

City of Leavenworth has two prospective candidates for City Administrator position

By MEGAN SOKOL
Staff Writer

After nearly six months without a city administrator, the City of Leavenworth is finalizing their search for the position. The city will hold a meeting for each candidate on June 13 and 16 at the City Council Chambers within City Hall at 7:30 p.m.

Leavenworth has been without a city administrator since October of 2021, shortly after hiring prior administrator Ana Cortez-Steiner in March of 2020. This was shortly after the mayor released the statement that he would expand his mayoral duties to include the day-to-day operations normally designated for the city administrator.

Back in March, the city held two similar meet and greet sessions for the position of Administrative Services Director, a modified position of the City Administrator position. City of Leavenworth Communications Analyst Christie Voos reports that that hiring process did not result in a hire.

Residents will have a chance to meet Michael Rose on June 13 and Matthew Selby on June 16.

Michael Rose has experience in emergency services, public and municipal service, along with a previous role as the Assistant Manager of Emergency Preparedness at Disneyland and municipal government experience within the City of Dana Point, an area in southern California.

He moved to northern Idaho to be closer to family and help manage the family ranch and just recently took a position as Director of Facilities at the Kitsap Regional Library in 2021.

Rose states that although he enjoys his current position, he is excited by the opportunity to be part of a tourist economy and jump back into municipal government.

Matthew Selby has municipal experience in Ashland and Acton, both within the state of Massachusetts.

Selby served as Director of Community Development and Health in Ashland that focused heavily on renewable energy, and then as Land Use and Economic Development Director in Acton, Mass., working primarily on affordable housing and employment housing opportunities for manufacturing companies.

Recently, Selby began work as an Interim Assistant City Manager for Yakima and hopes to carry over workforce housing opportunities to Leavenworth just as he did with Yakima.

Expect slower commute time through US Hwy. 2 due to rock slope work near Peshastin

By MEGAN SOKOL
Staff Writer

The rock slope located at US-2 at milepost 102.5 near Peshastin will be undergoing a rock slope scaling project starting on June 14, extending time for the daily commute.

Drivers should expect full stop closures on US-2 until July 4 at the latest, but the Washington State Department of Transportation hopes to have the project finished before then. The project was originally scheduled to begin on Monday, June 13, however there was a slight delay in acquiring steel bolts and dowels.

Drivers are advised to prepare for a longer than usual commute to and from Leavenworth. The full stop closures will stop traffic 20 minutes at a time. Each day after 11:30 a.m., a flagger will direct traffic into one lane.

Because of the slope's proximity to the highway, full stop closures will be necessary for the rock scaling component of this project. The contractor will perform rock scaling activities beginning Monday from 6 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. for up to two days.

After the rock scaling project, the contractor will start work on applying rock dowels and shotcrete to the area, which should take up to 11 days. Drivers should expect a one-lane flagger-controlled area and a maximum 20-minute delay from 6 a.m. to 3 p.m.

WSDOT Communications Manager for the North Central Region, Lauren Loebbeck, states that this project was funded through a program that monitors and mitigates rock slopes near highways and that this area requires work due to rapid erosion and increasing rock fall frequency.

CHS Softball Team Enjoys Stellar Season

Marlene Farrell
Correspondent

The Cascade High School (CHS) softball team had one of their best seasons ever, thanks to the collective synergy of the team. The team was League Champion, with a record of 11 wins to 1 loss. Additionally, the team tied two all-time CHS softball records, 24 team home runs, tied with 2012, and 134 team stolen bases, tied with 2013.

"This year's softball team was strong all the way around," said head coach Todd Fraker. "We had very solid pitching with Renee Lambert in the circle and Hanalei Alejo did a fantastic job behind the plate as the catcher. The infield did a great job backing up Renee, with Coco Zehm playing 1st base, Emma Sunitsch anchoring 2nd base, Vanessa West settling in at 3rd base and Giselle Navarro rounding out the infield at shortstop.

"Our outfield showed great improvement throughout the season; Autumn West played center field and was flanked by Emma Warman, who was very solid, in right field and Talia Stein-Trujillo who became a strong fielder by the end of the season."

Senior Renee Lambert, who has been playing softball for eleven years, agreed that the team thrived on how well they worked together. "One thing that is very special about our

Public encouraged to comment on Chelan County's plans for federal COVID recovery dollars

SUBMITTED BY JILL M. FITZSIMMONS

WENATCHEE -- The Board of Chelan County Commissioners seeks input from the public for how it proposes investing $14.8 million in American Rescue Plan Act funding in county government and the community.

To review the county's plans for the federal dollars, go to the county's ARPA webpage at <https://www.co.chelan.wa.us/board-of-commissioners/pages/> american-rescue-plan-act There the community will be able to learn more about the county's plans and federal funding guidelines. The public is also asked to participate in a survey, with comments due by June 24.

ARPA provides local governments resources to meet pandemic response needs and rebuild a stronger, more equitable economy as communities across the country continue to recover from the pandemic. Chelan

County commissioners have proposed four goals when determining how to spend the money:

- Strengthening county services
- Creating healthy communities
- Caring for families
- Supporting small agricultural businesses

Of the $14.8 million the county will receive, commissioners propose spending $10 million to replace revenues that were lost as a result of COVID-19 and invest in programs and infrastructure to better serve Chelan County citizens. The county also proposes investing $4 million into the community via grants to local nonprofits and agencies and small agricultural operations.

The county already has allocated $300,000 in ARPA funding to urgent county projects and $560,000 to the Chelan-Douglas Health District for capital projects and operations.

19th Annual Cascade Golf Classic Aimed for Great Success

By MARLENE FARRELL

Cascade Medical Foundation Administrator

Six hours of fun, $40,000 raised to enhance Cascade Medical's care of our community.

That's what the Marson & Marson Cascade Golf Classic on June 20th is all about. It's the 19th annual, and it's destined to be the best tournament yet.

We're grateful for our close partnership with Kahler Mountain Club, who is hosting the tournament on their beautiful and challenging course and sponsoring the awards. In addition to Marson & Marson Lumber's generous continued role as naming sponsor, we also want to acknowledge our longtime sponsors, Louws Truss, Inc. and Dan's Food Market.

No matter whether you're almost a scratch golfer with a low handicap, or you're a dabbler who's not sure what a handicap is, this tournament has something for you.

"Thanks to the incredible generosity of our many sponsors, we have been able to make some notable enhancements," said Cascade Medical Foundation's golf co-chair, Rich Adamson. "We will be awarding some exciting, high value skill contest and team prizes, and have expanded the team awards to include 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th place for both low gross and low net scores.

"In addition, participants will enjoy both a bagged lunch during the round and a fantastic taco bar dinner after play is complete. Thanks to our hardworking golf committee and volunteers such as Stan Morgan, we have an exciting slate of contest and raffle prizes, and the entire event is extremely well organized. We are excited and ready to greet all our golfers on the 20th!"

Pre-tournament contests will determine the best at putting, chipping and the one who can drive a marshmallow farther than a few feet! On course, your team will enjoy hole-in-one opportunities, various contests, advantage holes and a round-robin (gopher) hole. To whet your whistle mid-game, enjoy tastings from local establishments, Milbrandt Vineyards and Doghaus Brewery, and grab something cold off the drink cart as it whizzes by.

We hope to showcase a small sampling of the many projects that CMF has funded over our thirty years of philanthropy. Look for the brand-new EMS e-bikes and the ambulance run by Lake Wenatchee Fire & Rescue (a close partner with Cascade Medical).

The roster of golf foursomes is filling up, but there might be room for your team.

"This is an opportunity to play an outstanding golf course in a scenic surrounding, while enjoying the camaraderie a tournament of this type offers," said Adamson. "Most importantly, golfer participation allows us to continue the great work of Cascade Medical Foundation, whose mission is 'to enhance and financially support Cascade Medical's ability to deliver quality healthcare to our community.' Thanks in advance to all of our golfers and sponsors for your support and for making this a tournament to remember!"

Contact us if you want to come out for a day on the greens, knowing all proceeds are going to aid important community health needs. More info here: www.cascademedicalfoundation.org/fundraisers/golf

We want to thank all our many sponsors! The success of this fundraiser depends on their support: Marson & Marson Lumber, Cascade Medical Providers, Senior Leaders & Commissioners, Kahler Mountain Club, Louws Truss, Inc., Pinemeadow Golf, Dan's Food Market, Heffernan Retirement Services, Der Sportsman, Quest Diagnostics, Leavenworth Quilt Company, Zarthan Lodge #148, Cascade Autocenter, Armada Corp., Blue Bird, Inc., Cascade Medical Directors, Cascade Medical Foundation, Cashmere Valley Bank, Crunch Pak, Dingus, Zarecor & Assoc., Icicle Creek Center for the Arts, Icicle Ridge Winery, Icicle Village Resort, KJEM/KOHO, Lake Wenatchee Fire & Rescue, Leavenworth Echo/NCW Media Newspapers, Leavenworth Lions Club, Mike West Leavenworth Realty, Mountain Meadows Senior Living, Mountain Springs Lodge, Mount Stuart Physical Therapy, München Haus, Omni Staffing Services, Plain Hardware, Pool to Spa Services, Sulla Vita, Syndicate Smith, The Suites on Main, 37 Cellars,

Festhalle Fountain falls victim to a sudsy prank

By MEGAN SOKOL

Staff Writer

Remnants of an innocent, but incredibly difficult to clean up, prank with unknown suspect(s) poured soap down the drain on June 7 at the Festhalle fountain.

There were two soapy attacks in downtown Leavenworth, besides the one at the Festhalle and the other on 8th Street. Public Works spent the entire morning cleaning up the mess.

City of Leavenworth Communications Analyst Christie Voos reported the event on the city's official Facebook page with the #pleasedon'teventhoughit'soundsfun tagging the post.

"In all seriousness, please don't put dish soap in the fountains," Voos wrote.

The soap culprit(s) are still at large. Allegedly, the soap bubbles smell like Dawn Dish Soap.

Chelan County Sheriff's Office is the first Sheriff's Office in state to host online auction

By MEGAN SOKOL

Staff Writer

The Chelan County Sheriff's Office (CSCO) will be the first Sheriff's Office in the state to utilize an online auction site for foreclosed homes.

The site will be hosted on Bid4Assets and will publish their first auction of the foreclosed home on 2695 Easy Street, Monitor. The CSCO also required a $5,035 deposit to be processed by June 10 with a starting bid of $219,000.

The recent shift to an online platform is a continuation of last year's Wash. State HB 1271 that ensured continued use of online platforms for governing entities.

CSCO Chief Civil Deputy Kim Oglesbee said that this would widen the opportunity to a nationwide pool of bidders outside of Wenatchee.

"We see value in it because it allows our citizens not to have to come into our courthouse and be physically present to be bidding on the property that we're putting up for sale, and then it also eliminates the civil deputy from having to be at the court steps as well, going through that entire process."

Cognizant of the growing housing crisis within Chelan County, Oglesbee states that she can not 100% confirm whether this auction would contribute to that tension.

"Currently, our situation in the housing market is houses are going for a lot more money than what we ever would have expected in our lifetimes, I think around here, but I don't think we could with 100% accuracy, say, 'yeah, that's gonna drive up the price' where there's multiple people being able to make bids, because it's a nationwide application process."

Those interested can learn more about the auction at <https://www.bid4assets.com/mvc/auction/1049479#due-diligence>

Grande Bass at Mexico's Lake El Salto

By JOHN KRUSE

Here in the Pacific Northwest, a six-pound bass is considered the fish of a lifetime by many anglers, but they get much bigger than that and arguably the best place to go to catch a trophy bass is Angler's Inn at Lake El Salto in Mexico. Lake El Salto is a man-made reservoir in the Mexican State of Sinaloa that was dammed in 1990 to provide irrigation and flood control to the surrounding area. Situated in the shadow of the Sierra Madre mountains, the 27,000-acre reservoir was planted with fast growing Florida-strain largemouth bass and tilapia, which are an important forage fish for the bass and provide a commercial harvest for local fishermen.

Billy Chapman Jr. saw the potential for a world class trophy bass fishery in this oasis within the Mexican desert and founded Anglers Inn. The all-inclusive resort sits on the south side of the lake and includes comfortable accommodations, an inviting open-air bar and dining area, along with a small tackle shop and a spa. The resort prides itself on customer service, and it is indeed outstanding. The rooms are kept very clean, daily laundry service is provided, and you are never without a drink in your hand. There were several couples in our group who enjoyed the services at the spa and raved about the excellent massage therapist who works there. As for the food? Incredible! Meals were a mix of Mexican and American fare. One night was Ribeye Steak Night and not only were the steaks cooked to perfection, but they were huge! Breakfast every morning included made to order eggs and omelets along with fresh fruit and the hot lunches were also delicious.

The resort provided a luxurious base camp, but it was the fishing that brought everyone here. I was in a group hosted by Mike Whitlow, the Western Representative for Angler's Inn International. I've gotten to Mike know well over the years through the sportsmen's show circuit. There were some 19 anglers in our group, hailing from Washington, Idaho, Oregon, Texas, New Jersey and even Hawaii. The experience level varied from anglers who seldom fish for bass to others who were experienced tournament anglers. Half of the anglers in our group had been here before, some of them, multiple times.

Every morning after breakfast we would be shuttled in a van to the boat launch where our guides were waiting for us in 18-foot Triton aluminum bass boats powered by 60 HP tiller outboard motors. My guide was Victor Rodriguez, a local resident who told me about growing up here before the reservoir was built. Victor had been working for Anglers Inn International for several years and has had the opportunity to guide several very well-known professional bass anglers to include Denny Brauer, Gerald Swindle, Brandon Palaniuk, Shaw Grigsby and Mike Iaconelli, all drawn to Lake El Salto for the promise of huge (Grande) bass.

Victor was a hard-working and patient guide/instructor who taught me several new tricks when it comes to bass fishing. In the morning we would usually start off fishing with topwater baits, looking for big largemouth bass to explode out of the water to hammer the plugs we were retrieving. After that Victor liked to fish soft plastic worms with a shaky head jig to entice bass to bite near the flooded timber and rocks of the reservoir. Around 11 AM all of the boats would head back to the launch, and we would head back to the resort to enjoy a hot lunch, a cold drink and a siesta before getting back into the boats around 3 PM for another four hours of fishing.

The setting for these daily trips was both pastoral and unique. Cattle, many of them with clanging bells around their necks, would graze along the shoreline and the bird life was amazing. These included falcons called crested caracara, green parakeets, cattle egret, great blue heron, pelicans, magnificent frigatebirds and West Mexican chachalaca, also known as Mexican turkeys. The chachalaca occurred in great numbers in the trees surrounding the lake and the cacophony of their calls echoing across the water was constant in the morning.

Afternoons on the lake were accompanied by a cool breeze which felt nice under the warm sun. We would fish points and flats on the lake with big Texas rigged plastic worms, heavy spinner baits or lipless crankbaits like Berkley War Pigs. The key was finding the schools of bass. If you could do that and trigger them to bite you could be in for some fast action. I was able to do this several times with the Berkley War Pig lure, catching not only smaller two-pound bass, but also several bass between 4 1/2 and six pounds. I also bested my previous personal best bass of 5.4 pounds several times over during this trip. My largest bass? An 8.1 pound largemouth that took a Berkley Bullet topwater popper.

As for the rest of the group? Just about everyone caught bass weighing six pounds or better and six anglers from our group caught bass weighing ten pounds or better to include Larry Fugate Jr. who caught 10-pound, 8-ounce bass as well as the biggest bass caught by the group, a massive 11-pound, 3 ounce largemouth. Larry's wife Mandi was no slouch either. She beat her previous personal best 3 1/2 pound bass with two 9-pound bass.

This is an exceptional opportunity for bass anglers looking to hook into a trophy and have a great time in the process. The Leavenworth Senior Center is excited to reintroduce their Mobile Meals Program along with a luncheon each Wednesday at the center.

The center has partnered with Okanogan Transport and Nutrition with funding from Aging and Adult Care for the meal program. Senior Center cook Deanne Waddle alongside Kathleen Cahill manages the weekly luncheons and posts the menu a week prior to each meal but does not handle the mobile meals program.

The center has also brought back music nights, square-dancing, and Bingo nights.

They are also looking for volunteers who currently possess a food handler's permit or those who can drive meals to seniors. Meals will be $6 each. Those interested should sign up directly at the Leavenworth Senior Center or call the center at 509-548-6666 by Tuesday morning before each meal.

Clarification from Cascade Veterinary Clinic co-owner Dr. Zack Hambleton regarding Apprenticeship Program

It is true that we are unable to be accredited by the AVMA because we are a private business, and not an educational institution. However, the argument from the AVMA is that a licensed tech through our program would not have license transferability is FALSE.

Opponents have provided no evidence to support this claim, nor have opponents provided any data to show that there is an outflux of Washington State LVTs seeking licensure in other states. Actually, many states still accept unstructured on-the-job training as a pathway to sitting for the Veterinary Technician National Exam.

are awarded to students whose families have ties to the tree fruit industry, specifically apples, pears, and cherries. In most instances, the parents of recipients are employed in orchards and warehouses. The WAFF scholarship program has a history of remarkable statistics regarding the retention of students at 87%. Additionally, 84% of our WAFF students graduate within four years or less from college/university, and 78% of the students that we serve are first-generation college/university students. The Beyond the Scholarship Program secures our WAFF students' success through mentoring, workshops, care packages, career exploration, regional events, and continuous follow-up throughout their academic careers.

When Drugs and the Sun Don't Mix

On a bright, sunny morning in mid-July, I was filling up two water bottles from my kitchen sink. I called over to my 6-year-old niece, Crystal, "Don't forget the bread!"

Stashing the full bottles in my backpack, I grabbed my car keys off the kitchen table. As I held open the door to my apartment, Crystal proudly carried her sack of bread pieces out to the car.

15 minutes later, we pulled into the parking lot of a small city park whose best feature was a mid-sized pond with friendly ducks.

The day before, we drove up into the Cascade foothills, dropping off her older sister and my daughter to attend a week at summer camp. My younger brother was coming tonight for dinner and to take my niece home for the week.

For now, it was just Crystal and her Aunt Louise. We had enjoyed a leisurely breakfast of French Toast and eggs, then packed up the leftover bread to take to feed the ducks.

The pond was next to a play area with sand, swings, and a jungle gym. Although there were other kids at the pond, the ducks swam toward us when they saw us tossing bread into the water.

Racing each other, the ducks scooped up or dived down for each small piece. Crystal giggled as one duck stared at her, then nimbly caught the bread she threw to him mid-air.

When we ran out of bread, we headed to the playground. After about 30 minutes, Crystal walked toward me. "Aunt Louise, I feel hot."

When she got closer, I gasped. Crystal's face was a deep tomato red.

Opening a bottle of water from my backpack, I handed it to her to drink. Driving back home, I felt sick.

"How could this have happened?"

The answer was back in my apartment. When my eye caught the prescription bottle of medicine Crystal was taking for a skin infection, I checked the label. Sure enough, a small sticker warned about exposure to the sun!

Exposing our skin to sunshine causes our skin to react by "tanning" or "burning." Sunlight contains ultraviolet radiation; wavelengths called UVA and UVB can trigger a rash, itching, and even sunburn. This exaggerated reaction of your skin to the sun is called photosensitivity.

Regular sunlight has approximately 20 times as much UVA radiation as UVB. Sunburn, skin cancer, and accelerated skin changes such as wrinkles and spots called photo aging are caused primarily by exposure to UVB radiation.

UVB rays are most intense between 10 am and 4 pm. UVB radiation also helps our skin produce Vitamin D.

In contrast, UVA rays trigger photosensitivity reactions in people taking certain medicines, like Crystal.

Thankfully, without further exposure to the sun, Crystal's red cheeks face faded over the few hours. Her medicine had increased her skin's sensitivity to the UVA wavelengths in the sunshine. Wearing sunscreen with UVA protection would have protected her.

The effectiveness of a particular sunscreen is measured by how much protection it gives you against UV radiation, called its SPF, or Sun Protection Factor. The bigger the SPF number, the better the protection. For example, if you apply sunscreen with an SPF of 15 correctly, you could stay out in the sun 15 times as long without burning compared to without it.

Sunscreens come in two main types: chemical and physical. Chemical sunscreens work by absorbing specific wavelengths of UV radiation before they penetrate your skin, while physical sunscreens reflect and scatter UVA and UVB radiation.

4 Tips for Avoiding Sunburn or Sun Sensitivity to Medicines:

1. Cover up.
AVOID tanning beds until you finish your medicine. When outside, wear long sleeves and a hat with a brim at least 4 inches wide, or apply sunscreen with UVA and UVB protection.

2. Choose an SPF of at least 30.

For best protection, reapply sunscreen every 2-3 hours while in the sun. Higher SPFs don't last any longer on your skin than those with lower SPFs.

3. Think ahead.
To be most effective, sunscreens need time to bind to your skin.

Apply sunscreen at least 15 minutes before you expect to be in the sun.

4. Don't skimp.
When applying sunscreen, be generous. The FDA estimates an adult in a swimsuit should use about 4 and 1/2 teaspoonfuls when applying sunscreen to their whole body.

5. Reapply frequently.
Sunscreen should be renewed frequently, especially after swimming, playing in the water, or sweating. And don't forget to reapply sunscreen after drying yourself off with a towel.

CHS Softball Team

CHS team is the bond we all share with one another and the coaches," she said.

"Last year we had the exact same team minus a few of the younger girls that joined this year. We are very close-knit. Coach Fraker has coached most of us since 7th grade, which makes us close with him as well. One important aspect to having a successful team is being able to trust and rely on each other and your coaches, which is exactly what this team had, and I will be forever be thankful for them."

Center fielder and fellow senior, Autumn West, agreed, adding, "When watching a softball game, you see everyone standing alone, and the positioning may seem isolated. However, it is the exact opposite. You have to trust your teammates ultimately because nobody is standing behind Emma Sumitsch to field the ball if she misses; it's just her. Or in my case, there is nobody standing by me in center field; my teammates have to trust that I will get to every ball."

Fraker credits Lambert and West for their leadership of the team. "Autumn West is the vocal leader that gets everyone fired up to play while Renee Lambert is that 'leader by example' and just motivates others to play well to match her level of play."

Lambert, setting nine season and career records, and West, setting one season record, were huge contributors to the team's success. "I'm incredibly proud of the records set by Autumn and Renee as they are tied to those girls' drive and goal-setting," said Fraker.

"To steal 50 bases [prior record 31], Autumn had to work at getting on base more, which she did by becoming a better hitter and working pitch counts to her favor," Fraker said.

"Running bases is my favorite part of the game," said West. "I love getting into pickles—it is one of the only parts of the game where there is face-to-face competition with other players."

"Coach Fraker helped me realize running smart is way faster than just a blind sprint. So, to me, running bases well means capitalizing on the other team's mistakes, understanding the situation of the game at all times, and having courage/trust in your gut. I could not have met this goal if it wasn't for the trust of my coaches and my teammates, and their success at the plate when I was on base."

As for Lambert's hitting records, Fraker said, "She really focused on 'pitch selection' and hitting the pitch she wanted the pitcher to throw. Her single season homerun record [20, with a previous record of 9] is epic; she hit a homerun every 3.75 at bats, which is unheard-of."

"The records that are really impressive are the cumulative records over a career because most of the previous record holders played between 88 and 92 games (other than Truh Merriman who did not get to play her senior year) whereas Autumn and Renee only played 57 games due to Covid-19, missing their entire sophomore season and only playing 13 games as juniors."

"It was very exciting to set some new school records," said Lambert. "I had no idea that I even had a chance to touch any records, so it wasn't anything I was focused on going into the season; it just kinda happened."

"I could not have done it without my coaches and teammates. In order to make the rbi (runs batted in) record [59 for the season, beating the prior record of 43; 115 for career, beating the prior record of 112], I needed teammates on base to hit in, and in order to break the home run record, my coach taught me a new hitting mentality which was finding my pitch to hit and not swinging at the first strike I see."

Lambert's skill is matched by her humility and generosity. When asked about a favorite moment, she turned her attention to her teammates, saying, "My favorite moment of the season was when my teammates Perla, Talia and Emma all hit their first home runs."

"The records were secondary for both Renee and Autumn, the success of the team was primary, and it happened that their individual records directly made the team better, which is worth celebrating," said Fraker. "Renee Lambert had one of the finest seasons in Cascade Softball history. Between her batting average, her power and her production, she may be the best hitter to ever play at Cascade."

In the fall, Lambert and West will both be attending Washington State University, which doesn't have a collegiate softball program, but they hope to try out WSU's rec league.

Enjoying the moment and looking forward, Fraker said, "This was a special team that had a special season, and next year's seniors are a great group of girls."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

Thank you for your Great article updating the Community on the progress of the addition and renovation of Garten Haus Apts. The Pandemic, State Construction & Cement Worker's Strikes, not to mention getting supplies have created so many challenges to this Project. Walker Construction has done an incredible job with these challenges and been very considerate & accommodating to the Resident's needs & concerns whenever we contact them directly. Thank You Walker for being there for us during this challenging time for all. I will be in the second group rehoused temporarily and look forward to Vootbox making the last "hurdle" an easy final chapter to what will be a 2 1/2 year long challenge for all. More importantly, we all look forward to having screens in our new windows & sliding doors allowing us fresh air in without insects or foreign critters or getting our removed air conditioning back to control the Summer Heat. CHEERS to that day when it is here! Have a great day!

Letter to the Editor:

I realize that WorldMark is a major portion of your tax base, but readers need to realize the lack of service to the "owners." I would like the readers to be aware of the lack of services we have received through this organization. In our case, we have been put on hold for hours with no answer over several days. We have also written letters to the company the past three months, and unable to get a response. The time share you may be considering might be more of a detriment than you are told.

Chelan County's Cascade Public Infrastructure Fund grant opens

SUBMITTED BY JILL M. FITZSIMMONS

WENATCHEE -- Chelan County seeks applications for funding from the Cascade Public Infrastructure Fund. The application period is open June 6 through July 15.

Applications will be accepted for public facilities projects, including permanently affordable housing, applied for by local governments, junior taxing districts (Regional Port Authority, PUD, Water and Sewer Districts, for example) or qualifying providers, such as authorities or housing trusts.

The Cascade Public Infrastructure Fund, approved by the Chelan County Board of Commissioners in 2021, is a grant program for public facility projects serving economic development in Chelan County. The grant program does not impose a new tax on Chelan County citizens but is instead funded by existing revenues from the sales-and-use tax for public facilities in rural counties, or the Rural Counties Tax.

New this year, Sen. Brad Hawkins sponsored legislation to expand the use of these funds to include projects that supported permanently affordable housing. The legislation passed and was signed into law in March, allowing Chelan County to consider applications from housing authorities or housing trusts. "The expansion of the definition "public facilities" to include "affordable workforce housing infrastructure or facilities," in Sen. Hawkins' legislation, was prompted by the community's critical housing shortage.

"Inadequate housing stock directly impacts economic development when businesses cannot recruit or retain employees because they cannot afford the housing available in this region," said Sasha Sleiman, Chelan County's interim Economic Development director and Housing Program coordinator.

Between 2021 and 2023, the CPIF plans to invest nearly $2.5 million into economic development projects in Chelan County. In 2021, the Chelan County Board of County Commissioners awarded nearly $740,000 in CPIF funds to six local agencies. The total amount of funding available for 2022 is $823,200.
