Rodeo's 2019 lineup has veteran, rising stars

BY CHUCK
VANDENBERG
PCC EDITOR

FORT MADISON – First-year Tri-State Rodeo Chairman Tony Johnson said the rodeo has brought in a good mix of national entertainment for 2019's event.

With the release of the lineup this past Saturday at the Boogaloo Sports Bar and Grill in Burlington, fans finally got a full view of who's coming to Fort Madison in September.

The rodeo's Facebook page was abuzz with guesses when the 2019 TSR Committee posted a "redacted" version of the entertainment poster and had people guessing everything from Blake Shelton to George Strait.

On Saturday, rodeo chairman Tony Johnson revealed that Michael Ray, Tracy Lawrence, and Justin Moore would be the headlining acts for this year's event that runs from pre-rodeo days starting on Saturday Aug. 31 through Saturday, Sept. 7.

One fan on Facebook guessed Ray and Moore, but missed Lawrence. Many guessed Justin Moore from the silhouettes that were posted.

"I think we ended up with a really good lineup," Johnson said.

"Michael Ray has some really good songs out there right now. He was nominated for new male vocalist of the year. He didn't win, but he was nominated and our Friday with Tracy Lawrence – he's been around for long time and I'm really looking forward to that."

Johnson said the process of selecting and acquiring the acts is a difficult one, but he said a lot of attention is paid to what fans are asking for and trying to get the best entertainment while still keeping prices affordable.

He said rodeo fans have been asking for some more traditional music, but also want to hear contemporary acts.

"There's a calling for that 90s country music and some of that is making a comeback," he said. "We've had some people really wanting that so we wanted to try and cater to that and get back to our roots.

"But Saturday, we're going to blow it up. Justin Moore's a little younger, but he's been around. He has a new album that's coming out and he has a single off

MP man surpasses 30K ped miles

The best way to interview an octogenarian who walked 30,000 miles in 30 years (a thousand miles a year) is to go for a three-mile, early morning walk with him or her. But don't think you won't have any trouble keeping up because the octogenarian will be doing all the talking.

85-year old George Chapman of Mt. Pleasant doesn't employ much arm swing when he walks, nor does he emphasize his words with hand gestures, like a lot of politicians. He takes rapid short-fire steps from the hips, and keeps his arms at his sides. All I had to do (at age 70) was listen, hold the tiny voice recorder, and try to keep up.

It started back in 1989 when George and his wife,

Karen, lived in 9,318 ft elevation Silverton, Colorado. Then governor Roy Romer had a program for seniors 55 and over—walk 500 miles and they would get a certificate. George knocked that off in six months, and kept on going. He has never stopped.

On February 18, 2014, 25 years later, George had circumnavigated the earth. Not really, but on that date, he had completed 24,902 miles. That figure (actually 24,901.55 miles) is the circumference of the earth at the equator. He is proud to say he did not take the shortcut via the poles, which would have shaved off 50 miles.

Then, on March 23, 2019, George Chapman hit

30,000 miles! He isn't calling it quits, either. Why would he? Oh, he has slowed his pace over the years from 4 mph (a jog for me) to 3 mph. But anyone who does much walking, or running, knows 3 mph is no walk in the park.

George graduated from Brown University in Providence, Rhode Island, with a degree in psychology, and was immediately drafted. After two years in the Army, he became an insurance executive with Mass Mutual, and married Karen, a nurse. Three children followed. This was career number one.

FM girls drop first tennis match of season at Davis County

PCC STAFF

BLOOMFIELD – The Lady Hounds girls tennis team struggled in blustery conditions on Friday night in rural Davis County and dropped their first dual meet of the year 4-5 to Davis County.

Fort Madison, who fall to 2-1 on the year, won at No's 1-3 singles with Zoe Ramatowski leading the way with an 8-1 win over Haley Swan. Larissa Ferrill and Lanie Kuntz, playing at Nos. 1 and 2 respectively, each one by 8-3 scores with Ferrill knocking of Bella Tranquillino and Kuntz dropping Abby Vaughn.

Davis County got the better of the Lady Hounds in the bottom of the singles action taking Nos. 4-6. Kirklynn Nafziger lost to Avery Thompson 4-8, Lily Cadwallader fell 5-8 and Lily Scott lost 3-8 to Davis County's Morgan Klaus.

"The girls did not play their best tonight.

The wind and weather was a factor, but it was equally a factor for the Davis County girls. They found a way to adapt, we did not," said head coach Jeremy Swink.

"We need to become more mentally tough, and learn to battle through adversity. Taking nothing away from Davis County, they are a tough team. But we didn't give them our best fight tonight. This is a team we will see come regional play, and I hope our girls are able to use this as fuel for some revenge."

In doubles action Ferrill and Kuntz escaped with an 8-8 win after securing the match with a 7-3 tiebreaker over Tranquillion and Vaughn.

Davis County then took the next two matches as Thompson and Yanhke knocked off Ramatowski and Nafziger 8-3, and Cadwallader and Scott fell to Swan and Klaus 6-8.

that album that's charting right now."

Johnson said the Coors Party Pavilion will get a little bit of a mix up this year, as well.

Local favorite StumpTown will be performing after the stage acts on Friday and Saturday, but Illinois natives, and NashNext runners-up The Natu Band will entertain fans in the pavillion on Wednesday and Thursday.

The Natu Band may be familiar to some as a performer at RiverFest 2018, and the reveal band at that year's RiverFest Reveal Party at Kinnick South.

Johnson said The Natu Band finished runner-up at the 2018 Cumulus Radio NASHNext competition to Jessie Ritter and StumpTown is always a hit locally.

"Wednesday and Thursday will have a different band with The Natu Band, and then Friday and Saturday will be StumpTown again. They're a local favorite. Everybody loves StumpTown's high energy, They do a great job," he said.

Johnson said he was impressed with the crowd at Saturday's reveal.

"I was really impressed with our turnout tonight. Catfish Bend, Fun City, Boogaloo are all good Tri-State Rodeo partners and we're glad to be able to do this here. There's a lot of energy around this tonight."

Tickets for the 2019 Tri-State Rodeo will go on sale Monday April 15, 2019 at 8 a.m. Multiple ticket levels will be available. For ticket information, visit www.TriStateRodeo.org.

Career No. 4 on the way for retiree

When the insurance business grew mundane, and midlife crises were tickling the fancy of both Karen and George, they shifted gears, bought a newspaper in the tiny mountain town of Silverton, Colorado, (population 800) on the Western Slope of the Rockies, and became mountaineer media moguls. Karen sold advertising and George was the publisher, editor and floor sweeper. Career number two.

Never a couple to spend more than 15 years in one place, when a B&B came up for sale in Kentucky, they sold the newspaper and were off to greener pastures (Kentucky is the bluegrass state, you know.) Career number three.

Would there be a career number four? Well, if you call retirement a career, and considering all of George's interests and officer positions, retirement is his fourth career. They had been through Mt. Pleasant—it was sort of midway between two of their kids—and fell in love with a circa 1868 National Register, two story, brick Italianate home, complete with a tower. They bought it, and relocated George's 1931, mostly restored, six-cylinder Chevrolet to its garage. (It may be completely restored by the NO—Next Owner.) The antique car shares space with their personal automobile, and George's printing presses. You can take the newspaper man out of the business, but the ink is still in his blood.

George is Advertising Manager and proof reader for "The Bulb Horn" which is the official publication of the Vintage Motor Car Club of America (VMCCA), and Treasurer of the Red Flag Horseless Carriage Tour.

Then there's the walking. George calculates that for each hour he spends walking, he has added more than an hour to the end of his life. And he doesn't mean in the nursing home.
