

A step toward preparing for wildfire season

By KALIE DRAGO
Echo Reporter

With the sun setting later and the weather permitting short sleeves instead of snow boots, summer is on the horizon. But like most things, with the good comes the bad. The hot, dry weather impending on North Central Washington maximizes the chances of unfortunate possibilities for 2019 during wildfire season.

Local and statewide organizations, including local agency Chumstick Wildfire Stewardship Coalition, pooled their resources together to prepare Leavenworth, Plain and Chumstick residents for the upcoming wildfire season.

The meeting took place in the Icicle Village Resort, starting at 6 p.m. with plenty of pamphlets and presenters to aid any lingering questions from residents after the presentations.

"We're a grassroots organization," said Ross Frank, one of the founders of the Chumstick Wildfire Stewardship Coalition as he introduced the group and its purpose. "We have two primary goals. One is outreach and education. We have to change our culture, our living culture as residents on this landscape needs to change to adapt to wildfires."

The Chumstick Coalition not only coaxed residents to be self-aware and educated, but also highlighted a variety of tangible ways for residents to help mitigate the dangers of wildfires.

"Our second focus is real, actual physical change in the landscape," said Frank. "That's work done on the ground."

Corinne Hoffman also spoke on behalf of the grassroots group and education efforts. She also elaborated on upcoming events that the community could participate in. On May 4 and 5 there will be a Firewise Woody Vegetation Recycling Event from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. From April 24-May 3 there will be a 2019 Spring Chipping available for residents as well.

"We need to work together to make our landscape more fire resilient and to protect our homes, our livelihood and ourselves," said Hoffman.

Some of the other organizations that prompted the community to reach out to join their efforts were: Chelan County Fire District 3, Washington State Department of Natural Resources, Cascadia Conservation District and Chelan County Natural Resources.

"It takes a Bavarian Village," said Alex Roberts from Chelan County Fire District 3. "It's all of us working together. We're here to support your efforts, but you all as home owners, land owners, need to take leadership role and call us for home assessments, chipper projects, that kind of thing."

The theme of the series of presentations was breaking down projects that each organization is invested in and offering - while tying in ways that the community can actively participate to prepare both their property and themselves for wildfire season.

"As we want the forest to be wildfire resistant, we as residents need to be wildfire resistant as well," said Frank.

Hikers, mountain bikers cautioned on trail use after snow, water events

By AL STOVER
Echo Reporter

Spring is here and many folks are itching to for the opportunity to visit their favorite hiking or mountain biking trails. However, the Central Washington Evergreen Mountain Bike Alliance is asking people to wait a little longer before using the trails - as least until the soil is dry.

The Leavenworth Ski Hill is one of many trails systems across central Washington impacted from the late snow and rain showers. While the Lower Rosie Boa and For The Boys trails are open for use, the Rosie Boa, Uphill Trail and Freund Trail are currently closed. Outside of Leavenworth, areas like the No. 2 Canyon, Devil's Gulch and Mountain Home are closed to due to snow.

Leavenworth Winter Sports Club's Marketing and Administrative Director Alex Brieger explained that riding or walking on wet trails on the Leavenworth Ski Hill and other areas will leave bike tread ruts or foot step holes. These indentations in the trail will collect water and create erosion and damage the trail.

Brieger noted that the soil in eastern Washington is different than the western side of the state in that it contains a lot of clay, which is slippery when wet, but dries hard.

"So these footstep holes and bike tread ruts then dry in this shape and create a very hazardous tread surface to ride or walk on (and could result in) twisted ankles, getting your tire caught and falling over," Brieger said. "In the case of snow on trails, riders and walkers will use one side of the trail. These trails are pretty narrow and by walking on the outside of the trail, it begins to fall away. This is very hard to repair."

the chapters of the Evergreen Mountain Bike Alliance, a statewide nonprofit organization. Brieger said the LWSC is a member of the organizations' Central chapter, which focuses on building and maintaining trails in Leavenworth, Wenatchee and Lake Chelan. While the chapter mainly advocates for mountain bike trails, they also build trails for multi-use, including running, walking and hiking and biking.

Brieger said the chapter has a staff of about five paid trail builders and mostly relies on volunteers to conduct trail maintenance, which encompasses treadwork, brushing, clearing trees, big rocks and debris that have fallen into a trail. The chapter has projects throughout the region, including the Leavenworth Ski Hill, the No. 2 Canyon, Sage Hills, Squilchuck State Park, Devils Gulch And Echo Ridge.

He noted that cost of repairing a trail depends on the damage and what is needed to fix it.

"It's also tricky in that because the soil is clay, we have to do maintenance when it's moist, so timing is a big part of it," Brieger said. "The longer we can keep users off the trails until they are dry, we can get in and fix the seasonal damage from winter, and then get to building new trails."

If someone finds damage to a trail, they can use the contact page on the Central Washington Evergreen Mountain Bike Alliance's website. They can also reach out to him directly at

Local cartoonist flourishes

From Cashmere Valley Record to Mad Magazine

Garfield, Peanuts, Pogo - cartoon strips often conjure up nostalgia. When bad news is splashed on the front page, one could count on the Sunday cartoon section to get a laugh. Dryden resident, Dan McConnell, is a celebrated artist who continues to create light-hearted work for both local and national publications. His byline has been featured in household name publications such as MAD magazine and Reader's Digest.

With no television growing up, McConnell didn't flicker through channels, but rather channeled his energy into art. His illustrations started at about four with him rolling out butcher paper and drawing cowboys and Indians. Tomahawks, spears, arrows and gunshots flying across the page was the initial ignition of the creativity that led him to his career path.

"I was just a kid doing drawings at about four or five and I just kept doing it," said McConnell. "(After moving to Cashmere and purchasing a pear orchard) I needed to do something with my art work so I came down to John Ricman (publisher of the Cashmere Valley Record at the time)."

When his career eventually evolved into him pitching an idea of a political cartoons to the Cashmere Valley Record, the Record suggested a more locally centered idea - the fruit industry. In 1980, McConnell produced Apple Andy, a comical staple that lasted in the publication for 20 years.

"(My favorite aspect of what I do) I just like making lines on paper," said McConnell. "It's really tactical. (Versus working on the computer) I like working on paper, doing watercolors, anything doing traditional mediums."

Introducing the new Leavenworth Summer Theater Board President

By KALIE DRAGO
Echo Reporter

The Leavenworth Summer Theater is on the cusp of its season to unleash catchy musical ballads, host talented performers and continue providing entertainment for locals and tourists alike. While its well received performances and tradition of intertwining the Sound of Music in its season will stay the same for 2019, behind the scenes there has been a few tweaks to casting. Bill Bauer has transitioned into the position of the Leavenworth Summer Theater Board President.

"Leavenworth Summer Theater is on the brink of several new and exciting changes, and Bill will be a wonderful leader to ensure a great future for the theater," said Executive Director of Leavenworth Summer Theater.

Bauer is stepping into the role after former president, Dave Neir, retired - Neir had been president since 2013 and a member of the board since 2005. According to Lacey, Bauer had been an integral part of the board for 14 years and was both nominated and confirmed unanimously as president.

"The president is the public facing leader of the Board of Directors. He will represent Leavenworth Summer Theater and its interests as we look to build on our past 25 years of success and secure the next 25," said Lacey.

"Bill has been a foundational member of the Leavenworth community for over 40 years, serving as a beloved 4th grade teacher and a hands-on volunteer and leader with many different nonprofits," said Lacey. "This connection will be an amazing asset, and he will work tirelessly to strengthen the relationship between LST and the Leavenworth community."

Opinion

Who is going to save the Democrat party?

Every day it seems there is a new Democrat announcing their intention to run for President. Problem is the collection of the uninformed, misinformed and just plain angry opponents of President Trump aren't offering any realistic solutions to our problems. In fact most of them are just plain insane.

One of the most insane early joiners is our own Governor Jay Inslee. Inslee has decided to jump into the fray in order to save us all from the ravages of Climate Change. It's interesting that having failed to get his Carbon Tax initiatives through the liberal wet-side legislature he went to the people who also soundly rejected his plan. Now, he thinks he can win the Presidency with an Al Gore style campaign.

Those that read my column regularly, know that I am a climate change denier. Truth is every year the "great consensus" is losing steam. The majority of scientists do not agree and in fact there is a growing number of highly qualified scientists who say the issue is not just overblown, it is factually false and likely to lead to policies that are actually more harmful to the human condition on this planet.

IN MY OPINION
Bill Forhan
Publisher

Let's start with the problem of Carbon Dioxide. Greenies say excessive CO2 is causing global warming which will result in the melting of the polar icecaps. But a growing number of climate scientists are now saying we are in a CO2 drought, causing excessive strain on plants and trees. Plants require carbon dioxide. They take it in and give off oxygen. Oxygen is essential to human life. In fact, it is essential to all animal life.

I know my greenie friends will be screaming about now that I need to give them some facts. The reality is it won't make any difference to most of them because they have already concluded life on earth will end in 12 years. If that's true then we should all quit working give everybody a guaranteed income then sit back and enjoy the few years remaining on good old planet earth.

The entire concept of global climate change is the perfect storm politicians need in order to sell their insatiable drive for control over our lives. We should all start questioning their motives when their primary campaign message is based on fear. Especially when it requires us to surrender our individual freedom so they can save us from some great catastrophe.

Governor Jay Inslee is no great savior. If he was he would recognize the facts behind global climate change are highly questionable at best. Inslee is nothing more than a political opportunist who sees a climate crisis as a way for him to advance his political career.

If he were a true leader, Inslee would sue Washington State University for failing to properly educate him on basic science. But of course that would require him to actually do some research and find out the truth about the great climate change hoax.

It is time for "we the people" to reject the fear mongering for big government solutions to non-problems. America is the best thing that has happened to good old planet earth. We can clean up our air and water. We can find efficient ways to manage our natural resources that improve life not restrain life.

President Franklin Roosevelt, a Democrat, once said "the only thing we have to fear is fear itself." Today what voters should fear most are the uninformed or manipulative Democrats of the left who need to make us increasingly fearful.

Inslee is not an inspirational leader. Be afraid, be very afraid.

Tree Nazis and other Fascista

I was recently berated by a "tree Nazi." They are hard to miss and hard to take and leave a feeling of bewilderment and anger in their wake as do all fascista.

He demanded I cut three trees in front of my house. At this moment they are teaming with baby birds and the continuous coming and going of the parents feeding them incessantly, obsessively, but lovingly.

Parents mostly try hard to ensure the survival of their offspring, but there comes a time to kick them out of the nest for their own good. Tough love as practiced by the birds, ancestors to the dinosaurs. We're talking millions of years of survival skills.

If mankind wants to stick around, fascism must be examined as a cause for over-stressing the population as a whole and particularly causing certain groups to get their knickers in a bunch.

I won't cut them down out of principle. I bought the house with them and I intend to sell the house with them.

Problem is, I live in a mobile home park, Highland Terrace on 9th Street in East Wenatchee. It is for "old folks" 55+.

I own my double-wide, but must pay rent and apparently fealty, to some rich Westsider who inherited the place from

The family also practices "water Nazism" as evidenced by the fact that the public irrigation water has not been provided to the park residents yet because the park's pump is broken.

I am writing this on April 8th, far enough into the nice weather that park residents ought to be able to water their plants, flowers and... trees.

There's that 5 letter word again... trees. The rich Westsiders are against residents actually using metered water because they have to pay the water bill, however the irrigation water is free and is pumped up from the might Columbia via canals that pepper this beautiful town.

That means the landlord and his offspring could care less about the tribe members in "Pangborn City" or our plants, etc.

At the exact same time the residents are berated by a notice on the park bulletin board that "Spring is here and all must clean their yards."

Rake away, rake away, put your backs into it my serfs. I will be by every month to collect my share of your labors.

The dilemma of the rich: How do we control "the masses" and keep them bending to our will? Read the works of Mussolini, Franco and Hitler, but don't leave out the ruthless communist Joseph Stalin, and find out how many were murdered by these "beneficent tyrants."

Americans are, by definition and from its founding, a tolerant people who listen to several points of view before shooting each other to death or running them over with cars.

In the words of Crosby, Stills, Nash & Young, this dilemma is syndrome of: "Too late to leave the change, too late to pay."

It is also known as "brain freeze" like when eating ice cream or a Slurpee.

To unlock this disfiguring and painful intellectual spasm, one must allow distribution of words said aloud, as well as those printed and disseminated including words one fundamentally disagrees with.

It is that simple. We must tolerate others to flourish, not attempt to squelch free speech.

It is happening all around us by the extreme left. It may surprise people reading this that I am comparing fascists to leftwing ideologues, but I am.

I highly recommend the 2009 bestselling book by Jonah Goldberg, "Liberal Fascism: The Secret History of the American Left."

Remember I included Stalin as a fascist and yet we consider communists as far left, hence "liberal fascism."

Is my rich landlord, the Westsider, actually a so-

2019 LEAVENWORTH ALE FEST GETS A MAKEOVER

JAMIE HOWELL

When the fine folks at the Leavenworth Nutcracker Museum started casting about for a new operator of the Ale Fest they started back in 2007, all of us at Icicle Creek were thrilled to be the non-profit selected.

It's no small job to put on an Ale Fest, but we've been doing our best to live up to what's been done in the past while revamping it for the future. Here are some of the things you can expect this weekend:

WHAT'S NEW IN 2019:

- More breweries: 42 breweries (including six cideries) have confirmed for this weekend's event
- Tighter schedule: We've reduced the event from two days to one, and just one session from 5:30 to 10:30 pm. (5:30 to 6:30 is VIP only)
- Make Ale for the Arts Home Brew Competition: We've added an AHA-sanctioned competitions for home brewers that will happen Friday, April 12, at the Snowy Owl Theater from 6:30 - 9:30.
- Food from Cannella Kitchen: Yum!
- Live Music: Analog Jack, Two Lions, Amber Sweeney Trio and even a Swiss men's choir!

Tickets are still available at leavenworthalefest.com.

Cascade boys soccer defeats Meridian in nonleague match

By AL STOVER

CASHMERE — The rain cleared just in time for the Cascade High School boys soccer team's April 6 non league match against Meridian in Cashmere.

The Kodiaks added another nonleague win to their 2019 season after their 4-2 victory over the Trojans.

Jose Rivera kicked off the Kodiaks' scoring with a goal in the sixth minute, followed by another in the 10th to earn a brace and give his team a 2-0 lead. Meridian scored back-to-back goals in the 12th and 24th minutes to tie the score 2-2 at the first half.

The Kodiaks' speed and defense prevented Meridian from gaining any offensive momentum in the second half. Cascade prevented an overtime after Carlos Vasquez hit a goal in the 49th minute. Jose Valdez added an insurance goal for the Kodiaks in the 58th minute. Co-head Coach Jesus Sandoval said Valdez had been sidelined with an injury, and it was good to see him play and score in the Meridian game.

Coach Sandoval said Cascade played a quality team in the Trojans and that facing challenging opponents like them will allow the Kodiaks to see their strengths and weaknesses on the pitch. He added that he and Co-head Coach Pete Spiegel had players in different positions during the game, and was able to bring players off the bench and give them some match experience.

"We're doing better playing on the ground and we played well for the most part, we were pleased to see that," Coach Sandoval said. "We're also working on playing from the back with our goalie. We're looking better."

Cascade traveled to Okanogan on April 9 to play the northern Bulldogs in a Caribou Trail League contest.

The Kodiaks are scheduled to host Omak in a league match on April 11 and Brewster in a nonleague contest two days later. Coach Sandoval is unsure if the home matches will be in Leavenworth as their field is still unplayable.

Cascade softball splits home doubleheader Lady Kodiaks edge Mount Baker in game one

By AL STOVER

The Cascade High School softball team split a nonleague doubleheader against Mount Baker in their home opener on April 5.

The Lady Kodiaks edged Mount Baker, 3-2 in game one, then endured a 13-8 loss in the nightcap.

In game one, Cascade opened with a one-run lead in the first inning and added another run in the fourth inning. Mount Baker's Hannah Pelan hit a two-run homer to tie the game at 2-2 in the fifth inning.

In the bottom of the seventh with two outs, Kaija Lovelady doubled on a 1-0 count to bring home Truh Merriman for the walk-off run.

"We had some base running mishaps that could have helped us, but we managed to get that clutch seventh inning with Truh (Merriman) scoring off that single from Kaija (Lovelady)," Head Coach Todd Gilbert added.

Coach Gilbert described the first contest between Cascade and Mount Baker as a "great game" and a "pitcher's duel" between the two teams.

Sarah Paulson, who earned the pitching win in game one, struck out 12 Mount Baker batters.

"She had a strong game and got better as it went on despite that two-run homerun in the fifth," Gilbert added.

In game two, Cascade found themselves in a hole early on as Mount Baker had an 8-0 lead in the third inning. The Lady Kodiaks prevented the shutout after Lovelady, Renee Lambert and Kayla Bittle brought home three runners.

Cascade continued to battle with one run in the fourth inning and two in both the fifth and seventh.

Madeline Schiefelbein went 3-for-5 with two RBIs to lead the Lady Kodiaks at the plate. Lovelady had a double and two RBIs.

Merriman took the loss on the mound after sharing pitching duties with Lambert.

"We just couldn't get out of our own way," Gilbert ex-

Kodiak ball club 10-runs Trojans in home opener

By AL STOVER

Despite the cloudy skies and slight drizzle, Kodiak fans celebrated as the Cascade High School baseball team earned a 13-3 nonleague victory over Northwest Conference's Meridian in their home opener on April 5.

The Kodiaks opened with a four-run lead in the first inning. T.J. Thompson led off with a single off a bunt. Conrad Hasse crushed the ball into centerfield to bring in the Kodiaks' first run, followed by T.J. Thompson's RBI-single. After Hasse stole home, Nate McMahon's hit brought Cascade's fourth run to home plate.

After Meridian scored two runs in the second inning, the Kodiaks answered with three runs in the third, including Ben Sunitsch's two-RBI single.

Leading 7-3 in the bottom of the fifth inning, Cascade added six runs, with two from Cameron Ostrem's single and one off Sunitsch's base hit. Hasse once again drove the ball into centerfield to bring home Cascade's final two runs, thus enforcing the 10-run mercy rule.

"At the beginning of the season, when we were in the gym, we focused on hitting and pitching," Head Coach Brett Isadore said. "We hit well and we pitched well, that was the story. Our No. 1 guy (Hasse) did a great job." Hasse earned the pitching win after he threw a two-hitter and recorded three strikeouts during his five innings on the mound.

Isadore said the team put in a solid week of preparation leading up to the Meridian game.

"We gave them a couple of days off and had two good days of practice," he added. "They hit the ball well and were focused. We did a lot of good things together ready for today."

The next day, the Kodiaks were scheduled to play Manson in a nonleague doubleheader. Cascade was up 11-1 in the bottom of the second inning when the game was called due to rain. Isadore said the athletic directors of both schools may discuss rescheduling the games for a later date. He added that because the game was ruled "incomplete" because it had ended before the fifth inning.

"If we play again, we might pick up (in the second) or start over," Isadore said.

Cascade hits the road once more with a Caribou Trail League doubleheader against Cashmere on April 13.

Hikers, mountain bikers cautioned on trail use after snow, water events alex@evergreenmtb.org, or write a message on the group's Facebook page.

"This is really helpful as we get wind events and trees fall because we can't ride all the trails and know which ones have damage," Brieger added.

Brieger said it may take up to two weeks for the closed trails to open to the public. He added that visitors should not use trails after a rainstorm and recommends hikers and bikers check weather and trail conditions on the Central Washington Evergreen Mountain Bike Alliance's website. Folks can also visit the Freund Creek Trail report page on the Trailforks website. Reports are generated from hikers and mountain bikers.

"As trails are open, if it rains, it's important to stay off the trails until they dry," Brieger added, "Our rule of thumb is if the pavement in front of your house, including all puddles, is dry then they trails should be good to go. Weather changes, it's ok to turn around."

Brieger said the Evergreen Mountain Bike Alliance's Central Washington Evergreen Mountain Bike Alliance is always seeking volunteers to help with work parties and other area projects. The chapter meets on the third Wednesday of every month at Milepost 111 in Cashmere at 6:30 p.m. Folks can also become a member of the organization for $35 a year.

For more information about volunteering or becoming a member, visit the organization's website at <https://cwevergreenmtb.org>.

From Cashmere Valley Record to Mad Magazine

reflected in his work and he manages to translate personality in his cartoons with just ink and creativity.

His work has a satirical demeanor and a lighthearted disposition unlike some snarky and cynical political cartoons that have become the rage.

"The process of being an artist is you draw as much as you can," said McConnell.

His cartoon range varies from fun political jests, humorous cartoons, caricatures to fine art like oil paintings, watercolors.

In 2004, McConnell became a certified scientific illustrator to add to his impressive portfolio. But he has a soft spot for cartooning.

"I do cartooning every day, so that must be my favorite," said McConnell.

"I like to draw faces so caricatures is pretty strong too."

McConnell is no starving artist despite having an eager appetite for creating illustration work.

His work has been featured on a variety of platforms over the timeline of his career and he's only gaining more momentum with his lighthearted cartoons.

As of January 2, his work was featured in MAD Magazine's online edition and on June 11, his work will be in the print edition as well. He noted this was one of the biggest highlights of his career.

"(When his submission was published) I was flying on cloud nine, it was great. It was a little bit unexpected," said McConnell.

Despite a well rounded list of accomplishments, there is one goal that McDonnell would like to check off.

"I keep submitting to the New Yorker. That's kind of the pinnacle of a cartoonist career is to get something in the New Yorker."

Tree Nazis and other Fascista

called Liberal-Fascist? I know he is, but he will never see it that way.

He thinks his serfs have little or nothing to say in their lives about his edicts.

I am sure his front yard abounds with trees, flowers or plants.

One day when I am growing my own bananas, he will come around as a starving monkey and beg I throw him one.

Perhaps my compassion will make me do so or will I become a food Nazi once I am in charge of the universe?

On that same day, pigs will fly and Trump will voluntarily release his taxes.

Ever since the first man climbed out of the first tree on those African plains eons ago, he has sought shelter from the rain.

We must band together in a spirit of tolerance to create the umbrella under which our future will thrive.

Stop evil in its tracks, but keep your own counsel as it pertains to your own reality.

I pray it will be thus, at least until my all too soon dirt nap arrives.

Introducing the new Leavenworth Summer Theater Board President

from The Sound of Music to Pirates of Penzance to Hello Dolly! and new leadership (both Bauer and Lacey), the Leavenworth Summer Theater is unfolding to produce its celebrated traditions along with some fresh insight for this upcoming 2019 season.

"I am honored to assume the office of president of Leavenworth Summer Theater. I have served on the board for 14 years.

"During the last 25 years the Theater and its productions have grown in quality under the leadership of past presidents Clark Vanderlinden and Dave Neir and Executive Director, Susan Huffman.

"I hope to maintain those high standards with the help of the Board of Directors and new Executive Director, Phil Lacey," said Bill Bauer in his statement.

Opening child-resistant lids on medicine bottles

A couple of months ago, 88-year-old Delores brought all of her medicine bottles in from home for me to review. Lifting each medicine out of the shoe box, I noticed how faded the red lettering was on the white plastic child-resistant caps. Some of her medicines had lids sitting crooked or were barely fastened, and one label was nearly 5 years old despite having newly refilled pills inside.

Delores' struggle with child-resistant tops is not limited to just her medicines. Many other common household products are sold with hard-to-open lids: paint thinner, cleaning solutions, bleach, vinegar, vitamins and liquid non-prescription medicines like cough syrup.

The widespread use of child-resistant lids addresses a serious problem: accidental child poisonings.

Back in the 1960s, the most common documented cause of injury in children under 5 years old was accidentally swallowing medicines or household cleaners. In 1970 the United States Congress passed the Poison Prevention Packaging Act (PPPA), which required all prescription and non-prescription medicines that could be swallowed to have child-resistant (C-R) packaging. In the decades since, C-R packaging has saved many young lives but has also caused significant inconvenience for many adults, especially those with below average strength and dexterity, ironically the ones who usually take the most medicines.

Since 1974, pharmacists have been required to dispense all medication refills in brand new vials and lids because as the lids on plastic medicine bottles get used, they get easier to open and eventually won't be able to meet the C-R standard. Except for under-the-tongue tablets of nitroglycerin, pharmacists must dispense ALL medicines with C-R lids unless the patient requests otherwise in writing and signs it.

Ask... Dr. Louise

A lid is considered child-resistant if a child under 5 years old cannot open it within 5 minutes, but 90% of adults can open and close it within 5 minutes. Who wants to fight with a lid to get it to open and close? No wonder Delores re-used her prescription bottles that had worn-out lids!

28 years ago, I ripped apart a ligament in my right wrist, putting me in a hard cast for 6 weeks and a rigid brace for another 6 weeks. This was a major handicap for me because I could NOT get child resistant lids open wearing that cast or brace, and as a pharmacist, I needed to open a LOT of child-resistant lids every day at work.

Desperate, I worked out a way to open those tricky caps without moving my wrist. I'm still using that technique because it helps me open child-resistant tops without straining my hands or wrists.

Here's how to open child-resistant lids without having to use your wrist:

1. Pick up the bottle in your right hand and place the palm of your left hand FLAT against the cap so that your hands form a sideways "T". Your left hand is turned with your thumb pointing up and your right hand is perpendicular to it as if your left hand was a door and you are reaching for the doorknob with your right hand.

2. PUSH both hands together with your arms, being sure to keep your wrists straight. As the bottle cap in your right hand pushes up against your left palm (the top of the T), TURN your entire forearm just a little bit until you feel the bottle move up into the white cap, freeing it to move. You usually have to turn your right arm just a bit to the right in order to get the bottle into position so it can push up into the cap.

3. Once in that position, TWIST your entire right forearm slowly clockwise, like turning a doorknob with your whole forearm INSTEAD of twisting only your wrist. The pressure of your hands pushing toward each other keeps the outer cap free as your right arm turns. You don't have to turn your arm very far for the outer cap to completely disengage.

4. When you feel the cap come free, move the vial so the cap is up, cup the outer cap with your left palm and separate your hands, one holding the cap and one holding the vial. It's open!

5. To put the top back on, reverse the order of the steps: form a T, push your hands together, and turn your right forearm to the left (counterclockwise) until it engages.

Remember, you can request "easy-open" lids for medicines at your pharmacy by requesting and signing a release form. And make sure you store ALL medicines away from easy access by young children.
