

City Council approves budget adjustment for Adventure Park legal costs

By BILL FORHAN

During its quarterly budget adjustment section of the Oct. 8 city council meeting council unanimously approved an increase of $70,000 for estimated costs related to the public records requests, legal fees and court costs for the proposed Adventure Park project on the west end of Leavenworth.

In May, hearing examiner, Andrew Kottkamp, approved a Mitigated Determination of Non-Significance and affirmed the State Environmental Policy Act allowing the controversial project to move forward.

Friends of Leavenworth, a group of concerned citizens who oppose the project appealed the decision to the Superior Court in June.

The hearing for the appeal has been set for Nov. 6, 1 p.m. in Chelan County Superior Court.

The hearing is open to the public but no public testimony will be taken. It is simply a review of the case before Judge Grant.

The Council also unanimously approved an action to provide $240,000 in additional funding for replacement of the fish screens on Icicle Creek.

The additional funding is contingent on the city receiving an equal or greater amount of funding for the City's Water Meter Replacement Project before Jan. 1, 2020.

The fish screens project is being undertaken in partnership with the Department of Fish and Wildlife and Trout Unlimited. It is a priority project begun in 2014 to open 23 miles of habitat to bull trout, steelhead and other anadromous fish by creating a passageway through the Boulder Field on Icicle Creek.

The cities current fish screens are nearing the end of their life and are not in compliance with current standards to protect all fish species from injury or entrapment at all stages of their life cycle.

The City's primary housing goal, as stated in the 2017 Comprehensive Plan, is to "encourage the availability of affordable housing to all economic segments of the population, promote a variety of residential densities and housing types, and encourage preservation of existing housing stock."

The quote is from the letter the council authorized Mayor Farivar to sign and send to the Department of Commerce as part of a new grant program to help rural communities with funding for affordable housing programs.

The city has been working on issues of affordable housing and diversification of housing availability for the last four years.

The new program, as outlined in E2SHB 1923, is a modification of the Growth Management Act to address concerns over limited inventory and lack of options for affordable housing to lower income groups.

The Department of Commerce is accepting applications for grant money to fund studies of local housing needs and help with developing an action plan to address local needs.

Council also approved a motion for the Mayor to sign a letter to Community Planning Assistance for Wildfire seeking assistance in addressing wildfire hazards in Leavenworth. According to the Mayor Farivar's letter the US Forest Service and Pyrologix ranked Leavenworth as the highest risk in Washington state for wildfire damage in 2018.

The Council also unanimously approved arrangements for interim funding for the Wastewater Treatment Plant Facility Project.

The interim funding is required by the USDA Rural Development Loan program to insure that the city will be able to provide payment to contractors while awaiting reimbursement from the USDA.

The total project cost is uncertain at this writing but the interim financing is set at a maximum of $10.6 million.

Mia Bretz running for second term

By Bill Forhan

Mia Bretz, her husband Jay and three children "moved to the trailhead," as she describes it, from Seattle.

With a degree in Economics, Community, Environment and Planning from the University of Washington her new friends and neighbors encouraged her to run for her first term on city council.

She is up for re-election and sat down last week to discuss her accomplishments and goals for the future.

Bretz says while she learned during her first term that the public process is slow and deliberate, she recognizes the value of that process on building consensus and support.

She is proud of the work that's been done during her first term but recognizes it is not complete and would like to be there to work on seeing the progress through.

Bretz says her most important issues are working to develop affordable housing, economic development and community resources.

On the issue of affordable housing there is still much to do says Bretz.

Making that work is going to take a broad coalition involving a regional collaboration of nearby communities, the county and the state.

During her first term the city has been looking at code changes that could make more affordable housing available. She would like to see those changes through and hopes to support development of more inventory including more diverse housing options like smaller units and an increase in rentals.

On the Economic development front Bretz says we must continue to support our tourism economy but would love to see more diversification. It is difficult to find a job in this community that is not somehow dependent on tourism she said.

Committee, which is looking into ways to address our traffic and parking issues.

She does not believe the city should be solely responsible for building a parking garage. She would like to see some private investor take on the project but would be open to some sort of public/private partnership.

"There are only two ways for a community to go," said Bretz. "You either grow or you decline."

Bretz says she wants to continue to work on the issues she began. Helping to find ways for all of us to work toward a more collaborative community.

Her theme is, "Living to play and working for fun in Leavenworth."

On the matter of tourism, Bretz serves on the Downtown Steering

Wow, what an amazing community we live in! The paragliding community in Leavenworth and Cashmere, along with the Cloudbase Foundation, have raised $3,901 to feed hungry people in our community.

Paragliding communities across the country adopt a local beneficiary of charitable projects each year.

The Leavenworth and Cashmere groups selected the Community Cupboard for the upcoming flying season, and we are so grateful they did. Their generous donation will help provide meat and produce for hungry families this Thanksgiving.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Expert reader disagrees with 'Global Warming' theory

As a fellow with a degree in oceanography, a degree in geology, and four years experience as a Navy weather forecaster I have been paying educated attention to the theory of global warming/ climate change for more than twenty-five years. So I read, with interest, the letter to the editor in the Oct. 9 edition of the Leavenworth Echo. The letter specifically mentioned the National Academy of Sciences, Engineering and Medicine and quoted some material from the website. I was curious since I had never heard that particular name. In fact it is incorrect. The correct name is the National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine. The National Academy of Sciences is part of that and is the one most of us are familiar with. I was curious enough about the statements made in the letter to take a look at the NASEM website and thought all was well until I read the following: "The evidence is clear and compelling. Earth's atmosphere and oceans are warming, the magnitude and frequency of extreme climate and weather events are increasing, and sea level is rising along our coasts." It sounds pretty impressive. The earth's atmosphere and oceans may indeed be warming. However, it is arguable whether or not that such is human caused.

But the next phrase about "extreme climate and weather events" is doubtful. I can find articles that argue that the statement is true. But I can also find articles that argue that we are seeing the same pattern in weather that we have seen through most of history. Only the data are being manipulated. Take your pick.

But it is the last phrase I want to really address: "and sea level is rising along our coasts". Pretty scary stuff, but the devil is in the details. What they don't tell you is that sea levels have been rising since the continental glaciers began melting about 20,000 years ago.

More than 400' according to geologists. And for the last 2,000 years the rate has been pretty constant. For the last one hundred plus years NOAA has calculated a constant sea level rise of about 1.8 mm per year (the IPCC says 1.7 mm per year - everybody uses a little different method to calculate a result). That is about 3/4 inch per decade. And despite what you may read, the rise has not increased.

You can google the tide gauge results for most of the tide gauge stations around the world (I suggest New York (Battery) and Honolulu which have data that go back many decades) and you will see a straight line increase. There is no acceleration of sea level rise despite the fear-mongering. Some claim that new satellite data shows an acceleration. That is false. Satellites, which have lots of problems, show a different number but that number also remains constant for the entire period of satellite data. It does not show accelerated sea level rise.

It may help to note that former President Obama, who had the best science in the world at his beck and call, is reported to have entered into an agreement to buy a $14+ million Martha's Vineyard waterfront property. You don't do that if you actually believe the oceans are going to catastrophically rise in the near future.

My opinion from my background in oceanography, geology, meteorology, and government is that the theory of global warming is still a theory; a theory that has been oversold by people with a political and money agenda, a theory that has severe problems which includes: the surface hasn't warmed as much as it was supposed to warm (and was, in fact, flat from 1998 to 2016); the tropical troposphere isn't warming as forecast by the models (extremely important!) and the Antarctic isn't melting as forecast - recent NOAA studies have concluded the Antarctic recently added an enormous amount of ice and snow to its mass - that wasn't supposed to happen. It is a theory that has been helped more by dishonest manipulation of statistics (Mann's hockey stick) than actual science. And it is a theory that totally ignores that global warming, if it occurs, might be good for humanity and the planet. The planet is indeed greening up with increased CO2 and crop yields are increasing just about everywhere.

Increasingly, as the evidence accumulates that the global warming theory has a lot of holes in it, scientists are speaking out. One of the latest is Mototaka Nakamura, who has a PhD in climate science from MIT and has a 25 year career in climate change science. In his new book, The Global Warming Hypothesis is an Unproven Hypothesis, Nakamura argues that much of the global warming argument is built on falsified and untrustworthy data and that the earth's climate is so complicated that today's models are nothing more than "useless pieces of junk". In his view, we don't have the technology or understanding to model the earth's climate.

Traffic Conundrum

Approximately thirty three years ago when we moved our family to Leavenworth the Washington State DOT was conducting public meetings on rerouting traffic, whose destination was not to Leavenworth but through, to a to be constructed route up the Chumstick, I believe paralleling the train route.

This was to avoid exactly what has occurred over the years and as in recent years created a deadly and complex problem for locals especially and not just festival weekends but every weekend and many weekdays during Summer months.

This WSDOT project was declined, in part at the time citing the City wanted to encourage visitors, as I recall.

The traffic stalls through Leavenworth, parking shortages, and rerouting of traffic on I-17 and East Leavenworth roads has created mayhem! We've had loss of life, locals unable to freely travel in and out of their residences at these times, employees unable to get to their jobs, as was the case for my husband's caregiver last Saturday (10/5)!

In the past three years I have had my trip home from working away from Leavenworth on a Friday night extended multiple times by one and one half to two hours by running into standstill traffic when I reached Smallwood's East of Leavenworth or West up Tumwater Canyon a mile or so.

This has got to end. The potential for life threatening events is increasing exponentially. What are we going to do about it?

Actress Debbie Dimitre to portray Bertha Knight Landes

SUBMITTED BY DEBBIEDIMITRE.COM

Since 1987 N.W. Storyteller/Actress Debbie Dimitre has been entertaining, inspiring, and educating audiences of all ages with her historical and dramatic storytelling presentations. In costume and by the glow of her kerosene lamp, Debbie brings to life women and young girls in American history through story and first person portrayals in a style that is uniquely her own.

Some of her portrayals include such women as Harriet Beecher-Stowe, Nellie Bly, Eleanor Roosevelt, Annie Oakley, Grandma Moses and Rachel Carson just to name a few. Debbie has performed for schools, Community colleges, Churches, libraries, book stores, historical societies, philanthropic and service organizations, professional women's groups, retired teachers, as well as numerous retirement communities. She has performed for the Seattle Folklife Festival, served on a board of the Seattle Storytellers Guild, been a member of and performed for the Biblical Storytellers Network and facilitated women's retreats.

While her family says that she has been telling stories her whole life, what piqued Debbie's interest in women's stories 30 years ago was not just her love of theater but her awareness that her children's school books were practically void of information about the contributions, courage and bravery of uncouneted mothers and daughters in American history.

Thus she set about to create a series of one woman presentations. Through careful research and drafting of dramatic and historically accurate scripts, Debbie is able to bring to life these women's stories in very entertaining and engaging ways. As a theater major at both University of Oregon and Portland State University over 45 years ago, Debbie never imagined that she would one day have a one woman production that would take her all over the Pacific N.W. and beyond.

A resident of Kirkland, Washington, wife, mother of three adult children, and a grandmother, Debbie says she feels blessed to be living her dream!

Join PEO Chapter JF for Debbie's performance of Bertha Knight Landes, the first woman Mayor of Seattle from 1926-1928, on Thursday, Oct. 24, at the Cashmere United Methodist.

Obituary

Nancy Ann Kraus

February 19, 1938 – October 10, 2019

Nancy Ann (Folden) Kraus was called home on October 10, 2019 after a brief battle with cancer at the age of 81. Nancy was born on February 19, 1938 to Laurence A. Folden and Lydia Margaret (Tedford) Folden in Polson, Montana. Nancy grew up in Peshastin, Washington and graduated from Peshastin High School in 1956.

In September 1957 Nancy married William Robert Kraus. They lived in Skykomish, WA where they owned and operated the Chevron service station. Together they had three sons; Jeff, Paul and Gary. In June 1968 they moved to Peshastin where they were partners in a fruit orchard. Nancy worked in the fruit industry for over 45 years where she made many friends and acquaintances, finally retiring from Blue Bird at the age of 77. Nancy was an avid sports fan and especially loved her Seattle Seahawks and Mariners. She loved to bake for her family, and her grandkids will tell you her cookie jars was rarely empty. The great joy of Nancy's life was her family and she took a special joy in being a grandma and great-grandma. Nancy was preceded in death by her parents, her husband William Kraus, sons Jeff Kraus and Gary Kraus, sisters Barbara Samuel, Dorothy Stonehocker, Maryllyn Loveday, and Juanita Crossman, and her brother William Folden. She is survived by her son Paul Kraus, brother John Richard "Dick" Folden, and daughter-in-law Kris Kraus all of Peshastin, WA; sister Eileen Stonehocker of Spokane, WA; grandchildren Courtney Postelwait, Amy Edwards, Cody Smith, Brandon Kraus, Megan Solly, Melanie Kraus and Mitchell Kraus; and numerous great-grandchildren, cousins, nieces, nephews and beloved friends.

Services will be held on Friday October 18, 2019 at 11 a.m. at Light in The Valley Community Church in Peshastin, WA with a reception to follow. Arrangements are in the care of Heritage Memorial Chapel.

We are here to serve families in Leavenworth, Peshastin, Plain and the entire Upper Valley.

ICICLE CREEK THIS WEEK

VOLTA PIANO TRIO ON OCTOBER 19

MASON ELLIOTT

The Icicle Creek Center for the Arts welcomes you to enjoy the Volta Piano Trio with guest cellist Meta Weiss on October 19 at 7 p.m. in the Canyon Wren Recital Hall.

Hailed by Gramophone magazine for its "warmly considered playing" and "shadings of exquisite sheen and vibrancy", the Volta Piano Trio, formerly known as the Icicle Creek Piano Trio, has established itself as one of the Pacific Northwest's premier chamber ensembles. The members of the Volta Piano Trio originate from the United States, United Kingdom, and Russia. Together as individuals, Jennifer Caine, Sally Singer, and Oksana Ezhokina have performed in venues such as the Metropolitan Museum of Art, Alice Tully Hall, the Phillips Collection, and the Royal Albert Hall, and have toured in Austria, Germany, France, Italy, and the U.K.

This will be a performance you won't want to miss. Make sure to get your tickets now at www.icicle.org!

As always, make sure to check out icicle.org for information about events and everything happening on campus. And, make sure to follow us on both Facebook and Instagram for up to date information and what goes on here on campus! We hope to see you soon!

Breast Cancer Awareness Month

Protecting your skin during radiation

Q: I'm starting radiation treatments soon for my newly diagnosed breast cancer. How can I help keep the treatments from burning my skin?

Nearly 8 out of 10 people with cancer who are treated with radiation will get skin irritation from it, called "radiation dermatitis" by doctors. It starts out with redness and warmth like a mild rash, then becomes increasingly sensitive to touch and may even feel "tight".

As radiation damage progresses your skin feels "dry", starts to itch and can eventually peel, exposing tender red skin which oozes clear fluid.

You're more likely to have a serious skin reaction from radiation treatment if you have another skin surface rubbing up against the skin being radiated, you've had surgery there in the past, if you smoke or if you have diabetes.

To reduce the risk of experiencing post-radiation irritation, which tends to peak about a week after treatment, treat your skin gently.

Avoid rubbing or scratching the area being radiated.

Keep the barrier of your skin intact by drinking plenty of water and applying a moisturizing cream to the area faithfully.

It's okay to use soap; in fact, washing your skin gently with mild soap and water has been shown to cause less skin reaction compared to just rinsing with water.

Most patients who start radiation treatment are advised to use a "mild, non-alkaline soap, preferably unscented".

Unfortunately, there isn't much agreement about which soaps are best and no clear evidence that any specific soap is superior.

Mild soaps like Dove®, Ivory®, or Neutrogena® are considered safe to use, but most experts agree that highly scented soaps such as Coast® and Irish Spring® should be avoided when undergoing radiation treatment.

You can safely wear deodorant or antiperspirant during treatment unless the skin of your armpit develops a cut, scratch or blister.

Applying a moisturizer after radiation sessions can help protect your skin from dryness, irritation and skin breakdown. There's a new option now available to help protect your skin from radiation damage.

Your skin consists of a series of layers of flattened cells that form a flexible, self-renewing barrier that protects your body against exposure to infection and toxins.

Your skin cells start out nice and plump, then gradually drying out and flattening into overlapping layers. Then the top layer flakes off, exposing the next layer down, continuing the cycle.

Ceramide molecules support the barrier function of healthy skin. A lower level of ceramides is found in dry, damaged skin compared to healthy skin, and applying ceramide-rich creams

Ask...

Dr. Louise

Lotions and creams containing these vitally important compounds can restore skin integrity faster than creams containing only traditional moisturizing agents.

CeraVe® Moisturizing Cream has 3 essential ceramides and was recommended to one of my patients. I compared it to my previous favorite, Arbordoun's Abundantly Herbal Calendula Cream, to decide for myself if the claims about ceramides was real or just good marketing. I was QUITE impressed! My skin absorbed the CeraVe® quickly, it wasn't greasy at all, and my skin felt super smooth, even hours later.

My previous favorite moisturizer with calendula is Arbordoun's Abundantly Herbal Calendula Cream ($20 for a 7-ounce jar).

With olive oil, calendula and lavender, Arbordoun's helps protect your skin from radiation damage but it does take a little time to get completely absorbed. You should let it soak into your skin for about 5 minutes before putting on your clothes so that the fabrics don't stick to it.

You can also apply pure Aloe Vera juice directly to your skin.

My stepmother, Joyce, used Trader Joe's Aloe Vera Juice after each radiation treatment with excellent results.

Here are 5 Tips to Help Protect Your Skin During Radiation Treatment:

1. Avoid rubbing or scratching. Itching causes the urge to scratch even when you sleep, so keeping your fingernails cut short and wearing cotton gloves or socks over your hands at night can really help.

2. Stay out of hot water. Avoid using hot water or strongly scented soaps when washing or bathing.

3. Don't scrub. Treat your skin gently. Avoid washing using harsh scrubbing tools like exfoliating cloths, rough washcloths, or loofahs.

4. Keep yourself hydrated. Irritated skin loses water more easily, making it feel dry and itchy. Drink plenty of water to help keep your skin well hydrated.

5. Apply a soothing cream. Support the barrier function of your skin by protecting it with a skin moisturizer after each radiation treatment. Creams containing ceramides (CeraVe®, Curel®) or calendula can be particularly helpful.
