains" by Carlos Campbell, the people most responsible for "starting the ball rolling" on the idea of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park were Anne and Willis Davis of Knoxville. In 1923 the couple vacationed out west and saw some of the early national parks. On the way back, they talked about the idea of a national park in the Smoky Mountains, an idea that they soon began introducing to civic organizations in Knoxville.
The story of how their idea grew; how Anne Davis got elected to the Tennessee General Assembly; how she helped convince Governor Austin Peay and the U.S. Department of the Interior that the Smoky Mountains would make a great national park is another column. I just want us to remember that, for a time, Gatlinburg and the area around it were viewed as place to be mined and clear cut.

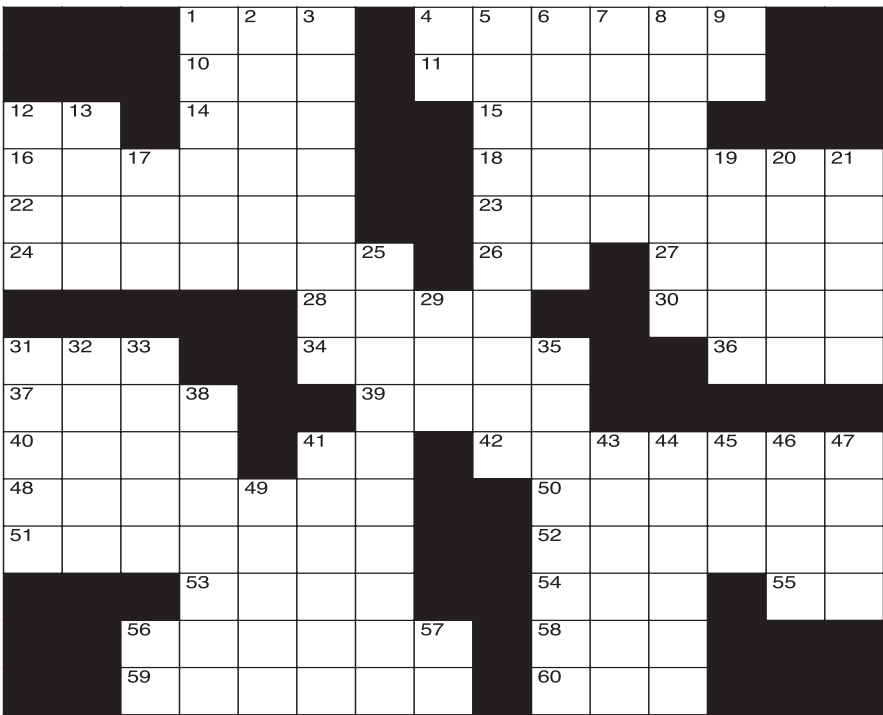

HOW TO PLAY: Each row, column and set of 3-by-3 boxes must contain the number 1 through 9 without repetition.
