Annie Chamberlin will be reading from her first book, "The Unusual Life of Sally Susan Seusanberry", at the Marshall County Memorial Library on Saturday at 2 p.m.

Young author event at library Saturday

By Scott Pearson
Associate Editor

Most students are probably looking forward to the end of school by this point in the year, but one Lewisburg youth is planning a milestone.

Twelve-year-old Annie Chamberlin will be celebrating the publication of her first book with a reading and signing event at the Marshall County Memorial Library on Saturday, April 9, at 2 p.m.

Annie, a 6th grader at Westhills Elementary, wrote "The Unusual Life of Sally Susan Seusanberry" last year, mostly during free periods at school before finishing it while on vacation.

Annie said that she's always had an active imagination and had started writing projects before that hadn't gone anywhere.

"The Unusual Life of Sally Susan Seusanberry" was different, however.

Annie said that she had made up a tongue twister and the story began to emerge from that.

"I came downstairs, wrote the first chapter, and stuck with it," she said.

That work paid off in a book that contains enough adventure, fantasy, and humor to captivate young readers. Annie's mother Paula said that they've had more than one reprint already.

The characters and story stuck with her as well. Annie said that she finished the sequel a few weeks ago and hoped to have it published later this year.

Despite having two books under her belt before her teen years, Annie said she would like to keep writing as a hobby in the future. Her current goal is to become an archaeologist one day.

Annie's book will be available for purchase for $10 at the event or, for those unable to attend, contact pchamberlin08@gmail.com for a copy.

Refreshments will be served.

GMM to return?

By Scott Pearson

Lewisburg discussed bringing back an old favorite in a different form at Tuesday's city council work session.

Councilman Jack Cathey raised the possibility of resurrecting the city's long running Goats, Music, and More festival, which has not been held the past two years, by establishing a 501c3 non-profit to oversee the festival.

The separate, volunteer group would organize and promote the event, which would no longer be a city-run or funded activity.

Julie Giles, speaking as a volunteer for the new committee, noted that GMM was "a great opportunity to highlight our community" and that it was important we try to preserve this event.

Spinning off the festival from the city would allow more grant and sponsorship funding opportunities and would offer a chance to keep the event without city funding, which has been criticized in the past.

The council allowed that the process of forming a 501c3 should proceed, noting that if the city were to transfer the copyrights for the event, the new group would need to exist prior to the transfer.

Cathey offered to serve as a volunteer on any new board that would be formed and expressed confidence that a new group should be able to stage the event this year.

Among other items set for next Tuesday's agenda, the council heard two requests for annexation and rezoning, one 48 acre parcel on Bob Davis Road and a 72 acre site on Holly Grove Road for future residential development.

Adventure Awaits at 4-H Camp!

By Kaylee Layton
UT Extension

In a world that has gone virtual, there are some things kids can't enjoy from a screen including ziplining through tall trees, cooling off in the pool on a hot day, playing with friends, and enjoying smores by the campfire. These things are activities that children get to experience at 4-H Junior Camp. This opportunity is open to all kids in Marshall County in 4th, 5th and 6th grade.

This year is an exciting one since campers will get to stay overnight in the cabins and spend the whole week together! The dates for camp are June 6th to June 10th and the location is the W. P. Ridley 4-H Center in Columbia, TN. An Olympic-sized swimming pool, a miniature putt-putt course, and a creek stomp adventure, campers are sure to find something they enjoy!

Learning and having fun is what camp is all about. Campers can practice their archery and rifle skills or learn all about different species of animals from the Crazy Critter Guy. They can also learn about team building at the low ropes course and how to create things by doing arts and crafts. Most importantly, they will build friendships during camp. There will be kids from counties all over Tennessee which gives campers the opportunity to meet new kids their age and build friendships that last a lifetime.

To register a child for camp, go to tiny.utk.edu/marshall4hcamp. Camp registration will open on April 20, 2022, at 9 a.m. and will close once spots are filled so put this date and website on your calendar because this is an opportunity you do not want to miss!

If you want to know more about Marshall County 4-H or camp, give the UT Extension office a call at 931-359-1929, or you can email Kaylee Layton at klayton2@utk.edu

County recognizes 911 Telecommunicators Week

Marshall County Mayor Mike Keny presented a proclamation marking the week of April 10 as National Public Safety Telecommunicators Week to the staff at the Marshall County 911 dispatch center.

The center's 15 telecommunicators answered 12,000 emergency calls last year and dispatched 43,000 service calls. Since 2015, 911 services in Marshall County have been shared between the county and municipalities, creating one system staffed around the clock to ensure rapid and efficient responses to emergencies of all types.

Mini cows visit NHC

NHC-Lewisburg had visitors, a couple of furry visitors! Betty White is the four legged visitor on the left - Indy is the four legged visitor on the right. These two beauties are miniature Scottish Highlanders, a breed of cows that makes exceptional pets and are very social. Betty White and Indy proved this by allowing the residents to pet them as they were led by Amanda Finch, Liam Clanton and Taylor Finch. NHC-Lewisburg Social Worker Taylor Barrow and resident Betty Tucker are pictured with the visitors.

2021 Individual Tax Return and Extension Deadline

As March 2022 draws to a close, the filing deadline for tax season for filing this year's 2021 tax return or filing an extension this year is April 18, 2022. Since the District of Columbia (Washington D.C.) is celebrating Emancipation Day on April 16th, the IRS is giving taxpayers this year three additional days to file their 2021 individual tax return or an extension to file their individual tax return. Filing an extension will extend the deadline to file the form 1040 to October 17, 2022. If a taxpayer files a Form 1040 extension, the taxpayer should be aware that an extension to file is not an extension to pay their tax liability.

If the taxpayer files an extension and the taxpayer is expecting to owe additional tax on their 2021 tax return, the taxpayer should pay their estimated tax liability with their extension no later than April 18 this year to avoid a notice of underpayment penalty and interest. To avoid a notice of underpayment penalty and interest, the taxpayer should pay 100% of their last year's tax or 90% of this year's tax.

If the taxpayer is unable to pay their tax liability with their tax return, the taxpayer should still file their tax return and work out a payment plan with the IRS to pay their outstanding tax liability as quickly as possible. Once the IRS accepts your payment plan to pay your outstanding tax liability, do not miss a tax payment on your IRS payment plan. Missing a payment on an outstanding IRS tax liability on a payment plan is a default on your agreement with the IRS.

The April 18th tax deadline is quickly approaching to file your 2021 Form 1040 or an extension which will extend your 2021 tax return to October 17 this year. If you do not have all the information needed to prepare your tax return, it is okay to file an extension because it is easier to file an extension then it is to file an amended tax return.

Is there a Mary Magdalene in your life?

By Danny Tyree

If you could be the proverbial "fly on the wall," what Biblical event would you most like to witness?

I realize some of you don't accept the Bible in the first place. But if you do believe it, what scene would you love to see unfold before your eyes?

I imagine most people would go the Cecil B. DeMille route. They would choose something spectacular, such as the Israelites passing through the Red Sea, Noah's ark riding out the Flood or Daniel remaining faithful in the lions' den.

Me? I would love to see the early-morning encounter between Jesus Christ and Mary Magdalene on Resurrection Sunday.

I can think of lots of words to describe the mood of Mary Magdalene and the other friends/followers of Jesus immediately following his arrest, mock trial and crucifixion: blindsided, dejected, disillusioned, heartbroken, anxious, fearful, rudderless...

Two days after the crucifixion, when Mary Magdalene discovered the empty tomb, it was not yet the symbol of hope that has inspired millions of Easter sermons throughout the centuries. The rock rolled away from the tomb left her confused and distraught. She implored the man whom she mistook for the gardener to tell her where her beloved teacher's body had been relocated.

The "gardener" - in an action reminiscent of the Almighty God speaking to the prophet Elijah in a "still small voice" -- needed to utter only one word: "Mary."

Lost pets may wander home after 10 years. Loved ones feared drowned at sea may find refuge on a remote island before achieving contact with civilization. But has there ever been such a transcendent moment in human history as the "late" Jesus of Nazareth revealing himself to one of his inner circle?

Suddenly, Mary Magdalene's earlier negative emotions gave way to relief, elation, comfort, joy and unprecedented zeal.

Is there a Mary Magdalene in your life—someone who needs a little unexpected reassurance and inspiration?

Perhaps there is a friend, relative or business partner whom you haven't spoken to in years because of some long-forgotten disagreement. True, some relationships are beyond repair; but you never know the emotional impact of an olive branch until you try. You may find yourself lifting a dark cloud and making up for lost time.

Are your children or grandchildren enablers of bullies? Instead of letting them cheer the bullies or give tacit approval of the bullies, nudge them to show support for the underdog. Encourage them to defend the new kid in town, the weird kid, the sissy kid. It could be life-changing for an entire classroom.

Are there shut-ins on your street (or in the local nursing home) who face long, dreary days because of physical impairment and the fact that their children live thousands of miles away? Drop in for a chat. Offer to do some chores. Let them know they matter.

Human beings do not have to be rudderless, purposeless and hopeless. They do not have to live lives of quiet desperation -- if someone cares enough to give them a sense of self-worth and brighter tomorrows.

Whether you embrace the Gospel or consider it a fairy tale, the possibilities for uplifting, "out of the blue" attitude adjustments are endless.

Whether you cherish the cross of Calvary or not, you can still be the cavalry riding to the rescue of fellow humans who have given up hope.

MARSHALL COUNTY DEVOTIONAL PAGE

"For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God: Not of works, lest any man should boast." - Ephesians 2:8,9

There are many ideas in our religious world. All the religions of the world believe in some kind of self-atonement. All the religions believe that they must "do" some kind of "work" to merit their way into a better after-life. All the religions agree that there is a deficiency in humanity and there is a need for salvation. All the religions of the world agree on all of these religious concepts - except for Christianity. Surprised? You see Biblical Christianity is not a religion as sociologist defines it, but Christianity is actually a relationship based upon God's grace. Christianity holds to the Biblical teaching that salvation is by "grace" through "faith" alone. That salvation is "the gift of God" apart from human efforts called "works." Mankind is so ingrained with a works mentality of "do right"-"live right" in order to receive eternal life that when the freedom of "grace" is shared they don't know how to act. This reminds me of Bunny the Elephant.

There was an animal trainer who was in charge of the elephant exhibit and one day while the school children were visiting the zoo they stopped by to see Bunny the Elephant. They watched as Bunny performed her tricks. The children were amazed because the trainer led Bunny with a very tiny rope. The school children asked the trainer how he could control that huge animal with such a small rope? Bunny was so enormous that there was no way that the small rope could restrain her. The trainer said, "When Bunny was born we immediately put a rope around her and at that time, being a newborn elephant, the rope could restrain her. As she grew we did not have to change the size of the rope, because it was ingrained into her thinking that the rope controls her and she could go nowhere without it. But really she could break the rope like a piece of thread." Then one of the children asked the trainer, "What would happen if you took the rope off to set her free?" Well, years later, Bunny retired to an elephant sanctuary where they took off the rope and set her free. At first she slowly roamed around not knowing what to do, but then she made a loud elephant noise of joy as she experienced her newfound freedom away from the rope and the concrete floors of the zoo.

When we first heard of the good news of salvation by grace, we were like Bunny the Elephant - we didn't know what to do! Yet, once we received the truth that we are made free by God's grace through His Son Jesus Christ and that we obey Him out of love for our Savior, we quickly adapted to our new spiritual environment and made a joyful noise to the LORD - as did Bunny!

DREAM BECOMES REALITY AS COMPLEX OPENS

By Rickey Clardy
Sports Writer

CHAPEL HILL — What started as an idea on a back porch became a reality Friday night as a large crowd gathered for the dedication of the Mike Minor Sports Complex in Chapel Hill.

The complex, located on Depot Street, will be the home of the Chapel Hill Youth Baseball and Softball League.

"About four years ago, the idea started," Keith Harber, president of the CHYBSL said.

"A group of five of us met on my back porch. We were tired of playing sports in other communities and thought why can't we do something like that," Harber added.

The league only formed four years ago," Harber said.

"We played at the Forrest High School softball field and their practice fields. While we were doing that, we were raising money planning for this."

The complex bears the name of Mike Minor, who made a significant contribution for the park and was a star athlete at Forrest High School and is a current pitcher for the Cincinnati Reds.

Though Minor was busy with spring training in Arizona and could not attend the opening, his family was on hand to represent Minor at the opening ceremonies.

"It makes my heart very, very warm because Mikey has said ever since he got drafted, if there was anything he could ever do, he wanted to give back to this community," Shirley Minor, the mother of Mike Minor said. "He didn't want kids to have to drive to Lewisburg to practice or to play a game. He said if I can ever do it, I'm going to have a baseball field built."

"To see that happen, I can't be more prouder of him," Shirley added. "We send him pictures every day and he's kept up-to-date on everything."

"We wouldn't have been able to do anything near what we have if it weren't for him," Harber said.

"It's also taken tons of fundraising on our part and tons of man-hours and free labor from concrete people, from excavation people, from people who care," Harber added.

The work on the complex, which began in June of last year, was mostly done by volunteer labor.

The CHYBSL will be joined by players and teams from Unionville, with games being held both in Chapel Hill and Unionville. The fruits of that labor will show as a large number of youth, ages 3 thru 12, will be playing in the league.

"We have 32 teams this year and Chapel Hill alone has over 360 kids playing," Harber said. "Unionville has over 200 kids playing. So there's close to 600 kids playing here."

The dedication of the complex was held on the field named in memory of Ross Brown, who passed away in April of last year and was a founding board member of the league.

"This means so much," Leah Cook, the sister of Ross Brown said. "Ross is the one who got this started in Chapel Hill. They used to have to play out of town and Ross is the one who started this."

"Ross was the original vice president of the league," Harber said. "We talked about half of these kids are from Chapel Hill. That spurred the formation of the league."

"Ross was one of the most selfless people who didn't want any credit and wanted to stay out of the limelight," Harber added. "Ross would be the first one to be here and the last one who wanted any notoriety."

ally be home to four fields.

Currently, two of the fields will be available on the opening weekend while a third field will be ready for play the following weekend.

"We will have two 200-foot fields and one 225-foot field," Harber said. "There will also be a 300-foot field."

"We will have concession stands and lights will be installed on one field at a time," Harber added.

A big crowd appeared for the opening ceremonies, but Harber said the attendance for the actual games will be bigger.

"Tomorrow, they'll be three times as many people here," Harber said. "It's just surreal and heartwarming at the same time."

"It's amazing what a small community can do when everybody gets together and pulls the rope the same way."

Tigers out-duel Spring Hill in dandy

Luttrell, Hammons combine for gem vs. Raiders

By Chris Siers
sports@t-g.com

With a handful of injuries to key players, Marshall County coach Mike "Monk" Reese has leaned on the depth in the pitching rotation to deliver.

Over the last week, it's been the underclassmen who have stepped up and taken the reins, evidenced by the performance by junior Bailin Luttrell on Monday night against Spring Hill.

Luttrell went 5 1/3 innings of two-hit baseball as the Tigers picked up a huge District 8-AAA win over the Raiders.

"Bailin has taken the role and stepped up. Grayson Miller picked a heck of a game against Tullahoma. These guys have stepped up. At this point, we're gaining some confidence out of some guys who were at first going to be middle of the week pitchers and now they're Monday and Tuesday pitchers until these other guys can get going," Reese said.

Luttrell didn't allow a base runner through the first two innings, but the Raiders finally got a runner on via error in the third inning.

Followed by a walk, Spring Hill advanced both runners into scoring position.

Luttrell settled in and with runners on second and third, worked out of the jam, stranding two in scoring position.

The Tiger starter followed with a 1-2-3 fourth inning, but again had to work around trouble in the top of the fifth.

An error, a balk and a base hit once again put runners in scoring position with one out.

Luttrell again settled in and recorded a strikeout before the Tigers got a ground out to first to strand two more in scoring position.

Senior Bryson Hammons took over in another jam in the top of the sixth.

Spring Hill loaded the bases on a base hit and a pair of walks with just one out.

Having limited work after returning from a knee injury stemming back to football season, Hammons took the mound in the top of the sixth and the Tiger defense forced a 6-4-3 double play to end the threat and once again work out of the jam.

"We stranded about six or seven base runners in scoring position. We got out of some jams. Tremendous pitching out of Bailin Luttrell and Bryson Hammons coming in and closing the deal for us, especially when he came in with one out and we turned a double play. That was big," Reese said.

The Raiders got one run off Hammons in the seventh on a RBI single to left, but couldn't finish the rally.

Marshall County connected for just five hits against Spring Hill starter Cooper Inch.

The Tigers wasted little time going to work against the Raider junior, with Tristan Griggs mashing a solo blast to dead-center field in the bottom of the first inning.

"Tristan hit the home run early in the game to give us the lead. When you're ahead, people have to put pressure on their team to catch up," Reese said

A bit of savvy base running accounted for the second Tiger score, which came in the bottom of the fifth.

With two outs, Rob

Hawkins singled to reach and was followed on base by John Thomas.

With runners on the corners, Reese called for a steal and during a throw down to second, the ball was tipped by Inch, allowing Hawkins to score from third.

"We got the insurance on the first and third out of Rob Hawkins. We ended up advancing him to third and broke on the ball they threw away and were able to score that second run," Reese said.

In addition to Griggs' blast, James Hery, Carson Cheek, Eli Cross

Late scores costly for Tigerettes

By Chris Siers
sports@t-g.com

The Marshall County Tigerettes got a great start from Haylee Hobby, but couldn't get the needed offense to back her and fell, 3-1 on Monday night.

"I thought Haylee did a really nice job on the mound. She definitely gave us plenty of opportunity to keep the game close enough for us to come out on top. She was able to hold them to two hits and had no walks, so I think she pitched really well," Tigerette coach Amy Bonner said.

Giles County didn't manage a baserunner against Hobby until a two-out single broke up the no-hitter in the third inning.

The Lady Bobcats threatened with a second single to put two on with two outs, but a second strikeout of the inning by Hobby stranded the runners on base.

Like the Lady Bobcats, the Tigerettes struggled at the plate through the early innings and didn't connect on a single by second baseman Courtney Lynch.

Giles County plated the game's first run on a RBI single in the top of the seventh inning.

The Tigerettes responded in the bottom of the inning after Jessa Lancaster reached via error.

She stole second and later scored on a RBI single by Ellie Luce, forcing extra innings.

Second baseman Courtney Lynch fires the throw to first baseman Mallory Woodward for the out.

In the top of the eighth, however, the Lady Bobcats drove in two runs on three-straight hits to take the 3-1 lead.

With the battery in the top of the lineup in the bottom of the inning, Marshall County just couldn't come up with the offense and struggled in the final frame, going 1-2-3 to end the game.

As a team, the Tigerettes connected on just three hits, with Lynch, Luce and Kaniyah Taylor all connecting on singles.

"Unfortunately, our offense struggled getting the bats rolling early in the game. I know the kind of power our offense has and what the team is capable of, so we will continue to make adjustments to get our hitting back on the right track," Bonner said.

Hobby went six innings and pitched well enough to earn the win.

She gave up just two hits and struck out two, while relief pitcher Taylor Pickle pitched the final two innings and allowed three runs on four hits.

The Tigerettes are scheduled to be back in action this afternoon, weather pending, facing Lincoln County at 7 p.m.

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

UNIONVILLE — The Forrest Rockets fell behind early to the Community Vikings before coming back with nine runs in the middle innings as the Rockets defeated the Vikings 11-5 in a District 7-AA baseball game Monday night.

The Rockets managed five hits but were the recipients of 10 walks as Forrest stayed unbeaten in district play.

Forrest took a 1-0 lead in the first inning with the help of two walks and an RBI-groundout by Kason Fuller.

The Vikings bounced back with three runs in the bottom of the inning.

Mason Russell's grounder drove in the first run while a Rocket error put Community up 2-1.

Drew Harris drove in a run with a sacrifice fly to end the first inning scoring as the Vikings went up 3-1.

The Rockets bounced back with three hits and two runs in the third inning on consecutive RBI-hits by Brennan Mealer and Fuller to tie the game at 3-3.

Forrest took the lead for good in the fourth inning.

A bases-loaded walk by Camden Vaughn and a sacrifice fly by Riley Durbin gave the Rockets a 5-3 lead.

The fifth inning was big as the Rockets expanded their lead with five runs. Mealer had the big hit with a bases-clearing double as Forrest batted around and took a 10-3 lead.

Community was not through and came back in the bottom of the inning.

Maki Fleming singled and was on base as Russell parked a pitch over the left field fence as the Vikings cut the Rocket lead to 10-5.

The Vikings went down in order in the final two innings as Forrest added an insurance run in the top of the seventh to complete the scoring.

Mealer and Fuller had two hits each to lead the Rocket 5-hit attack.

Russell's homer was the best of three hits for the Vikings.

Mealer started on the mound for the Rockets with Austin Grubbs in relief in the fifth.

Russell started for the Vikings with Dylan Norris and Gage Underwood in relief.

The second game of the series was rained out on Tuesday.

Giles County rallies past Cornersville

By Dennis Holley

CORNERSVILLE — Thursday evening and night brought cold, windy, and off-and-on showers to the softball diamond at Cornersville High School as the Lady Bulldogs (6-4) welcomed the Lady Bobcats (4-5) of Giles County High School for a non-district game between different classifications schools.

The Lady Bulldogs jumped out to a 6-1 lead, then saw Giles County claw back in the late innings to tie the score and take the lead.

Cornersville fought back to tie the score, but Giles County pushed across a run in the top of the seventh, then held off a Cornersville threat in the bottom of the seventh to take an 8-7 victory back to Pulaski.

Giles County was led by pitcher Gracie Pickett, as she turned in a complete game and gained the decision.

At the plate, Giles County was led by Morgan Sharp, Marie Bodily and Mia Calahan who went a combined 6-for-12.

Cornersville matched the hitting with Anna Wood going 2-for-4, Jayli Childress 2-for-4, and Carmen Ward 2-for-4.

Carman Ward took the loss in relief of Childress.

The Lady Bobcats jumped out into the lead when Morgan Sharp led the game off with a single, stole second, stole third and rode home on a sacrifice fly by Kylie Hendricks as Giles County led 1-0 in the middle of the first.

The Lady Bulldogs got the bottom of the first going immediately as Anna Wood led off with a single, moved to second then third as Jayli Childress and Alicia Polk drew back-to-back walks.

Carmen Ward then with one out cleared the bases, courtesy of a Lady Bobcat error that allowed Wood, Childress, and Polk, who never slowed down, to score the third run.

Hannah Moore brought Ward around with a drive to the alley in right center field and at the end of the first inning Cornersville led 4-1.

The Lady Bulldogs

revved the motor again in the bottom of the second inning as Alisha Price beat out an infield bunt and Wood slap a single to left field.

After both runners moved up on a passed ball Polk brought Price home and Molly Wells delivered a sacrifice fly to deep right field to bring home Wood.

At the end of the second inning Cornersville led 6-1.

Giles County then scored a run in the top of the fourth when Marie Bodily rapped a triple to center field and Hope Murphy lifted a one out sacrifice fly to left field and the Lady Bobcats now trailed 6-2.

In the top of the fifth, Giles County struck again when with two outs Abby White laced a single up the middle.

Sharp then singled and Melia Roberts drew a walk and Hendricks singled to drive in White and the score now stood 6-3.

The top of the sixth saw Giles County turn the game in their favor as they struck for four runs to take the lead.

Abby White then plated White and Fletcher to make the score 6-5.

Carman Ward replaced Childress in the circle and promptly gave up a double to Mia Calahan to tie the game at 6-6.

Sharp then plated Calahan via a Cornersville error and the Lady Bobcats had their first lead of the game 7-6, when the top of the sixth ended with rain falling.

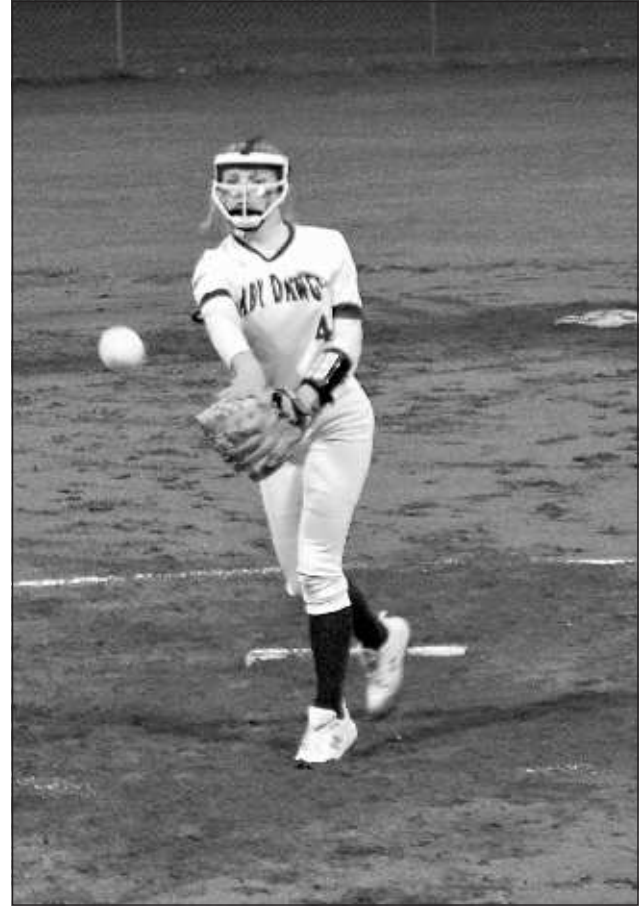

The Lady Bulldogs fought back and with one out, Childress slammed a double to right-center and Wells ripped a ball to second base that evaded the Lady Bobcat defender.

Childress then raced home to tie the game at 7-7 at the end of the sixth inning.

The top of the seventh saw Giles County take the lead when after two quick outs, Calahan drilled a double to left-center and Fletcher grounded to short.

The throw, however, got away from the Cornersville first baseman and Calahan raced home with the go ahead run, to make the score 8-7.

"We're still young with two seniors and one junior. The rest are sophomore and freshmen, we've even got two eighth graders. We're scrappy and we've played some really good teams and been competitive and now we're ready to head into district play," Coach Nathan Polk said of his team.

TUESDAY
Spring Hill 4, Marshall Co. 3

For the second night in a row, the Marshall County Tigers got a quality start, but on Tuesday, a three-run outburst in the seventh was more than Marshall County could handle in a 4-3 loss at Spring Hill.

The Raiders plated one run in the bottom of the second inning, but starter Grayson Miller effectively shut down the Raiders bats until the seventh.

Miller went 6 1/3 innings and gave up three runs on four hits, but minimized the damage until the decisive seventh.

After surrendering the first run of the game to Spring Hill in the bottom of the second, Marshall County rallied for a 2-1 lead in the top of the fourth inning, Eli Cross singled and then scored on a two-run blast by Grayson Miller.

The Tigers played add on with a single run in the top of the seventh, seemingly setting the Tigers up for a sweep over the Raiders.

But the home team went to work in the bottom of the frame and were able to come up with the walk off to even the series at one game apiece.

Cross went 2-for-3 on the night, while Miller was 1-for-2 with a two-run homer.

The Tigers will be back in action on Thursday night, hosting Cascade at 6:30 p.m.

See the world while you can

Chris Siers
The Extra Point

Anyone who knows me, knows I've done my fair share of traveling in the past several months.

One thing I've always been told is to travel while you can. Money will return, but time never will.

While I've been in and out of the country over the past several months, I happened to witness an event on my past trip that reinforced my belief in traveling and experiencing the world.

On a cruise that included stops in Aruba, Curaçao and Grand Turk, a terrible tragedy occurred on the final day at sea on the return to Florida.

A man collapsed and passed away from a massive heart attack on the last day of the trip.

It really made me think about all the places I've gone and all the things I've done.

Being able to see the world and experience different cultures through activities, food and travel, kind of came full circle.

Years ago, my grandpa, had been diagnosed with heart disease and for the bulk of my life while he was alive, I remember him just sitting and rocking in his chair.

There wasn't a ton of activities he did. He just sat and rocked in his chair.

Sports Editor Chris Siers sits by the railing on a recent cruise trip to the Southern Caribbean.

Now I'm not knocking him doing that, but he got to a point where he couldn't go experience things.

For 30-plus years, he worked in the DuPont factory in West Virginia and smoked.

All that eventually caught up to him.

So keeping that in mind, I've tried to apply that to my life in as many ways as possible.

I want to see things. I want to experience places. I want to try foods. I want to see it all. But it kind of has an impact on sports as well.

I remember during my running career that I wanted people who ran with me to hurt. I wanted to leave it all on the course or track.

I had a mindset during my cross country years, if you ran with me up hills on courses, I was going to make you hurt for it. And honestly, I got pretty good at that running gig.

Life eventually caught up to me. During my college years, I had an injury to my foot that required reconstructive surgery.

While I can physically still run, it's quite painful. So the injury effectively ended my career.

That time has passed.

I can never really put foot to pavement in a way I used to—my body just can't take it.

It's special being able to see high school players of all sports figure this out early in their career and see them leave it all on the court or field in the same way.

Time will never return to us.

We have to make the most of the time we're given.

Keeping the gentleman who passed away on Saturday, my grandfather and my former running career all in mind, that's what I'll do.

I'll keep traveling the world.

I'll keep seeing new places. I'll keep trying new foods.

But for now, it's time for a little break from that and settling into the mad sprint known as spring sports.

MLB gives OK to electronic pitch calling

By RONALD BLUM
AP Baseball Writer

NEW YORK — In a move that ends a tradition dating more than 150 years, Major League Baseball approved the use of an electronic device for catchers to signal pitches in an effort to eliminate sign stealing and speed games.

Since the beginning of baseball in the 19th century, catchers had used their fingers to signal the type of pitch and its intended location.

As video at ballparks increased in the 21st century, so did sign stealing — and worries about how teams were trying to swipe signals. The Houston Astros were penalized for using a camera and banging a trash can to alert their batters to pitch types during their run to the 2017 World Series title.

"It basically eliminates all need to create a sign system, for a catcher giving signs," MLB chief operations and strategy officer Chris Marinak said Tuesday. "You literally just press a button and it delivers the pitch call to the pitcher. And what we've seen so far, it really improves pace of game."

Some teams tried the system in spring training, with manager Tony La Russa of the Chicago White Sox and Aaron Boone of the New York Yankees among those saying they liked what they saw.

Yankees catcher Kyle Higashioka used it a couple times this spring training, including Tuesday with pitcher Michael King against Detroit in New York's final exhibition game.

"There's still some stuff we've got to work through, but I mean the fail safe is always just give signs. So, that's always there when we need it. We're just working out all the kinks right now. If we run into stumbling blocks in-game, we can always give signs. I'm not too worried about it being confusing," he said.

"I like it. At first today I gave signs to King because I didn't have a chance to talk to him about it, so I started getting all messed up with it. So I just decided to give signs, and that worked fine," he said.

MLB is providing each team with three transmitters, 10 receivers and a charging case for the PitchCom Pitcher Catcher Communication Device. It is available in English and Spanish.

"A maximum of five receivers and one transmitter may be in any use at any given time," MLB wrote in a five-page memorandum Tuesday to general managers, assistant GMs, managers and equipment managers, a copy of which was obtained by The Associated Press.

A catcher has nine choices on his wristband device: "four seam high inside, curve hi middle, slider hi outside, change mid inside, sinker middle, cutter mid out, splitter low inside, knuckle lo middle, two seam low outside."

A thin band tucked inside a cap allows the audio to be heard at an adjustable level, envisioned to be used by pitchers, second basemen, shortstops and center fielders.

"When changing pitchers, the manager shall provide a receiver to the replacement pitcher," the memo said.

Receivers and transmitters can be used only on the field and may not be operated during games in clubhouses, dugouts or bullpens.

"Signals communicated via PitchCom may only be given by the catcher in the game. Signals may not be sent from the dugout, bullpen, a different player in the field, or anywhere else," the memo said. "Clubs are responsible for their PitchCom devices. Any club that loses a transmitter or receiver will be charged a replacement fee of $5,000 per unit."

Marinak said about half of the 30 MLB clubs had expressed interest.

"I'm not sure that every team will use it," Marinak said during MLB's third annual innovation and fan engagement showcase. "I think this is a kind of a personal preference kind of thing."

Union head Tony Clark pointed out the devices are not mandatory.

Tiger plans to play the Masters and thinks he can win

By DOUG FERGUSON
AP Golf Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga. — Two words can go a long way when Tiger Woods is behind them.

No one would have been surprised if Woods never played golf again after a car crash in Los Angeles that damaged his right leg so badly he said doctors raised the prospect of amputation. Out of the public eye for nine months, Woods sent hopes soaring last November with a video of him swinging the club with a simple message, "Making progress."

And here he is at Augusta National, making a Monday practice round feel like Sunday at a major because of the gallery, walking the steep slopes, swinging well and making it clear he has every intention of playing in the Masters.

Does he think he can win? Woods offered the shortest answer of his press conference: "I do."

He said Tuesday he is planning to play and thinks he can win. Never mind that it will be 508 days from the last time he played a tournament where he had to walk, or that he returns to this Masters with screws and rods still holding the bones in place in his right leg.

Woods also is 46. He would be the oldest Masters champion by three weeks over Jack Nicklaus.

The biggest question is how he holds up over 18 holes for four straight days. Woods walked 18 holes last week — his first big test — during a scouting trip with 13-year-old son Charlie (including a stop at the Par 3 course).

He played the back nine on Sunday, the front nine on Monday. Woods plans nine more for Wednesday and then it's "game time." He is to tee off at 10:34 a.m. Thursday with Louis Oosthuizen and Joaquin Niemann.

"I can hit it just fine. I don't have any qualms about what I can do physically from a golf standpoint," Woods said. "Walking is the hard part. This is normally not an easy walk to begin with. Now given the conditions that my leg is in, it gets even more difficult."

"Seventy-two holes is a long road and it's going to be a tough challenge," he said. "And a challenge that I'm up for."
