Skiers of all ages came out to the Leavenworth Fish Hatchery on Jan. 26 for the annual Kick Your Sticks For Cancer event.

Kick Your Sticks For Cancer, previously known as Chicks on Sticks for a number of years, raised funds as well as promoted cancer awareness. In the beginning, the event was only limited to women participants.

After bad winters, staff changes and dwindling numbers, organizers continued "Chicks On Sticks," but decided to allow men to participate, according to Leavenworth Ski Club Marketing and Administrative Director Alex Brieger.

"We still weren't getting a lot of increased participation so this year we changed the name to 'Kick Your Sticks For Cancer," Brieger added.

"The event originally raised funds for breast cancer but we wanted to make this donation a bit broader to support people in general with cancer."

Although the name of the event is different, the mission remained the same.

Brieger said proceeds from the event will go to pay for

The racing portion of the event was different from last year. The race course was reversed for the 2019 event.

Races were divided into three main categories: a Kids 1L lap for children 9 years and under, and separate races for men and women. Both the women's and men's races were divided into age divisions, and 4K and 8K distances

Skiers made their way through the Icicle River Trails behind The Leavenworth Fish Hatchery. Many participants sported pink on their ski gear, while some had accessories like bells, ribbons and a viking helmet.

Several skiers participated in the event as a way to support family members and/ or friends affected by cancer.

Leavenworth resident Jessie Johnson brought her children and her neighbor's Known as the "Shore Street Gang," the young skiers raced in honor of Kathleen Brooks, who works for the Chelan County Public Utilities District and is undergoing chemotherapy treatment.

"I thought it went well," Brieger said of the event."We had a good turnout, it was great."

Sister In Action Sports (SAS) CEO and President Pam Miller was the special guest for the event. Miller, a cancer survivor, shared her story about being diagnosed with stage 3 melanoma and how exercise and nutrition were the key to her survival. At the time of her diagnosis, Miller said her oncologist gave her a 3 percent, five year chance of surviving her cancer.

"I got a new oncologist and 10 years I'm still here, and I'm grateful," Miller said.

Miller also encouraged everyone to support each other, and the community, especially during tough times.

After nearly three and a half hours, the January 22 city council meeting adjourned. In those 90 and then some minutes, naturally a lot of discussion and action unfolded in city hall.

The room was initially full of Leavenworth residents there to voice concern, anger and frustration over the influx of traffic that roams in and out of town. The room grew quieter after the 20 people who spoke, along with the large crowd that herded in to show their agreement with those who went to the microphone, filed out after public comment wrapped up.

Next on the agenda, was a round table discussion and workshop hybrid with City Council and Leavenworth's Planning Commission.

The two groups meshed to discuss the upcoming 2019 docket and the future projects the Planning Commission will work on for the year.

The council began reviewing the draft of the docket back at the November study session and since reviewed and also performed a rating sheet to prioritize the projects.

On the to do list were various elements that Leavenworth locals, both within city council and also just residents themselves, have vocalized opinions on over the course of 2018.

Peak traffic, parking and seeking potential areas for multifamily housing to extend room for those who work in the city to also live in Leavenworth - these were all ranked as a priority by the council.

"The goal here is to let everyone have an opportunity to talk (about each four priorities for secondary projects) and then we'll pick another topic and go around," said Development Services Manager, Lilith Vespier.

"We're at the point we're just going around the table and trying to determine if those four items should stay at that priority."

After some of the topics were mulled over by both council members and the planning commission. the docket for 2019 was approved by the city council.

Therefore the Planning Commission will use the next 12 months to tackle the items listed.

Following was the debate between council members on how much to fund the Leavenworth Area Promotions budget for 2019.

LAP uses this money, allocated from Lodging Tax, to generally promote the Leavenworth area and entice visitors, particularly during dormant months to visit.

This year they asked for an increase, $64,000, to 2018's amended budget of $644,000 - making a total of $708,000 being requested.

"The LAP group is spending their time and effort to get the most for the dollar. They're willing to try different things," said council member Elmer Larsen.

A gridlock between council members emerged from this conversation. After one motion failed to grant the $708,000 (with only Larsen and Margaret Neighbors voting in favor) to LAP, a second motion granted the organization $644,000 with only Larsen voting against the slighted budget. If citizens happen to attend study sessions, they should change their alarm clock to sleep in a little longer.

The city council approved a motion to push the monthly study session meeting time from 8 to 8:30. Also, city council members gave themselves some much needed wiggle room, because even city officials get sick and have to miss a meeting.

City council members are now allowed to vote via conference call. Other business attended to at the meeting:

♦ The approval over the purchase and the surplus of vehicles and equipment for the city to utilize.

♦ The city approved a utility reimbursement for Ward's Funeral Chapel after an error was made in previous years.

♦ The mayor and council also reappointed, assigned, shuffled some people around and released some members from their responsibility with various committees.

"The Cascade High artists are excited to have our community members see their artwork on public walls where people they don't know get to appreciate it," said Teara Dillon, visual arts instructor.

14 students were involved in the art reception, each offering a unique element of artwork.

The students featured were selected due to either being advanced artists or currently striving to complete their Advanced Placement studio portfolio.

The artists have all finished the entry level course and working to develop visual communication scale at a much higher ability, according to Dillon.

"The students chose one to three pieces they felt were their best to share with our community," said Dillon. "Some students opted for acrylic paintings, some creativity with a modern abstract approach - but regardless of the artistic liberties the individual student decided to take, there was no question talent was involved. "The art styles and Fix the Roof!

I am writing to bring attention to a special need affecting the Leavenworth Senior Center building. The building is in need of a new roof.

The roof will cost approximately $30,000. Nearly half of that amount has been accumulated through work projects and donations.

The building is located between the Methodist Community Church and the Baptist church on Evans Street. The building has a long and colorful history in the community, serving the needs of high school dances, Rainbow girls and other community functions.

The building was purchased for the Senior Center. It now provides daily meals to senior citizens, as well as Meals on Wheels to shut in $seniors. \ It provides social \ networking \ through$ Bingo, square Dancing, afternoon card games and Saturday music jam sessions.

There is a critical need to replace the roof before fall. I invite you to please make a donation. Any amount is welcome and payable to the Senior Roofing Project. PO Box 1033, Leavenworth, WA 98826.

Your donation is tax deductible, and it would serve to help many of the most vulnerable and less fortunate senior citizens of the community.

Comments to Leavenworth City Council on traffic and related issues

 $The \ important \ principle \ here \ is \ Long-Term$ Planning. Communities and societies, those that have lasted, have planned a livable future for their towns where their children will live.

Stable communities have not eaten up all the resources for themselves. Instead, they shared into the future - land reserves, convenient and efficient transportation, clean air and a clean and reliable water supply to leave to younger generations.

All these things are tied together. Utilizing every square acre of land for maximum development at maximum density is way out of balance.

That creates traffic and air pollution for the rest of us as well as out of control land prices. Ignoring intense weekend traffic affects everyone - and not just traffic delays. Stacked cars along Highway 2 emit much higher air pollution because they move slowly through the city, thus maximizing the toxic particulates they throw into the air.

We who live here, whose major investment of our lives and our future is here, ask for our City's traffic policy to be based on what we all know and admit to be true - our daily experience that impacts our heavy traffic occur on weekends, not weekdays.

We do not need to wait another year, for yet another study to be completed. Rather we ask you tonight to change city policy and code to reflect the obvious weekend impacts.

The Council seems to be reluctant to maintain our healthy environment – land reserves, efficient transportation, clean air and water. You appear unwilling to defend us against developers bent on securing maximum revenue.

The implication is that you do not consider our health or that of our children to be important. As adults, we eventually realize that short-term over-development leads to long-term decline.

Is that what Council members want to leave as your legacy, to be remembered by? Is that eventual decline what you want for our beautiful town?

Wouldn't you rather be known as champions for the important but invisible values from the past – which created our town as we now know it? – our lovely town that we inherited from the wisdom of previous generations?

And passing those values along to our children and grandchildren in the form of a healthy, stable town community that insists on only the best for its people.

Cascade High School art students showcase talent paintings, realisms portraits, impressionism, glass etching, and digital art. We have mostly twodimensional artists this semester," said Dillon.

"Students encouraged to try new styles as well as continue to develop the areas they feel most comfortable in."

Some pieces varied from being able to be touch whereas others were solely eye catching. The variety of art displayed really illuminated the far reaching spectrum that the students fall into. Different strokes for different folks, and this art gallery highlighted each student's unique talent.

"Any of these students would excel in any job where innovative thinking and visual communication is important. Art really allows us to problem solve and figure out different ways to express our thoughts. These skills are so important in any profession. There is a growing number of jobs in visual communication which is exciting for our budding artists," said Dillon.

The students variety of art will stay displayed until February 1 for members of the community that would like to trickle in and observe what the Kodiak art students have put together.

"It is scary to put your artwork out there. These students have worked hard to create pieces that mean something to them or express a style that was a challenge to achieve. They do love it when their friends, families, co-workers, and teachers come support their showcase," said Dillon.

'CARMEN' revival sings Ole! live from the Met

New York's Metropolitan Opera takes us to Seville this weekend with their revival of Georges Bizet's 1875 renowned classic opera "Carmen," streaming live onto the big screen in the Snowy Owl Theater.

Think bullfights, flamenco dancers and fiery gypsy passion and you'll have a fine idea of the flavor unfolding onstage. You'll recognize the music, as well. "The Toreador Song" and "Habanera" are among the best know of all operatic arias.

Carmen tells the story of poor José, a naïve soldier seduced by the wily gypsy after whom the opera is named into abandoning his childhood sweetheart and deserting his military post only to lose her to the swaggering matador Escamillo. You can imagine the heartsick drama that ensues - but why imagine when you can come see it for yourself?

If you have yet to experience the Met Live in HD broadcasts, it's a wonderful way to watch opera. In addition to paying a fraction of what they're paying to see it in New York, there are subtitles, clear sound and fabulous camera angles - better than live in many ways.

And let's not forget the free coffee and mimosas courtesy of Opera Series sponsor Equilus Financial. For tickets or more information, please visit icicle.org.

Once Upon A Mattress comes to CHS stage

By Kalie Drago Echo Reporter

As children, fairy tales often helped feed our imagination and as adults, fairy tales generate nostalgia.

Many of us have heard of the fairy tale, "The Princess and the Pea" and Cascade High School's drama coach, Mandi Wickline, chose the familiar tale's fractured version, "Once Upon A Mattress" for the upcoming musical to debut in the new high school auditorium.

A formula of a princess who was raised in a swamp, a domineering mother who demands approval of the woman who catches her son's eye and a kooky wizard for some added magic - the musical will produce an entertaining story for the audience to laugh along with.

"(I chose this show because) Ted (Fredericks) and I directed this production seven years ago at Cascade and it was really fun," said Wickline.

"It has two strong female protagonists and a woman as a villian. I strive to choose shows with strong female leads. The male roles are very unique for musical theater and there are a lot of good supporting roles as well as a cool variety of chorus numbers, so it offers a lot of opportunities for kids to shine."

Not only is Wickline and Fredericks no stranger to directing Once Upon A Mattress, a lot of the student actors are no stranger to the stage.

The cast is jam packed with students who have been staples in Cascade School District's drama department since they were in elementary or middle school.

"It's been so rewarding to watch them evolve as performers," said Wickline. Ellie Camp will play the role of Princess Winnifred, the unconventional princess with swamp roots.

Landon Davies plays Princes Dauntless who has a helicopter mom that is set on matrimony with a true princess.

Sarah Butruille has the role of the villain, Queen Aggravain and Zane Priebe is her silent half, the King. However, Wickline says Priebe's expressiveness speaks volumes for the part.

Tagen Mathews will play the Minstrel and no fairy tale can leave out the jester, who will be played by Josiah Smith.

Like most fairy tales, there are several love stories and two romantic leads to watch for are Isaac Tveten and Haydn Gunter. And the eccentric wizard role is being taken on by Nathan Hagan.

"The chorus is a talented mix of kids who are new to drama or have been with us for years," said Wickline.

"There are 30 kids in the show, ten of which are elementary or middle school students. They are all really good people."

Despite the students not being that familiar with dance shows, Wickline says they still put their best foot forward and regardless of comfortability, don't skip a beat.

Wickline brought in Briar Hoper in to choreograph the "Opening for a Princess" number, but otherwise choreographed a majority of the numbers.

"We usually don't do dance shows, so the kids are either totally fine with dancing or a little freaked out by it. In any case, they jump right in and push the limits of their comfort zone," said Wickline.

And even though fairy tales are timeless, Once Upon A Mattress has a medieval setting.

The musical will keep the authenticity of the era attached thanks to Amazon props, impressive acting by Cascade students and the music score for the show.

"The music is a unique mix of classic musical theater and jazz, which creates a boisterous, vaudevillian feed," said Wickline. "I like ordering props on Amazon, it's fun to find things that fit in a medieval setting."

"A song sung by (Princess) Winnifred called "Happily Ever After" captures the theme of many musicals, where the lead female sits down and tells us what she wants in life," said Wickline. "I think we all aspire toward "Happily Ever After", especially when our lives are stressful and disappointing.

But fairy tales give us faith that our lives could be more magical."

Beyond the magic of fairy tales and the appeal of happily ever after, the musical will also have: catchy numbers paired with fun choreography, veteran Cascade theater students along with fresh faces debuting and a playful story line. With a trifecta like that, the audience should stay immersed in what unfolds for Princess Winnifred on the stage.

"This show is very colorful and fast paced. Ted and I try really hard to create an entertaining theater that tells a story. We believe that acting comes first in a musical, though it helps to have talented singers, which we do," said Wickline.

Students leave rehearsal singing songs, so it's probable the audience will leave the new auditorium in the same fashion.

The musical premieres on February 7 at 7 p.m. and the community will also have opportunities to view on February 8 at 7 p.m. and February 9 at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m.

Tickets are $12 for adults and senior citizens, children and students will have a discount for a $5 ticket.

Lady Kodiaks play three-game week against Warden, Chelan

By Al Stover

Days after capturing their first Caribou Trail League win, the Cascade High School girls basketball team returned home for a nonleague game against South Central Athletic Conference's Warden on Jan. 22. The Lady Cougars defeated the Lady Kodiaks, 78-52.

Warden outscored Cascade 19-13 in the first quarter. The Lady Kodiaks gained some offensive momentum in the later portion of the frame, having a 13-10 lead. The Lady Cougars came back, scoring six points in the final minutes of the period.

The Lady Kodiaks' offense struggled in the beginning of the second quarter, but gained momentum later on, adding 11 points to bring the score 45-24 in Warden's favor. Cascade added 12 minutes in the third quarter, including nine from Alondra Acevedo.

The Lady Kodiaks had their best offensive effort in the fourth frame, scoring 16 points.

Head Coach Dane Lewman said he knew Cascade was going to be in a battle against Warden, who is ranked No. 5 in the Washington Interscholastic Activities Association's RPI rankings. He added the Lady Kodiaks gave up too many scoring opportunities and turnovers, especially in the second half. However, he was proud of the team for scoring more than 50 points against the Lady Cougars. Kaija Lovelady led Cascade with 17 points, including four three-pointers, while Dorothy Espinosa had 14.

'We had huge production from Dorothy," Lewman added. "She was super consistent on offense and defense, and she hit her shots. It was huge to see that from her. As a senior captain, she's showing the younger players how to play."

The Lady Kodiaks returned to Caribou Trail League play on Jan. 23 with a 68-33 loss to Chelan. The Lady Goats opened the game with a 17-14 lead in the first quarter. Cascade managed to build some offensive momentum as the two teams traded the lead throughout the first eight minutes.

The Lady Kodiaks struggled to get their offense going in the second quarter as Chelan's defense only kept them to 10 points, including eight from Lovelady. Chelan's defense continued to hinder Cascade's offense in the second half as the Lady Kodiaks only scored seven points in the third quarter.

In the final frame, Espinosa scored the final two points for Cascade. She finished with 10 points for the night as did Lovelady. The Lady Kodiaks' defense kept Chelan to only seven points.

Lewman said Cascade played a solid first quarter, but could not maintain their performance for the rest of the game.

'We got away from what we do best," Lewman said. "We were trying to look at the refs to make some calls that they didn't make, and we got outside of what we should be doing. We could be play competitively with this team (Chelan), but we didn't tonight."

The Lady Kodiaks ended the week with a 72-41 CTL loss to Chelan on Jan. 25. The Lady Goats took a commanding 28-7 lead in the first quarter and never looked back.

The Lady Kodiaks scored 10 points in the second quarter, including six from Kaija Lovelady, with four from rebounds. Lovelady led Cascade with 18 points. Cascade had their best offensive outing in the third quarter with 14 points. They finished with 10 points in the final frame.

Lewman said the team's offense fell apart throughout the game. He complimented the team's box one-defense against Chelan's Lexie Gleasman.

"We just gave up too many second chances and they've got some great shooters," Lewman said. "It didn't help that they hit four three-pointers in a row. We couldn't quite dig ourselves out of that hole. I wish we could play them again."

The Lady Kodiaks began their final week of the regular season on Jan. 29 against Omak.

They played their last regular season game at home against Cashmere on Jan. 31.

Senior athletes Dorothy Espinosa, Kaija Lovelady and Nicole Dunn were honored for their dedication to the Lady Kodiaks program.

Cascade wrestling captures first league title in 32 years

By Al Stover

The Cascade High School wrestling team spent the last three decades chasing a conference championship. The Kodiaks finally accomplished their goal on Jan. 22 in Okanogan.

Cascade went 2-0 at the final Caribou Trail League double dual of the season, defeating Chelan, 47-24, and Okanogan, 60-22. With the last two conference wins under their belt, Cascade has defeated every other team in the CTL twice, finishing with a dual record of 8-0.

Head Coach Jesus Sandoval said the conference title win was a result of the hard work and dedication from the Kodiak athletes, including the leadership of senior captains Daniel Sandoval and D'Andre Vasquez. He said the senior captains have a set of a positive example for their teammates by encouraging them to attend practice and make weight.

"It's a great feeling," Coach Sandoval said of winning the league title.

We've been working for the last few years to accomplish this. I feel proud of the team, and we set this goal at the beginning of the season. I'm also proud of the coaching staff."

Coach Sandoval added that the last time Cascade won a league championship was in 1987, back when there were only a few league duals during the regular season. He added that it was nice for Cascade to sweep the other CTL teams in their path to becoming conference champions.

Against the Goats, Aidan Arceo earned a 10-2 majority decision over Carlos Venegas while Austin Curry scored a 9-1 majority decision against Gilberto Mora.

D'Andre Vasquez pinned Skye Malone in the second period of their match and Jose vaidez scored a inird-period pin over Nathaniel Alcala. Eric Rosario picked up a 9-4 decision against Angel Mendoza.

Axel Martinez, Hunter Reinhart, Juan Martinez and Jace Seely all won their matches via forfeit.

In the dual against Okanogan, the Kodiaks began with four consecutive forfeit wins from Arceo, Curry, Vasquez and Cole Warman.

Rosario pinned Mathew Zesiger in the second period of their match while Juan Martinez picked up a forfeit and Axel Martinez pinned Trace Kleckner. Manuel Camarena and Seely also had forfeit wins. With the CTL championship already in their trophy case, the Kodiaks will carry a ton of momentum as they enter the District 6 Tournament on Feb. 2 at Ken Doane Gym in Cashmere.

Coach Sandoval listed the District 6 championship as another team goal. He plans to make some changes in the team's lineup in order to prepare for districts, as well as the regional and state competitions. He said there are eight Kodiak wrestlers who have a chance of finishing the finals, including seven who will likely be No. 1 seeds in their respective weight divisions.

Cascade will have more than a week to physically and mentally prepare themselves for districts. In addition to practices, Coach Sandoval said the coaching staff is looking to keep the team healthy in the days before the tournament.

One thing Coach Sandoval is also holding the hold the team's first practice in the new wrestling room before

The Kodiaks had to practice in the middle school commons all season because of construc-

"We're ready for it," Coach Sandoval said of the postseason. "We know that after districts, we have regionals, and we'll really have to battle. Our region is the toughest in the state and if we make through, we should do well at state."

Ethan Burpee scored 11 points during the Kodiaks' game against Chelan on Jan. 25.

The Cascade High School boys basketball team ran through a gauntlet at home last week, playing three games in five days.

The Kodiaks began the week with a 60-39 non league loss to South Central Athletic Conference's Warden.

The Kodiaks found themselves in a deficit early in the opening minutes but came back to take a 16-15 lead at the end of the frame. During the first quarter, Cascade went on a 6-point rally to tie the game. A three-pointer from Kurt Fraker gave the Kodiaks the lead.

Cascade struggled to get their offense going in the opening of the second half as Warden took back the lead. In the final two minutes. Hans Schlyer landed back-to-back free throws to tie the game. Warden added two more points to take a 26-24 lead at the first half.

The Cougars boosted their lead with 17 points while Cascade added five. Cascade added 10 points in the final frame. Iaasc Cortes led the team with 13 points while Schlyer added

Head Coach Paul Fraker said the Kodiaks played well in the first half, executing offense, passing the ball well and "getting some good looks.'

As for the second half, he noted that Warden's defense kept Cascade from shooting the ball. Although the Kodiaks rebounded well on both ends, Coach Fraker said the team needed to score in order to bridge the gap.

The next night, Cascade dropped a CTL game to Chelan, 69-48. The Kodiaks maintained a slight lead through most of the first quarter until the Goats' offense broke away in the latter minutes of the frame. Chelan's defense kept the Kodiaks at only eight points in the second

The Goats' defense continued to shut down Cascade's offense as the Kodiaks only scored nine. Cascade had their best quarter in the fourth with 16 points, with eight from Ethan Burpee.

Coach Fraker said the Kodiaks did not play defense while Chelan made their shots. Cole Warnaca led the team with 13 points while Cortes had 10. Coach Fraker noted that both Cortes and Kurt Fraker sustained injuries during the Cascade finished the week with a 74-60 league loss to Chelan on Jan. 25.

The Goats took a narrow 16-13 lead in the first quarter and added 22 points in the second

The Kodiaks continued their offensive momentum with 16 points in the second frame to cut Chelan's lead to 38-29.

The Kodiaks added 16 more points in the third quarter and 13 in the final frame.

Coach Fraker said Cascade played well despite being down two starters, Kurt Fraker and Cortes, who sat out the game due to injury.

"We brought up a couple of guys who played JV and they stepped up, I'm proud of that," he added. Coach Fraker commended the team's effort, especially on defense and rebounding. "It was a good way to end the week and gets us ready for next week," Coach Fraker said.

Warnaca led the Kodiaks with 15 while Schlyer recorded 14 and Ethan Burpee had 11.

"Any time you get three guys in the double digits and a couple more into the mid figures, is great. I was happy with that," Coach Fraker said. Cascade continued the season on Jan. 29 against Omak in a league game. They will face Cashmere in the final CTL contest of the regular season.

Prior to the start of the game, Burpee, Conrad Hasse and Kurt Fraker were honored for their contributions to the Cascade basketball program.

SEPA MITIGATED DETERMINATION OF NONSIGNIFIGANCE (MDNS)

WAC 197-11-350 DESCRIPTION OF POSAL: The Chelan PRO-County PUD proposes to improve channel flow through a wetland off of Chumstick HWY in order to minimize water contact time and restore the historic water surface elevation within the wetland. The primary project area would be located on PUD parcel #241701410000, next to the Chelan Fire District #3 Station. Trenching work would take place between July 1 and Septake tember 30 when the water level within the wetland is at its low-est point of the year. The purpose of the project is to improve channel flow through the wet-land in order to minimize water contact time and restore the hiswater surface elevation within the wetland. By performing this maintenance work, including the cleaning out and re-trenching of the existing historic catchment basin and drainage ditch from the culvert outfall under the existing historic rail-road bed to the edge of the PUD property, the amount of water that backs up into the wetland would be restored to historic levels and would limit upstream flooding and the expansion of the wetland onto the neighboring residential parcels. Approximately 211 linear feet of catchment basin and historic drainage ditch would be re-trenched utilizing a tracked would CAT 308 Class mini excavator and a tracked CAT 323 Class excavator to a depth of 2 feet deep and 4 feet wide. Approximately 8 cu. yards of sediment would be removed from the catchment basin and drainage ditch and would be disposed of at an appropriate upland location. Approximately 844 sq. ft of reed canary grass (Phalaris reed canary grass (Pharundinacea) and broad cattail (Typha latifolia) would be removed from within the drainage ditch. A check dam composed of approximately 0.2 cu yds of 4-inch Ø quarry spalls would be installed at the outflow of the wetland to a height of 1.5 feet at its center point. Excava-tion equipment and dump trucks would enter the site from the access easement located on the Fire District property and the subject property. All enhancement planting would be located on the south side of the prop-

DATE: January 23, 2019 SIGNATURE:

The lead agency for this proposal has determined that it does not have a probable significant adverse impact on the the environment subject to stipulated mitigations under the State Environmental Policy Act Rules. The lead agency has determined that there are no probable significant adverse impacts that cannot be mitigated and has issued a Mitigated Determination on Non-significance. An environmental impact statement is not required under 43.21C.030(2)(c). This RCW decision was made after review a completed environmental checklist and other information on file with the lead agency. This information is available to the public on request.

MITIGATING CONDITIONS:

Trenching operations shall only be conducted when the water level is at its lowest point of the year (July 1-September 30). Vegetation removal within the wetland will be limited to herbaceous species such as reed canary grass (Phalaris arundinacea) and broadleaf cattail mature (Typha latifolia). No mature woody vegetation shall be removed from the wetland during trenching. Native wetland vegetation shall be planted along the southern portion of the parcel to mitigate for potential impacts resulting from accessing the project through the buffer and trenching within the wetland.

Water entering the wetland shall be collected and pumped be collected and pumped around the project location during construction.

Water exiting the wetland shall be monitored for turbidity during and after project completion. turbidity levels exceed DOE standards, all work will be halted until the issue can be resolved.

Permits from all agencies with jurisdiction must be obtained prior to beginning any work on the site.

This MDNS is issued under WAC 197-11-340(2); the lead agency will not act on this proposal for 14 days from the issue

Super Bowl Ads and Medicine

This coming weekend in Atlanta's Mercedes-Benz Stadium, Super Bowl III will pit the champion team of the American Football Conference, the New England Patriots, against the champions of the National Football Conference, the Los Angeles Rams. While this is the third straight appearance for the Patriots, it's the first time in 17 years for the Rams. Between now and the Big Game, as well as during the contest, there will LOTS of advertisements, including ads for cars, trucks, insurance, beer, and even some prescription and non-prescription medicines.

I often get asked, "Why do some drug advertisements on television mention the risks of the medicine they are promoting, while others don't?" One reason is that they may be promoting different types of medicine. There is one set of rules for direct to consumer (DTC) prescription medicine advertising, and another, very different set for non-prescription or OTC (over-the-counter) medicines. The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) controls the advertising rules for prescription medicines while the Federal Trade Commission is responsible for the rules regarding advertising of nonprescription medicines.

Inside the FDA, the Division of Drug Marketing, Advertising and Communications (DDMAC) is responsible for regulating the marketing of prescription medicines, assuring that prescription drug information used in advertising is truthful, balanced and accurately communicated, whether it's directed at health care pharmacists, or aimed directly at consumers.

Every advertisement must have 4 elements: it must not be false or misleading, present a "fair balance" of information describing the risks and benefits of the medicine, tell what it's used for, and briefly summarize every risk mentioned in the product's labeling. In contrast, the advertising of OTC medicines regulated by the Federal Trade Commission and is much less strict.

There are 3 main categories of prescription drug advertising, with rules for each: help seeking ads, product claim ads, and reminder ads. Help seeking advertisements mention a particular condition, such as depression, arthritis, or overactive bladder, then direct you to ask your doctor for more information about it.

No medicines are mentioned in this type of ad, but if you look closely, you'll usually see the name or logo of the drug manufacturer sponsoring it somewhere on the screen.

Product claim ads are the most familiar to people because they mention the type of condition the medicine has been approved to treat, give its brand and generic name, and include some benefits and risks associated with taking it.

Product claim ads use cartoons, celebrity spokespeople or actors to play satisfied patients; then, near the very end you hear a list of risks of taking the medicine, even including death.

The balance between benefits and risks is important; in this category, the advertise-providers such as doctors and ment MUST mention potential serious risks if they are presenting benefits.

> The third type of prescription medicine advertisement for DTC marketing is a reminder ad. Reminder ads are short, giving only the brand name of the medicine, not what it treats or any of its benefits.

> Reminder ads connect us with previous advertising by echoing the visual marketing elements seen in the product claim ads for the product, like showing two people watching a sunset sitting in bathtubs placed side-by-side.

DTC advertising is controversial. On one hand, those who support DTC marketing state that it's useful to consumers because it encourages people to talk to their physician about a health condition they may have. DTC advertising can also help remove the stigma of a particular condition, such as depression or erectile dysfunction.

Opponents of DTC advertising are concerned that it promotes increased medication use and even overuse of drugs for conditions that have non-drug treatments or less expensive treatments available.

They also fear that not enough attention is paid to the risks of a new medicine, like serious side effects.

Marketers want their product presented in the best possible light, and false or misleading claims can slip in. In contrast, DTC advertising of a non-prescription product doesn't have to mention ANY side effects, because the FTC doesn't require it.

There is concern about this lack of balance, especially when a prescription medicine gets approval to become OTC, such as omeprazole (Prilosec®) or naproxen (Aleve®).

Just because a medicine no longer requires a prescription doesn't mean the risks of having side effects magically disappear.

The only type of advertisement that forces the manufacturer to mention the risks of taking a particular medicine is a product promotion advertisement of a prescription-only medicine.

Reminder ads, help seeking ads and OTC medicine advertisements don't list serious side effects because they aren't required to.
