Talks continue on new elementary school

By KATIE LINDERT
Ward Media Staff Reporter

CHELAN – At the Oct. 9 Lake Chelan School Board meeting, Superintendent Bradley Wilson presented some potential development options for school facilities, including those for a new elementary school.

There is still no defined timeline for the project as the district is still considering those options for development that may or may not include a new elementary school, as well as different potential options for what the building of a new elementary may look like if they were to move in that direction. The presentation included four different options presented by ALSC Architects.

A new elementary school build would potentially mitigate some current safety concerns, provide updated facilities, and offer optimized learning conditions.

In reference to a recent survey of community members, Wilson shared, “As you can see from the results of our latest thought exchange linked below, our community, parents, and staff have high expectations for our students and want the core learning facilities to be our focus. The original MOE was built in 1948, and the study and survey show it is starting to appear as if continued remodels are not the most responsible long term solution. Our tax-payers are great supporters of our schools, and it is important we decide wisely on how to utilize those funds.”

Lake Chelan School District Candidate
Christy C. Nielsen

1. Please briefly introduce yourself and tell our readers why you are running for a seat on the Chelan School District school board.

My name is Christy C. Nielsen. I have lived in Chelan for 15 years. I recently retired after 17 years working as the pharmacist at Lake Chelan Hospital. I graduated from Omak High School then went on to earn my Bachelor of Science in Pharmacy and Doctor of Pharmacy from Washington State University. I earned additional credentials in Clinical Informatics from Johns Hopkins University. My education is one of my most valued assets. A robust public education for all students is one of the things that has made our country great. I have noted that trust and confidence in public education is being eroded. My goal is to support our local schools, students, teachers, administrators and support staff to provide a comprehensive education to our local children based on and trusting the professional expertise they bring to the table as educators.

2. What professional or personal experiences and qualifications make you a suitable candidate for this role, and how do they relate to education and the school district's needs?

In my personal life I have been a life-long learner, a trait that was instilled in me by my parents and teachers educational excellence?

When working with funds that come from public sources sound stewardship is a mandate. Scarce resources should be wisely allocated to prioritize and maximize student achievement & well-being. I plan to engage with school administrators, teachers, staff and community members on issues around sound budgeting and monitoring of district resources, long-term financial planning for future needs, investment in technology to improve efficiencies and outcomes. In addition, working

Chelan Valley Feral Cat Project continues to grow

Ward Media Staff Reporter

CHELAN – April Leaf and Wendy Isenhart, leaders of the Chelan Valley feral cat project, attended the Oct. 17 Community Funding Request City Council meeting to ask for $5,000 toward their continued care for needy cats.

The CVFCP is currently dedicated to the overall care and rehabilitation of cats. Some of this care includes the humane trapping, spaying/neutering, and returning of cats to their original environments. The CVFCP has served 80 cats as of Oct. 19, and continues to serve more each passing day.

According to Leaf, their annual budget is conservatively estimated at $15,000, with much of their funding coming from private donations. This week they are starting the application process to obtain formal non-profit status, and are hoping to have their license by January.

Leaf and Isenhart spend much time, and money out of their own pockets, toward this effort. Leaf is also heavily involved in the rehoming of cats. This said, CVFCP has also seen an immense amount of support from community members.

“The community is really generous. We have people that are monthly donating to us $50 or $100, and anybody who gets a cat from us always donates money to us. This community is so giving,” Leaf said.

Some of the healthcare the CVFCP provides for cats includes vaccination against rabies, upper respiratory viruses, and feline leukemia. Providing them ear-mite checks is also a priority.

“Many of the feral cats have ear mites so bad they become infections,” Leaf explained. “I actually have a feral living at my house. He's old, he was starving to death. He'd gone deaf from having ear infections so bad...his hearing is completely damaged. He could never survive in the wild now.”

The CVFCP are currently working with a population of 40 cats near the airport. Of those 40, they have already served 4. Leaf is excited to work with the cats at this location, as their needs are especially high.

Now known for her passion and dedication to caring for feral cats, Leaf is often approached by people for assistance. She cites there being a long list of places in the community where cats currently need help. One colony in town she mentions resides near Wapato and Emerson, by the Episcopal Church.

CVFCP updates can be found on Facebook, NextDoor, or by directly requesting a copy of their Mewsletter.

Chelan Fire and Rescue actively seeks volunteers

By KATIE LINDERT
Ward Media Staff Reporter

CHELAN—Chelan County Fire Protection District 7 will be hosting volunteer training this coming February and is actively seeking dedicated individuals.

Currently, there are 31 active volunteer firefighters, and roughly 90% of these individuals provide support services during an active fire. This means they are offering support from outside of a building, not actually entering into and fighting a structural fire.

“We don’t have enough volunteers to staff typical structure fires. Not many places do,” Assistant Fire Chief Shawn Sherman said, “The way we look at it is any numbers we can get, we’re happy with.”

He also mentioned the importance of being able to predict the overall cost for training. To outfit and train one volunteer it costs roughly $10,000.

That said, there is turnover of volunteers. Sherman cites three main reasons for this. He has seen volunteers move out of town because they can no longer afford to live here, and people who physically age out of firefighting and choose to retire. Additionally, there are people who may struggle to balance family commitments and job obligations, as many occupations don’t support volunteer activities.

Sherman started his career in fire service as a volunteer. He would leave high school classes to go to fires, or, if at a job, would leave mid-shift to respond or fight fire.

“Most businesses don’t support that anymore,” he explained. “The school system definitely doesn’t support that anymore. So, times have changed.”

Once volunteers make it through the academy, their commitment is every Tuesday except holidays and special events. Specialized training is also offered occasionally throughout the year. Fire academy takes place every Tuesday and Saturday from Feb. 6 until around mid-April. The intensity of the academy schedule Sherman believes to be a reason for having difficulty recruiting.

He invites those who are dedicated to consider volunteering.

“The experience of being a firefighter is definitely a fulfilling one, if you can stick to the commitment. It’s not easy...we understand that life changes for people,” Sherman said. “What we don’t want to do is recruit people that are on unsure footing because we invest a lot of time and a lot of money in people...so if someone is interested in doing this, take an honest look at your own life. Do you have time for this commitment, and, if you do, we want you.”

Local woman helps keep our valley beautiful

By KATIE LINDERT
Ward Media Staff Reporter

CHELAN – Susan Fisher is known for many efforts in the Lake Chelan valley, though her devotion to keeping clean roadsides has garnered her quite a reputation. Nearly every morning she walks different lengths of SR150 between Chelan and Rocky Point, picking up pieces of garbage and recycling from the roadside.

Fisher’s been providing this service to the community for over eight years, and residing here for 71. She recently turned 80 in August.

Fisher came to Chelan Falls at nine years old when her father took a job at Washington Water Power. She attended fourth and fifth grades in a two-room schoolhouse in the Falls before transferring to Chelan for middle and high schools. From there, she would go on to study nursing in Wenatchee and worked at the original Chelan hospital after finishing her studies. At the time, there was only one registered nurse on duty for evening and night-shift, and she became skilled in every kind of nursing.

Fisher now volunteers for Habitat for Humanity a couple times a week and belongs to the Hospital Guild, P.E.O., and Tender Loving Care For Seniors (TLC). With TLC she is committed to visiting a senior citizen at least once a week.

She clearly holds dear more than just the valley, but, of its natural glory—and aims to protect it.

“We live in the house that’s up on the hill, so I have a beautiful view,” Fisher said. “We’ve traveled worldwide and never found a place prettier, and that’s the truth.”

She now travels on foot at least a mile a day, if not two (accounting for her walk back), while out cleaning. She used to walk farther each day, but has lessened her trek. When asked about how she got started with this ritual, it turns out she began her daily clean-up efforts while out walking her dog.

“I used to do the walks, and then when I saw all the litter and stuff I decided to pick it up,” she explained. “

She carries two bags—one for garbage and one for recycling.

Susan Fisher

“It is really fun, the number of people that will look at me and say, ‘Are you the lady that walks on the highway?’” she said. “There was a man the other day that said, ‘I hardly recognized you without your vest.’”

Every time cars pass by her while she’s out cleaning, Susan steps to the side of the road for safety and to acknowledge the people passing by. She counts how many people wave and beep at her, and she puts the number on her calendar every day. The most waves she’s counted has been over 500, and usually on her walks it amounts to at least 200.

“I count my waves, and one thing I would like is for somebody to come along and count how many cars pass by so that I can know the percentage,” Fisher shared. “I think it’s 1 of 10 maybe.”

Beyond morning waves, Susan has been very surprised by some of the ways community members have responded.

“Sometimes people will roll down their window and say, ‘Thank you for what you do,’ that type of thing, too,” she said. “There was a lady one time that stopped and said, ‘I just wanted to give you something because I really appreciate what you do.’ She had her hand folded and she handed me what turned out to be money, bills. So I just closed my hand and thought, ‘Well, okay, I’ll look when I get home.’”

“It was $200—two $100 bills. So I gave it to charity,” she added.

of school board meetings. I would encourage the continued use of modalities like the newsletter & social media presence. Personally, I would like to visit classrooms and to attend school events to get a better feel for how the schools work day to day. I am willing to make myself available to respectfully engage with any member of the public or staff on matters that pertain to my work on the school board. I will be open-minded & diligent in learning the role of an effective school board member.

6. In an increasingly digital world, how do you propose integrating technology into the classroom to enhance learning while addressing potential challenges?

Effective use of technology requires several considerations: Infrastructure investment, personnel training, selection of appropriate products & monitoring to ensure furtherance of educational goals & curriculum standards, implementing policies & procedures overseeing use of digital resources. Challenges include ethical use, digital literacy, overcoming the digital divide, monitoring screen time, evaluating the impact of deploying such resources in relationship to student outcomes. I have experience in deploying & maintaining technological resources in the health care setting.

7. What steps will you take to promote equity and inclusivity in the Chelan School District, ensuring all students have equal access to a quality education?

Diversity, Inclusion and Equity should be a foundation for a public school. Schools are a microcosm of the society we live in & should reflect & support the diversity of those in our community. Policies & Procedures that support DIE initiatives, monitor for effectiveness using objective criteria. Support & accommodation of children w/disabilities in curriculum & facility accessibility. Provide for curriculum & resources that reflect diverse perspectives in learning materials.

8. How do you plan to support and retain high-quality teachers and staff within the district?

Chelan is an expensive community to live and work in presenting challenges to recruit & retain teachers & staff. Ensure competitive & adequate compensation that reflects this reality. Support professional development, extend recognition & appreciation, ensure open & transparent communication between school board, administrators, teachers, staff, children & parents. I believe that it is critical to recognize and affirm the professional expertise of our teaching staff by listening & learning from their experiences & responding to their needs.

9. Reflecting on the recent pandemic, what lessons have been learned, and how will you apply them to improve the district’s response to future challenges?

As a health care provider, I understand the challenges of messaging when it comes to an evolving public health crisis. The pandemic’s impact on education required the rapid creation & implementation of alternative teaching models from in-person, hybrid & remote learning. This knowledge gain is useful going forward in case of future events, but also allowed an accelerated integration of technology in education that can be further explored & built upon. Communication, communication and more communication is required to keep everyone informed with timely and accurate information as well as to counteract misinformation. Engage the community resources to help meet student & family needs during a stressful circumstance including but not limited to mental health, access to technology & other resources especially to ensure underserved communities are not left behind.

10. What is your long-term vision for the Chelan School District, and how do you intend to work with other school board members and administration to achieve it?

As a new school board member, I recognize that there will be a learning curve. I hope to communicate with more experienced board members, administrators & teachers to get up to speed & learn the mechanics of how to effectively engage for the benefit of the students & families of LCS.D.

11. School board members often must collaborate with other board members and district staff. How do you plan to foster a spirit of cooperation and teamwork?

Open, respectful and transparent communication is key to working with others to plan and achieve goals. I will do my best to carefully listen, to follow through on any commitments, to base my decisions on evidence and desired outcomes for the success of students. I work best in a culture of cooperation & will do my best to foster that with all the stakeholders as my prime focus & responsibility. I do not play zero-sum games.

12. How will you ensure accountability and transparency in decision-making processes within the school board?

The structure of the school board calls for open meetings & provides for participation by the public to express concerns & views. Ensure that all guidelines & policies are carefully followed to ensure transparency and accountability. Review & update policies so they are relevant & effective. Regular updates & communications via the newsletter, social media, local media and other forms of community engagement and visibility. I also recognize I am accountable to the community & will willingly engage honestly & sincerely, according to ethical guidelines & policies, with other board members, administrators, staff, teachers, students, families & community members.

13. In a few sentences, please summarize why voters should choose you as their representative on the Chelan School District school board.

Education has given me the tools that benefited my life both as a student and as a citizen. I want to pay it forward so the students of today can also benefit from a quality public education to cultivate their dreams and aspirations. Access to a comprehensive, quality public education is the right of every American child and has served our nation for generations.

Listening to diverse voices: Fostering civil discourse

In a world filled with social media echo chambers, it's all too common to become entrenched in our own beliefs, often leading to stark divisions among us. But what if we could pause for a moment and truly strive to comprehend the viewpoints of those who see the world differently?

Terry Ward
From the Publisher

cultures, and life experiences. This diversity is a source of strength, yet it can also be a potential source of division if not thoughtfully navigated. It's crucial to emphasize that understanding doesn't necessarily imply endorsement. It's about acknowledging the legitimacy of differing viewpoints.

In our community and societies worldwide, we represent a tapestry of backgrounds,

When we take the time to genuinely empathize with someone else's perspective, we open the doors to greater compassion and deeper connections. We dismantle the walls that separate us and build bridges toward unity. This is not a call for conformity but rather an earnest plea for unity within our diversity.

Our community thrives when we actively listen to one another, not just for the purpose of counterarguments or debate, but with the sincere intent to grasp and respect the underlying motivations and life experiences that mold the beliefs of our fellow community members. It's through these exchanges of ideas that we can unearth common ground or, at the very least, foster a respectful acknowledgment of the differences that make us unique.

In a world where information flows swiftly and sometimes overwhelmingly, fostering understanding becomes paramount. We find ourselves inundated with diverse perspectives, opinions, and information from various sources. The quest for understanding encourages us to approach this barrage with a discerning and open mind.

In practical terms, understanding someone else's perspective isn't just about hearing words but making a concerted effort to listen and appreciate the context. It involves putting ourselves in their shoes and acknowledging the unique life experiences that have led them to their viewpoint. When we achieve this level of empathy and insight, we're better equipped to engage in constructive and respectful dialogues.

So, let's set aside our differences, even if momentarily, and commit ourselves to genuinely understanding the perspectives of others. Let's celebrate the richness of our diverse community and work together to create a more interconnected, empathetic, and harmonious society. By doing so, we uphold the cherished ideals of unity and understanding, not only within the pages of our newspaper but within our daily lives, forging a path toward a more inclusive and compassionate world.

Chelan celebrates Senior Night, but falls to Bulldogs

Bronze Shoe stays at Cashmere

By MIKE MALTAIS
Ward Media Staff Reporter

CHELAN -- The Battle for the Bronze Shoe, a 70-year rivalry between the Chelan Goats and the Cashmere Bulldogs, was also Senior Night for the host Goats on Oct. 21. The season's undefeated, leaders in the 1A Caribou Trail League, took the shoe home along with a lopsided 58-7 win.

Prior to kickoff, Chelan recognized not only its senior football players and cheer team members but also seniors on the varsity cross country team because the Goats did not host a home cross country race this year.

While the heavily favored Bulldogs had the odds on their side, Chelan made the scoreboard light up first with a 12-yard touchdown midway through the first quarter. The extra point was good, and the Goats led, 7-0, with 6:34 left in the quarter.

Cashmere responded about four minutes later to tie the game 7-7, with 2:46 remaining in the first.

An unusual incident occurred in the quarter when the ball fell off the tee just as Cashmere was attempting a kickoff. A perceptive Goat player picked up the ball and ran it toward the Bulldogs' end zone before a referee whistled a dead ball. The Goats did win possession on Cashmere's 42-yard line where the missed kick occurred.

Following a 7-7 first quarter the Bulldogs launched a combined running and passing drive to extend their lead to 27-7 by halftime. The last half of the game was all Cashmere despite a few hiccups as the Bulldogs closed the third quarter, 51-7. The bulldogs added one more TD in the fourth for the 58-7 final.

Cashmere got a two-point safety in the third quarter when a punt fumble deep in Chelan territory was retrieved by the kicker but then blocked and recovered by the Bulldogs in the Goat's end zone.

Cashmere may have won the shoe, but Chelan won the hearts with a halftime show featuring scores of young ladies called the Mini Goats cheerleaders who performed for the crowd under the mentorship of the Goats varsity cheer squad.

The history of the Bronze Shoe

"The Shoe Trophy" originated at Cashmere High School in 1953 and is awarded annually to the winner of the Cashmere/Chelan regular season football game. The football shoe was Bill Lippincott's college shoe from his running back days at Washington State University.

Lippincott graduated from Okanogan High School prior to playing four years of football and one year of basketball at WSU. He is regarded as one of the best athletes to ever come out of North Central Washington. Lippincott enjoyed a record-setting college career and was drafted by the L.A. Rams. "Coach" Bill instead chose to teach and coach high school athletes after graduation in 1949.

Press Release
Manson Grange

MANSON - On October 6, the Lake Chelan Community Service Council (LCCSC) presented a gift of $2,000 to the Manson Grange's "Capital Improvement Initiative", directed for remodeling of the Grange Hall. Debbie Conwell, speaking for the Capital Improvement Initiative Committee said, "This vision started with a need, a historic commitment to community and an opportunity. The potential for the Manson and Chelan communities to utilize the grange is tremendous."

The LCCSC was organized in the 1960's to provide meals, childcare, transportation, housekeeping, and other services to people in need in our community. The Council was incorporated in 1976, as a community-based public nonprofit with its mission to help other Lake Chelan Valley nonprofit organizations fulfill their missions. Mary Murphy, Secretary of LCCSC stated, "The Lake Chelan Community Services Council members recognize the critical importance of the Manson Grange and its activities to the quality of life in Chelan Valley. The Council wanted to support the goal of renovating the Grange facility for community benefit now and in the future. We were happy to apply part of a grant from the Community Foundation of NCW to help make this donation happen. We hope other folks will also want to be part of this wonderful project."

Over the past couple of years, many dedicated people have taken on leadership roles to grow the Manson Grange and thanks go out to each one. The Rental Committee reorganized and streamlined the process of renting the Grange Hall. A partnership was formed with the Manson Parks and Recreation, bringing Zumba and Line Dancing classes to the Grange. This partnership plans to add additional adult activities to the Grange Hall. A Youth Fairs program began in January 2023 and is open to youth ages 5 to 19.

"The Capital Improvement

Initiative Committee held its first meeting in early 2023. Committee members included Phyllis Coleman, Christine Olsen, Terrie Carleton, Larry Hibbard, and Debbie Conwell. The purpose of the Committee was to develop a plan, with a timeline that would locate funding to renovate the 75-year-old Manson Grange Hall. "We are so excited for the potential use of this building. Our goal is to make the Grange relevant with programs and events for the community and to continue to support the Grange legacy. We are very thankful for the LCCSC support. They have provided the knowledge, experience, and resources to help us take this project to the next level", said Debbie Conwell.

If you would like more information on how you can help, contact info@manson-grange.com.

You can visit the Manson Grange website at www.mansongrange.com or attend the Manson Grange monthly meeting on the fourth Tuesday of each month at 7 p.m. at the Grange Hall.

Speak Up for Grizzly Bears!

Grizzlies roamed Washington's North Cascades for thousands of years, but now none remain. Hunted, trapped, and poisoned, the bears were exterminated. We now have a plan—and a responsibility—to bring them back.

Rural communities have coexisted and thrived alongside grizzly bears. Let's help bring back this iconic native species to the North Cascades.

Grizzly Bears Belong in the North Cascades

Why Grizzly Bears Fit In

Nutrient Distribution

Grizzly bears help cycle nutrients through the ecosystem, enriching soils and vegetation.

Seed Dispersal

Grizzly bears help plants thrive by dispersing seeds through their digestive system.

Enhanced Biodiversity

By extensively digging for roots, insects, and small mammals, grizzlies contribute to ecological processes which support plant and animal life.

Plenty to Eat

The North Cascades is home to 100 of the 124 plant species that grizzlies have been shown to eat.

Anchored by North Cascades National Park shown in dark green, the area of detail represents the Grizzly Bear Recovery Zone and encompasses nearly 10,000 square miles of mostly protected public lands.

Delivery of memorial bricks for hospital patio delayed

By VICKI CARR
Press Release
Guild Y

CHELAN - The second order for laser etched memorial bricks for the outdoor patio at the new Lake Chelan Health Hospital has been delayed. The Bricks R Us company in Miami, Florida recently informed Guild Y that the laser etching equipment is being repaired.

When the order is delivered, the bricks will be checked thoroughly for accuracy by Guild

Y. When the paving bricks can be permanently set into place will depend on the weather.

Guild Y is proud of this very successful fundraiser and the support shown by the Lake Chelan Valley residents and visitors. Guild members regret that memorial brick buyers must wait a little longer to see their memorial bricks in place. We especially appreciate the patience shown by buyers in the 2022 sales campaign.

The Washington Outdoors Report

Outdoors Roundup

By JOHN KRUSE
Special to Ward Media

The modern firearm deer season and waterfowl season opened up the weekend of Oct. 14, and there is other outdoor news to share as well this week.

NORTHEAST WASHINGTON DEER HUNTING RESULTS: Staci Lehman, a spokesperson for the Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife, shared the results from check stations in Eastern Washington during the opening day weekend. In her words, "This weekend, we collected 105 Chronic Wasting Disease (CWD) samples from harvested deer throughout Region 1. For comparison, last year's opening weekend, we collected 95 CWD samples. Districts 1 and 2 (NE Washington) were the slowest and saw fewer samples compared to District 3 (SE Washington) that collected 65 samples.

Overall, we heard from staff and officers that things were pretty slow in northeast Washington. That could be a result of the warm weather, but hard to say for sure. A reminder that WDFW has teamed up with the Washington Chapter of Backcountry Hunters and Anglers to encourage folks to provide samples from their harvested deer or elk. BHA helped to purchase 100 multi-season deer tags. Anyone who has their harvest sampled for CWD will go into a random drawing for the tags for next

COLUMBIA BASIN DUCK HUNTING HARVEST: WDFW has three regulated access areas for waterfowl hunters in the Columbia Basin. A small, limited number of hunters hunt these improved habitat areas in the Desert Wildlife Area on a first come, -first served basis. Hunters are asked to register before they hunt and report their harvest when their hunt is complete.

Hunters did best at the Frenchman's Wasteway Regulated Access Area, where 27 hunters reported shooting 117 ducks (an average of 4.33 birds per hunter). At the Winchester Wasteway Regulated Access Area, 20 hunters harvested 47 birds, averaging 2.35 birds per hunter. Meanwhile, the North Potholes Regulated Access Area continues to suffer from drought conditions. That's why only two hunters went there, though they did get five ducks.

COHO ARE ON THE BITE: The Icicle River near Leavenworth is open for coho salmon. I spoke with Rick Graybill at Hooked on Toys in Wenatchee about the current state of affairs there. Rick says anglers were doing pretty good on the Columbia River prior to the closure on Oct. 15, and while a few fish are now in the Icicle River, Graybill says the first big rain event we get will likely send a flood of fish into this stream for anglers to catch.

As for how to catch them? Rick recommends twitching a jig from where you cast it and twitch it back as you retrieve Guide Marc Bush with a nice Fall Chinook salmon.

COURTESY OF MARC BUSH

it (it's a fun way to trigger a bite). As for colors to use, Rick says, "Every year it's different what they want, but consider getting a jig with a couple of different colors. Consider a bright pink head with a black and orange body or purple and blue, etc. Another option is using a Blue Fox spinner." Rick recommends silver and orange or silver and pink. If you have more questions, contact Rick at the Hooked on Toys Sporting Goods store fishing counter. Meanwhile, down in the Columbia River Gorge, guide Marc Bush reports the numbers of coho salmon in the Dalles and John Day Pools of the Columbia River are unexpectedly down this Fall thus far. Bush says a few salmon are being caught, but the fishing for Fall Chinook is a better bet right now, and he has been catching a fair number of them off the mouth of the Klickitat River. Bush recommends checking the Bonneville Dam fish ladder count, and when the numbers increase for coho, head down to the Gorge. You can fish for them off the mouth of the Klickitat or the Deschutes River. If you would like to book a trip with Marc Bush, contact him through his website at www.twistedwaters-gs.com.

GO ON A HAUNTED HIKE: With Halloween coming up, consider hiking a local trail said to be haunted by ghosts! The trail in question is the Iron Goat Trail, just west of Stevens Pass, that takes you to the old Great Northern rail line and tunnels where the Wellington disaster took place in 1910, causing some 100 souls to perish after an avalanche hit their stranded train.

One website (www.themandagies.com/haunted-places-in-washington-state/) reports, "Some hikers have reported hearing screams in the tunnel, others have spotted apparitions, and stories of hearing out-of-body voices of souls trapped in the tunnel, trying to escape, frequent the area." Even if you don't see ghosts, you'll enjoy the 5.7-mile-long loop trail and interpretive signage along the way.

Radiation treatments for cancer can cause "radiation dermatitis"

Q: I'm starting radiation treatments soon. Is there a way to keep my skin from peeling?

During radiation treatments for cancer, nearly eight out of 10 people will develop some form of skin irritation called "radiation dermatitis." Radiation can cause redness and warmth, much like having a mild rash. Your skin may become more sensitive to touch and feel "tight." This can progress to dryness, itching, and peeling, exposing raw red patches that may ooze clear fluid.

Skin damage from radiation treatments is much more common under your armpits or breasts, and wherever another skin surface comes in contact with the skin being treated.

People who smoke, have diabetes, or who have had a previous surgical procedure in the treated area are more likely to develop radiation dermatitis.

Post-radiation skin irritation tends to peak about a week after treatment. The higher the number of radiation sessions, the greater your risk of skin inflammation. Treating your skin with extra care can reduce your risk of developing radiation dermatitis.

It's essential to avoid rubbing or scratching the area being radiated. Drinking plenty of water and applying moisturizing cream to the area faithfully can also help keep your skin from blistering or peeling.

Washing gently with mild soap and water has been shown to cause less skin reaction than just rinsing with water. Most radiation treatment patients are advised to use a "mild, non-alkaline soap, preferably unscented."

Very little guidance exists on which soaps are best to use when undergoing radiation. There's no clear evidence that any specific soap is superior. Mild soaps like Dove®, Ivory®, or Neutrogena® are considered safe, while highly scented soaps such as Coast® and Irish Spring® should be avoided.

You can safely wear underarm deodorant or anti-perspirant during treatment unless your skin develops a cut, scratch, or blister.

Applying a moisturizer helps protect radiated skin from dryness, irritation, and skin breakdown. To minimize the potential of changing how your skin will absorb radiation, always wait until AFTER your radiation sessions before applying creams or lotions.

Your skin consists of layers of flat cells that form a flexible, self-renewing barrier, protecting you from exposure to infection and toxins. Although your skin cells start out nice and plump, they gradually dry out as they get closer to the surface, creating water-resistant thin, overlapping layers. As the top layer of flattened skin cells rubs or flakes off, it is replaced by the cells underneath.

Ceramide molecules support the barrier function of healthy skin. A lower ceramide level is found in dry, damaged skin than in healthy skin. Applying ceramide-rich creams can help heal skin damage. Lotions and creams containing these vitally important compounds can restore skin integrity faster than creams containing only traditional moisturizing agents.

CeraVe® Moisturizing Cream contains 3 essential ceramides. When I compared CeraVe® to my previous favorite skin moisturizer, Arbdoun's Abundantly Herbal Calendula Cream, CeraVe® delivered. My skin absorbed CeraVe® quickly with no greasy residue and my skin felt smoother for hours longer than other creams.

Calendula is a natural source of soothing relief from skin irritation. Arbdoun's Abundantly Herbal Calendula Cream® contains olive oil, calendula, and lavender and works well to protect your skin from radiation damage. Unlike CeraVe®, Arbdoun's takes time to become completely absorbed. I make sure to let it soak into my skin for at least 5 minutes before putting on clothes to avoid having fabric touch it.

Recently, turmeric cream with sandalwood oil (Vicco) was shown to help prevent radiation dermatitis when compared to Johnson & Johnson's baby oil. Turmeric has anti-inflammatory properties, and Vicco has been a popular acne remedy in India for over 40 years. If sandalwood's fragrance bothers you, try turmeric without sandalwood oil (Vicco WSO) instead.

Here Are 5 Tips to Help Protect Your Skin During Radiation Treatment:

1. Don't rub or scratch the treated area.

Itching causes the urge to scratch, even when you sleep. Keeping your fingernails short and wearing cotton gloves or socks over your hands at night helps protect your skin.

2. Avoid hot water and strong soaps.

Use lukewarm water and mild soaps when washing or bathing.

3. Be gentle.

Avoid harsh bathing scrubbing tools like exfoliating clothes, rough washcloths, or loofahs.

4. Stay hydrated.

Irritated skin loses water more quickly, making it feel dry and itchy. Drinking plenty of water helps keep your skin well-hydrated.

5. Apply a soothing cream.

If your doctor approves, a moisturizing cream with ceramide (CeraVe®, Curel®) or an anti-inflammatory agent like calendula or turmeric can reduce your chances of developing radiation dermatitis.
