

Cascade Medical Board Welcomes two new Commissioners

BY CLINT STRAND

Director of Public Relations

When longtime Cascade Medical Board Member Helen Rayfield made the announcement to step away from her position, the Board of Commissioners faced the challenge of finding a person who could continue the large contributions Rayfield made while on the board.

It turned out the Board didn't find just one well qualified candidate. In Gustavo Montoya and Jessica Kendall, they found two. Choosing between them would have been a difficult challenge, had Board Member Mary Helen Mayhew not decided to move up some plans she had. "I had planned on retiring in the next year or so and had not anticipated leaving at this moment. But, when you find good candidates that would carry on our values and look out for the values of our community, it seemed I could start that process quicker. At the end of the day, I'm glad we have some strong new commissioners, and believe they will bring their best to Cascade Medical." Cascade Medical CEO Diane Blake said she was touched by Mayhew's decision: "Mary Helen's decision to step aside a bit earlier than she'd planned to allow the CM Board to grow in a new direction beautifully illustrates her attributes as a servant leader. She brought tremendous strength, insight, expertise, and collaboration to her many years of service as a commissioner, and I am deeply grateful for both her personally, and her contributions."

So, in short order, one retirement announcement became two. On August 24, Montoya and Kendall were both sworn in as the newest members of the Cascade Medical Board of Commissioners.

According to Board Commissioner Bruce Williams,

Montoya, and Kendall both bring needed attributes and perspective to the group. "When we were recruiting, we looked for individuals who were committed to our community, but also had lived experiences that would help us represent and serve the entire community and provide perspective that current commissioners might not provide. Gustavo has a strong business background, understands the Latino community, and is of a different demographic than our current commissioners. Jessica holds a master's degree in Public Health, whose professional career has focused on increasing access to health care, and also is the parent of a young child. These are all essential voices we need in this room. We are excited to work with and learn from both of them."

Kendall said she hopes to use her career-spanning experience with health and access for the benefit of Cascade Medical and the community it serves: "I think that across the country our health systems, and health care in general, have been in crisis for quite a while. I think Covid exacerbated that, through my professional work I've spent a lot of time working around the country and seeing how things are done. I don't know how to run a hospital, but I do know how to ask questions. I can learn what's actually going on here and I can share lessons learned from other places to lift up the great work that Cascade is doing."

As for Montoya, it's not just about using his voice on the Board, it's about the voices he carries with him. "I think the last 10 years working with the community through the newspaper El Mundo gave me a good connection of who we are in our community, and at times I have found that positions of leadership do not have full representation of all people in the community. So, sometimes positions like this are not always how you get there, it is who you're bringing with you. So, that's part of my contribution - I have quite a bit of knowledge with the Latino community in our area, so I think that area of contribution and the overall vision can be a positive impact to the organization."

Blake said she's thrilled with the makeup of the new board. "Cascade Medical belongs to our whole community. Our organization, and our board, consistently strive to increase access and connections for and to all members of our community. The board's vision to seek out leaders to give voice and perspective to more areas of our community is beautifully carried out by the appointments of Jessica and Gustavo. Both will enhance and carry forward the exceptional work of the CM board. I am excited to work with them in service to the community."

For the moment, both new appointees said they're excited to attack their learning curve. Montoya said, "I'll be in listening mode. I want to learn. If I learn, then I can understand, and if I understand, then I can hope to make a difference." Kendall agreed: "For me, I'm hoping I can listen, learn, and add perspective from a demographic that hasn't been typically engaged or represented in this type of leadership."

Kendall added, "The more we reach the broadest swath of folks, the healthier our community is going to be."

National Preparedness Month

Red Cross urges everyone to get ready now for emergencies

SUBMITTED BY ABBY LUTZ,

Regional Communications Manager
American Red Cross | Northwest
Region

People everywhere are feeling the impacts of climate change with more frequent and intense weather events threatening our communities. September is National Preparedness Month, and the American Red Cross Northwest Region urges everyone to get ready for these emergencies now.

Just last year, more than 40% of Americans, some 130 million people, were living in a county struck by a climate-related disaster, according to analysis from the Washington Post. Disasters can happen anywhere, anytime. You can be ready by visiting redcross.org/prepare.

"More powerful climate driven occurrences are happening across the U.S. than ever before," said Hannah Christen, Regional Preparedness Manager for the American Red Cross Northwest Region. "In fact, there have been more climate-related disasters in the nation over the past two decades than in any other country. It's vital that everyone take steps to be prepared."

Three simple steps can help to keep your family safe during disasters: 1) Get a Kit. 2) Make a Plan. 3) Be Informed.

1. Build your emergency kit with a gallon of water per person, per day, non-perishable food, a flashlight, and a battery-powered radio. Also include a first aid kit, medications, supplies for infants or pets, a multi-purpose tool and personal hygiene items. And don't forget to add copies of important papers, cell phone chargers, blankets, maps of the area and emergency contact information.
2. Plan what to do in case you are separated from your family during an emergency and what to do if you have to evacuate. Make sure to coordinate your plan with your child's school, your work and your community's emergency plans.
3. Stay informed by finding out what emergency situations may occur where you live and go to school, how local officials will contact you during a disaster and how you will get important information, such as evacuation orders.

Include your pets in your emergency plans. Remember, if you and your family need to evacuate, so does your pet. It's important to plan in advance to know which pet-friendly hotels are in your area, and where your pets can stay in an emergency situation.

Take any special considerations into account as part of your emergency planning. Older adults or people with mobility, hearing, learning, or seeing disabilities may need to create a support network of people that can help during an emergency. Create a plan that considers your capabilities, any help you may need and who can provide it, especially if you need to evacuate or if the power goes out for several days.

Red Cross volunteers play critical roles in their local communities by making sure families don't have to face tough times alone. "Be ready to not only help your loved ones, but your neighbors too," said Christen. "Join us as a Disaster Action Team volunteer, learn lifesaving skills by signing up for first aid or CPR classes, or make an appointment to give blood or platelets."

A strong blood supply is key to preparedness for disasters and medical emergencies, and donors can ensure blood is on the shelves the moment it's needed. As a thank-you, all who come to give Sept. 1-18 will get a limited-edition Red Cross T-shirt, while supplies last. Plus, those

Sugarloaf Lookout a Historic Site Deserving Preservation

Marlene Farrell
Correspondent

Sugarloaf Peak is prominent in the skyline northeast of Leavenworth, and it's the site of a fire lookout that is over a hundred years old. Gary Gadwa, who serves as the paid lookout at Sugarloaf, and works alongside his wife and lookout volunteer, Laurii, is a strong advocate for the lookout's usage, maintenance, and preservation.

Gadwa described the lookout's vantage in a Forest Service Facebook blog, saying, "At an elevation of 5814 feet, Sugarloaf Peak offers panoramic views of the Wenatchee River Valley, the Stuart Range, and Glacier Peak to the northwest, and the Entiat Valley and the wheat fields of eastern Washington to the east."

In the first half of the 20th century, fire lookouts were a common sight. The Snoqualmie Fire Lookout Association website explained that there were about 8800 lookouts nationwide and, in Washington alone, there were 656. Over time, the vast majority have been decommissioned and dismantled, leaving 93 in Washington, while only 31 of those are staffed full or parttime for fire detection.

Current fire detection is aided by computer systems that determine the location of lightning strikes and give predictions about probability and location of wildfires, air patrols, and a robust public reporting system. However, lookouts, with their extensive visibility, can often provide critical early detection of fire location and continued monitoring of fire behavior and weather conditions.

"I regularly work five days a week, but it can be seven days a week if requested due to Red Flag Fire conditions," said Gadwa. "We don't leave the Lookout as we prefer to keep it staffed and safe from potential vandalism. We search or scan the Lookout Seen Area at approximately fifteen-minute intervals. Two sets of eyes on the forest are much better than just one person. We plot and scan the areas of lightning."

On August 11th, Gary and Laurii Gadwa were first to spot the current fires north of Lake Wenatchee. "The night of the lightning storm that started the Irvine Fire and the White River Fires, we plotted and observed the strikes that caused those two fires at 2:30am. We were the first to report the two fires as a spot fire and then Irvine as spreading and moving up slope."

"Our Reports go directly to the Wenatchee Dispatch Center. We also call in with important weather or lightning storm information. We are always monitoring the existing fires. We monitor the Wenatchee USFES and the DNR radio frequencies 24/7 and are there for communications if needed."

The specific history of Sugarloaf Fire Lookout began with establishment in 1914. The initial cabin required materials hauled up by muleback, as a road wasn't established until the 30's. The current cabin was built in 1932 by the Civilian Conservation Corps.

"The fact that this is one of the earliest staffed lookouts in the state and such an important location for early forest fire detection in the Wenatchee/Okanagan National Forest means it should be protected and preserved," said Gadwa. "We are very respectful of lookouts and want to see them all maintained for fire detection and not turned into rentals. We have been doing preservation work on the lookout all summer."

The Sugarloaf Lookout suffered a big blow early in the summer due to two incidents of vandalism.

"Sadly, vandals ravaged the site by stripping off the copper cable grounding system, which is very important for lightning protection for the structure and for the safety of the staff," explained Gadwa. "The vandals also stole the Solar Panels, so important to keep communications equipment charged and at the ready. The lock system securing the shutters during winter was also shot up [in a prior vandalism incident]."

"The vandals probably got a couple hundred dollars for the copper cables that they stole. The estimate for repairs is $5000 for materials and $20,000 for labor and travel." Due to potential expense and worker shortage, this repair will likely not happen until sometime in the summer of 2023.

For folk who appreciate the historic and fire safety significance of fire lookouts, Gadwa has an idea—start a "Friends of Sugarloaf Lookout" group. A nearby example is the nonprofit, Snoqualmie Fire Lookouts (www.snoqualmielookouts.org/), which is dedicated to the preservation and upkeep of three lookouts in the Snoqualmie Ranger District. Gadwa mentioned that the public information officers for the Okanogan-Wenatchee District would have more information about how to form a local group.

Plain Cross-Country Skiing practicing hard over the summer

BY: ERIN MULLINS
Reporter

Plain Cross-Country Skiing has been practicing over the summer and head coach Pierre Niess knows that the best way for athletes to find success is for them to become stronger, build their team spirit and work consistently rather than build up individual egos.

"We have some really heavy hitters in the group. We had five or six kids top ten at nationals last year. I don't see any reason why they wouldn't still be up there," Niess said.

Niess wants kids to become self-sufficient as a result of his coaching. Instead of focusing on building up the few superstars, he wants the whole team to thrive.

"I don't want to single out names, per se," he said. "They don't need more one on one praise; they know what they have to do. My hope for the winter is to have a crew that's really excited to go on the road and enjoy being with the team and doing the best they can. And that's a bigger goal for me than just taking care of the few that are already doing really well."

Speaking with a calm demeanor, Niess asserts the need for athletes to have power and become physically stronger. Cross-Country skiing isn't just about being the skinniest anymore, he said, you need to have a good power to weight ratio, balance, and agility. At the Olympic level, skiing events range from a 1km race, which takes pros a few minutes, to a 50km race, which takes pros a few hours, so skiers really need to be "a complete athlete," he said.

Caroline and Isabelle "Izzy" Menna are sisters and avid skiers who are training hard over the summer and looking forward to the upcoming season. Izzy is 16 and Caroline is 14 and the two of them have been training every day.

"A lot of older kids were joining Plain Cross-Country team," Izzy said. "So, we just decided that was a good way to be with kids our age and have a lot of fun."

Plain offers a competitive team for older kids and helps kids of all ages reach different goals, Caroline said. Caroline was invited to the national junior ski camp this summer, an elite skiing camp.

"It was a really great experience to work with different coaches," she said. "One of the U.S. Ski Team Development coaches was there. It was really fun to work with her and all of the coaches. We just did a variety of workouts and activities."

Last cross-country skiing season Caroline competed at junior nationals. It was her first time at the event because it is for those fourteen and older. She competed in the U16 division. Izzy also competed in junior national's last season, and it was her first time competing there.

The sisters said for summer training they do a lot of roller skiing. Roller skiing is a form of cross training where one skates on mini-ski rollerblades on a paved surface. It is the off-snow equivalent of Nordic skiing. Other aerobic training they do includes hiking, biking and running. For strength work, they go to the gym two times a week as well as doing strength with the team. They said they work out a couple hours every day. As they get closer to the season, they do less relaxed cardio and more intervals and sprints.

The Menna sisters as well as the entire teams training is designed by a well-qualified coach. Niess said he was a graduate assistant at University of New Mexico working with the ski team. At the time, the college ski team was "very good" placing third at nationals, but the team has since been shut down due to budget cuts, he said.

Niess finished his masters and was told about the ski team position in Plain and became a Plain ski coach from there. He said that the team has developed so much since he has been coaching and it has been a very dynamic position.

But Niess prefers to talk about his team, instead of focusing on himself. Summer practices are optional and there are two different time options for practice. Despite difference and age ranges from elementary schoolers to eighteen-year-olds, the team tries to practice all together as much as possible, he said.

"We have eleven-year-olds that are very intense that are training with eighteen-year-olds. We have eighteen-year-olds that are recreational. We have kind of everyone training together and we try to make practices work for all of them. We give them enough of a menu to choose something they are interested in," Niess said.

You can find a lot of activities where people of different levels can feed off of each other, like playing games, Niess said. He said there is a lot of value for an eight-year-old to see someone who is very skilled training. For the more experienced teammates, it is good for their training to teach others their skills.

Dedicated athletes, both Menna sisters have high goals this year.

Izzy said her goal for this ski season is to get to junior nationals and to be in the top half of her age group in the national races. She thinks that all the work and training she is doing now will help both her cross country skiing and her cross-country skiing season. Both girls do cross country running competitively in addition to their skiing.

Caroline said her goal for the ski season is to be top ten at junior nationals and be named All-American again in skiing. She would also like to start traveling to big races to gain more racing experience. She thinks her ski training and strength training will help with her cross country running as well.

Long-time Manager becomes CEO & Co-owner at München Haus

SUBMITTED BY KIM EWING

Leavenworth – What started as a Kettle Corn stand over 20 years ago, is now the well-known Bavarian Grill and Beer Garden, München Haus. Focusing on customer experience, München Haus serves authentic bratwursts and sausages, a staple food in Washington's own Bavaria, Leavenworth.

As the popular restaurant has grown over time, its owners have worked to cultivate new management and employee development opportunities within their business operations. Founders Pamela and Oliver Brulotte recently extended leadership of their business operations team to include a Board of Directors, in addition to gifting part ownership to Mia Fehl, a long-time manager responsible for the growth and success at München Haus. This restructuring of leadership and ownership will provide new management roles and deeper community ties while still being a customer-focused local business.

"Oliver & I are extremely excited to share the gift of ownership with our long-time Manager, Mia Fehl. She has exemplified our mission and values, loyalty, and dedication through the years. We look forward to the future of München Haus," co-owner Pamela Brulotte commented.

The Brulottes will continue to be involved in future growth as part of the newly formed Board of Directors focusing on the development of the München Haus team, connecting with the community, and less on day-to-day operations.

About München Haus: München Haus was built in 2001 by Pam and Oliver Brulotte, starting as a modest dwelling that served fresh-popped Kettle Corn. Now, an iconic destination at the heart of Leavenworth, WA, guests can enjoy Bavarian Sausages cooked to perfection over an open grill with over 14 specialty mustards, Haus made sauces, and toppings to garnish; thirst-quenching Haus made lemonade, local wines, German Biers, and fresh, award-winning local craft beers from Icicle Brewing Company. München Haus is a fun, relaxing, Bavarian-influenced outdoor sausage grill, and beer garden. Enjoy a delicious sausage, a warm pretzel, and a refreshment in the family-friendly courtyard, or on the balcony with views of the Cascade Mountains. Prost!

Tips to Get Preschoolers on a Schedule friendly bark at the top of the hour. Kids can even name the doggie, care for it and teach it tricks, or play interactive games featuring their puppy. What's more, the smartwatch helps kids stay on track and learn healthy habits, with important reminders and chimes for brushing teeth, potty time and nap time.

- Create rituals: Keeping sleep schedules consistent can make falling asleep and waking up easier on kids, and little rituals can make these times of the day more comforting. Try singing a wake-up song each morning to get kids moving. At night, make it a daily habit to read a book together.

- Slow down: While routines are essential, it's all too easy to become overly programmed. Be sure every single day includes free, unstructured time where kids can play, imagine and create.

A regular schedule can make for happier kids and a calmer household. Using positive reinforcement and new tech tools, you can help kids enthusiastically take the reins of their own routine.

(StatePoint) Sticking to a daily routine offers endless social, emotional and physical developmental benefits for preschoolers. Here's how to make your schedule stick:

- Sit down for dinner: Weeknights can be hectic, but try to make dinner a set time each evening where you can sit down together. Turning meal time into a family activity offers everyone a chance to connect, bond and share the best parts of their day.
- Try fun tech: Cool tech can help little ones get excited about following a routine while encouraging them to take on new responsibilities and care for themselves. For example, the My First Kidi Smartwatch from VTech, with its easy-to-use touchscreen and variety of digital and analog clockfaces, teaches time-telling skills. But it's more than a watch, it's also a playful "pet pal" that lets out a at their eye level, and consider including little icons for each activity to help young readers make the connection between the words and their meanings.

The Contract

Unveiling the healing power of forgiveness

A novel by local writer William E. Forhan.

Nobel Prize winning author Gabriel García Márquez was quoted as saying, "All human beings have three lives, public, private and secret."

In our modern world of the Internet search engines and DNA testing, keeping our private and secret lives separate is increasingly difficult. Sometimes they can come crashing in on our public lives when we least expect it.

Father Robert McCarthy is a middle-aged priest who is suddenly and unexpectedly confronted with his secret past. How he deals with the revelation of that past with his family, his congregation and the impacts of that secret life is inspirational. How McCarthy discloses the news of his college indiscretion requires him to take everyone involved on a journey of confession. That journey forces him to deal with issues of homosexuality, judgementalism, divorce and pride.

His pastoring skills and the depth of support from his wife help him bring forgiveness and restoration to many broken relationships.

The bonds of three families are ultimately restored through celebrations of life experiences including fishing, holiday gatherings, the discovery of unknown family connections and a wedding.

Bill's Book is available online through Amazon.com, BarnesandNoble.com and Apple iBook. The paperback is $16.99 and the ebook is $8.99. City addresses residents' parking concerns

BY: ERIN MULLINS
Reporter

Christie Voos, communications analyst for the City of Leavenworth, addressed concerns that residents have about parking and the future of the Front Street closure.

On Facebook, many Leavenworth residents have expressed displeasure at both the parking issues downtown. When it comes to parking funds, many are wondering how the funds are being used. There are very specific ways that the parking funds can be used, said Voos.

Voos said that funds received from parking, both from kiosks at parking lots and from the parking meter, are classified as enterprise funds. Enterprise funds are funds in which there is a separate accounting and financial reporting mechanism in which revenues and expenditures are segregated into a fund with financial statements separate from all other governmental activities.

In other words, enterprise funds are used for services that must be self-sustaining and the finances of that service are carefully tracked. For example, water and sewage are enterprise funded activities, Voos said. The fees paid by residents for water and sewage must be enough for the services to cover their expenses.

According to enterprise fund rules, parking funds in Leavenworth could be used for parking-related things like parking enforcement, improvements to parking lots and better meters, Voos said. The state, not the city, determines that parking funds are classified as enterprise funds.

There have been rumors spreading that the meters are privately owned. This simply isn't true, Voos said. The funds from the meters go to the City and are used for parking improvements. The meters were paid for with the parking fund.

Many are wondering why there are parking meters on Front Street when that street is closed to non-delivery vehicles. However, the future of Front Street being closed is undetermined and will be decided by a vote of the city council, Voos said. The street is only set to be closed through the end of the year. The city council will take public input on the issue, take that input into account, and decide whether or not to keep Front Street closed.

Mayor Carl Florea said that he has heard mostly positive feedback from residents regarding the closure of Front Street.

"I have heard mostly just that they love it the way it is right now," Florea said. "They love it closed. All the locals and visitors, I think, are overwhelmingly in favor of it. I also hear a few negative [opinions]."

However, some residents still have concerns over the parking issues or difficulties to those with disabilities that the closure causes. Peshastin resident Spring Miklosh does not think it was a good idea to close Front Street. She said that it is harder for older folks and the handicapped to access Front Street with parking and traffic closed.

"Horrible idea to close Front Street, we don't have enough parking in town as is. We have many angry tourists coming into the store where I work complaining about how bad it is," Miklosh said. "The city should absolutely open the streets back up."

Miklosh said that there are not enough handicapped parking spaces available, especially with Front Street being closed. She said that her husband cannot shop on Front Street because it is too far for him to walk. She has also heard older people and handicapped people complain about the closure as the pay parking lots are too far away for them.

While the Link bus is a good idea, the city needs more parking, Miklosh said. She said it is hard to say whether employees should get free parking near the downtown area as what really needs to be done is build a multi-level parking garage for cars. Workers don't make enough money to pay for parking, she said.

"The city has not handled the parking issues at all. They just made things worse," she said. "Open the town back up and start using the parking meters that the city spent so much money on."

Voos said that building a parking garage could be expensive. While she does not currently know the exact amount a parking garage could cost, she said that it is costly.

"[A parking garage] is a good idea and we have talked about it. Now that we have revenues for parking meters the city could potentially bond against that [for a loan]," she said. "What we don't want to do is put in the wrong place where it messes up traffic or it's not the right place for people to get where they are going. So that is why we want to be very careful before we build a ten, twenty, thirty-million-dollar parking lot."

A Leavenworth resident, "Hailee Stanfield", an employee at a hotel downtown who wished to be anonymous, said that finding parking for her job is a real issue. She said that she was hired on the condition of having a reliable car to drive to work and is expected to drive that car to work, although she lives in town.

Stanfield said that she doesn't understand why she has to drive her car to work and would be willing to take the bus downtown, but only if her employer didn't find out.

"I would use it, personally. If it were an option and my work wouldn't find out, then I would use it," she said.

With the current bus schedule, the bus downtown does not help Stanfield with her work commute, even if her employer were supportive of public transit. Bus routes may be expanded but she said when she was interviewed, a condition of her employment was "reliable transportation."

If her employer found out about her using the bus, Stanfield said there would be repercussions and that her work "definitely would be mad." Stanfield said there needs to be more employee parking. She said that guests at her hotel are sent to park in the free parking rows behind the library, limiting parking even more.

Stanfield said there are so many signs at the Osborn parking lot that she would be too worried to park there. She also doesn't want to park at the DOT parking lot as she said they mark tires and after a certain amount of time cars will be towed if they are parked there for too long. She doesn't know how long cars can park there but said she wouldn't feel safe leaving her car parked there all day while she was at work.

Voos said that the DOT parking lot is now owned by the city. While the school district owns the parking lot adjacent to the district office, the City of Leavenworth owns the property where the old school and playground is.

The dirt parking lot by Barn Beach is full by the time she goes to work, Stanfield said. She thinks that the city should open Front Street back up because it would allow for a lot more parking to open up around businesses. If Front Street were open, she said there would be a lot less issues with traffic flow and parking in general.

Hans Mulders, owner of Obertal Inn, said that he supports Front Street being closed even though parking is "definitely problematic" for his employees. He said the idea that parking should be completely free doesn't make sense as parking is a highly sought commodity in Leavenworth and charging for parking forces turnover.

"I think employees either need to park a little farther away where it doesn't cost anything or take the bus in, which is not very hard from Wenatchee. If you want to drive, you are taking a spot away from someone who was going to spend money in the town. So where do you draw that line?," Mulders said.

While Mulders does not think employees should be able to park in the downtown center for free, he has tried to mitigate the hardships his employees face with transportation and other issues through increased pay.

"[Parking] is a hard question, right? We dealt with it and gave all our employees raises, so our minimum wage is now $17.25 an hour," he said. "And we pay bonuses, so they earn in the neighborhood of twenty bucks an hour at this time of year, plus a significant number of other benefits that they receive. And that was to mitigate the cost of parking a little bit, mitigate the cost of gas. On January 1st we are going to go up to $18.25 an hour."

Many Front Street employees face a transportation dilemma, especially with limited transit times and parking. Local resident Beth Walker said that she used to offer parking for free for downtown workers or charge for others to park on her property but said the city no longer allows that.

Walker said that when the parking meters were put in place her parking operations were shut down and the city said that they were going to fine her $250 if she continued the parking. She complied. She said she can't even have people park for free because only two cars can be parked in her driveway.

Walker said that she has two driveways but still is only allowed two cars because the other driveway does not have a building permit on file with the city. She said that she has epilepsy and was doing the parking part time to make extra money and will not continue parking if it is not allowed. Walker said that she originally called the city to get permission for the parking five years ago.

The municipal code determines how parking regulations are laid out, which determines how parking is enforced, regardless of if the parking is at a parking lot or residence, Voos said.

But with ever-present tourists in Leavenworth, parking will continue to be a major issue, whether or not employees are allowed to park at local residences. With Leavenworth being a top tourist destination, the question remains: Where can I park?

Hawkins' sixth annual 'listening tour' begins in Chelan County

SUBMITTED BY BRIAN ZYLSTRA

OLYMPIA - Sen. Brad Hawkins will soon hold his sixth annual 12th District "listening tour," starting with visits to several Chelan County communities for meetings in mid-September.

"As the state senator for the 12th District, it is very helpful for me to hear directly from constituents, which is why I started conducting annual listening tours," said Hawkins. "After meeting primarily via Zoom the past two years because of the pandemic, I'm pleased to resume in-person meetings for those wishing to meet face to face, although we will also make Zoom or phone meetings available."

This year's listening tour will be split between the traditional areas of the 12th District and the new western areas of the district resulting from the recent redrawing of the state's legislative district boundaries.

Hawkins begins his listening tour on Sept. 13 with stops in Cashmere and Leavenworth, followed by meetings in Wenatchee on Sept. 14-15 before concluding the Chelan County part of the tour with appointments in Chelan on Sept. 16. The meetings will be scheduled approximately 20 minutes apart to accommodate as many groups as possible. The first meeting each day will begin at 8 a.m. and the last will end at 5 p.m.

During past listening tours, meetings included businesses, local governments, and community groups.

All meetings are by appointment. Those interested in meeting with Hawkins should contact his office at brad.hawkins@leg.wa.gov or 360-688-8951. Hawkins' staff will provide the necessary technical details to constituents who prefer to meet via Zoom or by phone.

Hawkins said his annual listening tour allows him to hear ideas and concerns that can be turned into successful legislative action.

"Leavenworth officials told me in 2017 about an issue about disposing of brush and yard clippings and worked with me to enact a new law in 2018 to address it," said Hawkins. "A funding request related to the Saddle Rock trail in Wenatchee became reality when it was included in the state capital budget four years ago, and a road paving project to a popular fishing location in Okanogan County was recently funded. Last year, a Methow Valley biochar demonstration project was funded for forest management purposes along with funding for renovations at the city of Wenatchee's Community Center utilized by Pinnacles Prep School. All of them were ideas discussed with constituents during past listening tours."

As in the past five years, Hawkins has invited legislative staff to join him on this year's tour, including his office staff, communications staff, and issue specialists. "People appreciated us making these resources available to their communities, and it's good for our staff to hear directly from people about the issues of interest in our region," said Hawkins. "If we need to research concerns or begin developing ideas, we are ready to do that."

Link unveils historically themed bus design at New Fair

SUBMITTED BY ERIC WEST

Link Marketing

Second of eight designs inspired by the unique history, geology, people, and stories of North Central Washington debuted on Aug. 27 at the NCW Fair in Waterville, WA.

A public unveiling of the second in a new series of Link Transit vinyl bus wraps was held at 12:30 p.m. on August 27 during the NCW Fair in Waterville. The design, crafted by former Wenatchee resident and artist David C. Hoyt of Pullman, WA, features a series of historically themed vignettes representing Link Transit's service area.

"We serve a region with a rich local history," said Link General Manager Richard DeRock. "This latest design celebrates that history while highlighting the uniqueness of our communities."

Link is working with Hoyt and the team of Mary Big Bull-Lewis and Rob Lewis at R Digital Design in Wenatchee to roll out a series of eight unique bus wrap designs. Unveilings are planned to coincide with community events held in Link Transit's service area.

Additional themes pay tribute to the fruit industry,

Clyde Pangborn's historic transpacific flight, unique geological features and recreational opportunities in North Central Washington.

Link Transit, the public transportation provider for Chelan and Douglas counties, delivers safe, reliable and zero-fare service seven days a week to a 3,500-square-mile service area.

Fishing Round Up

By JOHN KRUSE

SOCKEYE – It has been a banner year for sockeye salmon. Over 663,000 sockeye passed through Bonneville Dam this year, the largest run on record since they started counting salmon there in 1938. Most of them were bound for Canada but a sizable number of them took a left below Rocky Reach Dam and headed to Lake Wenatchee. As of August 23rd, 110,514 sockeye had swam through the fish ladder near Leavenworth, besting the previous record run from 2014 by over 10,000 fish. Biologists believe favorable ocean conditions were the main reason so many sockeye came back this year.

Fishing Reports

COLUMBIA GORGE

– Jaelyn Justesen at Gorge Outfitters Supple says the walleye bite is better than normal for this time of year. They are deep in the Columbia River. The best way to catch them is with a spinner worm harness and bottom walker. Smallmouth bass are definitely biting and they are biting anything bright colored. Salmon are expected soon in the area. Anglers are gearing up with Short Bus 360 Pro Troll flashers and Brad's Super Baits which they are stuffing with tuna. Catch and release sturgeon fishing is going well and squid is the hot bait. www.gorgeoutfittersupply.com

LAKE ROOSEVELT

– Steve Morris with SJM Guide Service says the sturgeon fishing in Lake Roosevelt has been slow and he doesn't see it getting much better before it closes in September. Steve thinks the cold spring and cooler water temperatures have kept many of the fish north of the reservoir in Canada. Having said that, there are sturgeon scattered through Lake Roosevelt, just don't expect big numbers of fish. Steve will be heading to the Hanford Reach starting September 7th to target fall Chinook salmon and is expecting good fishing with this year's run over the 10-year average. www.sjmguideservice.com

LAKE CHELAN

– Joe Heinlen with Lake Chelan Adventures says Chinook salmon fishing on Lake Chelan has been good all summer long and he is averaging 3 take downs a day from these landlocked salmon. Heinlen says numbers are way up and the bite has been very good with the average Chinook weighing 3 to 12 pounds. The lake trout bite has been consistent and clients are boating 8 to 15 fish in a four-hour trip in the lower basin. As for the kokanee, there are only a handful in the lower basin right now. The majority of the kokanee are migrating to the upper basin, staging to spawn in the Stehekin River this fall. www.lakechelanadventures.com

BREWSTER SALMON DERBY

– The Brewster Salmon Derby was a smashing success this year. 250 anglers participated and they weighed in a total of 134 salmon. The average fish weighed just under 30 pounds. As for the King of the Pool? That was the 29.1-pound Chinook salmon caught by Mike Burnam from Yakima who won $2000. The winning Chinook in the Youth Division wasn't far behind, a 26.1-pound salmon reeled in by Katlynn Gibbons from Tonasket. She cashed a check for $550. www.brewstersalmonderby.com

POTHOLES RESERVOIR

– Nathan LaFrance at MarDon Resort says the channel catfish bite turned on in August and in recent days he has weighed in an 18 pounder, a 13 pounder and several catfish close to 10 pounds. Most folks are fishing cut bait at night while others are catching them while targeting walleye or bass. Two good areas are in front of O'Sullivan Dam as well as in front of Frenchman's Wasteway in the reservoir.

There are a couple of events coming up at MarDon Resort worth noting as well. One of them is the "Old Fart's Bass Tournament". Put on by the Banks Lake Bass Club, this one-day tournament launches out of MarDon Resort Saturday, September 17th and at least one person on each boat has to be over 40 years of age. Sign up for this one at www.bankslakebassclub.com.

The other tournament doesn't require a boat. It's the annual MarDon Resort Dock Tournament, happening Friday, September 16th and running through Sunday the 18th. You can fish day or night for up to ten different species off the resort docks in this derby, and the heaviest two fish from each species caught earns a cash prize. This is a popular event that fills up fast so you will want to register soon if you want to participate. www.mardonresort.com

Homeopathic Products

Most consumers assume homeopathic products are "natural" and cannot be harmful, but this is not always true.

Homeopathy comes from the Greek word homoios, which means "similar." Homeopathic physicians believe diseases can be cured by giving a substance that causes similar symptoms in healthy people, just in tiny amounts.

In the late 1700s, the German physician and chemist Samuel Hahnemann developed homeopathy as an alternative to conventional medical remedies. Dr. Hahnemann was appalled by the treatments commonly prescribed in his day, such as repeated bloodletting, attaching leeches, and swallowing large doses of compounds containing lead, mercury, and arsenic.

Instead of using these toxic compounds, Dr. Hahnemann gave his patients minimal doses of one medicine at a time and watched how they reacted before giving them more. His patients often felt better and recovered faster than those treated with blood loss or poisonous metals. Homeopathy was born.

Traditional homeopathic remedies are small dissolvable tablets labeled with their active ingredient and the dilution, which is a number followed by an "x." A "1x" dilution is made by diluting one part of the original solution by adding 9 parts of water. The resulting liquid is dripped onto small sugar tablets.

A "2x" dilution is made by diluting the original solution 2 times, using one-part active ingredient solution to 9 parts water each time. This is repeated many times. Most traditional homeopathic remedies are dilutions of "100x", "1000x", or "10,000x", meaning that there are little to no molecules of active ingredient left in the product.

In the world of traditional homeopathy, the more diluted an agent is, the more effective it is considered to be. I find it hard to believe that medication can be helpful after diluting it 1000 times or more. You are left with only a few molecules in each sugar pill.

The belief that anything so diluted could not be harmful has led to minimal oversight or regulation of homeopathic products by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA).

In fact, according to the National Center for Complementary and Alternative Medicine (NCCAM), which is part of the National Institutes of Health (NIH), there is little scientific evidence to support using homeopathic remedies.

The FDA does not require homeopathic products to prove safety or efficacy. This allows the manufacturers of any homeopathic remedy containing active ingredients listed in the Homeopathic Pharmacopoeia of the United States (HPUS) to skip the expense and oversight otherwise required by the FDA.

One example of this contradiction is Arnica. The FDA classifies Arnica as an unsafe herb when taken by mouth. Under FDA regulations, Arnica is available as an over the counter (OTC) homeopathic remedy for various indications in melt-under-the-tongue tablets.

The FDA has not addressed the lack of regulation of homeopathic remedies because it assumed they were too dilute to cause harm. Although that was probably true of homeopathic agents of 1,000x and 10,000x dilutions, some manufacturers market products as homeopathic with dilutions of 3x or 10x.

That was the case with Zicam®, a nose spray containing zinc. It was initially marketed as a homeopathic cold remedy. However, unlike traditional homeopathic formulas, there was a significant amount of zinc in Zicam®. Soon after its introduction, The FDA started receiving reports of loss of smell after using Zicam®.

In 2009, the FDA issued a warning about Zicam®. It reported evidence of permanent loss of smell in some people with as little as one dose of Zicam®. The FDA eventually forced Zicam's® manufacturer to reduce its zinc concentration.

The FDA investigated when they received reports linking the use of Hyland's Teething Tablets® in infants with seizures, shortness of breath, tremors, and even death. They found highly inconsistent levels of the toxic compound belladonna, suggesting poor manufacturing practices.

Although the FDA has since issued several safety warnings on the dangers of homeopathic teething products, the manufacturer of Hyland's Teething Tablets has continued to sell the product as is. Unfortunately, the FDA has no authority to issue a mandatory recall, despite accumulating over 400 adverse event reports in children associated with Hyland's Teething Tablets®.

To address this, Congresswoman Rosa DeLauro from Connecticut introduced the Recall Unsafe Drugs Act on February 16, 2017. This bill would give the FDA mandatory recall authority over homeopathic products. DeLauro resubmitted it earlier this year as the Recall Unsafe Drugs Act of 2022, and it's now in the House's subcommittee on Health.

Homeopathic remedies can be sold in the United States without proving they are safe or effective. I suggest you avoid homeopathic products entirely or use them cautiously.

City of Leavenworth and City Council Block Party a success

On Thursday, Aug. 25, the city block party was a great time for the community to meet with city council and staff as they cooked up brats and hamburgers with all the fixings and refreshments. On hand were some information tables with illustrations of city projects to view, comment on and discuss, like the Front Street closure, UGA Expansion, and the DOT lot improvements. All and all the weather was perfect, families sat on the lawn, kids enjoyed sitting in the sheriff's car and the fire engine but most were having a jumping good time in the bouncy castle.
