Due to the dry conditions and recent developments, the Lewisburg Fire Department and Lewisburg City Manager have issued a Fireworks and Open Burning Ban Notice for the City of Lewisburg. The Lewisburg Fire Department fought four (4) fires in the last six (6) days, including the loss of two homes, all due to fireworks and the dry conditions.

Commission approves new budget

By Scott Pearson Associate Editor

The Marshall County Commission wrapped up one fiscal year and looked forward to the next at Monday night's monthly meeting.

Commissioners set the tax rate for the fiscal year beginning July

The new $1.81 per $100 of assessed value represents a full dollar decrease from the previous tax rate after this year's property reassessment reflected increasing values due to growth in the county and middle Tennessee as a whole.

Commissioners also approved the appropriations for the coming budget year. The county general fund budget sits at almost $19 million and the general purpose school fund at just over $46 million.

The bulk of the remaining agenda concerned budget amendments, including seven added after the rules were suspended, cleaning up various accounting matters or adding additional revenues to the budget.

The commission did make several appointments as well.

Commissioners unanimously approved Patty Hill to the vacant 8th District seat on the Marshall County School Board.

Filling the seat, which has been open since April 1, appeared on last month's commission agenda as well but was deferred to this month after no candidates for the position had expressed interest.

Hill's letter of interest also stated that she was in the process of filing to appear on the ballot in August for the seat as well.

The commission also approved another term on the Public Utilities Board for Commissioners Mickey King and Joseph Warner and appointed King and Matt Moorehead to the Audit Committee.

Commissioner James Hopkins, appointed last month to the vacant 8th District seat, was approved to fill the committee assignments held by his predecessor.

4th festivities

By Scott PearsonAssociate Editor

The 4th of July weekend is always crowded with festivities and this coming weekend is no different.

Due to the holiday falling on a Monday this year, two of the largest events are happening on Saturday, July 2.

Cornersville is hosting the South Marshall Volunteer Fire Department holiday fundraiser starting at 2 p.m. at the Cornersville High School soccer field.

Vendors, live music, food and ice cream trucks, family games, and a water zone for the little ones are all on tap, capped off, as the sky darkens, with a fireworks show.

Likewise, the town of Chapel Hill is hosting a celebration on the Lions Field with a cruise-in starting at noon and live music starting at 2 p.m. on Saturday.

More than 30 food and craft vendors will be joining local favorite bands The Wentzel Brothers, Sunset Drive, Mercury Red, and Stillrollin for a day of fun with the town's traditional fireworks to finish off the day.

Additionally, a booth will be dedicated to raising funds for Micah McClendon.

Attendees are welcome to bring their lawn chairs, blankets, and coolers for a day of fun.

On Monday the 4th, Lewisburg celebrates with the annual 4th of July parade, beginning at 9 a.m.

The parade runs from Marshall County Plaza along West Commerce, through the square, and out East Commerce before ending at The Acres.

This year's theme is "Rockin' in the USA."

Plenty of ways to celebrate the nation's independence this weekend.

Through generous donations, Bryan Giles' family was able to award $8,000 in scholarships this year to the Cornersville High School Class of 2022. The scholarships were awarded according to the student's academic and football performance. The following students received the academic scholarship: Nathan Dunkle, Hannah Hagood, Clara Jean Thompson, Allison Wells, Bryce Woodard, Rebecca Worley. The football scholarships went to Eli Welch and Clara Jean Thompson. Congratulations to these students and a very special thank you to those who donated funds in memory of Bryan Giles.

What happened at Roswell 75 years ago?

But the matter refuses to die, because of the steady drip of unearthed documents, deathbed confessions, Magic 8-Ball revelations, etc.

Proper vetting is still needed for some of the more sensational bombshells. Like the purported contraband singed license plate that declares, "I brake for freakishly tall, pinkskinned oxygen-breathers." Or the diary with an entry about a rancher listening to his shortwave radio one night in July 1947 and hearing a garbled message that sounded something like "Hold on to your tentacles! I realize I'm abdicating my role as an influencer by not digging more deeply into this mystery myself. It fascinates me, but I leave it to you to draw your own conclusions and to decide how to commemorate the 75th anniversary of...whatever.

Yeah, I know "the truth is out there"; but my lovely wife, the air conditioner and episodes of the CW's "Roswell, New Mexico" are in here!

MARSHALL COUNTY DEVOTIONAL PAGE

"For whom the Lord loves He chastens, and scourges every son whom He receives." - Hebrews 12:6

Over the past few generations the belief of parental love has been redefined as giving a child what they want – when they want it. Therefore correction is seen as a lack of love or even abuse. However, our scripture teaches that the Lord's chastening and corrective hand upon His children is a firm hand of perfect parental love and not punishment.

This reminds me of how those pioneers mothers would teach their children around the wood-burning stove. As the little ones would stumble around learning their environment. The mother would be teaching them the two-letter word – No! Well, there would be a time when the mother would have to let the little one learn by experience. So as the wood-burning stove would cool down from extremely hot to just hot, the mother would purposely walk away from the stove and get some butter. She would stand back holding the butter while allowing her little child to touch the hot stove. Once the child touched the stove and got slightly burnt the child cried. Then the mother came in immediately to comfort her child with the cool butter to help soothe the burn. So did that mother ever stop loving her child? Absolutely not! What she did was out of love. The reason she allowed her child to touch the hot stove was to teach her child a lesson from greater harm, and also to show that she is there to comfort.

The Father's Heavenly Love

So it is with us dear child of God. When we do not listen to God when He says, "No!" Our Heavenly Father will many times lovingly step back and allow us to get burnt by sin. Then when we cry out, He is quickly there with the cool butter of His grace to soothe our spiritual pain. However, the Lord never stopped loving us. Even though His correction may be uncomfortable, God's love never changes like the degrees of a thermometer. Never! Therefore when our Heavenly Father corrects us it is always out of love and never out of anger. The very fact that He corrects us demonstrates that He has paternal care for us, and that our Father's chastisement is not punishment. In fact, our Heavenly Father does not punish us. God's punishment is reserved for the wicked, the unbelievers, and the devil. With regards to His children, God sternly corrects us because He is going to have godly children and not spoiled brats.

There are times in our Christian walk, when we are disobedient, that our Father corrects us with a firm loving hand. However, it is always with the intent to draw us back to His loving arms. Heavenly love is often misunderstood, but what our Father does is always for our greater good. If you have experienced His firm hand of correction in your life, that is evidence that you belong to Him and He is showing you His heavenly love.

Cornersville's Garner picks UT-Southern

By Chris Siers sports@t-g.com

Before the end of the 2021-2022 school year, Cornersville senior Natalie Garner signed a letter of intent to continue her cheerleading career at UT-Southern during the upcoming 2022-2023 year.

"I'm super excited to get to work with key and become a Firehawk and get started," she said.

While there were other schools in the mix when it came to making her college pick, when she met Firehawk cheer coach Keye Matthews and was able to tour the campus, Garner knew where she wanted to spend her college years.

"This one really stood out because I knew I wanted to stay close to home and cheer. When I met Keye (Matthews) and started doing clinics, I just knew," Garner said.

Garner has been on the sidelines cheering for nearly a decade when she got her start cheering in Alabama.

"I started cheering when I was about 12 and I started doing competitive cheer for CheerVille Athletics in Athens, Alabama. My sophomore year, I started doing high school cheer and then I cheered all through my high school career and now I'm here," she said.

Having cheered for the better part of a decade, Garner was part of plenty of special memories, but says just getting ready for games and hanging out with the cheer squad were among her favorites.

hanging out with them and practices—they made it so much fun before games and getting ready with them," she said.

While her freshman season is still several months from getting underway, Garner hasn't quite made up her mind in choosing a career path just yet.

"I'm not sure set, but it's going to either be business or nursing, but I haven't decided for sure yet," she

NFL suggests indefinite | Mayfield 'ready to suspension for Watson

By ROB MAADDI

AP Pro Football Writer

The NFL insisted on an indefinite suspension while Deshaun Watson's legal team argued there's no basis for that punishment as both sides presented their cases in front of a retired judge in Delaware on Tuesday, two people in attendance told The Associated Press.

The hearing will continue on Wednesday and Watson is scheduled to be there for the duration, according to one person who spoke on condition of anonymity because the hearing isn't public. It's expected to conclude Thursday but it's not known when a ruling will be made.

Former U.S. District Judge Sue Robinson, who was jointly appointed by the league and the NFL Players' Association, will determine whether Watson violated the NFL's personal conduct policy and whether to impose Watson agreed to settle 20 of 24 civil lawsuits for sexual misconduct, but the league is seeking at least a oneyear suspension, one of the people told The AP. Watson's side, led by attorneys Jeffrey Kessler and Rusty Hardin, wants the three-time Pro Bowl quarterback to play this season for the Cleveland Browns. Two separate Texas grand juries declined to indict Watson on criminal complaints stemming from the allega-

Watson has denied any wrongdoing and vowed to clear his name.

This is the first hearing for Robinson, who was the first woman Chief Judge for the District of Delaware. Previously, NFL Commissioner Roger Goodell had the authority to impose discipline for violations of the personal conduct Still, Goodell holds considerable power. If either the union or league appeals Robinson's decision, Goodell or his designee "will issue a written decision that will constitute full, final and complete disposition of the dispute," per terms of Article 46 in the collective bargaining agreement.

That means Goodell could ultimately overrule Robinson's decision and suspend Watson for one year or even indefinitely due to the potential for more cases. However, an appeal would prolong the process for both sides. The NFL has punished several players for violating the league's personal conduct policy without criminal charges. In 2010, Ben Roethlisberger received a sixgame suspension after being accused of sexual assault by two women. Goodell later reduced the suspension to four games. Dallas Cowboys running back Ezekiel Elliott got six games in 2017 for domestic violence. On Monday, a woman who previously sued

Watson filed a lawsuit against the Houston Texans, alleging his former team provided him with resources to enable his actions and "turned a blind eye" to his be-

It's unknown how long it will take Robinson to make a decision, but the Browns should know Watson's availability before training camp. NFL discipline typically begins the week leading into the first regularseason game, so Watson would be eligible for camp unless a potential punishment stipulates otherwise.

The Browns traded a slew of draft picks to acquire Watson and gave him a five-year, $230 million guaranteed contract in March.

Cleveland, which opens training camp on July 27, is eager to find out how long it will be without Watson or if the Browns will have him at all next season.

The Browns signed veteran QB Jacoby Brissett to be Watson's backup, but the team might be inclined to find a more high-profile starter should Watson be suspended for a significant period. Josh Dobbs is also on Cleveland's roster, but he's never started an NFL game. reconciliation Any with Baker Mayfield seems unlikely. The No. 1 overall pick in 2018, Mayfield was essentially pushed aside when the Browns persuaded Watson to come to Cleveland.

"Definitely the crazy girls and

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Baker Mayfield said the Cleveland Browns have work ahead if they want him to help them through their situation with Deshaun Watson.

Mayfield, speaking at his football camp near the University of Oklahoma's campus on Tuesday, didn't entirely close the door on stepping in if needed.

"No, I think for that to happen, there would have to be some reaching out," Mayfield said. "But we're ready to move on, I think, on both sides."

The Browns made a major trade for Watson in March and then signed him to a recordsetting $230 million contract.

Now, Watson faces a possible suspension from the league stemming from accusations of sexual misconduct by two dozen massage therapists in Texas.

Former U.S. District Judge Sue Robinson, who was jointly appointed by the NFL and the NFL Players' Association, will hold a hearing to determine whether Watson violated the NFL's personal conduct policy and whether to impose discipline.

Mayfield said he expected to be traded before the NFL draft, but he's still on the team roughly a month before the opening of training camps.

"I think I got frustrated with it not happening before minicamp and all those things, but it's just the stuff that's out of my control," he said. "And so, you know, let those things happen and fall in place." Mayfield said he's been working out with veteran receivers Danny Amendola and Cole Beasley and some others from the area near Lake Travis in Texas. He said that work gets his mind off the situ-

"You know, obviously if I was focused on not having a team and not being able to (prepare with a team), it'd be pretty miserable," he said. "But I'm just working on getting better for myself. And then whenever this all happens, then learn a playbook and get the guys down as soon as possible."

New alliance gives 10 European tour players PGA Tour cards

By DOUG FERGUSON AP Golf Writer

The PGA Tour is awarding 10 cards to European tour players and bringing back a direct path to the big leagues from Q-school as part of an expanded partnership with Europe that aims to strengthen themselves against the Saudi-funded LIV Golf.

The joint venture with Europe is a 13-year deal that goes through 2035, and the PGA Tour increases its stake in European Tour Productions, the tour's media and commercial branch, from 15% to

PGA Tour Commissioner Jay Monahan last week outlined significant changes to the schedule that will feature a January-to-August season starting in 2024 and create purses of $20 million on average for eight elite

The changes outlined in a conference call Tuesday give European tour players immediate access to the PGA Tour. The leading 10 players excluding those already on the PGA Tour, such as Rory McIlroy and Jon Rahm — will have full cards for the following year.

The partnership is likely to create better coordination of a global schedule for both tours. The Scottish Open next week is the first tournament co-sanctioned by both, and the field is the strongest in tournament history.

"While this closer collaboration between our tours was always in the road map of our strategic alliance, it's pretty obvious to say the current situation in golf has significantly accelerated that process," European tour CEO Keith Pelley said.

In addition to access to the leading 10 European tour players, the PGA Tour is restructuring who it brings on domestically.

The tour now offers cards to the top 25 players on the Korn Ferry Tour, with an additional 25 cards from three-tournament a series for players from the Korn Ferry Tour and PGA Tour members who finished outside the top 125. Starting in 2023, the top 30 players from the Korn Ferry Tour get cards. For everyone else, there will be Q-school in which the top five players and ties go straight to the PGA Tour. The tour has not offered direct access from Qschool since 2013. That means top college players will have a chance to avoid a year on the Korn Ferry Tour. The PGA Tour believes that with 30 cards to Korn Ferry Tour players, 10 from Europe and five or more from Q-school, it will create more opportunities for those who finished just outside the top 125 and have only conditional access.

"Ultimately for us it's all about creating the best, most efficient competitive platform for the best players in the world to ... establish context, to establish historical relevancy and to establish relevancy in the eyes of fans throughout the world," Monahan said.

Based on last year's European rankings, the leading 10 players would have gone all the way down to Laurie Canter of England at No. 24 (Canter is now part of LIV Golf).

Pelley said the European tour should not be looked upon as a "feeder tour" because of a schedule that features national opens across continental Europe and the Middle East swing, such as Abu Dhabi and Dubai.

Even so, with historically two dozen of the top finishers in Europe on the PGA Tour — the leading 10 and current U.S. members — they would be playing fewer events in Europe.

Previously, players from the European tour and other main tours around the world could have earned money from majors, World Golf Championships or sponsor starts on the PGA Tour and earned a card if they were equivalent to No. 125 or better.

The new system would have helped U.S. Open champion Matt Fitzpatrick. He reached the top 50 in the world in 2015 but kept falling short of the 125 number and didn't earn a PGA Tour card until after the 2019 season. Under the new system, he would have been eligible to join the PGA Tour three years ear-

Pelley, meanwhile, said he met with Golf Saudi in Malta last summer, presented its presentation to the European board and decided the offer was less compelling than the one it had turned down from the Premier Golf League some nine months earlier.

The European tour previously worked with Golf Saudi when the International was part of its schedule for three years. Pelley said he proposed Golf Saudi get involved with Europe's feeder Challenge Tour.

"I've been consistent that if, in fact, they are interested to play inside the ecosystem and not launch a rival tour that I think is detrimental to the game at large, then I personally, from DP World's perspective, would be open — and they know that — to having a conversation,' he said.

"But I'm not interested and that's why there has been no conversation since the summer of 2021.'

Chase Elliott celebrates after winning the Ally 400 at the Nashville Super Speedway on Sunday.

New Attitude Elliott? Chase prefers a practical approach

BV JENNA FRYER

AP Auto Racing Writer

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — As he prepared for one of the hottest races of the NASCAR season, Chase Elliott said he would use positive thinking to convince himself it wasn't so bad.

And when Elliot was frustrated with his struggling Chevrolet in the early stages at Nashville Superspeedway, his crew chief found his driver receptive to a pep talk that helped NASCAR's current Cup points leader win Sunday night's race.

Elliott has never presented himself as an eternal optimist, In fact, his Hall of Fame father Bill Elliott last year told The Associated Press his son "acts like he's loading up the covered wagon heading West instead of doing what he loves."

But the 26-year-old seemed lighter at Nashville and his mood more tolerant, even before he picked up his second win of the season. So as NASCAR's most popular driver heads next to Road America, where he won last year's Cup return after a 65-year absence on the Wisconsin road course, AP asked Elliott about his current mindset.

"I feel like my mindset tries to just stay in the realm of reality, it's always been my approach to just try to be realistic about whatever the situation is," Elliott told AP on Tuesday. "I do think it's important to have confidence in your ability and what you're doing, but I also think it's important to recognize 'Hey, if I need to do something different, I'm not too set in my ways, not too stubborn to be willing to at least try to adjust to have a better result or a better approach."

When reminded of his father's remark a year ago — a dig at Elliott's perceived negative attitude — the 2020 Cup champion said he doesn't have a glasshalf-empty approach. He acknowledged he's very hard on himself and has high expectations, but he's also an Elliott and his extended family was never recognized for their joyful attitudes.

Bill Elliott, despite winning NASCAR's most popular driver award a record 16 times, could be curt and dismissive. His brother, the longtime respected engine builder Ernie Elliott, was often short on words. To this day, the entire Elliott family still lives on family land in Dawsonville, Georgia, and no amount of fame or financial riches has changed them.

"Look, I grew up with my dad and Uncle Ernie and I know a lot of people don't know them to the extent that I do, but they've done this stuff for a really long time," Chase told AP. "And they've seen how this stuff works and when you grow up in an environment that is so well versed — it's not that they're not appreciative or don't recognize how fortunate we are in our lives to call racing a living. I do think we have a very realistic appreciation for that side of it.

"I just at a very young age, I saw a very experienced reality of this world, and, you know, right wrong or indifferent, that's just how I was raised and that's just the viewpoint that I watched. It gives me a different approach than a lot of other guys in the series." He said his relationship with crew chief Alan Gustafson is so strong because Gustafson understands who Elliott is Elliott used the word "practical" to describe his approach — and is able to extract what he needs from his driver.

"My goal is to always make the driver the weak link. If he's the weak link, then I've done my job, the team has done their job," Gustafson told AP about his pep talk with Elliott during Sunday's weather delay. "With him, it's not an easy thing to do because he's a pretty strong link. So that's what I try to do and what I tried to tell him: 'We're done messing up and we're going to get after it, so stick with us, bring your A game, all will be good."

Elliott spoke to his father on Monday about his Nashville victory and on Tuesday expected to visit with his uncle at the family shop in Dawsonville. On Wednesday, the die-hard Georgia sports fan will be part of a celebration of Georgia champions at the College Football Hall of Fame.

He treats each day the same and sees no changes in his personality of approach.

"Some days are gonna be really good and there's some days that aren't," he told AP. "If I'm talking to dad, or if I'm talking to Uncle Ernie at the shop today, our conversation is not going to be a whole lot different than it was

"It's just very, very straightforward, and I appreciate that."

last week. You know?

Browns to a wild-card win at Pittsburgh for the franchise's first playoff win in a quarter century. Cleveland then lost a close game at Kansas City in the divisional playoffs, fueling hopes that Mayfield could take them further in the coming seasons.

Instead, Mayfield tore the labrum in his left, non-throwing shoulder. He played through it, but struggled, and the Browns missed the playoffs with a 8-9 record.

He said the shoulder is better.

"Can swing a golf club too hard, so it's going pretty good," he joked.

Even while still on the roster, he spoke as though his days with the Browns were coming to an end.

"I'm thankful for my four years in Cleveland, and had a lot of ups and downs and a ton of learning experiences that I will forever keep with me," he said.

SUDOKU

Level: Advanced

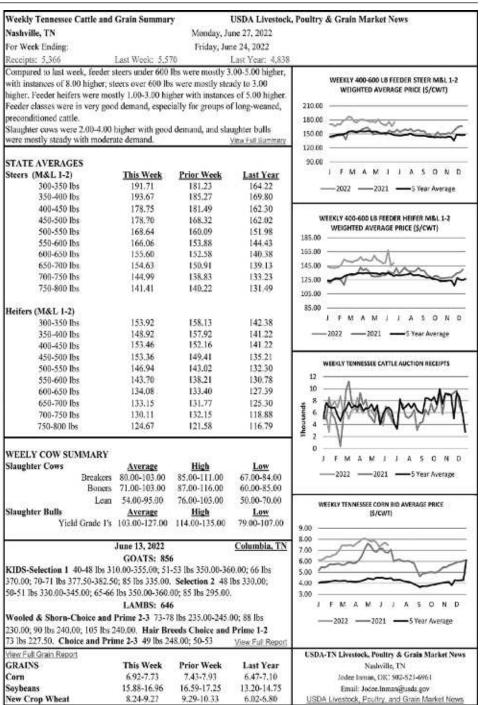

Here's How It Works:

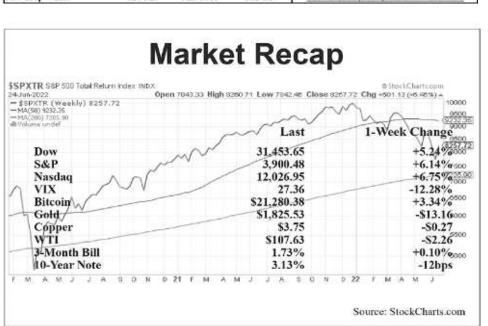

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Unemployment ticks up in May

Unemployment rates in the area rose slightly in May, mirroring the slight increase that was seen in statewide numbers released last week.

Clay County continues to have the largest unemployment rate in the region according to the numbers released by the Tennessee Department of Labor and Workforce Development. However, from April-to-May, the 0.3% increase was the lowest in the area. Overton and Putnam counties each had the highest increase at 0.6%, with Overton moving from 2.6% to 3.2% and Putnam going from 2.8% to 3.4%. Macon County continues to have the lowest unemployment rate in the area at 3%, which was up from 2.6% in April. Jackson and Pickett counties also saw 0.4 percentage point increases in May, with Jackson move to 3.6% and Pickett to 3.5%. Two counties saw their rate go up by a half of a percent. Cumberland went from 3.6% to 4.1% and Fentress went from 3.2% to 3.7%.

The data released on Thursday showed unemployment rates increased slightly during May in each of the state's 95 counties. Even with the minimal increases, 93 of Tennessee's 95 counties maintained rates lower than 5% for the month. Williamson County recorded the lowest jobless rate in the state for May. At 2.3%, its rate increased 0.3 percentage points from April's revised rate of 2%. Moore County had the secondlowest rate at 2.5%, a 0.4 percentage point increase when compared to the previous month.

Perry County's rate represented a 0.4% increase from April's rate of 5.1%. Bledsoe County had the second-highest rate in May at 5.1%, also a 0.4 percentage point increase for the month. The increase in county unemployment followed the slight uptick in the statewide unemployment rate in May. Tennessee's jobless number inched up to 3.3% in May, just 0.1 of a percentage point higher than the state's all-time low rate of 3.2%. The Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) calculates county and statewide unemployment rates differently. It does not factor in seasonal impacts on data when determining county unemployment rates, while it does seasonally adjust the statewide unemployment number.

Nationally, May's unemployment rate mirrored April's rate of 3.6%.

came in at 5.5%, the highest in the state. That
