Murder: Evidence collected seems to point to Swaim and Soles

the Grays Harbor Sheriff's Office. Sickman said Dawn told him she was scared of Swaim because he had recently killed her ex-husband. She attempted to convince Sickman to kill Swaim. The case file also included several letters from Soles to Smith, including one that said, "you don't have much time left."

In 1988, Detective Daryl Mathena,

Photo submitted by Chelan County Sheriff's Office
Victim Stephen Smith

Josh's father, and then Prosecuting Attorney Gary Riesen met with Deborah L. Wetzel at the King County Prosecutor's Office. Wetzel said she had been in a relationship with Swaim. Wetzel had worked for the attorney representing Swaim at the time. During a court appearance, it was mentioned that Swaim was a suspect in a homicide in Chelan County. Wetzel later asked Swaim about the homicide.

Wetzel said Swaim told her he killed his ex-wife's husband. Swaim claimed the ex-husband came at him with a shotgun and he hit him on the head with a rock and killed him. Wetzel said someone named "Pork Chop" helped him dispose of the body. Swaim told Wetzel they would never find the body and there was no chance of being charged.

Swaim told Wetzel he stayed together with Dawn for so long because she was afraid he would say something about the murder to the cops.

The affidavit also reveals that not long after moving to Ocean Shores, Dawn's mother removed Crystal, due to the poor living conditions

On Feb. 2, 2017, Methena and Sergeant Jeff Middleton contacted Swaim at his residence in Sultan. Swaim said he knew why they wanted to talk to him, because of some "crazy" Facebook posts regarding his possible involvement in the Stephen Smith missing person case.

Swaim told deputies he did not know Smith well and had only been in his house one time. He did remember a time in 1982 when he and Dawn arrived in Cashmere to pick up Crystal, when they stayed at the Dryden Cottage Motel. Mathena found it interesting his memory was so clear on this day 34 years ago.

Swaim continued to maintain his innocence. On Feb. 16, 2017, Mathena, Middleton and Sergeant Bruce Long interview Dawn Soles in Leavenworth. When asked about July, 1982, Soles admitted to being in Cashmere with Swaim.

She gave specific details on the last time she saw Smith. Soles claimed they were staying in the Cashmere Village Inn. Soles said she picked up Crystal and spent time with her. When she tried to drop Crystal off, Smith was not home, Soles said, but Weldon was. Not wanting to leave Crystal with Weldon, Soles said she left for Seattle.

According to the affidavit, Mathena felt it odd Dawn would take off for Seattle since this was the first time Smith had not been there to pick up Crystal. She also did not leave Crystal with her mother or Smith's mother, who both lived in the Cashmere area.

Soles was asked about Douglas Sickman's comments that she asked him to kill Swaim. She denied ever speaking to Sickman about this. She was also asked about Wetzel's comments. Soles did not have a comment and continued to maintain her innocence.

As they talked about the evidence pointing to a beating death at Smith's home, Soles, who had been relaxed and calm, began to cry. Mathena told Soles they had no intention of arresting her that day. Soles responded they did not have the authority to arrest her.

Next week in the Leavenworth Echo, we'll continue to detail the investigation into the murder of Stephen Smith. (Note- In the March 15 issue, we incorrectly identified the names on the photos for this story.

Illegal rentals: City ready to do sting operations

"There is the initial investigation piece, which is more like our parking enforcement people. They go on the internet, do the walk by, take notes. They are certified witnesses. They've been trained in that," Walinski said. "The second piece of the contract is we are going to put in a phone line for overnight rental compliance. That will be available 24/7. Given the type of information, we might not respond to that. If there is a loud party, that is not what we are looking for."

The hotline is meant to be used to report illegal overnight rentals. The third piece of the contract is the surveillance, undercover piece. "Those are different individuals with different training than our parking enforcement people. These folks will be coming over from Seattle," Walinski said. "They have a very good background. Most of them are ex-police, from the detective division. The other piece is, all the information collected, they are not the ones that make the decision on whether it is enforceable or not. That will be reviewed by myself and Thom."

Walinski said the costs are not fixed, but it does give the city the resources to do what is needed, if they do come across a property doing overnight rentals. There are resources to do the investigation and go undercover, if necessary.

Prior going to court, it would come back to council to decide if it wants to spend additional dollars for legal fees.

"One thing we're really hoping, and this came clear in the meeting with our attorney and Pacific Patrol, we hope to do this a couple times, go to court, to show how serious the city is about this kind of vigorous enforcement," said Mayor Cheri Kelley Farivar. "Then watch others who will be monitoring this process, fall into compliance. That is our hope. We're not saying it is going to cost us $60,000 per year. We're hoping this is an investment in the future of compliance."

The base cost is $35 per hour with 4-to-8 hours per week, along with $109 per month for the phone service. When the city gets to the point of doing the undercover work, that is where it might get expensive.

"The city has to be willing to spend the dollars for the investigative services and legal fees, just like enforcing the sign code or someone who doesn't want to pay their business license. The not-to-exceed amount is $60,000 over six months," Walinski said. "If we believe we have someone that is breaking the law, doing overnight rentals in the residential neighborhood, we want to be able to take the next step and do full enforcement."

There might be several cases where people do not want to come into compliance, Farivar said. At that point, they might have to come back to the council for more money. Once a residence is found to be doing overnight rentals, the city will start sending letters.

"If this is going all the way, we typically don't get a response from the property owner until the third notice. They send a notice they will appeal to the hearing examiner. To that point, those costs are relatively minor," Walinski said. "Once the hearing examiner makes the decision, they can challenge again. This is where it goes to court. Thom will make a decision and estimate on the cost. Then it will be up to the city council."

"We don't want to be a paper tiger. We have to go all the way," said Councilwoman Margaret Neighbors.

Farivar said it is very likely at least one homeowner will take it all the way. Wilson said other cities around the country will be looking at this.

Wilson said Leavenworth may become the model city for how to get rid of overnight rentals, something big and small cities are dealing with. Leavenworth Chamber Director Nancy Smith said she had an issue with Leavenworth becoming a model city.

"I hope it is not one of our goals is to be that model city on vacation rentals, because vacation rentals are huge part of Leavenworth. They are just outside your tiny city limits," Smith said. "That scares me to death because it is a giant part of what Leavenworth is and a giant part of what our guests want. We just didn't want it in the high density area. I'm not suggesting you change what you're doing."

Smith said this model will affect the rest of Leavenworth.

"A giant part of where the traveler is going, especially family travelers, is to enjoy a vacation rental. I have a great vacation rental next to my house," Smith said. "I'm not trying to suggest you do anything different. Just don't be the model city."

Farivar said becoming the model city is not their goals. Wilson said this activity is illegal, so as elected officials, they have to enforce that. Councilwoman Sharon Waters said the residents came and said enforce it and that is what they are doing.

"Once we have this fully set up with Pacific, then we've actually given somebody with a number to keep in their drawer. We had 175 people sign that petition (against overnight rentals) who are going to be vigilant about this and give information to the city, presumably," Farivar said.

Councilwoman Gretchen Wearne asked if other cities had done sting operations.

"Other cities usually don't expose their secret sting operations. We searched for that type of information, it is not readily available. They do not want to release their secrets," said Pate.

At the council meeting that night, the council unanimously approved the new contract for Pacific Patrol regarding overnight rental enforcement.

HOWELL at the MOVIES

WITH JAMIE HOWELL

Last week in the Icicle Creek Film Series we had a chess rock star, this week it's a regular ol' rock star - Duff McKagan of Guns 'n Roses fame.

IT'S SO EASY AND OTHER LIES, is the concert version of McKagan's New York Times best-selling memoir by the same name, a book that details his rise to fame with Gn'R and how all the attendant vodka and illicit substance abuse nearly killed him.

Shot just over the hill at Seattle's Moore Theater with Duff onstage, IT'S SO EASY AND OTHER LIES takes a fitting, yet novel approach to onscreen memoir. Of course, in order to make it to that stage, McKagan had to successfully make his way through the perils of addiction.

One reviewer said the doc feels a bit like, "a musical AA meeting," which sounds to me like - if you're going - a pretty good kind to go to.

The fact is, McKagan did find a way to change his life. Today he remains nearly as big a rock star, touring with Velvet Revolver and even reuniting with his old band after their 2016 induction into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame. He writes, he creates, he performs and he does every bit of it sober.

With their home field still snow covered, the Cascade Kodiak softball team played at Walla Walla Point Park on March 17 for the first game of the season, picking up a 9-6 win over Lynden Christian. Sophomore Sarah Paulson was in the circle.

Cascade opened the scoring with a walk by Kaija Lovelady, then an RBI double by Truh Merriman. Cascade led 1-0. The Kodiaks went up 2-0 in the second as Lovelady drove in Sarah Pickel on an RBI groundout.

Lynden Christian got on the board with a home run in the top of the third. Cascade came right back with a run in the bottom of the frame, on hits by Analia Vasquez and Olivia Stoddard. Cascade went up 5-1 with a pair of runs in the fourth, on hits by Sarah Paulson and Vasquez.

The Kodiak went up 8-1 in the fifth on hits by Pickel, Stoddard and Paulson. The Lancers came right back with five runs in the sixth to cut the lead to 8-6. Two of the LC hits were home runs, which is tough without fences.

Cascade scored another run in the sixth to make the score

9-6 on singles by Kaitlyn Craig and Paulson and a double by Stoddard. Merriman came in to pitch the seventh and put the Lancers down in order.

“Sarah Paulson, but for the one inning, really dominated in the circle racking up 11 strikeouts and only 2 walks. We got hits from girls up and down the lineup. I am really proud of their effort today,” said Cascade Head Coach Ken Krous.

Stoddard was 4-for-4 with 2 runs, a double and an RBI. Paulson was 3-for-4 with 2 runs and 5 RBIs. Vasquez was 2-for-4 with an RBI.

“It was great to finally get outside and play on the dirt and feel and smell the grass. We have been making the gym work, but there is no substitute for being outside,” Krous said.

Cascade played a non-league game at Ephrata on March 21. Results were not available before press time. The Kodiaks play at Cle Elum on Thursday. They are at Wenatchee on Monday, then are scheduled to host Chelan on Tuesday, field conditions permitting.

Cascade Soccer team off to terrific start

By IAN DUNN
EDITOR

Despite having played only in the gym the past couple weeks, the Cascade Boys’ Soccer team is off to a solid 3-0-1 start.

Cascade opened the season on March 11 at Ephrata. The Kodiaks won 2-0. Jose Valdez started the scoring with a goal in the 20th minute off a corner kick from Arturo (Cholo) Avila. In the second half, Danny Sandoval scored an insurance goal on a nice through-ball by Alex Lopez.

“For the first game of the season and the third time we have had a chance to play outside, I was pleased. There is lots of room for improvement, but a lot went well too,” said Cascade Co-Head Coach Pete Spiegel. “We hope to see many goals coming from free kicks. We dominated play in the first half. Our defense, led by Alexis Tovar and Joseph Blake, stymied their attacks.”

The second half was a more even affair, Spiegel said.

“Our timing is a little off, but that is to be expected since it is so early in the season and we have such a young team,” Spiegel said.

On March 14, Cascade played at Sultan. It was supposed to be a home game, but with all the snow the team will likely not play a home game for some time. The Kodiaks won 3-1.

“Sultan was a strong team. They had some skilled players. We found ourselves on our heels for the first part of the game. However, Freshman Arturo Avila found the back of the net with a blast from close range. In the second half, Avila took off right were he left off as he scored his second goal,” Spiegel said.

Senior captain Alexis Tovar scored the third goal in the second half. The Turks got on the board with a goal in the 70th minute.

“Throughout the game Joseph Blake played with nonstop energy and determination. He played hard from the start to the end,” Spiegel said.

Cascade played at 2A powerhouse Quincy on March 16. The Kodiaks came away with an impressive 4-1 win. Quincy opened the scoring in the 6th minute, but just minutes after that, Valdez scored the equalizer on a brilliant through-ball from Arturo Avila.

Avila scored the second goal on the assist from Valdez to make it a 2-1 score at half. The second half belonged to Avila, Spiegel said.

“He scored one of the prettier goals I have seen after 20 minutes of the second half to make the score 3-1. He then put an exclamation on the game with a blast with about 5 minutes remaining. He scored a 4th goal, but that was called back,” Spiegel said. “So far, we have gotten good production from our front line of Jose Valdez and Arturo Avila. We have also been getting solid play from our back four and our goalie, Jose Mendoza. We just have to be careful of injuries and keeping our grades up.”

On March 17, Cascade played in Seattle against Kings. The game ended tied 2-2. Cascade plays at Okanogan on Thursday. They are scheduled to host Cashmere next Tuesday, field conditions permitting.

Cascade Golf team opens season at Clockum Ridge

By IAN DUNN
EDITOR

The Cascade Golf Team is also being heavily impacted by the lingering snow, which could keep them off their home course until May. The boys’ team opened the season at Clockum Ridge on March 16 against an experienced Quincy team. Cascade lost 354-405. Quincy’s Trajan Trevino was medalist with a 79. Tim Wells paced the Kodiaks with a fine 85.

“Tim had a couple bad holes but other than that he played pretty solid for this early.

We had played Rock Island this last Tuesday in a CTL Jamboree that was very informal, more like a CTL team practice and that is all. But it is just nice to get out. Bryson Murdock followed with a 99, Bruce Ledbeter-Gibbs a 103 and Stefan Zucktriegel a 118,” said Head Coach Randy Alexander.

As you might expect, it has been a fairly trying spring for the golfers.

“Assistant coach Ken Bauman and myself have been having practice in the hallways of the school daily for swing training. We also had Leavenworth Assistant Professional Tyne Vincent put on a power point presentation on the rules of golf to help the new golfers understand the many rules of golf. It was good. I appreciate Tyne helping us out. The kids really like him,” Alexander said.

On the girls’ side, juniors Jacelyn Bain and Maddie Hontou played their first rounds of the year. Bain shot a 110 while Hontou shot 113. The Quincy medalists shot 108.

“Not bad for the first round of the year. Will be looking forward to watching these two girls grow and to help develop the five new frosh girls turning out, Natalie Craig, Victoria Driscoll, Emma Helseth, Alexandra Rodgers and Anna Russell. All the new girls have improved dramatically over the last three weeks, and with more course play, they will start playing for score in our matches on the JV side,” Alexander said.

Cascade plays Warden at Sage Hills on March 23. The boys play at the Jack Barnes Invitational on Saturday at Three Lakes in Wenatchee.

Cascade tennis team opens season at Ephrata

By IAN DUNN
EDITOR

The Cascade Tennis Team, perhaps the most impacted by the lingering snow, played their season opener on March 16 at Ephrata. The girls won 3-2. Cascade picked a win from number one singles, Taylor Kelly, 6-0, 6-0 and the doubles teams.

Number one doubles Katie Schiefelbein and Brooke McDevitt won 6-2, 7-6 (7-3). Number two doubles, Alexandra Barragan and Dorothy Espinosa won 6-2, 6-2.

“Taylor handled her opponent easily. She tried new strategies and executed them perfectly. Katie and Brooke took their time wrapping up their match because the second set went into a tie breaker,” said Head Coach Joey Johanson. “They showed they have the nerves to win tight matches by putting the tiebreaker away easily.”

Johanson said the most impressive match of the day came from the number two girls doubles.

“We needed them to win to get the girls’ team win and they handled the pressure amazingly and put the Ephrata team away with ease. Marie Dickinson and the Number 3 doubles girls lost in tough matches, but got the varsity experience they need,” Johanson said.

The boys lost 5-0. Johanson said the boys battled hard with many newcomers getting their first varsity experience.

“It seemed like every singles player and doubles team improved in the second set, which is encouraging to see as a coach. Finn Johnson had a great match at number 1 singles and many games came down to deuce. Finn is nursing a broken hand and still has a cast on. His game should continue to improve as the year goes on,” Johanson said. “The match of the day on the boys side was the number 2 doubles. Thalles Nunes and Levi Larson almost split sets with Ephrata after losing the first set 2-6. They showed grit and determination and took the second set down to the wire.”

The Kodiaks played at Pateros on March 20. Results were not available before press time. On Saturday, the team plays at the Selah Doubles Tournament. Next Tuesday, they open league play at Chelan.

Baseball team drops opener to Ephrata, but bounces back against Orting

By IAN DUNN
EDITOR

Like all spring sports teams, the baseball team has been challenged to prepare for the season with the lingering snow. Head Coach Mike Kelly said they have been doing the best they can.

“We were inside the first three weeks, taking a day to field fly balls at the Peshastin parking lot. That was the extent of our outdoor activity. Looking forward to getting outside,” Kelly said.

The good news is, the Cascade home field in Peshastin is now ready to play. The Kodiaks have a weekend double header against Omak scheduled.

“It is going to happen. Our field is 100 percent ready to play. The field is amazing with it’s ability to shed water. With the help of the District ground crew, we were able to get the field ready. We are continuing to get it prepped for Saturday,” Kelly said.

Cascade opened the season at Ephrata on March 14. It was a tough outing for the boys against a quality opponent. The Tigers won 11-0.

“It was walks and errors. We committed five errors in the first inning. Max Gilbert threw the first two innings. We are a young, inexperienced team. We have three seniors who have varsity experience. Most of the other six guys are playing varsity baseball for the first time,” Kelly said.

Considering the youth and lack outside practice, Kelly did not have high expectations.

“I just wanted to get outside. We gave up 5 five runs in the first inning. We made the plays after that,” Kelly said. “We have six guys for the pitching staff. Outside of Max Gilbert, none have pitched at the varsity level, so it will take them awhile to get going. We gave up six runs in the third inning.”

Cascade struck out only three times, which Kelly considers a victory, despite the score. He liked the boys were putting the ball in play. Gilbert pitched 2 innings, giving no earned runs. Conrad Hasse pitched 1 inning, giving no earned runs and three walks. Justin Hall pitched 1 inning, giving 6 earned runs with 1 strikeout and 3 walks.

Senior Wyatt Guthrie had the only hit for the Kodiaks.

Cascade played at Ephrata again last Saturday, since it was the only available field around. The Kodiaks beat Orting 11-4.

“With the same inexperienced crew, we came away with a W,” Kelly said. “We flat hit the ball. It was good to see that progression in a short period of time. It was great in all regards. The base running was bad, due to lack of reps.”

Cascade had 10 hits, Orting 4. Hasse pitched 3 innings, giving no earned runs with 3 strikeouts and 3 walks. Dane Williams pitched 1 inning, giving no runs with 1 strikeout. Hunter Reinhart pitched 3 innings, giving no runs, 3 hits with 2 strikeouts and 1 walk.

Gilbert was 3-for-4 with a run and RBI. Mason Kelly was 2-for-3 with a run and 2 RBIs. Hasse was 2-for-4 with a run and RBI.

On Saturday, Cascade hosts Omak for a double header. Last year, the Pioneers did not field a baseball team.

“It’s exciting we are already into league. Omak is a wildcard, because we haven’t seen them in over a year. They have a new coach. I’m excited they are back in the league. I’m excited to see what they are,” Kelly said. On Tuesday, the team is scheduled to host Chelan at home.

Skatepark: Ad hoc committee to consider new design

“I’m disappointed it (the process) was as clunky as it was. I wish the process was smoother. Even though I’m on the ad hoc committee, I’m not totally behind our recommendation,” Bretz said. “We get to do this once. This is a cool opportunity to hear from the people that will be using this, to let them feel some ownership and value and get what they want. It just was too fast. It was too short a process to get more designs and get feedback on them.”

The downside of changing the design at this time is the park would not be built this year, asked Mayor Cheri Kelley Farivar.

“We don’t know that. I’m

HAPPY 100TH ANNIVERSARY GIRL SCOUTS

It all started in 1917, when Juliette Gordon Low founded the Girl Scouts of America in Georgia. Like all non-profits fundraising is an important part of a healthy organization. The girls of Mistletoe, Oklahoma needed money to fund troop activities, so they decided to sell cookies to raise money. The girls along with help from their mothers baked cookies in the high school cafeteria and sold them as a service project. Other troops took notice and they too started selling cookies, they had baked. The cookie sales got a big boost in 1922 when the “American Girl” published an article about their fundraising business plan. They also published a recipe the girls were using to make a sugar cookie. In 1933 the Girl Scout Cookie Sale became part of the entire organization. Since that time the cookies have been commercially made and is a major source of fundraising for troop activities.

This event is not just about raising money, but is also a very educational program for the girls. The girls learn goal setting, decision making, money management, people skills, and business ethics. My sisters and I were all Girl Scouts, I went on to be a Senior Girl Scout, and the skills I learned in scouting have been an important part of my life. I cannot begin to tell you the number of boxes of cookie I sold or the number of boxes of cookies I have purchased. I will not go past a Girl Scout selling cookies with out purchasing as many as I can. Today 2.8 million Girl Scouts with the support of 900,000 adults are selling cookies and learning life skills that will make them great. So please support the Girl Scouts and buy cookies.

been following this process for 15 months.

“When we had good momentum going, we had some good comments, some good features for all skill levels. It seemed like it was really meeting the need,” Leeds said. “However, when you had a conference call with Grindline, most of us did not get to see the moon-boot design. This (current design) is actually quite dangerous. I can't think of a design quite like that.”

Because the bowl opens up to the street area, Leeds said there would be a lot of collisions and safety issues.

“Because there is an ad hoc committee with two skaters on it, I was ready to come up here and be a cheerleader and say let's do this, but that is not the right park for us,” Leeds said. “We need to go back to the original design, not the peanut, but the moon-boot. This isn't what the skaters want.”

Ad hoc committee member Josh Wulfman said the process was shortened. He said after their Friday meeting, there was not enough time to get everyone's opinion. Of the people he talked to, there was a split between the two designs submitted by Grindline.

“I will lean either way with the majority. The majority now favors the moon-boot design. I would recommend we look at the moon-boot as being our final design,” Wulfman said.

Local skater Stone Parker said the moon-boot design provides more separation between the bowl and street area.

“This design combines the two and eliminates the non-safe stuff. The moon-boot has been tested. It works for a variety of people, including beginning. The rest of the park is almost the same. My recommendation is for the moon-boot bowl,” Parker said.

Another local boarder, Kevin Fiel, said they have one chance to do this.

“If we're going to do it, let's do it correct. The design we had at the meeting before, I felt we all left and we're pretty confident with the idea of it. To see this now, it is just too soon. Let's rethink this, even if it means a skatepark does not get built this summer. This design is not accepted by skateboarders,” Fiel said.

Mia Abbot talked about the two different types of skaters, the street skaters and the transition or bowl skaters.

“With the closed design, either the peanut or the moon-boot, there is a space for that type of skateboarder. And in the street section, a space for that type of skateboarder. By opening this space, you're not giving justice to the two types of skateboarders,” Abbot said.

Cari Heneth said the moon-boot design is what everyone wants. Shawn Clark said he's skated a moon-boot design many times and it was good for new skaters. Jesse Baker suggested the nearby pump track is a good place for kids to learn to skate. Austin Pruce said he liked the moon-boot design.

“The previous design would cater to one or two skaters who would take over the whole park. It wouldn't allow beginners time to skate,” Pruce said.

Farivar said it seems they need to revise the design. Walinski said if they are going to stop, they need to get more comments.

“If you select the design being recommended here tonight, then four weeks from now when we put the new design up, these folks will be happy and we'll get a different group in here that say we prefer this,” Walinski said. “I think, if you are going to change the design, I think you need to take a breath, put it on hold and go through a process that includes the skaters here tonight and the other skaters, but also the mom's and dad's with the like tikes that skate. You have to give everybody a chance. Stop the process, don't just push ahead.”

The original design presented to the group which garnered the most positive comments was the closed bowl design, a different shape of bowl with a lot of street features, Walinski said. Councilman Elmer Larsen suggested posting the moon-boot design as the preferred, then get comments for a couple weeks.

Farivar said they heard from the group there has not been sufficient time. Parker said everyone from the ad hoc group was there and had changed their minds on the design, preferring the moon-boot.

“The way city government works, the committee needs to reconsider the recommendation in whatever form it takes. The most efficient method is to hand it back to the ad hoc committee. You have a meeting, discuss this calmly after you've had a chance to think about it,” Farivar said. “Then, make the determination if you want to reopen this, that you want to move ahead with the moon-boot design. Grindline has a part in this also. To change it, you have to get back to Grindline. We understand your position, but government works really slow.”

The ad hoc committee will be taking more comments. Farivar suggested to the skaters they make their positions known to representatives of the committee. Councilwoman Margaret Neighbors said this does not have to take a terrible long time. They can't begin construction right how anyway, Neighbors said.

“We have the potential to make this construction season, but you must be efficient in your planning to make this happen. I really hope you'll speak to the committee members and make your feelings known. If you wish to change the design, that is the way to do it,” Farivar said.
