

Friday fire on Franklin

Crews from several county volunteer fire departments soak the remains of a structure fire last Friday on Franklin Road, north of Ellington Airport. Berlin Volunteer Fire Department, Farmington VFD, Chapel Hill VFD, Marshall County Office of Emergency Management, Marshall County Emergency Medical Services, and the Marshall County Sheriff's Office all responded to quickly extinguish the blaze before it spread to other outbuildings on the property.

"Team George"... Winners at Forrest Alumni Trivia Night!

Congratulations to Kenneth George, Davis George, Lane Adams, Phil George, Matt Mulliniks, and David George...Winners, once again, at the Forrest Alumni Trivia Night!! What a great night of fun, fellowship, friends, food, family...not to mention the wonderful door prizes and great trivia questions and answers!! We want to thank everyone who played, sponsored a table, provided a door prize, and helped in any way to make our 2023 Trivia Night a success!! A special thanks to Brooks Grocery and First Commerce Bank for donating snacks and drinks for all participants, to Chris Lowe for preparing the barbecue for the meal, to Mickey Smith for all his setup and technical assistance, and to Rock Creek Market and Deli for providing gift certificates for our winners. From our profits we will be able to fund several scholarships for our Forrest seniors. What a great night!! Mark your calendars now for our 2024 Trivia Night on January 27! For more photos from the event, turn to Page 3 of today's Marshall County Tribune.

It's not trivial: MCHS Alumni trivia fundraiser

By Scott Pearson
Associate Editor

Time to shake out the winter cobwebs, exercise the brain, and have an evening of fun while raising money for a great cause.

The Marshall County High School Alumni Association is holding its second annual Trivia Night fundraiser on Saturday, March 11.

Reservations should be made by Tuesday, Feb. 28, in order to guarantee a table and with only 30 tables available, don't wait.

Tables of six are available for $72. Walk-ups will be accommodated the night of for $15 a head.

The event, following the long-running trivia night at Forrest, was very successful last year and organizers expect more of the same this year.

Clint Posey of Belly Flop BBQ is catering the evening and there will be a silent auction and door prizes so everyone has a chance to leave a winner.

Everyone is welcome; you do not have to be a graduate of MCHS to participate.

Proceeds benefit the Alumni Association's scholarship fund for graduating seniors.

To reserve a table or for questions, contact Nancy Lynn Greene at nancylynn.vfl@icloud.com.

Checks can be mailed to the MCHS Alumni Association, Box 1074, Lewisburg, 37091.

Local employer shares love with assisted living residents

The employees at International Comfort Products (ICP) in Lewisburg, TN, a Carrier Company, showed up with love this Valentine's Day. Their Community Involvement Team, which focuses on engaging with the people and organizations in town and surrounding areas, led an effort to provide love to residents and care givers at various assisted living homes.

The team, comprised of 15 employees, met with schools and churches in town about their idea. And thanks to the efforts, led by Kimberly Brodeur, Kendra Hobby (both in Customer Service) and Norwood "Butch" Carter (Warehouse Operator) they accomplished the mission!

Thanks to the children at Oak Grove Elementary School, Barnyard Kids Daycare, and church-goers at First Baptist Church, the team delivered nearly 200 Valentine's Cards and care packages to residents at NHC and Village Manor – just in time for Valentine's Day!

The newly formed Community Involvement Team at ICP is bringing new ideas & energy to the culture where they work, and they are interested in continuing to be an important part of the community in Lewisburg!

Bill expected to hurt local community newspapers the most, taking another swipe at local journalism

By Deborah Fisher
Executive Director of Tennessee Coalition for Open Government

The Secretary of State’s Office would gain nearly $1 million in new annual revenue under a bill that allows it to take over the business of advertising foreclosure sales from local community newspapers where they have appeared for years.

The bill also would remove requirements that banks post notices of upcoming sales in physical locations in the county where the property is located.

Instead, the Secretary of State would create a new website and charge banks and mortgage companies $200 for each notice.

The fiscal note on the bill shows the Secretary of State’s Office will spend $146,000 to create and operate the website in the first year and receive $488,900 in increased revenues, netting $342,500.

In subsequent years, costs to the state decrease and the Secretary of State is estimated to earn $977,800 a year and, after paying for an additional employee and web hosting, net $921,800.

The bill is expected to hurt local community newspapers the most, taking another swipe at local journalism which has suffered as giant media tech companies like Facebook and Google have created new advertising models for local businesses.

The bill is scheduled to be heard Tuesday in the Senate State and Local Committee and on Wednesday in the House Civil Justice Committee.

The bill (SB1324/ HB1355) is sponsored by Sen. Paul Bailey, R-Sparta, Sen. Shane Reeves, R-Murfreesboro, Rep. Andrew Farmer, R-Sevierville, and Rep. William Lamberth, R-Portland.

The bill passed out of the House

Civil Justice Subcommittee last week, with sponsors arguing that notices of foreclosure sales would be better on a statewide website than in local communities and in local newspapers where the property is located.

Current state law requires banks and mortgage companies to advertise foreclosure sales in local communities. Foreclosure sales are sales of property that banks and mortgage companies have taken in a foreclosure process to satisfy a debt or lien.

Lobbyists for the Tennessee Press Association have argued that it operates a public notice statewide website in which all notices of foreclosure sales that are published in local community newspapers are available. The notices are also on the local newspapers’ websites. The press association has argued that having the Secretary of State create a new website would be duplicative.

The General Assembly in 2013 passed the statute (T.C.A. § 1-3-120) requiring the press association website, putting certain parameters around its services and operations to ensure legal and public notices were free and searchable to the public and added at no additional charge to the advertiser.

Lobbyists for the banking and mortgage companies requested the bill in which they set the statutory price of their foreclosure notices at $200.

Marshall County residents are urged to contact their representatives in the General Assembly, Rep. Todd Warner at (615) 741-4170 or rep.todd.warner@capitol.tn.gov, and Sen. Joey Hensley at (615) 741-3100 or sen.joey.hensley@capitol.tn.gov and oppose this measure which weakens the local press and funnels money from local businesses into state coffers.

Congratulations to these lucky grand prize winners! One hundred dollar bills, $100 gift card, and a Keurig Coffee Maker were donated by The Air Guys, Brooks Grocery, Clint’s Air Care, Little Rocket Daycare, Rocket Car Wash, the Town of Chapel Hill and Truett Construction. Thank you to all!!

A BIG BETA thank you to the Forrest Beta Club for providing drinks and desserts for our meal. The above dedicated group of Betas served as our assistants for the evening. Thank you, Betas!!

Viburnums for Tennessee Gardens

UT Gardens’ February 2023 Plant of the Month

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. – Viburnums are a versatile and popular choice for use in the Tennessee landscape. These shrubs and small trees can be used in a variety of ways. They are known for their four-season interest including attractive flowers, berries and foliage.

Viburnums are also a great choice for attracting birds and wildlife to the garden. Many are easy to grow and are tolerant of a wide range of soils and environments, this makes them a natural choice for the garden.

Viburnums require minimal maintenance in the landscape and the larger ones look great in the back of a garden border. Some of the most well-known, old standby viburnums used across the Southeast are the snowball bush (Viburnum opulus), Chinese snowball bush (Viburnum macrocephalum), fragrant snowball viburnum (Viburnum x carlcephalum), blackhaw viburnum (Viburnum prunifolium), arrowwood viburnum (Viburnum dentatum) and American cranberry bush viburnum (Viburnum trilobum).

As the State Botanical Garden of Tennessee tests new plants, we have a few newer viburnums we have really enjoyed. ‘Spring Lace’ hybrid viburnum (Viburnum x ‘Spring Lace’) has been one of our favorites. You will see how it gets its name in mid-spring as it is covered in large white lace-cap-type flowers. A mid-sized plant at maturity, 5 feet wide by 5 feet tall tends to be its garden size.

Another winning new viburnums at our gardens is Pearlific® viburnum (Viburnum ‘PIIVIB-I’). This is a complex hybrid viburnum with good heat tolerance for our region. Flowers are pink in development and open to pure white. Floral scent is pleasant but not overpowering. A slightly smaller shrub, you can expect plants to reach 4 feet wide by 4 feet tall in 8- to 10-years and top out at 6 feet tall and wide over time.

I firmly believe there is room for at least one viburnum in almost every residential landscape. We have many native species in the United States and wildlife love them. As a group, you can find both evergreen and deciduous viburnums. Some of the deciduous selections are prized for their fall color. If you are not familiar with viburnums, let this article be the start of discovering the perfect viburnum for your landscape. We invite you to come see the diversity of viburnums growing at all the UT Gardens sites across the state.

The UT Gardens includes plant collections located in Knoxville, Crossville and Jackson, Tennessee. Designated as the official botanical garden for the State of Tennessee, the UT Gardens are part of the UT Institute of Agriculture. The Gardens’ mission is to foster appreciation, education and stewardship of plants through garden displays, educational programs and research trials. The Gardens are open during all seasons and free to the public. For more information, see the Gardens website: utia.tennessee.edu/state-botanical-garden.

MARSHALL COUNTY SCHOOLS PRE - K REGISTRATION 2023-24

The Voluntary Pre-K for Tennessee initiative is to provide for Tennessee's four-year old children, with the first priority to those four-year-olds who are economically disadvantaged, an opportunity to develop school readiness skills (pre-academic and social skills) in an environment that fosters the love and joy of learning and promotes success in kindergarten and throughout the child's life.

Parents who are enrolling children into the Pre-K program in the Marshall County School System for the 2023-24 school year should bring the following information with them to register:

• Birth Certificate for proof of age • Child's social security card

• Immunization record • Current physical examination

• Proof of residency in Marshall County • Photo identification of parent/guardian

• Proof of income • Negative TB test for students born outside of the U.S.

Children must be 4 years of age on or before August 15, 2023, in order to enroll in the Pre-K Program during the 2023-24 school year.

Please note – students must be registered by their custodial parent.

DATE AND TIME OF REGISTRATION

Monday, March 6, 2023, 3:30 till 5:30 – Oak Grove Elementary School, 1645 Franklin Pike, Lewisburg, Tennessee 37091

Guidelines for Selection into Voluntary Pre-K in Marshall County Schools

In the event a public lottery is necessary to place students in the pre-kindergarten class, the following procedures will be followed:

• Parents/guardians of students being placed in the lottery will be notified by mail at least 5 days prior to the lottery drawing of the time, date and location of the public lottery.

• All names of students eligible for the lottery drawing will be read aloud and placed in the lottery.

• The Attendance Supervisor or his/her designee will draw names to fill the specified number of vacancies in the pre-kindergarten or kindergarten program.

• Names will be recorded by Attendance Supervisor or his/her designee.

• All names will be drawn and recorded in the order drawn. Additional names over the specified number of vacancies will be placed on an alternate list.

Have you ever taken your business elsewhere?

By Danny Tyree

I just heard about a local business losing a major customer over a trivial misunderstanding.

Most of us hate change and maintain loyalty to a brand or retailer through thick and thin. True, this veers into creepiness in extreme cases, such as refusing to outgrow your old pediatrician. (“But I don’t trust anyone else with my ED issues, doc. Do you happen to have a lollipop and the latest ‘Humpty Dumpty’ magazine to ease my mid-life crisis?”)

And I know it’s difficult to relinquish trusted lawyers, accountants or other professionals. Which reminds me of my friend Dinsdale, his recently deceased insurance agent and the whole séance thing. (“Is that you that Madame Zelda conjured up, Frank? I figured you could give me some advice since you’ve looked at term life insurance from both sides now...”)

But occasionally, either an unforgiveable one-off customer service faux pas or the steady drip, drip, drip of aggravations pushes consumers to the breaking point and unleashes their righteous indignation.

I know my wife and I switched propane companies because of the way management fired a sick employee. And we have sworn off a local restaurant because the waiter refused to honor the price posted on the front door (and the manager was never available when we tried to get satisfaction).

Cost, quality and timeliness can all be areas of concern. Have you ever had a relationship with an independent contractor that never quite got off the ground? (“This is Joe from The Turbo-Charged Handyman. Am I speaking to Mr. Eduardo Hickenlooper? Oh, Mr. Eduardo Hickenlooper the third? I guess that was your grandfather and father who left so many messages. Anyhow, we’re ready to schedule installing your asbestos...”)

Sometimes an obnoxious or incompetent individual employee is the bone of contention.

Sometimes a systemic new store policy is the straw that breaks the camel’s back. Such policies might include having to scan your own groceries, losing the right to free drink refills, discovering that the business automatically tacks on gratuities for the store mannequins, etc.

Sometimes clerks, mechanics, etc. are clearly in the wrong. Sometimes the customer is demonstrably unreasonable. And sometimes there is a gray area. But if the gray area involves 10 acres of landscaping, refer back to the first point.

Don’t get trigger-happy with the old “The customer is always right” gambit. Think about it. You mean all those fun-loving Gestapo agents were invariably in the right when they ran their errands? (“Ve haff vays of making you validate parking.”)

I’m not sure which is worse: the irate customers who launch into a profanity-laced spectacle in a crowded business or the people who fade away without telling management why or warning their peers. (“Hey, look at the headline, honey. Someone ELSE disturbed that nest of boa constrictors in the restroom at O’Malley’s Gym. Guess maybe I should’ve sent that Yelp review after all. Live and learn.”)

Strive for an amicable resolution of problems. Count to 10 before saying something you may regret, but don’t forget to show some backbone. Understandably, this is difficult if the backbone is the issue. (“I know this was just supposed to be a root canal, but somehow I removed your spine as well. My bad.”)

Discuss your problems like adults. Unless some booger-head has already colored all the pictures in ‘Humpty Dumpty’! Then tantrums are downright upright.

Blotter

Two suspects were charged with possession of a schedule 2 drug after Lewisburg police allegedly found methamphetamine in their vehicle Thursday, Feb. 9.

Robert Dale Die, 22, of Fayetteville Highway, Belfast, and Alyson Teal Cummings, 33, of Columbia were arrested at a dead-end on Old Farmington Road. Police had been notified of a suspicious vehicle at that location.

A box under the driver’s seat of Die’s vehicle, spotted by Detective Sgt. Shaun Crawford, contained needles, a spoon, and shards of meth, Officer Dustin Turner’s report said. Turner said he found a bag of meth on the passenger side of the vehicle.

Die was charged with simple possession and possession of drug paraphernalia. Bond was set at $1,500. Cummings was cited for simple possession and given a ride to another location.

POLICE BLOTTER

•A Pokemon bag containing 30 grams of methamphetamine was found Wednesday, May 15 at the Lewisburg Walmart.

An employee restocking shelves in the rug section found the bag, police said.

ARMED PATIENT

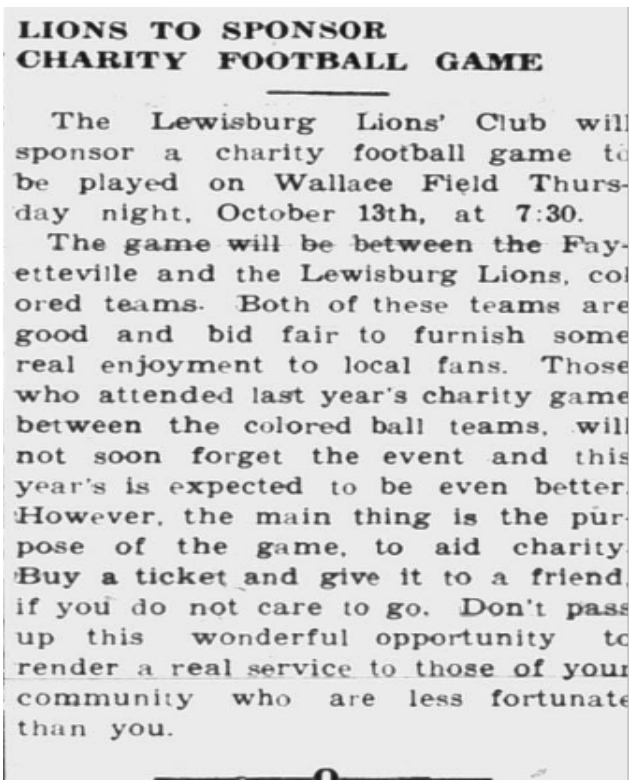

Lewisburg police were unable to make contact with a man Marshall Medical Center staff said brought a gun into the complex Thursday, Feb. 9.

Signs state guns and weapons are banned from the facility.

The gun was spotted in the man’s waistband as he was receiving an x-ray. He was asked to give the gun to a staff member and refused, but left immediately, police were told.

He was gone by the time an officer arrived and further attempts at contact were unsuccessful.

No threats were made at any time.

Entertainment funding education

By Stephanie Mason White

Black History Month

I was reading through our Marshall County newspaper archives and came across stories and advertisements for Colored School Fairs that were taking place in years from about 1903 until as late as 1959. Some people may find the name of this entertainment to be offensive, but, mind you during those times, it was accepted.

At these fairs, there seemed to be plenty of items to keep the public happy, from, good food items for purchase, craft items for sale, livestock showings and judging, as well as ball games and in some years there was harness horse racing. Lincoln County was very well known for their harness horse racing events. Maury County always boasted to have great and entertaining ball games, featuring Colored teams from the surrounding counties.

From the articles that I saw, the prizes or what was labeled premiums, were generous gains for the winners. The monies that was raised during these fairs, was to be distributed and used for and in the Colored or Black schools in the county. From what I found, the fairs were held annually at different areas in the county.

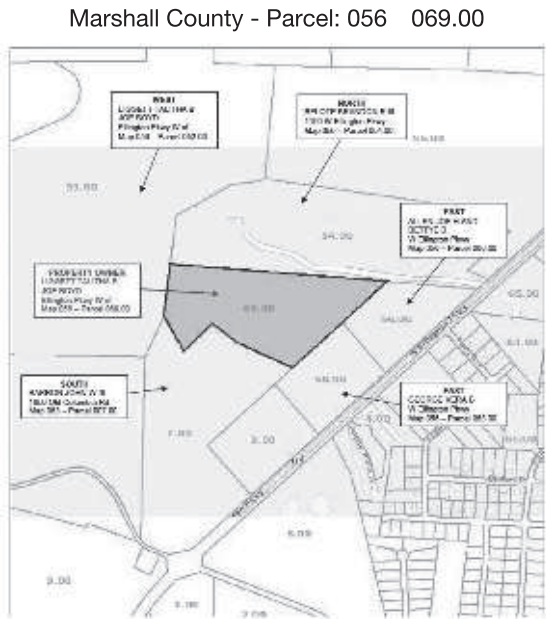

Notice of Public Hearing

The Mayor and Council of the City of Lewisburg will hold a Public Hearing Tuesday, March 14, 2023, at 5:50 p.m. at Lewisburg City Hall, 131 East Church Street, followed by their regular meeting at 6:00p. The public hearing will be to hear comments or opinions concerning the following:

1. Annexation Resolution 22-22. A request by owner consent to annex 23.85 acres and zone to “R-1” Low Density Residential certain territory and to incorporate a portion of the same into the corporate boundaries of the City of Lewisburg located on West Ellington Parkway, (Map,056, Pcl:069.00.) Owners Talitha B. & Joe B. Liggett, represented by Developer Blake Arnold.
2. Plan of Services for the annexation of property described as West Ellington Ridge Subdivision (West Ellington Parkway) Map,056, Pcl:069.00, approx. 23.85 acres. Record Book: 667; Pg.766, office of Marshall County Register of Deeds.

Proposed Annexation & Plan of Services is available for public viewing at the following locations: Lewisburg City Hall, Marshall County Courthouse Annex, Marshall County Library and City of Lewisburg website, www.lewisburgtn.gov.

“But God, who is rich in mercy, for His great love wherewith He loved us, Even when we were dead in sins, hath quickened us together with Christ, (by grace ye are saved;)” - Ephesians 2:4,5

Love is that emotional peace of mind and heart whereby a person desires unconditional acceptance from another. This acceptance is the desire of all people, and yet when we speak of the love of God it is raised to a whole different level. In human relationships there is the mind set that one does something to earn or obtain love from another, but not with God.

“Even when we were dead in sins” God exhibited His “great love” by making us alive in His Son Christ Jesus. Understand that God did not wait for us to “do better” or “get our act together” in order to love us. On the contrary, while we were unloving sinners, God gave us His Son to live the life we could not live, and then die as the substitute for our sins on the cross so that we would have an everlasting love relationship with Him.

Do you realize, for God to show His “great love” toward us meant that we all are separated sinners? Therefore, God the Father, according to His free and sovereign will, chose to place the sinner's sin upon His perfect and sinless Son and then separate Himself from His Son as if He was the sinner. In addition to that, God the Son willingly took upon Himself all of mankind's sins and paid for them upon the cross as the perfect sacrifice to make this love relationship with the Father and the Son certain for all who would believe and receive it.

Why would God the Father and the Son make such a sacrifice? Why did they choose to divide their holy union with one another so that sinners would be made righteous and enter into their heavenly circle of love forever? The main purpose was to give their “great love” so that sinners would become saints and give God greater praise – forever!

Understand that the Bible emphasizes God's “great love” toward us, and not our love toward Him. That is, God's “great love” was the reason why He is rich in mercy to undeserved sinners who fall short of His glory. So the next time you feel unlovable, meditate on God's “great love.” God gave His Son to die in the most horrible way – crucifixion! Crucifixion was the most humiliating horrific death reserved for the worst criminals. Furthermore, it wasn't only the physical pain Jesus experienced on the cross, but the spiritual anguish that the Father and the Son experienced by being separated. God the Father and God the Son underwent the unbearable spiritual agony of being separated at the cross for our salvation and then reunited after the resurrection.

We can't understand God-separated-from-God for the purpose of bringing us into their circle of eternal love? This is beyond our comprehension. Yet, this is “great love!”

Lady Rockets settle for 2nd in 7-AA

By Chris Siers
sports@t-g.com

CHAPEL HILL — Lady Rocket coach Hal Murrell knew his team had a tall order to fill in attempting to slow down Community Viqueen juggernaut M.J. Simmons in Monday night's District 7-AA title game.

While the Lady Rockets (11-15) had about as good of a defensive game plan as their coach could have asked for, shots simply would not fall for Forrest and the Lady Rockets fell to the Viqueens, 53-30, and settled for second place in the District 7-AA tournament.

"I thought, defensively in the first half, we couldn't have asked for a better situation. We really did a good job of swarming M.J. and packing it in, contesting shots and got some people in foul trouble and got to their bench. But we could not score. Give them credit, they dictated our flow, offensively, pressured the ball handler. We just struggled to get in our offensive sets," Murrell said.

The game started as a slow grind and from a defensive standpoint, the Lady Rockets held Community (22-6) to just 10 first-quarter points.

But baskets were hard to come by and the only field goal of the opening frame came courtesy of senior point guard Macyn Kirby with 1:08 left in the quarter.

Both teams scored a little better in the second quarter, and Forrest was able to attack the post play of Simmons and Viqueen senior Shelby Cawthon, who were both forced to the bench with foul trouble in the second period.

But when the Viqueen bigs were forced to the bench, it was fellow senior Haley Mitchell who bridged the gap and knocked down a pair of three-pointers to help the Viqueens preserve the lead.

Sophomore Kinslee Inlow added six points for the Lady Rockets in the second period, including a pair of free throws, but Forrest still trailed Community by 12 at the break.

And eventually, after being held to just three first-half points, Simmons took over the game and rattled loose for 13 points in the third quarter, highlighted by a trey from the top of the key with 1:38 to go in the quarter.

With Simmons firing on all cylinders, it was Josie Brown who delivered a pair of late-quarter three-pointers to give the Lady Rocket offense life.

But even with the key baskets by Brown, Community continued to work its offense and preserved the double-digit lead to capture its second-straight district title.

"They're a very, very good team and she (Simmons) is the district player of the year for a reason. I'm really proud of our girls though," Murrell said.

Forrest never quit playing, even to the final buzzer, despite the offensive struggles throughout Monday night's game.

Only three Lady Rockets scored against Community on Monday night, with Kirby and Inlow scoring 12 apiece, while Brown added six.

"We only had three girls to score, but a lot of girls did a lot of things that don't show up in the scorebook. But it's been a good year. From losing so many players to injuries and how far we've come since the beginning of the year, I'm proud we get to host a region game," Murrell said.

After the conclusion of Monday's tournament championship, three Lady Rockets earned all-season honors.

Macyn Kirby and Kinslee Inlow took home All-Tournament honors, while Megan Mealer also earned All-District honors.

Murrell was also named the District 7-AA Coach of the Year.

Even with the loss, Forrest will still get to host an elimination game in Chapel Hill in the opening round of region play on Friday night against Stratford, who finished third in the District 8-AA tournament.

Should the Lady Rockets win Friday's elimination game, Forrest won't have to travel far for the remainder of the Region 4-AA tournament.

"If we can get by that, we can get over to Community where the region is. It's not going to be a far commute. It won't necessarily be a home game if we can get to Community, but we won't have to travel to Whites Creek like we did last year and at least have some familiar territory for us," Murrell said.

Inlow didn't stay quiet, putting up all nine of her points in the fourth quarter, sealing the win for the Lady Rockets.

"I thought the second half we were able to get going, and kudos to how much better we've gotten throughout the course of the season," said Murrell. "If this had been November, we weren't going to pull that game off. It just goes to show how hard they've worked. Hopefully we can keep going. We have a really tough task Monday night against a really, really good team."

Kirby led all scorers with 19 points.

New timer will affect more than just pitchers

By NOAH TRISTER
AP Baseball Writer

SARASOTA, Fla. — As one of the game's top prospects, Grayson Rodriguez will probably make his debut for the Baltimore Orioles pretty soon, and then the 23-year-old right-hander can begin adjusting to the big leagues.

In one respect, he has a critical head start: Rodriguez has plenty of experience with the pitch clock that was tested in the minors and will now be used in the majors.

"I was a big fan of it," he said. "Obviously, it speeds up the game. As a pitcher, it's kind of what you want. Big league hitters take a long time to get to the plate. That drives me crazy, so this pitch clock kind of expediting the process, I like it a lot."

Not everyone is as sanguine about the new timers — and whether you're a pitcher, a catcher, a hitter or a baserunner, there's no hiding from this rule change. Of all of baseball's tweaks under Commissioner Rob Manfred, the pitch clock might be the one that affects the most players.

The clocks will be positioned behind the plate and beyond the outfield, where pitchers and hitters can easily see them. They'll count down from 30 seconds between batters. Between pitches, it will be 15 seconds with nobody on and 20 if there's a baserunner. The pitcher must start his delivery before the clock expires. After a pitch, the clock starts again when the pitcher has the ball back, the catcher and batter are in the circle around home plate, and play is otherwise ready to resume.

So efficient communication between the pitcher and catcher is important, because the clock is ticking. The batter has a responsibility, too. He needs to be in the box and alert to the pitcher with at least eight seconds on the clock. Batters can call time once per plate appearance, stopping the countdown.

"You kind of have to shorten your routine up to the plate, while I guess cleaning out the box or talking to the umpire or the catcher," said Atlanta outfielder Michael Harris II, last year's National League Rookie of the Year. "I kind of went through it in Double-A, so I kind of know how that works and how it can speed up the game, but I guess it takes some getting used to."

The goal is indeed to speed up play, specifically by limiting the parts of the game fans find particularly tedious.

According to Major League Baseball, the pitch timer reduced nine-inning games by a whopping 25 minutes last year in the minors, from 3 hours, 3 minutes in 2021 to 2:38. And other stats like runs per game, batting average and the rate of hit batters were essentially unchanged.

"The games were shortened, but not at the expense of game play," said Joe Martinez, a former big league pitcher who is now MLB's vice president for on-field strategy. "What was really removed from the game was that dead time — pitchers walking around the mound, batters fixing their batting gloves, taking extra pitches in the bullpen, walking in from there."

Games early in the season, in the second week, included an average of 1.73 violations. By week 24, that figure was down to 0.41. When surveyed, about 90% of both pitchers and position players said they adjusted to the pitch timer within about a month. If big leaguers get used to it that quickly, they should be ready around the end of spring training.

Still, there's a difference between compliant minor leaguers and big league veterans who are used to a certain routine — and the amount of information available to major leaguers can make pitcher-batter showdowns a mental battle in addition to a physical one.

"In this game, it's all about strategizing and really finding ways to get guys out. I think that's the unique thing about baseball nowadays," Pittsburgh right-hander Vince Velasquez said. "There's tons of talent that's spread around the league, and hitters are doing their homework just as much as we're doing ours, but I think it takes a little bit more time to kind of strategize and find ways to incorporate those things."

Velasquez doesn't like the pitch clock, and his teammate, catcher Kevin Plawecki, has concerns about the punishments.

"I feel like when you start doing automatic strikes, automatic balls, automatic runners advancing to bases, automatic runs scoring possibly, just based off of a step off, or a pickoff, to me I think that just changes the integrity of the game," Plawecki said.

When a pitcher fails to throw a pitch in time, the penalty is an automatic ball. When a batter isn't ready in time, it's an automatic strike. The clock would be easy to circumvent if the pitcher could simply step off the rubber or throw a pickoff to stall for time. To eliminate that loophole, pitchers are only allowed two disengagements per plate appearance. Pick-off attempts count toward that limit.

Ricky Stenhouse Jr. won the longest recorded Daytona 500 on Sunday to open the NASCAR season.

Stenhouse Jr. and JTG get breakout Daytona 500 win

By JENNA FRYER
AP Auto Racing Writer

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — One victory in 28 years was all tiny JTG Daugherty Racing had to show for the time, sweat and money — so much money — the team had poured into trying to build a winning NASCAR organization.

The team owned by Tad and Jodi Geschickter, as well as former NBA player Brad Daugherty, entered Season 29 still committed to a driver stuck in a losing streak that stretched nearly six years.

But they believed in Ricky Stenhouse Jr., and so did the sponsors on the No. 47 Chevrolet, which includes grocery chain Kroger, a JTG partner for more than a decade. The trick was rebuilding Stenhouse's confidence and returning him to the level of driver who won a pair of Xfinity Series championships at the start of his NASCAR career.

Would a Daytona 500 win do the trick?

Certainly so. Stenhouse scored just the third Cup victory of his career by winning the longest Daytona 500 in history. He won Sunday night in double overtime, under caution, to snap a losing streak that spanned 2,060 days and 199 races.

He did it with crew chief Mike Kelley, who took over leading the team during the offseason, in a reunion for the pair. Kelley was Stenhouse's crew chief at Roush Fenway Racing for his Xfinity titles and spent one season as his Cup crew chief before stepping back into a support role the last seven seasons.

Kelley's return to the top has been stabilizing for Stenhouse.

"Not winning since 2017, having struggles, ups and downs, to have somebody like Mike, who when he took over the reins as soon as the season was over, it was: 'Hey, I know you can still get this done. We've just got to give you the right opportunities. We know if we give you cars capable of running up front, you can do that,'" Stenhouse said. "He believes in myself more than I do, I think, and that's huge. I feel like that's what separates crew chiefs these days, is that team aspect and leading your guys and getting the most out of them.

"We all felt confident this off-season, but it's special to do it with Mike. We accomplished so much together. We've gone through ups and downs. He's been in the sport a long time. We need to make some new memories."

Stenhouse celebrated the win by scaling the fence at Daytona International Speedway — the Superman move created by four-time Indianapolis 500 winner Helio Castroneves. Once the 35-year-old from Olive Branch, Mississippi, reached the top, he hung and did a pair of pullups before climbing back down to collect the checkered flag. Stenhouse's only other two Cup wins came in 2017.

Stenhouse then packed up his replica version of the Harley J. Earl Trophy for a late-night trip to a Daytona Beach-area Waffle House, where he sat with his new hardware on the table and wore a paper crown to mark his achievement.

For the Geschickters, the couple now will bring back to their North Carolina race shop only their second NASCAR trophy. And it happens to be the most important trophy in the sport and came in the opening race of NASCAR's 75th celebratory season.

JTG is the first single-car team since The Wood Brothers Racing in 2011 to win the Daytona 500, Jodi Geschickter is only the second female car owner to win the Daytona 500 and Daugherty is the first Black owner to be part of a winning Daytona effort.

Daugherty had to leave Sunday's race early after sponsor obligations because the bright sun was bothering the lingering effects of recent eye surgery. But when his car went to victory lane, Jodi Geschickter said, Daugherty wasted no time reaching out to Michael Jordan, who like Daugherty is a part-owner of a NASCAR team.

"He said that he and Michael Jordan are already talking trash," she said. "I'm not sure what was said, but there have been conversations."

The win was such a remarkable breakthrough for JTG, which in 2017 expanded to a two-car team, only to have to contract back to one car last season when it didn't secure a charter for Ryan Preece. He elected to sit out the season and JTG has entered this year with just Stenhouse for a second consecutive season.

The ownership and sponsors could have bailed on Stenhouse at any time, and the sponsors could have bailed on winless JTG, as well. But that's not how the Geschickters run their business and they haven't been doing this nearly three decades to just give up.

"We didn't give up on Ricky because personally, I feel like he's got the spirit of a winner and I like what he represents as a person," Jodi Geschickter said. "I see flashes of brilliance in what he does. I felt like he could do it. I felt like he could get the job done, and I never questioned that."

Added her husband: "We have 18 corporate partners. There are not many drivers in this series that would do the work that Ricky Stenhouse does every day behind the scenes."

"Appearances in front of grocery stores to trips to corporate headquarters," Tad Geschickter said. "He's a workhorse, and someone that believes in you that hard, you're going to keep believing back in them."

JTG and Stenhouse put the work in, understanding they are up against the biggest and best in NASCAR for 38 weekends a year. Stenhouse, who with the Daytona 500 win qualified for the playoffs for just the second time in his career, may not be a title contender but he proved Sunday night that JTG is headed in the right direction.

"Every morning I get up and I put on my shoes at peace and I go out. But make no mistake, this is a battle. The competition in this series is fierce and it's serious," Jodi Geschickter said. "It's a battle and it's a fight, and it's hard. It's not for lack of effort. We've come really close, so I try not to get our hopes up."

"We work hard. The guys do their jobs. We're prepared. We're prepared everyday. We don't quit. We're tenacious. We dig in. You get the information, you try to make good decisions, and you just don't quit."

Woods, McIlroy break ground on high-tech golf league site

By TIM REYNOLDS
AP Sports Writer

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. — Tiger Woods and Rory McIlroy put the silver-plated shovels into a pile of dirt and left sizable divots.

With that, their high-tech golf league got a bit closer to launch.

The ceremonial groundbreaking for the arena that will house the league that's being called TGL was held Tuesday at Palm Beach State College, with Woods and McIlroy — two of the co-founders of TMRW Sports — there for the first step of actual construction.

TMRW — pronounced "tomorrow" — says TGL play will begin early next year, and the league will be in partnership with the PGA Tour. Woods and McIlroy, so far, have 11 players committed to the league. Besides them, the league will include world No. 1 Jon Rahm, Adam Scott, Collin Morikawa, Matt Fitzpatrick, Max Homa, Billy Horschel, Justin Rose and Xander Schauffele.

That list includes six players currently ranked 10th or better in the world, plus the game's biggest draw in Woods.

"In terms of fan experience, it's going to be nothing like golf has offered before," McIlroy said.

The concept is this: six teams of three PGA Tour players, squaring off in match play on a data-driven virtual course that also includes a short-game complex for chipping and putting.

It'll be played on Monday nights, and will take only two hours, with in-arena fans all very close to the action. There will be 15 matches in the regular season, followed by semifinals and a final.

"We're going to have excitement, we're going to have something different, something that is passionate," Woods said. "We've been involved in teams before whether it's Ryder Cup, President's Cup, Irish national teams, for me high school, college, ▶ See Golf, Page B6

Seth Davis hit the podium after a second-place finish in the 152-pound class in the state sectional and will begin his state tournament trek on Thursday.

Freshman Danika Mealer will start her state tournament trek as the four seed at 185-pounds after winning her sectional bracket.

Forrest sends 2 wrestlers to state tourney

Tribune Staff Report

A pair of wins in the Class A sectional by Seth Davis has sent the Forrest Rockets to the Class A state tournament, which will begin on Thursday afternoon at the Williamson Ag Expo.

Davis was awarded his first win via forfeit before defeating Tulla-homa's Eric Barragan via pin in 1:29. He took second in the 152-pound class after falling in a lengthy battle to White House Heritage's Nikolas Taylor.

But he wasn't the only Forrest wrestler to have an impressive sectional showing.

Danika Mealer won the Girls 185-pound class after a pair of forfeits to begin her tournament. She followed with a pin in 35 seconds against Blackman's Tessa Ball in the semifinals and followed with a championship win against Mt. Juliet's Abigail Griffin to win the bracket.

Both Davis and Mealer will begin their state tournament on Thursday afternoon.

The Cornersville wrestling team has had a successful postseason, highlighted by the efforts of Austin King, JP Bennett and Xavier Viazcan. Pictured with the three wrestlers are (far left) assistant coach Katie Viazcan and coach Jeff Gros.

Cornersville's Bennett headed to state tourney

Tribune Staff Report

Cornersville wrestling was well-represented at the postseason plowed closer to the state tournament. J.P. Bennett has made quite the splash so far this postseason, becoming the first region champion since the programs restart last year, winning the 106-pound weight class. He advanced into the sectional where he placed fourth and qualified for the upcoming Class A tournament, which will be held on Thursday. On entering Thursday's tournament, Bennett begins his state tournament trek with a 42-11 overall record.

But it wasn't just

Bennett who has had an excellent postseason for the Bulldogs.

Austin King also qualified for the sectional tournament and saw his season come to a close in the consolation bracket after falling in a 14-10 decision.

Xavier Viazcan, who went 42-12 this season, took home fourth in the district match. He eventually qualified for the Class A sectional as well in the 182-pound class despite a 43-14 overall record this season, saw his year come to a close in the consolation bracket as well.

Thursday's state tournament is set to begin at 2 p.m. at the Williamson Ag Expo.

Fangio introduced as Dolphins defensive coordinator

MIAMI GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — Veteran NFL coach Vic Fangio compared the year he took off from the sidelines to a tenured professor on sabbatical leave.

For the 64-year-old Fangio, whose NFL coaching career spans 35 years, class is in session again.

Fangio was introduced as the Miami Dolphins new defensive coordinator at the club's training facility Monday. Fangio replaces Josh Boyer, who was not retained by head coach Mike McDaniel after three seasons with the club.

"I think the Dolphins have a good thing going here," Fangio said. "There are good components of the coaching staff led by Mike that made it intriguing to join that. I still have a lot of coaching left in me. It's who I am and what I enjoy doing."

Fangio had a three-year head coaching tenure with the Denver Broncos, going 19-30. He was fired after the 2021 season, when the Broncos finished 7-10, and didn't coach in 2022.

Fangio is considered one of the league's respected defensive coaches. Before his career promotion in Denver, Fangio had two four-year stints as defensive coordinator with the San Francisco 49ers and Chicago Bears. Fangio also has served as coordinator with the Carolina Panthers, Indianapolis Colts and the Houston Texans.

"It's an exciting day for the Miami Dolphins organization," McDaniel said. "Since the season ended we've tried to attach in the journey looking towards the future, whom can we entrust to continue to develop the players."

Under Boyer, the Dolphins were ranked 18th in defense and 27th in passing defense.

"You don't have a sustaining career — longer than I've been alive — like Vic has, without that fearless chase of continuing to evolve and get better," the 39-year-old McDaniel said.

Although the Dolphins defense was in the bottom half statistically last season, Fangio believes the unit has a young and talented core.

Fangio singled out pass rusher Jaelan Phillips, safety Jevon Holland and defensive tackle Christian Wilkins among the players who could help lift Miami's defense.

Fangio's hiring already is attracting assistants from other teams. Los Angeles Chargers defensive coordinator Renaldo Hill, who worked with Fangio in Chicago and Denver, will join him in Miami.

"First and foremost, Renaldo is a good coach, a talented coach that's got a bright future in the NFL," Fangio said. "His familiarity with me and the system and what we do was important to me. But, regardless of that, just his ability to be a great coach is what attracted me."

During his time off from coaching, Fangio studied game tapes throughout the season, visited family in the Northeast and played golf. Fangio also served as a consultant to Philadelphia Eagles head coach Nick Sirianni while the club prepared for the NFC championship game and Super Bowl.

"It was an interesting year, one I would recommend for anybody to do it at some point," Fangio said. "But in this business you can't do it too often."

Now, Fangio directs his entire attention to helping the Dolphins defense become a comparable component to their offense.

"You have to fit the scheme to the players that you have while also factoring in the opponents that you're playing," Fangio said. "Hopefully we will be a team that would keep the points down and put our offense in a position to score points for us."

"I'm not a buzzword guy. You want to play good defense and what's good defense? Keep them out of the end zone."

whatever it is. You're going to get home and away, you're going to get some people that you want to win and not win. We're going to have that type of excitement." And you can bet on it.

Literally, Woods pointed out.

"Wagering is part of our sport, part of our culture," Woods said, then turned and looked at McIlroy. "We don't know how to play golf without it."

Access is part of the allure of the concept, along with the technology. Only a handful of fans at typical golf events can get close to the action, and they're often running from hole to hole to stay with a certain group.

TGL players will be mic'd-up, and fans won't have to guess what their thought processes are on certain shots.

"It's going to give the viewer at home and also the people in the arena just more of an in-depth of sort of how we do things and how we sort of think through things in our head," McIlroy said. "It's just a more in-depth look into that."

Mike McCarley, another co-founder and former Golf Channel president, said the arena will be built on a 10-acre (435,600-square feet) parcel of unused land. The partnership includes educational and recreational initiatives that will benefit Palm Beach State students, along with offering paid internships and other opportunities for students in technology, hospitality and administrative services.

"Think about how cool this will be for this land, this campus, to become a launching pad for future leaders in sports and media and technology as they learn here as part of TGL," McCarley said. "We are breaking ground on much more than a dream, much more than a prime-time golf league."
