Manson Parks & Recreation to transform Leffler Field

Leffler Field is nearly five acres of undeveloped land and within walking distance to downtown Manson.

Receives $574,550 grant

By KATIE LINDERT STAFF WRITER

MANSON - After initial complications to the purchase of Leffler Field, the Manson Parks and Recreation Department came out triumphant in partnership with the Manson School District to retain the land for public usage. Without this timely procurement of the field, which has served as community space for over two decades, the land would house commercial buildings. The field is nearly five acres, undeveloped, and walking distance from downtown Manson, a rare set of qualities for land in the area.

The Manson Parks and Recreation Department was recently awarded a conditional $574,550 grant by the Washington Wildlife and Recreation Program toward the intended purchase of Leffler Field, enabling them to eventually become sole owners of the land. This is a huge triumph, as many grant opportunities that would facilitate continued development are only available to the department if they are sole owners of the field.

Before being granted these funds, however, the Manson Parks and Recreation Department needs to be able to ensure the clarity of the soil to allow for a clean and safe play area for children and families. A $200,000 planning grant from the Department of Ecology will allow for indepth soil testing and strategic soil remediation toward this goal.

Development plans for Leffler Field remain tentative, though some suggested projects include the development of walking trails, a covered amphitheater space (an effort that would directly support the Manson School District music program as a potential performance space), a natural play area, generous parking area with bus turnarounds, and bathrooms that would be accessible year-round.

Lake Chelan Mirror welcomes new reporter

CHELAN - Katie Lindert was born and raised in the Chelan Valley, graduating in 2005 from Chelan High School. Born to creatives, and daughter of Manson-born Charles Lindert—orchardist, luthier, and designer of Lindert Guitars—her interest in the arts was fostered in a household that honored creative exploration and expression.

The story of L. Frank Baum would inspire Katie at an early age to pursue a myriad of creative occupations, Baum's career as varied as traveling theater company member, playwright, short story writer, newspaper reporter, editor and columnist, magazine founder and editor, and eventually author of Mother Goose in Prose and The Wonderful Wizard of O.Z. (what remains Katie's favorite story). As a child, she enjoyed many artistic pursuits, writing short stories and poems, drawing, painting, singing, and acting in plays. Upon becoming a student at Portland State University, her passion for storytelling would lead her to the university's theatre hall, and into the seats of professional writing workshops. Pursuing training in stage acting and writing allowed her a new license to experience and depict universal joys and tragedies—it was through

The significance of a strong STEM education cannot be understated. In Washington state, STEM jobs are in high demand and offer better-paying opportunities. The concentration of STEM jobs in the state is among the highest in the nation, with the number of opportunities rapidly increasing. By 2030, more than 70% of these well-paying jobs will require post-secondary education, including 2- or 4-year degrees or certificates, with 68% requiring STEM credentials or STEM literacy.

CHELAN COUNTY PUBLIC WORKS - ROAD CONSTRUCTION/MAINTENANCE

Submitted by Jill FitzSimons, Chelan County PIO

Week of August 7

Bridge Inspections: The week of Aug. 7, a consultant will be completing routine bridge inspections on a variety of Chelan County bridges. The work requires one-lane, flagger-controlled traffic on the bridges while the crew works. Motorists should plan for minor traffic delays, or to avoid the bridges while crews are working. The following bridges are scheduled for inspection:

August 9: Chiwawa River Bridge, over the Chiwawa River on Chiwawa Loop Road at milepost 3.8 to 4.0. Work will be in the morning and afternoon.

August 10: Ardenvoir Bridge. over the Entiat River on Mad River Road at milepost 0 to 0.1. Work will be in the morning.

August 10: Peshastin Bridge, over the Wenatchee River on Main Street near its intersection with U.S. Highway 2. Work will be in 1 to 5 p.m.

August 11: Stone Hill Bridge on Colockum Road at milepost 17.6 to 17.7. Work will be in the morning. Work will not require traffic control; however, motorists should watch for workers near the road.

Goodwin Road/Sunset Road Improvement Project: The consultant continues to work on sidewalk and driveways this week. Plan to see flaggers continue to direct traffic in the project area during working hours. More information about the project is on the project's webpage.

Maintenance plans may change with weather conditions or equipment difficulties. Visit the Public Works website, where the weekly road maintenance information is regularly updated.

District 1 (Wenatchee)

The crew will be doing shoulder work and ditching in the Stemilt area. Plan for one-lane, flagger-controlled traffic if you come upon a crew working. District 4 (Entiat)

The crew will be brushing

under bridges and doing some roadside shoulder work in the Ardenvoir area.

District 5 (Chelan)

Crews will be skip patching alleys in Manson and on Roses Avenue. Skip patching requires one-lane, flagger-controlled traffic while the crew works. The crew also will be filling shoulder washes in the Manson area and in the Boyd Road area. And the crew will be ditching in the Manson area (one-lane, flagger-controlled traffic) as well as brooming roads that were skip patched.

Skip patching is similar to chip sealing, but the road crew is putting oil and rock down on a much smaller area. Skip patching is done on roads that are not scheduled for preservation next season.

THE WASHINGTON OUTDOORS REPORT

Reintroducing Chinook Salmon above Grand Coulee Dam

By John Kruse

Chinook salmon have not been swimming in the waters of the Upper Columbia River above Grand Coulee Dam since it was built in 1941 but several Native American tribes in our region are working on bringing them back.

I recently had a chance to chat with Conor Giorgi, the Anadromous Program Manager at Spokane Tribal Fisheries, about this subject. I asked Conor why no fish ladder was installed at Grand Coulee Dam so the salmon could get past the dam like others on the Columbia River.

Giorgi said a fish ladder was planned for the dam but as the dam grew bigger and taller, the construction of a fish ladder became unfeasible. There were efforts made after the dam was constructed to trap Chinook salmon at Rock Island Dam near Wenatchee and transport the fish above Grand Coulee Dam but the efforts to sustain the Chinook salmon in Lake Roosevelt and further north into Canada failed within a few vears of the dam being built.

Grand Coulee Dam is not the only dam without a fish ladder. The next dam downstream, Chief Joseph Dam, which was built in 1950, also lacks a fish ladder and all migratory salmon passage has been blocked upstream of this dam near Bridgeport to the headwaters of the river in British Columbia.

Asked about the possibility of installing fish ladders at these two dams now, Giorgi said they would be unlikely to work because the fish would simply have to expend too much energy attempting to make it past these dams. Instead, they are trapping salmon and hauling them above Grand Coulee Dam. However, they are not necessarily releasing them right above the dam.

Giorgi points out Lake Roosevelt is 150 miles long and the Spokane Tribe, in partnership with the Confederated Tribes of the Colville Reservation and the Coeur d'Alene Tribe to release the trapped salmon in multiple locations in the Upper Columbia and tributaries above the dam, to include the Spokane River watershed.

Giorgi went on to explain the Upper Columbia tribes are taking the lead on this project because, "They have connections with the salmon that go back millennia. The (Chinook) are not just a food source, they are a staple of their cultural and spiritual well-being."

Efforts to reintroduce salmon into river drainages above Grand Coulee Dam have been ongoing since 2015. The first into this area in 2019 and the first juvenile Chinook were released into a creek on the Spokane Tribal Reservation in 2017. In 2022, 146 adult Chinook were released into the Spokane River. and some of these fish were released into a part of the river that had not seen the presence of these fish since 1911 when Little Falls Dam was built. The specific stock of fish being used are summer Chinook salmon because of their abundance in the Upper Columbia. Biologists tagged 752 yearling salmon in 2017 that were released to migrate downstream. Of these fish, only 234 were detected passing over Bonneville Dam and only 75 were detected in the Columbia River estuary near Astoria. However, one of these fish made it back as a spawning adult in the summer of 2019. The salmon made it back to the Chief Joseph Hatchery fish ladder and the remains of the fish were transferred to Tshimakain Creek where it was released as a juvenile fish two years earlier.

This second phase of salmon reintroduction above Grand Coulee Dam is expected to go on for some 20 years and with any luck, we'll be seeing healthy populations of these iconic salmon swimming in the waters and tributaries of the Columbia River in harvestable numbers above the dam by that time or sooner. To find out more about this project go to www. ucut.org.

Teach kids kindness and gratitude with thank you notes

STATEPOINT - Nearly 60% of Americans say they send thank you notes at least occasionally to show their appreciation for a gift or favor, according to a recent poll from AmericanGreetings.com. While writing thank you's might seem time consuming, it's actually a wonderful opportunity to teach children important life lessons such as kindness, gratitude and empathy.

Whether they are thanking their new teacher, their favorite fall sports coach, or a friend or family member, here are a few tips and tricks for creating meaningful, yet simple, thank you notes with kids this backto-school season and beyond.

Focus on the positive

It's important to give children a "why." Parents should explain that when people receive a thank you note, it not only makes them feel good, but it lets them know that the gift arrived safely and was appreciated. By placing the emphasis on the person who gave them the gift, rather than on themselves, it changes thank you notes from a painpoint to a positive.

Kids love devices, so put their screen time to good use with apps like American Greetings Creatacard for iPad.

Make it a fun with devices

Kids love devices, so put their screen time to good use with apps like American Greetings Creatacard for iPad. The app offers a fun, easy and engaging tool to make and send greeting cards. Plus, receiving them will be just as exciting, as homemade cards from kids are enjoyed by 93% of Americans.

Whether making a card from scratch, coloring a card or customizing a pre-made design, the Creatacard app allows kids to explore their imaginations. Simply choose from a variety of virtual (and mess-free) tools, such as pencils, paint, markers, photo frames, stamps and stickers to add designs, images and personalized messages. Best of all, the app is free to download, and cards can be sent instantly via email, text, messaging apps or shared on social media.

Power of personalization

According to the American Greetings poll, personalized messages are the most important and enjoyed part of thank you notes. Parents should encourage kids to think about what made the gift so special and be sure to communicate that message. Was it something they really needed or wanted? Will they use the check or money for a specific purpose? Spending a few extra minutes personalizing each note will go a long way to show their sincere appreciation.

Timing is Everything -The Sooner the Better

It's proper etiquette to be timely in sending thank you notes. In fact, 54% of Americans say they should be sent within one week of receiving a gift. Build good habits with kids by sending thank you notes as soon as possible. It may be helpful to plan ahead and establish a set time within a week of the celebration for children to create and send their cards. And luckily, if you're sending digital greetings, they'll arrive instantly, save money on postage, and save time by eliminating the need to find current street addresses.

Teachingkidstheimportance of properly showing gratitude is a life skill they can take with them as they grow older. Starting small with thank you notes can be an invaluable step to becoming a kinder and more gracious person.

Written information is considered one of the most reliable ways to give you essential information about your medicines. Instead of only hearing it once from your doctor or pharmacist, which you may forget by the time you arrive home, with printed information, you can read it at your own pace. Written communication can also be stored where you take your medicines in case you have a future question about one of your medicines.

There are 3 types of printed consumer information given out with prescription medicines: consumer medication information sheets (CMIs). Medication Guides (MedGuides), and Patient Package Inserts (PPIs). Every time you get a new or refilled medicine, you are supposed to receive a consumer medication information sheet or CMI. Each CMI is computergenerated and designed to travel home with you, either stapled to or placed inside the bag holding your prescription. Although the FDA has published guidelines about what types of information they feel should be included in a CMI, they don't directly regulate or control what form a CMI takes.

The FDA recommends specific elements that they prefer pharmacies to use in their CMI handouts. However, each pharmacy retains the choice of which of those elements they will use. For example, the CMI you receive for your blood pressure medicine at one pharmacy may look different from the CMI for the same drug from another drugstore. Some leaflets give only a few sentences of information, while others covering the same medicine can go on for several pages. One reason for this variation is how the printers used by each pharmacy limit the length and format of their CMI printouts. Whichever form they take, what most people consistently notice about their CMI is how small the print seems.

In a study published in 2010 by the University of Florida College of Pharmacy, professional shoppers filled prescriptions for two common medications in a sampling of 365 pharmacies nationwide. 94% of the pharmacies in the study dispensed a CMI with each drug. However, fewer than 50% of the CMIs provided were considered easy to read including the FDA and other stakeholders, has developing and promoting an easier-to-read format for medication information called a Patient Medication Information sheet (PMI). PMIs use bold print, bigger fonts, and much more white space.

Here are the 4 types of written information for consumers about medications:

1. Consumer Medication Information sheets (CMIs)

CMIs are required by the FDA to be given out with every new prescription and refill. According to FDA guidelines, a CMI should include 8 criteria: the drug name and what it's used for; any contraindications and what to do about them; specific directions about how to use it, how to monitor your progress and get the most benefit; any special precautions and how to avoid harm while using it; symptoms of severe or frequent side effects and what to do if they happen; and encouragement to ask questions. The information must be up to date and scientifically accurate, easily understandable and legible, and have print large enough to read easily by most people.

2. Patient Medication Information sheets (PMIs)

PMIs are CMIs that are easier to read. They have larger fonts and more white space. PMIs usually include separate boxes or bubbles for crucial topics such as "Uses," "Important Safety Information," "How to Take," "Get emergency help if you have," and "Possible side effects."

3. Medication Guides (MedGuides)

MedGuides are specialized information sheets describing how to reduce the risk of taking certain medicines known to have serious adverse reactions. MedGuides explain what side effects to watch out for. Nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory drugs, blood thinners, and antidepressants are examples of drugs with MedGuides.

4. Patient Package Inserts (PPIs)

PPIs are similar MedGuides but from the manufacturer. PPIs are required for products containing estrogens, like birth control pills, patches, and vaginal creams.

Dolly Parton to visit Washington for statewide celebration of Dolly Parton's Imagination Library

Submitted by Imagination Library of WA

OLYMPIA – On Tuesday, August 15, legendary icon, musician, and philanthropist Dolly Parton will visit Washington State to celebrate achieving statewide coverage of the Imagination Library. All Washington children from birth to age five can now register to receive one book every month, for free, from Dolly Parton's Imagination Library.

August 15 will also be signified by a proclamation from Governor Jay Inslee and Lieutenant Governor Denny Heck as "Imagination Library of Washington Day".

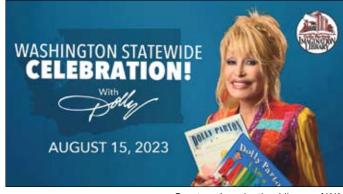

Governor Inslee expressed, "We welcome the great Dolly Parton to celebrate our statewide program and promote registration for our youngest learners into the Imagination Library. It is important to get high quality books to children from a young age and ensure that their families, and their unique races, ethnicities and identities are well-represented among the selection of books.

Hosted by the Imagination Library of Washington, the celebratory event will feature a fireside chat with Dolly Parton, a small performance, and recognition of champions from across the state who are making Dolly's dream possible for Washington's earliest learners.

This invite-only event will be broadcasted and streamed live on TVW and available to view on both Imagination Library of Washington and TVW social media channels beginning at 2:30 p.m. on Tuesday, August 15, and all are invited to tune in.

"We did it, Washington. This is such a magnificent moment and achievement. Our team, program affiliates, state leaders, and partners have been on a quest to make this happen for the children of Washington, ensuring that all early learners have equitable access to this magical, connective, world-class literacy opportunity. What a positive, collaborative adventure this has been, and now we take a moment to celebrate and continue igniting support and enthusiasm around this for our future generations." stated Executive Director of Imagination Library of Washington, Brooke Fisher-Clark.

Dolly Parton's Imagination Library of Washington was established in June 2022 by legislative direction, sponsored through a partnership with the Office of Superintendent of Public Instruction (OSPI) and the Department of Children, Youth, & Families

(DCYF), and administered by United Ways of the Pacific Northwest. The program provides a high quality, age-appropriate book each month in the mail to enrolled children from birth to age five – at no cost to families in all 39 Washington counties. Currently, more than 65,000 children in Washington are enrolled in Dolly Parton's Imagination Library and in total, more than 1.6 million books have been gifted to children across the state. Prior to state commitment, Dolly Parton's Imagination Library was only available in a handful of Washington regions.

"It's been an honor to support the expansion of early literacy across Washington," said State Superintendent Chris Reykdal. "By providing free books to our youngest learners, the Imagination Library is breaking down barriers to skills that will support Washington children for a lifetime. OSPI is grateful to our partners for supporting this work."

United Ways of the Pacific Northwest

"Books develop literacy habits, strengthen ties between adults and children, and help children overcome intergenerational poverty," said DCYF Secretary, Ross Hunter.

Inspired by her father's inability to read and write, Dolly started Dolly Parton's Imagination Library in 1995 for the children within her home county of Sevier County, Tennessee. Today, her program spans five countries and gifts more than 2.4 million free books each month to children around the world. In March of 2023, Dolly Parton's Imagination Library reached a monumental global milestone: gifting more than 200 million books to children worldwide.

Dolly Parton's Imagination Library is backed by decades of research showing that having access to books in the home inspires a love of reading and promotes changes in home literacy environments, while building important foundational skills for entering kindergarten ready to succeed. Families with children under five can sign up for the Imagination Library by visiting www.imagination-librarywashington.org.

Wild give back to Wenatchee Valley during 2022-23 season

Final totals put Wild contributions at more than $200,000 over past year

SUBMITTED BY WENATCHEE WILD

WENATCHEE – As their first season in the Western Hockey League (WHL) approaches, the Wenatchee Wild are excited to announce contributions of $215,697, plus 110 hours of service from each player, to various causes and events in the Wenatchee Valley during and immediately after the 2022-23 season.

The organization commits each year to giving back to Wenatchee and surrounding communities, and has been successful in that pursuit over its 15 years on the ice. Some of those opportunities to give back are undertaken in-house on game nights, through the team's 50/50 raffle and Chuck-a-Puck promotion. Last season's 50/50 drawings and Chuck-a-Puck promotions raised $58,651 for participating groups, ranging from the Chelan County Regional Jail K9 Unit and the Wenatchee Wild Hockey Booster Club, to the Kenroy Elementary School Parent-Teacher Organization and the NCW Sun Devils fastpitch softball club.

Each season, the Wild also celebrate jersey auction nights, wearing special uniforms that are auctioned off during and after the game with proceeds donated to local causes - the team's 2022-23 jersey auctions to benefit the Guns & Hoses Foundation, the EASE Cancer Foundation in Cashmere and the Wenatchee Amateur Hockey Association raised a total of $65,465. Ticket donations from the past season totaled $78,000 - other contributions from fundraising tickets sold by area groups and tickets distributed to the team's Wild About Learning partner schools also added to the total, pushing the Wild well past the $200,000 mark for

Key promotional dates, including jersey auction nights, have been set for the upcoming season as well – Guns & Hoses Night returns on Saturday, January 20, while Hockey Fights Cancer is back on the schedule for February 16. Fans can also add their contributions during the annual Teddy Bear Toss game on December 1, and in the team's annual Diaper Toss on Wenatchee Wild players also took their time and talents into the community with regular stops at the team's Wild About Learning partner schools and the Wenatchee Valley Senior Activity Center, and an appearance at the Fred Meyer store in East Wenatchee to collect toys for the Les Schwab Community Toy Drive. Players also offered their time and talents on the ice, assisting with the Wenatchee Amateur Hockey Association's Learn to Play, Power Skate and American Development Model programs. All told, each Wild player on the roster for the full season contributed 110 hours of service to the Wenatchee Valley community.

The Wild set out to "Restore The Roar" at Town Toyota Center during their 15th Anniversary season in 2022-23, their final season as members of the British Columbia

Hockey League (BCHL), and fans in the Wenatchee Valley responded to the call, giving the team its highest per-game attendance in five years. Nearly 70,000 fans took in Wenatchee hockey games in the "Wolves' Den" during the regular season, with playoff home games pushing the total attendance for the year to nearly 79,000 visitors. Included in that total was a sellout of 4,260 fans on Guns & Hoses Night, the team's first capacity crowd in five years and largest regular-season crowd since 2011.

Wenatchee's first WHL campaign begins with a home preseason game September 9 against the Tri-City Americans, and the team's home opener September 22 against the Portland Winterhawks. 2023-24 season tickets are still on sale, to purchase season tickets, call 509-888-7825 or stop into the team office at Town Toyota Center. Updated news and information on Wild hockey are available through the team's website and on the team's social media platforms on Facebook, Twitter, Instagram and YouTube.

WA State Patrol announces new Hit-and-Run Alert

SUBMITTED BY CHRIS LOFTIS, WASHINGTON STATE PATROL

Olympia - The Washington State Patrol (WSP) announced that the state's new Hit-and-Run Alert system began operations Aug. 1. Authorized by the state Legislature earlier this year, the Hit-and-Run Alert system is a program of cooperation among state, local, and tribal law enforcement agencies, along with the Washington State Department of Transportation (WS-DOT) to enhance the ability to identify and recover a fleeing vehicle involved in a serious injury or fatality hit-and-run collision.

"Last year, our state saw over 300 hit-and-run collisions resulting in serious injury or death. In many of those situations, information about the fleeing vehicle was available that, if widely disseminated, might have helped us find a dangerous driver." said WSP Chief John R. Batiste. We are working with our partners in law enforcement across the state and in highway safety at WSDOT to get the word out about these often devastating crimes.

For a Hit-and-Run Alert to be activated, the following criterion would need to be met:

- A hit-and-run collision resulting in serious injury or death.
- Enough descriptive information is available to assist in locating the suspect vehicle (i.e. a full or partial license plate, a description of the vehicle and any possible damage, location and direction of travel, etc.)

• The incident has been reported and is being investigated by a law enforcement

Alerts will be sent out to the media as well as to those who sign up to receive them electronically. Local law enforcement public information officers will also post them on social media. If there is enough identifying information regarding the fleeing vehicle to be helpful for the traveling public, WSDOT will use their electronic highway Variable Message Signs and Highway Advisory

Radio systems in specific locales to aid in identifying a dangerous vehicle.

"If you see or hear the alert and then see what you think might be the suspect vehicle, call 911 and report your location," said Chief Batiste. "DO NOT ENGAGE with the vehicle or driver under any circumstances. Let our troopers and our fine local law enforcement officers do their jobs in safely and professionally contacting suspect vehicles," the Chief emphasized. "Let's all do our part to keep the roadways and one another safer."
