Council seeks avenue for open dialogue

By KALIE DRAGO

Frustration has been expressed on both sides - City Council and residents - over the lack of healthy communication and understanding between those in Leavenworth city limits.

Tension has continued to thicken between entities, resident driven groups and the city, due to limited dialogue.

"Now with affordable housing, Adventure Park, all these big things, people do not feel like they have a voice," said Sharon Waters, council member.

The council and Mayor Farivar used a large amount of study session time on May 14 to retrace steps discussed at the council retreat about community communication and invite an expert, Colin Brine, on the topic to figure out how to tackle the issue.

"(The purpose is) fueled by pursuit of clarity and bringing people together for growth," said Brine.

Brine is co-founder and principal consultant of Be Clearly, a consultant firm concentrating on community outreach. Community outreach is something the council seems desperate to achieve - in a productive manner.

Enlisting Brine's help, the council addressed the fractured community, the misinformation circulating and the divisive issues.

"From my perspective, this is really initiated out of our community getting a lot more engaged. We just have a really active community," said Mia Bretz, council member. "We know that parking and affordable housing are big issues that have to do with having a lot of people. And some of the ways that we solve those problems cause frustration or concern."

Some residents appear exasperated with only a three minute window for watered down dialogue.

Some council members expressed exasperation on how to stop misinformation from infiltrating and antagonizing the issue.

"There is a critical need to hear from the people who live here, there's a critical need for people who do business here. And there is a critical need for these two groups to have opportunity to dialogue between them. And that's what I see happening at a community meeting," said Zeke Reister at the May 14 City Council meeting.

The city is aiming to give everyone a chance to use their voice and harmonize the somewhat colliding forces in town.

"Right now from the community, there's a lot of negativity. There's a lot of blaming. And it's all coming from a place of love. They're saying this because they love our community and the things they love about it, they want to protect," said Bretz.

Seemingly easy to open a channel of dialogue, there are actually a lot of complex layers

Beaver Valley property sold to the highest bidder - Lake Wenatchee Fire and Rescue

In a different setting than usual, the Cascade School Board members gathered at the Discovery School on the Fish Hatchery for the Monday, May 13 school board meeting. The school year and the school district's ownership of the entire Beaver Valley property all dwindling down to the final stretch.

"We've been at this awhile and there's been a little emotion on both sides of the playing field when it comes to this," said Bill Motsenbocker, Cascade Superintendent, when the meeting rolled over into the Beaver Valley property action item.

Prior to this long awaited decision, controversy and steady community engagement have been intertwined in the Beaver Valley property sale.

"I look at the process we have been going through and it has been a long process. And we have done everything transparently. We have given time, we have stopped the process," said Carrie Sorensen, Vice Chair of the school board. "My job is to try to figure out what the community wants there."

In 2017, the school board announced the surplus of the unused portion of land, the 5.37 acres. Over the span of two years, Plain residents voiced concern over Lake Wenatchee Fire and Rescue's interest in expanding on the land. A request to delay the sale in order to put together a plan to utilize the land for recreational activities was accepted. In July 2018, after time was allotted for a plan to be structured, there was an organized meeting where a majority of community members agreed with the surplus. In August 2018, the land was put up for sale with the stipulation of adding a play field on a portion of the property. Later, the play field requirement was

In a brief, but productive meeting the May 14 City Council meeting was conducted seamlessly. City Council discussed a component of the Front Street project, finalized a social media contract and set a public hearing date for June.

Before diving into the agenda, the council and Mayor individually shared tidbits from committee meetings.

With parking being a hot button topic, council member, Mia Bretz, gave a report on the first stakeholders parking committee meeting.

The group is tasked with zero-ing in on the parking issue and how to alleviate some of the areas of concern.

For the first month, the group is meeting twice to get some momentum but will usually one meet once a month. The people on the Ad Hoc committee will be limited to two terms, according to Bretz.

"We elected a chair and a vice chair. We talked about purpose and mission and what we're going to be working on," said Bretz.

"We took the council approved parking strategies and having that guide us. Then all of the suggested projects, we're going to list our top five to bring that to the next meeting to see what our first steps should be."

Following on Bretz' heels, Mayor Cheri Farivar launched into her own report. For those interested in Congresswoman Kim Shrier or those with questions about fire safety, there is an event to add to the to do list - Farivar stated Shrier will be visiting at an unknown date (as of right now). The visit will be seasonally appropriate in the midst of fire season.

"It's very likely in the next couple of months, Shrier is going to sponsor an area wide meeting, a big one. (It's) aimed at helping homeowners and property owners create defensible space," said Farivar.

Public in the audience as always was invited to make comment. Both Duane Goehner and Zeke Reister addressed the discussion the council had at the May 14 study session about wedging a door open for communication.

"Part of my frustration as you know, is having that dialogue. As we build a community, having that broader dialogue, understanding what the residents want as well as what the business owners want, is going to be even more imperative. So that we don't create tension when we block each other's communication off," said Goehner.

The council was receptive to Goehner's and others desire to have dialogue and have plans in motion to have that conversation with the community.

Since the farmer's market had redacted its noise variance request after considering pool redacted and the school board decided on independently developing the play field on the Beaver Valley School campus instead.

Beaver Valley property sold to the highest bidder - Lake Wenatchee Fire and Rescue

"We could've sold the fire district that property at a much lower price and because of suggestions from the community we went different routes," said Sorensen. "But I think the community, not everybody and it's not an overwhelming done deal, but I do think the community in that area is supportive of the fire district purchasing at that bid."

As of April 29, the school board had two bids to decipher between for the better option on the land. Kirby Phillips, representing Beaver Valley Community Recreation Association, had presented the idea of splitting the parcel into two with a ten year lease agreement for the north part of the property to be used for youth recreation. Lake Wenatchee Fire and Rescue had offered up a $340,000 cash bid.

"I proposed a different path, because I think the school district isn't just in the money business, but the people business," said Phillips. "You are in the people business. You're in the business of building people. You are the stewards of our next generation. That is your responsibility. It is easy to take the piece of land and turn it into cash. It is much harder to do the kind of work that your teachers do every day - To try and take young men and women and build them into great people."

After two years, some push and pull, attorneys inserted and hesitation from the school board while conducting further deliberation - the school board announced to an eager crowd the final decision.

"To give this to Lake Wenatchee Fire and Rescue that seems like a win-win to me. We've done our due diligence...our motivation is to best serve our community and our kids. And while we may have different opinions, I'm so grateful for the mutual respect we've had in this discussion. It's been controversial, but it's always been, for the most part, very respectful on all sides," said Sorensen. "Just all that to say, I do think the community is in support of the highest bidder."

The decision was met with a calm disposition from the audience, frustration didn't surface after it was announced nor was there triumphant celebrating. After community engagement had erupted >> safety, the meeting rolled over into the next agenda item. The council approved setting a public hearing for June 11 in regard to vacating a portion of two right-of-ways.

"That's based on an old state law that said if the road hadn't been developed in a limited time period after being platted then it reverted back to the property owners," said Lillith Vespier, Development Services Manager.

The properties are on Summit Road and Woodward Street and if everything goes fluidly, the property will be turned over to the property owners adjacent to the vacated area.

After council members weren't in agreement with the step by step process inserted in the social media policy at the last city council meeting, a new draft was presented to the council and was approved.

The changed language avoids the issue of technology constantly evolving and there will still be documentation, it just won't be in the policy.

"Previously Council member (Margaret) Neighbors requested we look at removing the step by step instructions. We eliminated the step by step but we need to retain certain pieces of removing content," said Chantell Steiner, city clerk.

Other business tended to:

- ◆ A service level agreement was approved with Washington Technology Services (a company that is familiar with working with cities and state agencies).

- ◆ The city okayed the Steering Committee to request a proposal of the Front Street bathroom renovations and stairway access for selection of an architecture company. According to Joel Walinski, city administrator, there will be an assessment of the Front Street bathrooms of whether to rebuild or add on.

Also, looking for the best way to insert stairway access from Highway 2 to Front Street.

>> from both sides over the property, the finalization of the property seemed to bring mostly relief that there was a conclusion to the saga. The debate surrounding the property also illuminated to residents the degree that the school board is invested in pleasing parents, students and the community.

"I've come to four or five of these meetings, mostly to follow this issue, and what I've really come away with is the remarkable stewardship that you folks are entertaining with this school district," said David Stoller, Plain resident. "One of the spinoffs of this controversy and this discussion has been an awakening to me the fine job that the school board is doing, so bravo."

Sorensen also confirmed that the play field is already in the works on the school district's end.

This allows the school district to remain in control and managing the play field rather than an outside party being responsible.

Obituary

James Wallace Petersen

January 11, 1946 – May 14, 2019

James Wallace Petersen, 73, returned to his heavenly home on May 14, 2019 in Hillsboro, Oregon. This cowboy, lovingly referred to as "Grandpa Horse" by his grandchildren showed strength and true grit to his last day. He was a true 'man's man'. When he spoke you listened. He proved to all of us that even through life's greatest challenges you shall overcome.

He is survived by his eternal companion, Myrna K. Riding, and his eight (8) Children: Justin, and Christie, Kade and April, Jason & Jan'l, Jason and Tinille, Amber, Tyler and Toni, Robert and Melanie, and Devin and Sarah, as well as thirty eight (38) grandchildren and his mother Rae Reid Petersen. He reunites on the other side with his father Herald, his brother Donald "Smiley", and his sister Shirley. James was born on January 11, 1946 in Santa Monica, California, as the second child of Herald and Rae Petersen. Clarion Oakley, Lee Pett, and Wallace Reid receive our eternal gratitude. He never forgot their kindness and unconditional love. With their help he served a mission for the LDS church in Florida. He said, "When you are on a mission reality sets in and you realize a person needs to change on the inside, not just on the outside, which was hard for a rough guy like me..."

With a love for his country James served honorably in the US Army as a Mighty Buck Sergeant. He was always proud of his service. In 1970, Jim met his eternal companion, Myrna. They were married on August 21. He loved and adored her every day of the 48 years they spent together. He always made her laugh and no matter how hard it became, he never lost his laugh and his joy in being with her. He knew how to live and he knew how to love.

Together they raised 8 children. James was their constant source of joy, laughter, and love. He showed that happiness is found with his children, their spouses, and his grandkids, who he valued more than anything else in his life. This loving patriarch served faithfully in the LDS church as a missionary, a Bishop, a High Councilman, a senior missionary in Wyoming, and as a temple ordinance worker in the St. George, Utah Temple.

On his last day, with a 'thumbs up' and a whispered 'I love you' to his family, the heavens opened their arms to this mighty modern day hero and he passed the bounds of this mortal realm having endured faithfully to the end. It can be heard from all the birds singing from the tree-tops, "Happy trails to you, until we meet again..." "Well done, well done, my good and faithful Son."

17th Annual Golf Classic Is Fast Approaching

SUBMITTED BY
WADE A. NASH,
CMF BOARD MEMBER

Cascade Medical Foundation's annual fun day is scheduled for June 17, which is the day after Father's Day. As has always been the case, skill, gender, physical ability, and age are not considered. A sense of humor and the desire to contribute to your community are all that is needed.

The Golf Classic is the major fundraiser for the year. This year the contribution to play has been reduced to $100 for the round of golf, golf cart, snacks, pre-game activities, tee prizes, a photo of the foursome, a chance to win great hole-in-one prizes, prizes for closest to the pin, accurate drive, beat the pro hole and longest drive. The contribution also pays for a great dinner at the Wild Huckleberry Restaurant at the course and you can bring a friend that didn't play golf for just $25.

There is also an activity package being offered for just $20 that includes several fun activities during the round of golf. It is very easy to register for the tournament by going to www.cascademedicalfoundation.org where you will find more information about the Foundation and the activities held throughout the year. Just remember, this is a fun round of golf. There have been instances when the foursome scorekeeper only wrote down the strokes they liked. If you are not a golfer or for some reason cannot play in the tournament you can still help your family, relatives, friends and the many visitors by going on line at www.cascademedicalfoundation.org and donating.

The Golf Classic has a serious side. Cascade Medical Hospital covers 1200 square miles from Stevens Pass to Blewett Pass. It serves approximately 14,000 people per year with emergency, Family Clinic, physical therapy and occupational therapy for both inpatient and outpatient needs. Through the years your contributions has helped improve patient's quality of life and saved an unknown number of lives.

This year proceeds from the Golf Classic is helping replace the 2D Mammogram equipment you purchased in 2009 with state-of-the-art 3D Mammogram equipment that offers improved imaging and accuracy. The current Mammogram equipment has served the community well for several years, but it can no longer be certified and must be replaced. Cascade Medical Foundation is a certified non-profit which makes your contributions tax deductible.

The Foundation is comprised of a volunteer board which helps insure your contribution goes directly to the needs of the hospital. Cascade Medical Foundation is always looking for people who would like to be involved in supporting their community. If you want to be involved, go to www.cascademedicalfoundation.org and click on volunteer. We hope to see you on June 17.

We are here to serve families in Leavenworth, Peshastin, Plain and the entire Upper Valley.

Kodiaks endure 3-2 loss in state quarterfinal

By AL STOVER

The Cascade High boys soccer team stellar season came to an end on May 18 after a 3-2 loss to Northeast A League's Lakeside in 1A Boys Soccer State Championship quarterfinal game.

Lakeside took an early lead with a goal early in the first half. Cascade struggled to break through the Eagles' defense. Raul Mata and Arturo Avila had a couple of close shots late in the frame. In the second half, the Eagles added a goal in the 55th minute.

The Kodiaks did not go down without a fight as. Daniel Sandoval prevented the shutout after firing a goal in the 75th minute to cut the Eagles' lead to one goal. Efren Guerrero scored another goal in the last minute to tie the game.

Just when it seemed like the game would go into overtime, Lakeside scored a goal in the final seconds to end Cascade's season.

Even after the game was over, Cascade fans gave their team a standing ovation.

Co-Head Coach Pete Spiegel said the Kodiaks played well against Lakeside and noted that the Eagles came at them with three points of attack like he expected.

"We made a few mistakes, especially with that last goal," he aded. "That's one we're not going to forget."

Coach Spiegel also commended Lakeside as a quality team but thought Cascade played better soccer. The Kodiaks had more corner kicks and played the ball in more dangerous areas. Yet soccer is a sport where the momentum can shift late Cascade's Caidan Newman pursues the ball as a Lakeside player tries to pull him back in the game.

Prior to the Lakeside game, the Kodiaks opened the state tournament with a 2-1 overtime victory against Wahluke.

Cascade took a 1-0 lead with a goal in the first half. Wahluke scored a goal in the second half to tie the game at one apiece at the end of regulation.

During the second overtime period, Cascade scored a goal to clinch the win.

The two state tournament games brought Cascade's overall record to 14-2-1. Cascade went unbeaten in the regular season, recording eight shutouts - six of which were consecutive.

The Kodiaks swept their four Caribou Trial League opponents to secure the conference championship and earn a bye in the district tournament. After a 7-0 shutout over Chelan, Cascade lose to Cashmere in the District 6 finals, their first loss of their 2019 campaign.

"We had a great season, I wouldn't ask for anything more," he added. "I wouldn't ask for anything more, we won a game in state and won our league. Right now it's just disappointing to not put this one away."

Cascade will lose seniors Mata, Sandoval, Ricardo Barragan, and Jose Valdez to graduation.

"Next year, we'll miss those guys, they're the spine of our team, but we'll still be okay," Coach Spiegel said.

Several key players are expected to return, including Avila, the team's leading scorer, and goalkeeper Jerome Jerome.

Cascade girls wins district tennis title, advance to state

By AL STOVER

Cascade High seniors Dorothy Espinosa and Molly Evans will have a chance to end their high school tennis careers on a high note, as do Stella Johnson and Molly Wiser with their sophomore season.

All four girls placed in the top three at the Caribou Trail League-Central Washington B District 6 tournament on May 18 to win the District 6 team title with 21 points, as well as advance to the state championships.

Although the Cascade girls started the season slow, Head Coach Mark Hassinger noted they are finishing the year strong.

Espinosa finished second in the Girls Singles bracket. After a two-set win against Tonasket's Julie Bello, she battled through a tough opponent in CWB champion Liberty Bell's Ruthann Matteson (7-6 (3), 0-6, 7-6 (4)) to reach the finals.

"Dorothy played the best match of her career in the semifinals," Hassinger said. "She really had to dig deep to pull it out and showed great drive and resiliency."

In her last contest, Espinosa fell to CTL champion Emma McLaren of Chelan (6-2, 6-0).

Wiser finished third in the bracket after she went 3-1. After a win over Lake Roosevelt's Alexa Ryan, (6-3, 6-3) Wiser fell to McLaren in two sets.

In the consolation round, Wiser bounced back to defeat Cashmere's Kate Cooper, (6-1, 6-1) in the consolation semifinals and Matteson, (6-3, 7-5) in the third-place match.

Evans and doubles partner Johnson placed second in the Girls Doubles division.

The Cascade pair earned two set wins over their Tonasket opponents, (6-1, 6-0) and Okanogan adversaries, (6-3, 6-4) to reach the finals.

In the championship round, the Kodiak duo fell to bracket champions, Cashmere's Aleah and Lauren Kert (6-1, 6-1). "They did everything they needed to execute to come away with a victory into the finals," Hassinger said. "In the finals they ran into the undefeated team of the Kert sisters from Cashmere."

Hans Schlyer, who finished fourth in the CTL Championships, went 0-2 in the boys singles division.

All four girls will advance to the 1B/2B/1A Tennis State Championships at the Yakima Tennis Club, May 24-25.

Espinosa, Wiser, and Johnson will be competing in their first state tournament.

This will be Evans' third state competition. As a freshman, she and partner Eba Keziah finished seventh in the 2016 tournament. Last year, Evans and Maddie Vandell placed fifth.

"Needless to say, the team was ecstatic about their performance," Hassinger said. "The coaches and girls couldn't be more happy and proud but we realize our season is not done yet."

Bavarian Battle of the Bikes

Seth Gormley (pictured) was one of a few local participants in the Red Bull Pump Track World Championship qualifier on May 18 at the Leavenworth Pump Track. The event was a part of the second annual Bavarian Battle of the Bikes, May 16-19, presented by Infinity Cycling and the Blue Lotus Foundation. The weekend also featured the Battle of the Bikes Kick Off Party at Stein on May 16 and the Dirt Digger Crit on May 19, at the Leavenworth Ski Hill. Money raised throughout the weekend during this year's festival will go to the Evergreen Mountain Bike Alliance to help fix and maintain the trails on the Leavenworth Ski Hill, and scholarships for the Icicle Bicycle Club.

Council seeks avenue for open dialogue

to an open communication forum.

With such intensity surrounding certain pillars of distress for residents, conversation could become overwhelming.

Brine had several suggestions to form a productive structure on how to build that gap between those in Leavenworth.

"The simple and complex answer: we have to find something everyone cares about," said Brine.

Brine suggested that the city aim for a higher arc to start off the back and forth communication.

By higher arc, he meant identifying the ideal vision for the city and then working with that big picture.

This alleviates the disconnect over each individual issue and pulls everyone in for the same goal.

"It needs to be really clear what the goal of the forum, of what we're trying to accomplish, what we're trying to learn," said Mayor Cheri Farivar.

Brine is invited back to the next study session in June to present the lay out of how to lead everyone in a productive engagement.

The City Council seemed to be settled on the format of city officials sponsoring the forum, Brine being the neutral facilitator and the community to actively participate.

"There's really a large contingent of people who don't know what we're doing and only respond to fearful expectations," said Mayor Farivar.

Global Juice Celery Movement

Late last year Medical Medium, Anthony Williams published a book called, Celery Juice: The Most Powerful Medicine of Our Time Healing Millions Worldwide. Now that is quite a claim from someone that has no medical or nutritional training, but is highly touted by actress Gwyneth Paltrow (do I you need to say more). Due to the current eating trend of "juicing" this book has had tremendous sales. The followers of his diet are told that they need to drink copious amounts of celery juice everyday. Apparently he has a lot of followers as the price of an 18 pound box of celery in December sold for $12.00 per box wholesale. That same box of celery has soared to $90.00 per box this Spring. Many retailers are selling it at a loss as most consumers are not willing to pay a soaring retail price for what is considered just celery. Let's face it celery is that item on the veggie tray that is only eaten after the baby carrots are gone. Don't get me wrong I like celery and it is packed with all sorts of health benefits. One of the things about celery is that it full of fiber, and fiber helps feed the stomach bacteria to keep the body functioning properly. Juicing destroys the fiber, so that's one benefit you lose.

California is the major producer of celery with about 26,000 acres planted in Central and South Coast counties. The predominate variety is "Pascal" but there are other varieties commercially grown. Celery seeds are very tiny and difficult to germinate. All commercially produced celery is planted as transplants which have been grown in greenhouses and nurseries. Another fact about celery is that it is among a small group of foods (such as peanuts) that can provoke a severe allergic reaction, such as anaphylactic shock. This allergen is not destroyed in cooking. For some reason this is more common in Europe, and food containing celery or possible traces of celery are labeled as so. Europeans also eat more Celeriac (the Bulb) that the stalks which may be a factor.

On a historical note, garlands of celery leaves were identified in the tomb of Tutankhamun, so we know that celery has been around for centuries and mainly consumed for medicinal reasons. So eat your celery its health benefits are tremendous and a Bloody Mary is not the same without it. Enjoy!

STUFFED CELERY

- 12 ribs of celery

- 1/2 cup sour cream
- 3 tablespoons sour cream
- 1/2 cup chopped walnuts
