LCCB new duck blind, boundary rules for 2017

BY CHUCK

PCC EDITOR

MONTROSE - The Lee County Conservation District is reminding hunters of the phase out of permanent duck blinds along the river areas owned by the conservation district.

Nathan Unsworth, the LCCD director, said the district used to allow permanent blinds through a lottery system, but it became difficult to control so the board moved to eliminate the program in December 2016.

"Basically, we had a permanent duck blind program we did through a lottery system," Unsworth said. "Unfortunately, over the last five years it was in practice it wasn't working for the district. People were leaving their blinds out and not complying with the rules, so it became a difficult thing to manage."

He said the hunters who have been following sons. However, those that weren't playing by the rules will have boat-in only privileges on district property.

The district board will not allow any new additional permanent duck blinds in 2017 and 2018 and by 2019 there will be no permanent blinds allowed on LCCB property.

All remaining locations will be treated as boat-in blinds and walk-in areas only.

"This new policy ensures all hunters have equal access to our outstanding public waterfowl hunting areas. It also reduces any confusion over where people can or cannot hunt on our properties," Unsworth said.

The district also purchased additional land in 2012 that had to be

Authorities looking for FM man after canvass

BY PCC STAFF

FORT MADISON - A Fort Madison man is currently being sought by law enforcement for failure to comply with state sex offender registry rules.

According to Lee County Sheriff Stacy Weber, Lance Sanford is wanted for failure to comply and is on the Iowa Sex Offender's Registry website under "Most Wanted".

"We would like to take him into custody," Weber said in a statement released Monday. According to the registry, Sanford's whereabouts are unconfirmed. He is 5'7" tall, and weighs approximately 145 pounds. He is 39 years old with brown hair and blue eyes.

SANFORD

Weber's statement outlined a coordinated effort led by the Lee County Sheriff's Office where local law enforcement canvassed county residents listed on the Iowa Sex Offender Registry to check on compliance.

Contact was attempted to be made with all those registered; the results of these checks were - 57 total checks, eight investigations started to assure compliance, two were found to be non-compliant, 43 compliant, three were incarcerated (already in jail) during the compliance sweep. Of the 57, Sanford is the only one that law enforcement couldn't locate.

Weber said the project was conducted with the assistance of the Iowa Division of Criminal Investigations SOR Unit, Deputies and Detectives of the Sheriff's Office, Reserve Deputies, Iowa Department of Corrections High Risk Unit, Fort Madison Police Department, Keokuk Police Department, US Marshal's Service, and KEOKUK - And yet another group will be helping give disadvantaged families a hand with the school year just three weeks away.

The United Way of the Great River Region and Trinity United Methodist Church in Keokuk have partnered for the third consecutive year to bring the tri-county region a Back-to-School festival.

"This event is so much fun," said Jaelyn Lansing, Executive Director of UWGRR. "Not only do kids receive a school supply-filled backpack, but they get to meet with area organizations, receive a dental or eye screening, play games, and even get a haircut."

The event will be held at Trinity United Methodist Church, 2330 Plank Road on Saturday, August 5th from noon to 3 p.m.

"There will be games for students hosted by Trinity and area churches, boxed lunches for kids provided by the Salvation Army as well as our signature TUMC popcorn and sweet treats," said Bob Dorothy, Chairman of the Trinity United Methodist event.

Area men's group collecting donations for school supplies

BY CHUCK VANDENBERG
PCC EDITOR

FORT MADISON - A social group out of Burlington and Fort Madison is working to raise funds to buy $500 worth of school supplies for needy area children.

Darrell Newquist said the group of about 10 started last year and raised about $250 to buy supplies for needy families. He said the project started last year when Menards had a big rebate special on school supplies.

"They were giving a rebate that basically covered the cost of the supplies so we thought what a good way to help get needy families in the area some school supplies," Newquist said. "Last year we bought about $250 worth and most of that was out of our pockets, but we're shooting for $500 this year."

Newquist said he's been knocking on some doors to raise funds and is looking for groups and organizations to help fund the project.

"We're a small group and we've done fair so far, but there's always room for more," he said. "Last year the supplies stayed in Burlington, but since two of us in the group live in Fort Madison, we thought we should split the supplies between the two cities."

He said the group will be having a supply giveaway at the Fort Madison Public Library from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 19. Anything left over after the hand-out will be split between Richardson and Lincoln elementary schools in Fort Madison.

Financial contributions or supplies can be sent to the group at P.O. Box 153, West Burlington, Iowa 52655. For more information or a Federal Tax ID for donations, Newquist can be reached at darrell.newquist@gmail.com.

"The new area we just acquired, people were using permanent blinds there and there are some questions about the boundaries," he said. "Some people obviously have hunted those areas for a Boundary signs are posted by the conservation staff on the river properties to indicate where the county conservation properties begin and end.
