Lewisburg offers PD raise

By Scott Pearson
Associate Editor

The Lewisburg City Council cleared up some pressing, and some lingering, business at last week's monthly meeting.

The council approved an immediate two dollar per hour salary increase for certified officers in the Lewisburg Police Department.

The move came after Chief Scott Braden told the council last month that the department was facing "a critical situation" retaining trained officers as departments all over the state compete for a shrinking pool of qualified officers.

Council agreed to the increase as the department already has the funds available in the current budget due to unspent salaries on unfilled officer positions.

A proposal for a 10% raise for all city employees did not make the agenda for a vote after discussion at the work session.

Mayor Jim Bingham cited the city's recovered financial reserves, including just under $3.3 million in cash reserve, almost $3.7 million invested, and $2.2 million in available American Recovery Act funds, as a strong basis for considering such a move.

The majority of the council expressed their discomfort at committing to such an increase before seeing preliminary budget numbers for the next fiscal year, beginning July 1.

Foster indicted for OGES theft

By Scott Pearson
Associate Editor

A former bookkeeper at Oak Grove Elementary School is facing charges after an investigation by the Tennessee Office of the Comptroller uncovered missing funds.

On March 22, the Marshall County Grand Jury issued indictments for Jennifer Leigh Foster, 50, of Lewisburg, on counts of theft over $10,000, forgery, and official misconduct.

Investigators determined that during Foster's employment at OGES from 2016 until her resignation in August of 2021, she misappropriated $12,325.46 in school funds.

Most of the missing money came from cash purchases at school book fairs that was never deposited in the school's bank account.

Investigators cited one example from the fall of 2019 when the school librarian turned over $256.10 in checks and $1,861.45 in cash generated by the book sale. Almost a month later the checks were deposited in the school bank account but the investigation found no record of that cash amount ever appearing on the balance sheet or in deposit records.

In total, $9,141.74 in cash from book fair revenues were not accounted for. Also misappropriated according to the investigation was $1,890 paid for student Chromebook insurance, $800 in field trip money, and $493.72 intended for chorus activities.

The Comptroller's report states that Foster did admit to investigators that she had diverted school funds for personal use.

Several undocumented deposits to various accounts were also discovered, totaling $3,429.41, which investigators concluded were attempts by Foster to repay some of the stolen funds.

The total unaccounted for balance remains at $8,896.05.

In order to cover the missing funds, the Comptroller's investigation alleges that Foster created spreadsheets, essentially a second set of books, showing false balances for impacted funds.

Investigators cited a document she presented in the fall of 2019 showing a $791.82 in the school library account, when the true balance of that account was a negative $6,178.89.

Deficiencies identified during the investigation of deposits not made within three days of receipt, of inadequate separation of duties, failure to document collections in a timely manner, and failure to ensure intact deposits, have been, or are in process of being, corrected, according to school officials.

The investigation began at the request of school officials after discrepancies were discovered in the accounting for certain funds.

Coach Adkins retires

By Patty Blackburn
Tribune Staff

Lewisburg Middle School teacher and tennis coach, Dickie Adkins, is retiring after 34 years in public education. Several of his former players, students, and friends greeted him at the Lewisburg Recreation Center Friday, April 14th, before his last tennis match with the LMS tennis team.

His first position was at Connelly Middle School in 1989 where he started the tennis program in the early 90's. Over his 34 year career, he coached both Marshall County High School teams and the middle school teams. While coaching at MCHS, he led the teams to numerous regional and district championships. Coach Adkins' teams played in state championships eight times in a row and has had over 20 players to earn scholarships.

Coach Adkins' hard work and dedication paid off in 2007, the year MCHS won the first state championship. Lyssa Wiles and Tori Richardson came home with the TSSAA Division I Class A/AA girl's doubles tennis crown. Richardson promised that she would bring home a state title and with Richardson's and Wiles' hard work and determination, she kept her promise to Coach Adkins. This was a happy day for the coach, assistant coach-Jason Donahue, and for MCHS.

only a teacher and tennis coach but a great friend to many. Mike Barker, instructor at LMS stated, "Coach Adkins is a respected and valued employee for Marshall County and will be greatly missed by his co-workers and students."

Heritage South named among top credit unions in America

Heritage South Community Credit Union is proud to announce that we have been ranked #81 in the S&P Global Market Intelligence Top 100 Credit Unions in the nation. This recognition is a testament to our team's hard work, dedication, and commitment to providing the best possible service to our members and community.

"We are thrilled to be recognized as one of the top credit unions in the nation," said Laura Parham, CEO of Heritage South. "This recognition reflects the trust and support of our members to our core mission of We Help When Others Won't."

The S&P Global Market Intelligence Top 100 Credit Unions' ranking is based on various factors, including growth, loan quality, and profitability. The ranking is compiled annually by S&P Global Market Intelligence, a leading financial market data and analysis provider. Approximately 4,800 credit unions are operating in the United States, with 1,797 credit unions eligible for the analysis.

Heritage South has been serving the communities of Middle Tennessee for over 65 years, providing a range of financial products and services, including savings accounts, checking accounts, loans, and credit cards. As a member-owned financial cooperative, we are committed to the financial well-being of all in our community by helping them to achieve their financial goals.

"In these turbulent economic times, it is an honor for the strength and soundness of our credit union to receive national recognition alongside some of the most respected credit unions in the country," said Mrs. Parham.

Heritage South Community Credit Union is a member-owned financial institution headquartered in Shelbyville, TN. After our humble beginnings serving employees of the Empire Pencil Company in Shelbyville, Heritage South has grown to serve the counties of Bedford, Marshall, Rutherford, Cannon, and Maury, as well as the cities of Tullahoma, Manchester, Fayetteville, Winchester, and Decherd. We offer a range of financial products and services to anyone who lives, works, learns, or worships in those communities, including savings accounts, checking accounts, loans, credit cards, and mortgages.

For more information, please visit www.heritatesouth.org. Heritage South Community Credit Union is federally insured by the NCUA and an Equal Housing Lender.

More time for deals at Tillis

Last week's piece on the closing of the Lewisburg location of Tillis Jewelry indicated that the closing sale would end this month. The actual final day of the sale at the store, which has anchored a prominent spot on the Lewisburg square for more than a decade, will be May 20.

Raise

The council also approved funds to conduct a salary study to ensure that the city was competitive with its peers in order to retain and attract employees.

Those ARPA funds will also remain restricted for a while longer.

Interim Treasurer Debbie Montgomery told the council at the preceding work session that remaining ARPA funds could be moved into the general fund by designating them for salaries, without having to use them for such.

Doing so would free them from time and use restrictions, as well as audit fees, giving the city additional flexibility.

The process, while approved by the state and federal guidelines, also made several on the council uncomfortable, and the proposal died from the lack of a second.

The council approved, without further discussion, two annexation and rezoning requests, which have been before the council for several months.

Approximately 44 acres on West Ellington Parkway and roughly 150 acres between Holly Grove Road and Finley Beech Road were both approved as low density planned urban developments and added to the city.

Do you have a babysitting horror story?

By Danny Tyree
At approximately the time this column is uploaded to the syndicate website, I will be attending the funeral of my Aunt Jean.

I'm sure the eulogist will wax eloquent about heaven, but I want to nominate Aunt Jean to the Babysitter Hall of Fame.

When I was six and my brother Dwight was four, our parents dumped ... er, entrusted... us to Aunt Jean while they attended a social event at the local municipal recreation center.

A boringly routine assignment, except that as soon as our parents drove away, Dwight developed separation anxiety and wailed, "I wanna go to the re'ation center!"

Dwight darted out of the house and zig-zagged through the yard. He would need to cross approximately seven unfamiliar streets and the railroad track to reach his destination. There was no GPS and he couldn't navigate by the Big Dipper, so I guess he was planning to fly by the seat of his pants.

(Spoiler alert: The seat of his pants would be in no shape for flying by the end of the night.)

Aunt Jean was still in her prime, so retrieving one runaway boy was no biggie - except for the tag-team aspect of the situation. "Let Dwight go to the recreation center if he wants to," I solemnly intoned.

I didn't fully comprehend why the trek meant so much to my little brother, but I was heavily influenced by Alfred Lord Tennyson. ("Ours not to reason why, ours but to do and let our sibling wind up in a hobo jungle.")

I only knew that I was supposed to take up for my little brother, like when I tried to perform a C-section to give him an early entry into the world or when I was going to launch him into outer space in a gasoline-powered rocket or...Wow. I was like a low-budget soap opera: I was my own evil twin.

Casting my gaze at infant cousin Steve in his highchair, I continued, "You let Dwight go or I'll throw this baby on the floor!"

(Really, this was a compliment to Aunt Jean's immaculate housekeeping. Lots of people talk about eating off the floor, but how many have a floor clean enough to hurl an infant onto?)

Aunt Jean was frantic, torn between letting her nephew disappear into the night or having her only offspring become a crash test dummy.

With some quick thinking, she wedged Steve between the refrigerator and the wall so tightly that I couldn't dislodge him and chased down Dwight in the yard.

I was disappointed that she didn't do one of those adrenaline-enhanced maneuvers and lift the fridge, but I cut her some slack.

(Spoiler warning: you'd think that with Major Appliance already on the scene, there would be no need for Corporal Punishment, but...)

When our parents returned, Aunt Jean somehow managed to put a negative spin on what had transpired!

Predictably, the Riot Act got read in our household more often than "The Three Little Pigs." ("This time, read the part about 'an act for preventing tumults and riotous assemblies' with a funny voice, Daddy!")

I'm glad that Dwight and I didn't scare Aunt Jean out of having a second son or doting on her three grandsons.

And I'm glad she went to all those family reunions, even when they began with, "Let's go to the recreation center!"

BLOTTER

• Lewisburg Police responded to the Walking Horse Lodge on North Ellington Parkway on Thursday, April 13, at approximately 8:30 p.m. after reports of shots fired.

Alerted by occupants during their exterior sweep, officers discovered several spent casings in front of Room 129. A man matching the description of the shooter responded to officers' commands to exit the room and was placed in restraints. A sweep of the room confirmed that the man, Rodney Dean Walker, 58, of Adamsville, Alabama, was alone. Additional spent casings were discovered inside the room. Two .22 caliber rifles, determined to have been recently fired, were recovered from the room and a box of ammunition missing 15 rounds.

Walker was determined to be heavily intoxicated and had urinated on himself, according to the report.

Walker was charged with reckless endangerment, possession of a firearm during a felony, unlawful possession of a firearm, public intoxication, and - after removing his belt and throwing it at an officer during booking and telling him to hang himself with it - assault on a first responder. He was cited as well for discharging a weapon within city limits.

Walker was held without bond.

According to the police report, a search discovered that Walker possesses an extensive criminal history of drug, firearm, and domestic assault convictions.

• On April 13, Marshall County Sheriff's deputies stopped a Hyundai Sonata observed driving without tags on North Ellington Parkway.

The driver, Devan Blane Turner of Red Boiling Springs, could not produce proof of insurance or registration when asked, explaining that he had just purchased the vehicle.

Asked for a bill of sale, he explained that actually he was test driving the car and had not yet purchased it. When asked which dealer he was doing business with, Turner responded that it was "one down the road" but could not produce a name or location.

A check of the VIN revealed that the car was reported stolen out of Athens, Alabama. A gram of presumed methamphetamine was found in Turner's wallet and $20,035 in cash was found among his possessions.

The Limestone County Sheriff's Office indicated that they would retrieve the vehicle and would extradite Turner to face charges in Alabama.

He was charged with simple possession of a Schedule II drug and possession of stolen property in Marshall County with a $15,000 bond.

TIRES

• On April 10, a deputy responded to a report in the area of Double Bridges Road and Jett Road of an individual in a truck throwing tires on the side of the road. Arriving on the scene, the deputy observed approximately three tires by the roadway. Another call then came in from the Old Farmington Road and Turner Road area where the deputy observed another 20-odd tires on the side of the road. Going to a residence on Nashville Highway, the deputy spoke with Taylor Vincion who eventually admitted, according to the report, that his girlfriend was driving while he disposed of tires along the road. Vincion was given the choice of arrest or a citation, provided he picked up all of the tires he had illegally disposed of. After all of the tires were observed to have been collected the next day, Vincion was cited for aggravated criminal littering.

THREAT

• On April 12, Lewisburg Police responded to a threat of violence at Minth. Joseph Gentry had been fired earlier in the day for leaving without notice.

Gentry's lead received a text stating that he was angry over it and would come kill everyone at the plant. After Gentry was contacted by human resources to inform him that they took such threats seriously, another text was received stating that he was in the parking lot and, according to the report, "would kill everyone one by one as they left the building."

Taken into custody by LPD, Gentry said he was "just joking." His phone was sent to the Tennessee Bureau of Investigation.

Gentry was charged with false report and held on a $10,000 bond.

THEFTS

• On April 15, a homeowner on Old Highway 99 reported that a green Honda four wheeler, valued at $3,000 had been stolen from his property.

Sam Watkins' memoirs tell the real story of the Civil War

By Bill Carey
Tennessee History for Kids

Editor's note: This is third in a series of columns about topics currently slated to be deleted from Tennessee's eighth-grade social studies standards.

If you want to know what it was really like to have been in the Civil War, try reading the memoirs of the a famous Confederate private.

His name was Sam Watkins, and he was a soldier in the First Tennessee Infantry, Company H. A Maury County native, Watkins fought at Shiloh, Murfreesboro, Chattanooga, Chickamauga, Kennesaw Mountain, Franklin and Nashville.

Of the 1,200 men who originally enlisted in the First Tennessee Infantry (Confederate Army), Watkins was one of only 65 who remained in the spring of 1865.

After the war, Watkins married, had children and made his living as a storekeeper and farmer. About twenty years after the war, he wrote his recollections as a soldier. They were originally published as a series of articles in the Columbia Herald and later reprinted as a book called "Company Aytch: Or a Sideshow of the Big Show."

At a time when many Civil War accounts were descriptions of troop movements and casualty counts, Watkins account was startling to readers for its honesty. "Company Aytch" contains horrifying descriptions of battles and amusing anecdotes about day-to-day life as a soldier. For instance:

Watkins frequently did guard duty in the middle of the night, sometimes when the U.S. Army was camped out just across a road or river. During those nights, it was not unusual for guards on opposing armies to become friends. "We got very friendly during the night, and made a raid upon a citizen's pantry, where we captured a bucket of honey, a pitcher of sweet milk, and three or four biscuits," he wrote.

At other times, guards tried to kill each other. In July 1864, Watkins killed a federal scout outside Atlanta in the middle of the night. "I saw, or I thought I saw, the dim outlines of a Yankee soldier, lying on the ground not more than ten steps from where I stood," he wrote. "I raised my gun, placed it to my shoulder, took deliberate aim, and fired, and 'waugh-weouw,' the most unearthly scream I had ever heard greeted my ears." Two days later, Watkins found that the dead Yankee had been stripped of his clothes and possessions and that his body had become swollen and blackened from exposure to the heat. "He scared me worse when dead than when living."

Soldiers were often required to witness executions, ostensibly as a way of maintaining discipline. One time Watkins witnessed the execution of two U.S. Army spies, one of which he believed to be 14 years old. "The youngest one began to beg and cry and plead most piteously. It was horrid. The older one kicked him, and told him to stand up and show the Rebels how a Union man could die for his country." Another time, a snowball fight was interrupted by an execution. "He [the condemned] had no sooner been taken up and carried off to be buried, than the soldiers were throwing snowballs as hard as ever, as if nothing had happened."

Like many other low-ranking enlisted men, Watkins complained about how well officers were treated. "The private's pay was eleven dollars per month, if he got it; the General's pay was three hundred dollars per month, and he always got his . . . A General could resign. That was honorable. A private could not resign, nor choose his branch of service, and if he deserted, it was death."

Watkins had strong opinions about the generals for whom he fought. He did not care for Braxton Bragg, commander of the army of Tennessee during the battles of Stones River and Chickamauga. "None of General Bragg's soldiers ever loved him," Watkins wrote. "He was looked upon as a merciless tyrant." However, Watkins thought the world of Bragg's successor Joseph Johnston. "His lines of battle were invulnerable. The larger he could handle it. When his army moved, it was the picture of battle, everything in its place, as laid down by scientific military rules."

Watkins descriptions of individual battles are incomparable. Here is an excerpt from his account of the Battle of Kennesaw Mountain: "A solid line of blazing fire right from the muzzles of the Yankee guns being poured right into our very faces, singeing our hair and clothes, the hot blood of our dead and wounded spurting on us, the blinding smoke and stifling atmosphere filling our eyes and mouths, and the awful concussion causing the blood to gush out of our noses and ears, and above all, the roar of battle, make it a perfect pandemonium. . . The ground was piled up with one solid mass of dead and wounded Yankees."

After the Battle of Missionary Ridge, Watkins and his fellow soldiers had to leave behind a wounded comrade. Shot through the head, with "his blood and brains smearing his face and clothes," there was no hope of Tom Webb surviving. "The Yankees were then advancing and firing upon us. What could we do? We could not carry him any further, and we could not bury him, for he was still alive. To leave him where he was we thought best . . .

"We kissed him goodbye and left him to the tender mercies of the advancing foe, in whose hands he would be in a few moments."

I swear I just saw a new driveway crack!

Welcome to your golden years, Trudy.

Faith alone

"Wherefore come out from among them, and be ye separate, says the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you," - 2 Corinthians 6:17

Change is something that we all have trouble with in life. Therefore any challenge to what we believe or what we have been taught first comes with resistance. However, our scripture is about the change that God desires for those who claim His name, and who were not aware of their religious error. The apostle Paul addressed this New Testament church about separating themselves from idols. Yes, this church had unknowingly fallen into idolatry. Idolatry can come in many forms. Nevertheless, we are familiar with carved images of God's Son and heavenly beings. To have any figure to help one's belief puts that image in the place of God, which is against God's will (Exodus 20:3-5), and it takes away from the simplicity of living by faith (Romans 5:1,2).

By the third century, after the passing of the apostles, some early Christians came to use statues and paintings as a means of teaching. However, the art still had to be explained by words. Not only that, where do we find Jesus using statues of Moses or Elijah to teach? The Lord Jesus Christ was the master of using parables and proverbs, which are word pictures. He, being the Word (John 1:1,14), used words to teach both young and old, literate and illiterate regardless of culture, color, or class.

In 787 A.D. the Second Council of Nicaea formally approved and encouraged the use of statues and other art as means of worship. They were to be considered to be a focal point to help during prayer. However, that is the ministry of the Holy Spirit (Romans 8:26,27) and not a statue. The great heroes of faith listed in Hebrews chapter 11 never had an image to pray to. Also, we need to understand that there is nothing wrong or unholy about historic art, but statues and icons are never to be brought into the arena of prayer and worship.

Regardless of our Christian affiliation, we must place our understanding and trust on the pure word of God rather than embracing the unsure word of man. You see, no church, no catechism, no council, no pastor, no preacher, and no pope has the authority to add to God's word (Proverbs 30:5,6; Revelation 22:18,19). We are not to slight God's clear will as it is revealed in His word. Therefore such things, unknowingly, can become an idol. Just remember that the LORD God is a jealous God (Exodus 34:13,14) and He will not share His glory with any carved image (Isaiah 42:8). So if one professes the Lord and does not separate from such religiosity, even if one is sincere in their devotion and calls Jesus their Lord (Matthew 7:21-23), our scripture is clear that the Lord will not receive them. Therefore, the believer is called to come out and separate from such practices and have faith in Christ alone.

Conservation District celebrates Earth Day 2023

Every year on April 22, Earth Day marks the anniversary of the birth of the modern environmental movement. Through the combined efforts of the U.S. government and grassroots organizations, what started as a day of national environmental recognition has evolved into a world-wide campaign to protect our global environment.

In celebration of Earth Day, the Marshall County Soil & Water Conservation District provided each 2nd grade class in the county "Local Heroes-Your Hardworking Pollinators" booklets, posters, and packets of wildflowers seeds to promote the importance of pollinators. The District also made $100.00 donations to the Cornersville High School FFA and the Forrest High School FFA agriculture program.

The Marshall County Soil & Water Conservation District is very proud to be able to help further conservation education to the county's students in celebration of Earth Day.

Cornersville High School (CHS) – Receiving the donation for the Cornersville FFA is Agriculture Instructor Lane Worley

Cornersville Elementary (CES) – Leighton Feagin, Marley Corbin, and Julia Buckley display pollinator education materials

Chapel Hill Elementary (CHES) – Gillen Joyce, Principal Dawn Kirby, and Jade Jordan are shown with pollinator education materials

Forrest High School (FHS) – Bo Roberson and Joseph Johns are shown accepting a donation to the Forrest FFA

Tigerettes rally past Lawrence Co. for district win

Brynlee Walls went 1-for-4 with two RBIs to her credit against Lawrence County on Monday night.

LEWISBURG — Monday night's District 8-AAA game against Lawrence County got off to an inauspicious start, with Marshall County giving up five runs in the first inning to the visitors.

But the Tigerettes chipped away at the Lady Wildcat lead and the capitalized on a six-run, fifth-inning as Marshall County rallied for the 11-9 win.

Lawrence County jumped on the Tigerettes in the first inning, by both smacking extra base hits and playing a little small ball.

The Lady Wildcats connected on four hits in the inning, including a RBI double and RBI triple.

Marshall County got one back in the bottom of the first inning when Courtney Lynch scored on a Lawrence County error.

The Tigerettes didn't make a sizable dent in the Lawrence County lead until the second inning.

Haylee Hobby singled to right to lead off the inning and Lynch and Mallory Woodward drew back-to-back walks, with Woodward's walk scoring the first run of the inning.

Kaniyah Taylor then ground into a RBI fielder's choice, scoring Kinley Wiser.

Brittany Lynch then ground into a double play, but not before Courtney Lynch scored to cut the Lawrence County lead to 6-4.

Kori Lyttle made it a one-run game when she singled, scoring Reese Lentz.

Lawrence County answered the Tigerette surge and made it a two-run game once again with a RBI double and RBI single in the fourth inning, but as the Lady Wildcats showed, all it takes is one big inning.

That's just what Marshall County banked on in the fifth.

Four-straight one-out singles saw the Tigerettes plate the first run of the inning on a Courtney Lynch infield single.

After Woodward ground out to first for the second out of the inning, Lawrence County opted to intentionally walk Kaniyah Taylor to load the bases, hoping to set up the force out.

Instead, Brittany Lynch smacked a two RBI double to left, which gave the Tigerettes their first lead of the night.

Leading 9-8, Brynlee Walls stepped to the plate and singled to left scoring two, but was tagged out trying to advance to second for the final out of the inning.

Brittany Lynch had a stellar night at the plate, going 1-for-4 with four RBIs to her credit, while Courtney Lynch and Walls each drove in a pair of runs.

UNIONVILLE — The Community Vikings scored five runs over the final three innings, but it was too little, too late as the Forrest Rockets jumped out to a 10-0 lead and defeated the Vikings 13-5 in a District 7-AA baseball game Tuesday night.

After the first two batters were retired in the opening inning, the Rockets drew first blood as Kason Fuller drove in one run with an RBI-double and Carter Walk followed with a run-scoring single to give Forrest a 2-0 lead.

The Rockets sent 12 batters to the plate and scored six runs to widen their margin in the second inning.

Four consecutive hits by Ryan Meglis, Ryan Hill, Branham Haynes, and Tyler Baxter to start the inning got the rally started while Fuller and Luke Allen each added singles as Forrest stretched its lead to 8-0.

A lead-off triple by Walk coupled with two Viking errors helped the Rockets to score two runs in the fourth as Forrest upped its lead to 10-0.

The Vikings got on the board with three runs in the fifth.

After singles by James Beech and Blaine Paschal, a fielder's choice put the Vikings on the board.

Corey Paterick followed with a two-run double to cut the Rocket lead to 10-3.

Riley Durbin, Preston Gentry, and Walk each had singles as Forrest added three insurance runs in the seventh to increase its lead to 13-3.

Dallas Grooms and Maki Fleming scored ahead of a triple by Mason Russell in the bottom of the inning as the Vikings narrowed the Rocket winning margin.

BELL BUCKLE — It was all Forrest Rockets on the diamond in their 11-1 win over the Cascade Champions on Monday night as starting pitcher Riley Durbin tossed all six innings with nine strikeouts and only two hits given up, and sophomore Kason Fuller went 3-for-4 at the plate with five RBIs and two doubles to lead the way.

The duo accounted for all three RBIs in the opening frame with Durbin knocking an RBI single and Fuller driving in two runs with his first double of the game.

Durbin followed it up by striking out the first two batters he faced in the bottom half, and forcing a ground out for a 1-2-3 inning.

"We know that from the top to the bottom of our lineup we can execute. If Durbin is throwing strikes like he did tonight, then we have a chance to win any game," Rocket head coach Andy Burkett said.

"We work hard enough on hitting and our lineup to know that guys are going to compete at the plate. He (Fuller) has an excellent baseball IQ, a high motor, and a joy to coach. I don't understand how he gets his approach so well, being so young. He's a monster."

After taking a 3-0 lead in the first inning, the Rockets (12-5, 6-0) added to their advantage with four runs in the top of the second to take an early 7-0 lead over the Champions (6-11, 4-3).

With the bases loaded and only one out down, one run scored when Preston Gentry was walked and Fuller knocked a bases clearing double to score three more runs.

Cascade secured two consecutive outs immediately after to end the inning with starting pitcher Jaxon Sheffield striking out his first batter of the game.

Sheffield was replaced on the mound by Zach Crosslin after two innings of work.

Behind Crosslin's arm, the Champions were able to keep the Rockets at bay with three straight scoreless innings as Crosslin only gave up three hits and struck out three in that span.

In the bottom of the fourth inning, Cascade was able to plate one run on a fielder's choice double play that ended the inning to make it a 7-1 game, but that was all they were able to scrape across throughout the contest.

Lady Rockets notch another district win vs. Cascade

CHAPEL HILL — A hot start carried Forrest to an 8-2 district 9-AA win over Cascade on Thursday night at the Lady Rockets Field of Dreams, with Forrest scoring all eight runs in the first two innings before stalling out.

Senior Macyn Kirby led off for the Lady Rockets in the bottom of the first, picking up a walk and then stealing second.

Maggie Daughrity's speed was too much for the Cascade defense and she safely reached first on a bunt, advancing Kirby to third.

Eighth-grader Taylor Moreland stepped to the plate picking up an RBI with a base hit to right, scoring Kirby.

Forrest followed up with a sacrifice bunt from Carli Warner to score Daughrity.

Forrest pumped the brakes there, but picked up steam in the bottom of the second for six more runs. Sarah King reached first after being hit by a pitch, followed by successful bunts from Jenna Goodman and Kirby.

Daughrity took advantage of the loaded bases, knocking

Cascade's pitching got a little shaky, hitting one batter and walking three more to score Hailey Warren, then Christa Warren pouncing on the chance to score on a wild pitch.

Macyn Kirby slides safely into second on a steal.

It was Caitlin Fannin crossing the plate first for the Lady Champions in the top of the third inning after a hit up the middle from Sophie Ray, and a single shot over the center wall from Champions pitcher Brianna Horn in the top of the 6th that completed the offensive effort from

Cascade. Forrest pitcher Ella Chilton picked up the win for the Lady Rockets, Emory Hall and Moreland in relief. Daughrity led the Lady Rockets with her three-hit and three RBI night. Warner also had a solid night, going 2-for-3 with two RBIs to her credit. Chilton pitched three innings and gave up one run on five hits while striking out five.

Sellars' arm, bat leads 'Dawgs' to win over Richland

CORNERSVILLE — A six-run outburst in the first two innings ultimately proved enough for Cornersville against visiting Richland on Friday night.

The Bulldogs' early lead withstood a late push by the Raiders as Cornersville held on for the 7-5 win.

Starting Bulldog pitcher Daniel Sellars chewed through the top of the Raider lineup in the first inning and sat Richland down in order.

Cornersville wasted no time in seizing the lead after Gage Lovell singled to lead off the bottom of the inning.

He later scored on a Beau Schillig RBI single to left.

Courtesy base runner Garrett Schillig later stole home for the second run of the inning.

The lead ballooned in favor of the home team in the second inning when the Bulldogs were able to put four more runs on the board.

Sellars helped his own cause with a three RBI double to left and Beau Schillig later scored on a Richland error.

Richland made things interesting by knocking in two runs in the fourth, one in the fifth and two more runs in the seventh, but couldn't cut any further into the Bulldog lead.

Lovell went 2-for-4 with a double in the win, while Sellars was 1-for-4 with three RBIs to his credit.

Sellars went 2 2/3 innings on the mound and earned the win, not allowing a hit or run, while striking out five.

Lady 'Dawgs' sweep Fayetteville twinbill

By Chris Siers

CORNERSVILLE — Strong pitching and timely hitting saw Cornersville edge out a 3-2 Game 1 and blow out Fayetteville 8-0 in the nightcap on Monday night.

The Lady 'Dawgs' got a little bit of everything in the two-game sweep.

In Game 1, it was a two-run, walk-off double off the bat of Alicia Polk that landed the Lady 'Dawgs' the 3-2 win.

Cornersville grabbed the lead in the bottom of the third inning on a one-out RBI single by Jayli Childress, who scored Carmen Ward.

That lead eventually disappeared as Fayetteville drove in a single run in the top of the fourth and fifth inning.

Trailing 2-1 and down to their final three outs, Ward led off the Cornersville' fifth with a single to center field and Anna Wood followed her on base and reached via Lady Tiger error.

Childress then ground into a fielder's choice and pushed both runners into scoring position, bringing Polk to the plate.

With runners on second and third, Polk mashed a line drive double to center field, scoring both to give the Lady 'Dawgs' the 3-2 win.

Polk was the hero in the win, going 1-for-3 with her two RBI double.

Childress also went 2-for-3 with an RBI as well.

She gave up just two runs, only one of which was earned, on four hits, while striking out eight.

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Milton ready to lead Vols' high-powered offense

By TERESA M. WALKER
AP Sports Writer

Tennessee quarterback Joe Milton stands out in so many ways.

At 6-foot-5 and 242 pounds, Milton is flexible enough to do a backflip from a standing position and has a right arm so powerful he can stand on the goal line and throw an orange into the wall at the other end of a football field.

Nobody has ever questioned Milton's athleticism.

Now 23 and the oldest quarterback in the room at Tennessee, the sixth-year player gets his opportunity. Milton will get the chance to showcase how much he's grown and how at ease he is with shorter passes so he can keep coach Josh Heupel's super-charged offense on the field.

Heupel believes Milton is ready to play at an elite level in 2023, replacing former roommate Hendon Hooker, the man who took Milton's job in 2021 after his own lower leg injury.

"I've been really proud of the way that Joe has worked here," Heupel said. "He's hyper-competitive and intentional in trying to become the best that he can be at his craft and at the same time, push and pull his teammates to compete at a championship level every day."

Milton showed what he could do after Hooker tore his left ACL in a loss at South Carolina in November. He helped the Vols finish the season by routing Clemson in the Orange Bowl and ending up ranked sixth nationally after an 11-2 record — Tennessee's best since 2001.

In his two seasons after transferring as a graduate from Michigan, Milton is 85 of 144 for 1,346 yards, 12 touchdowns and no interceptions. He's played in 31 games over the past five years with only nine starts.

Yet Milton insists he's ready to be Tennessee's starter as the Volunteers wrap up spring practice Saturday with the annual Orange & White game.

"There's a lot more things that I see now that I didn't see when I first got here," Milton said. "So I'm obligated to move faster. You know, I see things different. I can also talk to the receivers and let them know what I see now. So I get to play more smooth, more calm and, you know, just be me."

Tennessee needs that similar friendly and helpful competition he enjoyed with Hooker to help Iamaleava learn as quickly as possible. The 6-6 freshman took part in the Vols' pre-bowl practices and started classes in January so he could do the spring practice.

Milton's biggest advice? Don't be afraid to make mistakes. "Nico comes to me every night, right after meetings he asks me questions about the script," Milton said. "I'm willing to help anyway I can. That's just me personally. For any freshman in the country, it doesn't have to be just for Tennessee, go make a mistake. You never know what's going to happen."

How the Volunteers fare will depend on Milton fulfilling the promise that he had coming out of Pahokee, Florida — and the biggest key will be harnessing that mighty right arm to throw out routes and screen passes. Despite his limited play last season, Milton still tied for 14th nationally by completing six passes of 50 yards or longer.

New offensive coordinator Joey Halzle said Milton knows he's competing against himself and is motivated to make the most of his final year of eligibility. Halzle also believes Milton has room for growth after essentially having only four starts in the nation's fastest-operating and top-producing offense.

They work regularly on underneath and mid-range throws. "He's got a bazooka," Halzle said. "He can throw it through a wall if he wants to. So, let's just touch all of these up when we're in routes-on-air. What I always say, we work on that during our individual and routes-on-air, but when it's time to take the field, you have to see it and react."

a mistake. You never know what's going to happen."

How the Volunteers fare will depend on Milton fulfilling the promise that he had coming out of Pahokee, Florida — and the biggest key will be harnessing that mighty right arm to throw out routes and screen passes. Despite his limited play last season, Milton still tied for 14th nationally by completing six passes of 50 yards or longer.

New offensive coordinator Joey Halzle said Milton knows he's competing against himself and is motivated to make the most of his final year of eligibility. Halzle also believes Milton has room for growth after essentially having only four starts in the nation's fastest-operating and top-producing offense.

They work regularly on underneath and mid-range throws. "He's got a bazooka," Halzle said. "He can throw it through a wall if he wants to. So, let's just touch all of these up when we're in routes-on-air. What I always say, we work on that during our individual and routes-on-air, but when it's time to take the field, you have to see it and react."

After sitting behind Hendon Hooker, Joe Milton looks primed to take the reins for the high-powered Tennessee Volunteer offense this season.

(Continued from Page B1) out the opening two batters of the bottom of the fifth inning, he walked the next two which gave the Champions an opportunity to produce some offense, but the Rockets secured the final out on a fly ball to left field.

Forrest followed it up with another four-run inning in the top of the sixth as they notched two hits to make it an 11-1 game with a chance to end the game in the bottom half.

Left fielder Carter Walk made an extravagant diving catch for the first out, and Durbin struck out the next two batters to bring the game to its close.

"He was locating his fastball really well all night. He started missing up in the zone later in the game and got frustrated, but we were able to talk to him and calm him down a little bit," Burkett said. "His curveball was the biggest difference. Once he was able to locate that, I think he got four out his last five strikeouts on his breaking ball. It's fun to call pitches when you have a guy that can locate the ball and throw strikes."

With the win, the Rockets stay undefeated in District 7-AA play with three more games to play as they sit comfortably in the top spot.

Making and meeting small goals on their way to bigger ones has been the key for Burkett and the Rockets.

"For us, having small stepping stones and gathering momentum really helped us out last year, so we're going with that again this year," Burkett said. "The first goal was to win the regular season title. If we have the opportunity to go undefeated in the regular season district, then that's our next goal and take that into the district tournament."

Hamlin cleared to return to football activities

By JOHN WAWROW
AP Sports Writer

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. — Having spent the past several months meeting President Joe Biden, raising millions of dollars for his charitable foundation and promoting the benefits of CPR training, Buffalo Bills safety Damar Hamlin can focus now on the next big objective in his life: returning to football.

Wearing a red woolen cap and a Bills blue pullover, Hamlin sat at the podium on Tuesday and said his heart — the one that stopped beating some four months ago during a game in Cincinnati — was, as he put it, "still in the game."

"This was a life-changing event, but it's not the end of my story," Hamlin said. "I plan on making a comeback to the NFL."

Addressing reporters for the first time since going into cardiac arrest and having to be resuscitated on the field, Hamlin reflected on the anxious moments he's endured, his inner drive to not let fear stand in his way and how he no longer takes a minute of his life for granted.

"The 'wow' moment is every day just being able to wake up and just take deep breaths and live a peaceful life, to have a family and people that are around me that love me," said Hamlin, who has been medically cleared to play and is taking part in the start of the Bills' voluntary workout program.

"They almost lost me. Like I died on national TV, you know what I mean?" he added. "So that right there is the biggest blessing of it all, for me to still have my people, and my people still have me."

General manager Brandon Beane announced earlier in the day that Hamlin was medically cleared to return to football after the 25-year-old met with a third and final specialist on Friday. All three agreed Hamlin could resume playing without any fear of setbacks or complications. While the Bills had their head athletic trainer sit in on those meetings, Beane said the team is following the lead of the specialists.

"He's such a great kid and has such a great family, and it's exciting to go from a guy who was fighting for his life to now," Beane said. "His story hasn't been written. Now it's about his comeback."

Hamlin said the specialists agreed his heart stopped as a result of commotio cordis, which is a direct blow at a specific point in a heartbeat that causes cardiac arrest.

His next steps will be no different from any other NFL player in his bid to secure a roster spot. Hamlin will return to the field when the team's voluntary spring practices begin next month, followed by mandatory practices in June and then training camp in late July.

His teammates were elated to see him back in the facility working out.

"D-Ham is a special person, a beautiful soul," fellow safety Micah Hyde said. "I look up to him, especially how he's bounced back after facing adversity. A little scary. But to see him well and in the building and move around a little bit, it gives you a little energy."

Hamlin's recovery is personal to many who watched in shock as Hamlin collapsed on the field on a nationally televised "Monday Night Football" game, but morose for Beane. While the Bills returned home after the game initially was suspended and eventually canceled, Beane spent the first four days at Hamlin's side, including when he was awakened from a medically induced coma at the University Cincinnati Medical Center.

"It was all about his health, and it's always going to be about his health," Beane said. "But to truly, you know, however many months later be talking about he's fully cleared is pretty remarkable. And I'm excited for him and his family for where they are on his journey."

Hamlin collapsed after making what appeared to be a routine tackle in the first quarter of a Jan. 2 game against the Bengals. His collapse led to an outpouring of support from around the NFL and across North America, with donations made to Hamlin's charitable organization topping more than $9 million.

The second-year player from Pittsburgh's exurb of McKeesport spent nearly 10 days recovering in hospitals in Cincinnati and Buffalo before being released. He eventually began visiting the Bills' facility and attended the team's season-ending 27-10 loss to the Bengals in the divisional round of the playoffs.

Hamlin recalled watching football on TV while lying in his hospital bed in Cincinnati when the thought of playing again first entered his mind.

"Just watching teams play, watching other safeties play, that's where I saw and felt my love for the game," he said. "That's where I was just like, 'I don't want to be done yet.'"

Hamlin said specialists advised him that returning to football could have mental health benefits, which include enjoying the camaraderie of being among teammates.

"I'm just taking it one day at a time. That's where I'm at in this process. Any time I try to think too forward, it gets cloudy," he said. "I've got a long journey to go, but I'm committed to it each day."

Hamlin has since made numerous appearances around the country, including meeting with Biden last month.

Biden posted a tweet on the visit that read: "Hamlin's courage, resilience, and spirit inspired the American people. And what's more: he turned recovery into action — and our country is better for it."

Tigers can't get enough run support in 2 games vs. Page

LEWISBURG — Bailin Luttrell did everything he could and then some on the mound, but just didn't get enough run-support on Monday night as the Marshall County Tigers fell to Page in a District 8-AAA matchup, 2-0.

Luttrell tossed a complete game gem, giving up just two runs on five hits, while striking out 10 batters.

The Patriots plated their first run of the game when Grant Snider ground out to first.

A second Patriot run scored on a one-out solo homer and after that one-out shot in the third, neither team pushed another run across the plate in the final four innings.

In total, Marshall County got just two hits—a first-inning single from Trey Warner and a Grayson Miller seventh inning double.

FRANKLIN — Marshall County grabbed an early lead but couldn't hold off a late rally against Page in Game 2 of the District 8-AAA series on Tuesday night.

The Patriots rallied for three runs in the fifth and sixth innings to take a 3-2 win over Marshall County.

Everything fell Marshall County's way, except the final score.

The Tigers out-hit their hosts, 6-4 and got a stellar outing from Grayson Miller on the mound.

Miller went the distance and gave up just three runs on four hits, only two of which were earned, while striking out four.

Things looked promising as Marshall County got on the board first in the top of the first inning when John Morgan Thomas doubled and then stole home.

After a 1-2-3 bottom half of the inning by Miller on the mound, the senior righty helped his own cause with a leadoff solo homer in the second inning.

That 2-0 Tiger lead held until Page connected on a two RBI single in the bottom of the fifth to tie the game and then eventually scored the game-winner in the sixth on a wild pitch.

Miller's solo homer was the biggest hit of the night for the Tigers, while Thomas also went 1-for-4 with a double.

The Tigers will be back in action on Thursday, facing Community at Coffee County at 4 p.m.

Carter Silverthon had quite the weekend, both in the field and on the court. A sixth-grader at Delk Henson, Silverthon plays both travel baseball and basketball.

On Sunday, he hit a grand slam in the Perfect Game Championship Tournament and after his team won their championship game, traveled to Franklin to play in two basketball games, where he hit a buzzer-beater three-pointer to win the championship with the Tennessee Marathon.

ning double— and other than that, Fayetteville didn't manage much at all in the way of offense.

Cornersville, on the other hand, brought out the bats early in the game and led off the first inning with back-to-back doubles from Anna Wood and Childress.

Childress scored Wood on her double, and then later scored on a Kate Lemon two RBI single.

Molly Wells then doubled, scoring Lemon for the 4-0 Lady Dawg lead after the first.

Cornersville added a fifth run in the third inning, but pulled away with a three-run fourth inning when Childress hit a sac-fly, scoring Zoe Blackwell.

Alica Polk scored on a bases-loaded walk and then Wood stole home for the final run.

Lemon went 2-for-2 with two RBIs to her credit, while Childress was 1-for-2 with two RBIs as well.
