For the Upper Valley Christian School (UVCS), this special occasion marks a time to reflect on the school's history and celebrate its unique place in the Upper Valley community. UVCS began in 1979 when Jim West, a pastor at Leavenworth Church of the Nazarene, felt the need for a Christian school option in Leavenworth.

Starting a new school was not without struggles. The first year, just days before the school was to open and needed an additional $10,000 to cover costs, a generous member of the community came forward to provide the full amount needed.

With that help, UVCS started with 21 students, one teacher, and one Principal/teacher; John Bangsund. Mr. Bangsund continued to serve as principal for 31 years.

Former student Bella Rylaarsdam, currently a student at NNU, writes, "Upper Valley Christian School is a place where we were given countless opportunities to actively learn and serve our community.

At UVCS we were pushed to be the best we could be in our academic, social, and spiritual lives and were taught by a dedicated staff who instructed us in the love of God with a serving heart."

From the beginning, UVCS's goal, along with high academic standards, has been to instill principles of love, truth, and kindness into students.

An emphasis is placed on 'family', with the intent to be a trusted community school. There are several times during the school week that all students participate in activities together, giving the school a feeling of solidarity, where the older students help look out for the younger.

Dwight Pflugrath, the current school Administrator, leads a staff of 11 who serve the 52 students in Pre-K through 12th grade.

Due to small class size and high teacher-to-student ratio, students are able to receive enhanced individual attention, helping them excel academically.

Combined grade levels allow teachers to get to know students more personally and contribute to furthering their academic success. New opportunities and curriculum are often added.

For the current school year, a grade 5-8 choir has been initiated along with re-introduction of a robotics program.

"The teachers and staff genuinely cared about me and were committed to my learning. They taught me well and I received a great education that prepared me well for my years at Running Start and then at the University of Washington. I am very grateful to have gotten the opportunity to study there because there were so many unique opportunities like the outdoor education trips and ski P.E.," says former student Kellie Kuch.

Field trips, coordinated into the academic curriculum, have historically played a major role in the educational process at UVCS.

"A goal of the school administration was then as it remains today, to not just study within the confines of a classroom. The wider community is their world," said Kathy Bangsund, wife of the late former principal, John Bangsund. Field trips include outdoor education opportunities such as local camping trips and hikes for all grade levels.

Students have visited the Olympic Peninsula, the rainforest, Deception Pass, Yellowstone, Washington D.C., New York, and Boston.

North Road Cemetery Cleanup a Success

SUBMITTED BY MARCI MUTH

The threat of rain did not slow-down the enthusiasm of the fourteen community volunteers who showed up at the North Road Cemetery on Wednesday, Oct. 16, for the 20th semi-annual cleanup event.

Armed with rakes, wheelbarrows, grass trimmers, and garbage bags, these cemetery 'angels' were fearless in their efforts to remove pine needles, pinecones, expired flowers, litter and other debris from the cemetery grounds.

In the past, most cleanup events involve the same volunteers who keep coming back every six months. Chris Orcutt, who initiated the first cleanup event in 2014, was thrilled to see that half of this group of volunteers were first-timers.

Four of the first-timers were from the Sleeping Lady Resort. Their participation helped make this the largest group of participants for this event.

Deb Hartl, Sleeping Lady's Human Resource Manager, was glad she and her co-workers could make a difference. Said Hartl, "because of its historical significance, it was rewarding to spend time near the final resting place of some of the original homestead-

ICICLE CREEK THIS WEEK

FRANKENSTEIN SCREENING ON HALLOWEEN

MASON ELLIOTT

The Icicle Creek Center for the Arts is excited to be showing the National Theatre Live screening of Frankenstein on Halloween!

This is the perfect opportunity to come and get into the Halloween spirit as costumes are welcomed.

This thrilling production became an international sensation, experienced by almost half a million people in cinemas around the world. Benedict Cumberbatch and Jonny Lee Miller star as Frankenstein and the Monster, respectively, in this brilliant and very scary stage adaptation of Shelly's classic.

Childlike in his innocence but grotesque in form, Frankenstein's bewildered creature is cast out into a hostile universe by his horror-struck maker. Meeting with cruelty wherever he goes, the increasingly desperate and vengeful Creature determines to track down his creator and strike a terrifying deal.

Please note: Frankenstein has a BBFC rating of 15, and contains a scene of sexual violence.

Valley Bragging rights on the line Friday

By BILL FORHAN

The deeply rooted rivalry between the Cascade Kodiaks and the Cashmere Bulldogs is a timeless tradition — the two teams go head to head in the annual Pear Bowl this Friday, Nov. 1. “This game is always a big one each year on the schedule as the towns are so close to one another and both communities really get into it,” said Cascade Kodiak’s head coach Dominique Coffin.

atmosphere to play in each year for the kids.” The Kodiaks are bringing a record of 4-4 to the game while the Bulldogs are at a 6-2 record for the season. Regardless of the standing of wins and losses, both teams have put up impressive numbers on the scoreboard and both teams have suffered setbacks on the field. “Every year this game has been a battle no matter where each team is in the league and what is on the line. I expect it to be the same this year as well,” said Coffin. The tradition of the Pear Bowl traces back a long time, revealing a constant yo-yoing cycle of wins and losses between the two teams. Last year’s contest was a tight match with the Bulldogs pulling out a victory at 14 to 10. “Our team needs to continue to develop into a more disciplined football team. In past weeks we have made too many mental mistakes and a team like Cascade will capitalize on those mistakes,” said Bremer. Cashmere is poised to go into the playoffs while this will likely be the Kodiaks final game of the 2019 season. Only time will tell if team pride will provide the incentive for the Kodiaks to end their season with a win. The game is on their home turf in Peshastin beginning at 7 p.m.

During the first 8 games of the season the Kodiaks held opponents to only 17 points. To be successful against the Bulldogs they have to limit the Bulldog offensive scoring with their swarming defense.

Enchantment Park Cross Country Race

SUBMITTED BY CASHMERE COACH JEFF KENOYER

The mass start with boys and girls from both teams racing against each other at Enchantment Park. The course is 2.75 miles in length and run in two laps through Enchantment Park. It is a pretty flat course on crushed gravel paths and some grass. While there are separate results for boys and girls, the competition is just one race with boys and girls combined.

Going To Walleye School

By JOHN KRUSE

You've heard of schooling fish, but how about a school for walleye? Yes, that's a thing and it's now being offered in Washington State.

The Pacific Northwest Walleye School is the brainchild of Johnnie Candle. Candle is a guide who lives at Devils Lake in South Dakota, arguably one of the best walleye fisheries in the nation.

In addition to being a guide Candle is also a tournament angler, competing in various walleye circuits around the country. He's pretty accomplished in this regard. In 2010 he won the Master Walleye Circuit's World Championship.

Most anglers of Johnnie's stature would be content to fish tournaments, guide clients and present seminars during appearances for sponsors at sportsmen's shows during the winter months.

However, Candle has a strong desire to share his fishing knowledge with others beyond the sportsmen's show circuit.

Candle started doing this with his guided fishing trips on Devil's Lake, where he not only helped clients catch fish, but taught them skills they could take home with them and use after their day on the water. Johnnie realized a day really wasn't enough to teach everything he wanted to share and that's where he came up with the idea of a 3 1/2 day walleye school.

Initially offered in the Midwest, Johnnie Candle offered his first Pacific Northwest

Walleye School last October in the Tri-Cities, teaching student anglers of all ages how to catch walleye out of the Columbia River. This October, Candle offered this regional school at Eastern Washington's Potholes Reservoir and the basecamp for the event was MarDon Resort.

The concept behind the school is novel. Johnnie Candle explains most anglers attend seminars during sportsmen's shows and then wait weeks or months before trying to put that knowledge, much of it now forgotten, to use. At Walleye School, Candle and his staff of local pros teach strategies and techniques in the classroom. Then they immediately go onto the water to apply the lessons they just learned. By employing this strategy anglers retain the knowledge much better.

The students bring their own boats and electronics to the school. Candle and his pro-staff jump on board the student boats to give them personalized instruction based on what they want to know. They also help the students get the most out of their boats as well as their sonar and GPS units to help them catch fish.

At this month's Pacific Northwest Walleye School, thirteen anglers spent $695 each to attend from Thursday the 17th through Sunday the 20th. The fee included not only the instruction, but also lodging at MarDon Resort, three meals a day at the Beach House Café there, moorage for boats, ice and even bait.

I was lucky enough to attend the Friday morning session of Walleye School. The student anglers were an interesting bunch. Twelve were men, one came from as far away as Indiana, another from Oregon, and the rest from various locations around Washington State. Some of them had a good amount of walleye fishing expertise, others not as much, and one had not caught a walleye before (but did that morning!).

After breakfast and a quick classroom session we headed to the docks. I tagged along with Johnnie Candle who went out with Paul Phillips from Omak and Mike Monahan from Indiana. Candle spent the first hour with them demonstrating how to use the fish finder and GPS unit to locate walleye. The second hour was spent teaching the two how to fish spinner worm harnesses behind bottom walker weights. It was very informative and I learned several new tricks from Candle. These tricks worked too. In short order Paul Phillips had a walleye in the boat using this new found knowledge.

We headed back to the marina after our session and changed boats. Johnnie now boarded an 18-foot Hewes-craft set up for Columbia River salmon fishing. Johnnie spent some time teaching this angler how to adapt his boat and motors so he could be successful fishing for walleye. One thing Candle suggested, based on the layout of the boat, was to troll plugs for walleye. Candle spooled a reel with lead core line and taught him and I how to fish plugs with this weighted line to get deep where the walleye are located in the Fall. Within one minute of this plug reaching the bottom we hooked a fish and reeled it in. That's what you call rapid, positive reinforcement! As for my day at Walleye School?

The biggest lesson I learned is the tuition spent here is a great investment if you want to become a better angler.

Johnnie Candle will be offering his Pacific Northwest Walleye School at MarDon Resort again next year though a date has not yet been set. Find out more at www.johnniecandle.com

Breast Cancer Awareness Month

Q: Can phytoestrogens help relieve menopausal symptoms like hot flashes and night sweats? What about women with breast cancer?

I experienced my first hot flash standing in front of 120 pharmacy students in a large lecture hall in Pullman, Washington. While explaining how a particular weight loss medicine worked

I felt the temperature in the room skyrocket and my scalp felt hot and prickly. Suddenly, sweat began shooting out of my pores front and back, showering my skin inside my shirt and leaving me damp and disoriented in front of everyone. Talk about being distracted... and embarrassed!

Can phytoestrogens relieve the physical and social discomfort of menopausal symptoms like sudden hot flashes/flushes or their night-time equivalent, night sweats?

Researchers have noticed how Asian women don't suffer as much from hot flashes during menopause as Western women do, calling it the "Japanese Effect".

They suspect the major reason for this difference is diet, because the typical Asian diet contains a lot more soy than a typical American diet, and those soy foods contain phytoestrogens: plant-based substances that can act like estrogen in your body to relieve menopausal symptoms.

Eating more soy-based foods may not be the only thing responsible for the "Japanese Effect".

Protection against hot flashes may also depend on how well you convert the phytoestrogens in soy to a more active form called equol. It's estimated that only 30-50% of women in North America can make the conversion to equol, while Asian or Hispanic women convert soy-based phytoestrogens into equol much more readily.

Phytoestrogens act by attaching or binding to the same places in your body that other estrogens do, in binding sites called estrogen receptors, or ERs. There are two main types of ERs: ER alpha and ER beta receptors.

Most estrogens and phytoestrogens bind to ER alpha receptors, relieving hot flushes but possibly stimulating certain types of breast and endometrial cancers.

Phytoestrogens that bind to ER beta receptors create the opposite effect, instead they block the action of estrogen on breast tissue, much like the estrogen-blocking medicines tamoxifen and raloxifene (Evista®), which may help prevent certain types of breast cancer.

Unfortunately, it's not a predictable effect because it's very hard to pin down and study the effects of phytoestrogens on the body. One reason is that common food sources of phytoestrogens usually contain more than one phytoestrogen, and they can bind to either ER alpha or ER beta receptors, creating conflicting effects.

Plants will develop differing concentrations of phytoestrogens depending on the species and their own growing conditions.

They can also act differently in your body depending on whether you are still making your own estrogens or you are menopausal or post-menopausal, with very little estrogen in your body.

How much soy does it take to reduce hot flash/hot flush symptoms? Most clinical studies use from 40 and 80 mg daily of phytoestrogens from soy-based products. Recent evidence suggests that you start with 2 servings a day of soy foods and try that for 3 months to see if your frequency of hot flashes decreases.

One serving of soy food can be 3 ounces of tofu, ½ cup of edamame, ½ cup tofu, ¼ cup soy nuts, or 1 cup of soymilk. Flaxseed, chickpeas, beans, peas, green leafy vegetables, cauliflower and nuts are also good sources of phytoestrogens. After trying soy for 3 months, if you don't notice any decrease in your hot flashes or hot flashes, you probably won't, and can stop it. Could soy cause breast cancer? If you're not vegetarian, it's unlikely you'll get enough soy in your diet to increase your risk of breast cancer unless you also take supplements containing concentrated soy or herbal products like black cohosh marketed for "menopause support", such as Remifemin®.

Here Are 3 Tips on Taking Phytoestrogens Safely:

- 1. You CAN eat food containing soy, even if you have breast cancer. Moderation is the key. If you are vegetarian or vegan, avoid eating tofu or tempeh every day, and control your consumption of soy milk.
- 2. Use phytoestrogen supplements that have had their potency tested. Exact concentrations of particular phytoestrogens differ depending on growing conditions. Choose products with standardized quality control assays of each batch.
- 3. Be cautious with supplements for menopausal symptoms. If you have a family history or an increased risk of breast cancer, you don't have to totally avoid soy-based food, but you should avoid taking supplements containing concentrated phytoestrogens like soy concentrates or black cohosh until more is known about their long-term effects.

The Upper Valley Christian School celebrates 40th anniversary many hands-on and travel learning opportunities, parental participation is welcomed and encouraged.

According to Mrs. Bangsund, "Parental involvement has been foundational to the school process and has enriched the school."

Bella Rylaarsdam sums up the impact the school has had on her life, saying, "No words can describe how thankful I am to have been instructed with a Christian curriculum.

Upper Valley Christian School has deeply impacted my life and continues to do so in countless others. Thank you to all who have made UVCS a possibility for us."

Just as when UVCS opened, in 1979, the school does not receive government funding and operates solely on tuition, private contributions, and a silent auction/dinner fundraiser in February each year.

Tuition costs are kept as low as possible and scholarship money is made available.

With a rich history and strong community support, UVCS is poised to flourish for many years to come.

North Road Cemetery Cleanup a Success

ers to the area".

Next year's cleanup is already being planned. Matt Cade, President of the Upper Valley Historical Society who helped sponsor the event, asked Hartl and Orcutt how they might make it more of a community-building event.

The idea came out that a community potlatch dinner later in the afternoon after the cleanup might be the way to go.

Cade asks that if anyone has ideas on how we might make the cleanup more of a community event, please contact Chris Orcutt at info@leavenworthmuseum.org or 509-548-0728.

The apartment attached to this house on Commercial Street was completely destroyed.

Crews were already at work on Sunday removing the tree from the two houses damaged on Burke Ave.

Three homes damaged in Friday's windstorm

Are your trees a hazard?

By Bill Forhan

Ron Hill's home on Commercial Street was a total loss after the wind blew over a large tree from his neighbor's yard. "I've complained to the PUD about that tree in the past," said Hill.

On Friday Hill was in his bathroom around 1:30 p.m. when the tree came crashing down.

"It was a good thing I was in the bathroom because if I had been in the kitchen I wouldn't be here today," said Hill. Fortunately, I wasn't hurt but I had to crawl out of the house" he said.

The tree also appears to have pulled down all of the power lines on Commercial Street knocking out electrical power to all of the homes and businesses south of Highway 2. This included the traffic lights at Highway 2 and the Chumstick, which resulted in traffic backups for miles.

Hill's home was not the only home to suffer damage from the windstorm. Two homes on Burke Avenue were also damaged by the storm. In that case another tree was uprooted by the powerful winds and damaged both homes.

Earlier this year a tree fell on the porch of another homeowner. That homeowner requested we not use her name. But the point is trees do not live forever.

Many of the trees in town may well be at risk to come down with the next windstorm.

Hill says, "I've asked the PUD to remove the problem tree but they were reluctant because they feared backlash from the tree huggers."

Whether that opinion is correct or not, the truth is trees do not live forever.

Trees are a renewable resource and it is a serious question about when it is prudent to remove trees that have grown too large or have root systems that are too shallow to sustain them against a powerful windstorm like the one we encountered last Friday.

Council calls for parking meter proposals

By Bill Forhan

Parking has been identified as a top priority by the city and by the Chamber of Commerce. The parking study conducted two years ago found parking usage was at 85 percent of available parking during the week and 104 percent on weekends.

When parking is over 85 percent parking experts say the system is at full capacity. At 104 percent people are parking illegally. This means they are parking in front of fire hydrants, in front of curb cuts and even in no parking zones.

The problem begins with the fact that downtown parking is unregulated. It is free and there is no time limit on those free parking spots. As a result, much of the downtown parking stalls are currently filled by employees who park there for eight or more hours.

"Anybody can park anywhere for as long as they want. That's very unusual for a town promoting visitor-tourists," according to parking consultant Rick Williams.

Currently, the city has 403 unregulated parking stalls in the commercial zone of downtown. Only eleven of those stalls have time limits of 30 minutes.

The city is planning on implementing a managed parking program for those 403 spaces. As a first step the city has approved a call for proposals for "new parking meter technology for new installation, the expansion/replacement on the number of parking kiosks for parking lot management, and the installation of vehicle detection sensors."

The request for proposals goes beyond the 403 unregulated sites, however, calling for the proposal to provide for modernization of the current Kiosks located at the cities paid lots.

The city is looking for a company that can install and manage the technology on a five year contract. The primary specifications for the proposal are as follows:

1. Single-Space and Dual-Space smart meter hardware proposal specifications, including all components and materials;
2. Single-Space and Dual-Space smart meter software proposal components and capabilities, including web-based back office application;
3. Pay Station hardware proposal specifications, including all components and materials;

4. Pay Station software proposal components and capabilities, including web-based back office application;
5. Vehicle Detection Sensors proposal including components and capabilities, including web-based back office applications;
6. Enforcement hardware proposal specifications, including all components and materials;
7. Enforcement software proposal components and capabilities including web-based back office;
8. Pay by Cell Solution with integrated parking guidance app;
9. Training and support;
10. After sales support;
11. Warranty.

All proposals must be submitted in writing by Nov. 14, 2019.

In other business:

- Council approved a motion to fund 2020 Festival and Event Grants at $15,000 and the Tourism/Special Projects grants program at $35,000. Application for the funds must be filed with the city by December, 31 in anticipation that the grants will be awarded by February 11, 2020.

• Council approved the application for Chelan County Lodging Tax Grant funding for capital funding for three projects. The projects are for funding resurfacing of the main floor in the Festhalle, the purchase of mobile reader boards to direct traffic, and installation of lighting for the DOT parking lot.

- Approved acceptance of two bid offers on the Golf Course properties for $257,000 each. The funds are to be placed in a special account reserved for use in acquiring park property in the future.
