UAW retirees contribute to kids

Mike Martinez (4th from left) from the Retired Local 1853 of the United Auto Workers dropped by the Lewisburg Police Department last week for what has become a tradition for the group—donating winter coats to children in Lewisburg. Part of the recently held Cops For Kids program, LPD helps assure local kids have a joyful holiday season through gifts and necessities during the Christmas season. This year, LPD was able to serve 53 local children through the program. “We couldn’t do it without the volunteers and sponsors,” Lewisburg Police Chief Scott Braden told the city council on Tuesday. The UAW retirees have been contributing new coats to the program for 20 years, bringing in more than 35 winter jackets this year. Tribune photo by Scott Pearson
