Area woman seeking answers in river rescue

May 18 incident left woman on river for almost seven hours

BY CHUCK VANDENBERG
PCC EDITOR

NAUVOO - A Montrose woman is looking for answers as a result of being stranded in a 15-foot john boat in the backwaters of the Mississippi River for close to six hours on May 18 and 19th.

Becky Bennett was out on the river with her dog on the Illinois side of the channel when her boat became disabled due to a dead battery at around 6 p.m. on Thursday the 18th. Her cellphone battery was also dead and she had no food or water on the boat, which was about 150-200 feet off shore. She was not pulled onto shore until around 2 a.m. Friday morning.

Bennett said she tried swimming to the Illinois shore but then began to become frightened of the situation and turned back to the boat and her dog.

"I got a 1/4 of the way to land and then got scared.

I was in the main channel when my battery went dead and we floated over to the backwaters," she said.

"I saw some civilians on the Illinois side and I'm assuming they're the one's that called it in. I would say probably sometime between 5:30 and 6:30 p.m.," she said.

According to Hancock County Chief Deputy Scott Cowser, the call log shows a call came in just after 8 p.m.

"We received a call about the issue on the 18th at about 8:12 p.m.,"

Wentzien to walk on at UNI

BY CHUCK VANDENBERG

CEDAR FALLS - Out of the blue, he's back in purple and gold.

Fort Madison's Miles Wentzien has signed with Ben Jacobson and the University of Northern Iowa men's basketball team for the upcoming season as a walk-on.

As little as three weeks ago, the Junior College First-Team All-American was looking at American University in Washington, DC and two division II schools in Minnesota.

"This was a late school for sure," Wentzien said Thursday. "My mom actually emailed them out of the blue and asked them to take a look at me. They ended up calling me and they wanted me as a walk-on."

At Kirkwood Community College last year, Wentzien finished the season averaging close to 15 points per game, shooting 49% from the field including 35% from the 3-point arc and 90.2% from the free throw line.

Wentzien does have a red-shirt option so he could potentially have three years with the Panthers but will be a walk-on this year.

"There's not a scholarship on the table, but I'm hoping I can get one," he said.

The move wasn't a move of logistics or being able to stay closer to home. Wentzien said it's the best move for him now.

"It wasn't as much about staying in Iowa," he said. "Overall their program was the right fit for me. I've heard nothing but good things from the coaches and one of my teammates also had good things to say about UNI.

"I just feel like it's the right fit for me. It's a high level program, well-supported, and everything fell into place.

Lee County making progress on health initiatives

BY PCC STAFF

In February 2016, Lee County Health Department, in conjunction with the Keokuk Area Hospital and Fort Madison Community Hospital, submitted a three-year Lee County Health Improvement Plan to the Iowa Department of Public Health (IDPH). The Health Improvement Plan was developed as a result of a Community Health Needs Assessment process that involved multiple community organizations, service providers, and citizens who reviewed extensive sets of community health data, community-wide survey results, county demographics, and discussed the health needs of the county.

Four top priority health areas were identified through a voting process by involved community partners to work on over the next three years. This resulted in four taskforce groups charged with the planning, implementation, and moving to action four health improvement goals which includes 1) Promote healthy lifestyles and behaviors for all; 2) Improve mental health, behavioral health Issues, and access to care; 3) Reduce transportation barriers of our workforce and those with access to care issues; and 4) Improve communication, provide education, and motivate our population for

Great River Regional Waste Authority reminds you to use the 3 R's!

Here are some helpful tips:

REDUCE

Reduce the amount of waste produced in society

The best way to manage waste is to not produce it. This can be done by shopping carefully and being aware of a few guidelines.

- Buy durable goods & products in bulk
- Avoid over-packaged & disposable goods
- Use cloth napkins/towels instead of paper napkins/towels
- Make 2-sided copies whenever possible
- Maintain central files for multiple individuals
- Use electronic mail/communications or a central bulletin board

REUSE

 Reuse products for the same purpose or for a different purpose

It makes economic & environmental sense to reuse products. Sometimes it takes a creative mind to do so.

- Sell or Donate old clothes, appliances, toys & furniture
- Use resealable containers rather than plastic wrap
- Reuse grocery bags or bring your own cloth bags to the store

RECYCLE

 Recycle/convert common waste into reusable material

Recycling is a series of steps that takes a used material and processes, re-manufactures and sells it as a new product. Begin recycling at home and work.

- Recycle all acceptable products at our recycling bins, stations & trailers (see www.grrwa.com for a complete list of locations)
- Check for curbside recycling acceptable items & schedules on your local city websites
- Purchase and use recycled materials for the home & office
- Implement a composting process for your lawn & garden

Rescue team defends time needed for rescue

Cowser said. "A Nauvoo police officer may have been in the area and a conservation boat was put in at about 9:35 p.m. According to that call log, the scene was cleared at 2:48 a.m.," Cowser said.

Bennett agreed with the times, saying she didn't get home to Montrose until about 3 a.m., a full nine hours after becoming disabled on the river. Bennett is looking for answers as to why it took so long for someone to get to her.

According to several different social media postings, which were following the incident, many people were standing by to help, but no official page or direction came to launch a rescue from the Iowa side. Bennett also said she was told by many that Iowa was on standby prior to dark to lend assistance, but were not cleared to go.

"I don't care what the situation is, you don't just leave somebody on the river like that," she said.

Cowser said Hancock County Sheriff's dispatch has to notify the Illinois State Police, which in turn dispatches Illinois Conservation Police officers since they fall under the direction of the ISP.

According to IDNR public information officer

Ed Cross, ISP received notification of the incident at 9:15 p.m.

That call would have been a full hour after Hancock County had been notified of the situation.

"At 9:18 we messaged one of our conservation police officers, Karl Wheatley, and officer Wheatley began making his way to the river at 9:30. Wheatley said his boat was in Hamilton and had to go there to hook up the boat and haul it to the old Nauvoo ferry landing to put it in.

Wheatley said he couldn't comment on the incident because it was an open investigation, but did say he called Hancock County to have a deputy on scene to assist him with the rescue.

"I can't really say a whole lot, it's an open case. I was helping a Hancock County deputy. The two of us went out in my boat and found her and towed her out of where she was. She's home...she's safe and I did my job," Wheatley said. "All the boating accidents that have happened here recently, I was involved in all those rescue attempts. In terms of that - this was a very, very easy thing." He said he was in the coast guard for five years and has done a lot of towing.

"I have five years in the Coast Guard," he said. "I've towed NOAA buoys in the Bering Sea. I know how to tow. It might have taken a while, but there were a lot of things that contributed to it that aren't on Facebook."

Cross said Wheatley put his boat in sometime between 10 and 10:30 p.m. and had trouble getting to the boat because of the mud/water mixture and said at one point Wheatley had to put on chest waders and walk to the boat through the muddy conditions to hook up a tow rope. The rope snapped at one point and had to be reattached.

In the meantime, Montrose police, Montrose Fire & Rescue, and Lee County Ambulance were monitoring the situation from the Iowa side. Charles Biddenstadt, asst. chief of the Keokuk Emergency Volunteer Corp, said when he got to the scene with the boat at about 10 p.m. after being dispatched by LeeComm E911 services, he called Hancock County to see if they needed an assist.

"Montrose had us paged to stand by in case we were needed. I called Hancock County dispatch when I got there and I asked the dispatcher if they needed us for assistance and he radioed the deputy that was out there and the deputy radioed back and said they was alright."

Cowser and Cross said no one in their respective departments would have told Iowa rescue personnel to stand down.

"We would never do that," Cross said.

Wheatley said he never had anyone ask him about anyone on the Iowa side being ready to come get Bennett.

Bennett said her parents received a call from Hancock County at about 10:15 and told her parents they had her on land. She said her parents went over to check on her and then realized that she wasn't yet on land.

She said when she got on shore on the Illinois side there were no medical personnel on the scene and Wheatley began investigating the boat. He then issued citations for Bennett not having a fire extinguisher or a Type 4 personal flotation device.

Calls to Montrose Police and LeeComm to verify times of dispatch went unreturned today.

County moving on four different health targets

change. Some highlights of Lee County's progress to date in the four priority health areas includes: Healthy Lifestyles/Behaviors: Some of the highlights from the Live Healthy Lee County taskforce group have been the printing of the LHLC Local Food Guide which promotes area producers and farmers markets. The goal of the food guide is to increase awareness of fresh produce access. The objective to increase trail development was met with the completion of the PORT of Fort Madison's Phase I trail, and the beginning construction of their Phase II trail. The coalition continues to plan wellness outreach activities for youth which will include Kid's Day at the Fair on July 7th. Mental Health: We have seen steady success in increasing awareness of mental and behavioral health resources through dissemination of DOC/DHS resource directories and the Iowa Family Support Network link within the provider community. Several providers have been at the table to discuss options and possibilities to reduce wait time for mental health support services such as expanding clinical service array, increasing provider capacity with a multi strategic approach (personnel resources, administrative/data entry reorganization, and system efficiency) and use of telehealth services. Partners are very interested in continually growing to meet the needs and demand of the community in medical and behavioral health arena.

Transportation: We were able to complete surveys of three identified populations: employers, employees, and the general community; regarding access to transportation and barriers for these specific populations. Through a successful collaboration we were able to disseminate information county wide on additional available transportation resources such as use of the Non-Emergency Medical Transportation Systems, Public and Private transportation options, grants and volunteer resources. This was done through a very intentional and targeted plan for outreach with multi-partner collaboration efforts.

Communication, education, motivation for change: The biggest accomplishment of this taskforce was to select target populations to promote specific health messages to and provide education on health behaviors. The group chose to focus on veterans' health during the first year of the plan. This resulted in participating and promoting health during outreach events, and organizing a Veterans Health Fair which was held on April 29th. Several vendors and speakers provided our local veterans with a wealth of information and education about health and wellness and available resources.
