Sheriff's Department trains to be prepared during a school shooting

BY: ERIN MULLINS

Reporter

Last week, active shooter training occurred at Vale Elementary with the Chelan County Sheriff's Department. The training was organized through the Sheriff's department and took place at Vale because the Cashmere School District offered their facilities to the department for training, Sergeant Chris Foreman said.

While there are no current plans for the Sheriff's Department to conduct active shooter training at another school in the near future, the plan is to rotate through training in different schools every year, so the department knows the layout of each school, Foreman said.

The high school had cleaning scheduled the week training was scheduled to occur, so training could not be done there, Foreman said. He said that training at Vale Elementary will help the Sheriff's Department be prepared for an active shooting that happens at any school in their jurisdiction. The last time the Sheriff's Department has done active shooter training at a school was ten years ago, he said.

In the past decade, the Sheriff's Department has done active shooter training, but it was at a house, Foreman said. A challenge for the Sheriff's Department is having access to facilities, he said. While it is best for schools for the Sheriff's Department to train in the summer, that is the department's busiest time of year, and it can be difficult to get everyone together for training while still having enough active patrol.

Across the state, Sheriffs' Departments are mandated to do many types of training, but school shootings are not one of the mandated trainings, Foreman said. He said the Sheriff's Department still thought school active shooting training was important.

The Sheriff's Department ordered shootings, the Chelan County Sheriff's Department will respond to eliminate the threat, he said.

"I think the public has a fear that law enforcement is not going to respond appropriately because they didn't in this instance," Foreman said. "And I think we are sensitive to that and want the public to know that we are coming in and we are going to go in right away to eliminate the threat. If we have an active shooting at a school, mall, business, or place of worship, it doesn't matter the venue, we are going to eliminate the threat."

One mistake during the Uvalde shooting, Foreman said, was that the chief of police was inside the building as a rescuer and so they didn't have anyone to step up and lead operations and set up an incident command, he said. If there is a shooting in Chelan County, the first few officers who get in an area close to the incident but without an immediate threat so that the officers organizing command don't have to worry about being shot at. The Sheriff's Department has not had any issues with communicating via radio when near an incident, he said, and the emergency responders have their own radio frequency they can communicate on.

Foreman said it is difficult to say an exact time that the Sheriff's Department would take to respond to a school shooting. He said a school resource officer could respond right away or other officers could be there in a minute or a few minutes, depending on where they are at.

The Sheriff's Department partners with other agencies during a shooting, he said, like Washington State Patrol, neighboring police departments, and wildlife fish and game officers. Washington State Patrol realizes that if there is an incident, they are going to respond from wherever they are on the highway, Foreman said. Fish and game officers are commissioned and go through the same academy officers do, he said. Anyone that carries a firearm at their job is commissioned and will respond to the incident, he said.

The priority during an active shooting is to stop the killing and neutralize the threat, he said. Once the threat has been neutralized, the priority is to stop the dying and provide medical care and coordinating with fire and EMS to treat the victims as well as to escort people to safety.

Foreman is confident that the Sheriff's Department takes their oath seriously and will do what they can to defend the people.

"Every deputy in the Sheriff's Office has taken the oath to serve and protect the community. A lot of the deputies have children in those schools, and we take that oath seriously and if needed we

988 Suicide and Crisis Lifeline launches

Marks Washington's first phase of building understanding, hope and a path forward for those in need

OLYMPIA - 988 is the new, nationwide, three-digit dialing code for the Suicide and Crisis Lifeline. The 988-dialing code connects people via call, text, or chat, to the existing National Suicide Prevention Lifeline (NSPL) where compassionate, accessible care and support are available for anyone experiencing mental health-related distress. 988 is the newest addition to the state's network of crisis center providers and will not replace any crisis call centers in Washington. The current NSPL number, 1-800-273-TALK (8255), will remain active along with the new 988 dialing code.

"Thanks to the many partner organizations and agencies who have made this resource possible," said Governor Jav Inslee. "In the same way 911 transformed our ability to respond to emergency safety or health situations, 988 will transform our ability to connect people to help in behavioral and mental health crisis situations.'

"Providing an easy-to-remember, three-digit number is an important step to accessing potentially lifesaving support," said Umair A. Shah, MD, MPH, Secretary of Health. "We are dedicated to enhancing and expanding behavioral health crisis response and suicide prevention services for all Washingtonians."

In addition to activating a new dialing code for anyone experiencing suicidal or mental health-related crisis to call, the 988 Suicide and Crisis Lifeline also allows text messaging as part of increasing access to services for youth and individuals with different abilities. People can also dial or text 988 if they are worried about a loved one who may need crisis support. 988 will be available 24/7 and is free and confidential.

Call services will be available in Spanish, along with interpretation services in over 250 languages. Spanish speakers may reach the Spanish Language Line by pressing 2 after dialing 9-8-8 or 1-800-273-TALK (8255). Text and chat services are available in English only.

Veterans and service members may reach the Veterans Crisis Line by pressing 1 after dialing 9-8-8 or 1-800-273-TALK (8255). Soon, Washington will also be able to launch a Native and Strong Lifeline, dedicated to serving Washington's American Indian and Alaska Native individuals.

Washington State Patrol reports that two people died in an accident between a motorcycle and a pickup on July 14 at 10:30 p.m., at Coles Corner. Motorcycle driver Jason A. Rude-Jonason, 42, and passenger Tiffany L. Rutherford, 42, were pronounced dead at the scene of the crash.

The two were southbound on Route 207 on a 2009 Kawasaki ZX 600 motorcycle and collided with the rear of a 1996 Ford F-150 while traveling at a high rate. The two were wearing helmets while on the motorcycle. The two people in the pickup, Julie Sullivan, 48, of Leavenworth and her passenger Christopher Sullivan, were not injured. The roadway was closed a little over an hour after the incident. The accident is under investigation.

July 22

It was determined the water level had receded enough to search the area thoroughly without hazard to the searchers. The swift water rescue team, volunteers, and Chelan County Fire District 9 were able to locate the body around 4 p.m. a mile downstream from where he was last seen. A Sheriff's Department helicopter was used to lift Henninger's body from the river gorge.

Border Crisis Contributed to Botched Response to Uvalde School Massacre: Report

CHARLOTTE CUTHBERTSON

UVALDE, Texas—The school in which 19 children and two teachers were massacred on May 24, had been in lockdown four times in the month prior to the shooting, said Uvalde Mayor Don McLaughlin.

Schools in the whole district had been in lockdown mode 47 times since February due to the border crisis spilling into the city, which is a smuggling corridor from the U.S.–Mexico border to San Antonio, a recent Texas House of Representatives report stated.

Ninety percent of the lockdowns were due to law enforcement chases of suspected smuggling vehicles through Uvalde and subsequent bailouts—where the driver crashes or stops the vehicle and occupants jump out and scatter from law enforcement, the report said.

The sheer increase in bailouts over the past 18 months and the subsequent lockdowns "contributed to a diminished sense of vigilance about responding to security alerts," the Texas House report states.

"The series of bailout-related alerts led teachers and administrators to respond to all alerts with less urgency—when they heard the sound of an alert, many assumed that it was another bailout." We're 30 days from school starting and we're having pursuits come through. We're having bailouts—we had one this morning in Uvalde.

Don McLaughlin, Uvalde mayor

Border Patrol agents apprehend a large group of illegal immigrants near Eagle Pass, Texas, on May 20, 2022.

Kenneth Mueller, director of student services for the Uvalde Consolidated Independent School District (CISD) testified to the committee that parents became so concerned about the number of bailouts occurring near the elementary-school campuses that they offered to hire off-duty police to supplement the Uvalde CISD police presence.

Two months after the deadly massacre at Robb Elementary School, the school district is preparing for the beginning of a new year. But the Texas House review of law enforcement's response to the May 24 shooting revealed a series of alarming failures by first responders. As a result, parents aren't ready to send their kids back to a district they say is unsafe and where security problems remain unremedied. "We're 30 days from school starting and we're having pursuits come through. We're having bailouts—we had one this morning in Uvalde," McLaughlin told The Epoch Times on July 12.

"And what's going to happen when we have a bailout right by school and it has to go into lockdown? How much panic is there going to be? How much trauma is that going to cause these kids? A ton."

Parents of children who were slain in the shooting have told the mayor they're considering homeschooling their other children.

"I said I understand, but I can promise you from the city's standpoint, we will do everything that we can to make sure your kids are safe," McLaughlin said he told concerned parents.

The mayor has requested additional state troopers to be deployed to Uvalde for the first two weeks of the school year.

When asked if he thought some sort of "lockdown fatigue" existed at schools prior to the massacre, McLaughlin said, "I would think there would be, but I can't speak for the school district."

Tom Homan, former acting director of Immigration and Customs Enforcement and Heritage Foundation fellow, said local communities are having to "bear the cost" of the escalating border crisis.

"Mass illegal migration was a contributing factor in the tragedy in Uvalde, and no one has said a word about it. That's simply unacceptable," Homan said in a statement.

The Uvalde district school board is proposing to delay the start of school until after Labor Day, instead of the original date in mid-August.

FBI Opened Inquiry Into NIH Funding of Wuhan Lab, Emails Show

EVA FU

The FBI launched an inquiry into the National Institutes of Health's funding of bat research at the Wuhan Institute of Virology, newly released emails show.

The interest from the top U.S. domestic investigative agency adds to the international scrutiny of the Wuhan facility, which houses one of China's highest-level biosecurity labs and has been considered a possible source of the COVID-19 pandemic. "In preparation for our call on Tuesday, Erik [Stemmy] (cc'd) has provided responses to your initial questions below (also attached)," Ashley Sanders, an investigation officer at the National Institutes of Health's (NIH) division of program integrity, wrote in an email dated May 22, 2020, with the subject "Grant Questions - FBI Inquiry," and directed to FBI agent David Miller.

sought records of communications, contracts, and agreements with the Wuhan Institute of Virology (WIV).

The scope of the inquiry is unclear because the rest of the email correspondence, five pages in total, is entirely redacted. But the name of the email attachment "SF 424 AI110964-06 (received date 11/05/2018)," corresponds to the NIH grant "Understanding the Risk of Bat Coronavirus Emergence."

The project in question is headed by studying CoV diversity in a critical zoonotic reservoir (bats), at sites of high risk for emergence (wildlife markets) in an emerging disease hotspot (China)," according to the project description. Specifically, the researchers would assess the coronavirus spillover potential, develop predictive models of bat coronavirus emergence risk, and use virus infection experiments as well as "reverse genetics" to test the virus's transmis-

The email was obtained by government transparency watchdog Judicial Watch through a Freedom of Information Act lawsuit, which by Peter Daszak of EcoHealth Alliance, which funneled money to the lab in Wuhan. From 2014 to 2019, the New York nonprofit received six yearly grants totaling $3,748,715 from the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases under the NIH to fund the project, which was expected to end in 2026.

The FBI inquiry had focused on at least two of the grants, in 2014 and 2019, respectively, the email subject line suggests.

The 2014 grant aimed to "understand what factors increase the risk of the next CoV emerging in people sion between species.

In the project summary for the 2019 grant, EcoHealth stated that it had found that "bats in southern China harbor an extraordinary diversity of SARSr-CoVs," and some of those viruses can "infect humanized mouse models causing SARS-like illness, and evade available therapies or vaccines."

Recently disclosed documents show that, under one grant, the WIV had conducted an experiment that resulted in a more potent version of a bat coronavirus.

In the project that took place under the fifth grant, from June 2018 to

The P4 laboratory at the Wuhan Institute of Virology in Wuhan, Hubei Province, China, on April 17, 2020.

May 2019, the researchers infected two groups of laboratory mice, one of which with a modified version of a bat coronavirus already existing in nature, and another with the original virus.

Those infected with the modified version became sicker, Lawrence Tabak, at the time a principal deputy director at the NIH, wrote in a letter in response to a congressional inquiry.

The experiment appears to fit the definition of gain-of-function research regardless of its intentions, according to some experts.

The FBI declined to comment to The Epoch Times.

Arizona GOP Offers $50,000 Reward for Evidence of Vote Buying

ALLAN STEIN

The Republican Party of Arizona (RPAZ) will offer up to two $50,000 rewards for information leading to the arrest and conviction of anyone suspected of "vote-buying" in the statewide primary on Aug. 2.

"There is historical precedent of vote-buying fraud, which ultimately led to secret ballot laws. Unfortunately, the movement towards mass mail-in voting completely undoes secret ballot reform," the RPAZ said in a July 20 letter.

"Mail-in ballots are not secret once a person has a ballot in their home, they can easily show it to anyone, including bad actors."

The letter says the act of votebuying happens when someone completes a mail-in ballot in front of a vote-buyer. If the voter then gives the buyer the completed ballot and signed ballot return envelope, the party considers that votebuying.

And it can take many forms including an offer of money, goods, or services in exchange for votes.

Transparency International, a global coalition against corruption, says vote-buying signifies a "systemic lack of political integrity that weakens the trust citizens have in their elected representatives and limits their ability to speak up freely and safely against corruption."

"Election integrity is of paramount importance. We know from the movie '2,000 Mules' by Dinesh D'Souza that there was significant ballot trafficking during the 2020 presidential election.

"We suspect that the primary source of the trafficked ballots was vote-buying," the Republican letter added.

The party specifically desires information or evidence of Arizona state election law violations that lead to a conviction before Dec. 31, 2022. It asks people to contact Vote-BuyingReward@azgop.org. to learn more about, or report, vote-buying.

The RPAZ did not immediately respond to The Epoch Times requesting comment.

Arizona Rep. Mark Finchem, a Republican and a candidate for Arizona secretary of state, said he supports offering rewards that help to ferret out voter fraud in Arizona.

"I fully support the move to offer a reward for the criminal act of buying ballots," Finchem told The Epoch Times. "That behavior is illegal under Arizona Revise Statutes and should be punished.

"Much like many crime tip lines, this is another means for people who want legal, legitimate, and secure elections to help make them so."

Arizona has prosecuted at least nine cases of voter fraud following the 2020 election.

Two Arizona women recently were found guilty of ballot harvesting, a practice once used by both parties to boost voter turnout.

Guillermina Fuentes, 66, the former mayor of San Luis, Arizona, and Alma Juarez, pleaded guilty to felony ballot abuse stemming from an illegal ballot collection operation in the 2020 primary.

Their sentencing will take place on Sept. 1.

A Republican-sponsored bill to make ballot drop boxes illegal failed in Arizona's Senate in May.

Made possible through the National Suicide Hotline Designation Act of 2020, the 988 Suicide and Crisis Lifeline is the first of a series of expansions to NSPL services, and includes House Bill 1477 (E2SHB 1477). Signed by Governor Inslee last year, the bill expands Washington's Behavioral Health Crisis Response System and suicide prevention services and designates the Washington State Department of Health (DOH) and Health Care Authority (HCA) as lead agencies, alongside a new 988 Coordinator position under the Governor's Office. The multi-year phased rollout of changes includes increasing options for youth and adults to receive help while in crisis and strengthening the state's ability to provide in Leavenworth. LVV members will provide the food and beverages, while prospective members are invited to attend as guests, and to bring their singing voices.

The picnic is a great way to enjoy a late summer evening outside and to enable returning members to reconnect before rehearsals start. The greatest benefit, though, is offering an opportunity for people who are considering joining the group to learn more before coming to the first rehearsal for the 2022 season. There will be plenty of good food, some entertainment from the LVV Women's Ensemble, and opportunities to mingle and (of course) sing.

THE LEAVENWORTH ECHO • JULY 27, 2022

February 8, 1923-June 26, 2022

A4

[Nellie] Eunice Heath, age 99, of Leavenworth, WA, went to be with her Lord on June 26, 2022, due to complications from a bad fall June 10.

Eunice was born February 8, 1923, to Robert John Cochran and Lola Miller Cochran in Devol, OK, but they moved shortly to Littlefield, TX. The Dust Bowl and Great Depression forced the family to move to Cypress, California in 1936.

In her Senior year at Anaheim Union High School, Bill Heath, a pastoral student from Bible Institute of Los Angeles (BIOLA) preached in the Cypress church. She said, "He's kind of nice." They were married a year later, September 4, 1942, after she finished a year at BIOLA.

Bill pastored in southern California for a few years. In 1946, after evangelistic meetings in the Sierra Valley in northern California, six new believers urged the Heaths to come start a church. They came and the congregation in Sierraville grew. They first repaired a deserted church. Later when they built a new one, Eunice helped lay the tongue and groove flooring, with bruised fingernails as proof.

In 1956 they returned to southern California, where Eunice's love of people and gift for hospitality and compassion was an amazing addition to Bill's biblical preaching. In 1967 they went as missionaries to the Philippines where again Eunice's gifts of teaching and loving reached hungry hearts. They retired to Leavenworth, WA in the late 1980's. Eunice was active in Cascade Mountain Bible Church and Leavenworth Senior Center. In May 2021 she came to Michigan and lived with her daughter Opal Denk in Byron Center, a suburb of Grand Rapids.

Eunice and Bill were a married 56 years before he passed away in 2001. Eunice was also predeceased by daughter Lola Monroe, son-in-law John Denk and grandson Jeremy Denk. She is survived by Tom Monroe, Opal Denk, Tim Heath (Judy), David Heath (Beth), Elizabeth Hammond (Joe), Jonathan Heath (Tamara), Nancy Pruitt (Corey), 17 grandchildren and 32 great grandchildren.

A service will be held August 6, 2022, at 2:00 p.m. at Cascade Mountain Bible Church, 11025 Chumstick Highway, Leavenworth, WA. All her friends are welcome to attend and stay for dessert afterward.

SUBMITTED BY MAGGIE KAMINOFF

Mobility Coordinator, Link Transit and Cindy Abouammo, Outreach coordinator, Trip Link

We all know there are older adults, people who are ill, persons with disabilities and isolated residents in our rural areas of Chelan and Douglas counties. Many of these folks are in great need of transportation services. Link Transit has been thinking about different ways that service might be provided.

In February of this year, Link's newly funded program, TRIP-Link (Transportation Reimbursement Intercommunity Program), opened its doors. Its mission? To provide volunteer driver services for seniors and persons with disabilities living outside Link Transit's current service area and who have no other transportation option for getting to essential services. It is easy to use, reliable and helps to keep our more rural senior and disabled population from being isolated or homebound. TranCare, an independent nonprofit Medicaid transportation broker, was contracted to administer the new program.

The difference between TRIP-Link and other volunteer driver programs is that the rider is in control of who drives. When approved for service, applicants receive a welcome package and recruit their own volunteer drivers. The qualified applicant may then travel as needed, submit mileage reimbursement requests (based on a "mileage bank"), and receive mileage reimbursement payments which they distribute to their volunteer driver. Riders gain a sense of ownership and a feeling of being part of the success of their program. Meanwhile, the riders also gain access to critical medical appointments and essential services to include more socialization and less isolation.

In 2019 the Link Transit Board of Directors approved a budget to create a pilot volunteer driver program for persons over 65 or disabled, living outside of the current Link Transit service area. The "boundary" area, Chelan and Douglas counties, for Link Transit, totals approximately 4,800 square miles (U.S. Census Bureau). Most of which is rural, very rural! Through community surveys and research one of the largest gaps in transportation services identified was people living in more rural areas who are isolated and vulnerable. There was an obvious need to assist folks needing to get to medical and other essential services from the most outlying areas of our communities. The cost of missed medical appointments and non-essential ER trips alone exceeds millions of dollars a year. Our rural areas lack most any type of transportation service except perhaps a personal vehicle. So the question was, how to serve those people living outside Link Transit services area.

The TRIP (Transportation Reimbursement and Information Project) program in Riverside, CA was the perfect model. TRIP has been determined to be the least costly and most effective way to provide transportation services anywhere. This specific volunteer driver program can be administered as either an independent service or as an addition to a menu of services Link Transit already provides. Most importantly, TRIP in Riverside delivers a high level of client satisfaction. In a recent survey 99.81% of respondents said they would recommend TRIP service to someone that needs assisted transportation. The TRIP volunteer driver transportation method is empowering to riders and drivers, while being both efficient and cost effective.

If you know someone living in rural Chelan or Douglas county or to find out more about TRIP-Link coverage area and services call TranCare at (509) 664-7630. You can also visit their website at www. trancarerides.org or email triplink@trancarerides.org. :

Mosquito Repellants Artists at the Leavenworth Library

Sorting through boxes of my father's family photos last month, I found a postcard I'd sent to my parents the summer I turned 14. It was mailed from Camp Zanika Lache on the south shore of Lake Wenatchee, and it read, "HELP! HELP! Please send mosquito repellent immediately! I'm being eaten ALIVE!" I discovered I had forgotten mosquito repellant my first evening at camp and frantically wrote home for help. Mosquitoes are found all over the world. They cause millions of deaths yearly from illnesses transmitted through their bite. Luckily, there are several effective mosquito repellants available.

Insect repellants work by forming a vapor. This protective vapor may be on your skin, clothing, mosquito netting, or created by sending droplets into the air as a mist. When mosquitoes come in contact with the repellent's vapor, it keeps them from landing on you. Some repellants make you smell offensive to mosquitos, while others work by masking your smell so they cannot find you. One insect repellant works by disorienting mosquitoes so that they can't fly.

If everyone around you smells terrible to a mosquito EXCEPT you, you become a juicy target. Sitting around people wearing insect repellant without wearing any yourself is proven scientifically to increase the number of bites you'll get. I can youch for that!

DEET is considered the gold standard for insect repellants. It was developed for the United States military in 1949 and available to consumers in 1956. Although the concentration in DEET products varies from 5% to 100%, concentrations above 50% may work longer but don't provide more protection.

Products containing 23.8% DEET have been proven completely effective in protecting against mosquito bites for 5 hours. The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) states the maximum concentration of DEET that is approved for use in children is 33%.

Many decades later, DEET is still the most common mosquito repellent. It is found in over 200 products approved by the FDA and is considered very safe if used as directed. For best results, apply it every on synthetic fibers, vinyl, or plastics.

Picardin is a newer insect repellant popular in Australia and Europe. Unlike DEET, it has no odor and is safe on all fabrics, vinyl, and plastic. It is not greasy or sticky and is equally effective to DEET in most situations. One application of 20% picaridin can last up to 8-10 hours. OFF! Family Care® Insect Repellent and Sawyer Fisherman's Formula® both contain picaridin.

Pyrethrins like permethrin are derived from chrysanthemums. Pyrethrins can be toxic if they contact skin for long periods. They are excellent for treating mosquito netting, boots, clothing, and sleeping bags. Permethrin is also used to treat head lice and is found in the nonprescription lice treatment Nix® crème rinse and spray. Both Coleman® Insect Treatment Gear & Clothing Spray and devices that create a mist, like OFF! Clip-On contain pyrethrins.

There is significant interest in developing effective plantbased insect repellants which are easier on the environment than DEET. The most widely used plant-based insect repellants are oil of lemon eucalyptus (OLE) and citronella oil. Repel® Plant-Based Lemon Eucalyptus pump spray contains OLE.

Other natural repellants include clove oil. lavender oil. tea tree oil, catnip oil, geraniol (from lemongrass and lemon eucalyptus), and 2-undecanone (bananas, strawberries, ginger, and other foods). 2-undecanone is also used as a dog and cat repellant.

Plant-based compounds are more pleasant to use, but their effectiveness wanes after only 20 minutes compared with 5 hours with DEET. To sustain the repellent effect of natural compounds, intense research is underway to develop sustained release delivery systems like microemulsions, microcapsules, and nano emulsions. 6 Tips on Using Mosquito

Repellants Safely 1. Avoid inhaling the repellant spray. To apply repellant to your face, spray it on your hands then rub it on, avoiding your eyes and mouth. 2. Separate sunscreen and insect repellant.

Apply sunscreen first, then repellant. Avoid using combination sunscreen and DEET insect repellant products, as sunscreen needs to be reapplied more frequently than DEET.

3. Refresh mosquito repellent at dusk.

Mosquitos are most active between dusk and dawn.

4. Use picaridin on synthetic fabrics and plastic.

DEET is safe on cotton, wool, and nylon but can damage synthetic fibers, vinyl, and plastic. 5.

Renew natural mosquito repellants frequently.

Plant-based repellants lose effectiveness after 20 minutes on your skin. Look for longeracting formulations.

6. For children, use DEET products with 30% or less DEET.

The Zanika Lache camp website recommends packing mosquito repellant with 30% DEET.

Dorothy Ford Johnston

As a child, Dorothy always knew she wanted to be an artist. She drew and painted whenever she got the chance and was chosen to illustrate her high school yearbook. During the 1950s and 60s while raising 3 children, she studied with Greta Aufhauser and later worked for Vanguard Studios in Chatsworth California. She graduated from Humboldt State University in 1987 with a BA in Art. She has resided in Leavenworth since 2012. Dorothy enjoys all art media, much of her work is done in pastel, acrylic, and watercolor. Much of her inspiration comes from plant and animal forms. Now to August. 12.

I have been obsessed with color and all things tropical ever since I was born and mostly raised in Hawaii. Not only was I surrounded by gorgeous flowers, rainbows, sunsets, and the ocean, but my parents were artistic and always provided me with art supplies and creative opportunities. I loved to draw flowers, horses, and glamorous ladies. I have also enjoyed documenting my life through photography, mixed media, collage, and paint. In order to survive these long, gray, Washington winters, I've found that splashing bold, bright colors onto the page is the best way to create my own sunshine and fill my tropical soul. Shon Smith (51) was raised in Cashmere with conservative values, and has become an integral part of the Wenatchee River Valley with businesses in Wenatchee and Leavenworth. Shon, his wife Janeen, and their four children worship at Mid-Valley Baptist Church, and are actively involved with the Cashmere schools.

Shon has a great concern for the ongoing health of the Valley, its resources, its people, and our private property rights. He also has a passion for the success of small businesses because of their great impact on Chelan County.

He graduated from Cashmere High School in 1989, and in 1993 from Northwest Nazarene University with a degree in Business Administration with an emphasis on finance. After college, Shon worked at Idaho Timber in Boise for two years. In 1995, missing the Valley, Shon returned with Janeen and worked for two years at Dovex Fruit Company in Wenatchee. Both work experiences gave Shon a feel for the timber and fruit industries and the impacts they have on our region. Shon then put his personal business plan into action by opening the Wok-About-Grill in Wenatchee (1997) and another in Leavenworth (2014).

Generations of Shon's family have farmed Eastern Washington, hunted and fished the lands and waters of Chelan County, and have treated the land and the environment with respect. So great is their appreciation for our rivers and lakes that Shon hopes these natural resources will be preserved as gifts to be esteemed by all. Some changes are inevitable, but solutions to issues need to ensure that we make an effort to maintain our identity for the future, especially for our families!

dangerously high As temperatures are plaguing the globe, American Humane, the country's national humane first organization, is issuing key tips to help keep your pets safe in the summer heat. Many parts of the United States are facing triple digit temperatures with no let up in sight, while Europe's heat wave is shattering records, causing roads to buckle and train tracks to catch on fire. During these uncertain times, people must not forget about their pets.

"Severe heat is dangerous not just for humans, but for animals as well," said Dr. Robin Ganzert, president and CEO of American Humane. "Dogs and other pets can quickly become dehydrated and overheated in just a matter of minutes while taking a walk or by simply playing outside. During this heat wave, it's imperative that you plan accordingly to protect your entire family pets included. We hope the public will follow these tips from the American Humane Rescue team and keep all their loved ones safe."

To help keep your pets safe in the summer heat, refer to these critical tips from the American Humane Rescue team:

Never leave your pet alone in a vehicle. Leaving a pet in a car for even a short period of time can have a deadly outcome. If you see a distressed dog inside a parked car on a warm day, immediately call your local animal control or law enforcement for help and stay with the animal until help arrives.

Adjust exercise and walking schedules to cooler parts of the day. During hot summer months, even regular exercise can be dangerous for pets, and you may have to switch up your routine for walks to take place in the morning or the evening.

If it's too hot for your hand, it's too hot for their possible.

Amidst the extreme temperatures, countries are also struggling to control devastating wildfires that have displaced thousands of people. Meanwhile, hurricane season is in full swing as well.

"It is our duty to protect not only ourselves, but also those who rely on us most including our pets," said Dr. Ganzert. "In an emergency, every second counts and it's critical that you are prepared to protect your entire family."

Participants at last year's Youth Deer Camp

A mentored deer hunt for kids

BY JOHN KRUSE

A unique opportunity is available for kids between 12 and 16 years of age who have never hunted for big game before but who want to go on their first deer hunt. It's the 2nd annual Chris Christensen Memorial Youth Deer Camp, taking place August 26 through the 28 at the Sherman Creek Wildlife Area near Kettle Falls in Northeast Washington.

The deer camp and hunt are being offered by the Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife in partnership with the First Hunt Foundation, Backcountry Hunters and Anglers, the Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation, the Kalispell Tribe, the Inland Northwest Wildlife Council, the National Wild Turkey Federation and Vaagen Brothers Lumber.

The event is aimed towards boys and girls who have never been exposed to deer hunting and don't have a family member who can teach them about the sport. Camp actually starts the evening of August 25 when participants and their family members set up camp. The following morning at 6 a.m. deer hunting mentors will teach the kids (and their parents) the basics about deer hunting in a series of seminars covering safety, field craft, ethics, how to ask landowners for permission to hunt on their property, recommended hunting gear, hunting tactics, tracking animals, how to properly tag a harvested animal and how to cook it as a delicious meal.

This is also a very handson event. Each teenager will learn the fundamentals of marksmanship and sight in a rifle. And if you don't have a rifle or ammunition don't worry, they will be provided for each teen. After learning the basics and spending some time at the range the hunt begins.

On Friday afternoon and Saturday morning, mentors who are experienced hunters will take each kid out on a doe deer hunt. Once the kid tags out on a doe, the animal will be tested for chronic wasting disease and the mentor will teach the new hunter how to butcher the animal. If the kid doesn't have success on Friday or Saturday, they get to go out again on Sunday for another chance at a doe.

The event is named after Chris Christensen. Rick Brazell, the President of the

A successful mentored youth hunt

First Hunt Foundation, said, "Chris was a manager at the Sherman Creek Wildlife Area and a mentor with the First Hunt Foundation who just spent tons of his life helping kids and youth learn about the outdoors and about hunting."

Christensen served 20 years in the Army and in Vietnam in the Special Forces. After that he worked for 35 years with the Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife. He passed away from cancer in May of 2021 and the deer camp was named in his honor that year.

There is no cost to attend this event for the twelve kids who are selected to go. Food is also free, to include a salmon dinner provided by the Kalispel Tribe. As for accommodations, you can pitch a tent or bring a camper or RV to the state wildlife area. The first twelve kids between 12 and 16 to apply who meet the following criteria will get to go. The criteria to attend is:

- 1. Age 12 16 (must qualify for a youth deer tag) 2. Completed Hunter
- Education prior to the camp
- 3. Purchased a hunting license
- 4. Cannot have successfully hunted any big game

(deer, elk, moose, bear, cougar) prior to the camp 5. Does not have any close family that regularly hunts big game

If you have a teen who wants to participate in this mentored youth deer hunt and deer camp the lengthy link to register at is https://www.eventbrite. com/e/chris-christensenmemorial-deer-hunttickets-381280459117?utmc a m p a i g n = s o c i a l % 2Cemail&utm-content = attendeeshare&utmmedium=discovery&utmsource=strongmail&utm-term =listing&fbclid=IwAR30Fpdi 7FqahuHKw-X3Zl-opRquLR3_ EzN7BnkvLTpQfTTQEiNjHGfBBo

This is a wonderful chance to expose a kid to the world of big game hunting and set him or her up with the basic skills needed to do it on their own in the future. It's also a chance for parents and guardians to learn about this sport. Finally, it's a fantastic way to keep our hunting heritage alive and pass down this sport to a new generation of hunters.
