Simply Found Boutique's HVAC System Catches Fire

By: Megan Sokol,

Staff writer

When owner Carlos Bernal got an urgent call from his manager, he could sense that things might be hectic at his Pavz Tacos restaurant on Front St. in Leavenworth. But on Tuesday evening around 5 p.m., he did not expect the smell of burning plastic and smoke billowing into his establishment. After searching all over Pavz, both the restaurant crew and firefighters discovered that the cause of the smoke was due to their neighbor business, Simply Found Boutique's HVAC system catching fire.

Vail Resort Accused of Violating the WA Consumer Protection Act

BY: MEGAN SOKOL,

 $Staff\ writer$

The once cozy and treasured gem of Stevens Pass has recently caught controversy after multiple patrons accuse Vail Resorts of violating the Washington Consumer Protection Act. The resort has been accused of severe mismanagement of their ski area, underpaying their employees and for not refunding a portion of the Epic Pass after multiple trail closures.

In 2018, Vail Resorts acquired Stevens Pass for $64 mil. Since then, the corporate atmosphere that they bought has left a sour taste in people's mouths. In protest to these claims, unsatisfied patrons of Stevens Pass Resort have signed a petition called "Hold Vail Resorts Accountable" on Change.org. It was published on Dec. 28 and has already surpassed its 15k signature goal.

From the Dec. 14 Council Packet: "Mayor Florea also wants the Council to be aware that this action is independent of his commitment to spend a significant amount of time serving as Mayor and will not impact what the job description of the new Administrative Services Director will be."

We wanted to say a warm thank you to our long-time volunteer, Susan Riggs, as she steps back from her volunteer role. Susan has been volunteering for Upper Valley MEND since we started the organization in the basement of the Methodist Church in 1988, when she was the librarian at the Leavenworth Public Library. "It was a joy to be part of Upper Valley MEND. It was a blessing to be able to work with them," Riggs said. She has been a part of this community since her family moved here during the Great Depression and has seen an incredible amount of change in our beautiful town over the years.

For the past six months, almost every sector and industry has been feeling the effects of the pandemic. Many workingclass people have communicated some concerns that they have with working.

An Interview with James Hopkins, an American in Ukraine By Marlene Farrell

Correspondent

James Hopkins, a Northwest native with ties to Leavenworth (his brother Matt), has lived in Ukraine for twentyfour years and calls it home. He lives in Lutsk, in northwest Ukraine, with his wife, Valya, a Ukrainian, and their two daughters, Arina, 15, and Samantha, 14. Right now, they're coping with daily peril ever since the Russian invasion began in late February. This is an extreme escalation, though Ukraine and Russia have been in military conflict for eight years, ever since Russia overtook Crimea and the Donbas region.

PUD bids farewell to long-serving commissioners Congdon, Bolz

SUBMITTED BY RACHEL HANSEN

Senior Communications Strategist

WENATCHEE – Friends and colleagues shared memories and fond farewells with two long-serving commissioners - Ann Congdon and Dennis Bolz - during their last board meeting December 20.

Commissioner Ann Condon was elected to the commission 18 years ago. She was encouraged to run by family friend Jean Ludwick, the first woman in the state elected as a PUD commissioner.

"When I became commissioner, it was clear that Chelan PUD needed to earn back trust with our customer-owners," Congdon said. "As a board, one of the things we did right was hire the right general managers at the right time."

One of the longest-serving commissioners in PUD history, Congdon helped hire five general managers including Rich Riazzi, Steve Wright and Kirk Hudson. During her tenure, she worked alongside staff to reduce debt by nearly $1 billion and position the PUD as one of the most financially stable utilities in the nation. She was a major proponent of a supported employment program at the PUD, which helps people with cognitive disabilities to develop job skills. She also joined other commissioners to adopt the PUD's vision of providing the best value for the most people for the longest time.

"Of everything we've done, I feel really good that we worked hard and gained the trust of the community over time," she said. "My parting words to fellow commissioners is that we've got to do everything it takes to keep earning that trust. That means open communication, a lot of outreach, and staying engaged in conversations around the community."

Dennis Commissioner Bolz championed many issues during his 16-year tenure on the board, including parks development, transparency, and fiscal responsibility. In 2019, he received the Lifetime Achievement Award from the Washington Public Utility Districts Association in recognition of his longstanding work on behalf of public power.

"One of the things I'm most proud of is the transition in culture that we helped facilitate at Chelan PUD," Bolz said. "The five of us worked to create a tone at the commission level to model a healthier balance for how people treated each other, with respect and dignity."

Bolz was also part of creating the Public Power Benefit program, which supports community-minded projects such as expanded access to fiber internet, parking passes at PUD-owned state parks, electric vehicle changing stations and more. His leadership has advanced several PUD strategic plans, including critical decisions on rate design and economic development, guided by input from thousands of local customers.

"The public is important," Bolz said. "We had the courage to go forward because we took the time to hear what the public was thinking. It's been a great experience."

Spring Snow Surprise

BY: MEGAN SOKOL,

One would not expect to see a foot of snow blessing their vision in mid-April, let alone a troubling weather precedent for the upcoming spring harvest. Although the global climate crisis has become increasingly troubling, the recent snowfall is not a side effect of climate change. From April 12-14, Chelan County received several inches of snow, with approximately 14.5 inches in the Lake Wenatchee/ Plain region and about 7-16 inches in Wenatchee.

Hwy. 2, Loge Bomb Threat in Leavenworth

SUBMITTED BY CHELAN COUNTY SHERIFF'S OFFICE

Chelan County Sheriff Brian Burnett reports that on Dec. 16, at approximately 18:58 hours, RIVERCOM dispatch was contacted by an unknown male who stated he was angry over an incident that happened previously to the call. The suspect threatened a local business establishment in the downtown Leavenworth area. He stated he had a rifle with a large amount of ammunition and a pipe bomb. As a precaution, safety protocols were immediately administered by deputies to local businesses open at the time, causing them to shelter in place. This included Cascade Medical Center.

Several Chelan County deputies quickly responded to the area with additional support from the Washington State Patrol. Deputies conducted a thorough sweep of the downtown area and did not find anything to corroborate any threat. A thorough investigation commenced while additional law enforcement resources remained in the area to provide a security presence. Deputies continued to look for any individual(s) that presented an obvious threat to public safety. This investigation is ongoing. The Sheriff's Office does not believe there is any concern for the safety of the public.

All available information appeared to point to another "swatting" incident and appeared not to be credible at the time. The investigation by law enforcement spanned approximately 3 hours Law enforcement's security presence remained in the area for several additional hours. "Swatting" incidents have been increasing throughout the country and are a serious drain on law enforcement resources.

10,000th Visitor to the Museum

On Monday, December 19, the Greater Leavenworth Museum welcomed its 10,000th visitor for 2022. Patti McGaughey, the museum staff's lead volunteer, greeted Marisa Lin and Tim Wu from Vancouver, B.C., with a set of three books from the museum's store and a promise to post their photo on the museum's Facebook page, which they did. If you haven't seen the museum yet, this is a perfect time. Whether you've been in the valley for generations or are new to the area, the Greater Leavenworth Museum does a fantastic job of sharing our region's unique history and telling the story of how we became known worldwide as a Bavarian village. Winter Conditions Force Cancellation of Critical Blood Drives

Hundreds of units of blood impacted across Red Cross Northwest Region

Submitted by Betsy Robertson

The ongoing effect of winter snow and ice across much of Washington State is forcing the cancellation of mobile blood drives and closure of fixed collection sites in affected areas until conditions improve. Donors are encouraged to check with their local Red Cross office to see if their drive is impacted. "We are losing hundreds of units of blood across the region," says Angel Montes, Blood Services Executive, Red Cross Northwest Region. "Unfortunately, this severe winter weather is coming at an already challenging time of the year to collect blood as many of our blood donors are away for the holidays.'

To help ensure patients continue to have access to lifesaving blood products, the Red Cross urges individuals to schedule an appointment to give blood once weather conditions improve.

Visit RedCrossBlood.org, download the Red Cross Blood Donor App, or call 1-800-Red Cross. The most important gift you can give this holiday season is the gift of life through a blood donation. Every day, the Red Cross must collect approximately 12,500 blood and nearly 3,000 platelet donations for patients, who are currently undergoing medical procedures and treatments, who are alone without the bedside support of loved ones, at about 2,500 hospitals and transfusion nationwide.

How to donate blood download the Simply American Red Blood Donor App, visit RedCrossBlood.org, call 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767) or enable the Blood Donor Skill on any Alexa Echo device to make an appointment or for more information. All blood types are needed to ensure a reliable supply for patients. A blood donor card or driver's license or two other forms of identification are required at check-in. Individuals who are 17 years of age in most states (16 with parental consent where allowed by state law), weigh at least 110 pounds and are in generally good health may be eligible to donate blood. High school students and other donors 18 years of age and younger also have to meet certain height and weight requirements

Blood and platelet donors can save time at their next donation by using RapidPass® to complete their pre-donation reading and health history questionnaire online, on the day of their donation, before arriving at the blood drive. To get started, follow the instructions at RedCrossBlood.org/RapidPass or use the Blood Donor App.

*As a thank-you, all who come to give Dec. 16-Jan. 2 will get a long-sleeved Red Cross Tshirt, while supplies last.

*Washington still requires face masks be worn at all blood drives and donation sites.

Amplify your impact volunteer

Another way to support the lifesaving mission of the Red Cross is to become a volunteer blood donor ambassador at Red Cross blood drives. Blood donor ambassadors help greet, check-in and thank blood donors to ensure they have a positive donation experience.

Volunteers can also serve as transportation specialists, playing a vital role in ensuring lifesaving blood products are delivered to nearby hospitals. For more information and to apply for either position, visit redcross.org/volunteertoday.

Rep. Goehner named ranking Republican on House Local Government Committee

SUBMITTED BY WASHINGTON STATE House Republicans

Rep. Keith Goehner, R-Dryden, will continue to lead Republicans on the Local Government Committee in the state House of Representatives.

Washington State House Republicans recently announced their committee assignments for the upcoming 2023 legislative session.

The House

Government Committee considers issues relating to the operations and financing of counties, cities, and some special purpose districts. It will also look at legislative proposals related to local government open meetings and public records obligations; and the administration of local land use, zoning, building, energy and health codes.

Goehner, a former four-term Chelan County commissioner, feels his experience in local government provides perspective beneficial to local

"I have been, and will continue to be, an advocate for local government. Our local entities provide the most basic and essential services to our constituencies, and it is imperative we work with them at the state level," said Goehner. "I am hopeful the committee could work on affordable housing issues such as the Growth Management Act, zoning, and some of the well-intentioned regulations with poor results that are driving up housing costs."

Goehner will again serve on the House Environment and Energy and Transportation committees.

"The new Twelfth District boundaries provide us an opportunity to work with communities on the east and west side of the Cascade mountains to address critical transportation needs and ensure goods and services are moved efficiently across the mountains," said Goehner. "While transportation funding is reaching a critical juncture, maintenance and preservation needs to be a top priority. However, we must find some common-sense solutions to ensure we are getting much-needed projects in our region."

The 105-day legislative session is scheduled to convene on Jan. 9, 2023.

WENATCHEE SPORTSMEN

Participants snowshoeing on a First Day Hike

CANCELLED - After a twoyear hiatus due to the Covid pandemic, the Wenatchee Valley Sportsmen Show was going to take place at the Town Toyota Center from January 6 -8, 2023, a new date for the show that would have made this the first sportsmen's show of the year in the Pacific Northwest.

Unfortunately, the show has been cancelled. In a statement sent out to exhibitors, event organizer Amy Gustin stated, The last couple of years has definitely impacted the landscape of trade shows. We have found that many vendors are no longer in business, had to change their business model to survive a world without events to sell their products, or have chosen to only do the larger shows. With that being said, we are going to work hard through next year to see if we can get the show back up and

NEW YEAR'S EVENTS AT WASHINGTON STATE PARKS - January 1 is

Plungers can find out if they have what it takes for a short winter (5 minutes max) dip in the mighty Columbia. A $15 donation is recommended. If you go to Lake Wenatchee State Park on New Year's Day you can strap on your snowshoes and join park staff and volunteers for a brisk snowshoe hike around a frosty, snow-covered, winter wonderland. This event takes place between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. Limited space is available

VALLEY SHOW going for January 5-7, 2024.'

The Well Seasoned Whistle By Rhona Baron

Seasons greetings! In our time presenting The Whistle to the Upper Valley, we admit we've served up some spicy observations. It hasn't always been easy to take our elected officials and the workings of City Hall to task, but we believe that thoughtful opinion in the local press is key to a healthy society. That said, today's column is not about what needs correcting as much as it's an opportunity for gratitude and hope.

First, we thank the community for your interest in The Whistle. In our short four months of existence, The Whistle column has been read by almost five thousand people online in the Echo and gone out to seven thousand in print. Even more impressive, over seven thousand people have clicked into our website, some writing us personally.

Sometimes it's hard to hear how many locals feel slighted and ignored, but we said we'd listen and care. And we do! In addition, there has been considerable interest on social media and we've received new supporters on the team as well and good conversations and emails over the course of just four months. Thank you for your interest and trust.

Dec. 27:

Dec. 27:

We also appreciate the City Council members and the mayor for choosing to engage instead of turn away from the thoughtful comments made by members of our team on behalf of the majority of residents.

Reading through comments from Leavenworth's UGA Survey distributed by City Hall in 2022 gives us a sense of hope and community, too. The majority of respondents remarked on how much they value the current "feel" of our beautiful mountain valley, the gift of being surrounded by nature and the warmth of our neighborhoods.

In my own opinion, there of connection amongst residents. I've been watching the unfolding of Leavenworth since 1984 from my vantage point of working in mostly nonprofit and community building capacities. I've seen many a Christmas Lighting season, many a spring flood, many a smoky August, many a gorgeous hill of Balsamroot, many a pine scented hike up the Icicle, many a backyard BBQ and many a songbird returning to the intentional habitat of our back yard.

What I think has changed is the amount pressure from "outside" brought about by what is, again in my opinion,

"over tourism" issues, along with the out-of-control cost of real estate that has completely outpaced living wages in The United States. This potent combo has created a crisis as we look to the future, with no way to go back to say,1986 when I bought my first house for $35,000. Back then, a fixer upper was restored pretty inexpensively with products from Marson's Lumber and twenty and thirty somethings working as river guides or at Steven's Pass could afford to own. My first house, sold long ago and barely improved since,

for the hike, so please call ahead would now be listed at $500,000! I also believe our world has become more complex, meaning that manufacturing a "silver bullet" to solve what to impossible. If I had one hope for the coming year in terms of City Hall, it would be that they step back far enough to see that our community, built of caring, smart people with good ideas, needs complex solutions. Density is not a silver bullet for affordability here. Ridding our neighborhoods of greenery is not a silver bullet that paves the way for "diverse" housing. Allowing unlimited B and B development in neighborhoods is not a silver bullet for helping residents pay their mortgages. The list goes on.

In the year ahead The Whistle Team wishes you all some measure of peace amidst the complexity, a clear head to see the big picture beyond the messy details, and a stout heart to take the journey one measured step at a time, trusting that we are a community. We lack a silver bullet, but we've got each other. And that is enough.

Until then, reach us at LWhistle.com. Find community surveys online in the Echo. Or just keep whistling. We'll hear vou.

Follow these 5 tips to declutter, organize your home in the new year

By Christina Giaquinto

The start of the New Year is always an exciting time filled with resolutions to live healthier and happier for the next 12 months. One surefire way to do that is cleaning up and decluttering your home, as clutter takes up physical space, drains mental energy, and causes a ton of stress and anxiety. Eliminating clutter in each room is an impactful way to make a living space really feel like a calming sanctuary.

If you are struggling to figure out how to best declutter your home in the New Year, do not worry. In my experience as the Professional Organizer and Brand Ambassador of Modular Closets (DIY customizable closet units that organize any space in your home), I have discovered these helpful decluttering tips:

1. Before Starting, Ask Yourself

2 Questions There are two questions to ask yourself: do you have too much stuff or not enough space? If you do not have enough space, there are a few solutions. First, create a new closet system. Oftentimes, our spaces are completely underutilized and simply not designed properly. Many times, we have more space than we think. This does not mean you have to make a huge investment or start an intimidating construction

For example, just by changing your single rod closet to double hanging, you instantly double the space. The most transformative thing you can do to organize when you do not have a lot of space is to redesign the system. Modular Closets is just one highly effective system that is easy to design yourself or with their team and instantly transforms your space! Also, always utilize your walls when you do not have a lot of space — hooks are a great way to organize things such as hats, purses, and necklaces.

If you do not have a lot of space, you have to honor and accept the space you have. You may need to simplify things a bit more and work on practicing the process of letting go of some more of your items. Things are not bad, as they create our environment and add purpose and meaning to our home. However, we have to honor the space we have and allow things into our space that don't create clutter.

2. Turn Decluttering Your Clothes into a Game

Who doesn't love a fun game? If you want to quickly declutter your clothes, turn it into a game by committing yourself to accomplishing the task in one day no matter what. By setting the goal to finish the decluttering process in 24 hours, you will feel energized and inspired to get it done. On a practical level, the best way to ensure you get it done fast is by creating piles and categories. This is going to make it much easier to declutter and decide what you do not want anymore. In my own experience, this is the #1 way to declutter fast.

Another idea is to have a friend or family member help. Decluttering can be emotionally tiring physically and mentally, so it is always great to have support. Your friend may also want to keep some of the items you are looking to give away, so it's a win-win for both of you.

3. Take a Break if You Feel Overwhelmed

If you are feeling stressed out and overwhelmed while decluttering, pause and hit the reset button. Decluttering is both physical and emotional so there may be moments where you feel overwhelmed, and this is completely natural and okay. So first and foremost, please know it is okay to feel that way! If you put too much pressure on yourself to get it all done at once, you can easily burn out and take even longer to declutter your home.

Second, pause and step away for a moment. Sometimes all you need is a breather, a glass of water, and to step away from the clutter. Third, if you find the process overwhelming, set the timer for 15-minute increments so you can work within an allocated amount of time.

4. Avoid These 10 Decluttering Mistakes

If you want to optimize the process of decluttering and cleaning up your home, make sure to avoid these blunders:

1.) You do not have to throw everything away.

2.) Be honest with yourself if you truly need that item.

3.) Do not let the object take over you. You control the object. Always remember that.

4.) Do not start the process until you have categorized it into piles.

5.) Do not declutter with everything still in the space. Empty out everything until the closet/room/space is empty.

6.) Do not throw it all away without seeing if you can donate

7.) Do not keep your clutter to have a garage sale unless you have that garage sale booked in the calendar.

8.) Do not declutter without a goal and intention for your space. 9.) Do not declutter without a snack on hand. It gets tiring.

10.) Do not be so hard on yourself. This process is a lot. The fact that you are working on your space to make it better is truly such an accomplishment.

5. Follow My 8-Minute Rule to Keep Your Home Tidy

Keeping your home neat needs to be an ongoing, daily process, as it will prevent clutter and chaos from forming over time. Luckily, you can easily do this in less than 10 minutes a day. Just set a timer for 8 minutes and spend that time ridding counters of any clutter, picking items off the floor, and putting things where they belong. I like doing this before I go to bed, as it puts my mind at ease and completes my day. However, you can do it at any time that is right for you.

Whatever clutter you can eliminate in 8 minutes is fantastic. Also, this will eventually become a habit that you enjoy doing each day. And when it becomes a part of your daily lifestyle, your space will never get messy and chaotic. Remember, the goal is not to put every single item away (of course, that is awesome if that happens); the objective is to put whatever you can away until the timer goes off after 8 minutes.

To Wrap It All Up

Ridding your home of clutter is an excellent way to live healthier and happier in the New Year, as messiness can cause a lot of stress and anxiety. Optimize the decluttering process by first asking yourself if you have too much stuff or not enough space. Also, turn decluttering your clothes into a game, take a break if vou feel overwhelmed, avoid 10 of the major cleaning mistakes I have seen others make, and follow my 8-minute rule. This will help you keep your home tidy and chaosfree in Year 2023 and beyond.

Gratitude

As we at Cascade Medical look back on 2022, we saw and experienced so much. Challenges, to be sure. Just like you, we found them around every corner. But more than anything, we at Cascade Medical look back on 2022 with gratitude.

Gratitude, for the opportunity to take care of our CM Team.

Internally, we established "Resiliency First Aid" training for our providers and staff, empowering us with tools to take emotional care for ourselves...and for our fellow team members. This training will continue into 2023. We are grateful for our continued financial strength. This ensures our wages are competitive, including proactive wage adjustments to our nursing staff...one of the reasons we have such a low nursing vacancy rate compared to the rest of the state.

Gratitude, for appreciation.

We are appreciative of all our recognition received this year, nationally, regionally, and locally.

- CM nationally recognized as a top 20 Critical Access Hospital for Quality metrics.
- Statewide awards for immunization rates in our community.
- Locally, awards from our Cascade School District recognizing our leadership and partnership in helping to keep your kids safe and healthy while they're busy learning.
- We are thankful for the recognition CEO Diane Blake received in her year of successful leadership of the Washington State Hospital Association.
- Governance Excellence Award was given to CM Hospital Commissioner Bruce Williams for his role with the WSHA. Diane and Bruce's efforts benefitted both CM and hospitals around the state.

Gratitude, for being a better partner in your health.

- Our providers and staff worked tirelessly to address the most significant Covid surge our state had experienced to date (January-March 2022).
- We adjusted our provider coverage in our Emergency Department. This internal shift was a change for the better regarding provider needs and job satisfaction and also further optimized our response to our community's urgent health care needs.
- We focused our Charity Care and improved our insurance navigation services to better help those who need it to cover their cost of care.
- We continue Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion work ensuring we provide affirming care for all in our valley.
- We expanded our Behavioral Health care greatly, resulting in drastically shortened wait time for care.
- In December, we started to roll out our Mobile Clinic on a regular basis, taking care of our communities when they may not be able to physically make it to us.
- Cascade Medical is also proud to announce our newest provider,
 Dr. Lauren Kendall, will be joining us in early 2023.

Yes, even gratitude for finding opportunity through adversity.

Implementation of our new Electronic Medical Record system has not been without challenges, but we are thankful for the massive staff and leadership efforts to get it to where it is today. While work remains to optimize the system, the enhanced functionality of the system is already reaping dividends.

Most importantly, gratitude for you.

We are most grateful for your trust in our ability to provide you care. For your story, your health care journey, and your wish to have CMC walk with you. We are thankful for our passionate, caring, involved community that is invested in our continued success.

Together, we are Cascade Medical. We are partners in your health.

We are grateful.
Thank you.
