Pittsburg Fire revives an old tradition

By Dustin R. Strong
Morning Sun Staff

PITTSBURG, Kan. — The Pittsburg Fire Department participated in an old tradition dating back to the days of horse-drawn fire engines on Friday. Known as a "push in ceremony," it recreates the task of returning fire wagons to the station. According to Fire Chief Dennis Reilly, "horses cannot walk backwards under a load, so firefighters had to manually push the apparatus back into the station."

The ceremony began with a prayer from Fire Chaplain Mark Chambers and a few brief remarks from Chief Reilly. Chaplain Chambers sprinkled the new truck with holy water and offered a prayer of protection for its crew. One firefighter then rinsed the tires, again acknowledging the history of the horse-drawn engines, symbolizing the task of washing off the dirt and grime — and manure — from the horses and the wagon wheels, keeping the inside of the station clean. Now all clean, shiny, and blessed, the truck was backed into its bay under its own power as city firefighters ceremoniously "pushed" it into the fire station. Once in place, Chief Reilly made the traditional radio call to dispatch, "Rescue Seven is now in service."

Although this is an old custom practiced by departments around the country, this is the first time Pittsburg Fire has actually performed the ceremony. Chief Reilly says that maintaining such traditions is important. "We are very proud of the traditions of our profession. To honor all those who came before us and to connect us and future generations to our past, we will do push in ceremonies for all new apparatus."

The new vehicle has no water, no pumps, and no hoses. Reilly says it is designed specifically for rescue operations. It is equipped to handle any kind of scenario, such as water rescues, industrial accidents, or car wrecks, with a load-out of hydraulic jacks and shoring equipment to stabilize overturned cars and weakened structures, various types of saws to cut through any kind of substance, demolition hammers, and ropes and high-angle equipment for aerial rescues. And there is still more equipment on order.

Rescue Seven also looks different than the rest of the department's trucks. It does not sport the usual white-over-red paint scheme, but instead, it is black-over-red. In the future, all PFD vehicles will sport this paint scheme. Reilly says this paint scheme is a reminder of fallen firefighters and of the current firefighters' oath "to risk our lives to protect the community."

Reilly said he is grateful to the citizens of Pittsburg for the new equipment. "We are here to serve the community and we take our responsibilities very seriously. We certainly appreciate the support we get from our citizens," he said. "Thank you very much."

Award-winning author discusses latest book on PSU campus

By Antjea Wolff

PITTSBURG, Kan. — As part of the Pittsburg State University English Department's Distinguished Visiting Writers Series, faculty, students, and community members welcomed award-winning author Whitney Terrell to campus on Thursday. In 2006 and 2010, Terrell embedded with the U.S. Army to write articles covering the war in Iraq for the Washington Post Magazine, Slate, and NPR. It was during this time he was struck with inspiration for his most recent book, The Good Lieutenant.

At an event at Pittsburg State University on Thursday, Author Whitney Terrell reads a scene from his novel "The Good Lieutenant" in which his protagonist, Emma Fowler, is dealing with her nemesis.

Two arrested following attempted carjacking, kidnapping, fleeing police

PITTSBURG, Kan. — Two Pittsburg men were arrested Thursday on multiple charges after allegedly attempting to carjack a 19-year-old man outside The Break pool hall and subsequently kidnapping him, and later fleeing from police.

At approximately 8:23 p.m. Thursday, Pittsburg police officers were dispatched to a residence on West 4th Street, just outside the city limits. A 19-year-old man reported that two men approached him outside of The Break, located at 607 N. Broadway, and asked for a ride. When he refused, one of the two allegedly exposed a handgun tucked in his waistband and demanded the keys to the victim's vehicle. When the victim refused to give up his keys, the two suspects allegedly forced him to get in the vehicle and told him to drive.

As the victim was driving westbound on West 4th Street, he intentionally drove into a ditch, according to the Pittsburg Police Department, and fled from the suspects on foot, running to a nearby house where he was able to call the police.

ABOUT TOWN
OLIVE L. SULLIVAN

PITTSBURG, Kan. — At 62, Nancey Konek is a powerhouse. She has just completed testing for her second-degree black belt in the Shito-ryu Genbu-kai karate style, and she's still going strong.

"We just got a guy turned 79; he started when he was 68, and he's a black belt," Konek said. The youngest students at the Japan Karate-Do Genbu-Kai dojo in Pittsburg is 6.

Konek herself started at age 40, after watching her son Kaleb Konek take classes starting when he was 6. Her other son, Kameron Konek, started about a year later.

"I got my black belt when I was 46," Nancey Konek said.

She said newcomers to the art worry about how they'll manage. "You're just afraid to do anything because you'll look stupid," she said. "Everybody looks stupid. It's okay to think you look stupid. We've all been there."

While watching Kaleb was her first inspiration, she had several reasons for starting her study of the Japanese martial art, not the least of which was to learn how to protect herself and those she loves. She also got stronger mentally as well as physically.

"I really loved it," she said. It's wonderful exercise. And you get to yell and kick and scream. How much fun is that?"

And, unexpectedly, she gained a family.

"That's another thing I love about this place," she said. "We're a big family. No matter who you are, we're there for you."

Looking around the dojo at 422 N. Broadway in Pittsburg, she says now, "This place is like my home. It is."

She explained, "By the time I was 25, my entire immediate family was dead." She and her brother, Dennis Wade, were raised by their grandparents after their parents divorced when Konek was 6 months old. Her mother was in and out of the picture until she died when Konek was 13. She never really had a relationship with her father, who died when she was 25. Her grandparents died when she was 17 and 18, and her brother died when she was 20.

"I didn't really have anybody," she said. The next several years were a struggle, to say the least. She had been studying operatic music at Pittsburg State University, but when her brother died, she said, she dropped out. "Life got too complicated," she said.

But music also helped save her. "I always sang," she said. "I wanted to be a professional singer since I could remember. I taught myself to read music when I was 3. We had a chord organ. The music was color-coordinated to the keys. It just clicked."

By third grade, she was soloing in front of her church congregation. Later, she played bass and sang in several local bands. She also worked with music as a radio DJ for KKOW and KQWK, the country station's rock cousin.

"That (KQWK) was my favorite job," she said. "It was the best, in my opinion, best rock station in the Four-State area."

After 20 years, though, she left radio and began working a series of manufacturing jobs. When one company closed down, she took the offered opportunity to continue her education by studying information technology at Wichita Technical Institute in Joplin, Missouri.

She has been working in IT ever since, currently with Leisure Time Products in Pittsburg. She travels all over the Midwest setting up and maintaining networks.

Employed, remarried, and mother of two, it looked like things were going right after all. But then Konek's son Kameron was killed in a fire at age 19. "Part of you dies with them," Konek said.

"Music helped me get over the sheer depression of it."

In addition to singing, she played some guitar, but she learned to play the bass as well, starting when she was 40, a fertile period of reinvention for her.

She explained, "By the time I turned 30, I knew I need to change. I was having bad panic attacks and I couldn't eat." Always thin, she dropped down to 86 pounds. "I had to do something or I was going to die. I got divorced, changed. Just changed my whole life."

Her children were born when she was 34 and 35. "They helped a lot," she said, by giving her something to live for. "I also went to counseling for a while. That helped."

And there was her karate family. She had dropped out of participating for several years, but recently came back to it.

"I'm in way better shape than I was two years ago," she said. At the same time, she added, "I am way slower at this than I used to be, but I still try to do everything."

She enjoys helping with classes and working with the younger students, but she does not teach. The dojo's founder and sensei (teacher) is James Otter, who is also a professor at Pittsburg State University. He and another PSU professor, Randy Buchanan, started the dojo at PSU, moving to the current location in the mid-'80s.

Konek has known Otter and his wife Cindy Otter for more than 20 years, but she still addresses the sensei as Mr. Otter. "If I go and compete somewhere, I want to be the best I can be because I'm Mr. Otter's student. I have that much respect for the man," she said.

"Karate is being nice and polite and respectful," she explained. "Respect. It's all about respect."

In the dojo, there are certain rules everyone must follow to demonstrate that respect. Students bow to their teacher, and they bow as they step onto and off of the training mats. They bow to each other before they begin sparring. "I bow to everyone," Konek said.

Showing respect was one of the easier things to learn, Konek said. Other aspects were harder, some much harder.

"I've never been an athlete," she said. "Trying to become an athlete was the hardest part. There were a lot of high school and college kids here, and I was 40. And now I'm 62 and it's actually harder. There's things in my body that don't want to work anymore."

She and Cindy Otter enjoy coming to the dojo outside of classes to spar with each other. "She's become my accountability buddy. I helped her do her black best test, and she helped me do my second by extra training."

Konek is waiting for results of her second-degree test.

"We have to go to the home dojo in Santa Ana, Calif., for the test," she said. "It's really fun."

It's also hard work. The test involves a series of repetitions of various katas, getting increasingly difficult as you go along. "The more I did it, the slower I got, but I did it, by God," she said. "I survived the test. It's a big sense of accomplishment."

For other ranks, students can test at the local dojo, but for black belt and above, it's a five-day trip to Santa Ana to work with Sensei Fumio Demura, who founded the Shito-Ryu style Konek practices.

"That's where he lives and trains," Konek said. "He's actually going to be here (Pittsburg) for our tournament. We're very excited."

The tournament she's talking about will be held in Pittsburg at the Colgan Field House. It will start on April 21 and run through April 24, including competitions, seminars, testing, and a banquet at which Konek hopes to be awarded her ni-don, or second degree black belt.

"We have to do everything in Japanese," she said. "All of our commands are in Japanese." Students also have to recite the dojo-kun at the end of each class, first in English and then in Japanese. The kun is the dojo's creed, words to live by sort of like the Boy Scout Promise, only, Konek says, "It's way cooler because we have to say it in Japanese."

vehicle until it became disabled in a field near the intersection of 130th Street and 575th Avenue in Crawford County. One of the suspects allegedly fled from the vehicle. Deputies deployed a drone and quickly located the suspect, according to police.

The apprehended suspects were identified as William Christopher Steig, 23, and Damian Alexander Capps, 25, both of Pittsburg. Both were arrested and transported to the Crawford County Jail, and booked on charges including aggravated robbery, kidnapping, felony theft, and interference with law enforcement. Steig was additionally booked on charges of fleeing and attempting to elude law enforcement and possession of stolen property. Both were being held Friday afternoon in lieu of $53,000 bond.

The investigation into this incident is ongoing, the Pittsburg Police Department noted in a press release. Anyone with information related to this incident, or other crimes, is urged to contact the PPD at 620-231-1700, or at the tip line, 620-231-TIPS (8477). Callers may remain anonymous.

AUTHOR

their way through a maze of IEDs on the outskirts of Baghdad. After their Humvee is hit, Fowler goes through memories of events that led her platoon to this moment.

"I didn't grow up around the military, and I wasn't in the military," Terrell said. "So learning to feel confident writing about what it is like to be in a weight room on Fort Riley, or to be rescuing someone from a demolished building in Iraq was like me starting from zero. I felt like there was a tremendous amount of culture learning that had to go on for me."

After leading a fiction writing workshop on PSU campus in the afternoon, Terrell read excerpts from The Good Lieutenant and talked about achieving a woman's perspective in a time of war.

"There haven't been many novels written from the point of view from female soldiers," he said. "In a good way, I was writing into new territory, but that also meant that there weren't a lot of models to work from. So I spent a lot of time interviewing and talking to women who had been in Iraq."

Terrell said he would ask the female soldiers to read chapters he wrote to make sure they felt real and accurate about their experiences. He said the women really wanted to tell their stories, and they were tired of seeing all the war movies following only the men.

"They are wanting narratives about their service and their experiences," Terrell said. "It's really hard to be a woman in the Army, and the cultures can be very abusive toward them."

He went on to explain how these women had to deal with daily misogynistic views and had to convince men to respect them.

"That requires great personal strength and I thought that was an interesting thing to write about," Terrell said.

"Literature is about covering new material. And so I thought this was a new way to write about war. But I also thought that if I was going to write an anti-war novel it would be easier to avoid the cliches of war writing by writing from female perspective. Because one of the worst cliches about war writing is that going to combat is a way of discovering your 'manhood.' But that phrase itself does not apply to Emma Fowler, my main character, and I also don't think that being in combat is a way of discovering your humanity; it's often a way of losing your humanity. So I wanted to avoid those tropes, and having her as a hero is one way to do that."

Terrell discussed the similarities between the Iraq war and what he was seeing in the news now.

"I find myself thinking about this experience and being a war reporter in Iraq, and all of those feelings are coming back now as I'm watching this war in Ukraine. One of the things that was difficult about Iraq was that there was not a clear rationale for the war on the American side. We said there were weapons of mass destruction, but there were not. And suddenly we're fighting in a war for which the president and even the soldiers on the ground can't clearly articulate why we must be dying. And those wars are the worst and most dangerous kind."

Terrell, who also teaches as an associate professor of English at the University of Missouri-Kansas City, talked about his positive experiences at PSU.

"I love coming to Pittsburg State," he said. "This is not the first time I've been here because there's such a strong creative writing tradition here, and this reading series has been a real staple for the creative writing community in Kansas and Missouri."

Terrell said he's had a lot of students who have obtained their MAs at PSU, and then attend UMKC to get their MFA.

"I feel like having dynamic, vibrant creative writing programs at a university is one of the most important things a university can have," he said. "And it's also really great for the town in which the university exists. The Pittsburg State University creative writing program directed by Laura Lee Washburn is a real asset to this university. The Pittsburg State University creative writing program is bringing writers into this town for people to have access to what they wouldn't normally have access to. And that's a real gift."

Washburn said that almost every person that attended Terrell's reading Thursday evening purchased one of his books.

"In bringing these writers in, we get to hear these diverse perspectives," Washburn said. "Here's an author who was embedded with troops. We are talking about this again in a new time of war. And we wouldn't have heard that if we didn't have a writer here tonight. So it doesn't just help our writing students, it's great for the community."

KARATE

At the tournament, Konek will be competing and judging, but she is most excited about getting to see Sensei Dumura again. The legendary master has been in several Hollywood films, including acting as stunt double for Pat Morita in the Karate Kid movies, and in at least one television series.

Shito-ryu is one of the major styles of Japanese karate, a blend of two older styles of Okinawan karate, according to the brochure for the Pittsburg dojo. From this style, Demura developed Shito-ryu Genbu-kai. The Pittsburg dojo has been a member of Demura's organization since 1977.

Konek said the invitational tournament will draw competitors from all over the world. "It's one of the bigger ones in the area," she said. "This place will be packed with people. A lot of places have been on lockdown and they haven't competed in a long time. They're excited about coming here."

The tournament also marks the 45th anniversary of the founding of the Pittsburg dojo.

Finding Faith during Easter

For many Christians, modern Easter celebrations would not be complete without bonnets, bunnies and colored eggs. As fun as those components can be, Christianity is at the heart of Easter, which is the most important date on the Christian religious calendar. Easter Sunday marks the culmination of events that shaped the beliefs and teachings of an entire faith.

Easter marks the Resurrection of Jesus Christ, which Christians believe occurred within days of his crucifixion and burial. The New Testament indicates that the Resurrection of Jesus is one of the chief tenets of the Christian faith and established Jesus as the Son of God. Easter is an example that God will righteously judge the world by sacrificing His son for the sins of others. And any person who chooses to follow Jesus receives everlasting life thanks to Christ's Resurrection.

Easter is linked to the Jewish celebration of Passover due to its proximity on the calendar and the fact that Jesus was Jewish. The Bible states that Jesus participated in the Passover meal during The Last Supper. At The Last Supper, Jesus identified the matzo (bread) and wine as his body and blood, soon to be sacrificed and shed. Christians believe The Last Supper marked the first transubstantiation, or the turning of bread and wine into the actual substance of Christ's body and blood. This also was the first celebration of the Eucharist and Holy Mass that would become another core component of the Christian faith.

Easter is a time of great celebration that is preceded by Lent, a weeklong period of reflection, prayer and repentance. The days immediately prior to Easter are commonly referred to as Holy Week. This encompasses Palm Sunday and lasts through Holy Thursday (the day of The Last Supper), Good Friday (when Jesus was crucified and placed in the tomb), and Holy Saturday (the 40-hour-long vigil that the followers of Jesus Christ held after his death and burial).

On Easter Sunday, four women, including Mary Magdalene, went to Christ's tomb to anoint his body with spices and oils. They found the tomb was empty and were met with an angel who told them that Jesus had been raised from the dead. A biblical account in John 20:14-16 indicates that Mary Magdalene was the first to speak with the risen Jesus. She mistakes Jesus for a gardener and says to him, "Sir, if you have carried him away, tell me where you have laid him, and I will take him away." Jesus said to her, "Mary!" She turned and said to him, "Rabboni!" In regard to his apostle,s Simon Peter was the first to see the risen Christ.

Easter is a time of joy and celebration, and a great opportunity for Christians to immerse themselves in their faith

LOOKING BACK

Another street car holdup was attempted last night at Frontenac Junction

FROM OUR HISTORY
PHIL BURGERT

Excerpted stories in Crawford County newspaper archives

100 Years Ago
March 26-28, 1922

Two persons are known to be dead and one probably fatally injured as the result of a freight train wreck occurring at 9:55 o'clock last night on the Kansas City Southern railroad seven and a half miles northeast of Pittsburg at the Dean Coal and Mining company switch in Curranville. The engineer and head brakeman were dead and the train's fireman badly injured after the engine derailed, steam and boiling water escaped and freight cars piled up two or three high.

Unusual presence of mind, combined with the feminine inclination to scream when frightened, thwarted an attempted hold-up at the Ira Clemens home, 405 West Euclid avenue, last night at 7:30 o'clock. Mrs. Clemens and her daughter, Mrs. Mary Mable Seymour, were alone in the house, with the Clemens maid, when a masked man entered, but they succeeded in running him off before he could gather valuables.

The county commissioners at their regular meeting in Girard decided to advertise for bids for the hard-surfacing of 26.116 miles of Federal aid road, which includes the road north from Frontenac to the county line and the Girard-Franklin road. The action came upon the insistent demand of 100 Pittsburg and Girard business men, representing some of the heaviest taxpayers in the county.

Another street car holdup was attempted last night, when Conductor W. E. Tate in charge of car No. 107, from Pittsburg to Girard was held up at Frontenac Junction at 9:25, by masked and armed men. Tate had stepped off the car to throw the switch when the men appeared with what appeared to be a Winchester rifle and ordered him to turn over the money. Tate informed them he had no money and the men beat a hasty retreat, taking with them nothing but a book of transfers.

Myron F. Miller, formerly a fire man at station No. 2, was arrested yesterday and arraigned before Justice T. W. Pomeroy on a charge of stealing a tire belonging to A. J. Myers of La Harpe, on last Dec. 17 in Pittsburg, from a car belonging to Mr. Myers.

50 Years Ago
March 26-28, 1972

The horizon around Fort Scott is a little clearer these days, since open burning of refuse was halted by the city dump and trash disposal operations shifted to a sanitary landfill three miles northeast of town. The old dump, an eyesore on the banks of the placid Marmaton River, was closed Dec. 31 after some gentle prodding by the Kansas State Board of Health, which cited the city for health violation.

The Board of Crawford County Commissioners held a short meeting yesterday morning, dispensing with routine items of business and then went to field to view property of persons who have submitted tax protest forms. The board is sitting as the county board of tax equalization for real estate from now to the last of April and for personal property from May 15 to May 30.

It's going to be a lot of fun for everybody. Certainly the children will enjoy it as will the parents and the Jaycees, but the Easter bunny is going to be completely tuckered from hiding 10,000 eggs. The event will be the traditional Easter egg hunt sponsored by the Pittsburg Jaycees. It will be at Schlanger Park for children up through the age of 12.

Mrs. Ruth Bloomcamp, speech and drama teacher at the Pittsburg Senior High School, has received the 1971-72 outstanding high school teacher award from the Kansas State Speech Teachers Association. Mrs. Bloomcamp began teaching in Pittsburg nine years ago. Student enrollment in forensics has increased from seven to 75 during this time, a record that exceeds that of any other Kansas teacher.

The first annual Southeast High School Faculty Invitational basketball tournament got underway last night. Girard defeated Erie 79-72, Weir measured Uniontown 86-81, Southeast nipped Galena 80-78 and Northeast decisioned Baxter Springs 75-70 in opening round games. Leading scorers included Ferraro, 39, Weir; Richard Brill, 37, Erie; and Bill Billard, 30, Northeast.

25 Years Ago
March 26-28, 1997

The party may not be over, but it could die down a bit, thanks to the final version of an ordinance passed by Pittsburg city commissioners. It makes it unlawful for anyone under 21 to enter or remain on any premises where cereal malt beverages or alcoholic liquor is dispensed or sold for consumption on those premises. The law does not apply to people under 21 who are with a parent or legal guardian.

Crawford Marina at Crawford State Park will be in operation for park goers this summer thanks to an arrangement between the Kansas Department of Wildlife and Parks and a local Friends of Lake Crawford group. The marina, which has been in bankruptcy, is expected to be purchased by the KDWP, which has been working with the First National Bank in Girard, which holds the lien.

Rep. Ed McKechnie isn't giving up on his idea of housing non-violent offenders in tent prisons, even though Gov. Bill Graves said he does not support such a concept. The governor has rejected the idea of placing some inmates in tent cities, and he sent a letter to that effect to the legislative committee taking up the issue. McKechnie (D-Pittsburg) said the governor has been "getting bad advice" on the issue.

Dennis Shouse, McCune, is the winner of a 1968 classic Corvette convertible given away during the "Blast from the Past" sponsored by the Mercy Regional Health Foundation, Joplin. The winner of the drawing could choose between the Corvette or $12,000 cash as the prize offered in the annual fundraiser. Shouse chose the car.

Pittsburg State's Jenni Miller, the second-most prolific 3-pointer shooter in college basketball history, took her long-distance shootout to a national stage finishing fourth at the women's 3-point championship at Market Square Arena in Indianapolis. The event was broadcast on ESPN. Miller was the only Division II player represented among the competitors.

In 1997, the bodies of 39 Heaven's Gate cult members who committed suicide were found

TODAY IN HISTORY
Associated Press

Today is Saturday, March 26, the 85th day of 2022. There are 280 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On March 26, 2010, the U.S. and Russia sealed the first major nuclear weapons treaty in nearly two decades, agreeing to slash the former Cold War rivals' warhead arsenals by nearly one-third.

On this date:

In 1812, an earthquake devastated Caracas, Venezuela, causing an estimated 26,000 deaths, according to the U.S. Geological Survey.

In 1827, composer Ludwig van Beethoven died in Vienna.

In 1945, during World War II, Iwo Jima was fully secured by U.S. forces following a final, desperate attack by Japanese soldiers.

In 1962, the U.S. Supreme Court, in Baker v. Carr, gave federal courts the power to order reapportionment of states' legislative districts.

In 1973, the soap opera "The Young and the Restless" premiered on CBS-TV.

In 1979, a peace treaty was signed by Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin (men-AH'-kem BAY'-gihn) and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and witnessed by President Jimmy Carter at the White House.

In 1982, groundbreaking ceremonies took place in Washington, D.C., for the Vietnam Veterans Memorial.

In 1988, Jesse Jackson stunned fellow Democrats by soundly defeating Michael S. Dukakis in Michigan's Democratic presidential caucuses.

In 1992, a judge in Indianapolis sentenced former heavyweight boxing champion Mike Tyson to six years in prison for raping a Miss Black America contestant. (Tyson ended up serving three years.)

In 1997, the bodies of 39 members of the Heaven's Gate techno-religious cult who committed suicide were found inside a rented mansion in Rancho Santa Fe, California.

In 2014, Osama bin Laden's son-in-law, Sulaiman Abu Ghaith (SOO'-lay-mahn AH'-boo gayth), was convicted in New York for his role as al-Qaida's fiery chief spokesman after 9/11. (He was later sentenced to life in prison.)

In 2020, the U.S. surpassed official Chinese government numbers to become the country with the most reported coronavirus infections.

Ten years ago: As demonstrations swirled outside, Supreme Court justices began hearing arguments on challenges to President Barack Obama's historic health care overhaul. (In June 2012, the court would uphold almost all of the law, including the most disputed part: the mandate that virtually all Americans have health insurance or pay a penalty.) Pope Benedict XVI arrived in Cuba in the footsteps of his immediate predecessor, Pope John Paul II, expressing great affection for Cubans on both sides of the Florida Straits and heartfelt hopes for reconciliation.

Five years ago: President Donald Trump took to Twitter to attack conservative lawmakers for the failure of the Republican bill to replace former President Barack Obama's health care law.

One year ago: Dominion Voting Systems filed a $1.6 billion defamation lawsuit against Fox News, saying the cable news giant falsely claimed that the voting company rigged the 2020 election. Maj. Gen. William Walker, commanding general of the District of Columbia National Guard, was tapped to become the House's first African American sergeant-at-arms. Tennessee Gov. Bill Lee signed a law banning transgender athletes from participating in girls' sports, making Tennessee the third state to approve such a measure in 2021.

Today's Birthdays: Retired Supreme Court Justice Sandra Day O'Connor is 92. Actor Alan Arkin is 88. Palestinian President Mahmoud Abbas is 87. House Speaker Nancy Pelosi is 82. If this isn't nice, what is?

TRUE STORIES
J.T. KNOLL

I was walking with the Labradorian past Westside Elementary around 7 a.m. on Tuesday morning when I saw a young woman park, open the rear passenger door, and gather up a large bag. Obviously, a teacher.

We stopped and waited until she came around to the curb and I called out, "Thank you for being a teacher."

"Oh … you're welcome," she beamed. "I just love it!"

This caused me to reflect on a Kurt Vonnegut story about his uncle Alex whose principal complaint about other human beings was that they so seldom noticed it when they were happy. Alex would blurt out in the middle of family gatherings, 'If this isn't nice, what is?'"

When I paused and said to Arlo, "If this isn't nice, what is?" he gave me a Labrador look that said, "I already knew that," and began to tug at his leash as if to say, "Come on. Let's go now. Let's be off in search of more of it. Of adventure and exploration and happiness … especially if it includes finding something remotely edible."

The whole experience was especially uplifting given the grimness I've been feeling about the plight of the people in Ukraine and Russia … and my unease about talk of nuclear annihilation.

I went on to think about The Wizard of Oz, written by socialist L. Frank Baum, and his description of the land of Oz where each person gave and received from his neighbors freely whatever they desired. And everyone worked half the time and played half the time. And people enjoyed the work as much as they did the play because it was good to have something to do.

Being retired is a little like that. I play half the time and write or do chores about half (with horizontal reading and a nap in between). And much like the people of Oz, here in our neighborhood on Euclid's curve, we give and receive freely everything from wheelbarrows and ladders to daffodils and farm fresh eggs.

On Tuesday afternoon the weather turned miserable — cold and drizzly. But I refused to let the elements control my mood, singing a song from the Wizard of Oz musical to Arlo as the wipers kept time, "Ha - ha - ha, Ho - ho - ho - And a couple of tra - la – las. That's how we laugh the day away, in the merry old land of Oz!"

As for the Wizard of Oz tale itself, I've long seen it as an allegory. A parable according to Baum. Not the political one put forth by some through a populist lens, but one dealing with the general human condition.

Here's my take on it: Like Dorothy, we all get lost (from our true self, our identity, our purpose in life, etc.) from time to time and look around for someone to help us find our way.

In times like these, we can easily come to feel we have little or no brain (like the Scarecrow), heart (like the Tin Man), or courage (like the Lion), as we grope around for someone (a Wizard) to help us.

When we finally find the Wizard (elder, priest, minister, counselor, etc.) he/she does not wave a wand and make our troubles go away and give us all the answers. Quite the opposite, the Wizard asks us to bring him the Witch's broomstick (face some real, painful, scary facts in our life and make some changes).

In the process of doing this we discover that we already had a heart, brains, and courage … but we needed to take responsibility, face our adversity, and problem solve to bring them into play — and get home (back to our old self … or on to our new self).

Of course, there's no way to know if this is what Baum had in mind when he wrote the story, but it could be that, on a subconscious level at least, it's got something to do with its enduring worldwide popularity.

Anyway, I'm guessing Vonnegut's Uncle Alex liked the tale, if for no other reason than the residents of Oz noticed it when they were happy.

Protecting Biden is a full-time job for the Times

ANN COULTER

SYNDICATED COLUMNIST

This is an odd line to read in The New York Times:

In "a still-emerging story" (exciting, no?), Project Veritas "worked to expose personal information about the Biden family at a crucial stage of the 2020 campaign."

Isn't that what journalists are supposed to do?

Just kidding! As we saw with Hunter Biden's laptop, the job of journalists is to suppress negative information about Democrats. Instead of reporting news "without fear or favor" — Times founder Adolph S. Ochs, 1896 — the U.S. media now function as the Praetorian Guard for the Democratic Party.

Still, you'd think the Times would be embarrassed to attack others for doing the reporting they won't do.

The story was about how Project Veritas got its hands on the diary of the president's daughter, Ashley Biden. (She's the good child by virtue of being less of a drug fiend than Hunter.) It was titled: "Ashley Biden's Diary Was Shown at Trump Fund-Raiser. Weeks Later, Project Veritas Called Her."

The Times no longer reports news about the president: It berates other journalists for reporting news about the president.

Thus, the Times breathlessly reveals:

— "The diary's highly personal contents, if publicly disclosed, could prove an embarrassment or a distraction to her father at a critical moment in the campaign."

THAT'S NOT JOURNALISM! THAT'S HURTING A DEMOCRAT! IT'S LIKE ANTI-JOURNALISM.

— "[The Project Veritas] caller was seeking to trick Ms. Biden into confirming the authenticity of the diary ..."

So? Has the Times heard of Woodward and Bernstein? "60 Minutes"? Journalism?

— "The caller did not identify himself as being affiliated with Project Veritas, according to accounts from two people with knowledge of the conversation."

I like the "according to accounts from two people ..." — as if the Times is describing something really sinister, as opposed to what it was: Project Veritas trying to get Ashley Biden to tell the truth to a stranger.

The greatest journalists ever to walk the Earth (so I hear), Carl Bernstein and Bob Woodward, repeatedly hid their identities from sources, as described in their book, "All the President's Men." Bernstein even called Nixon's chief "Plumber," Gordon Liddy, pretending to be dirty trickster Don Segretti. They also used insiders at phone and credit card companies to obtain private phone and travel records. Woodward approached grand jurors to try to get them to break the law by revealing evidence they'd heard.

PULITZER PRIZE!

The New York Times Book Review: "two young reporters left by default to play the hero."

To round out its indignation, the Times provided this bad-ass quote from the federal prosecutors investigating Project Veritas — oh yes, I forgot to mention: Federal prosecutors are investigating Project Veritas — "[T]here is no First Amendment protection for the theft and interstate transport of stolen property."

Project Veritas didn't steal anything. Maybe nobody did. Ashley left her diary behind in a house she'd been renting while in rehab, and a Trump supporter found it. That person later brought it to a Republican fundraiser, then offered to sell it to Project Veritas.

But let's say the girl who found the diary in Ashley's rental "stole" the diary. Has the Times ever published anything obtained illegally?

QUIZ: What is the most important event in world history?

Answer: The Pentagon Papers!

What was the name of that case, anyway?

NEW YORK TIMES v. UNITED STATES.

The hero of the Pentagon Papers, according to innumerable books, movies, TV specials, documentaries, poems and folk songs, was Daniel Ellsberg because he stole a highly classified government study of the Vietnam War and gave it to the media.

No skin off my back: The study revealed the mendacity of Democratic presidents John F. Kennedy and (especially) Lyndon B. Johnson in lying to the American public while escalating the war in Vietnam. In fact, I wish all you Ukraine hawks would read the Pentagon Papers right now. Lots of parallels.

But after hearing for my entire life Homeric epics to the Times for publishing the Pentagon Papers, it's a little odd to have the protagonists of that story bashing a journalist merely for attempting to authenticate a document that may have been stolen by someone else.

That was about lying at the highest level of government! How can you compare Vietnam to the idle ramblings of a reformed drug addict daughter of the president?

Personally, I think Ashley's diary is far more interesting, especially her showers with dad that she says were "probably not appropriate." The Pentagon Papers drag a bit.

Anybody remember when a mundane political conversation among Republicans was illegally recorded, passed to a Democrat, and then printed in the Times?

Back in the '90s, when House Speaker Newt Gingrich was the media's most loathed biped, a completely random Florida couple (Democratic activists) recorded a private phone call between the then-speaker and his leadership team. The Republicans were discussing what they were and weren't allowed to say about Gingrich's impending settlement with the House Ethics Committee.

Asleep yet? Wait until you hear the charges.

In the words of the Times — which wasn't trying to make the charges against Newt sound boring — he stood accused of "giving untrue information to the Ethics Committee [and of] failing to get proper legal advice about the way he used money from tax-exempt foundations for a college course and televised town meetings with political overtones."

A college course with "political overtones"??? THE DEPRAVITY OF THE MAN!

But the point is: A perfectly appropriate conversation about the settlement of a nonsense ethics charge was recorded in flagrant violation of the federal wiretapping statute by Democratic activists.

The Florida couple, Alice and John Martin, just happened to be driving around, using a police scanner to capture private telephone calls near where Rep. John Boehner, chairman of the Republican Conference, on vacation in Florida, also just happened to be driving, while having one of those private telephone calls with other top House Republicans.

Oh my gosh! I think that's Newt's voice! Quick, get out the recording equipment, Alice! Yes, it's illegal, but let's do it for "history"!

Alice, who apparently had never heard of "television" or "radio," but had a high-tech scanner and recording equipment in her car, later explained: "I was so excited to think I had actually heard a real politician's voice."

That was another fantastic stroke of luck: The Martins happened to have a tape recorder in their car. They also happened to be flying to Washington, D.C., a few days later, where they personally handed the tape to Gingrich's main antagonist, Rep. Jim McDermott. He made copies of the illegally obtained tape recording and gave them to the press.

Guess who published excerpts of the illicit recording? Yes! The New York Times!

There were no early morning FBI raids on the Times, the editors thrown in handcuffs, and their phones and computers confiscated -- all of which has happened to Project Veritas' James O'Keefe and his investigators. Nor did the Times seem troubled in the least by the blatantly illegal methods the Democratic activists had used to obtain the tape.

One year later, the Martins each were fined $500, and that was the end of it.

Liberals seem to have no concern that the GOP will ever discover the phrase "turnabout is fair play."

From where I sit, I'm sorry to say, they may be right.

Selfish bride wonders if she's being selfish

DEAR ABBY
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am being married to the love of my life. Aside from my soon-to-be husband, the most important participant in our wedding will be my 70-year-old father, whom I adore. Dad has been dating a woman, "Mary," on and off since my parents' divorce 25 years ago. Mary has always had health issues (lupus, kidney disease, alcoholism, etc.), so she rarely attends family functions. Dad is in excellent health, enjoys the outdoors and is very involved in his children's and grandchildren's lives. Recently, Dad has been spending the majority of his time taking care of sickly Mary, including spending six weeks in a distant city while she underwent surgery and recovery. My siblings and I feel Dad deserves someone who can enjoy life and participate in similar activities, but we acknowledge this is the person he has chosen to be with. Mary will be attending my wedding as my father's guest. If she's feeling ill, tired, or too weak to withstand the festivities, I am terrified Dad will make an early exit to take her back to the hotel. I would be devastated if he missed out on celebrating the most important day of my life. I also do not want her in the wedding photos, which is a whole other issue. Am I being a selfish Bridezilla, or should I voice my concerns to my father prior to the big day? — APPREHENSIVE DADDY'S GIRL

DEAR DADDY'S GIRL: Have you not learned by now that you cannot control what another person does? I'm sure your father would love to spend every moment of your special day with you, but there are other priorities to consider. Mary, whose health is poor, is making every effort to be there to honor you. If it becomes too much for her, what would you have your father do — call 911 and let the paramedics haul her off? In the interest of family harmony, PLEASE grow up and stop obsessing because, to say the least, it is unbecoming. As to the wedding photos, if you don't want her in the pictures, pose her on the END, so you can crop her out of them if you wish.

DEAR ABBY: I have a question about office etiquette. My job requires that I meet with many vendors and salespeople, as well as hold informal meetings with other staff and upper management in my office. My question: When welcoming people into "my space," should I wait for them to be seated or, as this is my home turf, can I just go ahead and sit and then wait for them to get comfortable? I have attempted to gauge my actions on other staff, but it hasn't helped, as each seems to have their own agenda. Until now I have played it by ear, but a definitive answer would be appreciated. — TRYING TO SET A GOOD EXAMPLE

DEAR TRYING: If I am escorting people into my office, we usually seat ourselves at the same time. If you are with a client, say "Please, have a seat," and wait for that person to get comfortable. When you're with co-workers, it isn't necessary to stand — or sit — on ceremony.

Policing as it was in the '70s — Part 2: Equipment

By Ken Peak
news@morningsun.net

There seems to be a high level of interest (and memory) when it comes to the old-time Pittsburg Police Department (PPD), so hopefully readers will appreciate a broader view of policing as it existed 50 years ago. Therefore, I decided to write about this topic in several installments, each with a different focus.

Part 2: Equipment

Obviously, police methods and investigative tools of a half century ago pale in comparison to today's vast array of computers, forensic techniques, and even 911; fingerprints had to be manually examined and classified. PPD, like most PDs in the U.S, (the majority of which had fewer than 10 officers), did not have police- package patrol vehicles; some of you will remember the unmarked (red lights only) pastel-colored Plymouth Fury vehicles we drove (bought from/serviced by Dick Butler motors) that were operated virtually 24/7; we got a new fleet each year, but due to their wear and tear they were frequently taken out of service for repairs, and had to be taken out to the bypass often to "blow out the cobs (carbs)."

Information concerning wanted people, stolen vehicles, and anything else that was identifiable was requested and received via our teletype machine (which was also out of service often for maintenance); certain kinds of requests had to be made via radio through Joplin PD. And, although the early 1970s was one of the most dangerous and lethal decades for police officers (discussed later in Part V, Patrol), Kevlar body armor was as yet unknown to the PPD (the vest's first field trial was not until 1975; Smith & Wesson rolled out a "Barrier Vest" in the late '60s, but it was very heavy and hot). We carried six-shot revolvers (usually a .38 or .357), a baton, mace, and an in-car shotgun (all of which were very seldom removed from their holster or case by officers; our best tool after dark on evenings or graveyard shift, for checking buildings and traffic stops, was the patrol car's spotlight.

The next installment of this series will be published in next Saturday's edition of the Morning Sun.

Chiefs Kingdom: Hill had to go

The Kansas City Royals and St. Louis Cardinals met in 1985 in the I-70 World Series.

Everyone remembers the play in Game 6 that likely prevented the Cardinals from winning the Series, but I digress. And I am happy to say that I am almost over the play, although it's only been 37 years.

Back in the day there was a Governor's Cup on the line when the Kansas City Chiefs and St. Louis Cardinals played in a preseason or regular season NFL game. That, of course, ended when owner Bill Bidwill and the Football Cardinals left town in 1968 for Tempe, Ariz.

Now the two largest cities in Missouri have something else to share -- the pain of watching a popular sports superstar leave town.

Chiefs wide receiver Tyreek Hill -- aka The Cheetah -- was traded to the Miami Dolphins for five draft picks, including the first-, second-round selections in next month's NFL Draft.

The news caught everyone off guard, first of all because of the fact that it was real and secondly because how quickly it happened.

Why did it happen? It came down to money.

Hill and the Chiefs were discussing a new contract, and Hill wanted to be the NFL's highest paid receiver. Because of salary cap limitations, the Chiefs couldn't pay Hill the money he wanted and remain a Super Bowl contender.

When contract discussion stalled, the Chiefs gave Hill's agent Drew Rosenhaus permission to seek a trade.

Rosenhaus spoke with the Dolphins and New York Jets, and only a couple of hours after it was released that Hill's camp could seek a trade, Hill chose the Dolphins.

The Dolphins made Hill the NFL's richest receiver -- an extension of four years for $120 million, including $72.2 million in guarantees.

Fans in Chiefs Kingdom who are struggling with this trade can text people in Cardinal Nation for advice. After all, they went through a similar situation 10 years ago.

Cardinals first baseman and sure-bet, first-ballot Hall of Famer Albert Pujols was one of the most popular players to ever play for the franchise. His offensive numbers in his 11 seasons in St. Louis rank among the best in MLB history.

But after the 2011 season, it was time to talk contract, and the Cardinals simply would not give the 32-year-old Pujols as much money as he wanted. Had the Cardinals caved into Pujols' demands, they would have not had the money to re-sign other players on the team and fill vacancies on the roster. Also, the Cardinals certainly didn't want to pay $30 million in the sixth year of the 10-year-contract to a 38-year-old Pujols who was past his prime.

The Los Angeles Angels came through for Pujols in a big way, signing him to a 10-year, $240 million contract. How did that work out?

Pujols, who was paid $111 million for his 11 seasons in St. Louis, batted over .300 every year for the Cardinals except his final year when he hit .299. Moving to the Angels and the American League where he could also be the designated hitter, Pujols hit .285 in his first season and was over .250 three more times in the first five years. But since 2016, Pujols never hit higher than .245, and he was released last year and picked up by the Dodgers.

Trojans roll past Fort Scott 14-3

By Aaron Pyle
Morning Sun Staff

GIRARD, Kan. — Following a 15-0 run-rule victory over Labette County on Tuesday, Girard returned to Red Wutke Park on Friday for a nonconference match against Fort Scott.

The Trojans once again run-ruled their opponent, defeating Fort Scott 14-3 courtesy of 12 unearned runs through the first three innings and eight strikeouts from Lexy Robinson.

"I'm really excited about them," Girard coach Jim Vinze said. "Last year it was an average hitting team and right now, we're a team that's putting the ball in play really hard. We had several girls work over the wintertime and I think that's really helped a bunch."

Vinze noted that the team still needs to improve despite the dominant victory.

"I tell them game after game, I said 'be happy with the win, but never be satisfied,' '' he said. "You always have to get better. I don't care what you do. I just tell them to that there's somebody better than you, so you always have to strive to be better."

Erin Anderson highlighted the Trojans' offensive outburst, finishing 3-for-4 with two doubles, a single and a run batted in. Bailey Troike closed the night 2-for-3 with a double, single and two RBI.

Robinson pitched the entire five innings, finishing with three hits allowed, one walk and a no-hitter through three innings. Through the first two games of the season, Robinson has registered 17 strikeouts.

The Trojans piled on the runs in the bottom of the opening inning when Troike sent a shot to right-center for a double, bringing in Sara Goble and Anderson.

Girard put on three more runs to close the inning as Hanna Bailey tripled on a line drive to left field, which sent in Robinson, Troike and Rylee Brooks. Anderson batted once more in the first, bringing in Bailey from third to go ahead 7-0.

Girard scored four runs in the second, including three on a wild pitch and passed ball.

Girard added one more run before Fort Scott scored in the fourth. Jayden Loechner and Allie Brown began the inning with a walk and single. Lanie Krokroskia then hit a home run over the left-center fence to cut the lead to nine.

However, Brooks sealed the game in the fifth by doubling up the middle, sending Troike and Burtchin home to force the run rule.

The Trojans take a break before traveling to Pittsburg to battle the St. Mary's Colgan Panthers at 4:30 p.m. on April 4.

McGowan's six RBI lead Gorillas in series opener

By Jim Henry
Sports Editor

Garrett McGowan swings one of the hardest-hitting bats in the Pittsburg State lineup, but that wasn't the case on Friday night.

McGowan had just one solid hit, but he collected four hits and drove in six runs as the Gorillas decked Fort Hays State 14-1 in seven innings on Friday night at Al Ortolani Field.

McGowan, 6-foot-4, 215-pound senior first baseman, used softly hit but well-placed baseballs to drive in a run in his first three at-bats -- a single that rolled about 70 feet from home plate to the left of the pitcher's mound in the first inning, a single to right in the second and groundout to first in the third.

He ripped a two-run single to center during the Gorillas' seven-run fifth inning, and he dropped a single in shallow center in the sixth.

"They weren't my hardest hit balls, but they fell in the right places," McGowan said. "I just happened to get some RBI.

"They (teammates) gave me some crap, but six RBI, I'll take it."

"He usually hits the ball hard all over the place," Gorillas coach Bob Fornelli said. "But he did what he needed to do, got a bunch of RBI because he put a baseball in play and had a good day."

The Gorillas provided more than enough offense for left-hander Tanner Lane (3-1), who allowed two hits, walked one and struck out six in five innings.

Lane struggled in the first inning, giving up a double to right, a walk and a wild pitch before Ed Scott. But Lane retired 14 of the last 15 batters he faced and ended his work by striking out the side in the fifth.

"I didn't really have my best stuff that first inning," Lane said. "I struggled kind of adjusting to our mound after being on the road last weekend, but that's no excuse. I've been around here a while, so I really should know it.

"After that, I dialed it back in and gave us a chance to win. I changed my stride a little bit and tried attacking hitters early with fast balls. With the wind blowing in today, you could just let the ball fly and trust my defense to work for me."

"He did good," Fornelli said. "It's an opportunity for him ... the last two weeks he's struggled in the first inning. We have to get over the hump, but he'll be better next time."

The Gorillas took the lead with three runs in the first. After Kaden Fowler's leadoff double just inside the right-field line, singles by McGowan, Jordan Maxson and Korrey Siracusa each scored a run.

The Gorillas' first nine batters reached base in their fifth-inning spree, ignited by Conner Van Cleave's leadoff blast over the center field fence, his fourth homer of the season.

The Gorillas' next four batters reached base without the ball leaving the infield -- an error, two walks and a hit batsman. Two runs scored on a wild pitch as Siracusa hustled home from second base, and Fowler singled home a run.

Mason Hartman also went 4-for-5 for the Gorillas, and Fowler contributed three hits to a 15-hit attack.

Gorillas third baseman Cade Clemons turned in the defensive gem of the game.

With a runner on first base and one out in the sixth, Clemons moved to his left to snag Brady Kreutzer's grounder down the line. From his knees, Clemons fired to second baseman Mason Hartman for one out, and Hartman's throw to first baseman McGowan completed the inning-ending double play.

"He's one of our best athletes," Fornelli said. "Believe it or not, he just got done being sick. He lost about 15 pounds, so he's not really at full strength.

"But he's a guy who will more than likely play shortstop for us next year and has done a good job. He's a pup and he's going to be a really good player."

The Gorillas and Tigers play the second game of their three-game series at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Martin scores 23; top-seeded Kansas beats Providence 66-61

By ANDREW SELIGMAN
AP Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Remy Martin scored a season-high 23 points and Kansas did its part as the only No. 1 seed left in the NCAA Tournament, holding Providence to 17 first-half points and hanging on for a 66-61 victory on Friday night to reach the Elite Eight.

The Jayhawks (31-6) made it farther than fellow No. 1 seeds Gonzaga and Arizona, both ousted in the Sweet 16, and Baylor, whose title defense ended in the second round. They will face either Miami or Iowa State in the Midwest Region final on Sunday.

Jalen Wilson added 16 points and 11 rebounds for the Jayhawks, who are back in a regional final for the first time since 2018, when they reached their 15th Final Four. Coach Bill Self is seeking his fourth trip there since he arrived in 2003.

Kansas also moved ahead of Kentucky for most wins in Division I history with 2,354.

The Jayhawks led by 13 points early in the second half, let it slip away, and then regrouped. Fourth-seeded Providence (27-6) took a short-lived one-point lead, but Kansas responded by scoring seven straight.

Big 12 Player of the Year Ochai Agbaji scored a season-low five points. But with Martin and Wilson leading the way, the Jayhawks won their eighth straight since a 74-64 loss at TCU on March 1.

Panthers seek third consecutive softball state title

By Dashuan Vereen
Morning Sun Staff

The defending back-to-back state champion St. Mary's Colgan softball team enters the season with the opportunity to capture its third championship in as many years.

"The biggest goal on everyone's mind is a return trip to the state championship," said Panthers coach Annie Dellasega. "We would love to have a very good regular season and finish at the top of our league."

Colgan topped Burlingame 6-0 in Pratt for the Class 2A title last season. The Panthers defended their championship from 2019 after the 2020 season was canceled by the Coronavirus pandemic.

The team can lean on that championship experience as it starts the 2022 campaign.

"We have four returning seniors this year, and the confidence that winning gives to you carries over into everything," Dellasega said. "The experience that we gained prepared us really well, and our seniors are doing a good job of preparing the underclassman in what a winning mentality looks like."

Before the Panthers can make a potential return to the state tournament, they first have to get through a loaded CNC league.

"The CNC is always very competitive," Dellasega said. "There is not one team that we play against that we can slack off on and have a bad game. Usually by the time we get to the postseason, we've seen pretty much everything we need to prepare us for that top-of-the-line competition. We're really happy to be in the Southeast Kansas area with such great softball competition around us."

The Panthers return multiple key pieces from their 2021 championship run.

"Lauren Yaghmour, Gabi Radell, Emily Imhof and Grace Orender are our returning seniors, and we hope to see all of them play a strong leadership role on our team," said Dellasega.

Pitchers Eleanor Rieck and Ava Wilson are set to lead the Colgan pitching staff.

"They have been playing ball their whole life, and I expect them to be a good 1-2 punch for us," said Dellasega.

Rogers State sweeps PSU softball

Staff Reports

CLAREMORE, Okla. -- In two tightly contested games, Pittsburg State softball was swept by No. 4-ranked Rogers State 3-2 in eight innings and 4-3 on Friday in MIAA action.

Pittsburg State (21-10) continues its road trip with a doubleheader against Northeastern State on Saturday at 1 p.m.

ROGERS STATE 3, PSU 2

Chelsea Spain's two-out, walk-off RBI double in the eighth inning scored Rebecca Bell for Rogers State (24-2).

Andrea Morales (14-1) pitched a complete game for Rogers State, striking out eight while allowing only four hits and two runs to earn the win.

Pittsburg State starting pitcher Abby Atkin allowed three hits and two runs in 4 2/3 innings, with Madison Morris and Taylor Compton entering the game in relief. Compton was charged with the loss after pitching two innings.

The Gorillas held the lead twice, the first coming courtesy of Taylor Lambert's RBI double in the third.

After Rogers State knotted the score at 1-1 in the fourth, Pitt State's Kianna Pellegrino responded with a home run in the top of the fifth to return the lead to the Gorillas.

The Hillcats tied the score in the bottom of the fifth.

ROGERS STATE 4, PSU 3

Rogers State plated three runs in the second inning to help propel the Hillcats in the nightcap.

Callie Yellin's two-run double sparked the Hillcats to a 3-1 lead in the second. Pitt State took a 1-0 lead after Josi Solano scored on a throwing error following a Keelah Griffith single.

Griffith cut the lead to 3-2 in the third, hitting an RBI single that brought home Lambert.

After the Hillcats added another run in the fourth, Kaydence Skiles once again cut the deficit to one with an RBI single in the sixth.

Rogers State starting pitcher M'Kayla Hillman (7-1) pitched the complete game, allowing seven hits and two earned runs with two strikeouts. Hannah Harrison (11-3) was credited with the loss.

Saint Peter's 1st 15 seed in Elite Eight, tops Purdue 67-64

By DAN GELSTON
AP Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Daryl Banks III scored the tying and go-ahead baskets that pushed 15th-seeded Saint Peter's to the brink of the Final Four, the tiny Peacocks thriving off a home-court edge to beat third-seeded Purdue 67-64 on Friday night.

The Peacocks (22-11) became the first 15 seed to reach the Elite Eight, adding the Boilermakers to their NCAA Tournament string of upsets, and will face either UCLA or North Carolina in the East Region final on Sunday.

Saint Peter's had the fans inside the packed Wells Fargo Center on its side from the opening tip and the arena erupted when Banks tied the game 57-all on a turnaround jumper. He hit a driving layup with 2:17 left that made it 59-57.

The Peacocks kept their composure -- hey, they're used to these wins by now after knocking off No. 2 seed Kentucky and Murray State -- and held off a Purdue team that gamely tried to bully them inside.

"What they going to say now?" coach Shaheen Holloway said about his team's doubters, a group whose numbers are dwindling.

Saint Peter's Doug Edert (25), Hassan Drame (14) and Matthew Lee (15) celebrate after Saint Peter's won a college basketball game against Purdue in the Sweet 16 round of the NCAA tournament, Friday, March 25, 2022, in Philadelphia. AP PHOTO/CHRIS SZAGOLA

The Boilermakers (29-8), 12 1/2-point favorites according to FanDuel Sportsbook, never led by more than six.

Almost 30 years to the day that Duke's Christian Laettner's overtime buzzer-beater stunned Kentucky to win a regional final at the since-razed Spectrum, Purdue and Saint Peter's pulled off their own Philly classic.

Saint Peter's fans made the 93-mile ride south to help pack the arena and give the Peacocks more of an edge than they usually have at their bandbox known as Run Baby Run Arena. Consider, just 434 fans were listed as the total attendance for Saint Peter's home opener this season against LIU.

More than that turned out to give the team a Sweet 16 sendoff from campus this week.

Even more basketball fans — yes, even those whose brackets the Peacocks help bust — were suddenly rooting for the tiny commuter college in Jersey City, New Jersey, just across the Hudson River from Lower Manhattan.

Jaden Ivey buried an NBA-distance 3 with 8 seconds left that pulled Purdue within 65-64 and momentarily shushed the crowd.

No worries. Doug Edert, whose wispy mustache and goofy persona earned him a fast-food chicken endorsement deal, sank two free throws to seal the win.

The Peacocks hopped the press table and saluted fans in the first few rows. They mobbed each other and hugged and starting waving down fans and friends before they gathered at the basket to celebrate — one more time — the biggest win in program history.

The Peacocks dropped and made snowmen on the court and soon there was a huge celebration of fans jamming the concourse chanting "S-P-U! S-P-U!"

Meanwhile, a Final Four berth remains elusive for Boilermakers coach Matt Painter and his perennial Big Ten contender.

Banks led the Peacocks with 14 points, Clarence Rupert scored 11 and Edert had 10. Trevion Williams had 16 points and eight rebounds for Purdue.

Before the game, Saint Peter's players lay on their backs at halfcourt as they did their stretching routine, most looking up at the big screen that replayed highlights from last weekend's wins that got the team to Philadelphia.

By now, the Peacocks' run is etched as the story of the tournament. Saint Peter's started with a stunner when it knocked off No. 2 seed Kentucky and coach John Calipari. It then advanced to the Sweet 16 with a win over seventh-seeded Murray State.

The Peacocks lived by Holloway's mantra: "I got guys from New Jersey and New York City. You think we're scared of anything?"

They certainly weren't scared of the Boilermakers.

Purdue used its massive size advantage and dumped the ball inside to 7-foot-4 Zach Edey for easy dunks and Sasha Stefanovic hit three 3s to offset nine turnovers.

When Holloway talked about his players as New York and New Jersey tough, he should have thrown Philly into the mix. Rupert grew up in Philly and heard the loudest ovation of all the Peacocks during lineup introductions. He scored all of his points in the first half. Purdue took a 33-29 lead into the break.

KANSAS

Al Durham led Providence with 21 points. But the Friars shot 33.8% and made 4 of 23 3-pointers as their best run since reaching the regional finals in 1997 under Pete Gillen came to an end.

Kansas led 26-17 at halftime and 36-23 early in the second half before Providence went on a 9-2 run, capped by Ed Croswell's three-point play.

That drew a loud roar from the Friars' fans, and they had more to cheer after Noah Horchler nailed two 3-pointers in about a 50-second span to cut it to 41-40 midway through the half.

Reeves tied it at 44-all when he hit two free throws, and Horchler gave Providence its first lead at 48-47 when he scored on a layup with 5:49 remaining.

Jalen Wilson drove for a three-point play to put the Jayhawks back on top. Christian Braun added one of his own, and a steal by Wilson led to a layup for David McCormack, making it 54-48 with 4:12 to play.

Agbaji had the Kansas contingent roaring when he threw down an alley-oop dunk to make it 57-50. A.J. Reeves answered with a 3 for Providence, but Kansas remained on top the rest of the way.

BIG PICTURE

Providence: Coach Ed Cooley's Friars made a huge jump after finishing 13-13 a year ago. They won their first Big East regular-season championship and reached the NCAA Tournament for the first time since 2018.

Kansas: The Jayhawks delivered another solid defensive effort and made enough shots to keep their championship hopes alive.

Frontenac baseball returns eight starters

By Sam Kombrink
Morning Sun Staff

This year's Frontenac Raider baseball team is ready to build off of previous success, and it has the talent to get the job done.

The Raiders were scheduled to open the season on the road Saturday against Nevada, but it was postponed and rescheduled for noon Monday.

Frontenac head coach Bill Sullivan expects the Raiders to start where they left off.

"We just need to come out like we finished the season last year," he said. "And get better from that point."

The Raiders return eight starters from last year's third-place Class 3A team that finished with a 19-6 record and lost 5-4 to Anderson County.

"We feel like we will be very aggressive on the bases and in the running game," said Sullivan.

Frontenac's starters in the infield include first baseman Collin McCartney, second baseman Kaston Fields, shortstop Logan Myers, third baseman/first baseman Mario Menghini and catcher/infielder Alex Williams.

In the outfield the Raiders look to start Jeremy Raio in center field, Lane Sullivan in left field and Brennon Frazier in right field.

McCartney, who was an all-state pitcher in 2021, will anchor the Raiders' rotation. Following McCartney will be Myers, Williams and McDonald.

"We feel like we have a very strong pitching staff with our top arms back from last year," said Sullivan.

Frontenac reserves include first baseman/pitcher Abram Frankenbery, outfielder Connor Doherty, infielder/pitcher Peyton McDonald, catcher/infielder Kal Terlip, outfielder/pitcher Carter Snow and catcher/infielder Bergen Souder.

Murray State brings Prohm back as Racers men's hoops coach

MURRAY, Ky. (AP) — Steve Prohm has returned to Murray State for a second stint as men's basketball coach, taking over the program as the Racers prepare to join the Missouri Valley Conference in July.

The coach said in a release Friday he was "excited and grateful" for the chance to return to Murray State and noted its continued success after he left.

"Now is the time to shift our focus forward as we begin a new chapter of Murray State basketball entering the Missouri Valley Conference," he added. "I'm excited to take this journey with you!"

Prohm will be formally introduced on Monday.

He replaces Matt McMahon, his former assistant who guided MSU (31-3) to the second round of the NCAA Tournament as the No. 7 seed before leaving earlier this week for LSU.

Prohm had a 104-29 record during his first tenure with the Racers from 2011-15 and won two Ohio Valley Conference regular season championships along with a first-round NCAA game in 2012. He spent six years as a Murrary State assistant before taking over for Billy Kennedy.

Prohm left in 2015 for Iowa State, going 97-95 in six seasons with Big 12 Conference Tournament titles in 2017 and 2019 and three NCAA appearances.

UMass hires Frank Martin as new basketball coach

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — UMass has found a new leader for its basketball program, hiring Frank Martin as its coach Friday.

Martin, 56, takes over the Minutemen program from Matt McCall, who was fired this month after going 58-81 over five seasons in Amherst.

"It is evident that there is tremendous alignment in place to win and do it the right way," Martin said in a statement. "Let's all get on this ride together, let's dream big and let's be relentless at making our dreams a reality."

Martin arrives following his own dismissal from South Carolina last week after 10 seasons and just one NCAA appearance with the Gamecocks. But that appearance to cap the 2016-17 season culminated in South Carolina's first Final Four berth. Martin was 171-147 during his tenure at the school.

He had more NCAA tournament bids in his first head coaching job at Kansas State from 2007 to 2012, leading the Wildcats to March Madness four times including an Elite Eight berth in 2010. He finished 117-54 overall.

The move to Massachusetts will be a homecoming for Martin's wife, Anya (Forrest), a 1998 UMass alum who ran track for the school.

Martin's hiring by UMass was announced a day after former Chattanooga coach Lamont Paris was tapped as Martin's successor at South Carolina.

Girard golf eyes CNC title

By Aaron Pyle
Morning Sun Staff

After nearly a month of practice and preparation, the high school golf season is in full swing for the Girard boys team.

Last year the Trojans finished third in the CNC League and third at the Class 3A regional, just barely missing the mark to qualify as a team.

Darrell McLeod and Ethan Warner shined individually for the Trojans as Warner placed fifth while McLeod placed seventh at the CNC Meet. At regional, McLeod finished sixth and Warner took seventh.

Entering the new season, the Trojans are without Warner, a three-time state qualifier, two-time league medalist and the lone senior on last year's team.

However, coach Rob Massa remains optimistic regarding this year's junior- and senior-heavy squad that features nine upperclassmen.

"One of our strengths will definitely be experience as we return six seniors and state qualifier Darrel McLeod," Massa said. "This is a very tight group of guys who compete together in so many things at school. They are just a fun bunch of guys to be around.

"Obviously, we will look for state qualifier Darrel McLeod to compete for our top spot each week, but looking over our scores from last year, seniors John Gilmore, Alex Koons, Corey Humble and Evan Deal all shot well at the end of the year."

Additional key returnees include Parker Tersinar, Gage Kmiec, Spencer Jagels and Jaxson Robinson.

Bringing back several experienced golfers, Massa has high expectations for this year's team in a league filled with talented squads, such as St. Mary's Colgan and Frontenac, who sent several athletes to state.

"We have a great group of guys coming back this year and our expectations are high this year," Massa said. "We fully expect to compete for a league title and to qualify our team for state.

"We legitimately have seven or eight golfers that are all capable of contributing at the varsity level. I believe it's been four or five years since we've actually had to qualify at practices for our varsity tournaments. I believe we will have to do that this year, but that is a good thing. Competition only makes you better."

The Trojans open the season on April 5 for the Frontenac Invitational, an 18-hole tournament at Crestwood Country Club starting at 1 p.m.

Southeast softball seeks success with several returnees

By Aaron Pyle
Morning Sun Staff

The Southeast Lancers are coming off a disappointing year, and coach Mike Bowman admits he was not happy with how things shook out.

"Last year was a tough season with only nine girls on the team," said Bowman, who enters his 17th year as a head coach. "We didn't have any depth. When it comes to the win column, we won only three games."

The Lancers closed the season with a record of 3-17. Southeast's victories came at the end of the season when the Lancers swept St. Paul and claimed one game against Chetopa. The Lancers season came to a close in the first round of the Class 2A regional where Southeast fell to Northeast 17-7.

After the rough season, the Lancers lose only Skyler Zortz due to graduation. Through her time with the softball team, Zortz was a four-year letterman and a member of the 2018 and 2018 Three Rivers League champion teams. She was also first-team all-TRL as a catcher.

"Skyler was the lone senior and was the leader of the team," Bowman said. "The team will miss her leadership and skills."

The Lancers return several starters from the previous season led by the senior pair of pitcher/infielder Kalle Bitner and infielder Kailynn Martin. Other key returnees include junior infielders Zoey Tavernaro and Malia Vinson and outfielders Daci Elbrater and Kimberlynn Vineyard.

"The returning girls from last year's team are a very tight family, and they have overcome many obstacles last year," Bowman said. "And the fact that they never gave up shows me that this group are winners. Other strengths for this team are that the numbers are up and the freshman class is athletic and coachable.

"My expectations for the 2022 team is for the Lady Lancers to improve their skills and knowledge of the game daily and get them to believe in themselves and that they can compete with any team."

The Lancers open the season at 4:30 p.m. Monday at Marmaton Valley.

CHIEFS

Shifting back to Hill, it's basically the same thing.

He's had six tremendous seasons with the Chiefs and played a major role in winning Super Bowl LIV, which ironically was played in Miami. It would have been great for him to stay in Kansas City one more season, but he would become a free agent after the 2022 season, and the Chiefs would have gotten nothing when he left town. Instead, they received five draft picks.

There's no doubt Hill will make a huge impact in the Dolphins' passing game. Hill was a Pro Bowl selection all six years with the Chiefs, and Miami receivers made a total of six Pro Bowl trips in the last 37 years.

The addition of Hill puts pressure on Dolphins quarterback Tua Tagovailoa, who is more accurate on shorter passes but can't throw the ball as deep as the Chiefs' Patrick Mahomes.

There will be fewer fly patterns for Hill when he outruns the secondary and more short and middle routes. That could lead to more big hits for Hill to absorb, and that's not good for a lightning-fast but small-in-stature receiver.

Frontenac's Arnett signs with PSU softball

By Sam Kombrink
Morning Sun Staff

FRONTENAC, Kan. — Senior Heather Arnett signed her letter of intent to play softball for Pittsburg State on Friday afternoon in the Frontenac Gymnasium.

Arnett is expected to compete at shortstop for the Gorillas.

"It's a great feeling," said Arnett. "I feel so much stress off my shoulders."

Arnett said that she realized her goal of wanting to be a college athlete when she was playing travel softball in sixth grade.

"I told myself I'm committed to this, and this is my dream," she said.

Arnett is a three-sport athlete at Frontenac (volleyball, basketball, softball) and said that after starting to play high school basketball she started to love the game.

But, "Nothing compares to playing softball," she said. "I have always known it was softball."

Family is a big reason why Arnett chose to be a Gorilla.

"Family is a big deal to me, and being close to home and having all of my aunts and uncles here today just shows that I am very family oriented," she said. "I'm very close with my parents, and I love my younger siblings and having them come and watch me is going to be a big deal to me."

Arnett also gave thanks to the family of her future head coach Jenny Fuller.

"The Fullers are great people, and I really think that they helped me seal the deal with how great they are," Arnett said. "Not only as softball coaches, but just as people in general."

Arnett is familiar with a few current players on the Gorilla softball team.

"Keelah Griffith is a good family friend of ours," said Arnett, who has met most of the team.

Joining Arnett will be two other members from her travel softball team.

"So it will be nice to have all three of us go in to the same program and be Gorillas," she said.

Arnett is eager to hit the field.

"Just getting to play, being out on the field as a Gorilla will really be a big deal to me," she said. "And I'm going to work hard every practice. There are going to be girls that are all fighting for a spot, and I know that is going to be tough but it's going to push me as an athlete to be better."

Busted brackets mark another topsy-turvy NCAA tourney

By DAVE SKRETTA
AP Basketball Writer

Fourth-seeded Arkansas used what amounted to a sneak attack to take down No. 1 overall seed Gonzaga, not only knocking the Bulldogs out the NCAA Tournament but taking out a whole lot of fans still hoping to win bragging rights and office pools.

Then again, the number of busted brackets before the Elite Eight just might mean everyone gets a second chance.

Defending national champion Baylor? The first No. 1 seed to go down. Gonzaga and Arizona, two more top seeds and betting favorites, joined the Bears on the sidelines in the Sweet 16. Kentucky, Tennessee and Auburn? All ousted before the opening weekend was even done.

In the case of the John Calipari's bunch, that meant getting bumped by No. 15 seed Saint Peter's in the opening round, a loss that probably doesn't feel any better even with the Peacocks topping Murray State to reach the Sweet 16.

It all left exasperated SportsCenter anchor Hannah Storm to say: "My bracket's busted. It's just so bad right now."

Then, after a beat: "I do have a lot of company though."

No kidding.

The Bulldogs were a 10-point favorite to beat the Razorbacks and Arizona a 1.5-point favorite to beat Houston on Thursday night. Instead, they became the first 1-seeds to lose on the same day in the Sweet 16 or earlier since the 2011 tourney.

"Just being the underdog, man, use it to your advantage," Arkansas' Trey Wade said. "They never see you coming."

Very few people did anyway.

There were 17.3 million brackets filled out in ESPN's Tournament Challenge and just 8.3% of them had Arkansas reaching the Elite Eight, an less than half of those have the Hogs going to the Final Four. By contrast, nearly 23% of brackets had Gonzaga winning it all.

In fact, nearly two-thirds of brackets had Gonzaga, Baylor or Kentucky advancing through their half of the bracket to reach the final in New Orleans.

Meanwhile, more brackets (19.9%) had Houston losing in the first round than advancing to the Elite Eight (14.2%), even though the Cougars made it to the Sweet 16 in 2019 and the Final Four just last year.

Houston, by the way, is now the favorite to win it all, according to FanDuel Sportsbook, ahead of No. 2 seed Duke and Kansas, the lone remaining 1-seed entering Friday.

The quest for a perfect bracket in the men's tournament? The NCAA said that was over before last weekend, the moment that No. 11 seed Iowa State beat LSU on Friday night to eliminate the final two perfect brackets remaining after the first 24 games.

And with the Cyclones playing No. 10 seed Miami on Friday night, at least one double-digit seed will be in the Elite Eight.

"You get seeded a certain spot, who cares about that? I tell the team all the time, if you're in the dance, you've got a darned good team because you earned your way into the dance," said Miami coach Jim Larrañaga, who knows all about busting up brackets after taking No. 11 seed George Mason to the Final Four in 2006.

"To me, it doesn't matter what you're seeded. It's not reflective of who you are," Larrañaga said. "It's just a number put by your name to start the tournament. What matters is how you play and how you match up against your opponent."

Yet plenty of well-known prognosticators have had trouble figuring those matchups out.

Television star Jimmy Fallon lamented his fortunes after picking Gonzaga and Tennessee to reach the Final Four. Former President Barack Obama had the Bulldogs playing Arizona in the title game and he hasn't fared a whole lot better in the women's tournament, where he had Baylor advancing to the Final Four with South Carolina, UConn and Stanford. The Bears were upset by South Dakota in the second round.

"We don't need Barack Obama's bracket. We don't need Jimmy Fallon. We don't need none of that, OK?" said Hailey Van Lith, the star guard for the top-seeded Cardinals. "Look, we are still here. That is what it is."

Browns QB Deshaun Watson denies sexual assault allegations

CLEVELAND (AP) — Deshaun Watson maintained his innocence and strongly denied committing any sexual misconduct despite allegations made by 22 women against the Cleveland Browns' new starting quarterback.

Wearing a dark pinstriped suit and orange tie at his introductory news conference on Friday, Watson showed little emotion while saying he's done nothing illegal.

"I've never assaulted or disrespected or harassed a woman in my life," Watson said, flanked at the dais by Browns general manager Andrew Berry and coach Kevin Stefanski. "That's not how I was raised. I've never done these things people are alleging."

Berry defended the team's controversial decision to trade for Watson, who has been accused by two dozen massage therapists of various sexual activity during private sessions. He has always claimed any sex was consensual.

"We as an organization know that this transaction has been very difficult for many people, particularly women in our community," Berry said. "We realize that it has triggered a range of emotions. And that, as well as the nature of the allegations, weighed heavily on all of us.

"It was because of the weight of the anticipated reaction and the nature of the allegations that really pushed us to do as much work as possible internally and externally in terms of understanding the cases and who Deshaun was as a person.

"We do have faith and confidence in Deshaun as a person."

Watson dismissed needing counseling because he feels he's been falsely accused.

"I don't have a problem," he said. "I don't have an issue."

While Watson hasn't been indicted by two grand juries in Texas on criminal charges, he's still facing civil lawsuits. He has no intention of settling the lawsuits and that his only goal "is to clear my name."

Berry described the Browns' investigation as "a five-month odyssey" that resulted in the team feeling comfortable enough with Watson as a person to trade for him — and in extension make him the face of their franchise.

The Browns lured Watson to Cleveland with a record-setting $230 million, fully guaranteed contract, which includes a $1 million base salary in the first season in the event he's suspended by the NFL.

The league has an ongoing investigation into his behavior and whether he violated the personal conduct policy.

Watson said the Browns' contract had nothing to do with him waiving his no-trade clause to come to Cleveland.

The Browns traded three first-round draft picks and six picks overall to Houston for Watson.

On Thursday, a second grand jury in Texas decided not to indict Watson on one of the original criminal complaints of sexual misconduct. Watson being cleared by another grand jury had triggered his pursuit by the Browns and several other teams hoping to sign the three-time Pro Bowler.

Panthers navigating unsettled QB situation after Watson snub

By STEVE REED
AP Sports Writer

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — The Carolina Panthers desperately wanted to land Deshaun Watson to solve the quarterback issues that have plagued them for the better part of the past four seasons.

But when the three-time Pro Bowler snubbed the Panthers' overtures and refused to change his no-trade clause for Carolina, it left the team back at square one searching for that elusive franchise QB. Watson was eventually traded to the Cleveland Browns.

Panthers general manager Scott Fitterer said Friday that as of now Sam Darnold is "in the lead" to be the team's starting quarterback next season, although it's clear the position remains extremely fluid with the draft around the corner.

Darnold, who struggled mightily in his first season with Carolina in 2021, and P.J. Walker are the only quarterbacks under contract.

That's expected to change.

Carolina has the No. 6 pick in next month's draft.

The Panthers sent a large contingent of front office executives, coaches and scouts last week to watch Pittsburgh's Kenny Pickett and Liberty's Malik Willis work out at their pro days.

Fitterer said the Panthers haven't had any recent conversations with other NFL teams about trading for a veteran quarterback, although the second-year general manager has said several times in the past that his goal is to be "in on every deal."

The Panthers turned their attention to addressing other areas of the team after missing out on Watson, adding free agent offensive linemen Austin Corbett and Bradley Bozeman, running back D'Onta Freeman, wide receiver Rashard Higgins, linebackers Matt Ioannidis and Cory Littleton, safety Xavier Woods and punter Johnny Hekker.

They also extended the contract of wide receiver D.J. Moore, and re-signed cornerback Donte Jackson and some other role players.

Fitterer feels as if the team is in a better position and can compete with Tom Brady and the Tampa Bay Buccaneers for the NFC South title if "we can get the quarterback situation stabilized."

So far Teddy Bridgewater, Cam Newton and Darnold have failed to provide stability for the Panthers, who are 10-23 over the past two seasons and haven't made the playoffs since 2017.

"Eventually it's going to get to the point where you bring a quarterback in and you just take off," Fitterer said referring to the pieces the team has added on offense and defense. "And that's what we're going for. I think we're a lot of closer this year than we were last year."

Fitter said the "door is still open" to re-signing Newton, who is an unrestricted free agent, although that appears to be a backup plan at best.

Fitterer said he hasn't spoken to the 2015 league MVP this offseason, but coach Matt Rhule has. Newton rejoined the Panthers for a second stint midway through last season, but failed to win a start and was benched for the final two games after Darnold returned from a shoulder injury.

"It's got to be a good fit for him. It's got to be a good fit for us," Fitterer said of a potential reunion with Newton. "... The door's still open for us. We'll see where it goes."

Drafting a quarterback looks like a more realistic option. The problem is the Panthers don't have a second- or third-round draft pick and have major needs to fill at left tackle and pass rusher, so it's not a lock they select a quarterback with the sixth pick.

For now, Darnold remains the default starter while things remain in limbo.

Fitterer said he hasn't spoken to Darnold about the team's decision to pursue Watson. Unlike other top NFL quarterbacks, Darnold doesn't have the leverage to force a trade since he hasn't played all that well and carries an $18.85 million salary cap figure into the 2022 season.

"I didn't call him," Fitterer said. "That is part of being a pro. That's part of the process and Sam will be the first to tell you that he needs to play good quality football."

Fitterer said new offensive coordinator Bob McAdoo has spent time with Darnold on the phone talking about areas where he needs to improve this offseason.

That includes getting the ball out quicker, working on pre-snap reads and making the right decisions.

"Ben has a history of developing a lot of quarterbacks, whether it is Green Bay or New York, and we plan on him doing that with Sam," Fitterer said.

Who else McAdoo will be working with at quarterback this coming season remains unclear.

NASCAR hits Keselowski with huge fine for modifying Next Gen

By JENNA FRYER
AP Auto Racing Writer

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — NASCAR issued steep penalties against Brad Keselowski and his new race team on Thursday for illegally modifying a supplied part on the Next Gen car.

Keselowski was docked 100 driver points and the No. 6 Ford team docked 100 owner points. Matt McCall, his crew chief, was fined $100,000 and suspended from the next four Cup races.

The penalty plunged the 2012 NASCAR champion from 16th in the current standings to 35th — behind every other full-time driver in the field. Keselowski is in his first season as driver and part-owner of RFK Racing.

Additionally, should Keselowski qualify for NASCAR's playoffs, he will be docked 10 points at the reset ahead of the first round.

The infraction was discovered in a teardown technical inspection of the No. 6 Ford at NASCAR's research and development center in Concord this week. The RFK Racing entry was brought to NASCAR headquarters after Sunday's race at Atlanta, where Keselowski was sent to the back of the field at the start for unapproved adjustments.

Keselowski finished 12th at Atlanta.

NASCAR announced a more stringent penalty structure for 2022 and its new Next Gen car, which is a spec car consisting of primarily single-source parts from distributors. Modifications are not permitted, and the Fords from RFK and Team Penske were already found to have made changes to their wheels ahead of the Daytona 500. Both organizations escaped penalty for the first offense.

NASCAR's new penalty system is three-tiered and designed to deter teams from altering its new race car. Keselowski received an L2-level penalty, which allows for points deductions up to 120 points and fines of up to $250,000.

Coach K says 'It's not the coaching.' But it is

AP SPORTS COLUMIST
Jim Litke

Duke keeps winning games in the NCAA Tournament and Mike Krzyzewski keeps telling anyone who will listen, "It's not the coaching."

There's some evidence to suggest he's right.

For one thing, Duke relies almost entirely on freshmen and sophomores, which means his core group of players have only had so much time to soak up Coach K's decades of gathered wisdom. For another, Krzyzewski switched to a zone defense in the second half of Thursday night's Sweet 16 game against a rugged Texas Tech team, but when the Blue Devils needed big stops down the stretch his players lobbied — successfully — to go back to man-to-man.

Finally, and most important, perhaps, those same kids who are supposed to be feeling the pressure of his impending retirement shot 71% from the floor after halftime, hitting eight straight field goals to end the game. There's no coaching manual that covers that.

But don't be fooled.

On the same night two No. 1 seeds were toppled, the reason Krzyzewski won the 100th NCAA Tournament game of his career and remains squarely on track toward a sixth national championship is ... coaching. No one does it better.

He's been recruiting kids who ooze with NBA-caliber talent for four decades now — which is a specialty all its own — and then teaching them the difference between showing up and showing off when the game is on the line. Duke had played zone defense roughly 5% of the time during the regular season, which made it a risky gambit when Coach K threw the switch against the Red Raiders. Then he listened to his players when they pleaded to switch back, which is even riskier, and more to the point, it proved that at age 75, the old Blue Devil is still willing to learn new tricks.

"Whenever they can own something, they're going to do it better than if we just run it," Krzyzewski said afterward. "When they said that, I felt they're going to own it. They'll make it work, and that's probably more important than strategy during that time. So that's the way I looked at it."

Three key defensive stops that followed and two late baskets by Jeremy Roach moved Krzyzewski within one win of his record-setting 13th trip to the Final Four with a 78-73 victory. Paolo Banchero led second-seeded Duke with 22 points, Mark Williams scored 16 and Roach, handed his starting spot back just ahead of the tournament, added 15.

Bryson Williams led No. 3 seed Texas Tech with 21.

Duke will play Arkansas on Saturday with a trip to the Final Four on the line. That's after the fourth-seeded Razorbacks, who bear some resemblance to the "40 Minutes of Hell" Arkansas teams that tore up the tournament in the mid-1990s, tore up top overall seed Gonzaga en route to a 74-68 win.

Much like those teams, coach Eric Musselman has loaded up tenacious defenders and shooters with short memories — notably JD Notae, who missed 20 shots and still scored 21 points — and has the Razorbacks convinced it's them against the world.

"We've been disrespected the whole year, so it's just another thing for us," Jaylin Williams said. "We saw everything they were saying, we felt like they were dancing before the game. ...

"We had a chip on our shoulder," he added a moment later. "Every game we do."

Whatever the Zags had on their shoulders felt like a 40-pound weight. Entering as the top-scoring team in the nation (87.8 points per game), Gonzaga shot 37.5% and went 5 of 21 from 3-point range. NBA prospect Chet Holmgren, the Zags' skinny freshman center, was hounded all night and spared himself a few minutes of hell by fouling out with 3:29 left.

Speaking of discomfort, fifth-seeded Houston did a pretty good job of exploiting top seed Arizona's lack of experience. The Wildcats missed seven of their first eight shots as Houston sprinted to a 14-4 advantage and led the rest of the way, riding 21 points from Jamal Shead and 19 from Kyler Edwards to a 72-60 win.

"I knew we were going to make them uncomfortable, that's what we do," Cougars coach Kelvin Sampson said. "Our team, we're a tough bunch. ... They're not afraid of anybody."

Houston lost four starters from last season and then lost Marcus Sasser, the lone returner and leading scorer who broke his left foot before Christmas. And then Taze Moore, one of the transfers Sampson relied on, got hit with his third personal foul against Arizona with 9:22 left and wound up playing only 17 minutes overall.

"Tonight, you know, he was in the witness protection program," Sampson said. "I couldn't find him. Nowhere. We put him in there, we had to take him right back out."

That won't do against second-seeded Villanova, where coach Jay Wright has been quietly fashioning a mini-dynasty of his own. The Wildcats don't play the "no-respect" card because they win too much — two national championships since 2016 — and they put together another workmanlike performance to send No. 11 seed Michigan packing with a 63-55 victory.

Jermaine Samuels, a freshman during that last title run in 2018 — capped off against Michigan, no less — led Villanova with 22 points, and drew the unenviable assignment of battling 7-foot-1 Hunter Dickinson on both ends of the floor. Dickinson led Michigan with 15 points and 15 rebounds, but none of them came easy.

"I just wanted to stay mobile and move," Samuels said. "He's a phenomenal player, so he's going to get great looks at the basket. But that I have teammates behind me gave me all the confidence I needed."

Duke beats Texas Tech 78-73 to send Coach K to Elite 8

By JOSH DUBOW
AP Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Mike Krzyzewski has spent more than four decades at Duke telling his players what to do, with championship-level results.

With his Hall of Fame career in danger of coming to an end, Krzyzewski let his players dictate the game-closing defensive strategy of switching from an uncharacteristic zone defense into Duke's famous man-to-man.

The key defensive stops and two late baskets by Jeremy Roach moved Krzyzewski within one win of his record-setting 13th trip to the Final Four in his farewell season with a 78-73 win over Texas Tech on Thursday night.

Krzyzewski said the players came to him during a late timeout like a "Catholic boys' choir," asking in unison for the switch to man that led to three straight stops and turned the game in Duke's favor.

"With this team they're so young and they're still growing," Krzyzewski said. "Whenever they can own something, they're going to do it better than if we just run it. When they said that, I felt they're going to own it. They'll make it work, and that's probably more important than strategy during that time. So that's the way I looked at it."

Roach did the rest with two jumpers during a 7-0 run as the steady sophomore came through in the clutch for a second straight game to send second-seeded Duke (31-6) into an Elite Eight matchup against fourth-seeded Arkansas.

Paolo Banchero led Duke with 22 points, Mark Williams scored 16 and Roach added 15 as the Blue Devils made their final eight shots from the field to hold off third-seeded Texas Tech (27-10) and give Coach K his record 100th NCAA Tournament victory.

"I would say all year in the biggest moments we've always stepped up, and there's no bigger moment than this," Banchero said. "I don't know about these guys, but I've never played in a basketball game like that."

As compelling as the action on the court was in this taut West Region semifinal, the story of this Blue Devils run has surrounded the farewell tour of their Hall of Fame coach.

Krzyzewski announced last June he would retire after this season. After missing the tournament last year, Duke was back with a roster filled with NBA prospects and capable of delivering Krzyzewski his sixth title.

Duke played from behind for much of the first half but was much sharper offensively in the second half. Williams got free for three easy baskets early in the half to get the Blue Devils rolling.

Then the vocal Duke contingent on hand for the first NCAA Tournament games in San Francisco since 1939 made its presence known midway through the half when A.J. Griffin tied the game at 47 with his third 3-pointer and Banchero followed with a jumper that gave Duke the lead.

But a Red Raiders team featuring four super seniors and five players with more than 120 career games didn't go away and the game stayed tight as Duke used the zone to negate Texas Tech's strength advantage.

"They have a Hall of Fame coach in Coach K over there and he was trying to find a way to slow us down because we were scoring," guard Adonis Arms said. "I just think if we would have just recognized it a little quicker, it would have been fine. But it was a great adjustment from Coach K."

Kevin McCullar and Banchero traded 3s with Banchero's long-range shot putting Duke up 69-68 with less than three minutes to play.

That's when Duke made the switch back to man defense. Roach made two jumpers and the defense did the rest with Krzyzewski even throwing in a patented Duke floor slap for good measure. Bryson Williams had a shot blocked by Mark Williams, committed a turnover and shot an airball.

"The slapping the floor, what the hell? Why not?" Krzyzewski said. "Our guys really wanted that because it's kind of like a cross the bridge to the brotherhood. They can now say they did that."

Griffin's two free throws with 12.9 seconds to play gave Duke a 77-73 lead. Arms then missed a 3-pointer and Krzyzewski gave an emphatic fist pump to celebrate his 17th trip to the Elite Eight.

Bryson Williams scored 21 points to lead Texas Tech and McCullar added 17. Kevin Obanor had 10 points and 10 rebounds for his sixth double-double in six career tournament games.

Shead scores 21 points; Houston knocks out 1-seed Arizona

By STEPHEN HAWKINS
AP Sports Writer

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Houston coach Kelvin Sampson gritted his teeth and raised his arms before emphatically pounding his right fist into his left hand 11 times while celebrating with ecstatic Cougars fans who were not too far from home.

Another No. 1 seed is out, and Houston is one win way from playing in its second straight Final Four after leading throughout in a 72-60 victory over Arizona in an NCAA South Regional semifinal game Thursday night.

"I knew we were going to make them uncomfortable, that's what we do," Sampson said. "Our team, we're a tough bunch. ... They're not afraid of anybody."

Jamal Shead, a 19-year-old second-year guard, scored a career-high 21 points and experienced guard Kyler Edwards had 19 points with five 3-pointers. They both played 38 minutes after Taze Moore got in early foul trouble.

"We always feel like we're the toughest team out there and we play like that .... we can't be scared of anybody," Shead said. "The energy was just electric. It was awesome to have that type of crowd here."

Consecutive layups by Dalen Terry got Arizona within 64-58 with just over two minutes left. But Edwards, the transfer from Texas Tech who played in the 2019 national championship game for the Red Raiders, settled things for Houston with a 3 from the right wing.

The No. 5 seed Cougars (32-5) play second-seeded Villanova in the South Region final on Saturday in San Antonio, about 200 miles from the Houston campus.

Terry had 17 points for Arizona (33-4), while Pac-12 player of the year Bennedict Mathurin had 15 and Christian Koloko 10.

"It was a tough game. There's a lot of things we could have done better to win the game," Mathurin said. "I don't have a lot to say."

The American Athletic Conference champion Cougars became the second former Southwest Conference team to knock a No. 1 seed out of this NCAA Tournament in a matter of hours. Top overall seed Gonzaga lost 74-68 to Arkansas, which went to the SEC in 1991, five years before the SWC's final season.

These Cougars are much different than the ones Sampson took the the Final Four last year — their first since going three times in a row during the Phi Slama Jama era from 1982-84.

Houston lost four starters from last season and then lost Marcus Sasser, the lone returner and leading scorer who broke his left foot before Christmas. Sophomore guard Tramon Mark had a season-ending shoulder injury before that.

Arizona had one of the least-experienced teams in Division I this season; according to KenPom.com, the Wildcats average 0.63 years of experienced, ranked 355th out of 358 teams. But they won 33 games, and two of their losses were on the road during the regular season against top-20 teams.

Those 33 wins left Tommy Lloyd one win shy of the most in NCAA history for a first-year coach. He took over the Wildcats after 21 seasons as an assistant coach for Mark Few at Gonzaga.

"I think we really built some foundational pieces this year that are really going to serve us well moving forward. Extremely proud of the guys. Extremely proud of the coaching staff," Lloyd said. "We ran into a really good team tonight that was just a little bit too much for us.

Houston stretched its lead to 10 points three different times before halftime.

The Wildcats missed seven of their first eight shots, and trailed by double digits for the first time after Houston scored seven points in a 57-second span for a 14-4 lead. That quick spurt included Shead getting a rebound to start a fastbreak that ended with his pass to Ramon Walker Jr. in the left corner for an open 3, and a driving layup by Edwards after a turnover.

Moore, a graduate transfer, had a career-high 21 points in Houston's second-round win over Illinois, but his early 3 to make it 5-0 Houston in the first two minutes was all he'd score against the Wildcats. He committed his third personal foul with 9:22 left and played only 17 minutes overall.

"The guy that's been really good for us, Taze Moore, was a non-factor. ... Tonight, you know, he was in the witness protection program. I couldn't find him. Nowhere," Sampson said. "We put him in there, we had to take him right back out."

Establish your position. Consider what is meaningful and how you can make a difference. Allocate more time to finish what you start. Learn to love who you are, and present yourself with dignity, grace and respect. Let go of what's behind you and choose to make a fresh start.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) -- Do what you do best. Use your skills and energy to get things done and make a difference. Recognize what you are up against, and don't share your intentions. There is no room for error.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) -- Choose self-improvement over trying to change someone. Listen to what others have to say, and you'll learn something about yourself and how you can use your skills to bring about change.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) -- Don't alter your opinion for someone else's sake; fight for your beliefs and honor your promises. Being informed will lead to better decisions. Spend time with someone who lifts your spirits.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) -- Be innovative, invest time and energy into updating your skills, and use your resources to establish how you want to proceed. A conversation with an expert will prove helpful.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) -- Take in what's going on around you. Be attentive, listen and ponder the information and ideas that come your way. Consider how you can raise awareness about something meaningful to you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) -- Gravitate toward unique individuals and see what they have to offer. A change of pace, lifestyle or direction will broaden your outlook and revive enthusiasm. A hobby or pastime will lead to new friendships.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) -- Take care of responsibilities before moving on to something enjoyable. A physical change doesn't have to cost a lot to boost your confidence. A positive attitude will make a difference.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) -- Emotions will flare up if you get into a debate. Do your own thing and avoid anyone trying to pick a fight or make you feel inadequate. Focus on making your space more efficient.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) -- Be aware of the changes that others make. Prepare to counter anything that infringes on your rights or ability to follow through with your plans. Take pride in your accomplishments.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) -- Put what makes you happy first. Work to eliminate stress and stay focused on what's best for you. Take the unique path, and the outcome will please you and impress onlookers.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) -- Learn from the experiences that have made you who you are, and you'll have the strength to overcome anyone who interferes in your life or tries to push you in a bad direction.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) -- Touch base with people who motivate you. Don't let fear deter you from pursuing your goals. Ask questions that will help turn an idea into a reality. Offer as much in return as you ask others to contribute.

WHAT'S NEW ON NETFLIX

"Bridgerton" - Season 2

The social season is upon us once again, which means more salacious romances and rumors when the hit Regency-era drama "Bridgerton" premieres its second season on Friday, March 25, on Netflix. While Season 1 set screens aflame with the tumultuous romance between Daphne Bridgerton (Phoebe Dynevor, "Dickensian") and Simon Basset, Duke of Hastings (Regé-Jean Page, "For The People"), Season 2 switches gears to focus on the love life of another of the eight Bridgerton siblings. Based on the second book in the Bridgerton series of novels by Julie Quinn, "The Viscount Who Loved Me," this new season looks to the love life of Anthony Bridgerton (Jonathan Bailey, "Broadchurch"), the eldest of the family's children. Following a heartbreaking split from his secret lover in the first season, Anthony is now out to marry for anything but love. Setting his sights on the diamond of the season, Edwina Sharma (Charithra Chandran, "Alex Rider"), the story becomes all the more complicated when Edwina's sister, Kate (Simone Ashley, "Sex Education"), steps into the equation. From Shondaland Productions and executive producers Shonda Rhimes, Betsy Beers and Chris Van Dusen of "Grey's Anatomy," "Scandal" and "Private Practice," the series is directed by Tom Verica ("Scandal"), Tricia Brock ("Saving Grace") and Alex Pillai ("Chilling Adventures of Sabrina"). While Season 1 heartthrob Page will not be returning for the new season, fans will see the on-screen return of Dynevor, Nicola Coughlan ("Derry Girls"), Ruth Gemmell ("Fever Pitch," 1997), Florence Hunt ("Cursed"), Claudia Jessie ("Line of Duty"), Luke Newton ("The Lodge"), Luke Thompson ("Dunkirk," 2017), Will Tilston ("Goodbye Christopher Robin," 2018), Polly Walker ("Mr. Selfridge"), Adjoa Andoh ("Fractured," 2019), Golda Rosheuvel ("Dune," 2021), Joanna Bobin ("Gunpowder Milkshake," 2021), Kathryn Drysdale ("The Windsors"), Jessica Madsen ("Leatherface," 2017), Emma Naomi ("Professor T"), Harriet Cains ("Marella") and Bessie Carter ("Beecham House").

"Tomorrow" - Season 1

Look to the future with the new Korean drama series "Tomorrow," premiering Friday, March 25, on Netflix. The 16-episode season releases new episodes weekly on Fridays and Saturdays, unfolding the story over eight weeks on the streamer. Choi Joon-woong (Kim Ro-woon, "The King's Affection") seems to have everything going for him with his wealthy family and prestigious education, but no matter what he does, he can't seem to find a job. When Choi happens upon a pair of grim reapers, Goo Ryun (Kim Hee-seon, "The Lady in Dignity") and Im Ryung Goo (Yoon Ji-on, "Monthly Magazine Home"), one night, he becomes a young contract worker in their department. On a special mission to aid in suicide prevention, Goo Ryun and Im Ryung Goo welcome Choi into their crisis management team of death angels. Based on the web comics by Ra Ma, the series is directed by Kim Tae-yoon ("Mr. Zoo: The Missing VIP," 2020). Lee Soo-hyuk ("Born Again"), Kim Chae-eun ("Growing Season"), Kal So-won ("Mr. Zoo: The Missing VIP," 2020), Kang Seung-yoon ("Kairos") and new talent Moon Seo-youn also star in the series.

WHAT'S NEW ON HULU

"Bloods" - Season 2A

Get into the thick of it with the British workplace sitcom "Bloods," streaming the first five episodes of its second season weekly on Hulu beginning Wednesday, March 23. (The remaining five episodes of the season are set to air later in 2022.) Thrown together as partners in Season 1, tough-acting narcissist Maleek (Samson Kayo, "Timewasters") and happy-go-lucky divorcée Wendy (Jane Horrocks, "Little Voice," 1998) are the paramedic dream team that never should have worked. But as the duo work together to save lives, they start to support each other as they struggle to gain the respect of their co-workers. After seeing their fair share of trials last season, Maleek and Wendy have a long road ahead of them to make their partnership work. Co-created and written by Kayo and Nathan Bryon ("Little Darlings"), the series is co-written by Paul Doolan ("Trollied") and directed by William Sinclair ("Vera") and Tom McKay ("Drunk History: UK"). The cast of this ensemble comedy is rounded out by Lucy Punch ("Into the Woods," 2014), Julian Barratt ("The Great"), Adrian Scarborough ("Gosford Park," 2001), Aasiya Shah ("Raised by Wolves"), Sam Campbell ("Stath Lets Flats"), Kevin Garry ("Ted Lasso") and Ellie White ("The Other One").

"American Siege" (2022)

Nothing is ever as simple as it seems, and that goes double for the hero of Edward Drake's ("Broil," 2020) new action thriller "American Siege," making its streaming debut on Hulu on Friday, March 25. Leaving his hectic life as a New York City police officer behind, Sheriff Ben Watts (Bruce Willis, "Die Hard," 1988) now caters to a small, wealthy town in Georgia. But when three outlaws take a prominent local doctor hostage, Watts is called in to defuse the situation before the FBI arrives. As the town mayor (Timothy V. Murphy, "Snowpiercer") pushes Watts to take drastic action, the sheriff realizes he may be a pawn in a larger scheme and he sets out on a bloody path to expose the town's dark secrets. Directed and written by Drake with a story by Corey Large ("Heist," 2015), "American Siege" also stars Rob Gough ("Billionaire Boys Club," 2018), Johann Urb ("Arrow"), Anna Hindman ("Breadwinner," 2019), Trevor Gretzky ("Spiral," 2021) and Cullen G. Chambers ("Moon Manor," 2021).

WHAT'S NEW ON DISNEY+

"Parallels" - Season 1

Journey across space and time with the new French Disney+ series "Parallels," coming to the streaming platform on Wednesday, March 23. Living completely ordinary lives in a town on the French/Swiss border, a group of four friends experience the trials of young love, friendship and school together. But when the nearby LHC, the world's largest particle collider, has an experiment go wrong, the four friends find their lives flipped completely upside down. Scattered across parallel universes and timelines, each of them works to figure out exactly what happened as they try to make it home safe. The series stars Thomas Chomel ("Clem"), Omar Mebrouk ("H24"), Jules Houplain ("The Promise"), Jade Pedri ("Skam France"), Naidra Ayadi ("Stillwater," 2021), Guillaume Labbé ("The Hookup Plan"), Gil Alma ("César Wagner"), Élise Diamant ("Hostiles," 2015), Dimitri Storoge ("La révolution"), Agnès Miguras ("ASKIP, le collège se la raconte"), Maxime Bergeron ("Fantasies," 2021), Victoria Eber ("Beyond Appearances"), Timoté Rigault ("Sam") and Romain Francisco ("Canailles," 2021). "Parallels" is directed by Benjamin Rocher ("Goal of the Dead," 2014) and Jean Baptiste Saurel ("French Touch: Girl on Fire," 2019) and written by Quoc Dang Tran ("Marianne") and Anastasia Heinzl ("Angelo Rules").

"Olivia Rodrigo: driving home 2 u (a Sour film)" (2022)

Singer-songwriter Olivia Rodrigo brings fans along for a ride behind the scenes of her breakthrough album "Sour," when the documentary "Olivia Rodrigo: driving home 2 u (a Sour film)" premieres Friday, March 25, on Disney+. Setting fire to the music scene over the past year, Rodrigo was catapulted to international acclaim when her debut single, "drivers license," broke multiple streaming records and debuted at No. 1 on the Billboard Hot 100. With multiple awards under her belt for "Sour" already and seven nominations at the upcoming Grammy Awards, Rodrigo's career shows no signs of stopping anytime soon. Fans of the artist can now follow her on an intimate road trip from Salt Lake City, where she first wrote her now-triple-platinum album, to Los Angeles as she recounts stories from her life, memories from making the album and special insights into her inspirations. Featuring never-before-seen footage and special performances of some of Rodrigo's hit songs, this new documentary is directed by Stacey Lee ("Live Fast Draw Yung," 2015) and also stars Dan Nigro ("To All the Boys: P.S. I Still Love You," 2020), Jacob Collier ("SZA: Good Days," 2021) and Blu DeTiger ("I Wanna Get Better").

WHAT'S NEW ON PRIME

"Lizzo's Watch Out for the Big Grrrls"

Talented dancers fight for the chance of a lifetime in the new reality series "Lizzo's Watch Out for the Big Grrrls," premiering Friday, March 25, on Prime. On the hunt for a group of "confident, bad-ass women to join the elite ranks of the Big Grrrls (Lizzo's talented group of backup dancers)," superstar singer, songwriter, rapper (and flutist!) Lizzo ("Juice") puts 10 girls through their paces to see if they have what it takes to twerk next to her on stage (per Prime). Moving into the Big Grrrls House for the duration of the series' eight episodes, the hopeful dancers must prove they have what it takes to join Lizzo at center stage during her tour. Helping Lizzo along the way are choreographers Tanisha Scott and Charm La'Donna; original Big Grrrls Chawnta' Marie Van, Shirlene Quigley and Grace Holden; body movement expert Rashida KhanBey Miller; and singer-songwriter SZA ("Good Days").

Beyond the 'Vale': Teens back in 'Riverdale' following supernatural foray

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

It's time to turn the page and begin a new frame of Archie Andrews (K.J. Apa, "Songbird," 2020) and friends, because the second half of "Riverdale" Season 6 begins Sunday, March 20, on CW.

Series fans everywhere have been waiting for the dark high school drama to air Part 2 of Season 6 since it aired its 100th episode on CW in December of last year. Titled "Chapter One Hundred: The Jughead Paradox," the final episode before the break saw Jughead (Cole Sprouse, "Five Feet Apart," 2019) reach his breaking point and take off on a quest to solve the mysteries plaguing his hometown of Riverdale.

Of course (and spoilers ahead for those not yet caught up), "Chapter Ninety-Nine: The Witching Hour(s)" also featured a very special guest: Sabrina Spellman (Keirnan Shipka) from "Chilling Adventures of Sabrina." As diehard fans of the Archie Comics universe will know, Sabrina, while vastly different in lifestyle, hails from the same world as Archie and friends. This time, however, fans of the TV series adaptations finally got to see a crossover event that will be talked about for seasons to come.

Before "Riverdale" celebrated its 100-episode milestone (a milestone that, in the industry, allows the show to enter syndicated reruns), plenty had occurred in Season 6. During what is often referred to as Season 6's "five-episode special event" that takes place in the related universe of Rivervale, viewers discover that Cheryl (Madelaine Petsch, "Polaroid," 2019) unleashed a curse on Riverdale as revenge for its involvement in past atrocities. Tied up in Riverdale's history of witch hunts and trials, Cheryl's anger paved the way for Sabrina's introduction into the series and the injection of further supernatural elements into the show's storylines.

One of these haunting developments is tied to Jughead and Tabitha's (Erinn Westbrook, "Insatiable") apartment. Now that the couple — who finally proclaimed their love for one another — have discovered their home is possessed by the spirits of dead couple Sam and Diane, fans are interested to see how that plot point progresses and whether the sinister fate of the dead couple could foreshadow inevitable disaster for Riverdale's newest sweethearts.

Among other earth-shattering paranormal events in the first five episodes of Season 6, Archie is dead, Veronica (Camila Mendes, "Palm Springs," 2020) sends Reggie (Charles Melton, "Bad Boys for Life," 2020) to Hell, Toni (Vanessa Morgan, "Finding Carter") accidentally kills Darla Dickenson's (Azura Skye, "One Missed Call," 2008) son and is haunted by La Llorona before eventually becoming the Mexican folkloric mourner herself, and both Kevin (Casey Cott, "Asking For It," 2021) and Jughead sell their souls.

Talk about an action-packed pre-hiatus cliffhanger!

Heading into the next part of the season with "Chapter One Hundred and One," the cast and crew of the series are keeping whatever information they have close to the chest for the sake of their fans. That said, audiences can expect more of the supernatural as Season 6 continues; something many fans have been asking for for a long time.

While discussing the events of the first five episodes of Season 6 in November 2021, showrunner Roberto Aguirre-Sacasa ("Chilling Adventures of Sabrina") told TVLine, "It was really important to make sure that they were what we call 'in continuity,' meaning that things that happen in Rivervale would continue or echo or speak to the events of Riverdale. Every year, we start very disparate storylines, and we always try to weave them all together, and this year is no exception."

Needless to say, the writers, producers, directors and actors seem to have a lot in store for the town of Riverdale throughout the remainder of the season — and, yes, the show will pick up back in the regular universe and away from the brief trip into Rivervale. Regardless, the occult drama of the first installment will find a way to play into the remainder of the season — fret not, Archie fans!

Hiram Lodge's (Mark Consuelos, "My Super Ex-Girlfriend," 2006) explosion at Archie's house and Jughead's subsequent hearing loss will pay a big part in driving the plot forward as of this week, while Veronica and Reggie's relationship doesn't appear to be getting any better than late last season (or, to be honest, in Rivervale). Betty (Lili Reinhart, "Hustlers," 2019) also appears to be having a heap of trouble in her own personal life, according to the 30-second promo trailer in which she sees plenty of stress between herself, ex-boyfriend Glen (Greyston Holt, "Bitten") and current boyfriend Archie (who did not die!)

At the end of the day, nothing is for certain in Riverdale, and each of its citizens must now face some of their biggest challenges yet. But from relationship squabbles to exorcisms and everything in between, Part 2 of "Riverdale" Season 6 will no doubt be a wild ride.

Don't miss it when it premieres Sunday, March 20, on CW. New episodes will be released weekly.

Saturday bestbets

Michael Gandolfini stars in "The Many Saints of Newark"

Great Chocolate Showdown

14.2 KFJX2 7:00 p.m.

The finale of this Canadian baking competition airs in a new-to-the-network episode this evening. Anna Olson, Steven Hodge and Cynthia Stroud host and act as judges as the top three home bakers create an epic assortment of show-stopping confections.

The Many Saints of Newark

HBO 7:00 p.m.

Michael Gandolfini brings his late father's most famous role back to life in this prequel film to HBO's hit series "The Sopranos." Vera Farmiga stars as Tony Soprano's mother, Livia, while Corey Stoll plays uncle Corrado 'Junior' Soprano in the late '60s.

American Pickers

HIST 8:00 p.m.

Mike and Robbie Wolfe pay big money on Uncle Butch's Wisconsin homestead in this first of two new episodes. Later, the show rolls through a look at the guys' most over-the-top and best wheels picks of all time, including Aerosmith's original tour van.

48 Hours

7 KOAM 9:00 p.m.

True crime stories are explored in great detail by journalists and experts in this news magazine series. The award-winning program has been instrumental in the reopening of cold cases and has led to the exoneration of numerous wrongfully convicted people.

Saturday Night Live

16 KSNF 9:00 p.m.

Fan-favorite sketches and hilarious guest hosts return in a rebroadcast of this live, late-night comedy staple, with host Regé-Jean Page and musical guest Bad Bunny. Lasting laughs and memorable moments have been made on this show, which began in 1975.

Melissa McBride stars in "The Walking Dead"

American Idol

12 KODE 7:00 p.m.

Auditions for Season 20 of this classic singing competition continue across Los Angeles; Austin, Texas; and Nashville, Tenn., in this new episode. Judges Katy Kerry, Lionel Richie and Luke Bryan make or break the dreams of hopeful singers.

The Great North

7.2 KOAM2 14 KFJX 7:30 p.m.

Honeybee agrees to help Moon with his school problems in this new episode, only to find out that he has something else on his mind. Meanwhile, the remainder of the Tobin family has their hands full with a moose problem. Nick Offerman lends his voice.

Weakest Link

16 KSNF 8:00 p.m.

Jane Lynch hosts this intense team trivia-show revival, in which contestants answer questions in order to bank money. At the end of each round, the team members vote out their underperforming "weak link," until only the top two players remain.

The Walking Dead

AMC 8:00 p.m.

Norman Reedus and Melissa McBride return for a new episode of this long-running zombie apocalypse series. The action ramps up as the show's final season inches toward a definitive conclusion that may reportedly differ from that of its source material.

S.W.A.T.

7 KOAM 9:00 p.m.

Former marine Daniel "Hondo" Harrelson (Shemar Moore) leads a specialized tactical unit in Los Angeles while attempting to bridge the gap between the place he grew up and his team in blue. Alex Russell and Amy Farrington also star in this hit drama.

'Be My Guest': Garten swaps stories, recipes with celebrities

By Michelle Rose
TV Media

Move over, true crime. If you love podcasts and food, or if you're in need of some lighter fare to watch or listen to, Ina Garten has some stories to share with you.

The Barefoot Contessa's newest series, "Be My Guest With Ina Garten," premieres Saturday, March 26, on Food Network. The project, however, is a multi-platform series — the first under a new multi-year deal inked last fall — meaning there are three different versions of the show to choose from: a food-focused half-hour show on Food Network, an hour-long extended cut on discovery+, and/or a companion podcast available on audio platforms.

"Be My Guest" is exactly what it sounds like. In each episode, Garten invites a special guest (or two) into her East Hampton home for a day of conversation, stories, sight-seeing and, of course, food.

In a statement, Courtney White, president of Food Network and streaming food content for Discovery Inc., said: "Without question, one of the most frequent inquiries I receive is, 'Can you help me get an invitation to Ina's for lunch?' 'Be My Guest' is just that, an invitation from Ina to our audience to join her and some of her favorite people as they share personal stories over cocktails and cooking favorite recipes. The multi-platform format allows for extended content, because no one is ready to leave Ina's garden after just a 30-minute visit!"

Ina Garten hosts friends in "Be My Guest"

Emmy winner Julianna Margulies ("The Good Wife") is Garten's first guest. In the series/podcast premiere, Garten and Margulies become fast friends while discussing their childhoods and careers over cocktails — Garten's Real Margaritas. After picking herbs in the garden, Margulies prepares her signature halibut with herb butter, while Garten suggests a "magic" ingredient that could take it to the next level. Later, the two end their day with a scenic drive to the beach.

Upcoming episodes will feature James Beard Award-nominated chef Erin French, broadcaster Willie Geist, and Hollywood director/producer duo Rob Marshall and John DeLuca ("Mary Poppins Returns," 2018). Expect Garten's husband to appear, too.

Viewers/listeners might be disappointed to learn there are only three episodes of "Be My Guest with Ina Garten" after the March 26 premiere, but don't worry, more episodes are coming. At least two more cycles have been greenlit, and production should start up again later this year.

'Atlanta' returns with European tour

By Sarah Passingham
TV Media

Donald Glover's ("Community") "Atlanta," one of the most critically acclaimed, highly anticipated dramedy series on television, premieres its third season on Thursday, March 24, on FX and for streaming via FX on Hulu following a four-year break since the series' Season 2 finale. That finale saw up-and-coming Atlanta rapper Alfred "Paper Boi" Miles (Brian Tyree Henry, "Widows" 2018) and his team boarding a flight for a European tour.

That very tour now takes the show out of its titular city and across the pond for the very first time.

"Atlanta" follows the life of Earnest "Earn" Marks, played by series creator Glover, as he tries to make something of himself, both personally and professionally, in his hometown of Atlanta, Georgia. Having dropped out of Princeton three years before fans meet him, Earn sets the plot in motion when he becomes motivated to succeed as his cousin Alfred's manager in the wake of his viral song as musician Paper Boi. Proving his own worth by getting Paper Boi radio play, things only improve for Earn from there — sort of. (Beware of spoilers ahead.)

While Earn eventually lands Paper Boi an opening spot on another local rapper's European tour, the road to Europe was a bumpy one, and one major disappointment along the way was Alfred's desire to headline a tour himself. While an "all in due time" approach may work wonders here, Alfred's disappointment is compounded by past letdowns as well.

Some of the tension surrounding the cousins' working relationship is built when Earn insists near the end of Season 2 that they forgo a budgeted hotel stay during a college concert appearance. Instead, they opt to stay with an acquaintance whose jealousy eventually leads them to an uncomfortable evening with a fraternity.

To intensify matters, Alfred's rap career has gained enough traction that he now has other management options in front of him, leaving Earn aware of the thin ice he's on and feeling the need to up his game again in Europe.

Earn's personal life, for its own part, has just as many ups and downs as Paper Boi's career. His roller-coaster relationship with his on-again, off-again girlfriend and mother to his daughter, Vanessa "Van" Keefer (Zazie Beetz, "Joker," 2019), keeps his life interesting, though more often than not it leads to frustrating and emotional situations.

In a 2018 interview with The New Yorker, Glover referenced the perilous nature of complications in love when finances are strapped and likened Earn's relationship with Van to issues he's seen in his personal life.

"This is every one of my aunts," Glover noted. "[They] have a kid with a guy, he's around, [they]'re still attracted to him" despite no longer being together.

Reflecting on how love isn't always easy and how money troubles often create a different situation for lower-income households, Glover continued: "Poor people can't afford to go to therapy."

While Season 2 left the couple not romantically together, Earn and Van did agree to connect more after learning that their daughter, Lottie (played by newcomer Mia Atehortua), is excelling beyond the realm of what public school can offer — a great thing overall but also stressful if the money isn't in place for a private school education.

Donald Glover and Zazie Beetz in "Atlanta"

The final member of Paper Boi's crew heading to Europe this season is his constant confidant, the hilariously aloof Darius Epps (LaKeith Stanfield, "Sorry to Bother You," 2018). Darius has been responsible for most of "Atlanta's" absurd humor since the very first episode when he introduces himself to Earn's father (Isiah Whitlock Jr., "The Wire") just before asking him, "Could I measure your tree?"

"Atlanta" has also had a very special way of pairing horror/distress with Darius' comedy, perhaps most notably in "Teddy Perkins" from Season 2. Tasked with picking up a piano from a seller, Darius meets eccentric recluse Teddy Perkins (played by Glover in unnerving, extensive prosthetic makeup), who corners him into a shocking scenario.

Of course, fans are looking forward to seeing that trademark humor (maybe even some of those horror elements, too) transplanted into a European setting for more mood-lightening laughs — the same laughs many fans have been missing between the show's notoriously long seasonal breaks.

There is good news on that front, however, as "Atlanta's" cast and crew seized an opportunity to film Season 4 while wrapping up production on Season 3 abroad. Even though FX revealed that Season 4 would be the last chapter for "Atlanta," and Glover joked with reporters at a Television Critics Association event in February that he "kind of wanted it to end after Season 2" as "the story was always supposed to be what it was," Season 4 is confirmed and filmed (in large part) already.

Whether you watch for the laughs, the drama, the odd scare or the astounding creativity and production that earned Glover an Emmy for Outstanding Directing for a Comedy Series in 2017 (he was the first Black director to ever receive the accolade), "Atlanta" has a little bit of something for everyone.

Tune in Thursday, March 24, for the Season 3 premiere of "Atlanta" on FX, or stream it via FX on Hulu, where the first two seasons are also available.

Late laughs

The Late Show with Stephen Colbert

Ukrainian cities are jammed with people trying to leave, and the people who couldn't get out are using subway stations as bomb shelters. And while you're down there, find that pants-less guy who's always on the train yelling, "The end is near," because I think we owe him an apology.

This [Putin wanting to "de-Nazify" Ukraine] is obviously a ridiculous claim. First of all, Zelenskyy's not a Nazi. He's from a Jewish background and he's barely even a politician — he's a former TV comedian. This is like if the U.S. invaded Canada to capture war criminal Eugene Levy. What I'm trying to say is: The world is up "Schitt's Creek."

Today [Feb. 23], Ukrainian President Zelenskyy declared a "30-day state of emergency," calling up all military reservists between the ages of 18 and 60. ... A platoon of 60-year-olds makes no sense! The Russians will hear our knees popping from a mile away.

For year's the U.S. women's soccer players have been fighting for equal pay, and this morning the U.S. Soccer Federation and women's players agreed to settle their lawsuit. ... It's a wonderful outcome, I just can't believe it took this long to reach this GOOOOAAL!

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon

Today [Feb. 24] President Biden held a press conference where he announced major new sanctions against Russia, saying that every asset they have in America will be frozen. Trump heard and was like, "Oh no, they're gonna freeze me!"

In the past few days, Elon Musk's net worth dropped below $200 billion. ... Now when he flies to space he has to connect in Cleveland.

Buckingham Palace announced that Queen Elizabeth has COVID and is dealing with mild symptoms. When asked how she was feeling, the queen said, "Well, we're not talking about Prince Andrew, so a lot better!"

The Late Late Show With James Corden

Today [Feb. 23] Vladimir Putin released a video and ... talked about "direct and honest dialogue," which sounds like someone's been to marriage counselling.

A Scottish theater company just set a new Guinness World Record. The company opened a box of mystery scripts and then staged a full musical in just nine hours, 59 minutes and three seconds. Listen, we make a TV show from scratch every single day, [that] doesn't mean it's a good idea.

Vladimir Putin has declared two areas of Ukraine "independent regions" and has sent troops across the border as "peacekeepers." Just so you know, I'm doing this [air quotes] because they're not actually peacekeepers. It's sort of like your wife drinking rosé with friends and calling it a "book club."

[U.K.] Prime Minister Boris Johnson has announced that he is ending all COVID restrictions in England starting on Thursday [Feb. 24]. In other words, England is Florida now. ... But this is a big change. Now people can live their lives completely free of restrictions. You know, just like Boris Johnson secretly did throughout the entire pandemic.

We've still got Q Anon waiting for JFK and rooting for the Russians, which — as we know — would be right up JFK's alley. He loved those Russians! The latest batch of crazy from the Q Klux Klan is that they are largely on Team Putin. They've been praising Russia's invasion of Ukraine, which is confusing. The Russian alphabet doesn't even have a Q in it, but they're all over this.

On top of everything else we have to worry about, now we've got alcoholic Mountain Dew. ... They're calling "Hard Mountain Dew." It's also known as "Mountain D.U.I."

Late Night With Seth Meyers

President Biden said on Friday [Feb. 18] that he is "convinced" that Russian President Vladimir Putin has already made the decision to invade Ukraine. Putin reportedly made the decision somewhere around his ninth birthday.

President Biden spoke yesterday from the East Room about the Ukraine crisis and said, "As Russia contemplates its next move, we have our next move prepared as well." Spoken like a man on the fifth row of Wordle with only two yellow squares.

Ted Danson stars in "Mr. Mayor"

Superman & Lois

14.2 KFJX2 7:00 p.m.

Clark (Tyler Hoechlin), Lois (Elizabeth Tulloch) and Natalie (Tayler Buck) notice a difference in John Henry's (Wolé Parks) behavior in this new episode. Meanwhile, Jonathan (Jordan Elsass) and Jordan (Alex Garfin) brace themselves for a big talk.

Mr. Mayor

16 KSNF 7:30 p.m.

Ted Danson stars as Neil Bremer, a rich businessman who was accidentally elected mayor of L.A. after running just to prove he had what it takes in Season 1. Now in Season 2, Bremer struggles to maintain his newfound morals amid politics and corruption.

7 Little Johnstons

TLC 8:00 p.m.

The Johnston family returns to TLC in an all-new episode from the series' 11th season. Parents Trent and Amber, and children Jonah, Elizabeth, Anna, Alex and Emma, are a fierce family of little people who won't allow anything to stand in their way.

Black-ish

12 KODE 8:30 p.m.

Dre (Anthony Anderson) learns that he's been nominated for an Ad World award, but may have to miss an important family function if he attends the ceremony in this new episode. Meanwhile, Olivia (Katlyn Nichol) returns from Yale for a visit.

FBI: Most Wanted

7 KOAM 9:00 p.m.

Roxy Sternberg stars as an FBI special agent operating under supervisory agent Jess LaCroix (Julian McMahon) in this spinoff. Their team hunts down the baddest of the bad, thinning out the FBI's infamous Most Wanted list in this procedural drama.

Eric Stonestreet hosts "Domino Masters"

Survivor

7 KOAM 7:00 p.m.

Placed on a remote island together, a group of men and women must compete in a series of challenges to remain the last contestant standing in a new episode of this long-running reality series. Now in its 42nd season, the show is hosted by Jeff Probst.

The Flash

14.2 KFJX2 7:00 p.m.

Barry (Grant Gustin) and Team Flash get closer to figuring out the Fire Meta but are no closer to finding him in this new episode. Meanwhile Iris (Candice Patton), needing a distraction, follows a story to the Coast City. Danielle Panabaker co-stars.

The Wonder Years

12 KODE 7:30 p.m.

This new series is an original take on the show of the same name from the late '80s. In this reboot set in Montgomery, Ala., a middle-class Black family has their story told through the eyes of their imaginative 12-year-old child, Dean (Elisha Williams).

When We Were Bullies

HBO 8:00 p.m.

Set into motion by a mind-boggling coincidence, filmmaker Jay Rosenblatt tracks down his fifth grade class and fifth grade teacher to examine their memory of and complicity in a bullying incident 50 years ago in this new, Oscar-nominated short film.

Domino Masters

7.2 KOAM2 14 KFJX 8:00 p.m.

Domino enthusiasts face off in a domino-toppling, chain-reaction tournament in this freshman competition series. Sixteen teams compete in themed challenges with custom elements to earn the Domino Masters crown. "Modern Family's" Eric Stonestreet hosts.

Katheryn Winnick and Kylie Bunbury star in "Big Sky"

Law & Order

16 KSNF 7:00 p.m.

Three back-to-back episodes from Dick Wolf's hit franchise begin with a new episode from this original series re-boot. A team of detectives apprehend criminals while prosecutors attempt to convict them. Hugh Dancy stars alongside Sam Waterston.

Restaurant: Impossible

FOOD 7:00 p.m.

Daniel, a former NASA physicist in Huntsville, Ala., thought it wouldn't be rocket science to make it in the restaurant business in this new episode. After 10 years of failures, he needs Chef Robert Irvine's help to save his soul food spot, Mizz Juju's.

Dr. Pimple Popper

TLC 8:00 p.m.

In a new episode from this medical reality series, Dr. Lee helps Tameru, a drag queen with a myriad of cysts that are a real drag. Also, Devon has uneven skin that she thinks may be from a decade-old hysterectomy, and Amy has large growths on her head.

Welcome to Flatch

7.2 KOAM2 14 KFJX 8:30 p.m.

A documentary crew explores the lives of the eccentric residents in the town of Flatch in this brand-new mockumentary-style comedy. Kelly (Holmes) starts her own ride share company called "Kuber" with Shrub (Sam Straley) as her business partner.

Big Sky

12 KODE 9:00 p.m.

Kylie Bunbury and Katheryn Winnick star as a private investigator and a former detective in a new episode of this procedural drama set in Montana. Season 2 shows the women's strengthened bond following the death of their dear, mutual friend early on.

Friday bestbets

John Lurie from "Painting With John"

WWE SmackDown

7.2 KOAM2 14 KFJX 7:00 p.m.

In its 23-year history, this live wrestling entertainment show has been attended by millions of fans and broadcast from 148 cities in seven countries across the globe. The crowds may be smaller post-COVID, but the action is just as intense as ever.

Charmed

14.2 KFJX2 7:00 p.m.

Mel (Melonie Diaz) is haunted by memories of her breakup with Ruby (Bethany Brown) in this new episode. Also, Maggie's (Sarah Jeffery) demon-hunting habit puts a strain on her relationship with Jordan (Jordan Donica). Rupert Evans also stars.

The Blacklist

16 KSNF 7:00 p.m.

Season 9 of this crime drama continues as former career criminal Raymond "Red" Reddington (James Spader) returns to the screen without profiler and long-time cat-to-his-mouse Elizabeth Keen (Megan Boone). Diego Klattenoff and Harry Lennix also star.

Painting With John

HBO 10:00 p.m.

American musician and co-founder of the Lounge Lizards John Lurie welcomes viewers into his home art studio in a new episode of this low-key series. Lurie takes to the canvas as he reflects on his past and shares personal anecdotes with the audience.

The Late Show With Stephen Colbert

7 KOAM 11:35 p.m.

Host Stephen Colbert entertains night owls with his sharp wit and willingness to get a little bit silly in this talk show at the Ed Sullivan Theater. He helps viewers digest news and political happenings, and earned the show a Peabody Award in 2020.

Nightmare Alley
Stanton Carlisle (Cooper) leaves his old life and joins a carnival where clairvoyant Madame Zeena (Collette) and her washed-up husband, Pete (Strathairn), take Stan under their wings and teach him the ways of cold reading. Using these skills alongside fellow carnival worker Molly (Mara), Stan gains a reputation among New York's finest and attracts the attention and help of a mysterious psychiatrist (Blanchett). Together, the two set their sights on a dangerous tycoon, but Stan's newest aide may turn out to be more dangerous than he is himself.
