Cascade Homecoming Football Game

By KALIE DRAGO
Echo Reporter

Homecoming week is a chance for the student body to get creative with spirit days such as Meme Day and to have more fun than usual at lunch with activities such as tug-of-war, but head coach Dominique Coffin didn't let the board game themed homecoming week distract the boys from the game that really mattered.

Not only was it homecoming but it was also the Kodiaks opening of league play. The tough loss against Cheney the previous weekend and Cascade's homecoming week led up to the game against Omak on Friday, Oct. 5. The team has now faced only three minor hiccups in their overall outanding season thus far.

"Homecoming week is always a tough one as there are a lot of distractions throughout the whole week for our players," said Coffin. "Our staff is constantly reminding our athletes the importance of not getting caught up in it all and staying focused on the task at hand."

The stadium was packed tight with students eager to watch the Kodiaks close out homecoming week with a game against the Omak Pioneers. Homecoming royalty, fireworks and drizzling of rain were added features to the game.

"We are keeping everything the same as usual. Our non-league schedule was made to put us in some tough situations and play really good competition," said Coffin. "It really showed us where our weaknesses are and what we need to work on. We are excited for a good week of practice and getting prepared mentally and physically. Our goals have not changed."

During the first quarter, the scoreboard remained bare and stagnant as both teams struggled to make it to the end zone. However, during the second quarter #6 for the Omak Pioneers ran for 11 yards and got the first touchdown for the rainy game. Later in the quarter, the Pioneers' #6 makes a complete pass to #9 and put up 14 on the board for Omak.

The half time show was a chance for the homecoming royalty to each give a spiel about change and what it means to them, providing a connection to the new changes and transitions at the high school.

The half time show rounded out with a fireworks show that added some welcome change with pops of color in the dark and stormy sky.

Unfortunately, there was no change in luck for the Cascade Kodiaks during the second half. The score remained 14-0 throughout the second half with no touchdowns for either team and the Omak Pioneers taking the win.

MOSQUITO DISTRICT VOTE

Residents weigh in on expanding coverage area

By KALIE DRAGO

In an ideal world, there would be no such thing as traffic, veggies would be more tempting than carbs and mosquitos would stay away from those enjoying a summer night on the patio. However, with a healthy abundance of tourists, Bavarian style pretzels and the just right summer climate — traffic, carbs and mosquitos are familiar with Leavenworth residents.

Luckily, the Leavenworth Mosquito Control District provides a layer of protection between the city and mosquitos that helps a lot more than just slathering a layer of bug repellent on.

"Mosquito borne diseases, including — but not necessarily limited to — West Nile Virus and encephalitis, pose serious risks to public health, safety, and welfare; thus, it has become increasingly important to make all reasonable efforts to exterminate mosquitos. Leavenworth and the surrounding area is situated in an area of Chelan County where habitat and climate conditions are particularly conducive to mosquito infestation," according to the Mosquito Control District No. 2 Resolution document that was passed by Leavenworth City Council on Aug. 14.

In the last couple of months with the November election looming, giant banners promoting individuals, posters with names in large, block lettering and bumper stickers endorsing candidates have been staples on the highways throughout Chelan Count. However, the midterm election will not just bring voters the option of choosing candidates for representing the county, but residents can also vote for their residential area to be combined into the Mosquito Control District No. 2.

The November 6 ballot will serve as a chance for residents located east

Public Hearing on LMC Amendments addresses housing for 'essential workers'

By KALIE DRAGO
Echo Reporter

With limited space and a surge of jobs — the supply and demand for housing can arguably be considered out of balance within the Leavenworth zip code. The Leavenworth Planning Commission has begun churning the wheels of a possible movement towards creating more housing availability, particularly for the individuals that fall in the workforce economic standing category.

On Wednesday, Oct. 3 at 7 p.m., the Leavenworth Planning Commission hosted a public hearing hosted at the City Hall Council Chambers. The meeting focused on adding an amendment for residential density incentives and an amendment on yard requirements.

A quick stroll through town reveals "Help Wanted" signs posted in quite a few business windows; similarly, a brief scroll through job boards displays a seemingly endless list of ads looking to corral employees. Conversely, affordable housing isn't as quick and easy as a Google search or wandering hopefully through neighborhoods, searching for "For Sale" signs.

The Planning Commission is working towards providing the base elements for a solution to this problem for essential service workers with the two amendments: Chapter 18.26 Residential Density Incentives and Chapter 18.20 Yard Requirements.

"We've been working on this since the beginning of the year. This is one of many different things on the Planning Commission's docket for 2019," said member of the Planning Commission Anne Hessburg. "A primary focus, the City Council, particularly the Affordable Housing Committee, wanted us to focus on was creating new code and incentives for developing affordable housing. That was the main task we were put to and the first thing we've been working on from our long docket."

These two amendments have been in the works since the beginning of the year and the first draft was completed on July 13, 2018. Now several months later, final updates were made for both on Oct. 1 and the public hearing on the 3rd was an opportunity for the public to weigh in with feedback.

"We've been working through multiple different versions. We've been using other cities who have already adopted this type of code as kind of a template for how we'll move forward and figuring out how it would work within the confines of our city limits," said Hessburg.

The residential density incentives amendment Chapter 18.26 provides density incentives for residential land developers to increase workforce housing availability within city limits and to provide public benefits.

"For example, one of the options is if they (developers) build a place with multiple units in it and make some of those units permanently affordable and the other units don't have to be. They can be market rate units, but that would allow them to get a bonus by providing that benefit — a bonus of one and a half units," said Planning Commission Member Andy Lane. "The idea is just to keep it permanently affordable; but at the same time, the project itself has to pencil out to make somebody want to build it."

Workforce housing, in this case, is interchangeable with "affordable housing" — meaning, "those making an income that isn't sufficient in securing quality housing within a reasonable proximity to their workplace."

This applies to "essential workers" such as firemen, police officers, teachers, nurses, medical personnel and service workers, that are in low-paying service jobs that are essential to the Leavenworth economy.

This amendment pushes for rental housing permanently priced for households that have 80 percent or less below gross income of Chelan County median income. The residential density incentive will lessen the commute that "essential workers" may face due to the conflicting issue of the current housing costs in Leavenworth and limitations on personal budget.

Amendment Chapter 18.20 addresses the yard requirements. The purpose is to set zero lot design standards or procedures to also increase housing avail-

Leavenworth Fall Clean-Up

Annual Fall Clean Up for single family residential households will be Oct. 23 through Nov. 8.

The city crew will pick up yard debris the same day household garbage is collected, at no extra charge. Please limit the bags to 4 per week; additional bags will be charged at $3.50 per bag.

Leaves, pine needles, and other yard debris must be in the required recyclable paper bags, not to exceed 35 pounds. Plastic bags will not be picked up. The required recyclable paper bags are currently available at area stores.

Limbs must be cut into 4 foot or shorter lengths and tied with biodegradable twine into bundles. Large limbs, you are encouraged to cut them up and give them to someone for firewood.

No furniture, appliances, dirt, rocks, sod, or building debris will be picked up. Residents can also drop yard debris at the Leavenworth Recycling Center which is located at 216- 14th Street. The hours of operation are Wednesdays from 4:30 – 6:30 p.m. and Saturdays from 11:00 a.m. – 3:00 p.m. This service is only available for residents within city limits. (e41,42)

City Parks Close

The air is a little crisper, pumpkins are lined up outside of porches and it's now arguably seasonably inappropriate to order an iced coffee — it's officially fall. With the colder weather approaching, it's time for the Leavenworth city parks to close for car access for the next several months. Visitors can still stroll on foot or ski, however there will be no car access. The parks will not have car or parking access from October 15; these areas will reopen April 15, 2019. (e41) on Titus Road, up Chumstick to about mile marker 1 and the Mine wetland area to be incorporated in the Mosquito Control District No. 2, the group that provides the Leavenworth area's protection from the bugs.

The group performs a variety of services such as treating mosquito larva with several larvicides, the recent addition of conducting aerial larviciding, actively searching for mosquito breeding sites, investigating residents' complaints and simply informing locals of how to keep their property and themselves safe — among other things.

"We have been treating the areas and we justify it because it's close to the district," said Leavenworth Mosquito Control District manager, Jenny Mullins. "If they vote against it, we won't be able to justify it — so we'll have to stop treating, which will reduce mosquito control for the district."

The expansion won't be the first time some of these residents will have received Leavenworth Mosquito Control's services; however, the addition will be the first time they have to pay the tax on it.

"The current tax is $24 per parcel. It will help to contribute to our efforts, including town parks, to make the town livable. We won't keep doing it if people don't appreciate the amount of effort that does go into it," Mullins said.

The expansion will help keep taxes low and reflect appreciation for the hard work that goes into the process of keeping the area mosquito controlled.

"It will be a good thing to formally get into the district. We can rest assured that we can continue treating the area and continue benefitting the community," said Mullins. "It was an expensive process getting it on the ballot. So if it fails, we won't be motivated to do it again."

On November 6, the areas outside of the current territory will be able to weigh in on whether they want to be enveloped into the district. It's a chance to avoid spending the summer restlessly scratching at welts or dealing with the frustrating task of trying to simultaneously swat and grill in the backyard.

Surviving Cancer: The emotional impact

Being a cancer survivor is both a relief and a challenge in its own way. While you might feel incredibly grateful to be alive, you might face a set of circumstances you never imagined — ones that perhaps never occurred to you as you supported someone you loved through cancer.

Here are six things that people don't like to talk about regarding life after cancer.

1. When you get to the other side, you won't believe it. At least not at first. There is always a small part of you that thought you wouldn't make it through, and you will likely live with the shock for a while.

2. It's difficult to just "move on."

While people around you will be incredibly supportive during your battle, once you reach remission, they won't all be able to understand why you can't just "go back to normal." You will be a different person. Your views on almost everything will change. Be open and honest about what you're feeling, and reach out for professional help if necessary.

3. The guilt is real, and you will feel it. Why did you live and others die? There is no answering this question, but your feelings of guilt are valid, and it is not wrong to feel them. You oncologist will be able to refer you to counselors or psychologists should this mental struggle begin to affect your daily life.

4. The worry of going out of remission is real, and you will also feel this. No matter how many fulfilling, happy years go by, you might always have fears of your cancer returning. This can be real struggle. Studies show that survivors often deal with depression, anxiety, debt, lack of job opportunities and fear of romantic relationships. Keeping open lines of communication with your family, friends, doctors and even psychologists can make a difference.

5. You might struggle with the phrase, "I beat cancer." The fact of the matter is that it is not that simple a task. It is not a battle that is always won by the most courageous. Some people can do everything right and still lose their battle with cancer.

6. And you will feel as if you can't talk about it. You might believe you are supposed to feel grateful. The truth is that you will be dealing with a lot. Talk about it. Let people know your struggle is not over — even though your physical health has improved.

ability in the city. It is a way to provide more usable yard space, conserve energy and provide development flexibility. Zero lot line development focuses on a building location on a lot in a manner that any portion of one or more of the walls rests directly on a side lot line according to Planning Commission documents.

"Two lots side by side — why don't we eliminate the center yard requirements between the two? So, you'll get a little more development and essentially sharing a wall that goes along the property line," said Lane. "The idea is to allow that in all of the residential zones."

However, the current draft doesn't apply this to all residential zones, so the team is working to develop a change for all residential zones to have the zero design lot be applicable.

"We know there are a couple of folks in town that have been waiting to use," said Lane. "So we're really excited to get this one completed and out the door."

During the public hearing, several citizens spoke up with questions, concerns and general comments. Jordan McDevitt and Craig Hess were individuals that had a voice in the meeting.

"First, I would just like to applaud the effort of trying to create additional density opportunities in the city. We have a lot of limited land to accommodate housing and we have a desperate need for housing, so I think this is some good work, some good flexibility," said McDevitt. "I've been thinking about it specifically in regard to some property I own up on Ski Hill that I'm considering annexing and doing a residential development on."

McDevitt had reviewed the amendments with the eyes of — not only a citizen — but as a possible future developer.

"So to be able to preserve the critical areas in the city, while at the same time providing housing is really a challenge and I would say looking at my site specifically, there are some aspects of these tools that would be really helpful if they were more flexible," said McDevitt.

Following McDevitt, Craig Hess stepped to the podium for clarification as to where this will come into play or if there was a specific spot in mind when drafting this rule. He also brought up the usage of subjective words within the draft. He noted that he thought that the Planning Commission was given an impossible task.

"For the purpose of the chapter, workforce housing is understood to be affordable housing for households with earned income that is insufficient to secure quality housing in reasonable proximity to the workplace. Quality and reasonable. I mean they're so darn subjective. I think you've been given an impossible task. You changed out this fuzzy adjective with this fuzzy adjective,"

Hess said.

Lane said that after hearing McDevitt's feedback, the team will evaluate how to make the chapters more practical and usable for more people. "What we asked him to give us is tell us your analysis, tell us what would help you so we understand how to make it work more practically," said Lane.

These amendments have been an item on the Planning Commission's to do list for quite some time and they are now edging closer to coming to fruition. With a city that is constantly flourishing and contorting to fit the needs of tourists, the Leavenworth Planning Commission is concentrating its efforts to benefit its local service workers and public as a whole. There will be more discussion on the chapters and future tweaking on Nov. 7 at the next Planning Commission meeting.

Obituary

Mildred Rae 'Mili' Bark

Mildred Rae "Mili" Bark, 80, of Leavenworth, WA, passed away on Sunday, Sept. 23, 2018, at Central Washington Hospital in Wenatchee, WA.

She was born on Jan. 18, 1938, in Leavenworth, daughter of Dudley and Viola (Cromwell) Wilson. Her family called her "Snooks" and they lived on Peshastin Creek, in a home built by her father.

In 1943, they moved into Leavenworth, where she attended school from the elementary grade through high school.

Mildred was a Polynesian dancer and loved traveling as she visited Italy, France, and Europe. Her last adventure was with her sister, Leah, to visit their mother's family in Montana and North and South Dakota.

She married Donald Tucker and they had three children: Toni, Kelley, and Donald.

In those years, Mildred worked in insurance offices, and her favorite was the "Roy Potter" agency on Queen Anne Hill. She and all the employees loved Roy Potter.

She was a single mom for many years and worked a second job in a tavern, where she met Robert "Bob" Bark. Mili and Bob were married on August 27, 1978, and they celebrated their wedding anniversary last month. They were married 40 wonderful years.

Bob was a commercial fisherman in Sandpoint, AK, and somehow convinced Mili to take on the position of Cook for the crew on board. Bob says it was the best hire he ever made. The crew of six never ate so well. Mili was the cook for four salmon seasons from 1978-1981. The Bark's lived in Edmonds, WA, for 12 years; then in 1992, they moved back to her hometown of Leavenworth, where they made their home and continued to reside.

Mildred is survived by her husband, Robert "Bob" Bark of Leavenworth, WA; sons, Anthony Tucker of Entiat, WA., Kelley (Debbie) Galletti of Castle Rock, WA., and Donald Galletti of Wenatchee, WA; sisters, Leah Wilson-Buzard of Wenatchee Heights, WA., and Judy Wyssen of Leavenworth, WA., grandchildren, Catherine Tucker of Wenatchee, WA., Khalyn Prothero of Maple Valley, WA., and Nicolas Galletti of Spanaway, WA. She was preceded in death by her parents and granddaughter, Kellie Rae Galletti.

Mildred's family would like to extend their gratitude and give a special thanks to the nurses and doctors in the ICU at Central Washington Hospital for their compassion and care.

At Mildred's request, a family inurnment will be held at a later date at the Mountain View Cemetery in Leavenworth, WA. In lieu of flowers and in honor of Mildred's avid love for dogs, memorial contributions may be made to the Wenatchee Humane Society at 1474 S. Wenatchee Ave., Wenatchee, WA., 98801 or through their website at www.wenatcheehumane.org/donateonline.

Shirley Leone (Driskell) Strand

Shirley Strand passed into Heaven on Sept. 29, 2018.

This gracious lady began her life in Shoshone, Idaho. Born on Feb. 28, 1931 at the home of E. G. and Erma Leone (Clinger) Driskell.

Her early days were spent playing among the sagebrush, tending the garden and swimming in Wood River.

After completing high school, Shirley sought employment to cover college expense. She chose to forego a tour of Europe and focus on her education. Work at the local office of Idaho Power Co. was her choice.

In 1949, Shirley enrolled at Idaho State College, pledged to Alpha Chi Omega and gained employment on campus and at Idaho Power. Her focus was in food studies and its preparation.

Her interests led to the study of fashion design and application.

As a typical college student, Shirley found ways to socialize through her sorority's exchanges with campus fraternities. It's there she remembered a casual contact and sensed encouragement. Soon to follow were meetings at the library and contact at her dormitory during meal service. Thus began a bond between Shirley and Harvey Strand, a relationship lasting 65 years.

Upon graduation in 1953, Shirley and Harvey married. Their first dwelling was a tent in the forests of northern Idaho. She plied her skills in quantity cookery to feed 125 hungry college men who worked in the hills.

Leaving behind the open skies of central Idaho and the forests in north Idaho, her next dwelling was (an apartment) in a major city and employment as a teller at a savings and loan in downtown Seattle.

The next challenge was adapting to a transit bus system. One clear morning on the way to downtown, Shirley stood up, viewed the snow covered Cascades saying, "look, the mountains are out!" revealing she's a newcomer.

Shirley's first home was purchased by her husband while she remained in California with her children. Confirmation for the purchase was made when her request was honored, "Does that house have sidewalks?"

Shirley was a loving mother, delighted in serving food to family or friend, enjoyed church gatherings where she and friends prepared food for fellowship dinners. Bible Study Fellowship was central to her life along with the Girl Scouts. She would take them camping and hiking.

Having the heart of a Servant, she gave thought to others often before considering needs of her own.

When relocation of refugee families to the U.S. provided an opportunity for Shirley and others to sponsor a large family, she took a family into her home, transported them and "mothered, as needed." She saw everyone as a friend, enjoying their company.

She wasn't one for being part of a group unless it involved fabrics and quilting. Sensing the needs within a family, Shirley proposed a sewing class for young girls, imparting skills for a lifetime.

Another witness to her kindness was that she complemented others and gave repeated words of encouragement.

In retirement, after living 40 years in the West side of the Cascades, the East side beckoned. Having earlier made an inroad for relocating, this movement was made with heartache followed by a blossoming with a new location and new friends. Shirley thrilled at seeing snow fall, delighted in clearing walk-ways, playing in the snow just as in her childhood.

In the East, Shirley had her most prolific period of designing and assembling quilts. She felt there was Love in every stitch, quilts mostly made for others, family and persons in need. Her quilts were hand stitched until her last years when she began working with an artistic machine quilter.

A quilt was never sold, just given with Love. An exception was made for a quilt designed and constructed for an auction to benefit Cascade Medical Center Foundation.

Issues of health began to control her life. Bible study and church affiliations fluctuated as a result; however, the desire to maintain her relationship to the Lord never faltered.

After extended care at home, she left her view of the Wenatchee River and spent her last days under the care of Mountain Meadows, Memory Care.

Shirley was a lovely lady, gracious and kind. She is survived by her spouse, daughters Sandra (James) Thomas, Karen Strand (Ralph Tindell) and son Roger (Anne) Strand.

She was blessed by four grandchildren and six great grandchildren. Survived by brothers Byron Driskell, Richard Driskell and sister Annette Bunce, predeceased by brother Thomas Driskell.

A memorial service will be held at the United Methodist Church in Leavenworth, Washington on Thursday, Oct. 18, 2018 at 1:30 p.m.

OBITUARY & MEMORIAL POLICIES

An obituary is a way for family member(s) to commemorate a loved one's life and to notify the larger community of the deceased. Obituaries are also used for historical and ancestral data. Memorials are another way of letting the community know about the life and memories of the person who has died. A Memorial is different from an obituary. An obituary is usually current while a memorial can be written later. Obituaries and memorials need to be typed and emailed no later than Friday by 4:00 p.m. to be placed in the next available issue(s). Please call for cost of an obituary and which NCW paper(s) that it will be placed in. Cost of the obituary/memorial is due at the time of placement. Funeral homes and chapels can submit obituaries by Noon on Monday, unless a holiday.

Close game between long time rivals

Photos Diana Piñon

By KALIE DRAGO
Echo Reporter

The Cascade volleyball team had only one game during homecoming week; however, it was notable for the Kodiaks.

The girls took on rival, the Chelan Mountain Goats at Chelan High School on Oct 2. Players didn't let the unfamiliarity off an away court diminish their performance — nor did they allow exciting, homecoming activities to distract them from the game.

With an end result of 3-0 for Chelan, the score didn't mirror the hard work and effort the Kodiaks have been fueling into their season.

With each team putting up its best effort, the long-time rivalry tension was heightened by the game's close score, which remained in a steady gridlock.

After the Kodiaks put the first numbers on the scoreboard in the first set, the game began a constant back and forth for the two teams as the score continued to tie up.

With the first two sets remaining neck and neck, pressure exerted on both teams to snag those final points.

The yo-yoing of points played a major role resulting in a thin margin of error. Kodiaks' minor slips allowed the Mountain Goats to take the win for the first two sets.

The final score for the first set was 25-23 and the second was 25-22. The third set began with a Chelan lead and they stayed ahead throughout the set until it ended with Chelan 25, Cascade 12.

This is Coach Ashley Coffin's debut season as head coach. She has produced impressive results for the team. Before the game, the Kodiaks had a record of six wins and one non-conference loss.

This is the team's first loss within the conference, but there is a chance for redemption. The Mountain Goats will travel to the Kodiaks' territory next week for another game. This will give the Cascade volleyball team an opportunity to settle the score.

LEAVENWORTH ROTARY NEWS
2018-19 EXCHANGE STUDENT
 Each year Leavenworth Rotary Club hosts a student to live and study in our community. This year is a banner year for Leavenworth Rotary, as we are pleased to host a wonderful young lady from India.

Vrushika is currently a sophomore at Cascade High School and is looking forward to participating in all the school offers and to enjoy her host family and of course all the Leavenworth offers.

Back in India she was very active in school and held many leadership positions...class monitor, Hindi class drama and debate leader. She was also appointed as Secretary for the schools Interact Club (sponsored by local Rotary). Her favorite interests are reading and writing, and this passion has brought her many awards for many of her essays. Outdoors sports are not of great interest to her, but she loves to go bicycling.

As for her home life her parents are both engineer's (mechanical & chemical) and she has an older sister. Leavenworth Rotary wishes her well and looks forward to her having a great time as she is immersed in our culture.

Democrats promise more politics of power

By BILL FORHAN
 Publisher

IN MY OPINION
 Bill Forhan
 Publisher

Hoping to ride a “blue wave” back into D.C., Democrats have pulled out all of the stops to regain their power at the Federal level. But what exactly are they promising to do with that power? Have you heard any positive promises that will improve life for “we the people?”

Kim Schrier promises to keep politics out of the Doctor/Patient relationship. She supports Obamacare but blames Republicans for the out-of-control rise in premiums. She does admit that accepting all Medicare patients would bankrupt her practice. So, exactly where does she stand on the health care issue? Seems she wants the Federal money but doesn't want the government to tell doctors and patients exactly how to use that money.

To be fair, the Republicans could have repealed Obamacare and didn't do it. Obamacare was, is and will remain unsustainable. It will implode and neither candidate is likely to change that.

Following the disgusting Brett Kavanaugh debacle, Democrats have lost significant respect — and well they should. I have likened the episode to political rape. Rape has little to do with sex, it is more about anger, power and intimidation. What was done to Kavanaugh had little to do with his qualifications. It was simply a last ditch effort to prevent his confirmation at any cost.

It is not the first time that Democrats have resorted to the politics of personal destruction to defeat a political opponent. But in my experience, it was clearly the worst.

Do we really want to allow this kind of political theater to drive our national debate?

What is clear is there is no such thing as bipartisanship in politics today. Given that reality, the only way we can influence the behavior of either party is to reject any candidate that is willing to put D or an R after their name. Once elected, they will be expected to vote as a block along the party line. So you are no longer voting for an individual, you are voting for the party.

So in this election, I am encouraging all Republicans and Independents to support the Republican ticket and make sure you get out and vote. Democrats should either vote for Republicans as a protest against the Democrat's tactics or stay home.

It is the only way we can truly send a message that change is needed.

Apple Maggot Burning

By KALIE DRAGO
 Echo Reporter

In Northwest Washington, there is no shortage of apples. With businesses like Crunch Pak, designated for pre-cut apples and events like Apple Days in the neighboring Cashmere, apples are a staple in the local communities.

However, with that, there is also a need to keep a control on pests like Apple Maggots. The City of Leavenworth falls into the realm of having to follow the Apple Maggot Quarantine.

At the Sept. 11 City Council meeting, Council member Mia Bretz reported that the City of Leavenworth had been approved for the necessary burn permit for the Apple Maggot Quarantine, which was obtained through the Department of Ecology.

On Oct. 3, the City of Leavenworth released a public notice regarding the Apple Maggot prescribed burn.

The prescribed controlled burn will be on city owned land that is next to the Mountain View Cemetery. It will occur Oct. 10

The areas near the burn site will be temporarily restricted and roadways may be blocked for safety purposes.

The burn will be done under the oversight of Chelan County Fire District #3, according to the notice.

No action commenced by the Beneficiary of the Deed of Trust as referenced in RCW 61.21.030(4) is now pending to seek satisfaction of the obligation in any Court by reason of the Borrower's or Grantor's default on the obligation secured by the Deed of Trust/Mortgage. III. The default(s) for which this foreclosure is made is/are as follows: Failure to pay when due the following amounts which are now in arrears: $35,570.19. IV. The sum owing on the obligation secured by the Deed of Trust is: The principal sum of $303,764.68, together with interest as provided in the Note from 4/1/2017 on, and such other costs and fees as are provided by statute. V. The above-described real property will be sold to satisfy the expense of sale and the obligation secured by the Deed of Trust as provided by statute. Said sale will be made without warranty, expressed or implied, regarding title, possession or encumbrances on 10/26/2018. The defaults referred to in Paragraph III must be cured by 10/15/2018 (11 days before the sale date), or by other date as permitted in the Note or Deed of Trust, to cause a discontinuance of the sale. The sale will be discontinued and terminated if at any time before 10/15/2018 (11 days before the sale), or by other date as permitted in the Note or Deed of Trust, the default as set forth in Paragraph III is cured and the Trustee's fees and costs are paid. Payment must be in cash or with cashiers or certified checks from a State or federally chartered bank. The sale may be terminated any time after the 10/15/2018 (11 days before the sale date) and before the sale, by the Borrower or Grantor or the holder of any recorded junior lien or encumbrance by paying the principal and interest, plus costs, fees and advances, if any, made pursuant to the terms of the obligation and/ or Deed of Trust, and curing all other defaults. VI. A written Notice of Default was transmitted by the Beneficiary or Trustee to the Borrower(s) and Grantor(s) by both first class and certified mail, proof of which is in the possession of the Trustee; and the Borrower and Grantor were personally served, if applicable, with said written Notice of Default or the written Notice of Default was posted in a conspicuous place on the real property described in Paragraph I above, and the Trustee has possession of proof of such service or posting. The list of recipients of the Notice of Default is listed within the Notice of Foreclosure provided to the Borrower(s) and Grantor(s). These requirements were completed as of 4/19/2018. VII. The Trustee whose name and address are set forth below will provide in writing to anyone requesting it, a statement of all costs and fees due at any time prior to the sale. VIII. The effect of the sale will be to deprive the Grantor and all those who hold by, through or under the Grantor of all their interest in the above-described property. IX. Anyone having any objections to this sale on any grounds whatsoever will be afforded an opportunity to be heard as to those objections if they bring a lawsuit to restrain the sale pursuant to RCW 61.24.130. Failure to bring such a lawsuit may result in a waiver of any proper grounds for invalidating the Trustee's sale. X. NOTICE TO OCCUPANTS OR TENANTS The purchaser at the Trustee's Sale is entitled to possession of the property on the 20th day following the sale, as against the Grantor under the deed of trust (the owner) and anyone having an interest junior to the deed of trust, including occupants who are not tenants. After the 20th day following the sale the purchaser has the right to evict occupants who are not tenants by summary proceedings under Chapter 59.12 RCW. For tenant-occupied property, the purchaser shall provide a tenant with written notice in accordance with RCW 61.24.060. THIS NOTICE IS THE FINAL STEP BEFORE THE FORECLOSURE SALE OF YOUR HOME. Any person having a claim against the decedent must, before the time the claim would be barred by any otherwise applicable statute of limitations, present the claim in the manner as provided in RCW 11.40.070 by serving on or mailing to the personal representative or the Personal Representative's attorney at the address stated below a copy of the claim and filing the original of the claim with the court in which the probate proceedings were commenced. The claim must be presented within the later of: (1) Thirty days after the personal representative served or mailed the notice to the creditor as provided under RCW 11.40.020(1)(c); or (2) four months after the date of first publication of the notice. If the claim is not presented within this time frame, the claim is forever barred, except as otherwise provided in RCW 11.40.051 and 11.40.060. This bar is effective as to claims against both the decedent's probate and nonprobate assets.
