CITY OF LEAVENWORTH

Council decides to suspend some regulations during phase 2

By Bill Forhan

In recognition of the financial impact to local businesses as a result of the Governor's emergency declaration, city council voted to suspend certain regulations as businesses struggle to reopen.

The city decided they could help support the efforts to reopen by providing use of the right-of-way and being flexible with signage options.

Mayor Florea has closed the downtown streets in an effort to reduce the crowds that are normally present on weekends.

With local restaurants closed and restricted by reduced capacity during the reopening, the city has allowed them to set up tables outside. Many do not have the tables that can be easily moved outdoors so the city has set up some tables.

Normally the city would have to charge the local businesses for a special use permit to use the right of way. This would require special use permit fees be assessed. It also requires the use must be in compliance with the Old World Bavarian Theme and building codes.

The new Covid Special Use permit would require insurance, an approved site plan, building owner signature and would be conditioned as determined by the City Administrator

The Mayor also requested that required fees be waived for Special Use Permits issued for Phase 2 reopening and all new Special Use Permit fees during Phase 2 be pro-rated for the year.

The measure also approved the use of "A-Frame" signs during the reopening. The signs are limited to no more than 4 square feet and the city reserves the right to remove them if they are an obstruction. The measure was approved unanimously.

In other business:
Council unanimously approve the bid for the South Interceptor Replacement Project in the amount of $1,187,292 including Washington state sales tax to Clackamas Construction of Boring Oregon.

Council unanimously approved revisions to the Old World Bavarian Theme regulations as requested by the Planning Commission.

Council discussed the likelihood that the city pool will not be open for this season. Concerns were expressed that by the time the shutdown has progressed to a point that would allow the city to open the pool, the season would be too short to acquire and train staff. Council agreed not to raise pool fees this year.

Troy Campbell Named New Executive Director of the Leavenworth Chamber of Commerce

By JESSICA STOLLER, MEDIA DIRECTOR

LEAVENWORTH – The Leavenworth Chamber board of directors announced that Troy Campbell will be the new executive director of the Leavenworth Chamber of Commerce.

Campbell will begin his new role on June 15. He is replacing Nancy Smith, who is retiring after serving as the chamber's executive director for more than 15 years.

"I am honored to be selected as the executive director of the Leavenworth Chamber of Commerce and to have an opportunity to put a career of ideas, experiences, and training to use for one of the most unique and endearing towns in the Pacific Northwest," Campbell said.

A 1996 graduate of Eastern Washington University, Campbell has more than 20 years of experience in travel and tourism, event production, marketing, and non-profit management.

Most recently, he served two years as executive director of the Calistoga Chamber of Commerce, after serving nine years as the executive director for San Francisco's Fisherman's Wharf Community Benefit District.

Troy Campbell

His experience includes producing large civic events, galas, parades and fundraisers, including the International Ocean Film Festival, San Francisco Fleet Week, Wharf Fest at Fisherman's Wharf, the Calistoga Harvest Table, the Calistoga Lighted Tractor Parade, the Food as Art Gala for the CD Forum for the Arts, and the Two Nation Vacation Travel Trade Show.

In addition, his role with the FWCBD included overall operational and strategic leadership for the organization, as well as management of projects, destination marketing, capital improvements, and more than 11 committees ranging from marketing and events to urban planning and emergency preparedness.

"The Leavenworth Chamber of Commerce's board of directors looks forward to serving Leavenworth under Troy Campbell's leadership," said Jesse Boyd, President of the Leavenworth Chamber of Commerce.

"Nancy Smith's dedication and service to this community over the past 15 years has been much appreciated, and we wish her all the best in retirement.

"Businesses must carefully study and understand the Secretary's letter and the other advisories which apply to their business," said Barry Kling, Administrator of Chelan-Douglas Health District.

To view a full list of the conditions and the Secretary's letter, visit: <http://cdhd.wa.gov/wp-content/uploads/DOH-Approval-of-Modified-Phase-I.pdf>.

Businesses now closed may reopen as soon as they are able to implement the standards issued by the state and operate within the limitations from the Secretary's letter as described above.

This reopening guidance is not only a matter of what businesses do. What we do as individuals counts. "We still need to protect each other – not only because it is a basic civic responsibility but also because controlling COVID-19 is the best way to reopen our community and keep it that way," added Kling.

Here is some guidance for individuals to do to help keep our Valley reopened:

- Wear face masks in public
- Maintain at least 6 feet apart from others whenever possible
- Wash or sanitize your hands frequently
- Don't touch your face
- Avoid groups of more than five people outside of your household members

Opinions

The recovery begins, but where will it take us?

Based on the 2.5 million new jobs reported in the May Jobs Report, the economic recovery from Covid-19 has officially started (yes, there were some technical problems with the report, which made it look better than it was, but any way you slice it, it was a positive report).

While it's wonderful that the recovery is underway, the far more important question is where the recovery will take us.

Will we end up with a

BRAD BLACKBURN

stronger economy than before the virus, or a weaker one? It's not a surprise that a chunk of the economy would come back quickly.

But, the lowest hanging fruit gets picked first. Picking the entire tree probably won't be so easy.

If our economy claws back to 90% of its previous glory, that might sound like a victory. But, that implies a 10% recession, which would be the 2nd worst of all time. As a comparison, during the Financial Crisis in 2008, the economy only fell 4.3%.

During the 2001 recession (caused by 9/11 and the bursting dot-com bubble), the economy fell less than 1%. So, we may have a deep hole to dig ourselves out of.

Thankfully, there is good news. As many parts of the world reopen, emergency rooms haven't been overwhelmed. In addition, trillions of dollars were tossed at this problem, so, there's lots of money floating around the economy.

Also, gas prices are low, interest rates are low, and there's pent-up demand from the millions of people who've been stuck in their homes eagerly waiting to go buy stuff. But, there will be bumps along our road to recovery. Obviously, the biggest bump would be a major recurrence of the virus.

If hospitals become overwhelmed in reopened parts of the country, the economy could suffer even more.

However, even in the best-case scenario, in which Covid-19 fades away forever, there will still be a price to pay.

Nearly every family, business and government across the world has less wealth, more debt, and more uncertainty as a result of all this.

Because of that, the whole world may tend to spend less, save more, pay down debt, and lick their economic wounds.

In China and Italy, which reopened their economies first, consumer spending has only recovered modestly. That's not all bad, of course.

Saving more and paying down debt is a good thing. However, it is not a recipe for a quick, robust economic recovery.

Letter from the Mayor

As I am sure you are aware, our county finally got approval to move out of Phase 1.

While it is not a move to Phase 2, it is pretty close. Much closer than the prior attempt to allow the county to move to 1.5.

As Barry Kling, the head of the Chelan Douglas Health District referred to it in our conference call yesterday, "it is more like Phase 1.9 than 1.5."

That announcement that we can begin to "open up" was greeted with enthusiasm and real joy – the first for many businesses in a long time! I swear I could hear the cheers echoing off the mountains. So many things will be different this weekend. Many stores will be open (with COVID restrictions as to numbers / spacing) for the first time.

We will see Art in The Park set up for the first time, with fewer vendors and a need to limit the numbers in their space as well. More like the same old Leavenworth, but still different.

At least there is some movement! We are all happy for that! We hope and pray that this movement can continue to move us forward...

However, I just got back from an all staff meeting, (held outdoors with social distancing, of course), in order to introduce everyone to our new administrator, Ana Cortez.

When I returned, I had a long phone message from a Leavenworth local. He was frustrated because in his walk through the downtown today, he saw the party atmosphere (perhaps understandable, but...) and was upset. He wanted me to do something. So many people and they weren't social distancing or wearing masks. He went inside a couple of establishments and the employees weren't wearing masks. He wanted to know why the City was allowing this to happen. Governor Inslee is asking that all employees wear masks inside. Why was this still happening? He wanted me to stop it.

I called him back and explained to him that all the restrictions, the spacing requirements, the masks... these are all things we try to make happen, and encourage to happen, and do our best to provide items like masks to make it possible to happen, but they really depend on the cooperation and willingness of people to follow them. There is really no enforcement mechanism, unless there is peer pressure. (The one exception is eating establishments, which are inspected by the Chelan Douglas Health District, and they can enforce restrictions).

WA State Dept of Labor and Industries handles things like construction, manufacturing, and agriculture. But just about everything else depends upon the good will of people.

I have written about this more than once during this pandemic. We need to follow safety rules as we open, or we will be in danger of being shut right back down again. We will continue to do what we can to change the culture to one of safety.

As one local told me yesterday, "I am so sick of this! I want it over! If I need to wear a mask and stay six feet away from others for now, that's a small price to

Washington students named to spring semester 2020 honor rolls

BOZEMAN – Montana State University has announced its undergraduate honor rolls for spring semester 2020. There are two MSU honor roll lists, the President's List and the Dean's List. To be eligible for the lists, students must have earned in at least 12 college-level credits.

This honor roll list was current as of June 11 and includes all registration corrections or grade changes processed to that date.

The 2,439 students with a perfect 4.0 grade point average for the semester were named to the President's List. An asterisk follows their names below.

The Dean's List includes the 4,067 students earning grade point averages of 3.5 or above for the semester. Washington students named to MSU's president's or dean's lists, ordered according to their hometowns, follow.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Community members,

In response to Cathy Schwartz's 6/3/2020 letter:

Carl Florea, I'm relieved and grateful that you DARED to 'call in' our community's shared 'carrier' status and 'call out' to us for more responsibility towards creating safer and more inclusivity for people of color. I fully agree that this is not a conservative or liberal issue/agenda, but a human issue.

Apparently, the 1300-1400 people who marched together through our streets on Friday are in solidarity as well! I'm so darn proud of this community! I truly have not felt such camaraderie, with a shared purpose, since we moved to the Pacific Northwest 23 years ago.

As Carl stated, "We can and must do better!"

Voters made good choice

I enjoy reading the Echo's Letters to the Editor. Shawnee McCortier's and Carl Florea's June 3, 2020 letters were well written and thoughtful.

But, Cathy Schwartz's, "How Dare You", letter concerning Leavenworth's Mayor and the "Wee Peebles" stunned me. The Leavenworth Mayor's task is spelled out in Ezekial 25:17.

The path of the righteous man is beset on all sides by the iniquities of the selfish and the tyranny of evil men.

Blessed is he who, in the name of charity and good, will shepherd the weak through the valley of darkness.

Leavenworth voters (not Peebles) made a good mayoral choice.

Community Worship: To Be or Not to Be?

Being together to support one another in our diverse spiritual journeys is critical.

It is foundational to all World Faith traditions. And there is good reason for this. In such gatherings, encouragement, affirmation, emotional connection and spiritual touch are given and received. Allowing the loving and compassionate Divine to embrace and sustain us.

The absence of this communal aspect of spirituality is like trying to shower while wearing a raincoat. Not quite the same...

We have learned yet again that the "church" is not the building. True indeed, but so much of the intimate encounter with God seems to happen within the gathered community of faith.

In the midst of this historic time of "separation," commendations to the many ways in which the "separated" people of faith have continued being "church" by responding to those in need. Loving the neighbor remains alive and well!

So, it is quite understandable that there have been debates, petitions, and even legal action to encourage the appropriate authorities to make person-to-person worship accessible and open now.

Let us be mindful that this heartfelt emphasis must be tempered and balanced with the informed advice, counsel, and direction of those whose passion is also the greater welfare of our communities.

The "We Are One" objectives eloquently summarize what needs to be our common direction: Empathy, Compassion, Civil Communication, Finding Balance, and Hope.

In the midst of all the pandemic chaos and recent national upheaval, it seems a bit ironic and somewhat hypocritical that such passionate and assertive debating and "petitioning" on our part has rarely addressed another life threatening contagion that has debilitated and inhibited so many long before Covid-19.

The recent tumultuous events have illuminated yet again the inequity and trauma that has predated this epidemic by centuries. It behooves us, because we are mandated by Go-dregardless of our faith tradition, to also love our neighbor, as Jesus said, by loosing the bonds of injustice "to let the oppressed go free.

"We are obliged, we are required "to do justice and to love kindness," to "let justice roll down like waters and righteousness like an ever-flowing stream.

"If not, we may well fall into the temptation of simply worshipping without corresponding acts of social justice. We are admonished by the Hebrew Prophets, speaking for God: "I hate, I despise your festivals and take no delight in your solemn assemblies... but let justice roll down like waters, and righteousness like an ever-flowing stream.

"This is the heart and intention of the Creator.

So, when we finally are able to gather together in our respective communities of faith, will we seek to engage the deeper and more difficult issues of our own privilege and intolerance? Will we also confront the systems and policies that continue to debilitate our neighbor long after we have delivered their boxes of food?

Therefore, we the undersigned, members of the North Central Washington Cluster, Northwest Inter-mountain Synod (NWIM) of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America, commit ourselves and our congregations to continue as a "church in exile" until such time as our state and health leaders indicate congregational worship is appropriate.

Once gathered, we will continue direct service to our neighbor.

It is also imperative that we again renew our efforts to deepen self-awareness of our own white privilege and gain a more complete understanding of the dynamics of intolerance and racism.

Together we will work more effectively to counter the unjust structures and policies that continue to weigh heavily upon the lives of our neighbor.

Not coming for Christmas

I am writing to let you know why I and 25 of my family members, who have enjoyed many years of fun in Leavenworth spending our hard earned money in your cute little town, will not be coming back.

In this time of racial divide in our country, I was surprised to see that your mayor has chosen to bring your community into the fray.

I have no ill will against any man, no matter his color, but I will certainly not spend my money where my family are discriminated against and as your mayor, representing Leavenworth, this man has offended me.

This pandemic is colorblind and effects all races, blaming white people is racist. I attempted to write the city council but the emails come back as undeliverable.

If your city shares the same racist ideas as you mayor, we will not ever be back.

I have booked our Christmas family event this year in the town of Winthrop instead of Leavenworth, perhaps they don't just see the color of my skin and can appreciate what we bring to their town.

The Mayor's letter is making its rounds on social media and all of my friends are talking about it as well, all of the ones that regularly like to visit Leavenworth, have agreed to go somewhere else this year, racism in all forms against all people, even white people, must stop, we will not support a racist economy.

Dave Wagner
Bonney Lake

All Lives Matter

Well, we finally got enough liberals moved to the area to vote in a very liberal racist for Major. I thought it would take longer for him to show his true colors. My friend said 6 months. I said two years. I lost.

I have lived in and around Leavenworth over 25 years. I fell in love with it at once. I found it the most giving and open town I've ever seen. They welcome everybody no matter color, race, religion, gender, and now, these liberal trouble makers want to destroy it with organizing protests. I remember when this town was almost a ghost town back in the 50's and 60's, but a whole bunch of hard working "white" people turned it around and made it the most "go to" place in the Northwest. These protest organizers need to stop and praise God for this little town instead of helping to destroy it. They also should be ashamed of teaching their children to hate policemen, the news media does that 24-7. They need to mind their own business and leave our good little town alone.

P.S. Instead of defunding the police, let's defund the Democrats and maybe we can get our country back.

Friends of the Library and the Bookstore Get Books into the Hands of 3rd Graders Third grader Ollie Freeland receives his book from teacher Angie Hill.

BY MARLENE FARRELL

As summer vacation unfurls before students, Cascade School District third graders each have a brand new book to read between bike rides, video games and other relaxing fun.

On June 10th, the last day of school at Alpine Lakes Elementary, students returned briefly to pick up leftover supplies and say goodbye to teachers, and that's when they received a book of their choice.

Over a hundred such books were given away.

Jan Gould, a member of Friends of the Library (FOL), a nonprofit associated with the Leavenworth Public Library, coordinated this project, working with teachers and Stephen Sharpe, co-owner of A Book for All Seasons.

The project began when

Sharpe gave the teachers a list of potential books, including classics such as authors Roald Dahl and Beverly Cleary and popular current titles like The Diary of a Wimpy Kid series and Judy Moody books.

The teachers turned the list into a survey and sent it via email to their students.

"I've been amazed at how diligently the teachers worked to ensure that their third graders would receive our gift books this year, even as they were learning new ways to conduct their classes," said Gould.

Gould was particularly impressed with Sharpe's dedication to the project. "As soon as I contacted him, he started problem-solving."

Once the children made their selections, there was more work to be done. "Stephen contacted numerous book publishers to learn if the books requested were available and could arrive by early June," Gould explained.

"When books were not available, he contacted other sources. He even identified substitutions for the teachers to consider. Stephen worked tirelessly to help make the project a success."

FOL did not forget the other third graders in the area who attend Beaver Valley School (BVS) in Plain and the Upper Valley Christian School (UVCS). Books were mailed to BVS, and Sharpe hand-delivered books to UVCS.

All the books were paid for out of funds from the FOL used book sale that happens every September as well as their sale shelf of used books located inside the Leavenworth library.

COVID-19 and school closures made this annual book give-away more complicated, but FOL, A Book for All Seasons and the teachers didn't let that deter them.

Now more than ever, these students need the excitement of reading their favorite author because the public libraries are still closed, and the children have just survived months of primarily online learning. To get lost in the pages of a hand-held book can kindle the love of reading, whether for adventure stories that feed the imagination or nonfiction that teaches about how things work or about the complexities of the natural world.

Thanks to the collective effort of caring adults, these books are big gifts in small packages.

Third grader Kaelyn Rivera-Julio is happy about her free book.

Rollie Schmitt pens a new book

Rollie Schmitt with his newly published history of Lake Wenatchee book.

By BILL FORHAN

Native son of the upper valley, Roland A. Schmitt has just published a new book, Lake Wenatchee Early History. As a great grandson, Schmitt represents the fourth generation of the Schmitt Lumber Company family.

He is a graduate of Cashmere High School and

Washington State University with a degree in Forest Management.

After serving four years in the Marine Corp where he served 13 months in Viet Nam he returned to the Wenatchee Valley and worked as a logging manager for the family lumber company.

Schmitt has served on the Cashmere City Council, the Chelan County Port Commission and three terms in the Washington State Legislature. By the time he retired in 2005, he had served 3 presidents, and 7 Secretaries of Commerce besides his remarkable career with the National Marine Fisheries Service and the Washington State Director of Fisheries.

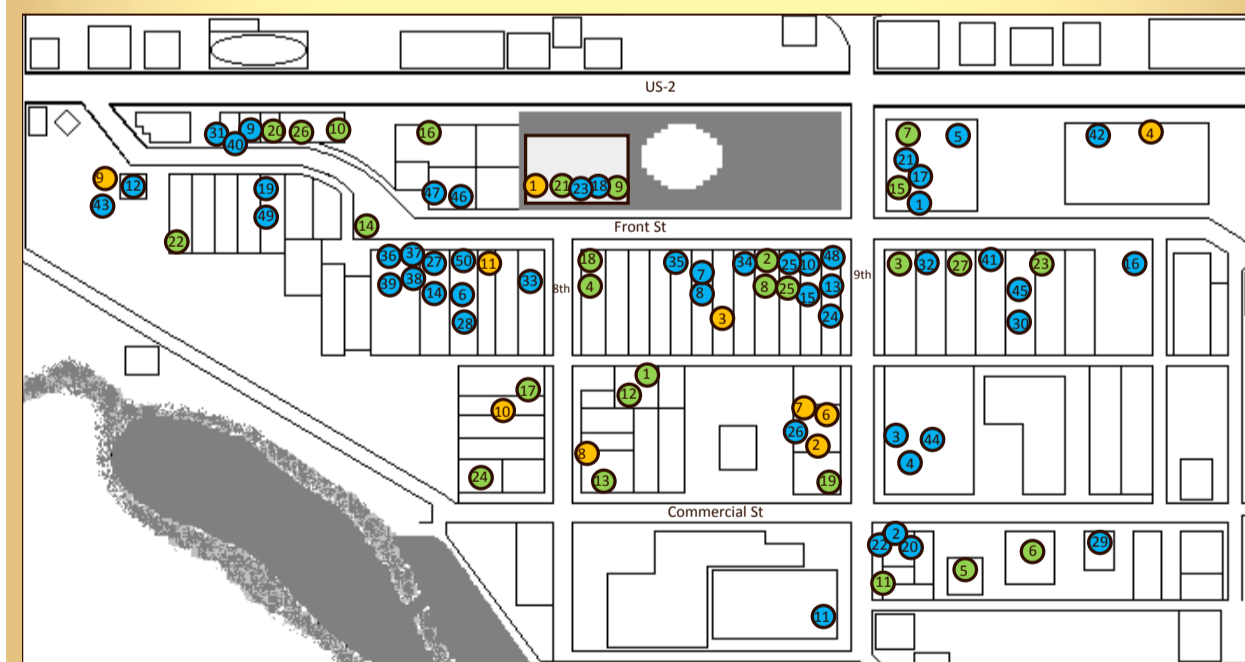

Schmitt and his wife Barbara currently reside in their home on Lake Wenatchee where his family's involvement goes back to 1917.

In the Dedication and introduction to the book, Schmitt writes "I had always hoped that someone from one of the pioneer families would write a book on the early days of Lake Wenatchee. Now those pioneers are gone, and those who remember are fading quickly, so I wanted to tell the story as best I could."

His list of sources for the book is a who's who of local residents including Pat Morris, Frazier Strutzel and Bill Newell.

Glucosamine for arthritis

Keith, an 86-year old retired basketball coach, and PE teacher, limped down our clinic hallway last week to see me. "Getting older sure isn't for sissies," he answered as I asked him how things were going for him.

"I had my left knee replaced five years ago, and now my right knee is going the same way. It's this darn arthritis." Settling his 7-foot seven-inch frame in the exam room chair, he asked me, "Would taking glucosamine help my knee? Is it safe to take with my other medicines?"

"Glucosamine helps relieve knee joint pain in 1 out of 3 people, helping them stay more active. Keeping active is the key thing because it's the best way to combat the pain and stiffness of arthritis. Glucosamine is a very safe supplement to take, even with other medicines. If I were in your shoes, I'd definitely give it a try."

Keith has lots of company. Osteoarthritis is the most common chronic joint disease, affecting at least one out of every 10 older adults in the United States. Osteoarthritis causes cartilage to deteriorate, creating joint pain and stiffness.

As it progresses, osteoarthritis causes the bones of your knee joint to move closer together. Imaging studies measuring the spacing of bones in your knee joint illustrate how as the spaces between the bones in the joint get smaller over time, the pain and stiffness of osteoarthritis get worse.

Glucosamine is a compound produced by your body. There are three primary forms, each having a different role in supporting your health. The only type of glucosamine proven to be helpful against osteoarthritis is glucosamine sulfate.

Glucosamine sulfate has been shown to slow down the progression of osteoarthritis by keeping the spaces inside knee joints from crowding closer together. One study compared people who took glucosamine for 1 to 3 years with a similar group that didn't. Those who took glucosamine sulfate were 60% less likely to need a total knee replacement due to osteoarthritis than those not taking it.

Although glucosamine sulfate can slow down the progression of osteoarthritis, it can't stop it completely. It's best for mild to moderate arthritis pain and stiffness, and less effective in people who are older or are overweight.

Glucosamine sulfate works better on knee joints than your hip joints, wrists, or your back. Unlike other types of pain medicine, glucosamine sulfate takes about 4 to 8 weeks to take full effect and is most effective when taken daily. Tylenol® (acetaminophen) also helps arthritis pain and stiffness and can be safely taken daily along with glucosamine. For flare-ups, Aleve® (naproxen) or Motrin-IB (ibuprofen) are more useful but can cause bleeding or kidney problems.

The most effective dose of glucosamine sulfate seems to be 1500 mg a day, which can either be taken all at once or divided into two or three doses. Taking glucosamine sulfate is as effective as taking six tablets of Extra-Strength Tylenol® every day. It can also be combined with other pain medicines for even more relief, like Tylenol® and anti-inflammatory medications like Aleve® (naproxen) or Motrin-IB (ibuprofen).

Here Are 5 Tips on Taking Glucosamine Successfully:

1. Take the "right stuff." Avoid glucosamine hydrochloride, and take glu-cosamine sulfate. For best results, take a total of 500mg-1500mg per day in 2 or 3 divided doses.

2. Be patient.
Allow 4 to 8 weeks for the full effect of glucosamine to take effect before giving up on it.

3. Use the powder formulation, not the tablets.

Crystalline glucosamine in a capsule or dissolved in water is more consistently effective than the tablet forms. The brand with the most favorable results is DONA crystalline powder. My patients have also reported dramatic results with VERY reasonably priced glucosamine crystalline powder from the company Bio-Alternatives, available online at www.bio-alternatives.net, or by calling 1-866-882-0213.

4. You can take glucosamine even if you are allergic to shellfish.

If you have a shellfish allergy, you can still take glucosamine safely. Shellfish allergies are to the meat, not to the shell, and glucosamine is processed from the shell.

5. If you take the blood thinner warfarin, tell your doctor.

If you take Coumadin® or warfarin, glucosamine can increase your level of blood thinner. I have used glucosamine sulfate in my patients taking warfarin for decades, with excellent results. I recommend starting glucosamine two weeks before their next blood test is scheduled. Depending on the outcome of the blood test, I adjust their dose of warfarin as needed.

THE WASHINGTON OUTDOORS REPORT

Oh Shad!

By JOHN KRUSE, THE WASHINGTON OUTDOOR REPORT

Not to be confused with an oft-uttered curse phrase, "Oh shad!" is something you may hear an angler say repeatedly as they hook into these fish in quick fashion this month in the Columbia River Gorge.

The American shad isn't native to the Pacific Northwest. It is an Atlantic Ocean fish that spawns in several rivers along the east coast and was an important food fish for Americans in the 18th and 19th centuries. In 1871 Seth Green, a fish culturist, transported eight cans of shad fry to Sacramento, California by rail. More than 2/3 of the fish survived the seven-day trip and they were put into the Sacramento River. The stocking took and the Sacramento still hosts a healthy run of American Shad to this day. The shad, which are an ocean-going fish, also began spawning in Oregon's Umpqua River and in the Columbia River, where the strongest run of these fish return every year from mid-May through early-July.

The shad is a member of the herring family. On the Columbia River they commonly weigh between 1 and 4 pounds. They are scrappy fighters and fun for both adults and kids alike to catch from boats or from shore.

In the last few years jumbo runs of these prolific fish have returned to the Columbia River. Last year, over 7.5 million shad returned, a new record. This year's run looks to be healthy, if not record breaking. As of June 9th, over a million shad had passed over Bonneville Dam.

Fishing for shad is a simple affair. The main places to target them are on either side of the Columbia River below Bonneville Dam (very crowded) or the John Day Dam (less so).

Start off with a medium action rod between 6 ½ to 8 ½ feet long. A spinning reel with 12-pound monofilament is a good bet, not because the fish will break you off, but because the shoreline is rocky and your line will become damaged on the sharp edges. The lures to use are very simple. A shad dart is a uniquely shaped jig head that usually sits on a bare hook. Common colors to use are Chartreuse/Green, Green/White, Red/White or Chartreuse/Orange. Shad Killers, which look like crappie jigs and are made in Hermiston, Oregon also work very well. The size of jigs you'll want to use range from 1/8 to 1/16th or even 1/32 of an ounce.

Tie on the jig and a three-foot leader to a swivel. Above the swivel you'll want a sliding swivel with a ½ to ¾ ounce weight. Simply cast slightly upstream, reel slowly, making sure your weight and dart stay above bottom. As the line quarters towards you reel in rapidly to make sure you don't get hung up. If you are fishing from a boat plunking a weight on the bottom and fishing a small DickNite spoon can work wonders.

It's not uncommon to catch one to three dozen shad on a good day, especially when the dam counts show over 10,000 fish a day crossing over Bonneville Dam. As for what to do with them? There are three schools of thought here.

A lot of anglers will keep them for sturgeon or crab bait. These oily fish work very well for both. Some anglers will eat them. Fried shad roe is considered a delicacy by some and baked shad or pressure cooked and canned shad is an option as well. I wouldn't recommend smoking them though. I ruined a Luhr Jensen smoker a few years ago when I tried to cook them this way. The smoker pan and everything inside was coated with shad oil and I was never able to remove the smell or awful taste that resulted from that experiment.

The third option? Just catch and release them. They really are a lot of fun to go after and for kids who have never caught anything bigger than trout or panfish, the sporty fight offered by a three to four-pound shad is one they'll remember for a long time.
