

Reopening Stakeholders' Meeting Confirmed Remote Start for Schools

BY MARLENE FARRELL

Cascade School District Superintendent Tracey Beckendorf-Edou opened the final session of the Reopening Stakeholders' meetings with tough news.

She had received the verbal message from the Chelan Douglas Health District that schools in Chelan County will not be permitted to open in-person on August 26 for health safety reasons.

The preferred number of new positive COVID-19 cases out of 100,000 people is 25 for the last fourteen days. A recent count for Chelan County hit 481.9.

This Stakeholders' group, made up of teachers, classified staff, administrators, parents, students and community members, has been working for the last few months on how to reopen safely. That planning, while still invaluable, is put on hold.

"Our assumptions haven't worked out. In the early summer, cases were going down, which made us hopeful," said Beckendorf-Edou.

The new plan is for the district to follow four stages of reopening, which differ from Washington State's four phases.

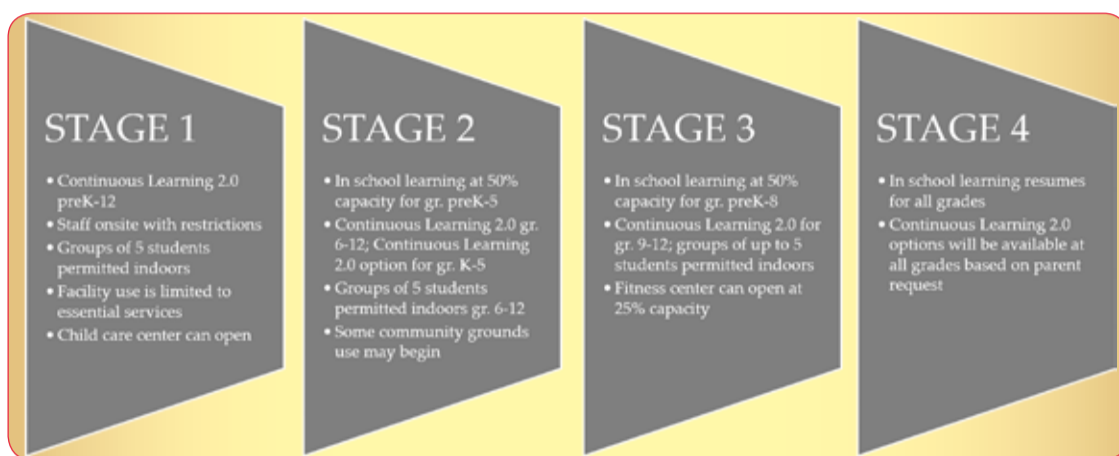

Fully remote education, called "Continuous Learning 2.0," defines Stage 1.

Some of the 2.0 improvements over the first round of continuous learning in the spring include staff working on site, and groups of five students permitted inside schools, with preference going to high needs, English language learners or those without working Wi-Fi.

Additionally, teachers will check in with each student every day and grading will resume.

Child care at Alpine Lakes Elementary through a partnership with YMCA will be open.

The exact metrics will be coming soon, but likely once the new positive rate is between 25 and 75, elementary children will return in Stage 2, at 50% capacity.

A possible scenario will follow an A/B schedule, in which an A cohort of about eleven students (half a typical class) will be in a classroom on Monday and Tuesday, and a B cohort will be there on Thursday and Friday, with Wednesdays reserved for sanitation.

In Stage 3, likely when the new positive rate hits 25, students pre-K to 8th grade will be back at 50 percent capacity.

At the middle school, teachers usually interact with the whole grade level.

For safety sake, there will be blocking and students will have two, instead of four teachers. Teachers will teach two subjects each, math/science or ELA/social studies.

High school students will return to school only in Stage 4, possibly when the new positive rate hits 10, for a few reasons.

Teenagers are similar to adults in terms of infection transmission, and high schoolers cannot stay in small cohorts because each student has a unique academic schedule.

Concurrently, parents still have other options, including

Home Link, which will also hold classes virtually at first, and the new Kodiak Virtual Academy, which requires a semester or year commitment.

A parent's concern about new students meeting their teachers was met with confirmation that in-person orientations in small groups would occur.

Beckendorf-Edou responded to a second worry about the disparity in learning created by some families having two working parents and the child being unable to self-direct.

She said she recognized the imperfection of the situation, but hoped parents would utilize the YMCA child care option, which can grow with demand and can be very affordable with financial assistance available.

The superintendent explained a few other key elements to Continuous Learning 2.0, which should reassure parents.

She stressed there will be consistency across the board, in communication, platforms used and grading expectations.

In addition to teachers communicating with students every day, the counselors will be calling families to check in, there will be office hours for students as well as for parents, teaching tips for parents and online opportunities for students in clubs and parent groups to interact.

Further discussion about Wi-Fi hotspots included a reminder that the thirteen purchased and used last spring made a huge difference for students' academic participation.

Beckendorf-Edou mentioned that the state will hopefully provide grant funding for more.

Parent Annie Schmidt is helping launch a sewing initiative to create 1300 cloth masks so every district student has one.

Materials were purchased and crafty community members enlisted to make batches of fifty. More masks will also be needed to have spares in the classrooms.

Alpine Lakes Elementary Principal Kenny Renner-Singer urged parents to call and email administrators.

He said he was speaking with about five parents each day to answer questions.

The superintendent responded to parental concern over how family choices will affect the district.

Beckendorf-Edou said she hoped families would stick with the district with Continuous Learning 2.0. "Be with us, and work with us," she said.

Thermometers for Every Cascade School District Family

BY MARLENE FARRELL

As stakeholders wrestled with the many logistical challenges of reopening schools sometime soon, it became apparent that thermometers would be needed.

Lots of thermometers – so each student's home has one.

School board member Cyndi Garza partnered with Kaylin Bettinger, Executive Director of Upper Valley MEND, Sam Jerome, Cascade Medical RN in charge of Employee Health, and Marlene Farrell, Coordinator for Cascade Medical Foundation (CMF), to make it happen.

Garza and Jerome found an inexpensive source for 1000 thermometers at only $3 each.

Farrell and CMF applied for a grant to cover a large portion of the expense.

Bettinger and UV MEND are hosting a public campaign to raise the remaining funds. Anyone who would like to donate can go to their webpage and find the donation link: www.uvmend.org.

This special fundraiser lasts for only two weeks because the thermometers, along with health safety information, soap, dental hygiene supplies and cloth masks, will be distributed to CSD families by the end of August.

If more financial support comes in than is needed for thermometers, the extra funds will be put to good use, likely to help cover hotspots for students who do not have Wi-Fi access at home.

Campfire Restrictions, Fire Precaution Levels, in Eastern Washington

OLYMPIA – Due to the extremely dry, hot weather, the Washington State Department of Natural Resources (DNR) announced today the following changes in campfire restrictions on DNR-protected lands.

Effective Friday, July 31, 2020:

- Campfires in campgrounds are not allowed in Foothills, Kaniksu, and Upper Basin Fire Danger Rating Areas.
- Fire danger will increase from very high to extreme in the Valley Fire Danger Rating Area.
- Fire danger will increase from high to very high in the Chelan and Upper Basin Fire Danger Rating Areas.
- Fire danger will increase from moderate to high in the Kaniksu Fire Danger Rating Area.
- Fire danger rating remains very high in the Lower Basin and Methow Fire Danger Rating Areas

Burn restrictions remain in place for the following:

- Small debris disposal fires (rule burning) are not allowed in Chelan, Foothills, Highlands, Kaniksu, Lower Basin, Lower Yakima, Methow, Upper Basin, Upper Yakima, and Valley Fire Danger Rating Areas.
- No burning allowed (written burn permits issued by DNR are suspended) in Chelan, Foothills, Highlands, Kaniksu, Lower Basin, Lower Yakima, Methow, Upper Basin, Upper Yakima, and Valley Fire Danger Rating Areas.

Campfires may be allowed in designated campgrounds. Always check with local campground hosts before lighting a campfire.

Daily updates on burn restrictions are available at 1-800-323-BURN (2876) or on the burn portal map at <https://burnportal.dnr.wa.gov/> and IFPL map at <http://www.dnr.wa.gov/ifpl>.

Lake Wenatchee Sockeye

STORY BY JOHN KRUSE

Anticipation is running strong for the Lake Wenatchee sockeye season opening August 3rd.

This season is never a sure thing, always dependent on the number of salmon returning up the Wenatchee River to this wood-lined lake in the Central Cascades and there have not been enough salmon returning for a season to take place for several years.

That changed this year with a strong run of sockeye coming up the Columbia River, about 11 percent better than the ten-year average.

Travis Maitland, a biologist with the Washington Dept. of Fish and Wildlife, says an estimated 35,000 sockeye are coming to the lake this summer, far surpassing the 23,000 salmon required to meet spawning escapement goals for this species.

Because of this surplus we get a season running until September 7 with a four fish daily limit.

There are a few things you should know about the Lake Wenatchee sockeye fishery.

First off, you won't be catching any sockeye out of this lake from shore, this is a boat show and unless you own property on the lake (or know someone who does) you've only got two options about where to launch.

The main launch site is at Lake Wenatchee State Park (Discover Pass required) and boats start lining up to launch when the fishing is hot as early as 3a.m.

There is a good launch here but it is crowded and this year, with Covid-19 restrictions at Lake Wenatchee State Park, that may pose a problem.

Because of overcrowding, staff have been closing all entrance into the day use area of the park (by vehicle or foot) once the day use parking lot is full.

Speaking with Park Ranger Trevor Wylie about whether this was going to be an issue for anglers and visitors he said he didn't think it would be because most of the anglers are launching at 4 a.m. and are off the water and leaving the park by 10 a.m., which is when the bulk of day use visitors begin to arrive.

The one user group that could have a problem accessing the park would be anglers hoping to fish in the late afternoon or early evening.

Another option if you have a car topper boat is to launch at Glacier View Campground (Forest Service Recreation Pass required).

Obituary

Carolyn Louise Lang

March 1, 1947 – July 28, 2020

to Monroe, WA., and moved to Vancouver, WA., Cle Elum, WA., and eventually, Leavenworth, WA. following George's assignments with the State Patrol from town to town.

Carolyn was known for her beautiful garden, and she grew many cucumbers to can her "world famous" dill pickles! You could also find everyone gathered around the porch drinking her famous iced tea. She was an amazing seamstress and yard sale expert, always saving money wherever she could. She didn't consider herself cheap, merely "thrifty", as she would tell us. But her biggest accomplishment was her family.

She loved having her grandchildren running around, cherished having every Christmas and Thanksgiving at her house with 20 or more loved ones gathered around the table. We all looked forward to her Povitica for breakfast every Christmas morning, and the turkey dumpling soup the day after.

Carolyn was a faithful member of Our Lady of the Assumption Catholic Church in Leavenworth and enjoyed her quilting group and counting money every Tuesday. She also loved playing in her ladies Pinochle group.

Carolyn was a loving and devoted wife, mother, grandmother, great grandmother, sister, sister in law, aunt, and surrogate mom to so many. She leaves behind a legacy of love.

Carolyn is survived by her husband of 53 years, George, her Daughter Lori Obergh of Greenacres, WA., her son Jason (Jillian) Lang of Pullman, WA., her son Jeffery (Morgan) Lang of Peshastin, WA., her brother Steven (Harriet) Lodge of Shoreline, WA., her 8 grandchildren Brian, Katelyn, Peyton, Grace, Hunter, Olivia, Emilie, and Alice, and her great granddaughter Lillian, and her faithful walking partner, Buster, and numerous nieces and nephews. She was also looking forward to meeting her granddaughter to be, due in October, as well as her second great grandchild due in December.

A socially distanced funeral will be held at Our Lady of the Assumption Catholic Church at 145 Wheeler Street in Leavenworth, WA. on Friday, August 7, at 11:00 a.m. This will be by reservation only, as it will be held outside in the Meadows, and people are to remain in their cars and space is limited.

Please notify Lori by text at 509-991-3943 if you plan to attend. This will be followed by a procession to bring Carolyn to her final resting place in the Mountain View cemetery.

A celebration of life will be held at a later date. A socially distanced viewing will take place at Heritage Memorial Chapel at 19 Rock Island Road, East Wenatchee, on Thursday, August 6, from 3-8 p.m. Masks and social distancing will be required. Memorial contributions can be made in Carolyn's name to St. Jude Hospital. Calls, cards and flowers are also appreciated.

The family would like to give a special thanks to the amazing medical staff for taking such great care of Carolyn: Dr. Jerome, Dr. Tucker, and Dr. Jorgensen.

Carolyn felt you were more than her doctors, you became family. We would also like to thank Central Washington Hospice for the great care and compassion shown to us all.

Lake Wenatchee Sockeye

There is limited space to park at the day use area here but it is close to the northwest end of the lake where the fish, and most of the anglers, congregate.

As for catching sockeye here the first two weeks of the season are definitely the best and early morning is the time to be fishing for them.

Bob Loomis with Mack's Lure out of Wenatchee knows this fishery well and recommends:

1. Looking for the sockeye around 40 feet deep to start and going deeper as the morning progresses.
2. Troll slow. If you are trolling at 2 1/2 miles an hour you are going way too fast.
3. Cut that speed in half and you'll be in the zone.
3. Use a dodger. An 8" dodger will provide not only plenty of flash, but also give action to the lure.
4. Loomis recommends a silver or pink dodger.
4. The traditional offering behind your dodger is a bare red hook (selective regulations are in effect with only a single barbless hook allowed and no bait).

However, Loomis recommends fishing a Mack's Lure Double Whammy Sockeye Pro which adds beads and a red mylar Smile Blade spinner to that red hook or a Mack's Cha Cha Sockeye lure with a squid body for better success. The go to colors? Red and hot pink.

5. One other trick specific to this fishery is to use a short leader.

Loomis recommends a leader length of only 7 to 18 inches between the dodger and the hook to combine the most attraction and lure action.

Put it all together and you've got a great primer on how to catch sockeye salmon this August in one of the more scenic areas of the state to do so!

State launches new grant program to conserve community forests

OLYMPIA—Communities wanting to conserve forest lands now have a state grant program to help, the Recreation and Conservation Office announced today.

Beginning Sept. 1, communities can apply for grants of up to $3 million in the newly created Community Forests Program.

The grants must be used to buy at least five acres of forestland and the land must be maintained as forestland forever. The land must be actively managed to include timber harvest and other income generating activities. Grants also may be used to restore the land or provide recreation opportunities, such as trails, when combined with land purchases.

"Forests in Washington serve many purposes. We use them for timber for our homes and as places to hike, mountain bike and do a whole slew of other outdoor recreation activities," said Kaleen Cottingham, director of the Recreation and Conservation Office, which is administering the grant program. "In addition, forests provide important wildlife habitat and other benefits such as clean air and clean water. Conserving forestlands ensures they remain part of our heritage for generations and that Washington stays the Evergreen State."

From 1978-2001, 700,000 acres of forestland in Washington were converted to suburban development, rights-of-ways, and agriculture.

"The loss of these forestlands diminishes a reliable source of forest products and jobs. It also threatens to impair important habitat for fish and other wildlife," Cottingham said.

More than 1,700 forest products-related businesses call Washington home, supporting 101,000 workers and gross business income of about $28 billion a year.

"The new Community Forests Program provides another tool in the toolbox for communities like mine, where timber is an important part of our economy, culture and history, but commercial forestry is challenging due to population growth and consolidation in the industry," said Kate Dean, Jefferson County commissioner. "Community forest grants will allow for all the benefits of forestry—standing trees, environmental benefits like improved water quality, open space for recreation and revenue—while giving local decision-making and stewardship and harvest. Jefferson County looks forward to the opportunity to create a community forest for all of the myriad benefits they bring to our timber county."

"What's unique about this program is that it's not another parkland acquisition or pure conservation program," said Jason Callahan, director of Government Relations for the Washington Forest Protection Association. "It's a program to help maintain the state's base of managed working forestlands. Actively managing forests also will help forest health, the rural economy, log supplies for mills and other aspects of the community. These values are only obtained when working forests are kept working."

"I am really excited about Washington's new community forest grant opportunities," said Ray Entz, director of Wildlife and Terrestrial Resources for the Kalispel Tribe of Indians. "These opportunities create special places to engage and enrich the communities that they serve. From the fiscal, educational, recreational and environmental perspectives, these community forests are nothing but untapped potential."

The Recreation and Conservation Office will accept applications from Sept. 1-Oct. 1. More information about the Community Forests Program is available online.

"Community forests provide the opportunity for citizens to have a direct stake in how Washington's vital and iconic working forestlands are used and managed," said Nick Norton, director of the Washington Association of Land Truants. "I have seen community forest projects in Washington already allowing local communities to create jobs and revenue through creative, cross-boundary forest management, serving as educational centers to cultivate the next generation of natural resource professionals and civic leaders, and providing outdoor hubs that connect tens of thousands of recreationalists to the benefits of working forests. This work will have a tremendous benefit to rural communities across the state now and for future generations."

How to get rid of heat rash

Q: I get a rash when the weather turns hot. What's the best way to get rid of it?

In her mid-seventies, Donna developed redness and itching in her groin area during a recent heatwave. She tried applying Gold Bond® powder, but it didn't seem to help. She asked me, "What will make it go away?"

Heat rash, also called prickly heat or miliaria, can happen to anyone with active sweat glands. It's estimated that at least 40% of infants will get a heat rash at one point. Heat rash also afflicts physically active and sweating people in the summer heat, doing strenuous physical work, performing sports or exercise, even gardening.

Prickly heat or heat rash is caused by clogged sweat glands. When sweat builds up under your skin, it can become trapped, causing your pores to swell and rupture. This creates small red, raised lesions that burn or itch that cluster in small clumps or spread out over larger areas.

Outbreaks can occur anywhere you tend to sweat: your armpits, chest, upper back, belly, and groin. If the blockage is severe enough, it creates inflammation, pustules, or a yeast infection.

Heat rash or prickly heat can also happen to people who have been treating their dry, itchy skin with heavy creams or ointments. This works well during the winter months, but during a hot, sweaty summer, those thick balms and butters plug up their hard-working sweat glands.

The first key to relieving the itching and burning of prickly heat to keep your skin dry. One of the best ways to do that is by maximizing airflow to your skin to discourage excess sweating. Wearing loose, lightweight clothing during hot weather is critically important, along with using fans to improve airflow. Fevers can cause profuse sweating and should be treated with appropriate doses of acetaminophen to decrease excess moisture next to the skin.

The second key to treating heat rash is avoiding applying lubricants like creams or oils to your overworking sweat glands in areas that perspire heavily. Keep your underarms, chest, groin, behind your knees, and skin folds as dry as possible.

The third key to treating prickly heat is to avoid applying medicated or plain powders to red, broken, or irritated skin. Powders can clog inflamed pores and sweat glands, so it's best to stay away entirely until your skin has calmed down.

Heat rash can cause intense itching and an almost uncontrollable urge to scratch. Scratching feels good but only provides short-term relief and instead triggers more inflammation and itching. Instead, apply cloths dampened with cold water along with a non-prescription steroid cream containing 1% hydrocortisone.

Hydrocortisone 1% cream is safe to use on small areas of broken skin or larger areas of unbroken skin in adults but avoid putting it on the broken skin of children or infants.

Be sure to avoid using hydrocortisone ointment because ointments can block your sweat glands. If these strategies don't help the itching and irritation of heat rash, contact your doctor. Other conditions may look like heat rash at first but need to be treated differently.

Here are 6 Tips for Treating Prickly Heat or Heat Rash:

1. Increase airflow to the affected area.
 Wear lightweight, loose clothing, or no clothing at all. House fans can help circulate air over your skin.

2. Lukewarm sponge baths increase evaporation, helping to cool and dry the skin.
 Avoid hot water for showers or baths, which can increase inflammation. Adding oatmeal or a similar product like Aveeno® can also help soothe irritated skin.

3. Avoid using powders like Gold Bond® on irritated or broken skin.
 Powders can clog your sweat glands and irritate broken skin. Avoid them until the acute symptoms of redness and itching subside.

4. Stay away from topical Benadryl® cream or spray. Use 1% hydrocortisone cream instead.
 Although Benadryl® (diphenhydramine) capsules and liquid can help relieve itching, diphenhydramine cream or topical spray should be avoided. Benadryl® can be absorbed into the bloodstream from areas of broken skin. When combined with the capsules or liquid, it can cause drowsiness and confusion.

5. Keep your skin dry.
 Keep your armpits, groin, and chest plus any skin folds as dry as possible. Tucking a light cloth like a pillowcase between skin folds and changing it frequently absorbs perspiration. Avoid using heavy creams and ointments that can trap moisture next to the skin.

6. Cool it before you use it.
 For additional soothing power, refrigerate your hydrocortisone cream or aloe vera gel before applying it.

Responding to Crisis: Community Foundation Adapts Programming

By DENISE SOROM,
DIRECTOR OF COMMUNITY PHILANTHROPY,
COMMUNITY FOUNDATION OF NCW

By April it became quite clear to the leadership at the Community Foundation of North Central Washington (CFNCW) that for the foreseeable future, it would not be business as usual, but rather “business unusual.”

As the region’s largest manager of charitable assets – offering grant funding and training opportunities for nonprofits, scholarships for students, and forging connections between donors and charitable causes – CFNCW knew it had an important role to play in helping this region survive the impact of the COVID-19 crisis.

It had already decided to adapt its Helping Hands grants to provide emergency relief funding for groups impacted by COVID, but more had to be done.

Just as CFNCW had stepped up during the wildfires of 2014 and 2015, creating special emergency funds and stewarding the generous donations from people far and wide to help rebuild and recover, this crisis required a response as well, but what?

The pandemic had impacted just about every facet of daily life and CFNCW’s response needed to be equally comprehensive.

Food banks and housing support organizations were seeing giant spikes in demand while programs at arts and education based nonprofits were coming to a grinding halt.

A response needed to both bolster nonprofits providing basic human services while doing as much as possible to make sure that the rest of the sector would not fade into oblivion.

After much deliberation and conversations with community leaders throughout the region, CFNCW announced a new suite of programming to respond to the crisis:

Helping Hands 2.0 – Funding Critical Needs Impacted by Covid

CFNCW has updated its original emergency grant program to focus squarely on nonprofit agencies who are providing critical, safety-net services to vulnerable populations impacted by Covid.

Applicants can request as much as is needed, and approved requests are disbursed monthly.

Nonprofit Reemergence Grants – Funding for Nonprofits as they Reemerge in the Covid Environment

In lieu of the Regional Impact Grant, this is a temporary grant program to address recovery for nonprofits.

Rather than being program-specific, these grants provide general operating support. Nonprofits can request up to 10% of their current op budget with a max request of $20,000. Grants will be awarded quarterly through July 2021.

NPI Virtual Learning – Nonprofit Reemergence Learning Series

This is a free learning series to help nonprofits plan and strategize for reemergence in their community. The series will cover several topics (leadership, financial strategy, fundraising, collaboration) via Zoom with guest presenters once a month from July – October.

Back to Basics – Schools helping Families in Need

CFNCW has heard heart-breaking stories from schools about families struggling with basic needs, making it next to impossible for students to focus on learning.

The Back to Basics campaign will be a crowdsourcing campaign to raise funds for school districts throughout our region to help families purchase formula, diapers, clothing, food, and other basic needs. This campaign will run during the month of September.

As of July, almost $400,000 has been donated to CFNCW’s Helping Hands Fund for COVID Relief by hundreds of local donors, businesses and foundations.

The “All in Washington” campaign matched $65,500 of those gifts, bringing the total to over $465,000! Several donors gifted the entirety of their federal stimulus checks, recognizing that many in this community needed those funds more than they did.

Beth Stipe, CFNCW’s Executive Director, states: “Our donors have blown us away with their generosity and their desire to help.

“We hope that this new grant-making approach for 2020-2021 will honor those donations and put this region on a road to recovery. We are always astounded by the generosity, resilience, and commitment that this community exhibits to find positive solutions to difficult problems.

“This might be one of our greatest challenges yet, but we think the people of North Central Washington are up for it!”

Chelan PUD makes top 25 list for best fleets in North America

This year was the fleet’s highest ranking since making the NAFAs top-performance list four years ago. The PUD ranked 58th in 2017, 75th in 2018, and received an honorable mention in 2019.

tion. The National Association of Fleet Administrators (NAFA) tracks more than 38,000 public fleets. It developed the 100 Best Fleets program 20 years ago to recognize the best operations among government fleets and help taxpayers better understand the value they provide.

This year was Chelan PUD’s highest ranking since making NAFA’s top-performance list four years ago.

The PUD ranked 58th in 2017, 75th in 2018, and received an honorable mention in 2019. Judges select the winners based on 12 criteria, including accountability, use of technology, team collaboration, creativity in addressing challenges and a high-trust culture.

“We are responsible for managing and maintaining more than $50 million worth of vehicles and equipment for the PUD, including line trucks, digger derricks, cranes, tugboats, snow cats, backhoes, and much more. It’s not easy managing over 1,000 pieces of equipment for a district this size,” said Lance Knudtson, Fleet Services Supervisor.

Chelan County is the third largest county in Washington with four seasons and diverse environments, including lowland marshes, shrub steppe, forested mountains and waterways.

“We have four administrative staff and 13 mechanics in two shifts at three shops. The hard work by amazing staff, each one doing their part to ensure the success of our fleet, earned us this award,” Knudtson said.

In the last few years, Chelan PUD became the first utility in the state to successfully test and use biodiesel which helped reduce emissions.

The fleet was 45 percent below average for net fuel use and 43 percent lower than average fuel expenses last year.

The fleet also achieved 99.82% availability for its critical assets and reduced its running open work order count by 36 percent last year.

Total fleet costs were 36 percent below industry average.

“Our goal is to find the sweet spot and extend the life and service of our assets for as long as possible until we need to replace it,” Knudtson said.

WIAA announces 2020-21 sports seasons

By MIKE MALTAIS

RENTON – High school sports for the 2020-21 season will have a different look courtesy of a pandemic-modified calendar unveiled by the Washington Interscholastic Activities Association (WIAA) on July 21.

The new format features four WIAA-sanctioned seasons that will group the moderate- and high-risk fall sports of football, 1B/2B boys’ soccer, girls’ soccer, and volleyball into the spring 2021 season (3).

Here is how the modified schedule looks at of August 1. All dates are tentative:

■ WIAA Season 1: Sept. 7 - Nov. 8 – cross country, softball, girls swim and dive, golf (alternate season), tennis (alternate season).

Cross country, softball, as well as alternative seasons for golf and tennis will begin practices the week of Sept. 7, a WIAA media release said adding that the viability of girls’ swim and dive is dependent on more information from the Department of Health.

■ WIAA Season 2: Dec. 28 – Feb. 28 – basketball, bowling, boys’ swim and dive, gymnastics, cheerleading, wrestling.

Traditional winter sports will remain in Season 2 with the expectation for those to begin in late December or early January.

■ WIAA Season 3: March 1 - May 2 – volleyball, girls’ soccer, 1B/2B boys’ soccer, football.

■ WIAA Season 4: May 2 – June 27 – tennis, softball, track and field, baseball, golf, boys’ soccer, dance/drill.

Traditional spring sports will complete Season 4 through the end of the school year.

The board recognizes that participation in any fall sports will depend on county progression through the phases laid out in Governor Inslee’s Safe Start plan over the coming weeks,” said the WIAA release.

The WIAA board set benchmarks on July 28 to be met in order for Season 1 to take place. Should those benchmarks not be met, the board will plan to move the remainder of fall sports to Season 3.

“Since March, the philosophy of our Association has been to allow students every chance to participate,” said WIAA Executive Director Mick Hoffman. “We’ve asked our Executive Board and planning committees to be as creative as possible in allowing for those opportunities. These are tough and unprecedented decisions to make, but it has been inspiring to see so many people around the state come together to work on behalf of students.”

The board and planning committees are working the Return-To-Activity Guidelines co-authored by the National Federation of High Schools, Washington Department of Health, and the Governor’s office along with sport-specific guidelines proposed by committees comprised of coaches, athletic directors, officials, students and local health professionals. The guidelines can be viewed online at wiaa.com.
