

Newly elected Fourth Ward Councilman Tommy Burns takes the oath of office from Judge Lee Bussart at the ceremony held on Tuesday, prior to the council's monthly work session.

Third Ward Councilwoman Peggy Harwell takes the oath of office from Judge Lee Bussart on Tuesday. Harwell was elected in August to the seat that she had been appointed to in order to finish the unexpired term of her husband, Councilman C.H. Harwell. Holding the Bible while Harwell takes the oath is C.H.

Waste

Commissioner David Salyers said. "We want to make it as convenient as possible for Tennesseans to demonstrate their commitment to protecting the environment."

Since the program's inception in 1993, more than 360,000 Tennessee households have properly disposed of more than 23 million pounds of material. There have been over 1,400 one-day collection events.

Household hazardous waste materials are considered flammable, toxic, reactive and/or corrosive and should not be placed with regular garbage. Typical items to dispose of include cleaning fluids, pesticides, mercury thermometers and thermostats, fluorescent lamps, lithium and button batteries, aerosols, adhesives, medications, brake fluid, swimming pool chemicals, paint thinner and used needles in sturdy containers. Items not accepted include ammunition, explosives, alkaline batteries, paint, electronics, and any empty containers that should be disposed in normal trash. There is no cost or appointment necessary for household hazardous waste collection.

Many counties and municipalities meet the needs of local residents by providing collection of batteries, oil, paint, antifreeze and electronic scrap – or BOPAE, as it is sometimes called. When handled correctly, these BOPAE materials are minimally hazardous, but inappropriate for collection at household hazardous waste events. Tennesseans are encouraged to contact their local city or county solid waste department to find BOPAE collection sites in their area.

When transporting materials to the site, place containers in sturdy boxes lined with newspaper or plastic to prevent spills and cross-contamination in the trunk of a car or back of a truck. Be sure to keep materials away from children and pets.

MCHS

A cornhole tournament kicks off at 5 p.m. which features a $200 first prize.

Two man teams have until Friday, Sept. 9, to enter online or at cornersvilleevents21@gmail.com.

In other agenda items, the board agreed to advertise vacancies on the town Planning Commission and Industrial Development Board. Applications for the two package liquor stores allowed in town by the revised ordinance adopted last month were also accepted.

Town Administrator Taylor Brandon said that several expressions of interest in a store had been received once the issue had been revisited by the board.

Both potential owners have sites already selected, pending licensure by the Tennessee Alcoholic Beverage Commission.

Aldermen accepted the opening of the gate at the end of Tarpley Avenue allowing pass through traffic until the completion of road projects on East Hill, Polk, and Beechwood Avenues.

Aldermen also authorized the acquisition of the final right-of-way rights needed for that project.
