Beloved beer garden dog's legacy lives on at Doghaus Brewery

LEAVENWORTH - Doghaus Brewery has three life goals: pet dogs, drink beer, repeat. Located in the basement of LOGE hotel, it's one of the few places downtown where dogs are allowed inside. The brewery will see anywhere from 10 to 20 dogs come in with their beer-drinking humans on a busy Saturday, and this is probably how De would have wanted it. De the Weimaraner is Doghaus Brewery's original four-legged mascot, and the reason the brewery even exists.

De, short for Deohgee, started off as a rescue intended to serve as the family dog for Steve and Debbie Demarest. They got De around the time they acquired the building that now holds LOGE Hotel and Doghaus Brewery, which required a lot of time and attention.

"Weimaraners are nicknamed the 'velcro dog.' You just can't leave them behind," said Steve.

Wherever they went in the building, so did De.

"Initially we didn't have the beer garden and we only had the hotel, so the dog was following my wife around doing the housekeeping," said Steve.

The Demarests eventually opened Der Hinterhof, and De figured out that the beer garden was full of food scraps and people that weren't too busy working to give him attention. De went from being the family dog, to being known around town as the beer garden dog.

"He loved being recognized and incorporated into everything we did down there," said Katie Demarest, Steve and Debbie's daughter. "We eventually had to put his picture up as like a wanted ad so people would stop feeding him, because he would do all the tricks for any snacks."

In 2015, Steve got the idea to fill the unoccupied basement below Der Hinterhof with a brewery. However, Debbie was not in favor of starting another business, as busy as they already were.

"I thought the best way to get Debbie on board would be to use the dog in the brewery," said Steve. It worked. Thus, Doghaus Brewery was born, and De was the face of it.

"He frequently roamed the whole building while Steve was here... He'd even ride the elevator up and down sometimes with people. He was quite the character," said Joel Sams, the brewery's current owner. Sams started working at Doghaus a year after opening.

"When I first started we only had three different beers and we rarely had all three on tap at once, because usually one would run out before the next batch was ready," said Sams.

The operation was small, and the space was even smaller. The brewery coined itself as a "nanobrewery," claiming to be the smallest in the state.

Leavenworth's annual Christmas Bird count: a community science tradition

By QUINN PROPST
Ward Media Staff Reporter

LEAVENWORTH - Calling all birders. It's that time of the year again for Leavenworth's annual Christmas Bird Count (CBC).

This cherished tradition is part of a nationwide community science effort organized by the National Audubon Society. This year, Wenatchee River Institute (WRI) will take the lead in organizing the 2024 Leavenworth CBC.

The CBC is one of the world's oldest and longest-running community science efforts. The data collected from this initiative aids in understanding long-term bird trends, gauging the health of bird populations, and guiding conservation efforts.

The count covers an area 15 miles in diameter around town. Tucker Jonas, field educator for the WRI, said there are 11 different routes within the Leavenworth circle. The routes are of varying difficulty and time commitment.

No skills are necessary to participate. More experienced birders will guide each route.

"We're definitely welcoming beginning birders and people who are just interested in seeing what it's all about," Jonas said.

"I really want to encourage people who maybe are a little curious, but if they are feeling nervous because they don't have any prior experience, those are some people that I'd really like to see come out and try it out," Jonas said.

A portion of the count area will be a walk from WRI along the waterfront trail. That part of the route can be a low time commitment for people who want to check it out but might not have a whole day to commit to the effort, Jonas said.

"I think it's a really cool opportunity to be a part of a Christmas Bird Count," he said. "It's the longest-running community science project in the country, about birds, but I'm pretty sure in general, but definitely the longest running that is around birds that started in the year 1900."

"Of course, the Leavenworth one was not going at that point, but it's just a cool project that has been going on for so long," he continued. "You're actually contributing data to science that people actually use here. So I think it's a cool way to be a part of that, and it's like a good way to connect with the community and try something new if you aren't really

City Council Meeting

Parking Kiosk Upgrades, Interlocal Road Plan

By TAYLOR CALDWELL
Ward Media Staff Reporter

LEAVENWORTH - City Council approved to upgrade downtown parking kiosks in addition to funding a design plan for an unpaved road that will connect Leavenworth to other Chelan County cities at the City Council Meeting Nov. 28.

In response to growing frustration with parking meters, the city is putting its efforts towards kiosks. City Administrator Matthew Selby cited confusing card application in the payment process as well as condensation on the displays as some of the problems meters presented at Tuesday night's meeting.

"[Businesses] have people coming to them and complaining," said Selby.

In comparison to meters, the kiosks are said to have lower maintenance costs, are more user friendly, and have overwhelming support from Leavenworth's business owners. The city has a total of ten kiosks. Four are currently in use, with six in inventory. All 10 will be replaced with new monitors and programming, totalling $26,100 in costs. The new programming will include six language options. The city plans to deploy the six inventoried kiosks to replace meters along downtown streets such as Front Street and Ninth Street.

The city also approved an interlocal agreement with the Chelan Douglas Transportation Council (CDTC) to assist in planning an off-road pathway connecting the Upper Valley to Wenatchee, Chelan, and Manson. The initial planning will cost an estimated $1.2 million. CDTC secured a majority of the funding through a federal grant, with the rest of the cost to be covered by local matching. CDTC, Chelan County, cities, Link Transit, and WSDOT have all gotten involved in the project, according to Mayor Florea. Leavenworth will contribute $50,000 from lodging tax each January for the next two years, totalling $100,000.

Skiers and snowboarders enjoyed a rope-tow rail session at Stevens Pass on Saturday, Dec. 2. The mountain was unable to open fully due to lack of snow.

Stevens Pass delays opening

By TAYLOR CALDWELL
Ward Media Staff Reporter

STEVENS PASS - Stevens Pass delayed its projected opening date of Dec. 1 due to lack of snow. In lieu of opening, Stevens Pass hosted a rope-tow rail jam from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 2.

The event had about six to 10 features to hit in the rope tow operated area, including rails, boxes and jibs. There were a live DJ, food and beverages sold at the T-Bar, and retail shopping at Fall Line Sports. The rail session was only open on Saturday, due to warmer temperatures and rain forecasted on Sunday.

As of Friday, Dec. 1, Stevens Pass only had snow depth of ten inches in the base area, according to Northwest Avalanche Center (NWAC) weather data. By the start of the rail jam, the storm brought the base level up to about 30 inches. Snow came as low as town, with Leavenworth Winter Sports Club reporting a total of 13 inches by Saturday morning. In response to the snowfall, NWAC announced the beginning of its full-forecasting operations, even issuing avalanche warnings for the Stevens Pass area over the weekend.

Stevens Pass has not yet announced a new opening date as of Sunday, Dec. 3. NWAC's Sunday forecast predicted warmer temperatures and rain for this week. Targeting the specific amount needed to open can also be tricky, considering snow density as well as varying elevations and terrain.

"It needs to be enough to cover our terrain, which has lots of boulders and vegetation," said Amanda Bird, Stevens Pass Communications Manager.

Hurricane Ridge Ski and Snowboard Area also pushed back its opening date of Dec. 3, and is watching the forecast. White Pass and Crystal Mountain had limited openings over the weekend. Mt. Baker is entertaining the idea of a limited opening this weekend, and Summit at Snoqualmie has yet to make any call.

On the East side, Mission Ridge kept up its tradition of opening Thanksgiving weekend for the 11th time in 12 years. The mountain opened Saturday, Nov. 25. The early opening was due in part by snowmaking efforts, as snow coverage is still relatively low for Mission Ridge. The mountain has a limited opening and is expanding its terrain as the conditions permit.

UVCares expanding mental healthcare in Upper Valley and beyond

By TAYLOR CALDWELL
Ward Media Staff Reporter

LEAVENWORTH — UVCares is expanding its reach just in time for the holiday season. Earlier this year, it became the first nonprofit in the state to receive a license to provide chemical dependency counseling through telehealth. It also just hired five new therapists and four chemical dependency counselors to meet growing demand.

"As you see with the holidays approaching, it's such a stressful time that people are reaching out more...So being able to hire new clinicians has been really timely as well, to deal with that influx that's coming," said Lilah Poltz, UVCares Executive Assistant.

Poltz returned to 21 messages seeking assistance in the four days she was out over the Thanksgiving holiday. Just recently, they received two separate suicide hotline referrals simultaneously, a teen and an middle-aged adult.

UVCares specializes in providing mental healthcare and substance addiction treatment in ways that overcome the typical barriers that prevent people from seeking treatment, such as accessibility and affordability. Clients pay what they can afford and are able to receive online counseling.

"We have a saying here that we meet people where they're at geographically and emotionally, and telehealth allows us to do that," said Becki Subido, UVCares Executive Director.

It not only grants people more privacy and convenience, but it also provides a larger pool of therapists for the nonprofit to choose from. Subido is able to carefully vet and hire those most qualified for the job. Every therapist must be certified to do cognitive behavioral therapy (CBT), but many of them also have specialties such as art therapy or drama therapy.

UVCares recently hired a therapist that specializes in elder care, which Subido and Poltz have been seeing a growing need for in the Leavenworth area. According to Subido, this specialty can address the physical adjustments of getting older, as well as the emotional and financial adjustments of retirement. They are also able to provide care to clients in the first and second stages of dementia.

With telehealth, the clients don't have to worry about transportation or mobility issues. "They literally just click on that link and they are right into their own exam room, and they just wait. Then the provider comes in, and it's just like as if you were at a clinic," said Subido.

UVCares is also breaking barriers with substance addiction assessment and treatment. When Subido first approached the Washington State Department of Health about providing this type of care through telehealth, she was rejected a few times. The state reasoned that they had never allowed a nonprofit to do so. "And so my response was, 'Well, I'm not sure why you haven't the past, but why wouldn't you now?'" said Subido.

They eventually let her do the application, and the nonprofit passed the final inspection in August. UVCares became the first nonprofit in Washington state approved to do telehealth for standard and court-ordered substance use disorder treatment as well as telehealth for gambling addiction.

"Our program is very comprehensive, and it's based on decades of knowledge of what works and what does not work," said Subido.

The plan lasts six to twelve months, with a larger focus on mental health than typical chemical dependency programs. The primary care provider, therapists and client work as a team to ensure they meet the client's goals and adjust if needed. UVCares therapists not only address any comorbidities or trauma that may have led to the addiction, but also help clients rebuild relationships with loved ones.

Those interested in seeking help through UVCares can begin the intake process by calling 509-300-1113. More about UVCares programs can be found at uvcares.org.

Skiing: then, now and beyond

Join the Wenatchee River Institute, A Book for all Seasons, Greater Leavenworth Museum, and the Northwest Ski Museum for a special Red Barn event as they host Lowell Skoog, author of Written in the Snows, and Michael 'Bird' Shaffer, for an evening of Northwest ski culture from past to present. Copies of Lowell Skoog's book will be available for purchase at the event.

On Wednesday, Dec. 13, the doors open at 6:30 p.m. for a community social with beer and wine available for purchase. The presentation will start at 7 p.m.

The event is free with a donation basket at the door. This hybrid event is offered in person or on WRI's YouTube channel.

Michael Shaffer goes by 'Bird'. Among other talents, Bird is a speed flyer and an extreme skier. He embodies the unbridled joy and freedom of powder skiing and lives by the motto of "full wingspan." Raised off the grid in the Pacific NW and seen frequently in Chamonix, France, he is truly a magnetic presence in the skiing world. Michael Bird Shaffer is the authentic soul spreading the love of flight and free skiing to all.

As a skier, climber, writer, and photographer, Lowell Skoog has been a keen observer of Northwest mountaineering since the 1970s. He is the creator of the Alpenglow Gallery and founder of the Northwest Mountaineering Journal, websites that celebrate local mountain culture, and he was a key member of the team that launched the Washington State Ski and Snowboard Museum. Skoog is the chairman of the Mountaineers History and Library committee. He lives in Seattle.

Skoog shares a definitive and visually rich history of Northwest ski culture over the past century, from stirring and colorful stories of wilderness exploration to the evolution of gear and technique. He traces the development of skiing in Washington from the late 1800s to the present, covering the beginning of ski resorts and competitions, the importance of wild places in the Cascades and Olympic mountains, and the friluftsliv, or open-air living spirit, of backcountry skiing. Skoog addresses how larger social trends, including immigration, the Great Depression, war, economic growth, conservation, and the media have shaped skiing. In turn, Northwest skiers have affected their regions in ways that have transcended the sport, producing local legends like Milnor Roberts, Olga Bolstad, Hans Otto Giese, Bill Maxwell, and more. While weaving his own impressions and experiences into the larger history, Skoog shows that skiing is far more than mere sport or recreation.

Overnight French Toast

Cousin Lauren and her family came out to visit Grandma and Grandpa. Her two boys, six and seven, got to sit behind the wheel of Grandpa's new utility vehicle, Kit, driving around the property to their heart's content. They had a dog of their own so our Border Collie didn't thrill them much but they sure were enamored with our eldest's, Kat's, chickens and couldn't keep from chasing them. The chickens didn't seem to mind and the smaller sized chicks actually came closer as if hoping to get picked up in exchange for a hand out or two. Our Border Collie dog helped corner a few of the smaller chickens and the oldest son caught a buff-colored chick right away while the youngest son had a bit of trouble. The oldest son wanted to catch a chick and hand it to his younger brother.

The Recipe

Overnight French Toast

- 1 cup (two sticks) of butter
 - 1 cup brown sugar
 - Loaf of bread
 - 6 to 8 eggs
 - 2 cups milk
 - 1 Tablespoon cinnamon
 - ½ cup sugar
 - ½ to 1 cup dehydrated apple pieces (optional)
 - ½ to 1 cup walnuts (optional)
- Melt the butter, pour into a bowl then add the brown sugar; stir then pour half the mixture into a metal cake pan and spread it out evenly across the bottom of the metal cake pan. Place slices of bread all across the bottom of the metal cake pan on top of brown sugar and butter mixture. In a largish bowl, beat the eggs and milk together until the liquid is uniform in color. Pour half the eggs over the layer of bread in the bottom of the metal pan. In a small cup or cereal bowl mix the cinnamon and sugar together to make cinnamon-sugar. Sprinkle half the cinnamon-sugar across the top of the bread slices already drenched with egg-milk liquid. If using dehydrated apple pieces and/or walnuts, sprinkle half of them over the bread slices. Next add a second layer of bread slices; pour the rest of the egg-milk liquid over the slices. With clean fingers, press the bread slices into the egg-milk gently to make sure all the bread slices are moist. When the slices are soaked with liquid to your satisfaction top with the rest of the cinnamon-sugar and dehydrated apple pieces and/or walnuts. Put in the fridge overnight. Take out of the fridge half an hour before baking. If covered with plastic, take the plastic off. Put in cold oven and turn oven on to 350° or 375°. Bake for 45

I wouldn't let him. "No, let him catch his own chicken," I told him. The oldest son stood back and watched as the youngest son caught his own chick. The younger was so tickled, so proud, to catch a fluffy bird with his very own hands. Their mother looked on with a grin on her face and a camera in hand.

Yes, chickens are messy; yes, they can be noisy however they are marvelous creatures... they take food scraps and turn them into eggs for breakfast, what a blessing. I think my favorite breakfast when I'm hosting family members for a holiday is an overnight French toast casserole.

For this recipe a metal cake pan is a must because it will be in the refrigerator overnight and sometimes when a cold glass pan is put in a hot oven the temperature difference will cause it break (thermal shock) minutes then test with a butter knife inserted near the center. If it comes out clean (same as for a pumpkin pie) the casserole is done. If not, continue to bake until it does. Serve with syrup and/or powdered sugar.

About the author: In 2000 Michele Priddy left the work force to become a stay-at-home mother and wife. Being a one-income family in today's society meant she had to learn to budget quickly. Food became a priority early because she wanted the children to have the best nutrition she could offer them even on a budget. She taught cooking classes at various churches in her community on "How to stretch the food dollar with simple ingredients". Michelle has put her kitchen strategies, stories and recipes in booklets, her church newsletter and in her hometown newspaper, The Goldendale Sentinel. We hope you will enjoy her strategies, stories, and recipes.

into birds, see what that's about, and connect with fellow community members." The CBC started in 1900 as an alternative to the traditional Christmas hunting competitions known as a "side hunt" when people would compete to see who could kill the most birds and small game in one day. Ornithologist Frank M.

Chapman, an early Audubon officer, proposed the bird census as a new and alternative holiday tradition. At that time, conservation was in its beginning stages, and scientists were becoming concerned with declining bird populations. The tradition has grown, and now, each year, tens of thousands of volunteers throughout the Americas brave the weather to help count birds. On Tuesday, Dec. 19, starting at 8:00 a.m. volunteers will team up to cover an area 15 miles in diameter around town. There are plenty of routes to cover and lots of space for volunteer leaders or beginning birders alike to join in. Birders of all persuasions, whether that be hiker, car rider, or at-home feeder watcher, are encouraged to participate in this amazing community science opportunity. If you are interested in volunteering, contact Tucker Jonas at 509-548-0181 ext. 7 or email at tjonas@ wenatcheeriverinstitute.org. Jonas hopes to have all volunteers contact him by Dec. 15 but said he would not turn away interested people as long as they contact him by Monday, Dec. 18. OBITUARY ANNOUNCEMENT Gretchen Hendrickson

Gretchen Hendrickson, 94, of Leavenworth, Washington left this earth to be with her Lord on October 22, 2023. Born in North Dakota, she spent her early childhood in Wenatchee. In 1937 the family moved to Leavenworth. She graduated from LHS in 1947 and then attended WSU. She married Ray Hendrickson in September 1948 in Leavenworth where they raised four children on a beautiful farm. No stranger to hard work, she loved a rustic lifestyle baking bread in her wood stove oven on laundry day because she had to heat water for the washing! She was an avid outdoors woman-she loved gardening and quilting as well. Many people have been blessed with produce from her gardens and many handmade items from quilts to soft leather baby booties. She was always busy at her sewing machine, making things for others. She continued to garden and quilt even into her last year of life! She was preceded in death by her daughter Laura, her husband Ray, her parents, one sister and six brothers. She is survived by her brother Jim, sister-in-laws Kathy and Sylvia, her children Ole and daughter-in-law Kathy, Jan and son-in-law Steve, and Kristy; grandchildren Brad, Andy, Heidi, Becca, Heather and AJ; great-grandchildren Kianna, Isaiah, Lydia, Rayna, Tobiah, Jana, Micah, Caleb, Avery, Oliver, Emmitt and Nolan, a special childhood friend Pauline and loving caregiver Theresa. A celebration of Gretchen's life will be held on a Sunday in July at the homestead where we can gather to honor her life and share memories.

Doghaus Brewery

Sams and his business partner Aaron Gibbs took over the brewery in 2018 when the Demarests were ready to retire. It has grown a little bit since then. A few renovations allowed for slightly more seating and wiggle room between the door and the bar. The brewing operation expanded to a five barrel system, so Sams is able to have seven taps full, with an additional tap dedicated to a cider.

Gibbs' dog Koda, also a Weimaraner, filled De's place as the bar mascot. Koda was an outgoing dog with a snazzy bow tie, tall enough to stand with his paws on the bar.

"Somebody would be walking down the hall and peek in, and he would have heard them coming, so he'd be standing up there looking like he's ready to serve them a beer and sucker them all in the door.

"They'd say, 'I've got to go here, there's a dog bartender!'" said Sams.

When Koda passed, he was succeeded by Gibbs' next Weimaraner, Luna. Gibbs moved out of the state earlier this year, taking Luna with him. The bar now has Farrah, a mellow mutt who patrols the bar from the countertops.

A large poster of De still hangs in the bar, and the canine spirit is still alive. The tap handles and flight boards are in the shape of bones, and all of the beer names are dog themed. Sams serves beers such as the Pawtender Pilsner, Alpha Dog Amber Ale, or De De's Smoked Porter.

Sams also started Dollars for Doggos, in which he takes down all of the dollar bills that customers sign and staple to the wall and donates them to a dog rescue. This past August, Sams donated $2,412 to Wenatchee Valley Humane Society. He plans to do it every time the walls get full, which he hopes is at least annually.

"I think De would have approved, having been a rescue himself, having the dollar bills go to other dogs. It's kind of a nice legacy," said Sams.

De passed away recently at the age of 14.5. He spent his final years traveling across the country in an Airstream until settling into the role of "boat dog" in Key Largo, Florida. Steve posted about De's passing in a Leavenworth Facebook group.

"I was expecting three or four of our regulars to acknowledge it," said Steve. It received over 300 likes, 6 shares, and over 40 comments from past customers who knew and loved De.

"I'm just blown away. For a town our size, I think that's called going viral," said Steve.

Washington Outdoors Report
OUTDOORS ROUNDUP

By JOHN KRUSE
Special to Ward Media

METHOW WILDLIFE AREA AND WENATCHEE FOOTHILLS CLOSURE

A good portion of the Methow Wildlife Area will be closed to public access from December 15 through March 31. This area is an important habitat for a large herd of mule deer and covers nearly 35,000 acres. The wildlife area is divided into seven units and five of them (Texas Creek, Golden Doe, Big Buck, Methow and Rendezvous) will be closed. Brandon Taylor, the Washington State Wildlife Area Manager, explains "Human disturbance in winter range can result in deer unnecessarily expending vital energy reserves, which can directly affect survival and reproduction." The Methow Trail system, a popular cross-country skiing venue, will not be impacted by this closure.

This same rationale explains the annual winter closure of the Wenatchee Foothills trail system west of Wenatchee. According to Chelan County PUD, which operates the Home Water Wildlife Preserve in the Sage Hills, the Sage Hills and Horse Lake Reserve trails will be closed from December 1st until early April. Mule deer migrate into this area beginning in December with their numbers peaking in March.

Some trails in the Wenatchee area will remain open. This includes the trail to Saddle Rock, the Castlerock trail, the Jacobson Preserve and of course, the Apple Capitol Loop trail.

RCO GRANTS AWARDED TO PARKS

Washington State's Recreation and Conservation Office announced it is giving out 4.7 million dollars in grants for 53 projects in 28 counties. The funds are being used to address maintenance backlogs in local parks. In our reading area, the following grants are being awarded:

CHELAN COUNTY

The Chelan Parks and Recreation Department has been awarded a $100,000 grant to seal cracks, repair some areas, recoat, and stripe parking lots in three of Chelan's most significant parks: Don Morse Park, the adjacent Lakeshore Marina (together comprising Chelan's public waterfront), and Lake Chelan Golf Course.

The Manson Parks and Recreation District will receive a grant for $100,000 to repair the gravel parking lot in Singleton Park, a ten-acre, day-use park that primarily offers sports courts and fields.

KLICKITAT COUNTY

A $43,000 grant is going to the Klickitat County Public Works Department. They will use this grant to buy materials and repair deteriorating structures in Trout Lake Park. The county will repair the roof on the gazebo; replace some siding, weatherize, and paint the restroom; patch potholes in the park's main driveway and resurface some parking stalls; repair and paint the wood picnic tables; and replace worn cedar boards on the play structure. The work will extend the life of the facilities.

STEVENS COUNTY

$100,000 has been awarded to the City of Chewelah which will use this grant to restore the main entrance to Everett Jenne Park, which experiences high traffic because of its location off U.S. Route 395. The park has an outdoor amphitheater that seats three hundred people, recreational vehicle facilities, and a famers' market. The park hosts festivals and other gatherings that draw fifty thousand visitors a year.

Next to the highway is a concrete plaza entrance that was cracked and replaced with gravel that now is uneven, unstable, and overgrown with weeds, and does not provide the desired barrier-free access. The city will remove the gravel and other barriers, pour concrete to create an entrance, replace the benches with accessible furnishings, and replace garbage cans. The city also will add chips to the playground and a retaining system to keep them in place.

Stevens County will receive a $100,000 grant to fix up Hunters Park. Hunters Park, which is in a low-income community, gets little use because of a lack of restrooms and seating areas. The county will replace the restroom roof and toilet and fix a leaky pipe and the wood deck damaged by the leak. The county also will upgrade the electrical outlets, which are not to code and unable to hold a power load, install signs, trim trees around the building to allow access to walkways, replace park benches and picnic tables, fertilize and reseed a large grassy field, repair a hole in the kiosk building, and replace rotted fencing.

BRIAN VARRELMAN PASSES

Brian Varrelman, a long-time guide and outfitter, died at the age of 71 on November 10. Brian was a rancher and outfitter who owned the Whistlin' Pine Ranch and Sawtooth Outfitters at Alta Lake near Pateros. I had the opportunity to meet Brian 15 years ago when I was just starting out as the host of Northwestern Outdoors Radio and writing a guide book called "Great Places Washington".

Brian was the past president of the Washington Outfitter and Guides Association and as the owner of Sawtooth Outfitters took clients on multi-day hunting trips for deer, bear, bighorn sheep and mountain goats in the Sawtooth and Pasayten Wilderness Areas in the late summer and early fall.

In the spring and summer, he operated the ranch which boasted a number of campsites and several rustic cabins that fronted Alta Lake. Many campers went there for the trout fishing but the wildlife watching in the area is good too. Brian invited me up to the ranch one summer day back in 2008 to join him and a couple of clients for a four-hour horseback ride. The ride was amazing with some epic views but the thing I remember most was when the lead horse stirred up a ground nest of hornets and the rest of us had to gallop through the swarm of angry bees as fast as we could to avoid getting stung too much!

It's definitely a ride I'll never forget and Brian was a true cowboy and outdoorsman I'll never forget either. RIP.

Pateros EV station nears completion

MIKE MALTAIS/WARD MEDIA

The EV complex on Commercial Avenue offers three charging options.

By MIKE MALTAIS
Ward Media Staff Reporter

PATEROS – One final component, a transformer, remains to be installed by Okanogan PUD to get the new electric vehicle charging station (EVSC) along Commercial Avenue ready to receive vehicles.

The Pateros station is among nearly two dozen that the Washington State Department of Transportation (WSDOT) is funding in 21 communities around the state. The $8.1 million contract was awarded by the WSDOT's Zero-Emission Vehicle Infrastructure Partnerships (ZEVIP) to EVCS in collaboration with Forth Mobility Fund and Energy Northwest. The partnerships will support the installation of 76 new and upgraded EV chargers along priority corridors in Washington.

"The City of Pateros is pleased to partner with EVCS to offer DC fast charging to the general public while visiting our town center," said city administrator Jord Wilson last January. "The fast-charging site will feature two 150 kilowatt (kW) chargers, one level two charger and an outlet for electric bike charging. The 150kW chargers will be able to provide up to 200 miles of range during a 30-minute stay in Pateros."

The city coordinated with EVCS to select the best possible placement that will allow the city to consider its planned parking lot and Commercial Avenue improvements.

Commenting on the contract, EVCS co-founder and CEO Gustavo Occhiuzzo said "We're honored to partner with WSDOT to help accelerate consumer confidence across Washington to switch to an EV. Our goal is to democratize the EV charging experience by tackling some of the largest hurdles EV drivers face today." Those hurdles include access to reliable and fast public EV charging across all applications, simplified and upfront pricing, and access to more locations.

The stations are part of Washington's mandate to ban the purchase of new gas-powered vehicles by 2035. Electric vehicle demand spiked in 2022 as the number of first-time EV purchases in Washington state rose 43 percent from the previous year, with more than 29,000 vehicles sold, an EVCS media release said.

WSDOT Alternative Fuels Manager Tonia Buell said WSDOT "is pleased that EVCS is upgrading the legacy West Coast Electric Highway equipment to serve more electric vehicles. The modern equipment will provide faster charging and expand access to all EV drivers."

City administrator Jord Wilson said the Pateros EV station forms part of the network on the Cascade Loop from Leavenworth, Chelan, Pateros, Twisp, Winthrop, and Mazama and over the North Cascades pass to points west.

As of September 2023 Washington State has 1,820 charging stations in public locations as of September 2023, offering a total of 3,563 Level 2 and 912 DCFC charging ports.

Marlin Handbell Ringers present holiday concerts

By QUINN PROPST
Ward Media Staff Reporter

LEAVENWORTH – The Leavenworth Marlin Handbell Ringers will perform three festive concerts across North Central Washington this holiday season.

Directed by Joyce Phipps, the group combines the charm of English handbells with beloved Christmas melodies.

"It's a unique experience if they haven't experienced the English handbells that we're actually fortunate in this area to be able to have, and if they have experienced the handbells, then they don't really need to be told why it's just a magical experience and when it's combined with the Christmas music, it just really is special," Phipps said.

Featuring 11 ringers and 108 English handbells, the concerts will showcase a mix of traditional favorites like the "Ukrainian Bell Carol," "Silent Night," "Up on the Housetop," and "I Saw Three Ships," alongside modern hits such as Trans-Siberian Orchestra's "Wizards in Winter."

The first concert is at George Community Hall in George on Saturday, Dec. 9, at 3 p.m. Tickets are $5 at the door and free for ages 12 and under.

The handbell ringers will perform a benefit concert at Grace City Church in Wenatchee at 4 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 10. The concert will raise funds for a charity chosen by the church. Grace City Church will match the proceeds from the concert. This marks the third season the groups collaborated to support local charities.

Tickets for the Dec. 10 performance are available by donation at brushfire.com/gracecitychurch.

On Sunday, Dec. 17, at 2 p.m., the Marlin Handbell Ringers and special guest musicians will perform at the Iceicle Creek Center for the Arts, Snowy Owl Theater. Tickets are $20 for adults, $18 for seniors, and $10 for students. Tickets can be purchased at marlinhandbellringers.com.

The Marlin Handbell Ringers is a non-profit community music group that has captivated Leavenworth audiences for over 40 years. The group formed in 1979 to help promote the "Bavarian Village."

The group is named after a local candy maker, Archie Marlin, who made and sold caramel apples to pay for the group's first set of bells.

The handbell ringers regularly perform in December and May in various locations around North Central Washington.

"It's all local volunteer members, and we do this as a gift to the community because of our love of music," Phipps said.
