people, per protocol, nominated and asked a mature community woman and leader to represent our community as the 56th Royal Lady of the Autumn Leaves.

The committee asked Penelope (Penny) Carpenter Ressler, and she honorably accepted the nomination. Penny then had to choose a past Royal Lady as a companion. 2016 Royal Lady, Carol Forhan accepted and helped guide her along the way, from having her professional pictures taken, picking out material and finding a seamstress to making the traditional festival gown and float dirndl. And then get ready for the Gala, without anyone knowing who she was. Penny was then announced as the 2020 Royal Lady at the March 3, 2020 banquet and gala festivities as 2019 Royal Lady Charlotte Ley finished her year of parades and festivals representing with great honor, our City of Leavenworth. Then as we all know the the communities including our own. So Last fall, a secret committee of three Royal Lady Penny could not participate in any of the Northwest Hosting Associations' Festival parades and festivities that normally happen from early May to September starting with Apple Blossom in Wenatchee, Lilac in Spokane, Hyack Festival, New Westminster, BC, The Rose Parade, Portland, Strawberry Festival Marysville, Capital Lakefair in Olympia, Seattle Seafair and Peach Fest in Penticton B.C. Another local festival we support is Founders' Days in Cashmere.

Neither snow or rain could stop our participation, but COVID -19 DID! Truly Penny was very willing and ready to hit the road to represent Leavenworth and the Upper Valley in all those festivals. But aside, Penny still wanted to let the community know that she truly has the community of Leavenworth spirit to show. She has taken the opportunity to write notes and letters to thank and encourage people, write condolences, this year we and 2012 Royal Lady, Sandy Siegert.

She sent congratulation messages to many people, including the 2020 Cascade High School graduation class. She helped the Leavenworth Senior Center prepare meals to take to those who were shut in. She makes abundant amounts of cookies and treats and brings them to the local sheriff's office and some local businesses. She recently was elected as the President of the Leavenworth Nutcracker Museum. Check out the window at the museum and see how Ms. Arlene Wagner has shown her appreciation to Royal Lady Penny. Penny is also a past president and member of PEO Chapter JF and is the past president and active member of the Leavenworth Rotary Club. This coming weekend would have been Leavenworth's 56th annual parade and festival, but of course this will not happen. Hope to see you next September.

Thank you, Leavenworth for your support of Autumn Leaf Festival Association COVID-19 became a serious threat to all lost 1972 Royal Lady, Frankie Brender and our 2020 Royal Lady Penny!

An Uplifting School Board Meeting on September 14th

BY MARLENE FARRELL

This summer the Cascade School District (CSD) school board, superintendent and school administrators put in extra hours preparing for the beginning of the school year, having to react to evolving public health recommendations about how to safely conduct learning during the COVID-19 pandemic.

The school board meeting on September 14th, in contrast, was relatively short. With the schools' flywheel gaining momentum for three weeks, there were fewer time-sensitive issues to discuss.

During the Policy Review, the board had a brief discussion of the Highly Capable Program, made more robust in the last year.

Superintendent Tracey Beckendorf-Edou clarified that Mike Janski, Icicle River Middle School (IRMS) principal, administers the program, while Tyler Cox, district school psychologist, serves as the coordinator and advisor.

Board member Cindy Puckett praised the improvements, saying, "We should have done this years ago."

When discussing a policy about charge cards, Dwight Remick, executive director of finance and operations, explained there were about ten accounts, including for himself, the superintendent and each building.

The board did a first read on an updated policy about HIV-AIDS prevention education, which hadn't been updated since 2006.

"Similar to our current pandemic, it is and has been important to provide accurate and age-appropriate information about the HIV epidemic," Beckendorf-Edou said.

"Avoiding misinformation helps people keep themselves and their communities safe, and also helps us treat people with dignity and respect."

The policies on both student teachers and administrative internships spurred a brief discussion.

When asked how many administrative interns the district tended to have each year, the answer was about one every year or two.

Currently, Flor Murgui-West is completing an internship under Kenny Renner-Singer at Alpine Lakes Elementary (ALE).

The school board approved the new Public School Employees (PSE) contract for 2020-2023. This contract covers classified staff, including bus drivers, paraprofessionals, food service workers, custodians and some administrative positions. The contract is complex and required input from administrators and PSE co-president Debbie Nelson and vice president Kathryn Praye.

The meeting ended with a number of accolades and other good news.

The Kodiak Cubs preschool was accepted to be a Preschool Inclusionary Demonstration Site, which will allow for the sharing of knowledge with a network of sites overseen by the University of Washington's Haring Center for Inclusive Education.

Inclusion in education refers to a model wherein students with special needs spend most or all of their time with nonspecial needs students.

One feature of the Kodiak Cubs that stood out was the utilization of high schoolers in the preschool classroom.

Student who take the child development course level one and two get to observe and participate, respectively, with the preschoolers on a frequent Beckendorf-Edou shared the news of several recent grants, most having to do with internet connectivity.

"InvestEd helped us purchase the equipment to put in a public Wi-Fi access point at the Dryden Softball Field," she said.

A $5000 grant from the Community Foundation of North Central Washington will go toward hotspots for families who need access. Parent Tracy Bowerman helped the district apply for that grant.

"Upper Valley MEND provided funding, on behalf of the school district, to LocalTel to be able to put internet directly into the homes of fifteen families in need," Beckendorf-Edou continued.

"LocalTel is also providing two months of free internet, technical support and coordination efforts to make this possible."

IRMS librarian Amy Massey

and choir director Mindy Wall applied for a grant with Guitars for Hope.

The district received five ukuleles, one guitar, six cases and some tuners. Board members and the superintendent expressed deep satisfaction with the port. The community is always asking, 'What do we need to do for our students?" said Beckendorf-Edou, who has now lived in Leavenworth for just over one year.

Peshastin Dryden Elementary principal Emily Ross shared a story that highlighted the success.

"Bonnie Phipps, the ESL teacher, reached out to all the families she works with. Every one of them is proud of what is happening, and their kids are learning."

It was noted that not only "I'm impressed with this are teachers working really hard, with new platforms and methodologies, but they are isolated. They are not connecting with students in-person, which is one of the driving factors of why they entered the education sector.

Ideas of how to show teachers gratitude were shared. "The PTO is bringing coffee to all staff in all of the buildings," Ross said.

Parents and students are encouraged to share appreciation through positive expression of gratitude, whether through email or social media. And almost nothing beats a handwritten note from a child to cheer a teacher during these challenging times.

Michael Good, a representative of Guitars for Hope, on the left, stands with seventh grader, Sierra Warnock, and Mindy Wall, the high school and middle school choir director. Warnock's desire to learn the ukulele led Wall and Amy Massey, IRMS librarian to seek donated instruments through a grant program with Guitars for Hope.

Pastor's Corner

here Is God In This Mess?

By JOYCE WILLIAMS

With the corona virus situation, have you looked around and wondered, "What on earth is going on? God, where are You in all of this?"

Well, you are not alone in wondering what is going on when everything seems to be falling apart! I Corinthians 10:11 says that the Old Testament was given to us as admonitions (that means examples with lessons) so we would understand how God deals with people.

Psalm 103:7 tell us that God made known his ways to Moses, His acts to the children of Israel.

Over the years, I have been fascinated by "the ways of God." And I've tried to look at the scriptures with an eye for picking up on the lessons that are hidden in plain sight.

As I was thinking about fear, oppression, injustice, things that don't make sense, I was reminded of what Moses's conversation with God in Exodus 5 and 10. Moses asked Pharaoh to let God's people go. However, Pharaoh chose to punish the Israelites by ordering them to make bricks without straw.

"O Lord, why have you brought trouble upon this people? Is this why you sent me? Ever since I went to Pharaoh to speak in Your name, he has brought trouble upon this people, and You have not rescued Your people at all."

Then the Lord said to Moses, "Now you will see what I will do to Pharaoh..."

And then in Exodus 10, God said to Moses, "I have hardened Pharaoh's heart, and the hearts of his officials, so that I may perform these miraculous signs of mine among them, that you may tell your children and grandchildren... that I am the Lord."

Here we catch an insight into God's methods... Pharaoh had subjugated the Israelites in slavery... and when it came time for deliverance, God didn't just wave a magic wand and make everything better – no, He allowed things to get worse to expose Pharaoh's evil heart and the evil hearts of his officials. And only after that did He bring about justice and deliverance.

I love the statement by the Earl of Warwick in the novel and movie, Black Arrow, written by Robert Louis Stevenson. He said, "It is not enough for justice to be done, justice must be seen to be done." And that is exactly what God did with Pharaoh! And he explained that to

So, when things are bad and seem to be getting worse in the world or in a personal situation, take a good look behind the scenes. Is God uncovering sin, exposing evil? Be alert to "the rest of the story." Vengeance and justice belong to the Lord; so, let's look up - our redemption is getting really close! Even when God doesn't seem to be working, He is working. And just maybe, He is trying to re-direct your life, alter your priorities, or give you wisdom and insight you couldn't acquire any other way.

Start praising Him - His ways are higher than ours – but they are always Put your trust in Him; all His ways are good, and all things work together for the good of those who love Him. And just as a side note, God didn't say all things work together for your "happiness"; God's purpose is not to make you happy - it is to conform you to the image and character of Christ.

If we make that our goal, we will continue to learn and grow, and see God at work, even in the most difficult of

Why bureaucrats hate President Trump

There is a reason bureaucrats hate President Trump. As anyone will tell you, it is a matter of "observing the obvious."

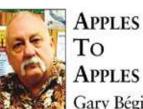

Our President believes in getting things done, not putting it into another person's in-basket. Bureaucrats need a full in, pending and not-somuch out-basket to make sure they have a job.

A full in-basket means job security, self-importance and a modicum of power over others as millions of Americans who are desperately waiting for their case (name your agency) to reach that nirvana of "inboxness" and eventually get to the postal service.

When they finally get their cherished answers, decisions and various information, it is normally accompanied by an appeal form.

This is, of course, the sacred rabbit hole of all bureaucrats and was invented by an evil genius with the understanding that perception is everything in the public relations world.

By providing an appeal form, the "Agency" (yes, that

APPLES
any of them refer

is how many of them refer to themselves in official correspondence) knows that you know they are giving you rights, but don't expect an appeal to go further than the deniers official rubber stamp after you exercise same.

When an issue, person, case, etc., becomes a public relations nightmare, you know what starts descending from the top pencil pusher right on down the line to the poor puke at the denial desk.

When the Agency smells an attorney lurking in the weeds or an elected official interested in justice, something magical happens and Agency officials look to besame the right butt.

Bureaucrats are usually happy to stress out regular guys and gals like thee and thou, but throw in an attorney or politico for funzies and watch the world fly away with hair-on-fire pencil pushers running for the exits of non-accountability and finger pointing.

The apocalypse of the bureaucracy is what President Trump threatens every time he opens his mouth or sends a Tweet. He moved the American embassy in Israel to Jerusalem.

No other American president since Israel's 1948 declaration of independence had the guts to do that. Trump didn't ask for rubber stamped documents.

I hate to say this out loud, but ICYMI, American dynastic families like the Kennedys, Bushes, Rockefellers, etcetera loved that Arab oil money and connections.

Therefore, not too much love for "extreme" or orthodox Israeli views concerning where the Jewish capital really is and should be.

They have a few thousand years of history on their side. Who are we, a wet-behind-theears capitalist democracy trying to appease the murderers from 911.

I don't think our current president is afraid of losing oil revenue or lobby support especially since he is a pro energy company guy who is also bright enough to gather the Jewish electorate and the Christian pro-life vote together by supporting Israel and Israeli goals.

Peace in the Middle East is worthy of giving Trump the Nobel Peace Prize.

In the same vein that Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat showed bold and determined courage by forging peace, so too is Donald Trump.

Sadat was murdered by terrorists within his own army for making the peace that day. Ironically, Menachem Begin was once considered a terrorist for the bombing of the King David Hotel and was on Britain's most wanted list.

Reflect on this: 10 presidents since 1948 relied on being nice to the oil money, the Arabs, when in reality, being nice to Israel was the moral thing to do. They fought more than once for their liberty against overwhelming odds.

The bureaucrats who guided the presidents for 70+ years didn't want to make waves. President Trump broke that mold into many little chards. Now other Arab nations are coming on board Trumps Peace Train.

Listen to the lyrics of the 1972 O'Jays song Love Train:

Tell all the folks in Russia, and China, too

Don't you know that it's time to get on board

And let this train keep on riding, riding on through All of you brothers over in

Africa
Tell all the folks in Egypt, and Israel, too

Please don't miss this train at the station 'Cause if you miss it, I feel

'Cause if you miss it, I feel sorry, sorry for you had to expand our Intensive

Care Unit and Progressive

Diplomatic relations are the best ever. Last week it was the United Arab Emirates, this week Bahrain, joining Israel on the Trump Love Train. More to follow. Peace is coming at last. Trump moved the embassy to its rightful Biblical place and the Arabs are getting used to it.

In 1972 I was working in a sheet metal factory in New York. I had just graduated high school. OPEC had us in a stranglehold economically. Republican Presidents Nixon, Reagan, Bush I and Bush II didn't do what Trump is doing and has done. There is no arguing with the facts.

I am freer now of Arab oil oppression than I was 48 years ago, but Iran is the enemy now. American weakness allowed the Mullahs to seize victory in a vacuum created by Jimmy Carter not backing the Shah.

Radical Muslims need to be rooted out by their fellow Muslims using economic strangle holds to force them to the peace table.

Donald Trump has figured this out. I am certain he will back it up militarily if needs be. Bureaucrats be damned.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Hello, Salmon Fest Friends and Partners!

Hailey and I miss you all!

As we have been working on a fun Virtual Salmon Fest 2020 Video Project these past few weeks, we have been at the Hatchery feeling rather sentimental and thinking of you all. The Hatchery feels like a ghost town and is very quiet right now. Our 30th Anniversary Salmon Fest Celebration, "Salmon of the Future", would have begun for us all tomorrow, September 17th, 2020.

Just think, we would begin our day signing in for our shift at the front gate, checking our radios, greeting buses, training volunteers, putting on many last final touches, setting up chairs at the theatre, lighting the campfire at the Village for salmon baking, straightening up signs, breaking speed limits while driving golf carts, checking on the action of our fish in the giant aquarium, transporting the last of the equipment around the grounds, setting up PA systems, smelling the coffee and Kettle Corn popping in the food booth area, making certain we have enough staffing at each activity, and watching the mascots enthusiastically greet the big yellow buses as they arrive to our parking lost past the incredible uniformed parking attendants in full attention!!

Covid 19 shut us down this year. And, maybe the the intense smoke and hazardous air quality we are living in now would have caused a closure the same anyway...just as we faced years ago on the opening morning of School Days.

We miss you and we thank you and salute you for your years of hard work and dedication to our cause. We have succeeded in teaching high quality natural resource education, promoting healthy outdoor education, and sharing the cultural significance of salmon to the peoples of the Pacific Northwest. And, up to this date, we have hosted more than 210,000 visitors, volunteers, students, and staff to our award-winning event in North Central Washington.

So, now we hope to pick up where we leave off this year to begin making plans for Curren Salmon Fest 2021 next September. Currently, several of us are designing and developing a Virtual Salmon Fest on-line program for teachers and the public. We are excited to share more details with you as we progress. So, please hang on for more information coming in the next couple of weeks!

Take good care and again, we thank you so much!

Corky and Hailey

PS. Please forward this on to other Salmon Fest friends you can think of that we have left off here accidently.

Shame On You...

You have no right... or do you even care about peoples rights? You express your opinions so boldly on social media, at protests, with friends and acquaintances. But those rights must only for you, not for me. I treat your opinion with a certain level of respect. I would never flip off a bunch of supporters of your candidate, but often you do that to us.

How can you feel so much hate for President Trump? And do you even know it is against the law to steal or deface political signs. Oh yes, only one of the signs you stole was on my private property, but the other signs I put up were my property.

I carefully placed my signs. I was careful not to block yours. I have called the sheriff and I have been advised to place cameras out. At this point all I can say is "shame on you". Remember, it is best to do unto others as you would have them to do unto you.

Response to Taking a Critical Look at Covid

By Dr. Pete Rutherford CEO Confluence Health

In your article published in the 9/2/2020 edition of the Cashmere Valley record, you make some good points in that case numbers can be misleading, particularly when comparing results from the United State with other countries. I would like to expand on this, and to add some perspective from our local experience in the health care delivery system.

Without doubt, this pandemic has been extremely difficult for many, if not most of us. One of the most challenging aspects has been the degree of uncertainty and the speed of change in what we know about this virus and its effects. Things that we knew or thought we knew when CO-VID-19 cases first came to our region in early March, have changed as we have become more prepared and as we have learned more from our and international experience. For example, initially we knew there was a shortage of masks, so we needed to conserve masks so that hospitals would have what they need. Now that situation has improved, and we want everyone to wear a mask in public, because we have learned by observation that it appears to significantly reduce the risk of person to person transmission.

It is still difficult to accurately determine the number of cases in our country and in our community. There are several reasons for this, including the fact that many people spread the disease without showing any symptoms, and the fact that testing materials until more recently have not been available to test everyone who should be tested. Because it's not possible to test everybody, the raw numbers tend to underestimate how many people have had the disease. In the future, tests to detect COVID-19 antibodies may be helpful to determine how much of the population has had the infection. For now,

PETE
Medical

however, there have been 6,426 confirmed cases in the Okanogan, Grant, Chelan and Douglas County region, or about 2.5% of the population overall. Results of antibody testing in other regions suggests that that the total number infected here is not more than double that, so we estimate that at most 5% of the North Central Washington residents have been infected This is far less than the number needed to achieve generalized "herd" immunity, which is estimated to be 60-70%. So, there are plenty more of us who could become infected between now and when an effective vaccine is widely available. We also do not know if the immunity is lifelong. It is not for other subtypes of Coronavirus.

We also know that so far, Central Washington Hospital has admitted over 200 patients for treatment of COVID-19, again given an estimated infection rate of 5% of the population over the last 6 months. We have had up to 29 COVID-19 positive patients admitted to the hospital at one time. Our ICU is built out for 20 patients, although we often are limited to caring for less than that number due to the limited availability of ICU trained nurses. There have been so many patients critically ill with COVID-19 requiring ICU care, that we Care Units and to divert well trained and specialized staff from other necessary patient care areas to help care for them. This has occurred at great cost in terms of time, stress and both physical and emotional exhaustion of our nurses, respiratory therapists, medical assistants, laboratory staff, pharmacy staff, and other health care providers and support staff. We are also fortunate to have at Confluence Health two physicians who specialize in Infectious Disease, which enables us to provide the most effective, up-to-date care possible. We are extremely grateful to all these staff for their contributions. However, we are acutely aware and concerned that it is not humanly possible to continue this level of effort for very long. And because this is the case all around this country and the world, it is not feasible simply to hire more people to help us get through this. It is because of these staff members and physicians that the hospitalized patient mortality rate here is only about 10%. Given the severity of the illness of those admitted, I estimate that half of those admitted would not survive without hospital care (no survival of ICU patients without needed ICU care). This would increase the total deaths in the area from the 30 noted in your article to 130. By the end of a time to achieve "herd immunity" at 60% of the population infected, that would be 12 times that or 1,560 people. We have had patients in our region, from various age groups, who have recovered enough to be discharged home from the hospital, but who have continued to require oxygen therapy for months afterward. The long-term consequences of COVID-19 are only beginning to be seen and understood. From a medical economic

From a medical economic perspective, care for patients is modeled based on QA-LYs (Quality Adjusted Life Years). These are defined as the amount that this country has decided it is willing to pay for an additional year of an individual's life. There is debate but the number is at least $100,000 per QALY (many currently accepted treatments for genetic diseases and cancers are significantly above this). If one says that the average age of death of an individual who dies with COVID-19 is 10 years younger than the age of death would have been and 2 Million people die (330 M population X 60% infected before herd immunity is attained X 1% death rate), then the economic modeling suggests $100,000 X 10 years X 2 million people = $2 Trillion just in the deaths, not including the morbidity suffered by those who survive.

Meanwhile, the care of patients with the types of conditions we routinely care for has been affected by the changes required by COVID-19 and there will be an unknown number of deaths from that care delay. In addition, there have been emotional health impacts. Our visitor policy has been severely restricted and this affects many people negatively, but is necessary in order to prevent the spread of COVID-19 within our facilities, which would be unacceptable. We have also had to send critically ill or injured patients to other hospitals because we have been too full, which is a disservice to people from our region who need care.

So, while the numbers are somewhat uncertain and reasonable people may disagree about them, we do know that they are high here. We know that people are suffering, and some are dying, and that they cannot have visitors like they would in normal times. We know that our hospitals have been too full, that our healthcare workers are being overwhelmed, and that this is affecting people with other conditions.

So, what can we do about all of this? Continue to wear a mask when you are in a public place. Take physical distancing recommendations seriously. Do not congregate closely with people, especially for more than a minute or two. Please do these things to protect yourself, but at least do them to protect others around you, and to protect our healthcare and other "essential workers". Also remember that the more quickly and completely we get this under control, the sooner we will be able to do get back to many of the things we miss, such as resumption of schools, religious gatherings, in-person services and social events.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Hello Mr. Forhan,

I appreciate your article "Taking a critical look at Covid statistics". I agree that often the arithmetic stated by the media regarding the virus isn't complete. Often the numbers are generalized instead of comparing "apples to apples". Therefore the news seems more frightening than true percentages would indicate.

In approval of your opinion,

State Awards $18 Million in Grants to Recover Salmon

SUBMITTED BY SUSAN ZEMEK

OLYMPIA – The Salmon Recovery Funding Board today awarded $18 million in grants to organizations around the state to repair rivers, remove barriers blocking fish passage and replant riverbanks in an effort to recover salmon from the brink of extinction.

The grants, given annually, went to 91 projects in 29 of the state's 39 counties.

In addition, the funding board approved Puget Sound projects, requesting $38 million, to be funded from the Puget Sound Acquisition and Restoration Fund, which awaits Legislative approval next year.

"These grants are the lifeblood of our salmon recovery efforts in Washington State," said Gov. Jay Inslee.

"They fund the core of our efforts and attract $37.5 million from other sources. These grants, along with the hard work invested by thousands of people working in our state to save salmon, have gone a long way to slowing the decline of salmon." Salmon on the Brink

As Washington's population grew, its salmon dwindled.

In 1991, the federal government declared the first salmon in the Pacific Northwest as endangered under the Endangered Species Act.

That listing was followed by a flood of additional listings in the late 1990s. By the end of the century, wild salmon had disappeared from about 40 percent of their historic breeding ranges in Washington, Oregon, Idaho and California.

In Washington, the numbers had dwindled so much that salmon and steelhead were listed as threatened or endangered in nearly threefourths of the state.

Today, 17 species of salmon, steelhead and bull trout in Washington have been put on the Endangered Species Act list.

The Legislature created the Salmon Recovery Funding Board in 1999 to determine how best to funnel state and federal funding into recovery projects.

No new species of salmon have been added to the Endangered Species Act since 2007.

Grants were awarded in the following local counties.

Chelan County Projects...... $999,362 Okanogan County Projects..... $856,438

Both the grants approved on Sept. 17, and those awaiting legislative funding will accomplish the following:

•Remove 20 barriers to fish migration
•Open more than 45 miles of habitat to salmon

•Restore more than 217 miles of stream

Restore nearly 292 acres of estuaryConserve nearly 64 miles of stream

"For the past 20 years, the Salmon Recovery Funding Board has been awarding grants for on-the-ground projects around the state," said Phil Rockefeller, board chair.

"These projects are making a difference, not only to salmon, but to the other animals that rely on salmon for food, such as orcas, and to the people that rely on them for their livelihoods. We also appreciate and value salmon as part of our heritage and want to ensure they will survive for future generations."

Commercial and recreational fishing in Washington is estimated to support 16,000 jobs and $540 million in personal income. Recreationally, an estimated $1.5 billion is spent annually on fishing and shellfishing in Washington, supporting many rural families and businesses.

Salmon are a keystone species, upon which many other animals rely. One report documented 138 species of wildlife, everything from whales to flies, that depend on salmon for their food.

Investing in salmon recovery also has economic benefits. Every $1 million spent on forest and watershed restoration generates between 15.7 and 23.8 jobs. About 80 percent of that funding stays in the county where the project is located. Overall, salmon recovery funding since 1999 has resulted in more than $1 billion in economic activity.

"Personally, I can't image a Washington without salmon," said Kaleen Cottingham, director of the Recreation and Conservation Office, which provides support to the funding board. "Without these grants, I think that's what we'd see. I'm grateful that Congress and the state Legislature have continued to fund these important projects."

How Projects are Chosen

Projects are selected by lead entities, which are watershed-based groups that include tribes, local governments, nonprofit organizations and citizens. The projects are based on federally approved, regional salmon recovery plans. Lead entities vet projects through citizen and science committees. The projects then are reviewed by regional organizations and submitted to the Salmon Recovery Funding Board for funding. Regional salmon recovery organizations and the board review each project for cost-effectiveness and to ensure they will benefit salmon.

Substantial Donation Given to Cascade Medical Foundation's Mobile Clinic Campaign

BY MARLENE FARRELL, CMF COORDINATOR

Cascade Medical Foundation (CMF) recently received a wonderful boost for its campaign to raise funds for a mobile clinic to serve the Upper Wenatchee Valley. A generous donation of $25,000 from the Williams Friendship Fund, a legacy fund developed at the bequest of Walter and Marie Williams, will go a long way toward helping CMF reach its goal of $250,000. CMF and Cascade Medical have been conducting a community campaign and are also seeking private and federal grants to cover the mobile clinic startup costs.

The contribution reflects the Williams' values. During their lives, the Williams were deeply touched by connections they made with people from other cultures, most specifically World War II Japanese POWs and their families and Vietnamese refugee families who immigrated to Seattle after the Vietnam War. The purpose of the Williams Friendship Fund, managed by the Seattle Foundation, is "to promote understanding and friendships that cross national boundaries and barriers of foreign languages."

A mobile clinic run by Cascade Medicalembodiesthe spirit of that mission.

There are people in the hospital district facing barriers to healthcare related to cost, transportation, scheduling and language. The latter is a chief obstacle for Latinx residents.

The mobile clinic is one way Cascade Medical can address these gaps in healthcare equity. Fully bilingual staff running the nic care equity. Fully billingual staff running the s of a mobile health clinic

clinic will ensure improved access and understanding for Spanish speaking patients.

Donating to support the mobile clinic is for the greater good. By bringing a large range of healthcare services to residents right where they live and work, the health of our community will improve.

Good health is fundamental to strong communities. If you would also like to donate toward CMF's mobile clinic campaign, please go to the website, www.cascademedicalfoundation.org and push the donate button.

CMF wants to thank the Williams Friendship Fund and also other dedicated supporters to this cause, including lcicle Creek Center for the Arts and musicians Beth Whitney, Eric Link and Eden Moody for partnering with us for a fundraising virtual concert.

Another thank you to The Squirrel Tree Restaurant for hosting a hugely successful all-day Benevolent Event and to the many individual donors who have given toward this mobile clinic campaign.

The Washington Outdoors Report Wild Turkey For Dinner

A young hunter with a wild turkey.

STORY BY JOHN KRUSE

Lost in the opening of so many hunting opportunities this month is the fall turkey season. This offers the chance to not only bag a big bird weighing up to 20 pounds but also the ability to enjoy a lean, high protein, tasty meal with plenty of leftovers.

In Washington State we have three subspecies of turkey. They are the eastern wild turkey found in Western Washington, the Rio Grande subspecies found in Southeastern Washington and the Merriam's turkey which calls the central and northeastern parts of our state home.

The fall turkey season opened on Sept. 1 in the far eastern counties of Washington and runs through the end of the year. Hunters can harvest two beardless and two either sex turkeys for the season (for a total of four birds).

A separate fall season will occur in Klickitat County (Game Management Units 382 and 388) as well as GMU's 568 through 578 (bordering the Columbia River Gorge) from Sept. 26 through Oct. 16 with a one turkey, either sex limit for the season.

A small game license and turkey transport tags are required for fall turkey hunting.

Turkey hunting is gaining in popularity. The National Wild Turkey Federation (NWTF) reports both an increased harvest and a higher number of hunters afield targeting turkey this spring in Washington State.

The Washington Dept. of Fish and Wildlife (WDFW) reports fall turkey harvest was up across Northeast Washington last year over recent years, likely due to increased turkey numbers in this region as well as more liberal bag limits.

Turkey harvest also increased in Klickitat and Skamania Counties. WDFW reports 150 turkeys were taken last fall compared to 94 in 2018.

Asked for advice about hunting fall turkeys, long-time NWTF volunteer Richard Mann suggests calling not the toms, but the hens, especially the dominant boss hen in a flock. If you spot a flock observe which way they are going and try to position yourself in front of them for a shot. Another option is to bust up the flock and then take a covered position where they were at. Then call to them to bring them back.

Annemarie Prince and Ben Turnock, WDFW biologists working in Northeast Washington, says when it comes to finding fall turkeys remember, "During fall and winter, wild turkey priorities are food and roosting areas. Forest edges that offer seeds, nuts, and fruits, as well as some green vegetation, are used the most."

"At this time of year, turkeys are at their highest population and widest distribution within northeastern Washington. As autumn wears on and snowfall comes, the turkeys gradually constrict their range to lower elevations. Where agriculture predominates, a mosaic of short grass fields or cropland and forest is generally the best place to find turkeys."

In the Columbia River Gorge counties your best bets are to hunt below 1500 feet. According to WDFW biologists, The Klickitat and White Salmon river drainages are good places to look for flocks.

The Klickitat Wildlife Area is a good public land bet and the Simcoe Mountains north and west of Goldendale also offer opportunities. Most of this area is owned by private timber companies so you'll have to secure permission or a permit to hunt here and on other private lands.

As for cooking that wild turkey you harvest this fall? Hank Shaw, author of the wild game cookbook, "Pheasant, Quail, Cottontail" has some good advice:

1. That old tom will have tough meat, consider shooting a hen or jake instead.

2. If you shoot a hen or a jake you can cook it just like
