Veterans Day Parade to be held November 11th

Marshall County and the City of Lewisburg will host the county's first annual Veterans Day Parade on Thursday, November 11. The parade will begin at Marshall County High School at 9:30 a.m. and will follow the route of Tiger Boulevard to West Commerce and end at the Lewisburg Square in time for the 11 a.m. Veterans Day service which will be held on the east side of the square.

Any veteran who wishes to participate in the parade should call the Marshall County Veterans Services Office at 359-5482 or Mayor Mike Keny's office at 359-1279 to register.

Several veterans as well as veteran organizations have already signed up to participate and will be joined in the parade by both the Marshall County High School Marching Band and the Forrest High School Band of Blue as well as members of the local chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

very special day as we pause and show our respect and appreciation to the many veterans who have served our country," said Keny. "We are thankful to the many different groups in the county who through the years have celebrated our veterans with Veterans Day programs."

Keny said that the idea of hosting a parade had been discussed for a couple of years, although the COVID pandemic derailed plans to hold the event last year. Partnering with the city of Lewisburg, this year will mark the first of what should be an annual event.

"The citizens of Lewisburg are privileged to once again honor our veterans with this first annual parade," said Lewisburg Mayor Jim Bingham.

Marshall County High School is one of many schools hosting events. As the site of the parade's origin they will host all Veterans for a light breakfast at 8:15

Lewisburg to narrow city manager field

By Scott Pearson
Associate Editor

The Lewisburg City Council added an hour to next Tuesday's regular meeting at its work session Tuesday afternoon.

The council will meet in a special called meeting, beginning at 5 p.m. prior to the regularly scheduled 6 p.m. meeting, to narrow the field of candidates.

The city has received 17 applications for the position and each councilman will submit three to five selections, based on the resumes received, from which the smaller pool of interviews will be drawn.

The city is looking to fill the city manager position held currently by Buck Beard, who plans to retire in January.

Beard had originally planned to retire last January before being convinced to remain in the position for another year.

According to the city's original timeline for the process, a replacement for Beard should be named by mid-December.

"We are doing better than I would have suspected and there is plenty of credit to go around," said Mayor Jim Bingham, of the city's financial recovery over the past two years. "All of the citizens of Lewisburg owe a great debt to Buck Beard."

Flu

in every county on Tuesday, Nov. 9 to help boost the number of Tennesseans vaccinated against influenza.

Flu shots will be available at the Marshall County Health Department, 206 Legion Ave. in Lewisburg, from 10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. on Tuesday.

"As we prepare to gather together for the holidays, I hope all Tennesseans are considering vaccinations to protect themselves and their family from serious illness, whether that is flu or COVID-19," Health Commissioner Lisa Piercey said in a statement.

The flu vaccine is recommended for Tennesseans 6 months of age and older and can be administered at the same time as the COVID-19 vaccine. Those at the highest risk of severe flu complications include pregnant women, infants, the elderly, and people with certain medical conditions.

Additionally, on Wednesday the state health department announced the approval of the Pfizer COVID-19 vaccine for children aged 5 to 11 years of age. County health departments are expected to begin offering the vaccine as early as today for this age group.

Call the Marshall County Health Department at 359-1551 for questions regarding availability or to make an appointment.

Parade

a.m., conduct a Veterans Day program at 9 a.m., and form a tunnel of flags for all veterans to exit the school to begin the parade.

Marshall County currently has over 1,900 veteran residents.

"We're looking forward to having a great day and hope many of our veterans county-wide will participate," said

Keny. "I'm also asking that all Marshall County citizens come out along the parade route to show their support and pay tribute to the men and women who have served our country."

City

Two proposals from the council will require more study before possibly coming to a vote.

Councilman Jack Cathey raised the idea of a new construction impact fee.

Such fees are intended to offset some of the infrastructure costs associated with new construction, such as roadway or utility expansions and shift costs away from current residents.

Marshall County already assesses an adequate facilities tax on new residential and commercial construction, but those funds, even if generated within the city, are dedicated to the county water system or county highway department.

The process for establishing a similar fee within the city would require a revision of the city charter, said City Attorney Steve Broadway, which must be approved by the state legislature.

Any implementation of such a fee, even if approved by the council, would be some time in coming.

Councilman Joe Bradford asked about the possibility of establishing parking lot lighting standards.

He said that constituents had approached him, specifically about Marshall County Plaza, concerned about a lack of illumination and safety in some parking lots.

The management company for the shopping center has been difficult to reach about the matter, Bradford added.

Any such measure would have to first pass the planning commission and would not, however, apply to already existing lots.

Director of Parks and Recreation Cary Whitesell asked the council to consider dissolving the existing Parks Advisory Board.

She said that the seven member body had not been able to make a quorum for a meeting since September, 2020, and requested that it be reestablished in the future with governing bylaws and a clearer scope of duties, neither of which the board, in its current form, has.

Heaven Opened!

"And Jesus cried with a loud voice, and gave up the ghost. And the veil of the temple was torn in two from the top to the bottom." - Mark 15:37,38

The cry of Jesus Christ from the cross was at the height of His agony as His soul was an offering for sin (Isaiah 53). What is so amazing is that crucifixion was the instrument of death by suffocation. Yet, the Lord Jesus "gave up the ghost" which means that Jesus purposely released His Spirit because His sacrifice was finished. This implies that Jesus was not a victim, but rather He was a free will sacrifice for a world of lost sinners.

This sovereign expiration of Jesus Christ is how us Gentiles by birth get into the Commonwealth of Israel (Ephesians 2:12-19). This is how salvation by grace through faith places us into the Kingdom of Heaven. This is true because at the time of Christ's cry on the cross, God gave a sign and it was the "veil of the temple" torn.

When we think of a veil we think of something elegant and see-through, but not so in the Temple. According to Exodus 26 this veil was made of veils of blue, veils of purple, veils of scarlet all woven together and embroidered with artistic designs. Historians tell us that this veil was woven together so tight and thick that it could not be torn. It is said that it would take a team of men to tear it in two. Now the reason the veil was so thick was because it was used as a division to separate two holy rooms in the Temple. It divided the holy place where the priests ministered daily, from the most holy place where the ark and the mercy seat was. The most holy place was where God met man only once a year, and only by a blood sacrifice presented by the high priest. So this veil closed off access with God and it was there as a division to remind everyone that man was shut out, and no one could just pop in on the Holy God.

Lastly, notice that the veil was torn from the "top to the bottom." This is amazing because if a team of men would try to tear it they would start from the bottom up. However the tearing of the veil started at the high point, at the top of the veil, and the tear went downward to the bottom. You guessed it - it was God who tore the veil in the temple. The Holy Spirit plays off the torn veil in Hebrews 10:19 and 20 to teach us that it was the tearing of the flesh of Jesus Christ on the cross that actually opened up heaven (the most holy place) for both Jews and Gentiles. In short: "Jesus cried" - Jesus "gave up the ghost" - "the veil of the temple was torn" - heaven was opened for all who will believe.

Are veterans the heroes who keep on giving?

By Danny Tyree

I'm not complaining, but after 23 years of column writing, it becomes increasingly challenging to find new angles for recurring events such as Mother's Day or Memorial Day.

So, when it came time to write about Veterans Day (again), I sought inspiration by calling a dear friend who served as a track mechanic during the Vietnam War.

Larry said he has good memories of military service and genuinely appreciates what the Veterans Administration hospital system does for him now, but he didn't feel he had anything particularly profound to share with his peers or with non-veterans.

A dud of an angle for a Veterans Day essay? Not necessarily.

A few days after my conversation with Larry, I abruptly switched gears and shifted my thoughts to all the things Larry has done (involving family, church and work) in the more than four decades SINCE he was a staff sergeant.

Don't get me wrong. Veterans Day should still be an occasion when a grateful nation organizes parades, delivers speeches and offers business discounts for those who defended our republic. We should always commemorate that brief-but-intense time in veterans' lives when they were dodging bullets, patching up wounds or solving logistical nightmares.

And, of course, we should continue to care about the mental health of those whose lives were shattered by their wartime experiences.

But we should also take time to acknowledge the post-military accomplishments of those who make a successful transition back into civilian life. These are the men and women who take the self-respect, discipline, widened horizons, teamwork and technical skills honed by the military and use them to benefit their communities.

We don't always draw a connection with their military background, but these people go on to become good parents, good neighbors, good bosses, good co-workers, good citizens.

Think how much poorer society would be without these veterans coaching youth sports teams, coordinating fundraisers, serving on boards (industrial, school, library), organizing neighborhood watches and just generally making life better for the rest of us.

Some veterans may become paradigm-changing entrepreneurs or deep-pocketed philanthropists. But even the most humble still have something to offer long after they can no longer fit into their old uniform.

True, veterans who serve only a single tour of duty will likely have many more years for a productive civilian life than do career military personnel. But the careerists can earn double honors. Their well-deserved retirement years don't have to be limited to sitting in a rocking chair, reminiscing. Retirement can be a rich time of mentoring, volunteerism and leadership.

It can be monotonous to spend 365 days a year constantly reminding veterans of what they did in Germany, the South Pacific, Korea, Vietnam, the Persian Gulf or Afghanistan; but avail yourself of every opportunity to recognize veterans for what they're doing now.

If a veteran goes the extra mile for you on a loan approval, helps your child secure a scholarship, spearheads a "downtown beautification" campaign, saves your company a bundle with some ingenious workarounds or changes your flat tire, be sure to show your appreciation.

Veterans should not be frozen in amber. Yes, they have a past, but they also have a present and a future.

Thanks, Larry, for serving your country by traveling half a world away from home. But thanks even more for all the lives you've touched since then.

©2021 Danny Tyree.

Tigers end regular season on high note

By Chris Siers
sports@t-g.com

GREENBRIER — On a cold, dreary night that marked the regular season finale, the Marshall County Tigers (7-3, 5-3) finished their regular season, grinding out a 17-7 win at Greenbrier.

The win was a bounce back into the win column after falling at Montgomery Central the week prior.

The game didn't start as well as the Tigers had hoped.

After pushing deep into Greenbrier territory, the Bobcats (3-7, 3-5) intercepted Tiger quarterback Devonte Davis and set up shop on the Tigers' 10-yard line.

With its back against the wall early on, the Marshall County defense answered the bell and forced a turnover on downs on the Tigers' own 1-yard line.

Battling the elements, neither team was able to gain much of an advantage over the other through the remainder of the quarter.

It wasn't until Demari Braden broke the score early in the second frame that either offense began to show signs of life.

Braden broke the plane near the eight minute mark of the second quarter, but the kick after failed, leaving the Tigers with a 6-0 lead.

Marshall County added to its lead later in the quarter on a Wyatt Joyce 33-yard field goal to give the Tigers a 9-0 lead at the half.

Marshall County padded its lead with Braden's second touchdown run of the night on an 8-yard score with about seven minutes left in the third frame.

In lieu of kicking an extra point, the Tigers successfully added the 2-point conversion courtesy of a run by Davis to bump the advantage to 17-0.

Greenbrier responded in short order, barely two minutes later, on a 16-yard strike by Nolan Carson.

The successful kick after made it a 10-point game, but much like the first quarter, both teams struggled to keep the chains moving and the 10-point margin held through the remainder of regulation.

With the weather conditions affecting both teams' offenses, the ground game was the biggest source of production for the Tigers.

As a team, Marshall County totaled 220 yards on the ground, against just 19 passing yards.

Braden was the top gainer on the ground. He had 111 yards and two touchdowns on 23 carries, while Davis chipped in 91 yards on 19 carries.

Through the air, Davis completed 7-of-11 attempts for 19 yards.

Kamon Dunnivant was the top Tiger defender, recording eight tackles and half a sack.

Braden also added a sack and two tackles as well.

With a fourth-place finish in Region 5-4A, the Tigers will pair up with the No. 1 seed Hardin County Tigers of Region 6-4A.

Hardin County opens the playoffs with a flawless 9-0 overall record. Hardin County's enters Friday's first-round playoff contest averaging over 40 points per game and allowing just over 7 per game.

In nine games this season, Hardin County (9-0, 5-0) has held opponents to seven points or less six times, with the closest margin of victory coming against Milan in the regular season finale in a 35-14 win.

Kickoff is set for 7 p.m. in Savannah on Friday night.

Tigers take 3rd at region, headed to state

By Chris Siers

CHAPEL HILL — On a day loaded with runners from across the mid-state, Henry Horton State Park hosted the Region 4A-AA and Region 6A-AA cross country meets last week.

After the dust had settled, several Marshall County runners punched their ticket to the upcoming state meet, which will be held on Friday.

In the Region 6A-AA meet, the Marshall County Tigers punched their ticket to the Class A-AA state meet with a third-place team finish. The Tigers were led by Krew Capps, who placed third individually in 17:57.

Ayden Cook wasn't far behind, finishing in 19:13, good enough for 12th place overall.

McKinley Allen turned in a 20:00 final time, while Alex Patino finished three minutes back at 23:06.

Terrance Bishop finished a spot behind Patino in 52nd, crossing in 23:21.

Will Beasley and Cayden Flickinger were the final two Tigers to cross the finish line, in 63rd and 69th place.

Fairview won the meet with a near-perfect 26 points.

Creek Wood's Jackson Martin ran away with the individual victory in 15:54, a full 1:32 ahead of second-place finisher, Matthew Andrea.

Also in the Region 6A-AA meet was Cornersville, who didn't record a team score due to the school fielding just four runners.

Even with just the four runners, the Bulldogs were still well-represented in the region meet.

Carter Neat was the top Cornersville runner to cross the finish line. He finished 25th in 20:10.

Caleb White finished five spots behind in 21:06. Sam Polk turned in a 24:58, while Austin Huff finished in 28:58.

After Marshall County and Cornersville competed in the Region 6A-AA meet, which was held in the morning, the Forrest Rockets competed in the region 4-AA meet, which was held in the afternoon on the grounds of Henry Horton.

Forrest turned in a final score of 355 and was led by Deason Jones, who finished 35th in 20:00.

Braden Vanderploeg was 74th overall and finished in 22:20. Bryant Ellis finished 85th overall in 22:59, while Keaton Gillette and Stephen Wilson finished back-to-back in 23:45 and 24:34.

Central Magnet ran away with the team victory, placing 1st-4th overall.

Blake Younger won the race in 16:19.

With the third-place finish, the Tigers will advance to the Class A-AA, which will be held on Friday at Sanders Ferry Park.

The Class A-AA state race will be held at 2:10 p.m. on Friday.

CHAPEL HILL—The Marshall County Tigerettes and Forrest Lady Rockets punched their tickets to the upcoming Class A-AA state meet after a strong showing in their respective region meets, which were both held last week at Henry Horton State Park.

The Tigerettes took second in the Region 6A-AA meet, while the Lady Rockets took fourth in Region 4A-AA.

Marshall County was the beneficiary of placing four runners in the top 20 and five in the top 21.

Guadalupe Molina and Brady Phillips finished ninth and 10th overall, crossing the finish line in 23:22 and 23:49, respectively.

Kamaria Johnson finished 15th overall and finished her race in 24:03, while freshman Karlie Lohr took 17th overall in 24:35.

Cornersville also had a pair of runners compete in the Region 6A-AA meet.

While unable to field enough runners for the team score, Lily Ledford ran well for the Lady Bulldogs and finished her race in 26:30, while Sarah Holiman turned in a 39:41.

Alyssa Andrea of Fairview won the race in 21:27 to lead her team to the overall first-place finish.

In the Region 4A-AA race, the Lady Rockets survived an absolute gauntlet of top-end times to qualify for the state meet.

Central Magnet won the meet overall and saw Samantha Ouellette win the race in a blistering 18:38.

Central Magnet placed five runners in the top 10.

Junior Jaedyn Stalneker was the first Lady Rocket to finish, taking eighth-place overall. This is Stalneker's third trip to the state tournament.

She out-kicked Central Magnet's Ella Anderson to secure her eighth-place finish in 21:16.

Justina Mosley was just five places behind, finishing in 22:09, while Abby Davenport finished in 23rd overall.

She turned in a 22:58, while Taylor Crumley finished 28th in 23:24. Marissa Edde was the final Lady Rocket to finish the race. She crossed in 48th overall and finished her race in 25:38.

The placing was good enough for fourth-place overall and the Lady Rockets were able to secure their spot in the upcoming Class A-AA state meet.

The Class A-AA state meet will be held on Friday at Sanders Ferry Park in Hendersonville, with the race beginning at 1:20 p.m.

Rockets cap regular season with big win over Mt. Pleasant

By Chris Siers
sports@t-g.com

CHAPEL HILL — A steady dose of an effective ground attack was enough for the Forrest Rockets (7-3, 5-0) to finish the District 5-2A schedule unbeaten in Friday night's regular season finale against Mt. Pleasant.

The Rockets were led by a one-two punch of Tayton Swift and Liam Bell, who combined for over 200 yards on the ground, in the Rockets' 25-7 win over the Tigers.

In total, Forrest cranked out 411 yards of offense, with 360 coming on the ground.

Swift was the top producer on the ground, totaling the rock 13 times for 125 yards, while Bell added 99 yards on 16 carries.

Rocket quarterback

Hunter Bennett added 51 yards through the air, completing 4-of-10 tries.

The Rockets kept with the trend of stingy defense and allowed Mt. Pleasant (2-7, 1-4) to total just 66 offensive yards, an even split of 33 on the ground and 33 on through the air.

Forrest took the game's opening drive and marched it down the Tigers' throats, milking nearly six minutes off the clock.

The drive spanned 12 plays before Bennett blasted his way into the end zone on a 5-yard score.

Gavin Grissom's kick after put the Rockets up, 7-0, with 6:01 left in the first quarter.

After forcing a punt on the first Mt. Pleasant drive of the night, the Tigers caught a break on the second Forrest drive and came up with an interception with 3:39 left in the first frame.

The following Tiger drive still couldn't muster any momentum against the Rockets' defense and was forced to punt again.

The turnover bug hit the Rockets again early in the second quarter at the Mt. Pleasant 3-yard line.

Even with the turnover, the Tigers again were held in check and forced to punt the ball back to the Rockets.

Two drives later, the Rockets took possession at their own 40-yard line and with just 2:15 left on the clock, marched the ball five plays over the course of just a minute before Bell rattled loose for a 27-yard score, and following Grissom's successful kick after, Forrest led 14-0 at the half.

Gavin Grissom connected on a 40-yard field goal in the fourth quarter to put the Rockets up 18 points.

Mt. Pleasant sustained its best drive of the night on the first possession of the third quarter after taking over at its own 12-yard line. The Tigers orchestrated a 11-play drive that took 7:28 off the clock and pushed to the Forrest 32-yard line before Brenton Burchell picked off Mt. Pleasant quarterback Nick Brown, setting the Rockets up with their first second-half possession on their own 33-yard line.

Five plays later, Bennett found Christian Hammond on a 34-yard touchdown pass and again went to the air for the 2-point conversion to Swift for the 22-0 lead with 2:20 left in the third.

The Tigers finally got a flicker of life on the ensuing kickoff when Keevan Cooper found a crease and returned the ball 85 yards for the lone Mt. Pleasant score of the night.

Following Cooper's kickoff return, Forrest answered with a drive that pressed into the fourth quarter and near the Mt. Pleasant red zone.

The drive, however, stalled near the 23, prompting the Rockets to turn to Grissom for a 40-yard field goal, which he connected on for the final score of the night.

Friday night's win puts a cap on what's been a stellar regular season and sets the Rockets up for a first-round Class 2A playoff meeting against Adamsville.

Adamsville enters Friday night's playoff meeting against the Rockets after securing fourth-place in Region 6-2A.

The Cardinals finished the regular season with a 4-6 overall record and have averaged over 30 points in four wins this season, but in six losses, have managed just 11.5 points per game.

Kickoff is set for Friday night at 7 p.m. in Chapel Hill.

Mt. Pleasant	0	0	7	0	7

General Andrews is Tennessee's most overlooked military hero

By Bill Carey
Tennessee History for Kids

Here is a fact that not enough Tennesseans know: Joint Base Andrews (formerly known as Andrews Air Force Base) is named for a man from Nashville.

Frank Maxwell Andrews is considered one of the founders of the U.S. Air Force. For a time, he was commander of all U.S. troops in the European Theater of Operations during World War II. Had he not been killed, he might have been head of the Normandy Invasion, instead of Dwight Eisenhower.

Andrews was distantly related to two Tennessee governors (John C. Brown and Neill S. Brown). Born in Nashville in 1884, he grew up in the South Nashville neighborhood known as Waverly Place. When he graduated from Montgomery Bell Academy, Andrews applied to go to the U.S. Military Academy at West Point and made the waiting list.

Many years later, his sister remembered great excitement in the household when they received a phone call saying that her brother's spot at West Point was secured. "Daddy was very happy and pleased," she wrote. "Mother was in tears. She knew what it would mean—being away from home."

Andrews graduated 42nd in his class and became a junior officer in 1906. For the first several years of his career, he was in the cavalry. In 1917 he was transferred to the U.S. Army's new aviation section and became a flyer. Andrews stayed in the aviation side for the rest of his career, working his way through the ranks with assignments such as chief of the Army Air Corps' Training and Operations division.

Regardless of his rank, Andrews never strayed far from the cockpit, and in August 1935 he broke three speed records that had formerly been held by Charles Lindbergh.

In 1935 the U.S. Army consolidated its air corps tactical units into a single command. General Douglas MacArthur promoted Andrews to the rank of brigadier general and made him commander of this new unit. "A one-time cavalryman, Col. Andrews is tough, fiftyish, handsome," reported Time magazine.

As an important leader within army policy circles, Andrews advocated the army's purchase of heavy, four-engine B-17 bombers instead of smaller and cheaper bombers such as the B-18. When, at first, the U.S. Army leaned toward the B-18, it appeared to end his career. "To many, it appeared that the Army was punishing Andrews for advocating the B-17 so forcefully," the National Museum of the U.S. Air Force says in an on-line biography of him.

However, General George Marshall believed in Andrews and named him one of his senior staff members in 1940.

At different times during the war, General Andrews was commander of the Caribbean Defense Command and commander of U.S. forces in the Middle East. In January 1943, Lieutenant General Andrews was named commander of all U.S. forces in Europe, replacing Dwight Eisenhower. At this time, the American effort in Europe was focused on long-range bombing and on plans for a mainland invasion.

Unfortunately, Andrews' tenure as commander of all U.S. forces in Europe was not a long one. On May 3, 1943, Andrews was killed when his B-24 crashed while trying to land in Iceland. On hearing the news, some of his friends recalled something he once said when he was asked about the amount of time he spent flying. "I don't want to be one of those generals who die in bed," he said.

For several decades, Andrews Air Force Base (now renamed Joint Base Andrews) has been well-known as the base from which the President of the United States flies. However, to the best of my knowledge, there are no places named for Frank Andrews in his native state of Tennessee other than a sports field at Montgomery Bell Academy.

As a former military flight officer, I find this state of affairs a disservice to Tennessee's World War II legacy.

Simple tips to adjust to the time change

(StatePoint) Daylight Saving Time (DST) ends November 7, and if you are already dreading the adjustment, you are not alone. The physical and mental effects are real, and many people undergo mood shifts, fatigue and stress as their bodies adjust. To "fall back" this fall stress-free, try these techniques:

- Adjust slowly: Rather than wait until DST ends to shift your sleep schedule by a full hour all at once, start to adjust incrementally in 10 to 15 minute segments over the course of four to six days. This method will help you sleep more soundly and be less tired. If possible, adjust your meal times accordingly as well. For an easy transition, get the entire household in on the evolving schedule, including children and pets.

- Get a great timepiece: The simplicity of having your watch adjust automatically to the correct time will help ensure you are awake and where you need to be in the days ahead. To that end, consider updating your timepiece to one that's Bluetooth-enabled. Those in the Edifice lineup are especially useful for travelers and those who work with people around the world, as they analyze current time and positioning data and reset automatically four times a day to always display the accurate time in your location, as well as locations globally. You might also consider a watch with Multi-Band 6 technology. This useful tech feature of many Casio and G-Shock timepieces synchronizes with atomic clocks -- the most accurate form of timekeeping in existence -- by receiving information from radio waves.

- Seek sunlight: With the sun setting at an earlier hour, you may find yourself in the dark as your work day ends. Sunlight is a source of vitamin D, which is vital to your health. It also boosts happiness hormones to help beat depression and stave off Seasonal Affective Disorder. If possible, take a walk midday or sit near a window at lunch to ensure you get a daily dose of sun exposure each day.

- Create a routine: You can avoid the pitfalls of fatigue that many experience when DST ends by carving out an evening routine that prepares your body for bedtime. Whether it's a half an hour of screen-free reading, meditation, journaling or enjoying a cup of herbal, caffeine-free tea, such rituals can help signal the body and mind that it's time for sleep. Likewise, a morning routine -- such as performing a set of dynamic stretches, jogging or eating a protein-rich breakfast, can energize you for the day ahead.

While time changes are never fun, you can help ease the transition with new habits and innovative tech tools.

HOW TO PLAY: Each row, column and set of 3-by-3 boxes must contain the number 1 through 9 without repetition.
