Crawford County met Friday in short session

By Hailey Phillips

GIRARD, Kan. — In a short meeting Friday morning, the Crawford County Commission entered into a 10-minute executive session for attorney-client privilege to discuss 911 consolidation, but took no action following the session.

Also on Friday, commissioners said farewell to former Crawford County Director of Elections Julie Rybnick in her retirement from her position at the county. She retired Thursday.

“We wish her well,” said County Clerk Lisa Lusker.

Commissioner Bruce Blair agreed.

“I know she’s been very helpful here, even working with her in the past in different avenues. Sorry to see her leave, but excited at the same time,” Blair said.

“She’ll make the most of her retirement, I’m sure,” Lusker said.

The commission received a thank you letter from the City of Arma, which expressed gratitude for the pavement overlay project completed there last week. Lusker presented the letter to the commission.

After the closed session, Commissioner Bruce Blair announced upcoming events for the commission, including:

—Work session at 9 a.m. Tuesday with Director of Fiscal Services Randi Ryan, Lusker and County Counselor Jim Emerson to discuss ARPA drawdown requests for March.

—Work session at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday with Mike Bodensteiner to discuss ARPA funding.

—Work session at 9 a.m. Friday with Ryan on insurance matters.

—Public hearing at 10 a.m. Friday for the possibility of vacating a platted street and platted alleys in Paul Onelio’s subdivision in Crawford County.

Commissioner Tom Moody was absent from the Friday meeting.

PITTSBURG, Kan. — People browsed various pieces of fine art, sampled a wide variety of foods, and enjoyed a mild spring evening Friday at the 17th annual Pittsburg ArtWalk.

ArtWalk President Crista Cunningham, a painter and artist, estimated 1,000 people flocked to downtown to attend the event over the course of the evening.

Cunningham said it means a lot that the city and community as a whole supports an event that celebrates the arts.

“So people usually come after work and are anxious to get something to eat, and then they walk around and look at all the art,” Cunningham said.

Sydney Hart, an artist at the Pittsburg ArtWalk, displayed acrylic pour paintings and bookmarks at a booth.

“So I use like watercolor paper, and I choose different colors depending on the different, little themes,” Hart said about the bookmarks.

Hart, from Pittsburg, created tassels for the bookmarks as well. Hart had several colorful acrylic paintings on display as well.

Artist Des Bridgeman, a senior studying

3D art at Pittsburg State University, featured ceramics and jewelry. Bridgeman, from Miami, Ok., uses silver, copper and clay in various art pieces, creating metal smithing and other art pieces under Destopia Art.

The PSU senior said creativity has always been an outlet.

“I have synesthesia so a lot of my ceramic work has been like through music. Like most of those pieces have been created while listening to certain music,” Bridgeman said. “So I find a way to engage with it that’s really unique and really special to me.”

Save the date: March 19, 2024

That’s when Kansas will hold its presidential primary

Staff Reports
news@morningsun.net

TOPEKA, Kan. — Kansas plans to hold a presidential primary in March 2024 rather than leave it to political parties to decide whether they want to have more exclusive caucuses or state conventions instead.

Democratic Gov. Laura Kelly on Friday signed a bill into law that schedules the election for March 19, 2024, for the Democratic, Republican and Libertarian parties.

The measure had bipartisan support when the Republican-controlled Legislature approved it this month.

County officials will oversee the voting and the state is likely to cover the costs, which could be several million dollars. Far more voters are expected to participate than the tens of thousands who usually do in caucuses or the dozens who would attend a party convention.

The new law does not schedule presidential primaries after 2024, however.

Kansas last held a state presidential primary in 1992, and about 373,000 voters participated. In canceling later primaries, legislators often cited the potential cost and left it to the parties to decide what to do, at their own expense.

In 2020, Democrats funded and ran their own primary by mail ballot only, while Republican leaders committed to supporting then-President Donald Trump without a vote or any caucuses.

Protesters plan anti-gun violence rally April 29

Staff Reports

news@morningsun.net

PITTSBURG, Kan. - Kansans Against Gun Violence will stage a rally for commonsense gun law reform on Saturday, April 29 at 1 pm. The event will take place at Immigrant Park/Pritchett Pavilion at 106 W. 2nd Street.

The rally will introduce the concept of: 3 Every 3 - a campaign to encourage all concerned citizens to undertake three actions every three days to bring gun violence to an end.

Actions include making your position known to elected officials by calling or writing them. Interested parties are also encouraged to become registered voters and actively seek out and support candidates who will support increased gun legislation reform and banning assault weapons.

A short protest march will occur after the rally and end at the Miners Memorial located at 200 N Walnut Street in Pittsburg. Participants are encouraged to bring signs expressing their feelings regarding the current state of gun violence in the United States.

The rally will conclude with a brief "die in" at the Miners Memorial.

The "die in" will feature participants of the protest march lying on the ground to simulate being gunned down to bring attention to the ever growing number of Americans killed daily in gun violence.

Man sentenced for anti-LGBTQ+ hate crime in Kansas City

Staff Reports

news@morningsun.net

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A Kansas City man was sentenced Thursday to nearly 22 years in federal prison for committing a hate crime when he shot and wounded a teenager because of the victim's sexual orientation, prosecutors said.

Malachi Robinson, 25, pleaded guilty in July to violating federal hate crime laws when he shot the 16-year-old eight times on May 29, 2019. He was sentenced Thursday to 21 years and 10 months in federal prison without parole.

The teenager survived after spending two weeks in the hospital but underwent several surgeries and physical therapy and still has bullets in his body, prosecutors said.

Court documents said the two met by chance and were walking near Swope Park when Robinson suggested they go into a wooded area to engage in a sex act. But Robinson wrote separately to his boyfriend that he "might shoot this boy" because of his sexual orientation.

When the teenager changed his mind and tried to leave, Robinson shot him eight times, prosecutors said. He was able to get away and eventually collapsed near an apartment building, where a bystander called 911. Before his arrest, Robinson told several people that he shot the victim because of his sexual orientation, according to court documents.

validates the dedication and effort of our faculty, including Dr. McKay, who tirelessly strive to create a dynamic hands-on learning environment for students," Klenke said.

He noted that Pitt State's programs equip students with the technological expertise required to navigate an ever-changing STEM world, and the ability to solve future STEM problems and challenges.

"I'm proud to be a part of a university whose faculty and staff provide a multitude of STEM-centered programs and opportunities for their students and community," McKay said. "It was a relatively easy task to showcase why Pitt State deserves to be recognized as a STEM School of Excellence."

The hardest part? "Picking which of the many great examples I would use. From the partnerships we have created in industry and education to the diverse focus of our student groups and community outreach, I believe Pitt State stands as a wonderful model of a university providing a relevant and effective education for students in STEM fields," McKay said.

A banner will be placed in the hallway next to the Technology & Engineering Education lab in the Kansas Technology Center, home to Pitt State's College of Technology.

"It was a great day to be a Gorilla on the stage yesterday," Klenke said.

PERSPECTIVES

Rules of Engagement

Welcome to The Morning Sun's new Perspectives page.

We welcome your letters to the editor, but, to keep the dialogue going, we ask that you follow a few simple rules. First, keep it civil. Second, stick to the point. We want to share what you think about the issue, not the individual.

As your community newspaper, freedom of speech is critically important to us. But there are limits. It is one thing to say something directly to someone you don't like; that's between you and the person with whom you're speaking. It's something else entirely to put in a letter to the editor that "Bob is a big fat liar." Not if you want your letter printed, anyway.

Issues of libel and slander get a little more complicated when you're dealing with public figures, such as members of City Council (or Congress). Generally, they're supposed to have thicker skins. Still, there is a profound difference between "Bob made a dumb decision" and "Bob is a moron." We will publish the former; we won't publish the latter.

For letter-writers wondering just how far you can go and still see your acerbic wit in print, it goes something like this. We will not print letters that:

- expose a person to hatred, ridicule, or contempt;
- cause a person to be shunned or avoided;
- lower a person in the estimation of others;
- disparage a person in her/his business, trade or profession.

HOW TO SUBMIT LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Letters must be original, signed by the author, and have no more than 500 words. Letters must include the writer's address and phone number for verification. Your letters may be edited for content, clarity or grammar.

Letters generally will not be published within five days of an election. We may limit writers to one letter per month.

Mail letters to Editor, The Morning Sun, PO Drawer H, Pittsburg KS 66762, or email news@morningsun.net.

Celebrating the 'eagles' who make Pittsburg a Boomtown

I had the privilege of meeting Boomtown USA author Jack Schultz about 15 years ago. In his phenomenal book, Jack lists for us the seven things successful communities have in common. At the top of that list: Adopt a can-do attitude.

He could've written that book about Pittsburg and its incredible business community! You won't meet a more positive bunch than the people who meet for our Chamber breakfasts each week.

According to Jack, can-do leaders accentuate the positive. They don't allow negativity to guide their plans. They focus on what they can do instead of what they cannot. Put another way, they define "obstacle" as what you see when you take your eyes off the goal.

In Boomtown USA, Jack outlines four basic personality types found in every community: moles, moles, jackals, and eagles.

Moles, as he puts it, are people who are proudly opposed to any change.

JEFF PEYTON
Morning Sun Publisher

"That's the way we've always done it" is their motto. (Admit it, you know a few people like that!)

There is nothing wrong with being a mole personality. Every business has them. Every town NEEDS them. But it's safe to say that Pittsburg's leadership is not comprised of moles.

Moles, on the other hand, aren't so much opposed to change as afraid of change. Fear of failure keeps them from taking advantage of any opportunity that may present itself. According to Jack, moles tend to look at others' success and say, "we could've done that." We all know a few moles, and God bless them. But nobody is allowing Pittsburg's economic legacy to be "coulda woulda shoulda!"

The one personality type we could do without, Jack describes as the Jackal. These are the people who, like moles and mules, refuse to take any risks that might lead to success. But, unlike moles and mules, jackals have no problem taking advantage of other peoples' hard work.

Like their name implies, jackals figuratively feed off others' success, but lack the can-do attitude to ever succeed on their own. These types undermine opportunity and have tremendous limiting power over success. They destroy initiative — especially when it comes from young eager beavers (my stereotype, not Jack's).

I know Jack was writing about Effingham, Ill., when he wrote Boomtown USA, but he describes Pittsburg perfectly when he describes a can-do community as an Eagle community.

Eagles, he writes, have great vision and are fearless when it comes to pursuing their prey. An eagle community sets clear goals and then sets out to achieve them regardless of what others around them do or say.

The best part of the Boomtown model: Our community does not need to be full of eagles to succeed. We don't need to re-locate our moles and mules in order to sustain a can-do attitude. We're all part of the neighborhood, and we're all necessary for success. From my limited point of view as "new guy," I believe Pittsburg's ample supply of eagles have won over the moles and mules — all while keeping the jackets at bay.

Starting next week in this space, I'll be sharing with you conversations I'm having with some of the amazing eagles I've met since moving to Pittsburg. If there's an eagle out there you feel I should be talking to, email me at jpeyton@morningsun.net and let me know!

Thank you, good Samaritans

BICKNELL CENTER CONTINUES TO IMPRESS

TO THE EDITOR:

Once again, Pittsburg residents were entertained on Sunday, March 26, at the Bicknell Family Center for the Arts. The Southeast Kansas Symphony gave a concert featuring three talented PSU students who were winners of the Concerts and Aria Competition. Each student performer was backed by the orchestra made up of PSU staff, students and local musicians, making a delightful program for those attending. Check out the website of the Bicknell Center for upcoming performances by various musical ensembles. You will be impressed with the quality of talent of the university musicians. How lucky we are!

CALLS FOR EXPANSION OF KANCARE

TO THE EDITOR:

There is a great need for KanCare expansion and it is supported by 80% of Kansans. Some of the reasons for expansion include the following:

1. It would reduce healthcare costs for all Kansans.

2. It would protect against medical debt that can push people out of their homes.

3. Eligibility rates would be fixed; for example: currently a single parent with 2 children cannot earn more than $9,447 per year to qualify.

4. KanCare expansion would preserve and strengthen rural health care and prevent the closing of rural hospitals.

5. There would be more healthy workers to re-enter or remain in the workforce.

6. Expansion would make Kansas economically competitive with the 39 states that have already expanded their Medicaid programs.

7. Kansas has already lost $6 billion by not expanding.

Considering the above reasons for expansion, the question is: Why won't Kansas Legislators even discuss expansion that would give more than 150,000 Kansans access to healthcare?

ARTICLE ON HOMELESS FOUND LACKING

TO THE EDITOR:

I do not appreciate your article on the front page on April 18th regarding the homeless campers at Wesley House. Your reporters did not report a balanced story. Please refer to your previous articles which told the full story of the Wesley House, their work, and their incredible results.

The truth is there is a safety concern. See Pittsburg Municipal Codes Secs. 46-1-46-30 regulating campgrounds, zoning, utilities, habitation, prohibited parking, and requirements generally involving the use of recreational vehicles which includes temporary or transient living purposes, including the use of camping spaces for tents.

This is a community-identified need. A simple google search reveals 4 homeless shelter listings near Pittsburg: Watered Gardens Gospel Rescue Mission and Carthage Crisis Center in Pittsburg, Souls Harbor, and Lafayette House in Joplin. Housing Support Services in Pittsburg offers help with Section 8 rentals, HUD offers rental help in Kansas. A google search of "Kansas rental assistance phone number" turns up resources at Pittsburg Public Housing Authority in Pittsburg, Southeast Kansas Community Action Program in Girard, Kansas Housing Resources Corporation in Topeka.

Why were other local, private housing organizations, the City, the County, Kansas, and federal resources not interviewed to round out this small-thinking, one-side article? Please immediately publish a retraction of your article of the 18th, as well as an article that is fair and balanced.

Why Sen. Feinstein's absence is a big problem for Democrats

By MARY CLARE JALONICK
Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Dianne Feinstein's monthslong absence from the Senate to recover in California from shingles has become a vexing problem for Democrats who want to confirm President Joe Biden's nominees to the federal courts. Now there is some pressure from within her party, and her state, to resign.

With frustration mounting among Democrats, Feinstein on Wednesday asked to be temporarily replaced on the Senate Judiciary Committee while she recuperates. The statement came shortly after a member of California's House delegation, Democratic Rep. Ro Khanna, called on her to step down, saying it is "unacceptable" for her to miss votes to confirm judges who could be weighing in on abortion rights, a key Democratic priority.

It will not be easy to temporarily replace Feinstein on the influential committee. Republicans could block such a move, given that the full Senate must approve committee assignments.

The conundrum for Senate Majority Leader Chuck Schumer, D-N.Y., stems from his party's fragile hold on power. Democrats are clinging to a 51-49 majority in an aging Senate where there have been several absences due to health issues this year.

A look at the politics surrounding Feinstein's absence, and how Democrats are navigating the situation:

EXTENDED ABSENCE

Feinstein, 89, has been away from the Senate since Feb. 27, just two weeks after she announced she would not run for reelection in 2024.

Her office disclosed March 2 that she had been hospitalized in San Francisco and was being treated for a case of shingles. "I hope to return to the Senate later this month," she said in a statement at the time.

Now, six weeks later, Feinstein's office will not give a timeline for her return, even as Congress comes back into session Monday from a two-week recess.

It is unclear how long Feinstein expects to be away from Washington or whether she might resign before the end of her term. She has already faced questions in recent years about her cognitive health and memory, and has appeared increasingly frail. But she has defended her effectiveness.

STALLED JUDGES

Since February, Feinstein has missed more than 50 votes. Her absence on the Judiciary Committee means that Democrats can only confirm judges who have some Republican support because Democrats only have a one-seat majority on the panel.

The committee chairman, Sen. Dick Durbin, D-Ill., has acknowledged that the pace of confirmations has slowed.

Governor announces nearly $10 million to expand Elderly, Disabled housing

Staff Reports
news@morningsun.net

TOPEKA, Kan. — Gov. Laura Kelly announced today that nearly $10 million has been awarded to nine recipients for the construction or renovation of housing for persons with disabilities and the elderly. Funding was made available through the ARPA Building Opportunities for the Disabled and Elderly (ABODE) program launched by Commerce earlier this year.

"Safe and accessible residential communities for elderly and disabled Kansans are necessary for living independently," Governor Laura Kelly said. "These awards will increase housing options that meet the needs of these communities."

The funds were designated by the Strengthening People and Revitalizing Kansas (SPARK) Executive Committee and approved by the State Finance Council to address housing issues faced by these high-need populations.

"All Kansans deserve quality housing," Lieutenant Governor and Secretary of Commerce David Toland said. "The ABODE awards will not only increase housing stock in communities across the state but will help improve the quality of life for thousands of deserving Kansans."

ABODE applications included health and safety renovations to existing buildings or the construction of new multi-housing units that accommodate individuals who are elderly and/or disabled. Project design, engineering costs, and architectural designs were also permitted as eligible expenditures. Awardees will have two years to complete their projects and utilize all awarded funds.

"These ABODE grants will help counteract rising housing costs and help ensure elderly and disabled Kansans have a safe and quality place to live," Senate President Ty Masterson said.

"High-needs populations already were struggling with housing access and availability before COVID-19," House Speaker Dan Hawkins said. "The pandemic only intensified those issues. Using ARPA funding to help resolve them makes perfect sense."

The $9.8 million in ABODE grants awardees include:

Cottonwood Falls Housing Authority, Cottonwood Falls, $1,000,000
Derby Senior Living, Derby, $1,500,000
Maple Gardens Village, Wichita, $1,190,000
Meninger Clock Tower Apartments, Topeka, $637,500
John's Place Apartments, Victoria, $850,000
Sunflower Flats, Manhattan, $1,500,000

An end to the reading wars?

More US schools embrace phonics

By HEATHER HOLLINGSWORTH
Associated Press

For decades, two schools of thought have clashed on how to best teach children to read, with passionate backers on each side of the so-called reading wars. The battle has reached into homes via commercials for Hooked on Phonics materials and through shoebox dioramas assigned by teachers seeking to instill a love of literature.

But momentum has shifted lately in favor of the "science of reading." The term refers to decades of research in fields including brain science that point to effective strategies for teaching kids to read.

The science of reading is especially crucial for struggling readers, but school curricula and programs that train teachers have been slow to embrace it.

The approach began to catch on before schools went online in spring 2020. But a push to teach all students this way has intensified as schools look for ways to regain ground lost during the pandemic — and as parents of kids who can't read demand swift change.

OK, CLASS. TIME FOR A HISTORY LESSON.

One historical approach to teaching reading was known as "whole language." (Close cousins of this approach are "whole word" and "look-say.") It focused on learning entire words, placing the emphasis on meaning. A famous example is the "Dick and Jane" series, which, like many modern-day books for early readers, repeated words frequently so students could memorize them.

The other approach involved phonics, with supporters arguing students need detailed instruction on the building blocks of reading. That meant lots of time on letter sounds and how to combine them into words.

In 2000, a government-formed National Reading Panel released the findings of its exhaustive examination of the research. It declared phonics instruction was crucial to teaching young readers, along with several related concepts.

Whole language had lost. What emerged, though, was an informal truce that came to be known as "balanced literacy" and borrowed from both approaches. The goal: Get kids into books they found enjoyable as quickly as possible.

But in practice, phonics elements often got short shrift, said Michael Kamil, professor emeritus of education at Stanford University.

"It wasn't a true compromise," said Kamil, who had sat on the national reading panel. The approach often led to students learning how to guess words, instead of how to sound them out.

Now, as schools look to address low reading scores, phonics and other elements of the science of reading are getting fresh attention, fueled in part by a series of stories and podcasts by APM Reports. Textbook makers are adding more phonics, and schools have dumped some popular programs that lacked that approach.

WHAT IS THE SCIENCE OF READING?

While the phrase doesn't have a universal definition, it refers broadly to research in a variety of fields that relates to how a child's brain learns to read. Neuroscientists, for instance, have used MRIs to study the brains of struggling readers.

In practice, this science calls for schools to focus on the building blocks of words. Kindergartners might play rhyming games and clap out the individual syllables in a word to learn to manipulate sounds. Experts call this phonemic awareness.

Students later will learn explicitly how to make letter sounds and blend letters. To make sure students aren't just guessing at words, teachers might ask them to sound out so-called nonsense words, like "nant" or "zim."

Gone is rote memorization of word spellings. Instead, students learn the elements that make up a word. In a lesson using the word "unhappy," students would learn how the prefix "un-" changed the meaning of the base word.

WHY DOES IT MATTER?

For some kids, reading happens almost magically. Bedtime stories and perhaps a little "Sesame Street" are enough.

But 30% to 40% of kids will need the more explicit instruction that is part of the science of reading, said Timothy Shanahan, a professor emeritus at the University of Illinois at Chicago.

Other kids fall somewhere in between. "They're going to learn to read," said Shanahan, also one of the members of the 2000 panel and the former director of reading for Chicago Public Schools. "They're just not going to read as well as they could be or should be."

Complicating the situation, colleges of education often have stuck with balanced literacy despite concerns about its effectiveness. That means teachers graduate with little background on research-backed instructional methods.

The upshot: Parents often pick up the slack, paying for tutors or workbooks when their children struggle, Shanahan said. Extra help can be costly, contributing to racial and income-based disparities.

Pitt State begins search for VP of Student Affairs and Enrollment Management

Staff Reports
news@morningsun.net

Pittsburg State University has begun a national search for a vice president for Student Affairs and Enrollment Management, a new role that encompasses many of the responsibilities handled by Vice President of Student Life Steve Erwin, who announced retirement starting June 2023.

The role expands to include Admission and Student Success, and now reports to Executive Vice President and Provost Howard Smith. This brings the entire academic and co-curricular student experience into a single division.

"This enables us to create a seamless experience for our students," said President Dan Shipp.

"Reducing silos means our teams can more easily work together on strategic priorities that serve the whole student from enrollment to graduation and beyond."

The vice president provide leadership for all units and departments in Student Affairs and Enrollment Management, including the Student Success Center, Admission and Financial Aid, Registrar, Student Services, and International Programs and Services.

The search process will be facilitated by a committee of campus stakeholder leaders and representatives, as well as a representative of the Kansas Board of Regents staff. Jaime Dalton, executive director of University Affairs, and David Hurford, chair of Psychology & Counseling, have been selected to serve as co-chairs of the search committee.

Members of the committee are Melinda Roelfs, registrar; Aaron Hurt, director of International Programs and Services; Eva Sager, associate director of Campus Activities; Deatrea Rose, associate vice president of Inclusion and Belonging; Becky McDaniel, associate vice president of University Advancement; Barbara Winter, director of Budget; Diane Letner, human resources specialist; and Hannah Eckstein, a student and vice president of Student Government Association.

"This is an exciting opportunity for the right individual to join a team focused on the many characteristics of today's students," said Executive Vice President and Provost Howard Smith.

With a May 15 deadline for submitting applications, the committee will begin its preliminary work this month. The selection of the new vice president is anticipated to occur in July.

A's move means step toward expansion

The Oakland Athletics will be packing their bags for Las Vegas, a long-expected move that will affect baseball's fandom far beyond those two cities.

MLB is now a significant step closer to expansion, which will bring two more long-overdue franchises into the big leagues while also necessitating the creation of eight new minor-league teams around the country.

When the Athletics tidy up the multi-billion-dollar details in Sin City, where they're expected to reside by the 2027 season if not sooner, a new stadium for the Tampa Bay Rays will be the last hurdle to a 32-team major leagues.

For sure, the lobbying has already begun for cities like Nashville, Charlotte, Montreal, Portland and recently pitched expansion candidate Salt Lake City.

"The game is ready to grow its fan base," said former big league pitcher Dave Stewart, one of the leaders of a Nashville expansion effort that already has nicknamed its potential team the Stars. "It's trying to get today's generation back at the ballpark and in the game. There's a great light for expansion. I think baseball is ready for it."

Stewart, a native of Oakland who pitched for the Athletics during a run of three straight AL titles that included the 1989 World Series championship, is sad that his former team is leaving his hometown. He hopes there is still a way for the A's to remain in the Bay Area, even though city officials say they have ended negotiations on a new stadium.

"The history, legacy and tradition of the Oakland A's is no longer going to be there," Stewart said Friday in a telephone interview. "That's really heartbreaking for me and heartbreaking for the community."

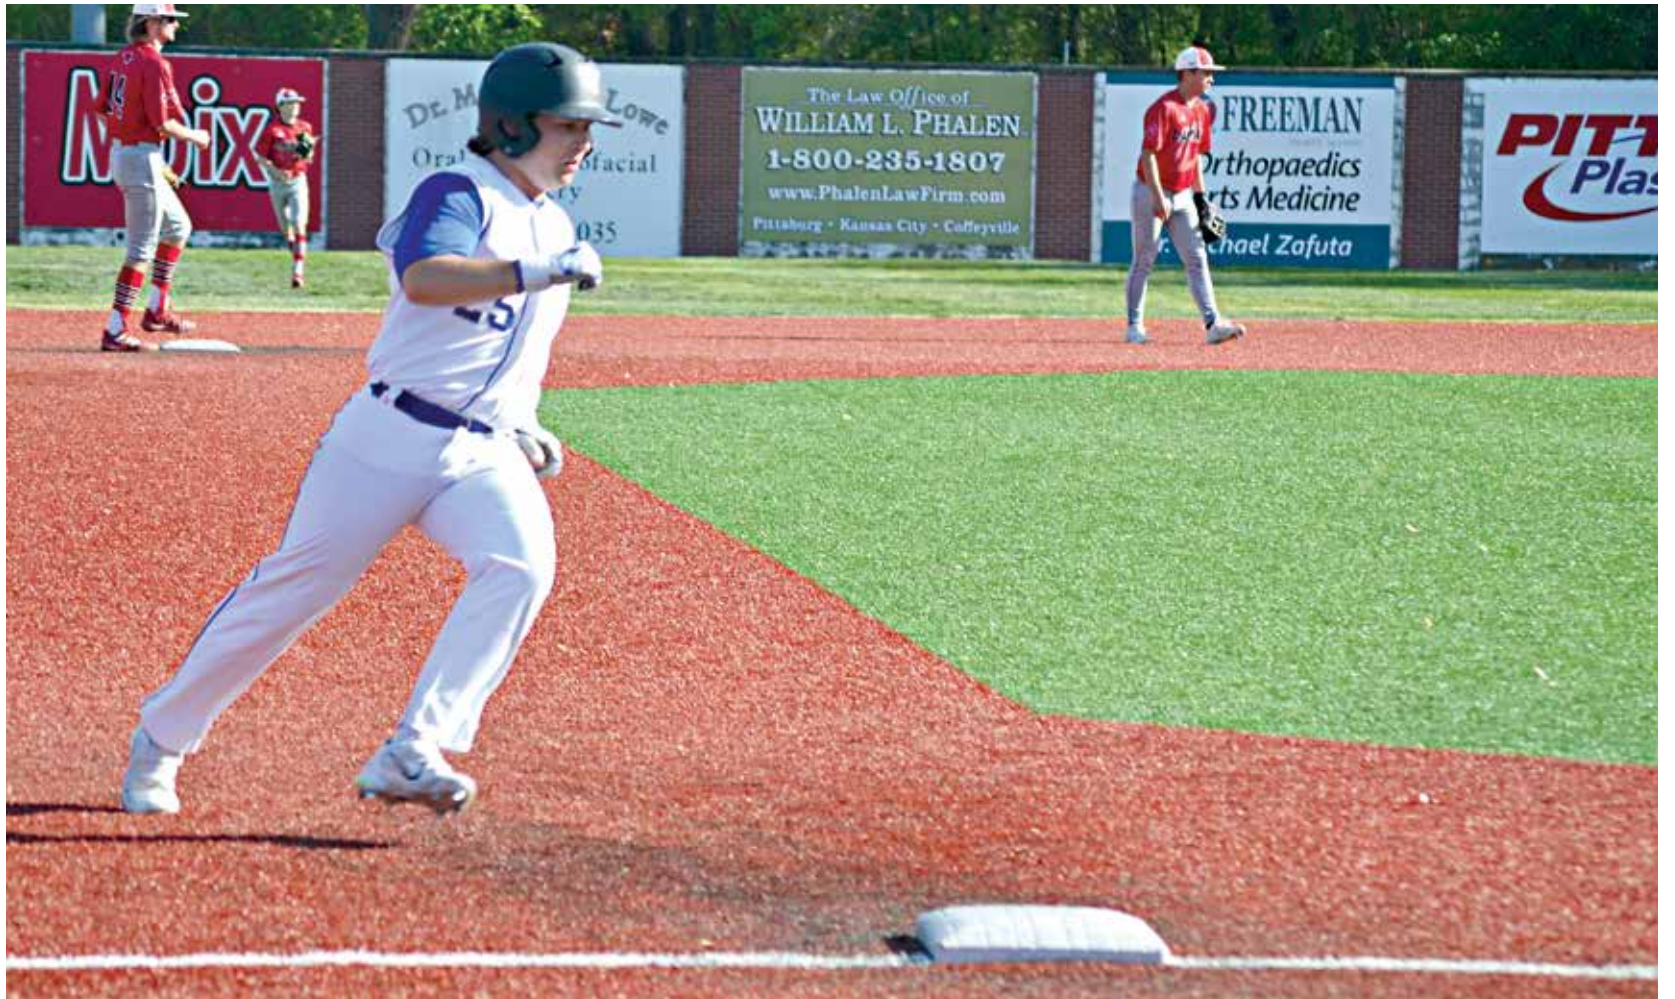

But with Las Vegas set to be the new home of the Athletics, a strong challenger to Nashville and any other expansion bid has been eliminated.

Here's a look at the pros and cons of the expected expansion candidates, who all must come to the table with a deep-pocketed ownership group and firm plans for a new stadium:

NASHVILLE

Pros: Instant rivalries with teams such as the Braves and Reds. A trendy city that has shown it can support big league sports with the NFL's Titans and NHL's Predators. A well-organized expansion group that includes Stewart, Hall of Fame manager Tony La Russa and some big hitters from the music business. "This is a music hub, an entertainment hub," Stewart said, noting that baseball has held its winter meetings in

The St. Mary's Colgan Panthers arguably outplayed the Lamar Tigers in five of the seven innings they played against the Tigers on Friday at Jaycee Field in Pittsburg.

The other two innings, however, were the ones that mattered.

The Tigers scored seven runs in the second inning and put up another four in the sixth, and it was enough to defeat the Panthers 11-5.

After a scoreless first inning, the bats exploded for Lamar (7-5). The Tigers recorded seven runs on eight hits, including four base knocks in a row and it looked like the Panthers were facing disaster.

If Colgan was rattled at all after the seven-inning top half of the second inning, it responded well. The Panthers scored three runs in the second and two runs in the third to get back into the game.

John Potusek earned the first RBI of the game for the Panthers, driving a liner to center field to score Carter Jacquinet, followed by a run on a throwing error by the second baseman and

Gorillas rally for doubleheader sweep

By Dashuan Vereen
dvereen@morningsun.net

"I'm still a little in shock because it was such a wild finish."

Count Pittsburg State coach Jenny Fuller among those who left the ballpark impressed with the Gorillas in their 4-3 comeback victory over Missouri Western in game two of Friday's softball doubleheader.

Pittsburg State (25-17, 10-10 MIAA) claimed a 4-2 win in game one before Paxtyn Hayes' walk-off RBI single in game two delivered the sweep to the Gorillas.

"Capturing a sweep puts us in a much better position to make the conference tournament which is what we're still fighting for," said Fuller. "Now we're .500 in conference and if we come out and play well (Saturday), we can put ourselves in an even better position to make it."

Pittsburg State 4, Missouri Western 2

Heather Arnett's speed gave Pittsburg State a huge boost in its game one win.

Arnett scored the Gorillas' first run by stealing home as Hayes stole second on a double steal. Arnett stole home once again in the third inning, this time by timing her steal with the catcher's throwback to the pitcher.

After Kalee Higdon trimmed the deficit to one run following a solo home run in the fourth, a sacrifice fly from Kadyn Trochim and an RBI single from Gracie Sullivan extended PSU's lead to 4-1.

Sydni Hawkins hammered a solo home run in the fifth for Missouri Western, but pitcher Hannah Harrison held the Griffons scoreless for the final two frames.

Harrison pitched the complete game, striking out six while allowing 11 hits and two runs. Arnett

Steele's 5 RBI power Jets past Gorillas 7-6

By Jim Henry
jhenry@morningsun.net

Jenner Steele drove in five runs with two home runs, and Newman wiggled out of a ninth-inning jam to nip Pittsburg State 7-6 Friday night in an MIAA baseball series opener at Al Ortolani Field.

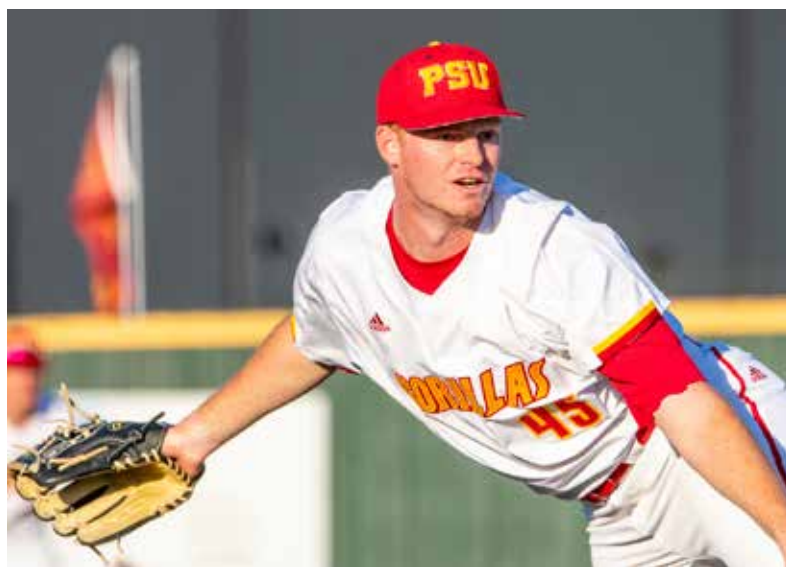

Steele, a senior first baseman from Hollister, Mo., belted a three-run home run to right-center field to cap a four-run fourth inning that gave the Jets (20-25, 12-16 MIAA) a 5-4 lead. He added a two-run shot — his 17th of the season — in the eighth to extend the margin to 7-4.

The Gorillas (29-14, 19-9), after having only three hits and four baserunners from the fourth through eighth innings, made things interesting in the ninth.

Cade Clemons led off the inning with an opposite-field homer to right field, his team-leading 16th of the season. One out later, Ryan Koval, Brevon Lee and pinch-hitter Joe Hamilton walked to load the bases.

Frontenac golf team off to strong start

By Jim Henry
jhenry@morningsun.net

A veteran Frontenac boys golf team is off to a strong start this spring.

The Raiders won their first three tournaments by an average of almost 17 strokes, and then they finished second, just one shot behind Carl Junction, in the St. Mary's Colgan Invitational at Crestwood Country Club.

The Raiders won by 20 shots in the Frontenac Invitational at Four Oaks Golf Course, 19 shots in the Baxter Springs Invitational where they went 1-2-3 in the individual standings and 11 shots at the Fort Scott Invitational.

Three juniors -- Vinny Pile, Cole Niederklein and Aidan Hill -- have set the pace.

Pile leads the Raiders, averaging 6.5 shots over par through 72 holes. He was medalist at Baxter Springs, runner-up at Four Oaks and tied for third in the other two events.

Cole Niederklein averages 7.0 strokes over par and was medalist at Fort Scott with a par-72 and at Four Oaks. He took third at Baxter Springs and sixth at Colgan's tournament.

Hill's stroke average is 11.5 over par, highlighted by a second-place finish at Baxter Springs, third at Colgan and fifth in the Raiders' tourney.

"The core of our team is three juniors," coach Brady Hill said. "They've been the core of our team for three years now. They were really important parts of our team as freshmen, led us to a fourth-place finish at state. Same thing last year with sixth-place at state."

"They're back again this year, playing well. They scored pretty well (Tuesday in windy conditions at Crestwood). They weren't happy with where they were at, which is a good thing. But they still scored well."

Junior Trey Cramer, sophomore Cooper Born and senior Dylan Witthuhn complete Frontenac's six-man lineup. Cramer tied for 11th place in the Colgan tournament.

The Raiders, who have won the CNC League title the last two years, travel into Missouri on Monday to compete in the Webb City Invitational at the Briarbrook Golf Course.

Lancers' Renn, Scales sign college letters

Staff Reports
sports@morningsun.net

Southeast High School seniors Easton Renn and Wyatt Scales have signed their college letters-of-intent.

Renn signed to play baseball at Coffeyville Community College, and Scales signed to compete in rodeo at Connors State College in Warner, Okla.

Renn, the son of Clifford and Suzanne Renn, is a four-year letterman for the Lancers in baseball, basketball, cross country and track and field.

He was a Class 2A all-state selection in baseball last season after receiving honorable mention as a sophomore. Renn helped the basketball team win three consecutive Three Rivers League championships and was a 1,000-point scorer. He was honorable mention all-state as a senior after being second team all-state as a junior.

He received all-league honors in cross country three times and was on the state-qualifying team as a sophomore.

Renn has pitched and played both the infield and outfield for the Lancers. He is expected to play outfield for the Red Ravens. He plans to major in sports medicine.

Scales, the son of Mark and Shandi Scales, is a three-year letterman in basketball and baseball, earning all-conference laurels in both sports.

He has competed in tie down roping since he was nine years old and started steer wrestling last year. He qualified for the National High School Rodeo Finals in Gillette, Wyo., as a junior. He won the rookie of the year award in steer wrestling from the United Rodeo Association in 2022.

Connors State competes in the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association.

Johnson, Kitchen named athletes of the week

By Dashuan Vereen
dvereen@morningsun.net

Frontenac softball's Avery Johnson and baseball's Bryant Kitchen have been named the Morning Sun's high school athletes of the week for the week ending April 14.

AVERY JOHNSON

Johnson appeared in all four of Frontenac's wins last week, notching 11 strikeouts while allowing no runs and two hits in seven innings pitched in the Raiders doubleheader sweep over Riverton.

In the following doubleheader sweep against Prairie View, Johnson tallied 12 strikeouts while allowing three runs and six hits.

"Avery has really stepped up for us this season," said coach Cassie Rhuems. "She has grown a lot as a player. She's more outgoing and I think she also has a lot more confidence in herself. The success of our team last season helped with that."

"She's really working hard and she's been doing a lot on her own to give herself a chance to be as good she can be and we appreciate that."

BRYANT KITCHEN

Kitchen allowed no runs and two hits with three strikeouts in Frontenac's win over Riverton in game two of a doubleheader. Kitchen also added three hits and one RBI during the doubleheader.

"Bryant is a very talented baseball player," said coach Caleb Terlip. "He has good length. He's a very consistent pitcher — he throws a lot of strikes and changes speeds. He really throws the ball downhill."

"He also plays right field and first base, and he's batting in the middle of our lineup. He sat out last year due to transferring and I think not being able to compete lit a fire under him."

COACHES CAN NOMINATE athletes of the week by emailing sports@morningsun.net before 5 p.m. Wednesday. Please attach a closeup head and shoulders shot of the athlete to the email. Awards on April 29 will be based on performances from April 15-21.

Dragons defeat Carl Junction

Staff Reports
sports@morningsun.net

In a high-octane road matchup, Pittsburg scored four runs in the first, third and seventh frames to lead the Purple Dragons to a 17-12 win over Carl Junction on Friday.

Carl Junction plated seven runs in the third to tie the score at 9-9, but the Purple Dragons outpaced the Bulldogs 8-3 in the remaining innings to capture the win.

Webb Fern opened the scoring in the first inning with a two-run triple. Beau Pasteur added an RBI triple and Jacob Linahan hit an RBI single in the inning to help Pittsburg build a 4-0 lead.

The Purple Dragons continued to add to their advantage, taking a 9-2 lead going into the third. Consecutive RBI singles from Bentley Rowden, Deacon Endicott and Lucas Vanlanduit helped spark the Bulldogs' seven-run third to tie the score.

After both teams traded a run in the fourth, Grant O'Doherty and Ethan Rhodes belted RBI singles to lead a three-run fifth for Pittsburg.

Carl Junction trimmed the lead to 13-12 by plating two runs in the sixth, but RBI singles from Dawson Stegman and Tucker Akins and an RBI double from Pasteur helped lead the Purple Dragons to the win.

Pasteur led the charge for the Purple Dragons, finishing with four hits, including a triple and a double, and two RBI. Stegman, Akins and Rhodes finished with three hits each.

Carl Junction was led by Wyatt McAfee and Logan Eck, who had three hits each. Quinten Fears earned the win in relief, allowing three runs and four hits with four strikeouts in 4.1 innings.

Daegan Brady's sacrifice fly to right field scored Koval and left runners at first and second. Andrew Prieve then struck out Austin Warkins, who had three singles in his previous four at-bats, to secure his second save.

Newman starter Garrett VanDeventer (6-4) settled down after allowing four early runs to earn the victory, striking out two and walking two and giving up six hits in seven innings. He retired 11 of the last 14 batters he faced and was aided by three double plays.

Karson Coffee provided three early runs for the Gorillas with a solo homer to right-center field in the second inning and two-run shot just inside the right-field foul pole in the third, his eighth and ninth homers of the season.

Before Coffee's second homer, Nixon Brannan drove in a run with a single off third baseman Jason Schneider's glove.

That extended Brannan's hitting streak to 22 games, breaking the school record he shared with Justin Annin in 2000.

PSU starter Zac Shoemaker (8-1) suffered his first loss of the season, yielding five runs and six hits in six innings with four walks and no strikeouts. Cason Long gave up a hit and two runs in the last three innings, striking out five and walking one.

Zack Stewart hit a bases-empty homer — his 15th — to put the Jets on the scoreboard in the fourth inning.

a sacrifice fly by Connor VanBecelaere. The third inning featured another score on a throwing error followed by Potusek's second RBI of the game, another single to center field, as the Panthers cut a seven-run deficit down to just two.

They would get no closer. Neither team scored in the fourth and the fifth, and in the sixth inning the Tigers tacked on four insurance runs. Lamar's Tyler Ansley cleared the bases with a triple that drove in two runs and was immediately followed by Cooper Haun's two-run bomb that went nearly 400 feet in the deepest part of the ballpark.

The Panthers scored five runs on seven hits and made no errors, led by Potusek's two-hit, two-RBI day.

Colgan (6-5) looks to bounce back on Monday, hosting the Columbus Titans for a doubleheader at Jaycee Field.

Nashville. "There's tremendous growth from all across the country, people migrating here."

Cons: A new stadium will have to be privately financed — a con for the potential ownership group, at least. Nashville already built a 30,000-seat facility for its Major League Soccer team and recently agreed to $1.2 billion in city and state funding to construct a new domed football arena for the Titans.

CHARLOTTE

Pros: The most populous U.S. metro area among the potential candidates at more than 2.7 million. A natural rival for the Braves but far enough away not to infringe on Atlanta's attendance.

Cons: MLB is not likely to add two Southern teams in such close proximity, and Nashville appears to have a head start on Charlotte.

MONTREAL

Pros: A storied history with the Expos, an MLB franchise from 1969-2004, and the minor league Royals, the team that Jackie Robinson played for on his way to becoming MLB's first Black player. The Expos had good fan support until financial issues led ownership to begin trading away their top players.

Cons: A costly, retractable-roof stadium is a necessity given Montreal's climate, and there seems little willingness to dole out tax dollars to build such a facility.

PORTLAND

Pros: The Pacific Northwest could use another MLB franchise to go along with the Seattle Mariners. There certainly appears to be room for a new team in Portland, which has only the NBA's Trail Blazers and a pair of soccer clubs vying for pro sports dollars. An expansion team could be nicknamed the Mavericks, honoring the storied independent minor-league team from the 1970s.

Cons: Plans for a new stadium sure look good on paper, but the expansion group Portland Diamond Project will have to lock down a concept that relies mostly on private funding.

SALT LAKE CITY

Pros: A growing city that, like Portland, would seem to have room for another team with only the NBA's Jazz representing the Big Four sports. A new franchise would fill a gaping geographic hole between Denver and the Pacific Coast. A prospective ownership group recently unveiled plans for a new stadium.

Cons: By far the smallest of the prospective cities with a metro population of around 1.2 million.

So, who are the favorites?

We would love to see the Expos revived in Montreal, a city that truly got a bum deal during its first big league run, but it's hard to envision any scenario where the locals agree to dole out hundreds of millions in Canadian dollars for a new stadium.

Therefore, we're picking Nashville and Portland as the cities most likely to receive an expansion franchise.

If that happens, MLB will be faced with another big issue: realignment.

Some proposals have been pushed to totally revamp the divisional structure, essentially eliminating the long-standing American League and National League set-ups.

We prefer something less dramatic.

Nashville would fit nicely in the NL, and the same could be said of Portland moving into the AL. That would lead to four-team divisions, four in each league.

It could look like this:

AL East: Baltimore Orioles, Boston Red Sox, New York Yankees, Toronto Blue Jays.

AL Central: Chicago White Sox, Cleveland Guardians, Detroit Tigers, Minnesota Twins.

AL South: Houston Astros, Kansas City Royals, Tampa Bay Rays, Texas Rangers.

AL West: Las Vegas Athletics, Los Angeles Angels, Portland Mavericks, Seattle Mariners.

NL East: New York Mets, Philadelphia Phillies, Pittsburgh Pirates, Washington Nationals.

NL Central: Chicago Cubs, Colorado Rockies, Milwaukee Brewers, St. Louis Cardinals.

NL South: Atlanta Braves, Cincinnati Reds, Miami Marlins, Nashville Stars.

NL West: Arizona Diamondbacks, Los Angeles Dodgers, San Diego Padres, San Francisco Giants.

MLB Commissioner Rob Manfred has made it clear that the first expansion since Tampa Bay and the Arizona Diamondbacks were admitted in 1998 won't occur until both Oakland and the Rays reach deals for new stadiums.

Tampa Bay, you're on the clock.
It's past time for expansion.

TRUE STORIES

Magic carpets made of steel

“And the sons of pull-man porters, and the sons of engineers, ride their father’s magic carpets made of steel.”

— Steve Goodman, “City of New Orleans”

J.T. KNOLL
Morning Sun Columnist

As George Weeks and I entered the Pittsburg Public Library last week, he said, “J.T.”, I’ve discovered I’m a ferroequinologist ... then smiled as he waited for me to figure out the term.

I was flummoxed, so I asked him the definition. When he told me it came as no surprise as I’ve known for a long time that he has a great affection for ‘Iron Horses’.

In specific, the word means one who’s enamored with old steam locomotives. In a broader sense, it refers to anyone who is a railway enthusiast or ‘train buff.’

“I’ve loved trains in general, and steam engines, since my mother would take me down to the MKT tracks in Coffeyville to wait for the daily train that went from Parsons to Oklahoma City,” George told me. “The smoke, the steam, the big wheels and rods going around were mesmerizing.”

Another local ferroequinologist and all around trainspotter will be sharing his locomotive and railway romance at the Miner’s Hall Museum in Franklin this week.

At 2 p.m. Sunday, April 23, McCune native Dick Rauniker will present “The Emergence of the Railroad in Rural Kansas - 1870 to present day.”

The presentation will detail the dawn of the railroads in Southeast Kansas — special focus on McCune and Cherokee Kansas — as well as detail their destinies.

Rauniker has lived in McCune since 1949 when his father was transferred to McCune with the Frisco.

He also has a vast knowledge of railways throughout the United States, some of which he will be sharing as well. Railroads had a major impact on which towns blossomed and which ones died. Not surprisingly, he has his very own railroad museum — a large collection of railroad items, memorabilia, and scale models in his home.

Although I’m not a ferroequinologist I have a deep love of trains. My Dad worked for the Kansas City Southern and I rode the rails often.

Over twenty KCS freights still pass through Pittsburg daily. As I’m writing this hear one rumbling south, its trombone horn sounding repeatedly through the town crossings. “There goes Knoll,” Dad always mused aloud when he heard the two longs, a short, and a long song.

Dad started out shoveling coal on an Iron Horse — then later became a throttle tuning engineer at the head of vast freights snaking south through the Ozark hills.

Or highballing north on a full-tilt passenger runs to Kansas City, the chick-aduh, chickaduh, chickaduh, clickety clack of the wheels on the track singing its monosyllabic sonic boom of speed and steel to the city and back.

I liked to hear him tell stories about the early steamers, like the old Mallets ... slow but they could tow the tonnage as no other, and the “J” series, which were long, large, and both lickety and split over the twin rails. “Oh, the thrill once we topped the hill!”

He’d shovel 30 to 35 tons of coal between here and K.C., firin’ for Blair, Bryant, Walker, or Hackney, with two or three stops for water and coal, shake out the cinders, and oil it all.

Then as an engineer on the diesel-electrics, he’d lever their deep, resonant hum in incremental notches as the slack slid out and the full weight of a mile-long freight rolled slowly south out of Pittsburg.

He often shared stories about the trips south and the walloping wail of steel on steel reverberating over the hills as the serpentine mass alternately flew, meandered and stopped (after breaking in two thanks to a busted drawbar) through Joplin, Neosho, Noel and Lanagan, finally stopping at Watts, Oklahoma, where the raucous five-man crew would check the haybook, grab a bite to eat at the diner, play a little poker and swap stories.

His favorite run was the “Southern Bell” — a passenger plus to Kansas City and back the same day. Leave the depot at 7th and Michigan around 8 a.m. and get back around six in the evening. Or the “Flying Crow” north at 5:30 a.m. and back at midnight. Maybe go to an Athletics baseball game at the old Municipal Stadium, or a basketball game at Municipal Auditorium.

It’s been 60 years since I rode the rock-a-bye to Kansas City with my brothers on a free pass with dad the hoghead and an old, cranky conductor growling for us to behave.

We’d eventually split to the lounge car where the faces were friendlier, swaying sweetly with the roll of rails as we passed through the cars with their perfume of diesel, cigarette smoke, sweat, and sandwiches.

At the last table, we’d slurp cokes, watch the grownups knock back highballs, and witness the world slipping away through the tail of the train.

Fiance’s sister is center of the family’s attention

DEAR ABBY: I am marrying the most amazing man next year. We have been together for six years. I have always gotten along with his family and know they will be great in-laws. However, as time has gone by, I’ve noticed that they cater more and more to my fiance’s older sister. She’s nearly 30, but she acts like she’s 13.

When she has an argument with her spouse, she calls my fiance and makes it sound so dramatic that he drops everything and runs to her rescue. Invariably, it turns out to not be as bad as she was saying. She also talks so badly about her spouse to her parents that I feel embarrassed for him. If she’s sick or home alone (her husband travels for work), she sleeps at her parents’ house with her infant son instead of staying in her own home, which is a town away.

Her family does EVERYTHING for her — things that a capable adult should do for herself. Many times, my fiance and I have been on a date or spending time with each other, and then his sister calls and he leaves me to cater to her. It hurts my feelings when he does this.

I know family is important, and I’m not saying he shouldn’t help his sister. I have talked with him about this on multiple occasions, but he doesn’t seem to understand or isn’t interested in talking about it. Am I being unreasonable? Is there anything I can or should do to feel otherwise about it? How do I cope with my feelings about this?

— ANNOYED IN ILLINOIS

DEAR ANNOYED: What concerns me about your letter isn’t that your fiance goes running to his sister’s side when he gets one of her “emergency calls.” What troubles me is that when you tell him something bothers you, he “isn’t interested in talking about it.”

If Sissy and her husband feel it’s safer for her to spend nights with her parents when he travels and the parents welcome her, I see no reason why you should be critical of her for it. However, that your fiance would cut short a date or some other activity you are involved in together strikes me as over the top if it isn’t a true emergency.

DEAR ABBY

As I see it, you can either accept this as part of their family dynamic, or rethink marrying into that family, because they are not going to change — and once the parents pass on, Sissy may need her brother more than ever.

DEAR ABBY: I dated a guy long distance for eight months. Whenever he was in my state for work, I’d go see him. Two months ago, he suddenly ghosted me! Two days prior to that, everything was fine. We texted and had a wonderful phone conversation. I’m at a loss. At first I was sad about it, but now I’m angry. I want answers, which I know I probably won’t get. What do you think happened?

DEAR LEFT: Long-Distance Guy may have met another woman and ghosted you because he wasn’t man enough to be upfront about it. Another possibility is that he was never available in the first place. This is why long-distance relationships can be risky unless you know the person well, and why it’s a safer bet to focus on someone local.

FROM OUR HISTORY

Officer injured in high-speed chase in Frontenac

By Phil Burgert

Excerpted stories in Crawford County newspaper archives

100 Years Ago
April 22-24, 1923

The conductor on K. C. S. passenger train No. 4, Saturday a.m., reported two unusual passengers on his train between Pittsburg and Kansas City, one of them being the Stork and the other the Grim Reaper. At 2:30 a.m. an 8 pound girl was born to Rose Peck, of Poteau, Okla., as the train approached Mulberry. A little further up the line, William Richards, of Powell, Mo., age 76 years, died on the train.

The police yesterday conducted a cleanup campaign on disorderly houses, making six arrests on fornication and adultery charges during the day. B. C. Hitchcock, M. E. Newberry and Babe Neet, formerly Mrs. Norm Hurst, were arrested at 7:20 a.m. on East 10th street. At 1:30 yesterday afternoon, Vert Hardin was arrested with Agnes Roberts and Stella Mason on East 7th St.

The musical program given by a 60-piece orchestra under the direction of J. J. Richards, at the Christian church last night, attracted a crowd that overflowed the building and several hundred late arrivals were turned away. The building was crowded to the doors by persons who stood during the entire concert with no chance of obtaining admittance. The program given by the orchestra was favorably received by the large audience.

The carmen ran over the boiler-makers in a baseball game at the Kansas City Southern shop diamond yesterday afternoon, 22 to 6. Collins, carmen third baseman knocked out a homer, bringing in two men. Baker, carmen right fielder, also collected batting honors by lining out a homer, bringing in one man. Miller and Dixon were umpires. About 200 fans attended the game.

Dick Daviscourt, El Paso, Tex., grappler, pinned the shoulders of “Sailor” Jack Lewis of Ryan, Okla., to the mat twice last night in a wrestling match at the Moose hall. The first fall was gained after 40 minutes and 25 seconds of wrestling, with a headlock, and the second came after only 9 minutes and 50 seconds with an arm key lock. The bout was without question the best wrestling match that has been staged in Pittsburg in recent years.

50 Years Ago
April 22-24, 1973

William L. Edwards, 33, no permanent address, was released on $71 bond following a high-speed chase late Saturday night. The chase involved Frontenac and Pittsburg police. A patrolman was injured during the chase while northbound on Mt. Carmel Road in Frontenac and his patrol car struck a tree. Damage to the patrol car was estimated at $3,000. Edwards was apprehended at Leighton and Cayuga after his car slid into a ditch.

Roland Smith, 19, of rural Pittsburg, who broke out of Crawford County jail late Saturday, decided to return to the jail early Sunday. The sheriff’s department reported Smith missing at 10:30 p.m. after he climbed through a vent and down radio tower cables. He then tried to hitchhike to Pittsburg to raise bond money and when he couldn’t get a ride, he returned to the jail. Officers were surprised to find him in his cell in the morning.

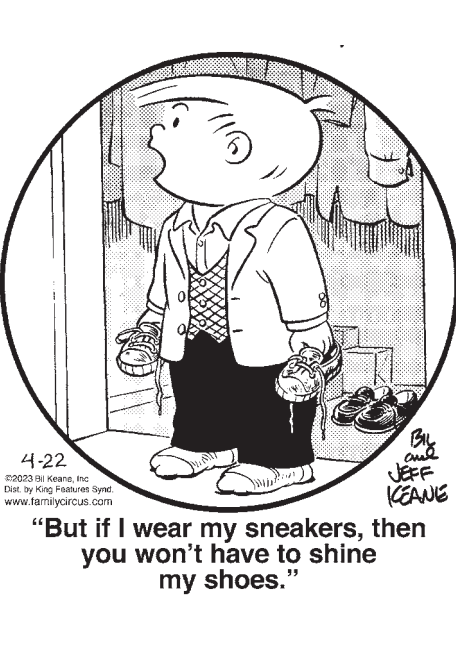

H. R. (Harry) Brown, 85, one of the last of the old time “pa and ma” type of neighborhood grocery store operators in Pittsburg, died at 11:25 a.m. yesterday at Mt. Carmel Medical Center. The store that Brown operated for 60 years will preserve the atmosphere of the old family-type of grocery store of another generation for posterity on the site of the Crawford County museum in Pittsburg. He closed the business in 1968.

Youth and maturity will be spotlighted in the third annual March of Dimes walk-a-thon next Saturday. A breeze for a stepper — that’s what it will be for Sherman Baker. He probably will set the pace despite the weight of Father Time. He is 67 years old or he will be in June. Little Steven Henderson, 4 and a half years old, the 1973 Crawford County March of Dimes poster child, will be the official starter for the 20-mile hike.

Mulberry Holiness Church

208 W. 5th Street Mulberry, KS
(620)764-3771

In my former book, Theophilus, I wrote about all that Jesus began to do and to teach until the day he was taken up to heaven, after giving instructions through the Holy Spirit to the apostles he had chosen. After his suffering, he presented himself to them and gave many convincing proofs that he was alive. He appeared to them over a period of forty days and spoke about the kingdom of God. On one occasion, while he was eating with them, he gave them this command: "Do not leave Jerusalem, but wait for the gift my Father promised, which you have heard me speak about. For John baptized with[a] water, but in a few days you will be baptized with[b] the Holy Spirit." Then they gathered around him and asked him, "Lord, are you at this time going to restore the kingdom to Israel?" He said to them: "It is not for you to know the times or dates the Father has set by his own authority. But you will receive power when the Holy Spirit comes on you; and you will be my witnesses in Jerusalem, and in all Judea and Samaria, and to the ends of the earth." After he said this, he was taken up before their very eyes, and a cloud hid him from their sight.

NFL suspends 5 players for violating gambling policy

By ROB MAADDI
AP Pro Football Writer

Three NFL players were suspended indefinitely Friday for betting on NFL games in the 2022 season, while two other players, including the 12th overall draft pick a year ago, received six-game suspensions for betting on non-NFL games at a league facility.

Detroit Lions wide receiver Quincey Cephus, Lions safety C.J. Moore and Washington Commanders defensive end Shaka Toney are sidelined for the entire 2023 season and may petition for reinstatement afterward.

Lions wide receivers Stanley Berryhill and Jameson Williams each received a six-game suspension, though they will be able to participate in all offseason and preseason activities, including preseason games. Their suspensions will start at the final roster cutdown.

The NFL said that a "league review uncovered no evidence indicating any inside information was used or that any game was compromised in any way."

Gambling incidents have been relatively rare for the NFL. Most recently, wide receiver Calvin Ridley was suspended for the entire 2022 season for gambling on NFL games; he was later traded from Atlanta to Jacksonville and was reinstated. In November 2019, Arizona Cardinals cornerback Josh Shaw was suspended for gambling on an NFL game; he has not played in the league since.

The Lions immediately released Cephus, who caught 37 passes in three seasons, and Moore, who started one game in four years.

Detroit executive vice president and general manager Brad Holmes said the two "exhibited decision making that is not consistent with our organizational values and violates league rules."

Williams was the 12th overall pick in last year's draft but he played in just six games after returning from knee surgery. Alliance Sports, which represents Williams, said in a statement the player is "apologetic to the NFL, his teammates and the fans and city of Detroit." It also noted Williams' suspension was for a "technical rule regarding the actual location in which the online bet was placed — and which would otherwise be allowed by the NFL outside of the club's facility."

WHAT'S NEW ON HBO MAX

"Love & Death"

The line between love and betrayal gets blurred in the new seven-episode true crime miniseries "Love & Death" when it premieres its first three episodes on HBO Max Thursday, April 27. The remaining episodes air weekly on Thursdays. A fictionalized retelling of the brutal 1980 murder of Betty Gore (portrayed in the series by Lily Rabe, "Shrinking"), "Love & Death" follows the events leading up to her death and the not-so-innocent lives of her fellow Texan friends and neighbors. After Betty is murdered with an axe in her own home, and the police determine that she likely knew her killer personally, accusing eyes quickly turn to her husband, Allan (Jesse Plemons, "The Power of the Dog," 2021), and then to her close friend, Candy Montgomery (Elizabeth Olsen, "WandaVision"), with whom her husband was having an affair. As the investigation digs deeper, dark secrets begin to bubble up to the surface. From writer/executive producer David E. Kelley ("Big Little Lies") and director Lesli Linka Glatter ("Homeland"), the series is inspired by the book "Evidence of Love: A True Story of Passion and Death in the Suburbs" by Jim Atkinson, John Bloom and Joe Bob Briggs, as well as a collection of articles from Texas Monthly ("Love & Death in Silicon Prairie," Part I and II). "Love & Death" also stars Patrick Fugit ("Treadstone"), Krysten Ritter ("Jessica Jones"), Keir Gilchrist ("It's Kind of a Funny Story," 2010), Elizabeth Marvel ("Law & Order: Special Victims Unit"), Mackenzie Astin ("The Facts of Life"), Olivia Grace Applegate ("Driven"), Fabiola Andújar ("Hit & Run"), Kira Pozehl ("American Crime"), Ryan Murphy ("Hypnotic," 2023), Harper Heath ("Forever and a Day," 2022) and Amelie Dallimore ("Honey: Us," 2021).

WHAT'S NEW ON PRIME VIDEO

"Citadel" - Season 1

The future of civilization hangs in the balance in the new Prime Video original series "Citadel," premiering on the Amazon streaming platform Friday, April 28. Eight years before the beginning of the story, Citadel — an independent global spy agency tasked with upholding the safety and security of all people — fell, destroyed by the operatives of a powerful, shadowy syndicate called Manticore. During the fall, elite Citadel agents Mason Kane (Richard Madden, "Game of Thrones") and Nadia Sinh (Priyanka Chopra Jonas, "Quantico") narrowly escaped with their lives but had their memories wiped in the process. Now, as Manticore is trying to establish a new world order, a colleague from their past seeks out their help to stop Manticore once and for all. As Mason and Nadia reunite to stop the syndicate, they'll have to try desperately to dig up as many memories from their past lives as they can — even though it means digging up the secrets and lies of their complicated past in the process. From Amazon Studios and the Russo Brothers' AGBO, the series is helmed by showrunner David Weil ("Hunters") and directed by Anthony Russo and Joe Russo ("The Gray Man," 2022), Bryan Kirk ("21 Bridges," 2019) and Newton Thomas Sigel ("Bohemian Rhapsody," 2018). Stanley Tucci ("Spotlight," 2015), Lesley Manville ("Phantom Thread," 2017), Ashleigh Cummings ("Puberty Blues"), Roland Møller ("Land of Mine," 2015), Osy Ikhile ("The Feed"), Moira Kelly ("One Tree Hill") and Caoilinn Springall ("The Midnight Sky," 2020) also star.

WHAT'S NEW ON DISNEY+

"Peter Pan & Wendy" (2023)

Head straight on till morning with Disney's new, highly anticipated adaptation of J.M. Barrie's classic novel, "Peter Pan," when the live-action family film "Peter Pan & Wendy" premieres exclusively on Disney+ Friday, April 28. The film follows the story of Wendy Darling (Ever Anderson, "Black Widow," 2021), a young girl afraid to leave her childhood home behind. With the help of a boy named Peter Pan (Alexander Molony, "The Reluctant Landlord"), Wendy and her brothers, John (Joshua Pickering, "A Discovery of Witches") and Michael (new talent Jacobi Jupe), get swept away on an adventure to the magical world of Neverland. While there, they encounter a host of eclectic characters, including the fairy Tinker Bell (Yara Shahidi, "Black-ish"); the dastardly pirate, Captain Hook (Jude Law, "The Talented Mr. Ripley," 1999); Hook's first mate, Mr. Smee (Jim Gaffigan, "Jim Gaffigan: The Pale Tourist," 2020); Tiger Lily (Alyssa Wapanatâhk, "Bones of Crows," 2022), the daughter of the land's Indigenous chieftain; and Peter's friends, the Lost Boys, Curly (Florence Bensberg, "Strike Back"), Nibs (Sebastian Billingsley-Rodriguez, "The Baby-Sitters Club"), Slightly (new talent Noah Matthews Matofsky), Tootles (Caelan Edie, "Hollyoaks"), Bellweather (new talent Felix de Sousa), Birdie (Diana Tsoy, "Sweet Tweets") and the twins (Kelsey Yates and Skyler Yates, both of "9-1-1: Lone Star"). Directed by David Lowery ("Pete's Dragon," 2016), the film features a screenplay by Lowery and Toby Halbrooks ("Pete's Dragon," 2016). "Peter Pan & Wendy" also stars Alan Tudyk ("Resident Alien"), Molly Parker ("Deadwood"), Deborah Ramsay ("A Million Little Things") and Paloma Nuñez ("Baroness Von Sketch Show").

"Star Wars: Young Jedi Adventures" - Season 1

Prepare for the Force to return once more in "Star Wars: Young Jedi Adventures," the newest addition to the Star Wars Universe, when its first season streams in its entirety Wednesday, April 26, on Disney+. A computer-animated series for children, this Disney Junior series set during The High Republic era follows Jedi younglings as they study the ways of the Force. As they learn about their powers and the responsibilities that they hold, the young Jedi explore the galaxy, help citizens and creatures in need, and learn the many valuable skills needed to wield the force along the way. Directed by Elliot M. Bour ("Elena of Avalor"), the series is written by Lamont Magee ("Black Lightning") and executive produced by showrunner Michael Olson ("Junkies Rush Relaxed"), Richard Marlis ("Puppy Dog Pals"), Jacqui Lopez ("Star Wars: Visions"), Josh Rimes ("Star Wars: The Bad Batch") and James Waugh ("The Lego Star Wars Holiday Special," 2020). Dee Bradley Baker ("Phineas and Ferb"), Juliet Donenfeld ("Gabby's Dollhouse"), Emma Berman ("Luca," 2021), Piotr Michael ("Where's Waldo?"), Jonathan Lipow ("Star Wars: The Bad Batch") and Jamaal Avery Jr. ("Abbott Elementary") voice star.

WHAT'S NEW ON NETFLIX

"Sweet Tooth" - Season 2

The fantasy series "Sweet Tooth" makes another daring journey in its Season 2 return to Netflix Thursday, April 27. Based on the DC Universe graphic novel of the same name by Canadian comic book writer and artist Jeff Lemire, "Sweet Tooth" is set in a post-apocalyptic world, where a catastrophic event called The Great Crumble led to the rise of animal-human hybrids. The series centers on Gus (Christian Convery, "Cocaine Bear," 2023), a young human-deer hybrid boy whose safe, secluded forest life changed when he befriended a wanderer named Tommy Jepperd (Nonso Anozie, "Cinderella," 2015) and ended up on a perilous adventure around the world in search of a new beginning with his new friend and protector. Season 2 picks back up as a deadly new wave of "the Sick" bears down on the land. After Gus and his fellow hybrids are held captive by the Last Men, Gus agrees to help the doctors in order to save his friends, and he must find new strength as he learns about the origins of The Great Crumble along the way. Created by television by Jim Mickle ("Hap and Leonard") and Beth Schwartz ("Arrow"), "Sweet Tooth" also stars Adeel Akhtar ("Enola Holmes," 2020), Stefania LaVie Owen ("Chance"), Dania Ramirez ("Heroes"), Aliza Vellani ("Marvel Super Hero Adventures"), James Brolin ("Life in Pieces"), Naledi Murray ("Tommy"), Neil Sandilands ("The Flash"), Will Forte ("The Last Man on Earth"), Marlon Williams ("The Beautiful Lie"), Amie Donald ("M3GAN," 2022), Yonas Kibreab ("Obi-Wan Kenobi"), Ravi Narayan ("Krampus," 2015) and new talents Harvey Gui and Christopher Sean Cooper Jr.

The last last show: Corden, 'Late Late Show' exit after years on CBS

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

Almost one year ago to the day, comedian James Corden announced his decision to leave "The Late Late Show," which he began hosting when Craig Ferguson ("The Hustler") stepped away from the desk in 2015. Neither the host nor the show has plans to go quietly, however, and CBS is marking the end of an era with the prime-time special "The Last Last Late Late Show," airing Thursday, April 27, ahead of the show's final broadcast later that night.

For 18 of its 28 years on the air, the late-night show — which debuted in January 1995 and featured more "talk" than "show" under original host Tom Snyder — has featured a unique comic style for many North American viewers: dry, sardonic British humor.

Ferguson — a Scottish treasure and successor to the show's second host, Craig Kilborn ("The Kilborn File") — occupied the desk with snake mug in hand for nearly a decade before passing the torch to Corden, who is originally from the greater London area in England. Corden, who will always be remembered for his "Carpool Karaoke" segments, nearly surpassed Ferguson's hosting tenure before deciding to return home to the U.K. this year; what's more, it appears "The Late Late Show" will exit stage right alongside its current host.

To see "The Late Late Show" out, however, the show's writers and producers have helped Corden to make it an affair to remember. Titling it "The Last Last Late Late Show," the prime-time special will welcome a friend of the show, Tom Cruise ("Top Gun: Maverick," 2022), for "an epic musical performance during 'The Lion King'" at Hollywood's Pantages Theatre. (The pair are reportedly set to star as Timon and Pumbaa on stage.) Also anticipating sizeable crowds that evening, the show's staff has expanded their possible audience size to fit the bill. With this in mind, it's possible the "Last Last" edition will look a bit more like the Oscars than a traditional episode of "The Late Late Show."

That said, the venue, the audience and the star power may not be the only big things during the night of April 27, as Corden is fully prepared for some big waterworks to come his way. "There will be so many tears," Corden said in an interview reported by the Los Angeles Times. "This has been the hardest decision I've ever had to make, it really has. I've never taken this job for granted. Ever. Not once."

CBS's decision not to replace Corden came as a shock to many fans (and no doubt staff) who have borne witness to many talk show host replacements since the dawn of the genre some 74 years ago. (For those wondering, the first late-night talk show has its origins on CBS in October 1949 with "The Faye Emerson Show.") But given TBS's July 2022 cancellation of "Full Frontal With Samantha Bee" and Trevor Noah's departure of "The Daily Show," many viewers are starting to spot a creeping trend.

While the post-prime-time slot has been popular in the past, with hosts such as Johnny Carson ("The Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson"), Jay Leno ("The Tonight Show with Jay Leno"), David Letterman ("Late Show with David Letterman") and Conan O'Brien ("Late Night with Conan O'Brien") holding down the genre, the steady decline in cable subscriptions has greatly affected this segment of the entertainment industry.

There has also been a clear and present rise in streaming content and apps such as TikTok, YouTube and Instagram, all of which have their own stars, segments and burgeoning comedians. Despite this shift in preferred outlet (and, let's face it, demographic), it remains tricky to predict whether the end of "The Late Late Show" marks a deciding moment for late-night comedy or whether it is simply a part of a survival-of-the-fittest model to pare down an industry that has occasionally been referred to as "overcrowded" (as reported by FanSided.com). Regardless of the outcome, late-night TV will be down another series come late spring.

While CBS doesn't plan to replace Corden as host of the show, the network still needs to fill the time-slot. Enter "@midnight," the aptly named late-night comedy game show formerly at home on Comedy Central.

Originally hosted by Chris Hardwick ("Talking Dead"), the two-time Prime-time Emmy-winning series released more than 500 episodes between 2014 and 2017. Driven by content available on and popularized by the internet, this panel show welcomed celebrity guests to comment on and critique (always through humour, of course) some of the most ridiculous and pervasive GIFs, memes, videos, pictures and more that the World Wide Web — and now several apps — has at its disposal.

At this time, there have been no reports to confirm or deny that Hardwick plans to return as host of the show, but CBS has been clear in its intention to issue the reboot (and likely modify it for today's audiences).

Regardless of the series' fit in the newly vacated time-slot, there is no doubt that "The Late Late Show" and its current host, Corden, will be sorely missed by many.

Don't miss Corden and Cruise as they sing "Hakuna Matata" and bid farewell to an era in the prime-time special, "The Last Last Late Late Show," airing Thursday, April 27, on CBS, a few hours ahead of the final broadcast of "The Late Late Show."

The late-night show is also available to stream live and on-demand on Paramount+.

Alex takes April: Spring into new content with chef Alex Guarnaschelli

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

It has long been said: "If you can't take the heat, get out of the kitchen." Chefs—professional and homemade alike—know the idiom well, but perhaps none have proven their ability to face the flames like Alex Guarnaschelli.

An Iron Chef, frequent "Chopped" judge and executive chef at Butter, her home-base restaurant in New York City, Guarnaschelli has somehow found room to add "TV host" to her resume, by taking the helm of not one, not two, but three Food Network shows that are featuring new content this month. Needless to say, April is a busy month for chef Alex Guarnaschelli.

First, our steadfast host got her hands dirty in "Alex vs. America," with Season 3 having premiered Sunday, April 16. In each episode, including the one airing this Sunday (April 23), Guarnaschelli joins the competition, going up against three guest chefs who specialize in their given weekly theme. The competitors complete two rounds of cooking before offering their plates to a panel of blindfolded judges—Guarnaschelli's attempt included. A winner is named, and if the best plate belongs to a guest chef, then Guarnaschelli is bested, and the champion receives both a cash prize and ultimate bragging rights, having beaten one of Food Network's best at her own game.

Continuing her adventure across America, Guarnaschelli takes her talents to the road with "Supermarket Stakeout," which returns to Food

Alex Guarnaschelli hosts "Supermarket Stakeout"

Network for a fifth season starting Tuesday, April 25. Guarnaschelli decorates supermarket parking lots with pop-up kitchens, giving four chefs each a $500 budget as they bargain with unsuspecting grocery shoppers for the ingredients necessary to complete their challenge, taken straight from the basket of a total stranger. Chefs ambush real-life customers, negotiating for grocery bags and whatever mystery items might be inside, then using what they find to cook full-fledged meals for weekly guest judges.

Guarnaschelli doesn't stop there. From the frozen food aisle to authentic Italian cooking, Guarnaschelli is also taking her hosting prowess worldwide in "Ciao House," which debuted Sunday, April 16, alongside the season premiere of "Alex vs. America." A new episode airs this Sunday, April 23.

From America to Italia, Guarnaschelli is one host who is determined to get a taste of talent wherever she goes. Stay tuned in to Food Network to see what she cooks up next.

'Somebody Somewhere' returns for sophomore season

By Sarah Passingham
TV Media

The wait is over, and the fate of choir practice will finally be revealed for those who have been anticipating the return of the word-of-mouth hit dramedy, "Somebody Somewhere."

Season 2 premieres Sunday, April 23, on HBO and HBO Max, with Bridget Everett ("Inside Amy Schumer") reprising her role as Sam Miller, who has found her own community after moving back to her hometown of Manhattan, Kansas, to care for her dying sister.

Happiness can be hard to find until you choose to stop shooing it away — that's the lesson that Sam learned in the first season of "Somebody Somewhere." Grieving her sister and bristling against her other family members, fate intervenes at Sam's dead-end job in the form of Joel, portrayed by "American Horror Story" actor Jeff Hiller. Joel is a former high school classmate who remembers Sam as the standout performer in a show choir.

After initially brushing it off, Sam gives in to Joel's invitation to his church's "choir practice." It is not in fact an "officially sanctioned" church event, as Joel puts it, and with the exception of the permanent fixtures on Faith Presbyterian Church's walls, is not about worshipping the Christian faith. Joel's choir practice is really a sort of open mic cabaret, with all kinds of performers being welcomed onto the stage by local professor and natural MC, Fred Rococo (Murray Hill, "Life & Beth"). Performing successfully brings Sam out of her shell and helps her connect with the kind of outsiders she didn't know existed in her hometown. However, wracked with guilt over having lied to his pastor, Joel leaves the church and his set of keys behind, putting choir practice on an indefinite hiatus.

Joel is the kind of friend to Sam that everyone dreams of having in their corner. He sees Sam for the best of who she is, even if she doesn't always see it in herself. Joel's admiration for Sam doesn't keep him from being exactly himself with her, including imparting hard-earned wisdom when it's needed. That's something that series co-creator Hannah Bos ("Driveways," 2019) shared with Vanity Fair in a March interview, and now that Sam has begun to make a life for herself in Manhattan, she will continue to grow personally in the upcoming season. Bos explained, "She's dealing with this giant thing, which is: Is she worthy of love? This relationship with Joel, it's a big relationship for her — because he not only calls her out ... he also encourages her."

Bos and the writers of "Somebody Somewhere" crafted Sam and Joel's friendship with palpable affection while keeping the naturalistic tone of the rest of the series. Speaking about close friendship, Bos told Vanity Fair, "you love someone so much they teach you to love yourself. And then there are always consequences with those kinds of relationships, because they're so heightened." The grounded realism in the scripts and performances is something that Hiller also discussed in the Vanity Fair profile of "Somebody Somewhere," saying, "the mandate is authenticity — not getting too wacky, but also not getting too maudlin or sappy."

While Sam finds happiness by reaching out and making friends, she pushes her family members to deal with the tough stuff. Exacerbated by grief, Sam's mother's alcoholism begins literally hurting her family when Mary Jo (Jane Drake Brody, "Chicago Fire") runs over her husband Ed's (Mike Hagerty, "Friends") foot and very narrowly avoids setting a serious barbecue fire. Encouraged by Sam, Ed got Mary Jo to attend a facility to help herself, which is where, according to the Vanity Fair interview, she "grudgingly" remains in Season 2.

Sadly, Hagerty died in May 2022 before filming began for the upcoming season. The loss was a shock for the cast and crew of the series, and ultimately, they decided to keep Ed in the show but off-screen, with the idea that he's visiting his brother. Everett told Vanity Fair, "he brought so much heart to the show, so [we were] having to figure out all that stuff at the last minute while grieving his loss. We decided to honor him throughout the show, just in small ways."

Brought together by hardship after hardship, Sam and her other sister, Tricia (Mary Catherine Garrison, "Veep"), seemed to be in a good place in the finale, having bonded over their mother's inability to take treatment seriously and the revelation of a brutal secret. Of course, Sam had to be the one to see Tricia's husband in the act of cheating on her with none other than Tricia's best friend and business partner. Risking further complicating their adversarial relationship, Sam tells Tricia what she needs to know. Everett told Vanity Fair that Tricia "is so incredible in this season," so the new divorcee life is presumably treating Tricia well.

Don't miss the second season premiere of "Somebody Somewhere," airing Sunday, April 23, on HBO and streaming on HBO Max.

I read that the grand jury weighing charges against former president Trump over hush payments made to Stormy Daniels is taking the next month off. What? Even Ted Cruz is like, "You're going on vacation now?!"

Some news from Washington last night [Mar. 29]. The Senate voted to end the national COVID emergency. Yeah, America's like, "Yeah, thanks for getting on that, guys. We, uh, ended it ourselves a year ago, but thank you." It feels like the Senate is a little behind. Right after that they held the hearing to address the dangers of MySpace. ... ## Triangle of Sadness

The social hierarchy is turned upside down in this dark comedy about the passengers and crew of an ill-fated luxury yacht voyage. Celebrity couple Carl (Dickinson) and Yaya (Dean) are invited on an exotic vacation for the elite, but things are decidedly less relaxing for the crew and the captain (Harrelson), who struggle to maintain order and civility. As the various characters discuss and debate the perils of the world, a sudden storm capsizes the vessel, leaving everyone stranded on a desert island. With the power dynamics shifted, the wealthy passengers now find themselves at the mercy of the crew they've so frequently dismissed. Director: Ruben Ostlund. Stars: Harris Dickinson, Charlbi Dean, Dolly De Leon, Zlatko Buric, Iris Berben, Vicki Berlin, Woody Harrelson. 2022. 147 mins. Comedy/Drama.

Culture clashes and generational gaps are explored in this spiritual drama highlighting the intertwined origins of the Hippie movement and Christianity. Southern California teenager Greg Laurie (Courtney) is a youth minister seeking to bridge the gap and include the younger generation in the church, but faces opposition from traditionalist pastor Chuck Smith (Grammer). Laurie ends up meeting a young Christian street preacher, Lonnie Frisbee (Roumie), and the pair bond over their beliefs and desire to bring inclusivity into the church at the height of the Free Love movement. Hesitant at first, all parties soon realize that the principles of truth and liberation are shared, and the two groups have more in common than they initially thought. Director(s): Jon Erwin, Brent McCorkle. Stars: Joel Courtney, Kelsey Grammer,
