PITTSBURG, Kan., — Vetlinks.org is sponsoring its fourth Links Fore Veterans 3-man scramble golf tournament at Crestwood Country Club on Saturday, Aug. 13, as part of its annual KavFest event to raise donations to support combat veterans and caregivers struggling from the effects of post-traumatic stress, traumatic brain injury, and substance abuse disorder.

Vetlinks.org was founded by Pittsburg native, St.

Mary's Colgan alumnus, PSU graduate, and combat veteran Major Brian Kavanagh, US Army, who lost his battle with post-traumatic stress in 2016. Through his wife, Jessica, and his family and lifelong friends, Vetlinks.org supports combat veterans and their caregivers as a non-profit organization by linking them to the resources and services that were not being provided by the Department of Veteran's Affairs.

Participants in the 2022 golf tournament can register now at https://vetlinks.org/em\_event/kavfest-2022/ with a donation ranging from $550 to $5,000, depending on desired participation level. Each participation level comes with various number of perks and swag, such as polo golf shirts, corporate advertising, stocked coolers, and number of teams entered in the tournament. All golf participants will be treated to lunch. There are also two non-playing options, ranging from $250 to $500.

"We had to raise some of the fees this year," said Dan McNally, event coordinator for VetLinks. "We understand prices are going up for everything and people have to choose what they spend their money on, but this is a worthwhile cause that helps veterans, both locally and nationwide, and it's how we keep Brian's legacy alive."

McNally said Vetlinks' first fundraisers started out as raffles held at various places in Pittsburg, including the Frisco Event Center and McCarthy's Pub, a favorite hang-out of Brian's during his college years. "But we needed something bigger," said McNally, "and we eventually decided on an annual golf tournament."

PPRD Dance Company receives awards at national competition

PITTSBURG, Kan. — After a decade of providing dance classes through the city, the Pittsburg Parks and Recreation Department (PPRD) Dance Company announced in May that the program would come to an end, and a new studio would emerge. As a final sendoff, 15 PPRD dance students collected several awards at the 5-day national competition Wednesday, June 1, through Sunday, June 5, in Branson, Missouri.

After the studio where she formerly taught closed, Beth Bradshaw, head instructor at PPRD Dance Company, first approached the Parks and Recreation department a little over 10 years ago and pitched her idea for teaching dance classes through the city.

Therapist combines passion for music with massage

OLIVE L. SULLIVAN
Morning Sun Columnist

PITTSBURG, Kan. — Massage therapist Kelli Passeri combines sound with touch for a powerful healing experience.

"Vibroacoustic therapy is where you use an object, like the mat I have on my table, and the music vibrates through it," she explained.

The mat is designed with a transducer, like a speaker, but it only vibrates. The stereo field is created by two other speakers underneath the table. The client not only hears relaxing music, but the vibration helps with brain entrainment and relaxation.

"When the body is relaxed and your mind's relaxed, the body can heal itself," Passeri said.

"The mat has music built into it, but I don't use it," she said. "I use our music, which is recorded in Stelli Theater by me and my husband and our band."

Stelli Theater is a music studio and small venue Passeri and her husband, Steve Passeri, built in the back room of their house. Her massage studio is at the front, by the main entrance.

During the Covid lockdown, when her massage studio was closed, the couple recorded a CD of meditation music that Passeri likes to use with her vibroacoustic mat.

"It gave us the time to focus on it," she explained. "That's a positive thing. Our music has frequency engineered into it that puts your body into that relaxed state." The CD is called "Serenity."

Both Kelli and Steve Passeri have been involved with music for most of their lives. Kelli Passeri says she started singing and playing instruments when she was three, and she sang in the church where her father was pastor. Steve Passeri has been in bands since he was 14, and worked in radio. He is the engineer and producer for their current band, Amanita.

All Passeri's massage therapies have the vibroacoustic mat built in, but clients can also choose to just lay on the mat without touch.

"It's like a sound massage," she said, adding,

"But nobody's ever taken me up on it."

Passeri has been offering massage for nine years. She trained at City Pointe Beauty Academy in Webb City and worked at a variety of places before starting her own business, Sound and Stone Massage, five years ago.

"For years, I had set up the speakers and put one under the table with a real low frequency, and then I found this vibroacoustic therapy," she said. "That's what I'd been trying to do all these years and didn't know it."

She said she had been researching sound therapy when she found the Biomat at a place in New York. She learned about the benefits of sound on the body from a friend, Lastacia Ross, who offers a sound healing meditation once a week at Eclectic Soul Studio in Pittsburg.

"I send a lot of my clients there," Passeri said.

Passeri has also researched the benefits of different sound frequencies to see how they could help the body and the mind.

The brain has several different frequencies, she said. Alpha brain waves vibrate at a slower frequency, while theta brain waves are the ones that occur when you are sleeping or dreaming.

Music helps the brain fall into one of these slower states, which encourages mental and physical relaxation, she said.

Many people think of massage as a pampering experience, but Passeri said for many of her clients, it is less about luxury and more about pain management.

"Holding onto tension all day depletes our resources," she explained. "It exhausts us and our bodies can't fight off everyday stress."

A standard massage has many benefits, including detoxing and pain relief. It's also good for digestion. But add the sound element, and you reap even greater healing power, Passeri said.

Her business offers optional add-ons with each massage service, including hot Himalayan salt stones, which are soothing, she said.

"You absorb the Himalayan salt so it's detoxifying. It's exfoliating too, because you get salt on your back and I can rub it in."

She said in a recent interview that at the time, she missed having dance in her life and wanted to bring the joy of dance to children again.

Bradshaw started the PPRD Dance Company with only 12 kids, and ended this year with 75. She said that the program was growing beyond the capacity of what the department had envisioned for the program, and so Bradshaw said she would take the program and start her own studio.

"It was an amicable decision for me to take the program and do something myself to be able to facilitate that growth," she said.

Bradshaw made the announcement of the change to the dancers' parents at the dress rehearsal for the recital on Saturday, May 7.

"The city has been wonderful," she said. "It's been a wonderful program, and they've been very supportive. And they still are going to being super supportive. It's a really good thing."

Bradshaw and her competition dancers, Star Squad, decided to end PPRD Dance with a bang when they attended their very first national dance competition, after qualifying at regionals.

The Star Squad competition team was formed six years ago, and although the group had qualified for nationals before, they made the commitment to attend for the first time this year.

In addition to 12 of their dances qualifying, Bradshaw said that two of her dancers were selected to be a part of the national performance team, which got to learn from a nationally recognized choreographer during the five-day event and perform a huge production on the last day of the competition. There were only 35 dancers across the nation selected for the national performance team.

By the end of the competition event, all 12 of the dances PPRD Dance performed received gold ratings, as well as three judges' choice awards. Six of the dances received high point awards, and three dances placed 2nd, 3rd, and 4th place in the competition.

"That's why we have competition teams," Bradshaw said. "It is that we want to give those dancers that put in the effort and they put in the drive and they have the passion, we want to give them those opportunities that they wouldn't necessarily have. Give them the opportunity to dance with nationally recognized choreographers and compete against kids across the United States and show them with their hard work and dedication they can succeed. It was definitely a very memorable week full of awesome experiences, and I'm just so happy that that was the note that PPRD Dance got to go out on, because it was the highest one we've ever achieved. And I'm so unbelievably proud."

Bradshaw said she will not only be having her own studio called Break the Ceiling Athletics, but she is also developing a store where dance costumes, shoes, bags, and other dance necessities will be sold. She said she has partnered with the other dance companies in the area to see what they would need that she could provide in her store called Releve Dance Shop.

Bradshaw said this was not the end of PPRD Dance Company's spirit, just a transition and renaming. She said she is looking forward to having a space where she can have dance classes going on six nights a week and seeing what the future holds for her dancers.

"They work so hard," Bradshaw said. "All of our kids are so involved. They're not dancers that only do 25 hours of dance a week. They are softball players, actors, and they go to piano lessons and play soccer and still get straight As. That's what being a kid is all about is being able to experience all of that. So just being able to put that little cherry on the top was just super special."

Sixth Missouri defendant pleads guilty to catalytic converter theft scheme

Staff Reports
news@morningsun.net

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. — Six Springfield and Rogersville, Missouri, residents have pleaded guilty in federal court to their roles in a scheme to transport tens of thousands of stolen catalytic converters across state lines.

Evan Marshall, 24, of Rogersville, pleaded guilty Thursday to one count of transporting stolen property across state lines, according to the U.S. Attorney's Office for the Western District of Missouri.

Six of the seven defendants indicted in this case have now pleaded guilty. Co-defendants Cody Ryder, 30, Enx Khoshaba, 29, Leslie Ice, 37, and Eric Kaltenbach, 37, all of Springfield, and Camren Joseph Davis, 25, of Rogersville, have pleaded guilty to their roles in a conspiracy to transport stolen property across state lines.

By pleading guilty, Marshall admitted to transporting stolen catalytic converters, valued at $1 million or more, across state lines from December 2019 to October 2021. He also admitted to buying tens of thousands of stolen catalytic converters from his co-defendants and from other thieves, and selling them for a total of about $1 million.

Marshall began selling catalytic converters to a company in Mountain Home, Arkansas, in 2019. In the late fall of 2019, the owners of the company asked Marshall if he would begin purchasing catalytic converters in southwest Missouri and sell to them exclusively. By January 2020, the owners of the Mountain Home company were wiring Marshall hundreds of thousands of dollars monthly so Marshall could purchase a higher volume of catalytic converters.

By December 2019, Marshall had enlisted Davis to work for him. Marshall provided Davis with hundreds of thousands of dollars to purchase catalytic converters.

In July 2020, a Springfield Police Department detective contacted Davis about his catalytic converter purchases. Despite being put on notice that he was purchasing catalytic converters from thieves, Davis continued purchasing stolen catalytic converters, according to the U.S. Attorney's Office.

In February 2021, Marshall also enlisted Ryder to work for him. As with Davis, Ryder's job was to purchase catalytic converters using cash Marshall provided. From February through October, Marshall provided Ryder with hundreds of thousands of dollars in cash. Davis and Ryder admitted that they each bought at least 1,500 stolen catalytic converters from thieves and sold them to Marshall for an aggregate amount of approximately $250,000 each.

From December 2019 through October 2021, in addition to buying through Davis and Ryder, Marshall also bought stolen catalytic converters directly from thieves. In July 2020, a Springfield PD detective contacted Marshall about his purchases from known thieves. Despite being notified that he was buying stolen catalytic converters, Marshall continued purchasing them.

Marshall admitted that he knowingly bought stolen catalytic converters from Davis, Ryder, Ice, Kaltenbach, Khoshaba, and at least six other thieves. Marshall transported and sold almost all of the catalytic converters, including the stolen catalytic converters, to the owners of the Mountain Home business, according to the U.S. Attorney's Of-ice. Marshall, Davis, Ryder hauled trailers containing between 800 and 1,200 catalytic converters each, many of which were stolen, from Rogersville to Mountain Home. Marshall transported catalytic converters from Rogersville to Mountain Home approximately every two weeks from December 2019 through October 2021.

Khoshaba admitted to stealing at least 60 catalytic converters from victims in Springfield and elsewhere between March 2021 and October 2021. Ice admitted stealing at least 50 catalytic converters, and Kaltenbach admitted stealing at least 80 catalytic converters.

Under federal statutes, Marshall is subject to a sentence of up to 10 years in federal prison without parole. Under the terms of Thursday's plea agreement, Marshall must also forfeit to the government more than $125,000 and property including dozens of firearms and several vehicles. Each of the other defendants is subject to a sentence of up to five years in federal prison without parole. Sentencing hearings have not yet been scheduled.

KAVFEST

Check-in begins at 7 a.m., with a shot-gun start at 8:30 a.m.

VetLinks' Board of Directors is made up of those who knew Brian personally. All are volunteers and most are centered in eastern Kansas, from Kansas City to Pittsburg, but a few are scattered across the country, from St. Louis to Baltimore. In partnership with Code of Support and USA Cares, they provide financial assistance and planning and counseling services as well as a crisis hotline for those that need help.

According to McNally, this tournament provides between 60 to 70 percent of VetLinks' funding for the year. Other fundraisers include smaller golf tournaments, cornhole tournaments, 5K and 10K runs, and corporate sponsorship of the organization's "Stories" section on its website.

McNally says the funds raised during the KavFest tournament provides services for up to 20 veterans. He said he is also working to provide more programs that specifically help local veterans, but has not finalized anything yet. For more information on how to donate or volunteer, visit vetlinks.org.

MESSAGE

Another option is cupping. "I use suction cups, usually on the back," she explained. "It pulls out stagnant fluid and lactic acid. It brings it to the surface where the body can eliminate it."

Cupping also increases circulation so things can be flushed out of the system, and works deeper tissue than she can with her hands alone.

"It kind of saves my hands, too," she said.

Passeri said she thinks she is the first person to offer vibroacoustic therapy in Pittsburg.

"Nearly everyone that comes in has never heard of it," she said.

Passeri is satisfied with her business, but she keeps researching and adding new treatments to help her patients. Other add-ons include aromatherapy, hot stones, reflexology, and a session on the inversion table.

She believes training as a Certified Nurse Assistant (CNA) also helps her be a better therapist because she learned a lot about anatomy and physiology.

Another aspect of her work is intuition. "Just caring for people is a big part of it," she said. "You have to be in tune with the people you work on. The more people come to me, the more I know where their problem areas are."

"My one regret, I guess, is not doing this sooner in life," she said.

She had considered becoming a teacher, and majored in art at Pittsburg State University before she found massage therapy and realized it was the right path for her.

She still keeps up with her art as well, painting and creating sculptural paintings by dripping wax. A beekeeper, she also makes beeswax candles that she sells in her shop. And of course, the music is always there.

But offering healing massage is close to her heart.

"I wish I had done it right out of high school," she said. "I guess that just makes me appreciate it more. I'm happy with it."

Blessed Are Those Who Hope in the Lord

We are blessed when we have a sincere hope that God is alive and working in our lives, and that we will someday have a future life in eternity with God. This blessedness comes at least in part from the power that this hope gives us to deal with all the problems and struggles of daily life. But if our hope in the Lord is only for what it brings in this life (that sense of optimism and strength because God is with us) and does not extend to a future life, our hope is pitiable, and even a cruel joke. There are of course many who see the finitude of this earthly life as what gives it meaning, and who believe that one finite life, however short or long, is enough. But if there is no future life in eternity, then most religions are in essence a cruel joke. This is not the place to judge who is right concerning a future life, and besides, the very real benefits that come from this hope in a future life are enough to recommend it. "But blessed is the one who trusts in the Lord, whose confidence is in him." Jeremiah 17:7 NIV

FROM OUR HISTORY

Considerable fire damage was reported at Sacred Heart Catholic Church

By Phil Burgert
news@morningsun.net

Excerpted stories in Crawford County newspaper archives

100 Years Ago

June 18-20, 1922
By an overwhelming vote the American Federation of Labor convention in Cincinnati today refused to consider a resolution to congratulate Alexander Howat and August Dorchy, Kansas miners' leaders, for their stand against the Kansas industrial court. During the debate charges of "liar" were passed between President John L. Lewis of the miners' union, who expelled Howat and Dorchy from the union, and Joseph Lynam, a delicate from the Peoria trades and labor assembly, who introduced the resolution.

An airplane that can remain stationary in the air, the helicopter machine, is the invention of Emil Berliner of Washington, D.C., a former dry goods clerk, and a cousin of Sam Israel of this city. Apparently successful trials of the new helicopter airplane were conducted yesterday near College Park, Md., in the presence of experts from the navy department's bureau of aeronautics.

The very difficult and long play "Hamlet" was given last night at Carney Hall with admirable skill and precision by the Shakespeare Playhouse of which Frank McEntee is director. A not large audience listened with rapt and enthusiastic attention throughout the performance and generously applauded the work of the artists. The scenes with action in them and longer speeches were particularly well given.

June 26 to July 1 has been set aside as "Smilin' Through" week for Pittsburg businessmen and firms. The announcement is carried in the weekly bulletin by the Retailers' association to the membership. The following verse is quoted in the announcement: "Laugh and the world laughs with you, weep and you weep alone; for the cheerful grin will let you in where the knocker is never known."

With only one more week to complete the bowling schedule at the Y. M. C. A., the high school bowlers head the percentage list, with .846, while their closest rival, the Pittsburg Ice company, has 769 points. The high school has three more games to play, and the ice company two.

June 18-20, 1972
Considerable fire, smoke and water damage was reported following a Sunday afternoon fire in the rectory at the Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Frontenac. According to Frontenac Mayor Reg Costello, the fire started in the stove in the rectory kitchen but the exact cause of the fire was unknown. Damage was mainly confined to the kitchen and north bedrooms. Fire trucks and officials were at the scene for over two hours.

More than 1,500 people have attended the exhibit of collections of the Four State Association. Seventy dealers from throughout the nation, including one from Seattle, Wash., have taken part in the event at the National Guard Armory. The exhibit closes today. On display are antiques, coins, stamps, guns, postcards, etc. Admission is free.

Registered Holsteins in the dairy herd owned by William N. Beezley, Girard, have tested above the national average in milk and butterfat production. Top producer was Princess Dee, five-year-old, which produced 24,000 pounds of milk and 917 pounds of butterfat in 365 days. Average production of a dairy cow is estimated at 9,388 pounds of milk and 345 pounds of butterfat in a year.

Kathryn Benage, Pittsburg High School senior, was named queen of the Evelyn Thurman cheerleading clinic held recently at Northeastern State College, Tahlequah Okla. Her twin sister, Kristyn Benage, was runner up. Winners were selected on modeling, poise, personality and honor points by other girls participating in the clinic. About 200 high school and junior high students from Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Pennsylvania and Oklahoma took part in the week-long clinic.

Gary Witt of Wichita grabbed all three first places in the expert class - 125, 250 and Open - to highlight the motocross races held at Freddie Van's Cycle Land yesterday afternoon. Witt collected $160 for his three wins. In all he won all his heats and the three features for nine wins. Pittsburg had two winners with Bob Schulz taking the 200 Novice (B) and Gary Lundquest winning the Open Novice.

25 Years Ago

Gene DeGruson, 64, described as a "southeast Kansas treasure," died at St John's Regional Medical Center, Joplin. He served as curator of special collections and archivist at Pittsburg State University, and PSU president John Darling said DeGruson's death was "a great blow to the university." DeGruson was known throughout the nation as a specialist in the history of Kansas, and was serving on the board of the Kansas State Historical Society.

A local man accused of beating up a Pittsburg resident in August of 1996 has been found guilty of aggravated battery but was found innocent of terrorist threats and misdemeanor battery. After deliberating for 3 1/2 hours, a jury found Ricky Ray Stevens guilty of aggravated battery in the Crawford County District Court in Girard, convicting him of severely beating Scotty Bitner.

After two years of discussions and a whole bunch of research, the board of trustees of the Baker Township Fire Department recently bought two new fire trucks, taking delivery of the vehicles at the end of April. Now, the department is planning an open house Sunday both to show off the new trucks and to meet with the citizens they serve at the fire department's south station on Langdon Lane.

Much of Mario Runco's career has been devoted to the conquest of space. Yesterday, he helped a group of fourth and fifth graders overcome distance. Runco, a NASA astronaut and veteran of three space flights, talked with students attending the Greenbush Astronomy Camp with the use of interactive distance learning technology. Runco spoke to the children from the Johnson Space Center at Houston.

More than 100 area Cub Scouts converged on Pittsburg's Lincoln Park this weekend, ending up at the aquatic center for a cooling finale to the annual Cub Scout Day Camp. Scouts and their leaders came from all over the Osage district of the Boy Scouts, including some from as far away as Fort Scott. Other cities represented include Walnut, Hepler, McCune, Cherokee, Girard, Frontenac and Pittsburg.

TRUE STORIES

Arlo takes me for a walk

J.T. KNOLL
Morning Sun Columnist

Covid or no Covid, Arlo the Labradorian had to be taken out to do his business when I was in quarantine. So, at the appointed time each morning, we set off (several days in a pouring rain) so he could do a #3 (that's a #1 plus a #2).

Fatigue being my main Covid affliction, our walks were shorter. I also decided to make them "follow that dog" walks. Which is to say, I followed him up whichever alley or street he chose, and at his pace. The Labradorian didn't have a turn signal to blink. His indicator was to stop dead in his tracks and give me a pleading, hangdog stare.

Arlo's natural tempo is less a walk than a meander, which was no problem with me as I prefer to walk with the freedom to go slowly and turn a different direction at my whim. As Robert Louis Stevenson put it, "to follow this way or that, as the freak takes you."

I've long been a student of walking and walkers. You can tell a lot about a person by how they walk. My wife's a Zoomer (an Italian model with lots of chrome). Terms like whoosh, whiz and zip would match her style. I'm a Plodder. Words like stroll, saunter, meander—even traipse—come to mind.

Some walks are classics, like the man we used to call "Floatin' Willie" who daily traveled the sidewalk back and forth on Broadway past The White Buffalo Café' back in the mid '80s. A small man, he floated up the street like a cork bobbing in a slow rippling stream.

Everybody has their own peculiar walking style. The Pentagon recently developed advance radar that can identify up to 95% of individual walks—as distinct as a person's fingerprints.

Eric Weiner says in his book, "The Socrates Express," that when we walk, we are simultaneously doing and not-doing. The mind thrives at the speed of a moderately paced walk.

Weiner observes that it's no wonder that so many philosophers walked. Socrates liked to stroll. Nietzsche, who regularly went on two-mile jaunts, was convinced that, "all truly great thoughts are conceived by walking." Thoreau regularly took four-hour treks across the Concord countryside, stopping to fill his pockets with flowers, seeds, arrowheads, and other treasures.

Getting back to the Labradorian, my observations are that other than getting out to do his business, a walk is mainly an opportunity to follow his nose, as it leads him to forbidden treats like roadkill, bones, and McDonald's fries (Drop that! Leave it!).

Like all dogs, his schnoz also provides him much more information than the way something looks, feels, sounds, or tastes in general. Labrador retrievers, even more than most dogs, can detect tiny traces of substances that are completely undetectable by humans. In fact, their sense of smell may be up to a million times greater than ours—even able to detect substances undetectable by advanced technology.

So, it's no wonder Arlo loves to make lots of stops and starts for "pee-mail" and feels compelled to sniff and smell about everything in his path. Most of the time he does this with nose-to-the-ground tracking, but other times he stops and raises his nose to the breeze moving his head ever so slowly side to side. And if a walker approaches from the other direction, he cuts over after they've passed to get a whiff of their wake.

On the subject of dogs in general, my favorite reference librarian, Carol Ann Robb, sent me a list of dog self-help books a while back, a few of which I'd like to share. "How to Give Humans the Illusion of Being in Charge," "100 Ways to Make Your Owner Feel Guilty," "The Art of the Silent Part," and "1,000 Ways to Get More Treats." I think the Labradorian's been reading them. Maybe your dog has too. Or written some.

As for my Covid-required change in perambulation, I found it to be a welcome break from my usual walking for weight management and fitness. I paused repeatedly with Arlo to look around (sometimes turning 360 degrees) and observe the neighborhood houses, yards, and trees (especially the catalpas with their orchid-like blossoms). Also looked deeper into newly bloomed flowers—the delicate folds of hot pink roses, the purple beards of irises.

Even though I'm now out of quarantine and have begun increasing the pace and distance of our walks, I sometimes give in to Arlo's "I want to change direction" stare and follow him willy-nilly up a different street or alley.

Also stop, Labradorian style, to stick my proboscis into a grouping of yellow and white honeysuckle blossoms—or break open a green catalpa bean and hold it just below my nose to savor the smell of Kansas summer.

Working with the Legislature, not against it, yields successes for Kansas

By Derek Schmidt

Kansas Attorney General and Republican Candidate for Governor

Each year as Attorney General, I have proposed legislation to make our state better and then worked cooperatively with legislators to get the job done. This year, I'm particularly grateful for the bipartisan support many of our proposals received. For example:

Debt & savings: Before legislators convened, I recommended using at least $1 billion of the state's current budget surplus to prepay debt owed to the Kansas Public Employees Retirement System (KPERs). This saves taxpayers hundreds of millions of dollars in future debt service while further securing the pensions owed to thousands of police, firefighters, teachers and other public retirees. I also recommended setting aside not less than $500 million in a rainy-day fund to help stabilize state services when the next economic downturn inevitably comes. The Legislature did both.

Food & fence taxes: Last fall, I recommended reducing or eliminating the state sales tax on groceries and sales tax relief for fencing supplies needed to rebuild wildfire-damaged farms and ranches. Both got done.

Child pornography offenders: We discovered a loophole in state law that allowed offenders who trade online visual depictions of child sexual abuse to avoid registering as sex offenders. We recommended closing that loophole, and the Legislature agreed. Now, anyone convicted of trading child pornography must register as a sex offender.

Sex Offender Civil Commitment: For years, the state's process for committing sexually violent predators for treatment at Larned State Hospital sometimes resulted in lengthy periods of detention in county jails not well-suited to house them. We helped the Legislature reform that process to more quickly move these violent predators out of county jails and to Larned at less cost to local property taxpayers.

Sanctuary cities: When a local government adopted an ordinance to hamper law enforcement cooperation with immigration authorities, I recommended state law to prevent local political interference with law enforcement. The Legislature agreed. The measure also helps fight identity theft and reinforces election integrity by limiting use of local-government identification cards to local purposes.

Drug-treatment prison: For many years, I have worked to establish a dedicated drug-treatment prison for Kansas. Certain offenders whose misbehavior is caused by addiction—think burglars who repeatedly steal to buy drugs—would be sentenced to a specialized prison for intensive drug treatment while incarcerated. The goal is to change future behavior. We finally got that done and this year obtained funding to operate the new 240-bed facility at Lansing.

Rules & regulations oversight: After I joined in proposing a 'legislative veto' over state agency rules and regulations, the Legislature put that question on the ballot for voters to decide in November. The people through their elected legislators—not unelected government employees—should have the final say on agency regulations. After all, the Legislature gave the agency power to regulate in the first place.

Elected sheriffs: Sheriffs are uniquely accountable law enforcement officials because they are elected by the people. I was pleased to work closely with the Kansas Sheriffs Association as they proposed to secure our current system of electing sheriffs; the Legislature agreed, and voters will decide in November.

Sexual assault kits: When I began serving as attorney general, Kansas had a large backlog of untested sexual assault kits collected by law enforcement agencies statewide. We worked diligently and collaboratively to eliminate that backlog, and now—thanks to legislation we backed this year—Kansas law requires kits be submitted for testing so the backlog never happens again.

Despite the record number of vetoes by our governor, not everything in Topeka needs to be as cantankerous as it may appear. Working effectively and professionally with legislators can accomplish good things for Kansas.

Grown child wants mom to move past divorce

DEAR ABBY
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: When my sibling and I were 6 and 10, our parents sat us down and told us they were getting a divorce because Dad had an affair. Mom was, to say the least, incredibly hurt. Her hurt and resentment haven't subsided to this day. Dad has never apologized to her, but he has supported her financially ever since. Mom has tried therapy, but the minute a therapist upsets her, she stops going. My parents both now live near my sister to help care for her twins. Mom is constantly upset with things Dad does or that he's not friendly enough with her. She says he is nicer to strangers than he is with her. I don't want to seem insensitive, but they have now been divorced longer than they were married. It's exhausting, and it is starting to feel like we are enabling her. I hate that what happened has defined the last two decades of her life. Is there something I can say to communicate that it's way past time to be over this, but in a nicer way that may be helpful, and maybe won't leave her too much room to tell me I'm victim blaming? -- WHAT'S PAST HAS PASSED

DEAR WHAT'S PAST: I, too, am sorry about what happened to your parents' marriage. That your mother has been unable to move beyond the divorce and quits therapy the minute a therapist says something she doesn't want to hear is very sad—for her. What you need to understand is that some people cling to their "victimhood" for comfort. It buffers them from having to recognize their own contribution to their failure. Because you have tried in the past without success to help your mother let go of her bitterness, I'm advising you to stop trying. For your own sake, when she starts complaining about your father, change the subject, end the conversation or tune out. Enabling her isn't helping either of you.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have a business and work together. He takes care of sales, and I keep the books. I have raised his children, scheduled all appointments and taken care of everyone's needs, including the pets. I also do all the cooking, cleaning, laundry, shopping, etc. I tend to suffer from depression and need at least eight hours of sleep each night. Because of this, I work at the office only four to five hours a day. My husband cannot understand why I don't work eight to 10 hours a day. I get done what NEEDS to be done. Of the many other businesses we've known, the wives are expected to do this. How do I make him understand? -- WORKING ENOUGH IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR WORKING ENOUGH: From your description of your weekly activities, you are not only living up to normal expectations, but exceeding them. Explain to your husband that people are individuals. Human bodies aren't all function alike. If he can't get that through his head, have your doctor explain it to him. Has he considered what it would cost him to hire someone else to do all the jobs you are doing? Perhaps he should consider that before criticizing and flogging you to do more. Tell him you'll spend an extra hour or so at the office if he agrees to take up some of the slack at home.

P.S. I can understand why you "tend to suffer from depression." You are married to a slave driver.

CHEROKEE, Kan. — Investigators with the Crawford County Sheriff's Office on Tuesday arrested Timothy Fortine of Cherokee, 38, on a warrant for aggravated indecent liberties with a child under age 14, aggravated criminal sodomy with a child under 14, and rape.

Fortine was being held Friday at the Crawford County Jail in lieu of a $500,000 bond. He is presumed innocent unless and until all allegations against him are proven beyond a reasonable doubt in a court of law, the sheriff's office noted in announcing his arrest. The investigation into this incident remains ongoing. Anyone having information related to this incident, or other incidents, is urged to contact the Crawford County Sheriff's Office at 620-724-8274.

Mustangs cruise past Post 64

By Sam Kombrink
Morning Sun Staff

The Midwest Mustangs defeated the Pittsburg American Legion Post 64 Patriots 10-2 on Friday morning in the 18-under Pittsburg State Invitational at Al Ortolani Field.

The Mustangs scored the first runs of the game in the first inning as Landin Midgett and Wyatt Foley each drove in a pair of runs to go up 4-0.

In the third inning, Brett Sarwinski reached on an error, followed by a single to left by Kolt Ungeheuer. Mario Menghini then hit a double to drive in Sarwinski, and Midgett grounded out to second to score a run and make it 6-0.

The Patriots scored their runs in the fifth after Hunter Bennett was hit by a pitch and Ethan Rhodes singled. Kameron Williamson then singled to right field to score both runners to make it 6-2. Sarwinski doubled to right, stole third and scored on Ungeheuer's single to make it 7-2.

In the sixth, the Mustangs' Logan Myers and Kam Koester drew back-to-back walks before Eli Cheaney doubled to center to score Myers.

To start the seventh, Alex Coester hit a double, followed by a single to left by Cade Beshore that drove in one. Beshore was thrown out attempting to steal second, but Cheaney then hit a triple to left, followed by a single by Seth Stover that drove in the final run.

OAK GROVE 6

A two-run home run belted to right field by Logan Myers gave the Mustangs a 6-5 lead in the seventh. Oak Grove then responded with a single by Connor Hernandez that drove in one, and the game ended in a tie.

Cole Chaney got it started in the second by drawing a walk, followed by a single to left by Hernandez that drove in the first run of the ballgame.

Beshore put the Mustangs on the board in the third after belting a home run over the left field wall to tie the ballgame.

Haidern Armstrong, Shayton Wright and Seth Huffmen all singled to load the bases for Oak Grove, and a Dalton Chaney double to center drove in two.

The Mustangs replaced Collin McCartney with Hadley Price, but Oak Grove did not go away. Cole Chaney and Mason Fischer both singled, followed by a Hernandez single to left field that drove in two.

In the fourth, the Mustangs responded with a double by Ungeheuer, followed by a walk by Coester. Beshore then singled to load the bases, and a triple by Wyatt Foley drove in three to make it 5-4.

Book continues legacy of Craig Crespino

By Aaron Pyle
Morning Sun Staff

GIRARD, Kan. — “In the course of a lifetime, only a handful of happenings impact our lives so profoundly that we never forget where we were when we first received word of the news.

“For anyone living in or around the small town of Girard, Kansas, during the summer of 2006, the tragic and completely unexpected death of Girard High School head football coach Craig Crespino will forever be one of those events.”

Those two paragraphs are how Nancy Bauer begins the prologue of the book “For Coach, An Inspiring True Story of Tragedy and Triumph” that she’s written about her friend, former coach, teacher and mentor Craig Crespino, who came to Girard in 1985 creating a legacy that touched the lives of countless people.

On July 21, 2006, Crespino was electrocuted and 16-year-old Jace Cobb was severely burned while trying to move a goal post at the Girard High School football practice field. The two were moving a steel pipe goal post when it grazed a 7,200-volt power line just before noon.

Self-published by Bauer, the 215-page book details Coach Crespino’s life, death and legacy.

“For so many years, Blaise (Bauer, her husband) and I would talk about the impact that Craig Crespino had on our community and the impact his death had on our community and just the way the community responded,” she said. “Some of those interesting stories that went around were just people feeling kind of like Craig was still with them.

“It was just such an amazing time in our town’s history. We just thought that it’s such a shame that it’s going to get forgotten. As the new graduating classes come up, Glenna (Crespino) and I had talked about that, too, fewer and fewer of those students really knew who Craig really was. We just thought that’s just not acceptable. Somebody needs to write this down.”

Glenna Crespino, Craig’s wife, noted the book’s immediate impact prior to its publishing.

“Nancy had brought a paper copy of the book for me to go over and make adjustments,” she said. “My oldest grandboy, Maddox, he’s 8, said ‘She’s writing a book about my papa’ and I said yes. Then he said ‘Well he’s going to be more famous than he already is.’”

On Friday when Bauer released the book to the public, Coach Crespino was honored during the 14th annual Fallen Trojan Tournament for his efforts on and off the field.

“We tried for last year during football season, but we weren’t quite satisfied with how all it was and that it needed more about his life, not just his death,” Glenna said. “So we worked on it some more and it’s just been incredible preserving through this. Hopefully, it touches a lot of people.”

In addition, the book details how the Trojans’ high school football team came together and helped heal the community and honored their fallen coach in the only way they knew how, by winning. Together, with the help of then principal, now superintendent, Blaise Bauer and his dedicated coaching staff, the Trojans captivated the Four-State area and the entire state of Kansas with one of the best seasons in school history, making it all the way to the state semifinals for the first time in football program’s 100-year history.

“The book is about how Craig came to Girard, the impact he made in Girard,” Nancy Bauer said. “It’s of course about the accident and the impact that that made on our community. It’s about the team, which was suddenly three days from football camp and they were left without their leader who they loved, and so it’s about that team and them coming together and saying ‘We’re going to do this for him, we’re going to do this for coach, this season is for coach.’ It’s his legacy.

“I also think I would be remiss if I didn’t say it’s about two praying men really who got used and put in the right place at the right time to just see a community through a difficult time.”

graduated from Pittsburg State in 1983. He taught and coached at Frontenac High School from 1983-85. Following Frontenac, Crespino began his everlasting legacy at Girard High School as a coach, teacher and athletics director from 1985-2006.

Post 64 falters against Natural Baseball in PSU tournament

By Dashuan Vereen

Natural Baseball Marucci Jones scored four runs in the top of the first inning on its way to a 14-2 win over Pittsburg Post 64 on Friday afternoon.

Post 64 is hosting the eight-team tournament at Pittsburg State’s Al Ortolani Field. The Patriots will return to action on Saturday to take on Oak Grove at 9 a.m.

Oak Grove battled the Midwest Mustangs to a 6-6 tie earlier in the day. Edge Black 23 also topped the Midwest Scouts 17-3.

Tucker Akins led Post 64 with two hits. Six different batters finished with one hit for the Patriots, who struggled to get runs across the board against Natural Baseball starter

Mitch Mauk.

The 6-foot-6, 230-pound right-hander tossed three shutout innings, allowing five hits with three strikeouts.

“We dug ourselves into a hole early,” said Post 64 coach Tyler Brynds. “We have to not get down on ourselves and keep the energy up. When teams get up on us, we need to not roll over and keep fighting and see what we can get out of it.”

Akins was responsible for the Patriots’ lone RBI of the game, hitting a single in the sixth after Kameron Williamson opened the frame with a double.

Five Natural Jones batters finished with two hits, and as a team they out-hit the Patriots 12-8. Post 64 will look to open Saturday’s early game with more urgency.

“In tomorrow’s game we need to come out with higher energy,” said Brynds. “We need to really dominate the first inning. In these last two games we lost the first inning and dug ourselves into a hole early. If we can get ahead in the first, I think it will be a big energy and morale boost moving forward.”

Sooners get on roll early, beat Aggies 13-8 in CWS opener

By ERIC OLSON

AP Sports Writer

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Jackson Nicklaus hit a grand slam, Jake Bennett pitched six strong innings and Oklahoma jumped on No. 5 national seed Texas A&M early in a 13-8 win in the College World Series opener Friday.

The Sooners scored seven runs with two outs in the second inning to lead 8-0 and then turned back the Aggies' comeback bids in the highest-scoring CWS game since 2008.

"We talked about being a team of Davids and attacking the giant," Nicklaus said. "That's been our team motto lately. We just want to attack the game and play with no fear. We had a game plan. We wanted to execute early. We did."

The Sooners (43-22), who advanced to Omaha as a No. 2 regional seed, will play Sunday against the winner of the Notre Dame-Texas game Friday night. Texas A&M (42-19) will play the loser of that game.

Oklahoma won a week after the school's softball team earned its second straight Women's College World Series championship.

Texas A&M has lost nine straight CWS games over five appearances since it beat Kansas in 1993.

"There's been all kinds of different stories in this College World Series for many, many years," Aggies coach Jim Schlossnagle said. "We can either cower down and put our tail between our legs and go back to College Station or we can fight. My money is on our guys fighting."

Aggies starter Nathan Dettmer (5-3) lasted just 1 2/3 innings and left with his team down 5-0. He hasn't made it past the fifth inning since

Oklahoma's Jackson Nicklaus (15) hits a grand slam in the fourth inning against Texas A&M during an NCAA College World Series baseball game on Friday in Omaha, Neb. (AP PHOTO/JOHN PETERSON)

April and has allowed 30 earned runs in his last 24 2/3 innings (10.95 ERA).

Joseph Menefee took over for Dettmer, and Jimmy Crooks drove his second offering into the right-field bullpen for his eighth homer and an 8-0 lead.

Six Texas A&M pitchers combined to walk 10, hit three batters and strike out 12.

Oklahoma loaded the bases in the fourth on a bunt single, throwing error and walk before Nicklaus's grand slam made it 12-3.

"I thought we set the table really early, took the momentum in the game, early in the game," Oklahoma coach Skip Johnson said. "Settled Jake down a little bit."

Bennett (10-3), who allowed five hits and four earned runs, retired nine of the last 10 batters he faced.

The Aggies got homers from Jordan Thompson and Austin Bost, and they were within four runs in the seventh after three straight RBI singles and a run-scoring groundout.

It was the teams' first meeting since Texas A&M left the Big 12 after the 2012 season.

KYLER MURRAY IN HOUSE

Arizona Cardinals quarterback and 2018 Heisman Trophy winner Kyler Murray was on hand to watch the game between two schools he attended.

Murray spent his freshman football season at Texas A&M, where he started three games before transferring to OU after the 2015 season. He led the Sooners to the College Football Playoff in 2018.

Murray played outfield two seasons for the Sooners and was the No. 9 overall pick by Oakland in the 2018 Major League draft. Murray spoke to the team in Omaha on Thursday.

"When you have an ex-player like him come back, you know you've done something to carve your name on his heart," Johnson said. "He shows that he cares about us, because we cared about him."

SQUIRES OUT

Oklahoma designated hitter Brett Squires broke his left hand when he was hit by a pitch in the third inning and will miss the rest of the CWS.

OU got a scare in the ninth when Chris Cortez's fastball hit Kendall Pettis in the ribs as he squared to bunt.

JUICED BALL?

Charles Schwab Field didn't play like the pitcher's park it has been since it opened in 2011. Oklahoma and Texas A&M combined for four homers to tie the stadium record, and the 424 homers in regionals and super regionals were an NCAA Tournament record.

NCAA officials said Thursday that ball specifications have not changed since the flat-seam ball was introduced in 2015. Schlossnagle isn't so sure.

"The ball has definitely changed," he said. "I'm not a big conspiracy theory guy, but there's a lot of coaches out there who think the ball has changed a lot, this particular season."

"I don't know enough about the science to say that's the case or not, but there's no question, whether it be older players or lack of good pitchers, the ball is flying everywhere this year."

Braves' 14-game win streak, Cubs' 10-game skid both end

By MATT CARLSON

Associated Press

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cubs became the first team in 23 years to stop a losing streak of 10 or more game while ending an opponent's winning streak of at least 10 games, beating the Braves 1-0 Friday to halt the Braves' 14-game run.

Rookie Christopher Morel hit a sacrifice fly in the eighth inning, helping the Cubs stop a 10-game slide, their longest since 12 straight losses from last Aug. 5-16.

Atlanta's 14 consecutive wins were the most for the Braves since their post-1900 record of 15 from April 16 to May 2, 2000.

Morel drove in the game's only run against reliever A.J. Minter after striking out in his first three at-bats, then getting some advice from catcher Willson Contreras.

"It helped me concentrate on what I needed to do, what to focus on with that tough lefty," Morel said. "Willson talked to me and told me, 'Don't look for stuff low around the plate. Look high.'"

A pair of double-digit streaks had not ended in the same game since Philadelphia beat Houston on Sept. 15, 1999, ending the Phillies' skid at 11 and the Brewers' winning streak at 12.

Chicago had not won 1-0 since May 28 last year against Cincinnati. The Braves lost 1-0 for the second time this year following a defeat at Milwaukee on May 16.

Minter (2-1) walked pinch-hitter Jonathan Villar leading off the eighth. He advanced on Andreton Simmons' sacrifice, stole third without a throw on Minter's 2-1 pitch in the dirt to Morel and scored on Morel's 277-foot fly to center with a steady wind blowing in at Wrigley Field.

Lopez loses to Royals in arbitration; Stallings has hearing

NEW YORK (AP) — Kansas City infielder Nicky Lopez lost his salary arbitration case with the Royals on Friday and will get $2.55 million instead of his $2.9 million request, a decision that clinched management's third straight winning record.

Teams lead 8-3 with just three cases pending. Melinda Gordon, Scott Buchheit and John Woods made the decision Friday, a day after hearing arguments.

Miami catcher Jacob Stallings has his hearing with the Marlins on Friday, asking for $3.1 million while the club argued for $2.45 million before Richard McNeill, Gary Klendellen and Fredric Horowitz.

The last two cases are scheduled for next week, involving New York Yankees outfielder Aaron Judge and Atlanta left-hander Max Fried.

Lopez had career bests of a .300 average and 22 stolen bases in 23 chances last season, when he had two homers and 43 RBIs. He made $597,500 and was eligible for arbitration for the first time.

The 27-year-old shortstop and second baseman is hitting .214 with five RBIs and four steals this year. Stallings hit .246 last year with career bests of eight homers and 53 RBIs, earning $1.3 million. He entered Friday with a .204 average, two homers and 21 RBIs.

No statistics or evidence from after March 1 are admissible other than contract and salary comparisons. The timing was set when Major League Baseball and the players' association agreed to the deal that ended the lockout.

In earlier decisions, Atlanta outfielder Adam Duvall ($9,275,000), Braves third baseman Austin Riley ($8.95 million), injured Atlanta reliever Luke Jackson

Mike Krull to coach Fort Scott boys basketball

By Aaron Pyle
Morning Sun Staff

Girard High School graduate Mike Krull was recently named head varsity boys basketball coach at Fort Scott High School. Krull coached the Parsons Vikings boys team for a decade (2003-13) and returned to coach the girls from 2015 to 2019. He succeeds Clint Heffern, who accepted the position of boys basketball coach at St. Mary's Colgan. Krull noted that a discussion with an assistant coach at Parsons sparked his interest in the position as he was eventually contacted by Fort Scott High School athletics director Jeff DeLaTorre. "I talked to one of the Parsons assistants after school one day," Krull said. "He wanted to come talk to me, and just talking to him sort of sparked an interest with me a little bit. Then Jeff called to let me know that they had an opening and wanted to know if I wanted to apply for it. ... One thing led to another. "I grew up in Girard, but I had a lot of family in Fort Scott. My dad coached a little bit in Fort Scott, so I've spent a lot of time there. ... I've always liked their setup as far as their gym goes. Now that they have two gyms, it's even better and they redid the school." Krull expressed his excitement in coaching the Tigers, who finished the 2021-22 season 3-17. He added that the Tigers basketball team recently competed in a jamboree in Parsons that featured the Vikings, Girard, Colgan and several other area teams. "We are still feeling things out," he said. "We've only been together three days, and just trying to put something in that looks like an offense and talk a little defense. Then once the season gets here, we'll really have to hammer what type of team we are." The Fort Scott High School expressed its excitement for Krull in the school's official announcement via Facebook on June 15. "Coach Krull is an experienced and well-respected coach that has enjoyed much success in his coaching career," the post said. "We are excited to have him on board and look forward to seeing the positive impact he will have on his students and the Tiger basketball program." In addition to coaching at Parsons, Krull has coached at Louisburg, Frankfort and Yates Center. In his career, Krull has claimed two league coach of the year awards at Parsons in 2011 and Frankfort in 1999. His 1999 Frankfort team finished fourth at state. Along with coaching the Tigers, he will also teach physical education at the high school.

Morikawa, Rahm, McIlroy bring buzz to Brookline in US Open

By DOUG FERGUSON
AP Golf Writer

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — The storms dodged Brookline and the stars began to emerge Friday in the U.S. Open. Collin Morikawa showed signs of emerging from pedestrian play at just the right time, matching the low score of the championship with a 4-under 66 for a share of the 36-hole lead with Joel Dahmen and a shot at a third straight year winning a major. He had plenty of company at The Country Club, one player in clear view.

Defending champion Jon Rahm played with Morikawa and did his best to keep pace with an eagle and a series of big par putts that felt just as valuable. Rahm had a 67 and was one shot behind in a group that included Rory McIlroy. McIlroy, coming of a win at the Canadian Open, was never more entertaining. He was two holes into his round when an errant approach landed in waist-high fescue. He took a hack. And then another. The third try finally found the green, and he holed a 25-foot putt to salvage a double bogey. McIlroy hit his stride on the back nine with three birdies over his last four holes for a 69. Not to be overlooked was Masters champion Scottie Scheffler, who chipped in from thick rough short of the par-5 14th green for an eagle that brought the Texan back into the mix with a 67. He was two shots behind. "It's the U.S. Open. No one has taken it deep so far and kind of run away," Morikawa said.

"The last few days is a huge confidence booster for me heading into this weekend, and hopefully we can kind of make some separation somehow." Morikawa, Rahm and Scheffler have combined to win four of the last nine majors. And then there's McIlroy, who has four majors by himself, but none since 2014. "I think it's great for the game of golf that the highest ranked players and the best players are up there, especially in the tournament where truly the best player ends up winning," Rahm said. The idea of the U.S. Open is to identify the best players. Some of them require some introductions to major championship contention on the weekend. Start with Dahmen, the cancer survivor and everyman who will never be accused of taking himself too seriously, even if he takes his game seriously. He thought about withdrawing from the 36-hole qualifier twice last week, before it started and after the first round. But he stuck it out, and with a 68 on Friday, plays in the final group of a major for the first time. He joined Morikawa at 5-under 135. The group one shot behind includes Hayden Buckley, who actually studied while at Missouri because he never thought playing golf for a living was going to work out. He wasn't in the U.S. Open until making a 20-foot birdie putt in a playoff for the last spot in his qualifier 11 days ago.

Phil Mickelson apologizes to US Open fan (no, not for that)

By JIMMY GOLEN
AP Sports Writer

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — Phil Mickelson's tee shot on No. 3 landed in the rough to the right, and when he arrived at his ball he saw a man sitting on the ground, holding an icepack to his right temple, with medical staff gathered around. Mickelson went over and gave the man a glove and apologized. One problem: It was Sam Horsfield's shot from the neighboring sixth hole that hit him. "It's just instinct," Mickelson said, drawing laughter from the gallery. "I would normally think it's me." That's how things went for the six-time U.S. Open runner-up at The Country Club this week: a series of apologies, interrupted by a whole lot of bad golf shots. "Wish I had played better," Mickelson, who declined to talk to reporters, said in a transcript that was distributed by the USGA on Friday after he followed a first-round 78 with a 3-over 73 to finish 11 over and miss the cut at plus-3. "It was OK. I had a good day," he said. A six-time major champion who has become the face of the Saudi Arabia-backed LIV Golf tour, Mickelson was competing on American soil for the first time in more than four months. But if the fans held his cash grab against him, they didn't let it show.

"Phil, liven it up!" "Long live Phil!" "You've got work to do!" "A 62 makes the cut, Phil!" "You and me forever, baby!" "Call it a comeback, Phil!" "See you in Portland!" — a reference to the next LIV tour event. And the fans in a tent next to the sixth tee sang him "Happy Birthday." "The fans here have always been terrific, and they really support all sports," Mickelson said, according to the transcript. "I love it when we bring golf here because they create a really special atmosphere." Mickelson had little else to smile about. Starting on the 10th hole, he made back-to-back-to-back bogeys on Nos. 13-15 and needed a 15-footer to save par on the third hole after nearly winding up in the gallery with his drive. He wasn't as lucky on No. 4, a 493-yard par 4, where he missed a 12-foot par putt and left himself almost as much coming back for bogey. But the 52-year-old left-hander — his birthday was actually Thursday — followed with back-to-back birdies. He sank a 43-foot putt from the front apron on the fifth hole and one that was nearly 60 feet on the sixth, both times acknowledging the crowd's cheers with a thumbs-up and wave. On his way to the seventh tee, he gave his ball to a 9-year-old girl standing by the ropes.

"When you went to visit with him, he was so glad to see you, and so personally, I loved Craig for that. He was just such a good friend and would do anything to help you." "He helped us move numerous times, and he and Blaise were close. He was just such an important figure in our community, and he just made everybody feel loved and appreciated. He always took the time to stop and ask about our family or 'how is so and so,' and he remembered those things that were important to you. # Warriors cap title run; NBA flips the page to 2022-23 season

By TIM REYNOLDS
AP Basketball Writer

A parade awaits in San Francisco to celebrate the champion Golden State Warriors. The NBA draft is a few days away, with presumed top-three picks Jabari Smith, Chet Holmgren and Paolo Banchero set to take their first steps toward realizing their enormous potential. Free agency starts in less than two weeks.

The 2021-22 NBA season is over.

The 2022-23 NBA season seems like it's already here.

The Warriors are back on the NBA mountaintop. Their win over the Boston Celtics in this season's finals capped the league's 75th anniversary celebration and ushered in an off-season that will, as always, start with tons of attention on player movement — or, in some cases, players not moving.

Two-time reigning MVP Nikola Jokic is eligible to receive a $260 million supermax extension from the Denver Nuggets; it's basically a sure thing that it'll be offered and accepted. Phoenix's Devin Booker and Minnesota's Karl-Anthony Towns are in line for $210 million extensions, neither of which will be surprises either.

Then there's the class of younger players in line to secure their first post-rookie-contract paydays: Memphis' Ja Morant, Miami's Tyler Herro, New York's R.J. Barrett and Cleveland's Darius Garland are just some of the names in that group. So, too, is New Orleans' Zion Williamson, which will be an interesting case since he has been healthy enough to play in only 85 games over his first three pro seasons and is constantly questioned about his conditioning.

Zach LaVine, who is expected to remain with the Chicago Bulls, headlines the class of unrestricted free agents. Kyrie Irving, James Harden, Russell Westbrook and Bradley Beal all have player options for next season, all of them worth between $34 million and $43 million.

And then there's LeBron James, about to enter his 20th season — likely the one where he'll catch Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and become the NBA's all-time scoring leader — and soon to be eligible for a two-year extension with the Los Angeles Lakers that'll be worth nearly $100 million for the 2023-24 and 2024-25 seasons.

"When we get to that point, we'll see," James said when the Lakers' season ended.

That point isn't here yet. But it's coming.

THE FAVORITES

According to FanDuel Sportsbook, the Warriors are the favorites to win the 2023 title — just ahead of the Celtics.

Brooklyn is the third choice in odds posted immediately after Game 6 of this year's finals ended, followed by Milwaukee and the Los Angeles Clippers — who get Kawhi Leonard back next season. Phoenix, Miami, Philadelphia, Memphis and Dallas round out the top 10 in the odds posted by FanDuel.

Of course, take any prediction right now with a grain of salt.

When last season ended Brooklyn was the runaway favorite to win the 2022 NBA title. The Nets didn't win a playoff game, getting swept by the Celtics in Round 1.

Celtics take bitter with sweet after losing in NBA Finals

By KYLE HIGHTOWER
AP Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — The Celtics made an NBA Finals run nobody saw coming, rising from a team that was three games under .500 in early January under a first-time head coach to being within two victories of winning the franchise's 18th championship.

After having those hopes dashed in the haze of three straight losses to the champion Golden State Warriors, Boston's young core is vowing to use the pain as motivation heading into the offseason. While they didn't win, the Celtics have established themselves as one of the top teams in the Eastern Conference.

"The biggest message was learn from this, grow from it, take this experience and see there is another level to get to," coach Ime Udoka said after Thursday night's loss. "Just don't come back the same as players, coaching staff. Let this fuel you throughout the offseason into next year."

When Udoka took over the coaching reins from Brad Stevens this past off-season, the Celtics were a team in transition.

Stevens, it seemed, had gotten the Celtics as far as he could during eight seasons on the bench. He took Boston to three conference finals but failed to help its youthful core led by budding All-Stars Jayson Tatum and Jaylen Brown get over the hump.

Enter Udoka, who did just that in Year 1. He challenged the team and harnessed the experience of veteran pieces like Marcus Smart and Al Horford to slowly mold a culture built on defense and unselfishness on offense.

It paid off in the second half of the season as the Celtics turned an 18-23 record into a 51-31 mark at season's end, good enough to claim the East's second seed. After a sweep of Brooklyn, followed by back-to-back seven-game wins over defending champion Milwaukee and top seed Miami, Boston seemed unstoppable.

The Celtics took an early 2-1 finals lead on Golden State but ultimately couldn't sidestep its propensity for self-inflicted mistakes against the Warriors.

The Celtics were 1-7 in the playoffs when committing 16 or more turnovers. They hit the figure in three of their four losses in the finals.

Tatum was woefully inconsistent, averaging 22 points but shooting just 44 of 120 (37%) from the field. He was 5 of 13 from the field with 12 points in the deciding game Game 6 in Boston.

Worse, Tatum became the first player in NBA history with 100 turnovers in a single postseason.

However bitter, he said he's embracing the lessons he learned.

"It's hard. It's hard getting to this point," Tatum said. "It's even harder getting over it, the hump, and win it. It's been a long journey, a long process. That's what I took from it: it's tough. You got to take it up another level to do what we want to do."

The good news for Boston is that their coach has experienced both extremes of the finals. He was a first-year assistant under Gregg Popovich when San Antonio lost to Miami in the finals in 2013, and there the following year when the Spurs beat the Heat to claim the title.

"We improved in a lot of areas but fell short of our ultimate goal," Udoka said. "Some guys didn't play their best. That's going to motivate guys throughout the season. The message is everybody come back better. Let's not be satisfied. It's not guaranteed you're going to be here."

'We ain't done': NBA champion Warriors already looking ahead

By TIM REYNOLDS
AP Basketball Writer

The goal was enormous: Return to the NBA's mountaintop. And now with that monumental task complete, the NBA champion Golden State Warriors already have a new target: staying up there for a while. The victory cigars hadn't been extinguished after the title-clinching win in Boston, the last celebratory bottles of Moët & Chandon hadn't been emptied, and the topic of winning it all again next season was already coming up. They have been installed by FanDuel Sportsbook as the favorites for the 2023 NBA title, and with Finals MVP Stephen Curry, Klay Thompson and Draymond Green all back it would be foolish to think that their chance at a fifth championship in nine years isn't very real.

The goal was enormous: Return to the NBA's mountaintop.

And now with that monumental task complete, the NBA champion Golden State Warriors already have a new target: staying up there for a while.

The victory cigars hadn't been extinguished after the title-clinching win in Boston, the last celebratory bottles of Moët & Chandon hadn't been emptied, and the topic — can the Warriors win it again next season? — was already coming up. They have been installed by FanDuel Sportsbook as the favorites for the 2023 NBA title, and with Finals MVP Stephen Curry, Klay Thompson and Draymond Green all back it would be foolish to think that their chance at a fifth championship in nine years isn't very real.

"It still has not been proven, that when we're whole, that anybody can stop it," Green said. That's true, and that's why it makes sense for the Warriors to carry the burden of being favorites into next season. They know what it takes; they have as many championships in the last eight seasons — four — as the rest of the league combined. The last run that was better than this was put together by Michael Jordan and the Chicago Bulls, winning six in an eight-year span of the 1990's.

Warriors coach Steve Kerr — now a nine-time champion — played for the Bulls for some of that run, and has led Golden State to all four of these titles.

"They are all unique. They are all special," Kerr said. "I think this one may have been the most unlikely just from the standpoint of where we've been the last couple years. A lot of unknowns."

Indeed, there were questions.

The Warriors answered them all. No, the core wasn't too old. Yes, Thompson would come back from more than 900 days on the sidelines with injuries. And absolutely, Curry can still be unstoppable in the biggest moments.

They took that core and fortified it with a new group of talent. Among those on that list: 27-year-old Andrew Wiggins, the 2014 No. 1 pick who has come into his own and was nothing less than a star in the NBA Finals; Jordan Poole, who turns 23 this weekend and will celebrate as a champion who has blossomed after facing off against Curry in practice all the time; and Jonathan Kuminga, the 19-year-old who got into 86 games and is raved about by teammates.

"And we ain't done," Thompson said early Friday while appearing on Green's podcast, The Draymond Green Show. "That's the beautiful thing about it. We got these young bucks behind us and we got the same squad coming back? That's scary for the NBA."

Green concurred. "It is very scary," he said.

They earned that championship moment, after going through an NBA Finals loss in 2019 to Toronto and then two seasons with a combined 54-83 record, a million miles away from being the team that the Warriors demand they be.

The Warriors had the NBA's worst record in 2019-20 in large part because of roster turnover — Kevin Durant, who was out that whole season while recovering from Achilles surgery, had just left for Brooklyn — and injuries. Thompson didn't play that season because of a knee injury suffered in the final game of the 2019 finals. Curry played in just five games. It was the reset year.

The bounceback was supposed to be last season, but Thompson had to sit out again, this time because of an Achilles tear of his own. The Warriors lost in the play-in tournament. But seeds were planted for something great; how great, even Golden State wasn't sure, but Curry insisted something was brewing.

"You don't want to see us next year," Curry said when the 2020-21 season ended.

Prophetic words.

Thompson came back in January and the Golden State goal was clear — win it all, again. The Warriors have played 24 playoff series with Curry, Thompson and Green together in the last eight years. They've won 22 of them; the exceptions being the 2016 and 2019 finals, when injuries took a toll.

This time, there was no stopping the Dubs.

"I saw it in the beginning of season," Thompson said. "People called me crazy. I said 'Championship or bust' because I saw how we came out of the gate, 18-2. And playing just that Warriors brand of basketball that made us so successful, and then knowing I was going to be inserted in that, I knew we had a chance to do something special, and here we are. It's so incredible. Wow."

Training camp is only three months away so the revving-up process for next season will start sooner rather than later. The Warriors know they'll be right back in the center of the NBA spotlight, playing tons of national TV games, getting every opponent's best shot, drawing massive attention everywhere they go again.

It'll be just like old times. For many Warriors, it'll be a first. For the old guard, the core of four-time champions like Curry, Green and Thompson — plus Andre Iguodala, if he decides to postpone retirement for one more year — it'll be familiar territory.

"I think this one is definitely different because of the three years of baggage we carried coming out of that Game 6 in 2019," Curry said. "I can say it now: I don't know how many teams could carry that as long as we have with the expectations of comparing us now to teams of past and make it to the mountaintop again."

His team did. And next year, they'll try to do it again.

SRX hopes second season is another surprise summer smash

By JENNA FRYER
AP Auto Racing Writer

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Ryan Newman does not want to be the hero or the villain or anything else in the six-race Superstar Racing Experience. He plans to just be himself in the Saturday night summer series that mixes grassroots racing with big personalities clinging to their time in the spotlight.

"I'm the 'hard to pass guy,' so I guess I will continue that role," Newman said. "I'm not sure what anyone else plans to be."

The Tony Stewart-headlined series was a surprise hit over six Saturday night's last summer, when CBS seized a dead period for live programming and filled it with SRX. About 1 million viewers tuned in each week to watch stars race at classic local tracks against both ringers and guest drivers.

Storylines developed from the very first event — SRX reviewed viewer feedback and made visual changes to the broadcast for enhanced viewing — and every rule and regulation was open for evaluation. The show was unscripted programming and legitimate racing, but most drivers certainly paid attention to Paul Tracy's one-sided feud with Hailie Deegan.

So if Newman remains true to form Saturday night when SRX opens at Five Flags Speedway in Pensacola, Florida, then the Daytona 500 winner might be next in Tracy's crosshairs. Deegan, as it happens, isn't in the field until the third race.

"I'm not usually selective in my defense," Newman said about who might struggle to pass him on the track. "I'll try to be equal across the board."

SRX in its second season welcomes both Newman and Indianapolis 500 winner Ryan Hunter-Reay, who jumped at the opportunity after watching former IndyCar teammate Marco Andretti thrive in the relaxed environment. The short tracks are brand new to most the drivers in the field and the open-wheel stars have never driven cars like the ones Ray Evernham designed for SRX, so each week is a learning experience.

"It was really just a big opportunity to try something completely different, and something that really looked fun," said Hunter-Reay. "I watched the races last year and it seemed like the drivers were genuinely enjoying it, and when you see the names crossing the ticker, you know it is a superstar lineup and I wanted to be part of this."

SRX next month will welcome Nashville native and two-time IndyCar champion Josef Newgard to the field at Nashville Fairgrounds, and the July 23 finale at Sharon Speedway in Ohio will pit NASCAR star Ryan Blaney against his father, Dave, at their home track.

The ingredients are there for a second successful summer for SRX, which has split with co-founder Evernham. The championship-winning NASCAR crew chief brainstormed the series with Stewart, then created the race cars and maintained them all last summer. He is now only an investor in SRX.

The SRX board in January named industry executive Don Hawk as its first chief executive. The series is heavily backed by both Sandy Montag, CEO of the Montag Group, and Bruin Capital CEO George Pyne, who wants to continue to build on the success of the inaugural season.

"I thought last year the product was very good, a lot of lead changes, the racing was great, we had different winners," Pyne said. "If you take the racing out of it, it's a series where Michael Jordan can play against LeBron James and in a fair set-up. It's a little easier in the second year because when we started, no one knew what SRX was, and I think we've done a good job and want to keep building on it."

Former NASCAR driver Clint Bowyer involved in fatal crash

LAKE OZARK, Mo. (AP) — Former NASCAR driver and Fox Sports analyst Clint Bowyer struck and killed a pedestrian on a highway in southwest Missouri earlier this month, police said.

The crash occurred June 5 on an exit ramp off of U.S. 54 near Osage Beach, Missouri, according to a crash report from Lake Ozark police.

Bowyer, a native of Emporia, Kansas, stopped immediately after the collision and called 911, police said. The woman, 47-year-old Mary Jane Simmons, of Camdenton, died at the scene.

The crash report says Bowyer showed no signs of impairment and provided a roadside blood sample that showed no trace of alcohol.

A crystalline substance was found with the woman's belongings and residents at a recreational vehicle park where she was staying said they believed she was under the influence of drugs, according to the police statement.

Bowyer retired in 2020 after winning 10 Cup Series races over 15 years. His sense of humor has been a hit in the Fox Sports booth since jumping into that job as a second career.

Lightning-Avalanche Stanley Cup Final chess match underway

By STEPHEN WHYNO
AP Hockey Writer

DENVER (AP) — Jon Cooper told his Tampa Bay Lightning players in the locker room following their Game 1 loss they need to be a lot better to take out the Colorado Avalanche in the Stanley Cup Final.

After a day of rest, they got to work figuring out just how to do that.

The two-time defending champion Lightning are no strangers to making adjustments and bouncing back in a playoff series. Their biggest test begins with trying to slow down the speedy Avalanche, who have their own tweaks to make in the chess match that has now begun going into Game 2 on Saturday night.

“We’re dissecting the game by zone, by special teams, by breakouts, by forecheck,” Cooper said. “There’s so many different things that go into it.”

Based on a lack of familiarity facing an opponent from the opposite conference, the start of a final is more of a learning process than series earlier in the playoffs, and it took experiencing — and at times getting flustered by — Colorado’s pace for Tampa Bay to know exactly what to expect.

“You can never really understand it until you feel it in the first game like that,” forward Nick Paul said Friday. “They definitely have speed throughout their lineup, and they love to go on the attack and hunt. They make good reads whether they’re trying to dump pucks or when to try and carry it, so you’ve constantly got to be pushing yourself to have a good gap to force them to get the puck out of their hands.”

What to do with the puck was a big focus for each team during practice Friday. After star defenseman Cale Makar failed to put a shot on goal for the first time all playoffs, despite being one of the NHL’s best at doing so, the Avalanche must figure to find a way to put more rubber on Tampa Bay goaltender Andrei Vasilevskiy.

They were expecting the Lightning to block a lot of shots, and they did by getting in front of 25 in Game 1. There will be some adjustments, but don’t expect Colorado players to be hesitant about shooting.

“You still have to throw it there,” defenseman Josh Manson said. “You don’t want to just hold on to it and try and find that perfect lane. So, I think we got to just do that: keep moving our feet and throwing it there.”

Getting the puck out of their defensive zone is paramount for the Lightning, knowing what can happen when the Avalanche are on the attack. A major emphasis from the coaching staff is putting speed bumps in the way however possible without taking an unnecessary interference penalty.

“The biggest thing is just making sure you lay body, whether it’s a hard hit, whether it’s a nudge and stand up on them because they transition so quick,” Paul said. “You’re just making reads, staying above guys and trying to force turnovers.”

Each side is concentrating on trying to cut down mistakes.

For Makar, it’s about being better defensively than he was on Nikita Kucherov’s move to set up a goal by Ondrej Palat in the series opener. Fellow Norris Trophy finalist Victor Hedman said in Swedish he needs to be better after a tough night in Game 1.

The Lightning also expect Vasilevskiy to be better after allowing at least one soft goal and perhaps two in the opener. It was the first time he had allowed three goals in the first period of a playoff game in his NHL career.

History indicates Vasilevskiy will bring his best. Tampa Bay is 18-1 after a loss over the past three postseasons, and its elite goaltender has a lot to do with that, stopping 509 of 542 shots for a 1.57 goals-against average and .939 save percentage.

“Vasy, his mental strength is out of the world,” Hedman said. “We’re very confident when we have him back there. The record’s not a fluke, but we can’t rely on that either. We just got to go out there and execute our game plan a little bit better than we did in Game and help Vasy a little bit more: Let him see the pucks, he’s going to make those stops. But it helps having the best guy in the world back there.”

WHAT'S NEW ON NETFLIX

"The Umbrella Academy" - Season 3

There's never a dull moment for "The Umbrella Academy" as the cast jumps right back into Season 3, premiering Wednesday, June 22, on Netflix. After putting a stop to 1963's doomsday in Season 2 and now convinced they've finally fixed their timeline and prevented an imminent apocalypse, the Umbrella Academy returns home to the present day, only to discover that Hargreeves HQ now belongs to the Sparrow Academy. Smart and stylish with ice-cold personalities, the Sparrows and Umbrellas immediately clash in a violent blowup. But with new difficulties headed their way and an unidentified destructive force (that they may have caused) wreaking havoc across the universe, the Umbrellas must convince the Sparrows to work with them to help prevent a new catastrophe and attempt to fix the timeline (again). Based on the comics and graphic novels by My Chemical Romance lead singer Gerard Way, "The Umbrella Academy" is created for television by Steve Blackman ("Fargo"), developed by Jeremy Slater ("Moon Knight") and directed by Jeremy Webb ("Merlin"). The series stars returning cast members Elliot Page ("Tales of the City"), Tom Hopper ("Black Sails"), David Castañeda ("Sicario: Day of the Soldado," 2018), Emmy Raver-Lampman ("Central Park"), Robert Sheehan ("The Mortal Instruments: City of Bones," 2013), Aidan Gallagher ("Nicky, Ricky, Dicky & Dawn"), Justin H. Min ("After Yang," 2021), Colm Feore ("Chicago," 2002) and Ritu Arya ("Red Notice," 2021) alongside new additions Justin Cornwell ("The InBetween"), Britne Oldford ("Free Guy," 2021), Jake Epstein ("Suits"), Genesis Rodriguez ("The Fugitive"), Cazzie David ("Eighty-Sixed") and Javon "Wanna" Walton ("Euphoria").

"Money Heist: Korea - Joint Economic Area" - Season 1

A new operation is underway with the new Korean crime drama "Money Heist: Korea - Joint Economic Area," premiering Friday, June 24, on Netflix. A remake of the hit Spanish series "La Casa De Papel" ("Money Heist" in English), which wrapped after five seasons in 2021, the series' iconic Professor is back, this time played by Yoo Ji-tae ("Oldboy," 2003) and with a bigger, bolder heist in the making. Set in a world where the long-divided countries of the Korean peninsula are unified once again, a new economic union brings forth some unsettling consequences. When a new mint is settled at the border of modern-day North and South Korea, known as the Joint Economic Area, a crew of thieves from both of the newly reunited countries make it their mission to pull off the greatest heist of all time. With hostages trapped inside the mint, the police pull out all the stops to take down the team and the shadowy mastermind behind the whole plot. Created by the original "Money Heist's" Álex Pina, "Money Heist: Korea" is directed by Kim Hong-sun ("The Age of Blood," 2017) and written by Ryu Yong-jae and Kim Hwan-chaee of "Psychopath Diary" and new writer Choe Sung-jun. The series also stars Kim Yunjin ("Lost"), Jang Yoon-ju ("Three Sisters," 2020), Kim Ji-hoon ("The Flower of Evil"), Park Hae-soo ("Squid Game") and Jeon Jong-seo ("Burning," 2018).

Buying in: 'SNL' alum lives white lie in 'I Love That For You'

By Sarah Passingham
TV Media

Everyone has that one big dream job they've longed for since childhood, but not all of us course-correct in adulthood to chase it like "I Love That For You's" Joanna Gold (Vanessa Bayer, "Ibiza," 2018). In the comedy series, airing its Season 1 finale Sunday, June 19, on Showtime and Hulu, Joanna takes a big swing at the job she's always wanted: home shopping channel host.

Joanna is played by Bayer, the former "Saturday Night Live" cast member who also serves as "I Love That For You's" creator and executive producer.

Drawing from her own personal experience of having survived childhood leukemia, Bayer drew young Joanna as a bright kid who finds comfort in the hospital by tuning in to the "Special Value Network" and watching her idol, Jackie Stilton, portrayed by "The Other Two" star Molly Shannon, expertly sell jewelry, fashion and homewares to at-home consumers.

Catching up to adult Joanna, fans see a woman in a state of suspended childhood. She is unfulfilled, living with her parents, working as a free sample server at a big box store and going on an awkward string of dead-end dates. On one of those dates, Joanna states her intentions to pursue a career as an SVN host before quickly following through on her goals.

After nailing her SVN audition, Joanna gains entry to her favorite network's studio and is set on the fast track to on-screen hosting. Her idol, Jackie, becomes her mentor and takes Joanna under her wing, but the reality of living her dream gets to Joanna when she becomes overwhelmed on-air and is sent to the network CEO's office.

Intimidated by SVN's big boss, Patricia Cochran (Jennifer Lewis, "Black-ish"), to begin with, Joanna sees her success about to come crashing down around her. In a last-ditch effort to hang on to her dream, the aspiring host busts out a lie: her cancer is back, she tells them.

The lie does the trick and Joanna gets a second chance at SVN. Not only that, but she is emboldened to take whatever she's offered as sympathy, including a bigger dressing room and special treatment from stage manager Jordan, portrayed by Paul James, star of the beloved college-set sitcom "Greek."

Tortured by her own choice to live a lie at work, Joanna immediately begins struggling with whether she should reveal her fib, especially as she begins to form real relationships with Jackie and Jordan. Pressured by her father, Chip (Matt Malloy, "At Home With Amy Sedaris"), who disapproves of her actions, Joanna spills the truth to Patricia, who isn't receptive to the news and chooses to prioritize the network's ratings boost over relieving Joanna of her guilt.

Known for her uniquely awkward and adorable characters like Jacob the Bar Mitzvah Boy and weather reporter Dawn Lazarus in various "SNL" sketches, Bayer brings her signature comedy to the role of Joanna alongside her own real-life love of home shopping programs. It might be easy to mock home shopping hosts in a comedic spin on the profession, but Bayer was serious about respecting the specific performances they give their viewers.

To promote "I Love That For You" ahead of its premiere, Bayer stopped by "Late Night With Seth Meyers" to talk to her former co-star about her new project. Bayer shared her love for home shopping, telling Meyers, "When I was little, I used to love QVC so much I would tape it."

Noting that there's an effective formula for getting viewers to imagine themselves with the products, Bayer went on to add, "I was a little kid but they'd be like, 'This is perfect out for a brunch with the ladies or your daughter's graduation,' [and] I'd be like, 'I could take this to my daughter's graduation.' ... I just loved the stories they would tell about the products."

Bayer teamed up with fellow "SNL" writer Jeremy Beiler to create "I Love That For You," and to round out research for the series, the pair got a behind-the-scenes tour of the actual QVC (which stands for "Quality Value Convenience") network headquarters in Pennsylvania. The experience gave them a lot to work with, and Bayer told The Hollywood Reporter that they even got to take a bit of the place home: "Of course, we bought mugs that say 'QVC' and we use them all the time."

Bayer wasn't the only one excited to jump into the world of "I Love That For You."

At the time of the show's premiere, Lewis told The Hollywood Reporter, "I met Vanessa Bayer and I've never fallen in love with anyone so instantly. All I wanted to do was pick her up and give her some sugar because she's made of sugar. I describe her as an angel made of cotton candy and Christmas morning."

Get on board and find out how Joanna's spiraling lie will affect her job and personal life in the Season 1 finale of "I Love That For You," airing Sunday, June 19, on the Showtime and the Hulu streaming service.

Coast vs. coast: 'Beachside Brawl' begins on Food Network

By Michelle Rose
TV Media

East or west — when it comes to summer foods, which coast does it best?

While this isn't quite as divisive as asking which regional barbecue style is best, it's still the big question that hangs over the new Food Network competition, "Beachside Brawl," which launches this week.

Premiering Sunday, June 19, the six-week competition challenges top cooks from both coasts to prove which region boasts the best beach bites.

Competitors will be split into teams of four cooks, with the East Coast team led by frequent "Chopped" judge Tiffani Faison and the West Coast team led by "Top Chef" personality and chef Brooke Williamson. Throughout the competition, though, the two team captains won't just be acting as mentors — they'll often be cooking alongside their teams as well.

While Team East Coast consists of Jared Brown (Long Branch, New Jersey), Edward Lordman (Pensacola, Florida), Ben Porter (Cape Cod, Massachusetts) and Jada Vidal (Tampa Bay, Florida), Team West Coast features Ka-leena Bliss (Seattle), Brian Madayag (Edmonds, Washington), Joshua Mouzakes (San Diego) and Jessica Roy (Newport Beach, California).

Former "Top Chef" chieftestant Antonia Lofaso, whose growing TV resume includes "Selena + Chef" and "Guy's Grocery Games," is the series' (impartial) host throughout its six-week run.

Brooke Williamson, Antonia Lofaso and Tiffani Faison in "Beachside Brawl"

"With my strong connection to both coasts — being born on the east and growing up on the west — I'm so thrilled to oversee this competition as my two talented friends, Tiffani Faison and Brooke Williamson, brawl on the beach to prove their coast is best," Lofaso said in an official statement.

In Sunday's premiere, Lofaso challenges the teams to create a menu of boardwalk bites that best represent their coast. The items must include something served on a stick and a fried item, as well as "something in a bun, something cheesy and something sweet." At the end of the episode, guest judge Noah Cappe ("Carnival Eats") will declare a winner and send one of the chefs home.

Which region will win? And which chef will ultimately be crowned "Best of the Beach" and the winner of a dream beach getaway? Follow all the weekly action as "Beachside Brawl" begins Sunday, June 19, on Food Network.

Charleston or bust

North Carolina elite returns in Season 8 of 'Southern Charm'

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

Prepare to clutch your pearls — Bravo's hit Charleston-set reality series "Southern Charm" is back for Season 8. Premiering Thursday, June 23, on Bravo, the series follows a group of wealthy, well-bred young people who navigate the dating scene, their friendships and their careers while trying not to do anything untoward that could taint the reputation of their elite South Carolina families.

In a part of the United States where class is king and a blemish on one family member's record could spell disaster for every generation that preceded them, living or dead, there is a lot of pressure to be perfect. Luckily for fans of the show, however, that doesn't seem to stop the Charmers from making many mistakes and the occasional truly terrible decision.

Back in the Holy City this season are series regulars Leva Bonaparte, Austen Kroll, Craig Conover, Madison LeCroy, Kathryn Dennis and Shep Rose, while joining cast members include Olivia Flowers, Venita Aspen, Marcie Hobbs, Taylor Ann Green and Chleb Ravenell. Former New York City socialite and art collector Patricia Altschul, named the "Dowager Countess of 'Southern Charm'" by Valeriya Safronova of the New York Times, also returns for Season 8, joined by American filmmaker Whitney Sudler-Smith and actor/songwriter John Pringle. Real estate broker Cameran Eubanks has walked away from the series, though fans are still holding onto hope for a guest appearance.

Also making a reappearance this season is a familiar favorite who took last season off from the drama. Naomie Olindo, feeling refreshed and ready for more "Charm," is back — but not without the potential to cause serious damage in her former love interest's current romantic life.

Fans of the series might recall that Olindo and Conover had become romantically involved before she met her former boyfriend, Shah, and left the show — and the state — at the end of Season 6. While open about the conditions of her return and her newly single lifestyle, Olindo admits the path back to Chucktown was not an easy one.

"I had to, like, beg my way back," Olindo said on Skinny Confidential Him & Her, a Dear Media podcast. "I was like, 'Guys, please. I know I quit and I know I told everybody to f--- off, but please I'm very depressed and I really want to come back. I don't know what I'm going to do if I'm back in Charleston.' They were like, 'All right.'"

Now that Olindo is newly single and back in town, this could pose problems for Conover and his current girlfriend, "Summer House's" Paige DeSorbo. While the couple do seem happy together, there is no telling — especially in "Southern Charm" — how quickly the winds could change. And if past behavior is anything to go by (or the Season 8 trailer, for that matter), Conover is likely to get himself into some serious trouble pretty quickly.

Conover isn't the only Southern boy in hot water this season, either. Rose, well-known for his relationship drama throughout past seasons, is currently seeing Green. The pair could definitely be in for some trouble, however, as Rose's lack of desire to grow up and remain committed to one partner always seems to win out over the love he has for his significant other.

LeCroy has big news of her own as well, as she celebrates her recent engagement to Brett Randle, her boyfriend of just over one year. Kroll and new cast member Flowers also have an announcement of their own to make this season.

But it isn't all love in Season 8. The "Southern Charm" brand of slander and drama continues as accusations fly about everything from romantic affairs and friendly loyalties to levels of intelligence and class.

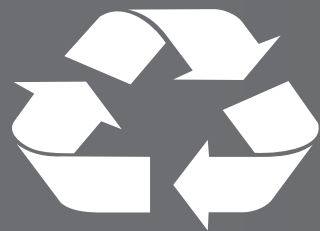

Fans of the show can also expect a little taste of the newly announced

"Southern Charm" spinoff as well this season. "Southern Charm: Leva Land," announced at the 2022 NBCUniversal upfront in May, will focus on Bonaparte's many restaurants and business ventures in Charleston.

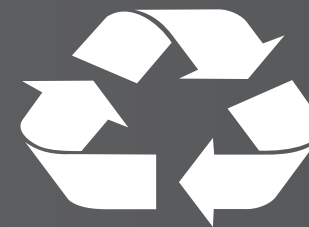

In a move not dissimilar to Lisa Vanderpump's "Vanderpump Rules" offshoot of "The Real Housewives of Beverly Hills," this could mark a new era for Bonaparte and her business aspirations. While there is no news yet on a premiere date for this one, "Leva Land" (a working title) will focus primarily on the staff of Bonaparte's Republic Garden & Lounge on King Street in the city's center.

Regardless of whether viewers watch for the relationship drama, the physical fights (something the official trailer also alludes to plenty of), the insults, the fake, back-handed compliments or just beautiful people against an even more beautiful backdrop, Season 8 of "Southern Charm" has a little something for everyone.

Don't miss the Season 8 premiere of "Southern Charm" when it launches Thursday, June 23, on Bravo. And for those looking to catch up on past seasons of the series, all 100+ episodes are available to stream via the Hayu channel on Amazon's Prime Video platform.

The Late Show with Stephen Colbert

Despite the horrific shootings in Uvalde, Texas, the Senate just skipped town for a two-week break without any action on guns. Chuck Schumer has planned on pushing through a vote to get everyone on the record, but yesterday [May 25] he bailed, explaining there was no point in doing so given that Republican opposition was "crystal clear." Well, he's just following the old adage, "If at first you don't succeed, byeeee!"

Right now, the United States has approximately 400 million firearms, which is more than 40% of the total guns in the entire world. That stat's even more harrowing considering we have 100% of the world's Floridas.
