Lady Rockets fall after tournament action

STAFF REPORT

SUMMERTOWN — After a long weekend in the Riverdale Warrior Classic, the Forrest Lady Rockets fell to Summertown in a closely-fought non-district game on Monday night.

Summertown plated a pair of runs in the top of the seventh and escaped with a 4-2 win over the Lady Rockets.

After a scoreless first three innings, both teams plated a run in the fourth and fifth innings.

Forrest connected on just five hits in the game, with Abby going 2-for-3 on the night with a double.

Julie Williams went the distance for the Lady Rockets from the pitcher's circle and gave up four runs on nine hits.

After three scoreless innings to start the game, Abby Ferguson led off the fourth inning with a double to right and later scored on a single by Jenna Goodman.

Parker Wales followed suit and in the fifth, singled to lead off the inning and scored on a passed ball.

Aside from that, Forrest was unable to push anymore runs across the plate.

While Williams was unable to keep the game within striking distance for the Lady Rocket offense, Summertown led off the two-run seventh with a solo home run and tacked on a second run in the frame with a sac-flv.

In the second, Jenna Goodman led off with a walk and later scored on a single by Maggie Daugherty.

Daugherty scored later in the inning on Kirby's double.

Division of Water Resources (DWR)

Notice Requesting Public Comments on Draft Permit Actions

FILE # NRS20.177

The purpose of this notice is to advise the public of the following proposed permit action and solicit comments and information necessary to evaluate the potential impact of the proposed activities on the aquatic environment. Pursuant to The Tennessee Water Quality Control Act of 1977, T.C.A. §69-3-108 and Tennessee Rules, Chapter 0400-40-07, the proposed activity described below has been submitted for approval under an Aquatic Resource Alteration Permit and Section 401 Water Quality Certification. Section 401 of the Clean Water Act requires that an applicant obtain a water quality certification from the state when a federal permit is required. This notice is intended to inform interested parties of this permit application and draft permit and rationale, and to ask for comments and information necessary to determine possible impacts to water quality. At the conclusion of the public notice period a final determination will be made whether to issue or deny the permit.

LOCATION The activity is located in the Duck River in Marshall County. This application involves structural or operational information of a utility service provider, therefore precise location data are confidential under Tennessee law.

PROJECT DESCRIPTION / PURPOSE The Division is considering the revision and reissuance of the Aquatic Resource Alteration Permit for the Marshall County Board of Public Utilities (MCBPU) to construct a mid-river, passive screen intake in the Duck River and withdrawal of water from the Duck River at the instantaneous rate of 2,100 gallons per minute.

ANTIDEGRADATION The affected waters have available parameters for habitat and water withdrawal. The Duck River at this location is an Exceptional Tennessee Water. As described in the accompanying permit rationale, the Department has made a preliminary determination that the proposed activity will result in de minimis degradation.

FACTORS CONSIDERED In deciding whether to issue or deny this permit, the Division will consider all comments of record and the requirements of applicable federal and state laws. The division will consider the nature, scale and effects of proposed impacts. The Division will consider practicable alternatives to the alteration, loss of waters or habitat, diminishment in biological diversity, cumulative or secondary impacts to the water resource, and adverse impacts to unique, high quality, or impaired waters.

In making this decision, a final determination will be made evaluating appreciable permanent loss of resource values and proposed compensatory mitigation to ensure the project will not result in no overall net loss of state water resources values.

HOW TO COMMENT TDEC is requesting public comment on this proposed permit action. Obtaining a broad range of facts and opinions on Agency actions is one of the best ways to ensure appropriate decisions. Persons wishing to comment on the proposal are invited to submit written comments to the Division. Comments will become part of the record and will be considered in the final decision. The applicant's name and permit number should be referenced. Send all written comments to the Division's address listed below to the attention of the permit coordinator. You may also comment via email to water.permits@tn.gov.

After the Division makes a final permit determination, a permit appeal may be filed by the applicant or by any person who participated in the public comment period whose appeal is based on comments given to the Division in writing during the public comment period or in testimony at a formal public hearing. If it is hard for you to read, speak, or understand English, TDEC may be able to provide translation or interpretation services free of charge. Please contact Christa Morphew at 615-360-0382 or christa.morphew@tn.gov for more information.

PUBLIC HEARING Interested persons may request in writing that the Division hold a public hearing on this application. Have you slapped anybody? lately?

By Danny Tyree

After the Academy Awards incident between Will Smith and Chris Rock, I started wondering how many of my gentle readers have resorted to physical violence in their adult life.

In 1983 a co-worker sucker-punched me at the end of second shift and in 1999 (at a different workplace) a co-worker shoved me to the ground; but so far, I haven't been in any two-way fights since childhood. (Some folks play tennis. Some folks play cornhole. Some folks play "the long game." Bwaha-hahaha...)

But what about you? Have you ever slapped, punched, head-butted, butt-kicked, snatched bald-headed anyone who has run afoul of you? Do you regard it with pride or shame?

If you have a story, I hope you acted in self-defense, or to protect someone from a bully or to defend your country or at least to keep that &^%$# hussy from interfering with your sacred right to the last Samsung 85-inch TV on Black Friday. ("With liberty and justice and Crystal Processor 4K for all who lay hands on it first!")

PLEASE don't tell me that you have instigated a family squabble at a funeral, scuffled with a conscientious police officer or manhandled an editor who didn't use my columns often enough. (Regarding the latter, "don't tell me" is the operative phrase. Plausible deniability and all that.)

AT LEAST tell me you were thorough with your use of force. No knocking someone into the opening of Happy Hour when you were AIMING for the middle of next week. No giving someone an UN-SOUND thrashing and getting the Building Codes people involved.

For statistical purposes, I hope any hypothetical disciplinary slaps can be broken down in terms of being provoked by sass or backtalk or attitude or "that look" or at least copyright infringement. ("How DARE you plagiarize and use the excuses I used on MY parents!")

I pray that you spring into action only when totally justified, Grasshopper. The world certainly has enough lowbrows who tend toward the hair-trigger mode. (As Yoda once observed, "The Jerry Springer Show is strong with this one.")

Yes, "taking umbrage" seems to be the default value in our culture. "Them's fightin' words, mister" lurks in our psyche decades after its introduction in Westerns. Hey, how come no one ever announces, "Them's huggin' and dancin' and singin' Kumbaya words, mister"?

Okay, self-restraint is harder than the Decorum Police imply. More than once when I've encountered an infuriating jerk, I've dutifully retreated to my Happy Place -- only to discover that the scumbag was already there, using the American flag for a picnic blanket and groping my grandmother!

Today's brawlers can always conjure up an excuse for their behavior, but it's sad just how wimpy we've gotten since the halcyon days of chivalry, the Hatfields and McCoys or dueling. ("Defending my sister's honor is worth a night in jail, but I ain't getting shot at over her! I mean, she always got the most toys and let's face it, she IS sort of a flirt...")

Taunts, challenges, unintentional slights and the ensuing donnybrooks may always be with us; but there is a glimmer of hope that social media trends may take a lot of oomph out of the animosity.

("You say my momma is so fat her blood type is Ragu??? Let me fact-check that before we do anything hasty. Your aspersion is probably missing context.")

National Public Safety Telecommunicators Week

Lewisburg Mayor Jim Bingham signs a proclamation marking the week of April 10 as National Public Safety Telecommunicators Week, honoring those dispatchers who operate around the clock to staff 911 emergency lines. Since 2015, 911 services in Marshall County have been shared between the county and municipalities. The center's 15 telecommunicators answered 12,000 emergency calls last year and dispatched 43,000 service calls. Joining Bingham are, from left, Lewisburg City Manager Bam Haislip, Lewisburg Fire Chief Larry Williams, 911 Telecommunicator Sylvia Corley, and 911 Director Joey King.

Budget: New Titans stadium, grocery tax pause, vote machines

By Jonathan Mattise
Associated Press

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Republican state lawmakers peppered Gov. Bill Lee's finance team with questions Tuesday about its proposal to authorize $500 million in bonds to help the Tennessee Titans build a new enclosed stadium. Some said the request caught them by surprise, since they approved a tax break for the team's planned stadium upgrades just last year.

The Titans stadium bond proposal was among the new items that the GOP governor's team presented to lawmakers, seeking their signoff to fund the priorities in the upcoming budget.

Other big-ticket proposed additions include $80 million for a one-month break from state and local grocery taxes; $78.1 million to boost airports; $20 million to help Memphis waterfront development on the Mississippi River; $20 million to reduce privilege taxes paid by a handful of types of professionals; $17 million to help renovate a Nashville raceway hoping to land a NASCAR race; and $15 million to put toward new voting machines that produce a paper trail of votes in 61 counties without such equipment. Lawmakers are mulling whether to require the equipment.

But lawmakers centered attention on the new proposed home for the Titans due to officials going from trying to modernize the existing Nissan Stadium to working on plans for a new stadium right next door after renovation costs more than doubled to $1.2 billion.

Butch Eley, the governor's top deputy, told lawmakers the money would go toward a new covered stadium, saying $2 billion is in the ballpark of the total cost. Whether it's a fixed or retractable roof, having an enclosed facility could help Nashville compete for the biggest events in or outside of sports, from the Super Bowl to the NCAA basketball Final Four.

Eley said he wants the state to be less invested than the Titans and Nashville's government combined.

The push comes as the Buffalo Bills landed an agreement Monday for a proposed $1.4 billion new open-air stadium, fueled by a record $850 million taxpayer price tag to help secure the franchise's future in the region for the next 30-plus years.

Both funding setups are already drawing skeptics who don't think the government should be helping to fund pro sports facilities. The Beacon Center of Tennessee and Americans for Prosperity of Tennessee, which both prioritize free-market policies, came out against the Titans plan.

"The only break regular Tennesseans can expect is a one-month grocery sales tax holiday," Americans for Prosperity Tennessee State Director Tori Venable said. "Don't add insult to injury by giving away taxpayer resources to the benefit of a select few."

Senate Majority Leader Jack Johnson noted legislation approved last year was aimed at stadium improvements.

He said the legislation lets the Titans keep sales tax generated inside of Nissan Stadium while still continuing to service debt from an initial state bond issue, scheduled for repayment in 2029. He said lawmakers also signed off on letting the Titans keep half of the sales tax from the campus the team plans to develop there, whether from hotels, restaurants or other businesses.

Eley said once the area is revamped, the state's portion of taxes from the new development would go toward paying off the $500 million, "without current taxpayer dollars going to that." He said the positive economic impact would also extend outside of the stadium complex.

Johnson said he has "heartburn" that the stadium proposal would "very possibly" be costing the state money, "ultimately subsidizing" it. He questioned why the state shouldn't wait for firmer plans from the Titans.

Eley said the cost likely would be much lower than the $55 million proposed annually for debt service, saying the 6% interest and bonding accounted for in the proposal represent a conservative estimate.

Eley reasoned that the administration thinks costs will only increase if the state waits, saying it's a "good year to go ahead and put our stake in the ground and say we felt like that was a good investment for Tennessee."

Earlier this month, Titans President Burke Nihill discussed the team's plans at a Metro Sports Authority board meeting. The Titans currently are working with Metro Nashville officials on the design and costs of building a new stadium on Nissan's parking lots between the stadium and Interstate 24.

Nihill noted inflation is driving costs higher, and both Nashville and the Titans want to finish work in time for the 2026 season.

The stadium opened in 1999 on a 30-year lease and the Titans had originally planned to renovate it for $292 million. Nashville officials have been working on plans for a year to redevelop hundreds of acres around Nissan Stadium on the east bank of the Cumberland River.

That included renovating Nissan Stadium, with the first estimate $600 million. That doubled when contractors raised new concerns about the condition of the stadium and its infrastructure.

Nihill has said a new stadium is the better value in the long run.

“Blessed are they that mourn: for they shall be comforted.” - Matthew 5:4

We all have a desire to be comforted with a comfort that is secure and forever, where there are no more doubts and no more discouragements. King Jesus, in His Sermon on the Mount, speaks of those who are “Blessed” and “comforted.” The Lord Jesus uses the word “Blessed” in the sense of being spiritually happy, and “comforted” meaning to call near in order to console and to relieve. Now this blessed happiness and comfort is not in the same way the world defines them. You see, the world’s happiness is based off of happenstance, while comfort is thought of as luxury. This blessed happiness and comfort comes in the most unlikely way. It comes in the manner that is opposite to the ways and reasoning of the world. Yes, this comfort that brings about a blessed happiness is for the person who is in spiritual hardship. The Lord Jesus said that His everlasting comfort and spiritual happiness comes only to those who “mourn.” Not what we naturally expect. To “mourn” means not only to grieve, but it has to do with the feeling or the act of sorrow. It is natural for us to run away from grief and sorrow. In fact we occupy our minds and our time with entertainment and amusement so as to escape any sorrow. We all agree that we don’t want that kind of downer. However, the mourning and sorrow that the Bible speaks of is not simply mourning over human circumstances, like when something tragic hits. It is much more than that. This mourning is actually a sorrow over the sin that is in the world (Jeremiah 3:25), and the personal sin in our lives (Psalm 51:1-4). What we miss, and what the Bible teaches is that all the turmoil, all the troubles, all the tragedies, all the sicknesses, all the diseases, and even death itself are results of sin that has infected all of humanity (Romans 5:12). It is so easy to get focused on the effects of sin rather than on sin itself as the cause of our problems. That is what our Lord Jesus is teaching. He is directing us to go to the root of our problem, which is sin. Mourn over sin, because it is our sin that put Jesus Christ on the cross to die for us, and if we have a broken heart about our sin towards God, He will comfort us (Psalm 51:17).

The everlasting comfort and eternal happiness God graciously gives is for the one who is mournful, sorrowful over sin, who confess their sin to God, and receives the Lord Jesus Christ as their own King and Savior from sin, and the penalty of sin. Blessed are those who mourn, for they shall be comforted in the spiritual reality of the Kingdom now, and they shall be comforted in the Kingdom of Heaven to come. This is an unlikely happiness that lasts forever.

Factors that can adversely affect mood

No one is immune to the occasional bad mood. A bad mood can make a difficult day feel even more so, and multiple-person households can become uncomfortable places to be if one person's mood is less than welcoming.

Bad moods can be easy to shrug off, and that may not inspire people to wonder why their generally upbeat outlooks can suddenly take a turn for the worse. Each person is different, so what triggers a mood swing in some individuals may not necessarily do so in others. However, various factors can adversely affect mood. Taking steps to avoid or minimize such factors can reduce the number of days when you feel as though you woke up on the wrong side of the bed.

- Lack of physical activity: A 2019 study from the Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health found that running for 15 minutes a day or walking for an hour reduces the risk of major depression. That link is likely connected to the release of endorphins triggered by exercise. Endorphins are hormones that studies have shown contribute to a general feeling of well-being, which explains why a lack of physical activity can adversely affect mood.
- Chronic stress: Chronic stress has long been linked to a host of health problems. According to the Mayo Clinic, chronic stress puts individuals at increased risk for heart disease and weight gain but also issues that affect mood, including anxiety and depression. Individuals who find themselves routinely confronting bad moods may be dealing with chronic stress. Identifying the source of that stress and speaking with a health care professional about how to reduce and manage it may lead to improvements in mood.
- Hunger: A 2018 study from researchers at the University of Guelph in Ontario found evidence that a change in glucose levels can have a lasting effect on mood. The study, published in the journal Psychopharmacology, found that rats injected with a glucose metabolism blocker experienced stress and depressed mood due to the resultant hypoglycemia. The study lends credence to the notion that many people have about feeling moody when they don't eat.

This image is for editorial use only. Not to be used in any advertising.

- Weather: Seasonal Affective Disorder is a type of depression that adversely affects certain individuals' moods during winter, when hours of sunlight are fewer than during spring, summer and fall and when temperatures outside can sometimes be so cold as to keep people indoors for extended periods of time. In addition, a 2013 study published in the journal Social Indicators Research found that individuals report greater life satisfaction on exceptionally sunny days than they did on days with ordinary weather.

Bad moods come and go for most people. Identifying common triggers for bad moods can help individuals prepare for potential mood swings and navigate them in healthy ways.

Factors that can adversely affect mood

No one is immune to the occasional bad mood. A bad mood can make a difficult day feel even more so, and multiple-person households can become uncomfortable places to be if one person's mood is less than welcoming.

Bad moods can be easy to shrug off, and that may not inspire people to wonder why their generally upbeat outlooks can suddenly take a turn for the worse. Each person is different, so what triggers a mood swing in some individuals may not necessarily do so in others. However, various factors can adversely affect mood. Taking steps to avoid or minimize such factors can reduce the number of days when you feel as though you woke up on the wrong side of the bed.

- Lack of physical activity: A 2019 study from the Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health found that running for 15 minutes a day or walking for an hour reduces the risk of major depression. That link is likely connected to the release of endorphins triggered by exercise. Endorphins are hormones that studies have shown contribute to a general feeling of well-being, which explains why a lack of physical activity can adversely affect mood.
- Chronic stress: Chronic stress has long been linked to a host of health problems. According to the Mayo Clinic, chronic stress puts individuals at increased risk for heart disease and weight gain but also issues that affect mood, including anxiety and depression. Individuals who find themselves routinely confronting bad moods may be dealing with chronic stress. Identifying the source of that stress and speaking with a health care professional about how to reduce and manage it may lead to improvements in mood.
- Hunger: A 2018 study from researchers at the University of Guelph in Ontario found evidence that a change in glucose levels can have a lasting effect on mood. The study, published in the journal Psychopharmacology, found that rats injected with a glucose metabolism blocker experienced stress and depressed mood due to the resultant hypoglycemia. The study lends credence to the notion that many people have about feeling moody when they don't eat.

- Weather: Seasonal Affective Disorder is a type of depression that adversely affects certain individuals' moods during winter, when hours of sunlight are fewer than during spring, summer and fall and when temperatures outside can sometimes be so cold as to keep people indoors for extended periods of time. In addition, a 2013 study published in the journal Social Indicators Research found that individuals report greater life satisfaction on exceptionally sunny days than they did on days with ordinary weather.

Bad moods come and go for most people. Identifying common triggers for bad moods can help individuals prepare for potential mood swings and navigate them in healthy ways.

Bulldogs double score on Hampshire

By Dennis Holley
For The Tribune

The Hampshire Hawks (0-4) descended onto the diamond at Cornersville High School on a cool and windy afternoon to face the host Bulldogs (2-1) for a renewal of the bygone days of Region 6, District 11 play.

Cornersville came away with a 10-5 win.

The Bulldogs jumped out to a 7-0 lead after three innings, then held on as the Hawks put a four spot on the board in the fourth but Cornersville responded with a run via a Hampshire balk in the fifth and then tacked on two runs in the sixth to secure the victory.

Beau Schillig picked up the victory with four innings of solid work, then gave way to Gage Lovell in the fifth inning and Tanner Mullins closed the game out in the seventh.

Mullins led the Bulldogs with five RBI's on a 2 for 4 evening.

Hampshire came out battling with Kennon Anderson lacing a single to centerfield, then Jed Page drilled a double to left center but a fine relay from leftfielder Blaine Woodard to shortstop Mullins to third baseman Kristan Malone at third caught Anderson for the first out.

A fielder's choice on a ball hit by Payden Seaman resulted in pinch runner Tyler Sparks being gunned down for the second out at third.

Schillig then coaxed a pop-up by Taylor Whitside to Malone at third base and the Bulldogs escaped without giving up a run.

The Bulldogs in the bottom of the first got the ball rolling with Gage Lovell drawing a walk, then Daniel Sellars doubled to centerfield to put runners on second and third with no outs.

Wesley Pigg was HBP to load the bases and then Mullins laced a single to left field that eluded the Hawks left fielder and Lovell, Sellars and Kale Adcox, pinch running for Pigg, all scored to put the Bulldogs up 3-0, still with no outs.

Bryce Woodard singled Mullins home and at the end of one inning the Bulldogs led 4-0.

The Hawks, limited by Schillig, could not get anything going in the top of the second with Cornersville catcher Pigg making a nice play on a nibbler down the first base line for the third out.

The Bulldogs picked up where they had left off in the first with Sellars banging his second two-bagger on a drive to left field.

Pigg singled home Sellars and on the throw home took second base where Mullins drove in his fourth run with a single to left field and at the end of two innings the Bulldogs led 6-0.

Hampshire again was hand-cuffed in the top of the third by Schillig and in the bottom of the third Cornersville's Blaine Woodard hammered a ball over the left field fence to put the Bulldogs ahead 7-0 after three innings.

Hampshire fought back in the top of the fourth inning as a tiring Schillig issued two walks and two singles that produced two runs and then a single by Hampshire's Holden Hamilton scored two more runs and Hampshire had cut the Cornersville lead to three runs 7-4.

After Cornersville went down in order in the bottom of the fourth inning Hampshire began again as Seaman led off with a single to left field; then on a ball hit to the Bulldog's second baseman's left Seaman never stopped and positioned himself at third base with one out where he scored on a dropped third strike to cut the Cornersville lead to two runs, 7-5.

The Bulldogs scored a run in the bottom of the fifth after Schillig was hit by a pitch, stole second and third base, then scored on a balk by Hampshire pitcher Holden Hamilton to increase the Bulldog lead back to three runs, 8-5.

Lovell in relief of Schillig gave up a double by Hampshire's Craig Delk but Bulldog catcher Wesley Pigg gunned Delk down attempting to steal third as Malone applied the tag for the third out.

As is the case when a player makes a great play in the field, he more often than not then leads off the next inning and Pigg for Cornersville's Wesley Pigg did not disappoint as he banged a triple to left field whereby Mullins, batting next, drove him home for his fifth RBI with a single to left for a 9-5 lead for Cornersville.

Mason Calahan drew a walk, stole second, stole third and then on a double steal with Blaine Woodard, aboard via a walk scored the Bulldogs' last run.

Mullins relieved Lovell in the top of the seventh and despite giving up a walk and a single and with runners on second and third whiffed Whitside for the third out and the Bulldogs came away with a victory and improved to 3-1 on the young season.

"No matter how bad the game gets or how far we get down we always battle and keep our heads in the game," Mullins said. "Today we battled through and came out with a win."
