FORT MADISON – Fort Madison Partners is in the middle of two annual summer projects. One is going according to schedule, while the other is lagging behind.

The annual Paint-A-Thon is slated for June 21-26 with three possible homes getting facelifts by community volunteers organized by the Partners.

Executive Director Tim Gobble said this year's Paint-A-Thon could tackle three different houses in the community.

He said the schedule will include about 75 hour-long time slots including power washing, surface prep work, yard work and painting.

"Right now Community Action of Southeast Iowa is in the process of contacting the home owner to let them know they are part of the program," Gobble said.

"As soon as that is done we will be working with them on paint colors and hopefully all that will happen this week."

Gobble is hoping to get at least 75 volunteers to take on each of the time slots. He said several companies in the area have allocated some employees to help with the work, but he

Chairman wants effort to clean up cemetery before applying for historic register

FORT MADISON – The chairman of the city's Historic Preservation Commission wants a city cemetery cleaned up before he'll recommend an application to place on the National Register of Historic Places.

Chris Sorrentino, the chairman of the city's Historic Preservation Commission told the group at meeting Monday night that he wanted an organized effort to spruce up the cemetery located in the 1400 block of Avenue H before he would support applying for the designation.

"I'd like to think we could clean that up a little bit before we try to register it on the national registry," Sorrentino said

"I don't know if we can something together this summer and make it a city wide kind of a fun event, but that cemetery has the builders of this city in it and it's important that it be preserved."

Sorrentino said the cemetery has stones that have been knocked over or fallen down and damaged and the fence is need of repair.

Commission member Andy Andrews challenged Sorrentino to get the designation so the city could go after some funding to help clean it up.

"That's why you apply to be on the registry so you can get grants to help pay for that," Andrews said.

City Manager David Varley said the city has plans to repair the fencing with has more than 100 iron panels on the sides and front along Avenue H.

"We have plans to refurbish the dam-

BNSF BRIDGE

Overnight crash leaves one injured, arrested

BY CHUCK VANDENBERG

FORT MADISON – An early morning accident on the Burlington Northern Santa Fe swingspan bridge in Fort Madison has resulted in the arrest of an Illinois woman.

Fort Madison Police arrested Ashley Mariah Olson, 33, of Wilmington, Ill., on a warrant after investigating the crash site.

According to Fort Madison Police Chief Mark Rohloff, Olson allegedly bypassed warning alarms and struck the barricade on the bridge. The bridge was opened to allow the passage of a boat at the time.

Olson was taken by ambulance to Fort Madison Community Hospital with injury complaints. She was driving a 2002 Volkswagen GTI, which Rohloff said was heavily damaged and towed from the scene.

"The impact also caused substantial damage to the barricade effectively closing the bridge to motor vehicle traffic until repairs could be made," Rohloff said.

He said police reports also indicate alcohol was present and additional charges may be filed pending the results of a chemical analysis. Olson was also arrested on a warrant for failure to appear out of Des Moines County.

The bridge was reopened Monday afternoon at about 2:30 p.m. when repairs had been completed.

Options on city fireworks display includes canceling

is still looking for volunteers to fill in the gaps.

He said this year two of the homes are smaller in size and have aluminum siding so they won't be as labor intensive as a wood home. This year's homes are located at 101 22nd Street, 1923 Ave L and 3207 Ave I.

"I think they'll go pretty quick. We'll see how the other home is going and we could move some people over to that project if all goes well," Gobble said.

Work hours are from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday. Some prep- power washing will be done on 19th or 20th so it has time to dry before Monday.

"This is a great community event and want to thank the sponsors that have already agreed to be a part of it: Kempker's True Value & Rental, Community Action of SE Iowa, IFC, Climax, Scotts, FMCH, Connection Bank & Insurance, Midwest One Bank, KLM Realty, Lee County Bank, Farmers Savings Bank and ConAgra.," Gobble said.

"If you're interested in being a part of this program, we would love to have you as it is a costly event to put on with the needed supplies. Unfortunately, we won't be able to pull off t-shirts just due to the timing and coronavirus impact, but we'll do everything in our power to make sure the public knows you're part of the volunteer solution to help beautify our community one home at a time."

In addition to the volunteers, Gobble said the program can still use some monetary donations to help move the program along. Any funds left over from the Paint-A-Thon go into the Fort Madison Beautification Foundation, which is a 501c3 charity, so all donations are tax deductible.

Anyone wanting more information or to volunteer for the program is encouraged to call the Partners office at 319-372-5471.

The other program is the Light Up the Sky on the 4th of July campaign. Gobble said funding is behind on that project with only about $3,000 of the needed $20,000 raised so far.

He said he has until the end of this week to confirm with the fireworks company what the show will look like.

Without the $20,000, Gobble said other options would have to be considered including scaling back the show, moving it again into the fall, or possibly canceling the event for 2020.

He said moving the event to the fall was not received well in 2018 when flooding forced the postponement.

Commission may look at new historic boundaries

aged panels and put those back together," Varley said.

"The mayor has given us til Dec. 31 to get those repaired."

Sorrentino said he'd didn't know if it would take until the end of the summer or longer, but he didn't want to put the property up to the application in it's current condition.

In an unrelated issue, the commission is also talking about revisiting the city's historic district listings and possibly looking at using the city council ward designations as historic district areas and then assigning a commission member to each district.
