FORT MADISON – In an effort to help prepare students with special needs for high school and beyond, the Fort Madison High School brought six groups in Wednesday to speak with parents and students about accessible services.

Parents, staff, and representatives from Van Buren Job Opportunities, Iowa Vocational Rehabilitation, Hope Haven Corporation, and Job Corps were on hand to speak with parents in the High School Media Center.

Malissa Nelson, a special education teacher at the high school said staff changed the format of the event this year.

“We do this at least every fall and spring and it used to be a presentation to parents in a group structure,” she said. “But this year we went to this structure so parents and students could get one-on-one time with staff and some of the groups.”

Nelson said the format also gives families a little sense of privacy in discussing specific issues.

“A lot of times when you have a big group session, parents and students with IEPs (Individualized Educational Plans) or 504s don’t want to discuss their situations openly and don’t want people knowing their circumstances,” she said. “This format gives them some privacy.”

Van Buren Job Opportunities was at the transition night for the first time. Nelson said Van Buren places students and adults with special needs in the work place environment.

“This program allows the students to taste that success. That can be in the form of many opportunities through coaching or independent work. The hours vary so they are very flexible,” Nelson said.

Julie Garcia, an employment specialist with Van Buren, said she was happy the school called and asked LEE COUNTY - If your non-profit organization or for-profit business is considering having a food or beverage stand at one of the stops on the RAGBRAI route, you will need to make sure you know all the requirements and have the correct license. Lee County Health Department (LCHD) Environmental staff will assist you with your questions. However, before you call, please check out our website at www.leecountyhd.org.

“We are asking everyone to please go to our website first. There you will find all the information on license types, and all the needs for stations, etc. There is also full document that you can download,” states Rose Haukedahl, LCHD Environmental Program Director. “Our staff is limited, and our calls/demands will increase with RAGBRAI, so please be patient with us while we get back to you.”

LCHD oversees the food inspections for Lee, Des Moines, Henry, and Van Buren Counties. RAGBRAI will be riding through all four counties July 26th and 27th. “It is going to be a very busy couple of days for us so we highly encourage everyone to have their information in on time,” adds Haukedahl. All license applications must be submitted 60 days prior to the RAGBRAI event.

USDA approves emergency grazing

DES MOINES— USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) State Executive Director Amanda De Jong today announced that effective immediately, emergency grazing use of Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) acres is approved in Iowa through May 14, 2019. The authorization was granted to address the impacts of the recent extreme weather, including flooding. Participation is limited to livestock producers who lost pasture or fences due to the flooding.

“By allowing emergency grazing, we expand the available resources to help Iowa producers respond to recent weather events,” De Jong said.

Producers who are interested in the use of emergency grazing of CRP acres must request FSA county office approval before moving livestock onto the acres. Producers whose livestock grazing land was adversely impacted by the flood, must file a CCC-576 Notice of Loss or provide written certification of that loss. The request must include a modified conservation plan, with grazing provisions, from USDA's Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS).

CRP participants can allow others to use their CRP acres under this emergency grazing authorization; however, the livestock owners will also need to complete FSA paperwork indicating their grazing land was adversely impacted by severe weather. There will be no reduction in CRP rental payments to CRP contract holders who use the emergency grazing authorization. CRP contract holders are not permitted to charge livestock producers for the emergency grazing option.

For more information on eligible practices or to request approval for emergency grazing use of CRP acres, contact your local FSA office or visit www.farmers.gov/service-locator.

Flushing drugs has health, safety issues

of potentially dangerous expired, unused, and unwanted prescription drugs.

Bring your pills for disposal to the Lee County Sheriff's Office at 2530 255th St, Montrose, Iowa. Sites cannot accept liquids, needles or sharps – only pills or patches. The service is free and anonymous, no questions asked.

Last fall, Americans turned in nearly 460 tons (more than 900,000 pounds) of prescription drugs at more than 5,800 sites operated by the DEA and almost 4,800 of its state and local law enforcement partners. Overall, in its 16 previous Take Back events, DEA and its partners have taken in almost 11 million pounds- nearly 5,500 tons-of pills.

This initiative addresses a vital public safety and public health issue. Medicines that languish in home cabinets are highly susceptible to diversion, misuse, and abuse. Rates of prescription drug abuse in the U.S. are alarmingly high, as are the number of accidental poisonings and overdoses due to these drugs.

The Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration's National Survey on Drug Use and Health shows year after year that the majority of misused and abused prescription drugs are obtained from family and friends, including someone else's medication being stolen from the home medicine cabinet. In addition, Americans are now advised that their usual methods for disposing of unused medicines – flushing them down the toilet or throwing them in the trash – both pose potential safety and health hazards.

For more information about the disposal of prescription drugs or about the April 27 Take Back Day event, go to www.DEATakeBack.com.

Area groups offer hand up to special needs students

"I've worked with other schools in our six-county service area and this is the first time we've been asked to come. It's nice because we can help with job identification and training even after high school ends," she said.

Van Buren finds jobs within the communities of the schools. In addition, they do job coaching, assessments, and training.

"A lot of times we're job coaching with a student close to 100% of the time when they first start a job, but then it's our hope that once they get settled in, we take more of an assessment role and check on them periodically so they have that independence," Garcia said.

Garcia said the turnout was the highest she's seen at a transition night.

Nelson said Hope Haven has a variety of programs including work-based programs. She said Job Corps is a federally-funded program that is designed to get special needs students workforce ready.

"It's a government-funded program and they can get a free education, but there are some stipulations and standards they have to meet. It's a great opportunity for students who aren't necessarily college bound, but need to learn a trade to be successful out of high school," Nelson said.

Hope Haven is a non-profit organization that provides vocational, residential and community employment as well as living services for mentally and physically challenged persons in southeast Iowa.

Nelson said in the future, the school would like to invite employers who might be willing to work with the students to attend the session.

SCC to feature author Reese April 20th

WEST BURLINGTON - Southeastern Community College will celebrate April as National Poetry Month by hosting a Visiting Writers Series event on Saturday, April 20, at 8:00 p.m. Rita Mae Reese, a nationally acclaimed and award-winning author, is scheduled to read. SCC's Culture on Campus Committee and Di Dante Literature & Writing Club will co-host the event.

SCC English & Creative Writing Professor and Di Dante Advisor Charles Burm notes, "Members of SCC's Culture on Campus Committee feel it is important to provide our students and the greater community with cultural opportunities that otherwise may be difficult to access. It is our honor and pleasure to bring this distinguished writer to our campus."

Burm is quick to promote the talent of the guest poet and the cooperative efforts of multiple organizations to make SCC's Visiting Writers Series successful.

Burm continues, "Much credit should go to the Burlington Fine Arts League, the Society of Great River Poets, the SCC Foundation, and many area businesses and individuals for supporting SCC's Culture on Campus Committee, the Visiting Writers Series, and Di Dante Literature & Writing Club students and projects. Through cooperative institutional and community efforts, we are able to host a writer of this caliber."

In a 2011 NewPages review, Alissa Fleck observed, "Rita Mae Reese's The Alphabet Conspiracy is a book replete with anecdotes and snapshots of memory, ranging in subject matter from the religious to the informa-tively historical to the contemporary, which thoroughly [explores] both the whimsy and restrictions of language."

Reese lives with her family in Madison, Wisconsin, where she serves as the co-director of literary arts programming at Arts + Literature Laboratory (ALL).

The reading will be held in the Little Theatre, Room 333, on SCC's West Burlington campus and will be followed by a brief question and answer session with the author.

HTC girls blow out Chiefs in home opener

PCC STAFF

WEST POINT – Holy Trinity’s Claire Pothitakis continues to rack up goals in the fresh high school soccer season.

The sophomore has back-to-back three-goal performances for six on the season for the 2-0 Crusaders, including a 9-1 drubbing of Keokuk at South Park Monday night.

Pothitakis converted all three of her shots. The Crusaders were 9 of 9 on shots on goal in the match. Senior Taylor Boeding had two goals to go with one each from Katie Scoville, Elle Rashid, Elyse Pothitakis and Mya Lawlor all had a goal.

Elyse Pothitakis and Rashid each had assists in the game.

Junior Ashlynn Haas guarded the net all night for HTC allowing just the one goal on a penalty kick and had one save as the HTC defense and midfield play kept the ball on Holy Trinity’s side of the pitch for most of the game.

The Crusaders take on Wapello at South Park on Thursday night.
