Cashmere honors Leavenworth Chelan native with pump track tribute

By Quinn Propst

Two years after the passing of Brent Holladay, his memory continues to resonate throughout the community of Cashmere. Holladay, a devoted outdoor enthusiast and avid mountain biker, asked his family not to dwell in grief but to live life to the fullest in his

County Fair to crown first rodeo queen

By Quinn Propst Ward Media Staff Reporter

The Chelan County Fair and Rodeo is gearing up for an exciting change in 2024 as they prepare to crown their very first Rodeo Queen in November.

Applicants will compete in the Nov. 12 pageant at the Tillicum Riders Club House in Cashmere.

Organizers hope to make the pageant an annual event, showcasing and honoring local young women with an enthusiasm to compete for

"Our rodeo is now sanctioned with the Professional Rodeo Cowboy Association or PRCA, so we are hopeful that having a rodeo queen out promoting our rodeo at other events will draw more attention to the Chelan County Fair and Rodeo," said Kristen Mattson, a member of the Chelan County Fair Board and the Chelan County Rodeo Queen Committee.

To be considered, applicants must be between the ages of 17 and 23, attending high school or recently graduated, a resident of either Chelan, Douglas, Okanogan, or Grant counties, have riding and horsemanship skills, and have attended a mandatory orientation on Oct. 30.

Prospective queens will compete in several segments including personal interviews, horsemanship skills, modeling presentations, speech delivery, and impromptu questions.

A panel of three judges will evaluate contestants in these categories.

Mattson said the judges are looking for someone who is proud to represent the Chelan Fair and Rodeo.

The 2024 queen will be presented with a variety of awards, sponsored items, and royalty accessories to be worn during the year of her reign. She will participate in a year of community events, public speaking, parades, luncheons, and rodeos while serving as a goodwill ambassador for the Chelan County Fair and Rodeo.

In the past, the Chelan County Fair had two local young people, known as Ambassadors, who represented the fair at speaking engagements before and during the annual fair. However, in 2024, the Ambassador positions will be reduced from two to one. The Rodeo Queen and Ambassador will work together to promote the fair and

Local Elections

Your chance to shape North Central Washington's future

As the autumn leaves begin to fall and the days grow shorter, we find ourselves on the cusp of a critical event that affects every one of us: the general election. While the spotlight often shines on the grand stages presidential and congressional races, it's essential not to overlook the significance of local elections. These contests are the backbone of our communities, shaping the daily life and future of North Central Washington. Historically, voter turnout

In 2017, for instance, a mere 37.10% of eligible voters been disappointingly made their voices heard, leaving in our great important decisions in the state of Washington hands of a few. We must strive for greater participation. Similarly, Chelan County has experienced its own ebb and flow in voter turnout, with 2021 turnout at only 47.23%. The low point in the last decade was 2017's turnout at an astonishingly low 38.14%. While we've seen some improvement, our goal should be to consistently engage a majority of eligible voters in the decision-making process.

So, why should we care about local elections? The answer is simple: because they affect our daily lives in profound ways. Local leaders determine how our tax dollars are spent, the quality of our schools, the state of our roads, and much more. Decisions made at the local level can directly impact our communities, and it's crucial that we have a say in shaping our future. As we approach the upcoming election on Tuesday, Nov. 7, it's essential to understand the deadlines for casting your vote. To ensure your voice is heard, ballots must be placed in a ballot dropbox or postmarked by 8 p.m. on that day. This is your opportunity to make a difference in North Central Washington and Chelan County, so don't let it slip away.

Let's break the cycle of low voter turnout and take charge of our future. Local elections matter, and every vote counts. By participating in these crucial decisions, we can build a stronger and more vibrant community. So, mark your calendars, fill out those ballots, and be the change you want to see. Let's ensure that North Central Washington's future is bright and promising, as it should be.

Letters to the Editor

Affordable housing crisis The Upper Valley is a vibrant area comprised of several wonderful communities. Our area will continue to thrive by attracting a diverse and rich set of citizens who can contribute to all aspects of our mountain town culture. As a thriving community, we must grow and change. However, this growth should be managed and directed in the best interest of the town as a whole. We are Judy and Tom Derpack. We moved to the area eleven years ago to be closer to our grandkids and extended family. We searched for five months before finding an affordable rental. We are grateful for our rental, as we absolutely love living here. Unfortunately, like many families, it is not within our financial means to buy or build a house. We feel that the top issue threatening the continued success and ongoing growth of the area is the ability to affordably house all members of our community. This issue is particularly threatening to our workforce, made up of our teachers, service personnel, retail/ business workers, and even our healthcare workers. Without housing for these workers, our community cannot continue to be the vibrant environment we all love. As retired teachers, we are especially concerned about housing for new Cascade School District staff. Further, if the area doesn't have housing for younger families with children, these families will reside elsewhere. Additionally, we have had many anecdotal stories/conversations with college students and 'twentysomethings' who admit that their greatest stressor for the future is finding affordable housing in the valley where they grew up or have grown to love—a regional survey conducted by the Housing Solutions Group in 2022 lists these challenges for the region. *The lack of inventory, plus high home prices and high borrowing costs, make it difficult for many people to buy a home in the region. *Three of four NCW counties still experiencing home price gains, while three of four counties are seeing homes remain on the market longer, according to the NAR's database of MLSlisted for-sale homes. * New apartments are being rented at market rate. The multifamily vacancy rate is 2.8%, according to Pacific Appraisal. * assistance funds. made available during the pandemic, have dried up. The Housing Authority says there has been a surge of people needing housing, with seniors the most in need. * State directive: 17,000 new homes in Chelan/Douglas Counties over the next 20 years, including 55% for lowincome households. We are encouraged by new solutions brought forth by the renowned nonprofit MEND, the mayor and city employees and council, and local businesses. overdue Factors to Consider your Cascade Hospital Commissioner Candidates. Candidates who, in their campaign, address the issues and concerns important to patients, staff, and community members. For years, CMC commissioners have neglected the public's requests for fixing high staff turnover rates, low employee morale, billing and computer issues, inability to access physicians, patient care disasters, etc. I plan to help correct these. During this election, incumbents have not publicly engaged with the community on the real issues that affect patients and staff and have offered no commitment to change. Their silence has been deafening!

Recognize their role as representatives of the people. The current board is a continuously self-appointing board. Incumbents incorrectly believe it is their personal duty to appoint people who think just like them. The abnormal over-involvement of acting commissioners promoting each other and even running other incumbents' campaigns this year is a red flag they want full control of the board rather than the public.

Endorsement by professionals who have expertise in effective hospital administration. Personal pals can rush in to hail their candidate friends, but a cadre of healthcare professionals with intimate knowledge of CMC's operations holds the weight. A letter to the editor from past CMC administrators, commissioners, and healthcare leaders recently provided a call for urgent change in the board.

Operate with transparency and integrity. Our public hospital is owned by the people. That is you. Commissioners are public servants. The current board has kept far too much hidden behind a shrouded curtain, away from the public's eye. The suggestion by dozens of healthcare professionals and community leaders last year for an independent leadership audit was summarily dismissed by the commissioners. Why did they not embrace the opportunity to improve?

Rich Brinkman

Dear Leavenworth,

we will thrive!

I am the only candidate in this race who has run an honest, open, and fair campaign. By contrast, my opponent — Carl Florea — has done the following things, among many others.

- He has called us all racists, which is not only inaccurate but very unfair.
- He has completely ignored my neighbors with regard to excessive speeding in our school zones. In fact, at the recent WRI candidate forum, he unbelievably said that "we haven't
- He successfully worked to cancel the Mayoral portion of the October 5 Candidate Forum, eliminating one of my main opportunities to engage with the Leavenworth community.
- He has used City resources to promote his own campaign.
- He kept his campaign signs up for two weeks after the City Council banned them from Hwy 2 Right-of-Way.
- He has done virtually nothing to address our failing infrastructure, our crumbling Front Street, our crumbling residential streets, our downtown restrooms, and maintain what was once our "Miracle Town."
- He is not responding to our local needs and concerns and failing to govern a City Hall that is in complete disarray.

The above is just a sampling, and I must ask if this is the kind of leadership you want from your Mayor? Please Leavenworth, this race is not just about the above, nor is it just about housing. It is about COMPETENCE!

Leadership change overdue. The community's pleas for transparency, accountability, employee retention, and direct engagement in addressing patients' concerns have fallen on deaf ears for too long. Having personally conversed with over 100 Cascade Medical patients and staff in the last few months, it is clear the trust in the commissioners has been lost. The status quo is not the answer

Duane Goehner, Cascade Medical Hospital Commissioner Candidate

Supporting Williams and Montoya

As a retired hospital executive who has lived in the Leavenworth area for over ten years, I realize how valuable it is to have a well-run quality hospital, emergency room, and clinic in our community. The Hospital District Board of Commissioners is the governing body that is charged with the responsibility of overseeing the operations and performance of Cascade Medical. I urge you to vote for two very good current commissioners: Bruce Williams and Gustavo Montoya. Bruce has served as a commissioner for ten years and is a proven leader with a background in Banking and Law. Gustavo has been on the Board for the past year and brings a background and expertise in finance and technology as a business owner in the tech industry. I have witnessed the commitment, insights, and thoughtful questioning that both of these commissioners bring to their roles, and I urge you to vote for them to continue their important work on our behalf.

Strode Weaver, Leavenworth

Retain Montoya, re-elect Williams

I support Gustavo Montova and Bruce Williams for Hospital Commissioners and hope you will also. I am currently your Board President at Cascade Medical, but I am writing this in my capacity as an individual citizen without using Cascade Medical resources.

Over the past year, Gustavo has been an excellent board member, providing unique perspectives representing the Peshatin/Dryden community as well as our Latino community. He is a strong community advocate with business, technology, and financial expertise. This background is only outdone by his personal qualities. His integrity, listening skills, and interface with the board and hospital staff in a cooperative and productive manner has made him such a valuable and effective board Bruce Williams has served on the board for over ten years and is a strong, hard-working leader. He is a Cascade Medical advocate well beyond your district. He is on the board of the Washington State Hospital Association, which allows him to provide a perspective of your hospital district's needs on state policy and health care issues. He has chaired all three of your board's committees, i.e., Finance, Quality, and Governance. During his tenure, your hospital's financial position has improved, and we have added new services like mental health and a mobile clinic. He is also supportive of surrounding area needs, like the improved response capability in the Lake Wenatchee/Plain area. If re-elected, he will be board president in 2024.

Bruce and Gustavo are both strong supporters of improving hospital staff conditions. With their help, Cascade is wellpositioned, coming out of the pandemic, to continue to improve and increase service to our community.

Please join me in voting for Gustavo Montoya and Bruce Williams.

Baranouskas, Tom Leavenworth

Supporting Montoya, Williams, and Kendall

I felt it imperative to express my support for the current Hospital commissioners at Cascade Medical Center seeking reelection. I am continually impressed Gustavo Montoya during our meetings and his unwavering dedication to our community. He continues to voice concerns from the public that are often drowned out. He is employed in the technology and innovation field and is well-grounded in the practicality of running a business.

As a long-time community member and provider at the Hospital, I know firsthand that the last several Covid vears have been rough (understatement). I also work part-time at a Hospital on the west side to make sure I personally am keeping up standards and get to compare healthcare systems. In a small system like we have in Leavenworth, the fact that we made it through and are now starting to thrive speaks highly of our current relationships. Cascade has made it through and is now working on so many improvements! I am very proud of the work our current Board Commissioners are doing and have felt engaged and involved. I will continue to support the constant improvement and betterment of the hospital by retaining Gustavo Montoya, Bruce Williams, and Jessica Kendall!

Public forum scheduled Attention: Property

Payers residing within the Leavenworth City Limits. There is a "Public Forum" on Nov. 7, 6:30 p.m., regarding the (MFTE) Multi-family Tax Exemption Program. The public will have the option to attend in person at City Hall or via Zoom. Note: Erin Fonville from the Assessor's Office will be on hand to explain the MFTE program and to answer all your questions.

The MFTE program is a "shift of tax obligations" associated with affordable housing units. The offsetting of the taxes thus becomes the responsibility of all other taxpavers residing within the Leavenworth city limits. The tax obligation would be a minimum of 12 years, with the city strongly considering a longer duration of 20 years.

As a council member (one of seven) ... I am not comfortable making a decision to add even one penny to your property taxes without hearing from the citizens who will be financially impacted.

Please become informed...a council vote is pending.

MANUAL CAR

Preparing your vehicle for winter A comprehensive guide to winterizing your car

Ward Media

As the chill of winter descends upon North Central Washington, it's time for residents to start thinking about winterizing their vehicles. With the snow and ice that often blanket our region during the colder months, ensuring your car is prepared for winter is not just advisable; it's essential for safety and peace of mind. To help you get started, here's a comprehensive guide on the key steps to winterize your car.

Tire Maintenance:

· Begin with a thorough inspection of your tires. Check the tread depth and look for signs of wear and tear. If the tread is low, consider replacing your tires to ensure better traction on snowy and icy

Ensure your tires are properly inflated. Cold temperatures can cause tire pressure to drop, so keep them at the manufacturerrecommended level for optimal performance.

Battery Health:

• Cold weather can put extra strain on your car's battery. Have it tested to ensure it's in good condition. If it's old or showing signs of weakness, consider

Fluid Check:

- Inspect all essential fluids, including engine oil, transmission fluid, and coolant. Make sure they are at the recommended levels and in good condition.
- Consider switching to a winter-grade oil to improve engine performance in colder temperatures.

Brake Inspection:

 Your brakes are crucial for safe winter driving. Have them inspected for wear and tear, and replace brake pads or rotors if needed.

replacing it before winter Heater and Defroster:

• Check your car's heater and defroster to ensure they are working correctly. A functioning defroster is vital for maintaining visibility during snowy conditions.

Wiper Blades:

• Replace worn-out wiper blades to ensure clear Consider visibility. installing winter-specific wiper blades designed to handle snow and ice.

Emergency Kit:

 Assemble a winter emergency kit for your vehicle. This include items like a flashlight, extra warm clothing, a blanket, nonperishable snacks, and a shovel.

Antifreeze:

 Ensure your car's antifreeze is at the right concentration to prevent freezing. Check your owner's manual for guidance on the ideal mixture for your region.

Check Lights:

• Make sure all exterior lights, including taillights, headlights, and turn signals, are functioning correctly.

Winter days are shorter, and visibility is essential.

4WD or AWD Systems:

• If your vehicle has fourwheel drive (4WD) or all-wheel drive (AWD), familiarize yourself with how these systems work. They can provide added traction in slippery conditions.

By taking these essential steps to winterize your car, you'll not only enhance your safety on the road but also extend the life of your vehicle. Remember that preventive maintenance is key to a trouble-free winter driving

Winter battery maintenance

Ensuring your vehicle starts in freezing temperatures

Ward Media

Ensuring your vehicle's battery is prepared to withstand freezing temperatures is essential. Cold weather can be particularly harsh on car batteries, often leading to unexpected breakdowns. To help you avoid these inconveniences, here are some tips for effective battery maintenance during the winter months.

Regularly Check Battery Health

Before the cold weather hits, it's crucial to have your vehicle's battery tested. Many auto repair shops and battery retailers offer free battery checks. This diagnostic test can assess your battery's health and determine if it's time for a replacement. It's better to address any issues before they become severe.

Keep Terminals Clean

Corrosion can build up on your battery terminals over time, affecting the connection between the battery and your vehicle's electrical system. To prevent this, regularly inspect the terminals for white or greenish deposits. If you spot corrosion, clean it off using a battery terminal brush or a mixture of baking soda and water. Remember to disconnect the battery cables before cleaning and reconnect them securely afterward.

Park in a Garage or Use a Battery Blanket

Cold temperatures can significantly reduce your battery's efficiency. Park your vehicle in a garage or a covered area to shield it from extreme cold. Alternatively, consider using a battery blanket or heater. These devices can help maintain the battery's temperature and prevent it from freezing.

Limit Power Usage

During winter, vehicle's electrical system works harder to power essentials like lights, heaters, and defrosters. To reduce strain on the battery, limit the use of these accessories when the engine is off. Additionally, turn off all lights and accessories before turning off the engine to preserve battery power for the next start-up.

Invest in a Quality Battery your battery approaching the end of its lifespan, consider investing in a high-quality replacement. Look for a battery designed to perform well in cold weather conditions. Opting for a reliable battery can be a wise investment to ensure your vehicle starts reliably in freezing temperatures.

Keep Jumper Cables Handy

Despite your best efforts, sometimes unexpected battery issues can occur. It's a good idea to keep a set of jumper cables in your vehicle in case you or a fellow driver needs assistance jump-starting a battery. Make sure you know how to use them safely.

By following these tips, you can help ensure your car's battery remains in top condition throughout the winter months. Regular maintenance and preparedness are to keeping your vehicle running smoothly when the temperatures drop. Stay safe on the road this winter season.

Preparing your car for holiday travel Essential Tips for Winter Road Trips

Ward Media

As the holiday season approaches, many families and travelers are gearing up for winter road trips to visit loved ones, explore new destinations, or simply enjoy the beauty of the season. However, before hitting the road, it's crucial to ensure that your vehicle is well-prepared to handle the challenges of winter driving. Here are some essential tips to keep in mind for a safe and enjoyable holiday journey:

1. Check Your Tires: Your tires are your vehicle's first line of defense against winter road hazards. Ensure that they are properly inflated and have adequate tread depth. Consider switching to winter tires if you live in an area with heavy snowfall.

2. Inspect Your Brakes: Have your brakes checked by a qualified mechanic to ensure they are in good working condition. Snow and icy roads require responsive brakes for safe stopping.

3. Battery Health: Cold weather can be tough on your vehicle's battery. Check its health and replace it if it's old or showing signs of weakness. Carry jumper cables just in case. 4. Fluid Levels: Verify that your vehicle's fluids, including oil, antifreeze, and windshield washer fluid, are at the right

levels. Cold weather can cause fluids to thicken or freeze. 5. Wipers and Lights: Make sure your windshield wipers are in good condition, and consider using winter wiper blades. Check all lights on your vehicle, including headlights, taillights, and turn signals, to ensure they are working correctly.

6. Pack an Emergency Kit: Prepare an emergency kit that includes items like blankets, warm clothing, non-perishable food, a flashlight, and a firstaid kit. These items can be invaluable if you find yourself stranded in cold weather.

7. Plan Your Route: Before setting out, plan your route and check the weather forecast for the areas you'll be traveling through. Adjust your plans if severe weather is expected, and share your itinerary with someone at your destination.

8. Drive Slowly and Cautiously: When on the road, reduce your speed and maintain a safe following distance from other vehicles. Accelerate and brake gently to avoid skidding.

9. Keep Your Gas Tank Full: Try to keep your gas tank at least half full during winter travel. This helps prevent gas lines from freezing and ensures you have enough fuel if you get stuck.

10. Stay Informed: Stay updated on road conditions and closures by using navigation apps or checking local traffic reports. Consider investing in snow chains if you'll be traveling through mountainous areas.

By following these tips, you can help ensure a safer and more enjoyable winter road trip during the holiday season. Remember that preparation and caution are the keys to a successful journey, allowing you to create lasting memories with family and friends.

Winter driving safety tips Navigating snow and ice safely

Ward Media

The cold season often brings challenging driving conditions, including snow and ice, which can make travel hazardous. To help you stay safe during the winter months, we've compiled a list of essential, safe winter driving tips.

Check Your Vehicle: Before hitting the road, ensure your vehicle is in good condition. Check the brakes, tires, lights, and battery. It's crucial to have a reliable vehicle during winter.

Winter Tires: Consider investing in winter tires, especially if you live in an area prone to heavy snowfall. Winter tires provide better traction on icy and snowy roads.

Keep Emergency Supplies: Carry an emergency kit in your vehicle. This kit should include items like blankets, flashlights, a first-aid kit, and nonperishable food and water. You never know when you might get stuck in a snowstorm.

4. Clear Snow and Ice: Before driving, remove all snow and ice from your vehicle. This includes clearing your windshield, side mirrors, and headlights. Snow and ice obstruct your vision and can be dangerous.

Drive Slowly: In snowy or icy conditions, reduce your speed. Driving at slower speeds allows for better control and response time in case of unexpected situations.

Following Increase Distance: Maintain a safe distance from the vehicle in front of you. This extra space gives you more time to react to sudden stops or skids.

Use Brakes Wisely: Avoid sudden braking in icy conditions, which can lead to skidding. Instead, gently apply the brakes and start braking early when approaching intersections or turns.

Steer Smoothly: When steering, make smooth and gradual movements. Jerky or abrupt steering can cause your vehicle to lose traction.

Stay Informed: weather and conditions before starting your journey. If conditions are severe, consider postponing your trip if possible.

10. Stay Home: If conditions are extremely treacherous, the best choice might be to stay home. Safety should always be the top priority.

These safe winter driving tips will help you navigate the challenges of winter weather with confidence. Remember, it's crucial to adapt your driving to the current conditions and exercise caution.

Duck decoy premier

By JOHN KRUSE Special to Ward Media

The waterfowl hunting season is in full swing and with new hunters taking to the wetlands a little advice could come in handy for success on the topic of duck and goose

WHEN IT COMES TO DECOYS - MIX IT UP: Unless you are pass-shooting at birds flying overhead, you are going to want to have decoys to lure in ducks to whatever body of water (or ground) you are hunting. It's tempting to buy twelve standard mallard decoys with their heads up looking straight ahead but this doesn't work very well because it's very unrealistic and the ducks know it.

Instead, use a mix of decoys starting with different species. Throw in some teal or pintail or wigeon and a couple of goose decoys with those mallards because ducks of different species co-mingle on the water. In addition to this, make sure you are using decoys in different poses. Have a couple of decoys in a feeding position with just their back end showing. Have ducks in a sleeping position and others with heads turned to the right or left. Now you are on your way to mimicking what a flock of ducks looks like on the QUALITY DECOYS WORK BETTER: You can spend a lot or a little on decoys but more expensive decoys do work better. Cheap decoys, made out of plastic, unfortunately shine in the sun which is not at all natural. Flocked decoys, made with a felt-like surface, do not give off a reflective glare and are much more effective.

MAGNUM VS. STANDARD DECOYS: Back in the 1980's and 1990's magnum size decoys, 50-percent bigger than standard decoys, were all the rage. The argument was these larger decoys drew in more birds. However, that's not necessarily true. Shelby

David Kruse getting ready to pick up decoys at the end of a good duck hunting trip.

Ross, a waterfowl hunting guide who owns Ross Outdoor Adventures, says, "The one advantage of using over-size decoys is that the birds can seen them from a greater distance." On the downside, you won't have as many decoys to put in your spread, especially if you are hiking into your hunting destination.

SOMETIMES LESS IS BETTER: Speaking of numbers, what and where you are hunting dictates how many decoys you should use. If you are field hunting snow geese you will want to have several hundred decoys set up to attract flocks of these birds. If you are hunting a small pond or creek, you can get away with a dozen decoys or less and have success. Generally speaking, for most bodies of water you hunt, 18 to 24 decoys will work just fine.

CONFIDENCE DECOYS: They say birds of a feather flock together but you will often see other birds besides ducks and geese on ponds, lakes or streams where ducks hang out. That's why confidence decoys can help bring in more birds. Examples include a great blue heron decoy you can stake out at the water's edge or coot decoys you can put at the edges of your decoy

ADD MOVEMENT TO YOUR DECOY SPREAD: One other issue that's important when it comes to having an effective decoy spread to lure in waterfowl is movement. Nothing looks as unrealistic in the world than a flock of non-moving decoys on a flat calm body of water. In reality, waterfowl are moving around on the water and if you want to simulate that you need to make vour decovs come alive.

Battery-operated, motorized decoys are not legal to use in Washington but you can stake in a couple of duck decoys over shallow water that have spinning wings. These wings will spin in the breeze, giving the illusion to passing waterfowl that these ducks are coming in for a landing.

You can also impart movement to your decoy spread through the use of a jerk string. Tie a string to a decoy in the middle of your spread and as birds fly overhead jerk on the string, creating a ripple effect in the water around the

Last but not least, if your blind is in the water near the decoy spread, you can literally kick your feet in the water to create ripples in the water, making your decoy spread appear more lifelike. Duck hunters in the flooded timber of Arkansas have been doing this for decades.

There you go, a primer on using waterfowl decoys to lure in more birds. Good luck out there this hunting season.

Q: Since menopause, I've noticed dryness and itching "down there." Is there anything besides hormone pills that can help?

Vaginal dryness and discomfort affect 75% of post-menopausal women. These symptoms commonly affect women taking anti-estrogen medicines for breast cancer.

Without estrogen, the vagina and birth canal cells shrink or atrophy. They lose elasticity and secrete less lubricating fluid. This leads to vaginal dryness, itching, and burning. When a woman loses the lubrication of vaginal secretions, sexual activity can become quite painful.

Vaginal secretions are crucial to a healthy vaginal environment. They help create and maintain an optimal level of acidity in the vagina. This vaginal acidity supports the growth of "friendly" bacteria like lactobacillus and discourages yeast and certain bacterial infections.

The distress of vaginal discomfort and dryness can be relieved in several ways. You can apply a long-acting moisturizer, use a personal lubricant, or add estrogen to your vaginal tissue.

Replens® is a long-acting moisturizing gel that works for up to 3 days at a time. It's available without a prescription in 2 different forms. You can choose premeasured doses inside individual plastic applicators or one tube with a reusable applicator.

Vaginal moisturizers can relieve dryness and burning and make sexual intercourse more comfortable. However, a moisturizer alone won't reverse the changes in your vaginal cells, optimize the acidity of your vagina, or restore helpful lactobacillus.

Newer vaginal moisturizers contain hyaluronic acid for long-lasting moisture, plus a mild acid to support vaginal acidity. Hyaluronic acid is as effective as low-dose estrogen vaginal cream in relieving dryness, burning, and painful sexual activity.

Vaginallubricants differ from moisturizers and often contain silicones, oils, fragrances, and flavors. Lubricants ease symptoms of dryness and increase the comfort of sexual activity but do not optimize vaginal acid balance or encourage lactobacillus.

Applying a small amount of estrogen directly to vaginal cells restores their elasticity, acidity, and ability to secrete a lubricating fluid. This encourages beneficial lactobacillus while reducing dryness and burning.

Can breast cancer survivors safely use a low dose of vaginal estrogen to relieve vaginal discomfort? The evidence suggests YES. When applied directly to vaginal cells, a little estrogen can make a big difference in comfort. When used at appropriate doses, vaginal estrogen doesn't create detectable levels in the bloodstream. It is unlikely to affect endometrial and breast

There are several forms of local estrogen: vaginal creams used with an applicator (Premarin®, Estrace® generic estradiol), vaginal tablets with individual applicators (Vagifem®), and a gelatin ring that slowly releases estrogen (Estring®). The starting dose for estrogen creams and vaginal tablets is once daily at bedtime for 1-2 weeks, then twice weekly. Estring® is a flexible estrogen ring inserted vaginally and replaced every 90 days.

Other prescription-only options for vaginal discomfort include Osphena® Intrarosa®. Osphena® tablets mimic the effects of estrogen in vaginal tissue but block estrogen's action in breast tissue.

Intrarosa® is a prescription medicine that contains DHEA (dehydroepiandrosterone). One tablet is inserted vaginally at bedtime. Intrarosa® is more effective at relieving vaginal dryness than other supplements containing DHĒA.

Contact your doctor if you suffer from vaginal discomfort. If infection or another condition is not the cause, ask whether low-dose vaginal estrogen or another medicine is an option for you.

Here Are 6 Tips to Help Relieve Vaginal Discomfort:

SUDOKU

1. Be consistent.

For best results, reapply vaginal moisturizers and estrogen frequently. Many vaginal estrogen products are applied twice weekly, and longacting vaginal moisturizers can last up to 3 days.

2. Shop online if needed. Although Replens® and Vagisil® moisturizers are available in most grocery stores and pharmacies, vaginal moisturizers containing hyaluronic acids like Good Clean Love's Bionourish® and Revaree® manufactured by Bonafide are harder to find. 3. More can be better.

You can use a vaginal moisturizer in addition to locally applied estrogen to get more relief. For best results, apply moisturizer and estrogen on alternating days.

4.Add personal lubricant.

Try a personal lubricant if sexual contact is uncomfortable despite using a vaginal moisturizer with or without low-dose estrogen. There are many choices available today besides the old standby, K-Y

5. Know your options. Discuss your options for vaginal estrogen and other medicines to relieve vaginal dryness with your doctor. 6. Shop around.

Even with insurance, prescription options for relieving vaginal discomfort are often expensive. A 90-day prescription of generic estradiol vaginal cream can be $60 in cash. A 3-month supply of other estrogen products like Premarin® cream, vaginal tablets, Estring® vaginal ring, Intrarosa®, and Osphena® can cost over $400.

excited, and I wanted to make it the Brent Holladay Memorial Pump Track," she said.

"The intention was to place asphalt on the newly upgraded tracks so that it didn't deteriorate as fast as the dirt track has over the years," she said. "So it will be something that'll be there for ten plus years for the community to enjoy before they need to worry about maintaining it."

Brent's longtime friend, James Munly, with EMBA, was a key player in making the pump track improvement a success.

Munly said that his friend was a passionate, generous man who gave his time to help others, so it was no surprise when there was a groundswell of people who helped to make the Brent Holladay Pump Track a reality.

The project did not use public funds and was made possible all through the generosity of donations and volunteers.

Kim, along with the high school art teacher, designed the park sign, and her nephew cut it out in the high school shop. She had to have the sign extended because there were

Last week, they were able to add the sign to the park.

Brent, who grew Leavenworth, was instrumental in building the original dirt track in 2015. The track was Cashmere High School alum Cole Paton's senior project. Kim was a high school teacher in Cashmere for 20 years. When Paton's turn for a project came along, he wanted to do something that centered around biking. So she lined him up with her husband.

"And they came up with this brilliant idea to create this dirt pump track at Riverside Park, which was all approved through the city and the council and the mayor at the time," Kim said. "So, Cole and Brent and a ton of volunteers built this pump track out of dirt in 2015, which has led to years of kids growing up and appreciating and enjoying and pressing forward with their love of outdoors and mountain biking."

He said it was special to see how diverse the track is, with people using it all the way down to little kids who don't even know how to ride a bike yet using it with their run bikes all the way up to parents using it to skate while their

Every day, cadets head to

Sometimes, the instructors are "timing us on like how fast we can get our gear on," said Maverick Miller (12). The lessons in Fire Science are different every day. The cadets never know what to expect that day or who will be teaching them. "I like the instructors and like how there's a wide variety of them and how we don't know who's going to be teaching us that day," said Teyva Dillon (11).

On account of the program being taught by real firefighters, students who are planning to become a firefighter receive the training and knowledge a rookie firefighter would receive, meaning that students can stay with the force after high school and dive headfirst into the force. "I can become a volunteer or a resident at the station after my senior year. I think [Fire Science] would help, especially with Wild Land. [I can] get a job right out of high school," said Jaxon

Teagan Sauer (12) is one of two girls enrolled in the program. "My dad was [with] the fire department, and he served mainly as a volunteer, and so, I wanted to join because that's my passion is to know I can save someone's life and know that you never leave someone behind, you never leave family behind," expressed Sauer. The Fire Science program prepares high school students for what they should expect when starting their firefighting career. Sauer suggested that students should "know that it's going to be hard work. This is not going to be just an easy class that [a student can] take just to take."

Even if students don't want to become a firefighter after their high school career, Fire Science can prepare them for other job opportunities. "I would say, even if you're not going into that field as your career, you still learn a lot of important stuff like almost anything," said Trail Heyl (11). Students learn the value of teamwork and dedication during the span of the course. They can use these traits in any job, no matter the tasks.

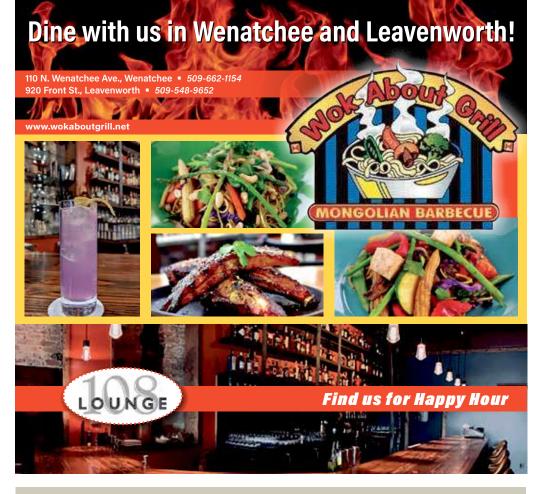

Rich Brinkman

Former Oregon Senator Mark Hatfield made a very important analogy. He wrote that if you put all of your resources into the building of a roof, it becomes so massive that it collapses and actually harms its inhabitants rather than protecting them. Very unfortunately, this is exactly what the current Mayor has done, and we instead need very strong and proven leadership to address all of our City's urgent needs.

Speak Up for Grizzly Bears!

Grizzlies roamed Washington's North Cascades for thousands of years, but now none remain. Hunted, trapped, and poisoned, the bears were exterminated. We now have a plan—and a responsibility—to bring them back.

Rural communities have coexisted and thrived alongside grizzly bears. Let's help bring back this iconic native species to the North Cascades.

Grizzlies Need our Help to Bounce Back

Remote Source Populations

endangered in southern British Columbia and the population there is not healthy enough to expand on its own

Habitat Fragmentation geographical features block movement routes between Canada and North Cascades National Park

Female Home Range Female grizzlies stay close to their mother's home range making it very unlikely they'll Cascades on their own.

Relocation Works Wildlife biologists have already successfully relocated grizzlies and are recovering bears in western Montana.
