

Chelan School District seeks input on facilities improvements

SUBMITTED BY BRAD WILSON,
LAKE CHELAN SCHOOL DISTRICT
SUPERINTENDENT

CHELALN - The Lake Chelan School District is currently working diligently to gather input regarding our facilities needs as part of an in depth planning process that includes a study and survey of all our school facilities by ALSC Architects of Spokane and numerous other strategies. Most importantly, we want to hear from our students, staff, families, and community members that fund our schools via tax dollars about what they see as priorities. An exciting new tool we have to do this with is a Thought Exchange. By taking part in this thought exchange, you will be able to not only share your thoughts in an open ended format but will also be able to see and rate the thoughts of others. All of this is done in an anonymous fashion using the Thought Exchange tool.

I urge you to use the QR code or to go: <https://tejoin.com/scroll/527282980>, to take part in our exchange between now and May 11. There is also a link available on our website at www.chelanschools.org. Feel free to come back multiple times to see what your fellow stakeholders are saying and share additional input by rating their thoughts. We appreciate your voice in our process. As always, please do not hesitate to reach out to myself or our central office should you have any questions.

Established in 1892, Lake Chelan School District serves nearly 1,275 students with 97 percent of its students graduating in 4 years, according to data provided by OSP. The district's headquarters is located at 309 E Johnson Ave, Chelan, WA 98816. Telephone: 509-682-3515, please follow on Facebook, Instagram, or view the LCSd website at: www.chelanschools.org

SEVEN ACRES FOUNDATION

CHELAN - Brooke Isaak, Board vice- president of Seven Acres Foundation – the non-profit organization responsible for the development of The Community Center at Lake Chelan – was first to welcome the group of “very important patrons” attending a private hard hat tour of the new 46,000 square foot facility on Saturday. Isaak said, “I like the definition of patron... people who give financial support to others, organizations, a cause, or an activity. And, of course, to a brand-new community center. So yes, you are all patrons that are very important to our mission, our vision, and our success.”

Seven Acres board members gave guests attending the event private facility tours. They received a first-hand look at what will ultimately house a 10,000 sq. ft. multipurpose auditorium that will enable a variety of court configurations, including a full-size basketball court, two practice courts or three volleyball courts, four indoor pickleball courts, and a community meeting space. The center will also include an indoor children's play area, affordable office space, workstations, a swimming pool, outdoor pickleball, sand volleyball, and more. Board President Ben Williams described the project as more than a dream. He said, “it is vision, imagination, intention, and persistence held together with immense community love and support.”

Williams shared critical milestones in the development process beginning with the August 2020 purchase of a property between Chelan and Manson just off State Route 150, at 103 Big Horn Way. Since that time, Williams explained, “the project has been impacted by the pandemic, economic inflation, supply chain delays, and a noticeable increase in the community's need for the very type of center we were building. We've weathered each storm and anticipate opening this fall.”

As of this month, phase one of the development is fully funded at just over $18 million. This phase includes purchasing the property, design and engineering, site leveling, utility infrastructure, foundations, construction of the main facility, swimming pool, and framework for the gym. At the

Spring has sprung – its time to plant a Pollinator Garden says Lake Chelan Rotary

SUBMITTED BY CONCIE LUNA,
LAKE CHELAN ROTARY

CHELAN - Lake Chelan Rotary Club has an invitation for folks anxious to celebrate Spring and get outside to dig in the dirt. Plant a Pollinator Garden.

Karl Ruether, the current District Governor of Rotary International District 5060 envisioned a Pollinator Highway from Clearwater, B.C. down to Prosser, Washington. That's the length of the District. That highway would consist of non-connecting patches of ground filled with plants appealing to native pollinators.

Those pollinators: bees, butterflies, moths, wasps, birds, are declining in numbers due partly to a loss of habitat. They are needed for the plants that feed and sustain us all. Landowners can help by planting any size area with a diversity of plants flowering in waves from Spring to Fall.

Three different plants blooming each season will make a good basic attraction for these helpful winged workers. Nothing exotic. Native plants are best for attracting native pollinators.

The Chelan Public Library is a great resource on what to plant with a book Attracting Native Pollinators, yellow tip sheets, on-line access, and other advice materials.

To make the planting even more fun, Lake Chelan Rotary will award an official pollinator garden small metal sign for you to identify your efforts. Just take a picture of your garden and identify your nine plant diversity. Send your photo to cluna283@gmail.com. Only 25 signs available, so let's get planning and planting.

And, no, we don’t mean countryside. Not only did your 5-Star, Superior-rated Wheatland Bank say a polite “no thank you” to bail-out funds in 2008, we were the only bank in the state to keep all five of those stars throughout the Great Recession and ever since. It’s a reflection of the quality of our customers, the communities we serve and our risk management practices. Visit a 5-Star Wheatland Bank branch near you. We’ll keep your money safe. # Josslyn Simmons, at 5'3", has always played bigger than her frame

By MATTHEW OCKINGA, CORRESPONDENT

CHELAN— In 1975, Steven Spielberg scared the daylights out of beach bums and couch potatoes alike with his epic film which chronicled a great white shark that terrorized the citizens of the fictional Amity Island. Its special effects, iconic poster and John Williams soundtrack made millions of moviegoers remember the fierce antagonist which shared the picture's title, Jaws. From 2019-2023, the Chelan High School girls' basketball and soccer squads has featured a small but mighty player with a spirited style and homophone nickname of the Spielberg's shark. Josslyn Simmons, who stands at all of 5'3", has always played bigger than her frame.

"She goes by Jos because she's a pretty aggressive player," said Goats head basketball coach Nick Longmire. "If she feels like a player, she's defending has got too many shots off of her, she takes it up a level. Her intention is to stop the player she is guarding, but when it's kind of left unharnessed, it can get her into foul trouble and can get her on the bench."

Simmons started dribbling the ball around age five. Her father Wade coached her at home through early frustrations. As the young girl honed her budding skills, one essential aspect of the game eluded her.

"I hated shooting the ball," Simmons recalled. "I finally shot the ball, and I made it and then I think I shot the ball ever since and that's where I developed the love for the game."

One skill that Simmons didn't have to learn was aggression. In fact, controlling her intensity has proved a lifelong endeavor. Longmire and his wife Amaris, who heads Chelan's girls' soccer team, moved to the area five years ago. He became an assistant with the girls' basketball program when Simmons was an eighth grader. The two crossed paths in camps and at middle school games.

When the Longmires became Simmons' coaches in her sophomore year, they quickly realized she possessed an overlapping strength and weakness: her passion. Often, Simmons' temper betrayed her. In soccer that spelled yellow and red cards, in basketball, foul trouble. But the coaching couple saw something in the spirited sophomore. They looked at her characteristics and helped her to harvest the best and leave the rest.

"They have always been there for me, from a freshman to a senior," Simmons said. They are very proud of me, no matter what I do, even if I'm a little too aggressive sometimes. They love me to death, and I love them to death."

Matthew Ockinga/LCM

After she hurdled her sophomore season and became a junior, Simmons didn't lose her feistiness, but began owning it, rather than it owning her. If she flirted with fouls, Longmire would point to his head, silently signaling her to play smartly and manage her emotions. Longmire said these feelings, if left untamed, can appear as hotheadedness, and described Simmons' transformation as a journey.

"She's realized over the past year or two, 'Hey, if I'm out there playing with this reckless abandon and not controlling my body, I'm going to find myself not on the field or not on the court because I'm in foul trouble or I'm going to get hurt,'" Longmire said. "She's done a lot better job as a leader knowing when she has to turn it up under control verses that reckless abandonment where she's out of control."

At the North Central Washington Basketball Showcase held January 9 at Town Toyota Center in Wenatchee, Simmons' fire blazed fully during less-than-ideal circumstances. The Bulldogs dominated the Goats early on. By halftime, Cashmere had more than tripled Chelan's points with a 34-11 lead. Yet Simmons' defense and attitude mirrored that of a State championship overtime period. Regardless of the scoreboard, she scrabbled for loose balls. She leapt for potential rebounds. She fiercely guarded her opponent. In all, her effort inversely reflected the 56-18 final score.

"I work my tail off even if I'm sick or if I'm hurt. I do not like it when people slack off or mess around," she said. "I'm more of the intense practice type, so I want to push myself to get better for my team to get better obviously."

The underlying burden of all prep players is the inevitable time limit. No one plays in high school forever. With her graduation approaching, Simmons has invited introspection and reflection. Hesitant to lead as a freshman, she struggled with her temper and lost her zeal for the game. Tempted to walk away, she refused to stop and persevered. She can now play calmly while remaining intense. Though her Goats career has faded to black, Simmons soccer journey will continue at Pasco's Columbia Basin Community College next fall.

"I was a little emotional my senior night and I miss high school soccer, but I know that I'm going to continue playing," she said. "I'm going to miss having this team and the environment and being at Chelan High School but knowing that I'll still be able to play the game which most people don't normally get to do, so I try to think of the positive."

Having witnessed Simmons' development from brash underclassmen to confident leader, Longmire knows that his player's passion comes a "give me the ball" mentality that will help her both in sport and in life. "At the end of the game, we're going to put her at the free-throw line if it comes down to a game winning free-throw shot or if it's the final PK, we have her in line to take that shot because she's a clutch performer," Longmire said. "That attitude and that persona which she takes on are contagious with the rest of the group and puts us in the position that everyone's on the same page to want to go out and finish strong and put ourselves in a position to win the game."

Recap: The Manson girls stay undefeated in the Central Washington B league (6-0) and improve to 7-2 overall on the season. The young team went out and won 3 of the five matches. The #1 Doubles team of Stella Petersen and Kayden Koth played amazing and didn't let the wind phase them. They dominated points at the net and made Tonasket hit difficult shots all day. The match was tied 2-2, and after a short rain delay it came down to the #1 singles match between Olivia Smith and Jazmine Salazar which was entering the 3rd set. Olivia played every point like it was match point and ended up winning the 3rd set 6-3. Olivia has played some tough matches all year as the #1 singles player and this time she dug down deep to find the way to win. The coaches are very proud of Olivia's effort today.

Boys: Manson defeats Tonasket 5-0

#1 Singles: Ben Cullison (MAN) d. Alatorre 6-1, 6-1

Recap: The boys continued their great play and remain undefeated on the year. They improved to 9-0 on the season and 6-0 in the Central Washington B league. #1 singles Ben Cullison continues to dominate, and made quick work at #1 singles 6-1, 6-1. Ben Rasmusson made his singles debut at #2 singles and defeated his opponent 6-3, 6-4. Ben Rasmusson will continue to improve and should be fun to watch down the stretch. When his first serve is on, it's very difficult for any opponent to return. Another exciting part of the day was to watch Lukas Torgesen make his varsity debut at #2 doubles alongside Senior Nate Katzer. They played efficiently and won 6-0, 6-0. Lukas is another young player that will be fun to watch in the future. The #1 doubles team of Cavan Willard and Sam Richmond played some of the best tennis they have played all year. They worked on reducing errors and capitalized on shots they could place. Eli Willard continued his excellent play at #3 singles and he remains undefeated on the year as well (9-0).

The Trojans traveled to Okanogan on Saturday, April 22. This week they will have one match home against Liberty Bell.

Moses Lake @ Chelan, non-league

What a great day of tennis! The match was in Chelan, which would usually dictate a 1A varsity format of 7 players (3 singles and 2 doubles), but we attempted to "play up" to the 10 player 4A format of 4 singles and 3 doubles, and it turned out very very well! Our depth of ladder was a visible strength today.

Girls: Chelan 7, Moses Lake 0
#1 Singles: Arden Paglia def Claire Thomas 6-0, 6-2
#2 Singles: Oliva Strandberg def Kay Trinnaman 6-0, 6-0
#3 Singles: Caelan Rothlisberger def Amanda Salas 6-2, 6-2
#4 Singles: Ellie McLemore def Baylee Bates 6-1, 6-1
#1 Doubles: Piper Grossberg/Maya Cowan def Kiley Thomas/Abbie O'Neal 6-1, 6-2
#2 Doubles: Josie Garfoot/Candice Ducroq def Amelia Bowman/Kalei Bruce 6-0, 6-1
#3 Doubles: Irene Hernandez/Danika Dietrich def Mia Trinnaman/Maddie McDonald 6-4, 7-6 (7-3)

The Chelan girls move to 10-1 on the season, and will attempt to clinch an outright CTL title via an undefeated league season @ Cashmere on Tuesday. Right now, the Chelan girls are 7-0 in league play, with their toughest competition being that Cashmere squad. The early season match vs Cashmere in Chelan the first time through the schedule was a nail-biter, with Chelan eking one out 3-2!

Boys: Moses Lake 5, Chelan 2
#1 Singles: Marwan Warwick (ML) def Rylen Moody 6-1, 6-3
#2 Singles: Roman Jenks (ML) def Sam Bordner 6-0, 6-2
#3 Singles: Cray Silva (Ch) def Keston Roylance 6-1, 7-5
#4 Singles: Sammy Molitor (ML) def Ian Garfoot 6-2, 6-2
#1 Doubles: Adam Wiseman/Caleb Dickinson (ML) def Luke Christopherson/Wade Sanderson 6-0, 6-1
#2 Doubles: Emit Madsen/Carson Owens (ML) def Caleb & Tristan Sanderson 6-3, 6-0
#3 Doubles: Sawyer Jeffries/George Neff (Ch) def Ollie Madsen/Daniel Bowen 6-4, 6-4

It was a great opportunity for the Chelan boys to play one of the top teams in the Big 9, and "work on some stuff". The top of the Moses Lake lineup is very impressive. We needed to compete against a top shelf program this time of year to find out what we needed to work on for the postseason. The Chelan boys are now 8-3 on the season, and have already clinched a regular season CTL title. Their goal is to finish an undefeated league schedule on Tuesday in Cashmere.

Our depth was also evident in these JV wins:
Keira Gjerde/Signe Lillie 6-2
Maddie Cowan/Josie Bekel 6-1
Kyle and Sean Rynd 6-1
Elijah Moody/Nic Diaz-Manda 6-2
Ben Brownfield/Anthony Tejada 7-5
Nic Diaz-Manda/Anthony Tejada 6-4
Elijah Moody in singles 6-0

Chelan High School Golf

SUBMITTED BY KIRK EINSPAHR, CHELAN HIGH SCHOOL HEAD GOLF
COACH

April 18
Chelan golf team had their first league match today on a sunny but windy day which made it seem a lot colder than the temperature would suggest. Quincy was in town but with only two girls and one boy it was almost an intrasquad match. Chelan's Carson Clinton (9th grade) led all golfers with a 9-over 81. Carson struggled a bit on the front nine but came back and played better on the back 9. Also scoring better than previous matches were Chelan's John Ludwig (10th grade) with a 96, Rocco Domser (8th grade) with a 105, and Chase Woodley (11th grade) with a 107.

For the Chelan girls, Arabelle Finch (11th grade) led us with a 116, Kira Sandoval (12th grade) had a 117, and Malie Benson (12th grade) with a 123. The girls are still trying to find more consistency in their games and hopefully with more time and with practices on an actual golf course we will soon be getting that from them, and with all our players.

April 20
A cool, cloudy and eventually rainy day awaited the Chelan and Cascade golfers at the Lake Chelan Golf Course today, as Chelan hosted the Leavenworth golfers. Chelan came out on top for both girls and boys team scores with the Chelan girls besting Cascade 467 to 514, and the Chelan boys with a 387 to Cascade's 422.

Leading Chelan girls with a personal best score was Arabelle Finch (11th grade) coming in with a breakthrough score of 93, and we're looking forward to her continuing with more personal bests as this season is (quickly) progressing.

For the boys, several Chelan boys made some great progress with Rocco Domser (8th grade) breaking into the 90s with a 98, and Grant Conrood (9th grade) just missing the 90s with an even 100.

Chelan has a full match schedule this week with an away match with Omak on Monday, April 24, a home match with Omak again on Wednesday, April 26, and an away match with Quincy on Thursday, April 27.

I would like to express our team's encouragement and hope for a full recovery of our teammate Jailyn and her dad after a very serious recent car accident - we miss you and hope you both are doing better.

I also wanted to give some accolades to our Manson golfer who is practicing and playing with us this year - Wyatt Winters (8th grade) had a great day on the course and was the medalist for the boys, coming in with a hot 2-over par 74, and that even with a double bogey and two bogeys on the last 4 holes (finishing on hole #1). Great job Wyatt.

LAKE CHELAN LADIES GOLF TEE TIME

April 13
CHELAN - It's a brand new season for the lady golfers of Chelan. Last week's opener with dicey weather only enticed a small group of five to venture out. This week, also dicey, had 12 players out on the course competing in a two person best ball, foursome competition.

The winners were a tie between Team 1 and Team 3.
Team 1: Linda Reister, Stacy Bjarnason, Judy Johanson, and Tina Nyce, 136.
Team 3: April Talley, Barb Rayburn, Loa Servis, and Cindi Smith, 136.

Birdies were made by Jan Artim, hole 10 and 12, Cindi Smith, hole 12. The lone chip-in girl was Judy Johanson, hole 14. The KP this week was hole 7 and sadly no one landed on the green so the pot carries over as it did last week.

We would like to welcome a new member, Stacy Bjarnason, to our group and point out that she was on the winning team.

Our time is 9:30 a.m. Please check in by 9 a.m.

WENATCHEE - AppleSox head coach Mitch Darlington announced on Thursday, April 20, the addition of five players to the AppleSox' 2023 roster. Braiden Boyd, Ty Kennedy, Samuel Round, Carson Ohland and Austin Ohland are signed to play for the AppleSox this summer.

Boyd's prior experience with the AppleSox is limited to one game but it was a memorable one as he made his collegiate debut on August 1, 2022. The southpaw from Chelan struck out three hitters in two innings in a non-league game against the Cascade Collegiate League showcase team prior to beginning his senior year of high school a few weeks later.

Boyd was part of Chelan's fourth-place team at the 1A State Tournament prior to suiting up for the AppleSox three months later. He is committed to play at Washington State in 2024 following his graduation from Chelan High School this spring.

"I've had a chance to get to see him a lot from just living in Chelan for the last few years," Darlington said. "The big thing that jumps out is he is super projectability but he's also got the right demeanor for a pitcher so there's a lot of room to grow for him."

Renewable Hydrogen receives statewide approval

By Sen. Brad Hawkins

OLYMPIA - It has been exciting to read about the progress Douglas County PUD has been making toward its Wells Hydrogen Project in East Wenatchee and the possibilities of our region accessing federal funds under the Department of Energy's regional hydrogen hubs initiative. While some people in our state may just be beginning to hear about the potential benefits of renewable hydrogen, local utility officials and I have been proudly pushing the potential benefits of renewable hydrogen for several years.

In 2019, I partnered with Douglas County PUD to sponsor and pass my Senate Bill 5588 to authorize public utility districts to produce and sell renewable hydrogen. Back then, I had to educate myself and my colleagues on renewable hydrogen and how it could benefit us all. In short, hydrogen (H2) is a colorless and odorless gas that can be created from a process that uses electricity to separate hydrogen and oxygen molecules in water. I knew gaining a new "authority" for PUDs to produce and distribute hydrogen wasn't going to be easy.

I worked closely that year with Douglas County PUD because of their interest in using surplus hydropower to produce hydrogen. After months of hard work by everyone involved and lots of bipartisan support, Senate Bill 5588 eventually passed to allow for the production and sale of PUD "renewable hydrogen," which is defined as hydrogen created from an emissions-free electricity source. The Governor signed the bill in April 2019. Fast forward a few years and following COVID delays, renewable hydrogen will soon be developed in Douglas County.

Environmental and economic benefits

This new authority will provide our hydroelectric facilities with a new way to address an ever-increasing challenge. With the expansion of wind and solar generation across many western states, the Pacific Northwest's electric grid experiences periods of surplus power generation in the spring. During springtime snow melt, hydropower generation is abundant because of high flows in the Columbia River. Wind and solar generation are often strong in the spring as well.

Courtesy Sen. Brad Hawkins

ABOVE: One of the Kenworth hydrogen semi-trucks was on display for all to see at a zero-emissions vehicle event last fall in Wenatchee, hosted by Climate Solutions. In the photo with me is Leah Missik of Climate Solutions and my Senate Transportation Committee colleague, Sen. Curtis King of Yakima. Also at the event was a zero-emissions transit bus, school bus, Ford F-150, and a waste-collection truck. RIGHT: Renewable hydrogen can be a key contributor to our clean energy future. It can have beneficial applications for certain products and serve as a clean transportation fuel for aviation, rail, maritime, and vehicles, including transit buses,

Not generating power by spilling excess water through our dams can adversely impact fish, and securing buyers for our hydropower when supply exceeds demand can be financially ineffective and challenging. Using surplus hydropower electricity (renewable hydropower) to produce "renewable hydrogen" is an exciting opportunity because it can be both environmentally and economically beneficial. If power demand is low but water flows are high, the PUD can produce hydrogen rather than just spilling the water and harming fish. Less water spilled means more financial value from the water itself. As owners of the PUDs, anything that benefits a PUD will ultimately help its customers, so it's a win-win.

Possible uses of clean hydrogen

Renewable hydrogen is a cleaner version than hydrogen produced in most parts of the world because hydropower is a non-emitting electricity source. Hydrogen can serve many purposes, but one of its uses is clean fuel for vehicles. Hydrogen-based vehicles, similar to plug-in electric vehicles, produce zero greenhouse gas emissions. Plug-in electric vehicles, like Teslas, have a huge head start over hydrogen vehicles. It could be that hydrogen as vehicle fuel may be better suited for heavier-duty commercial vehicles, like utility rigs and semi-trucks, but it certainly could have a key role in our future zero-emissions transportation system.

In 2021, two years following the passage of my Senate Bill 5588 for PUD hydrogen, I sponsored and passed Senate Bill 5000 to extend sales tax incentives to hydrogen vehicles similar to existing incentives for plug-in electric vehicles. That same session – continuing the partnership with Douglas PUD and other officials – I sponsored a transportation budget item to fund the state's first combo fast-charging electric vehicle and hydrogen fueling station. It will soon be located in East Wenatchee.

Future opportunities for local hydrogen

Creating clean fuel from our surplus hydropower and actually fueling vehicles locally will be quite exciting. If the state invests in hydrogen fueling stations at our ports, we'll be able to haul the world's best apples from Wenatchee to Seattle on zero-emissions hydrogen semi-trucks, refueling at the port in just five minutes before the return trip. If the west coast continues to build fueling stations along its interstates, we'll likely be able to travel across multiple states. If the Northwest ultimately becomes a "hydrogen hub," anything is possible.

Renewable hydrogen has certainly gained incredible interest – locally and nationally – in recent years. The Washington State Legislature is now pursuing clean hydrogen expansion in earnest. We don't want to brag, but it seems like, once again, the utilities in District 12 are way ahead of the curve on clean energy. This is something to be proud of.

April to Be designated “Preserving and Protecting Local News Month” under resolution co-sponsored by Rep. Cantwell

Resolution highlights importance of local news in a functioning democracy

Submitted by The Office of Rep. Maria Cantwell

WASHINGTON, D.C. - U.S. Senator Maria Cantwell (D-WA) joined a group of 14 senators in introducing a resolution designating April 2023 as “Preserving and Protecting Local News Month.” The resolution recognizes local news as a public good that serves an essential function in the democracy of the United States.

“Local journalism unites our communities,” said Sen. Cantwell. “It is essential for the safety of our communities and for the health of our democracy. So we must recognize the importance of local journalism – and the people who work hard every day to ensure that Americans are well informed.”

According to Pew Research Center, the overall employment in newspaper, television, radio, and digital newsrooms in the United States fell by 26 percent, or 30,000 jobs, from 2008-2020. More than 100 local newsrooms were forced to close during the COVID-19 pandemic, with 30 percent of local television stations reporting budget cuts and staff reductions. The resolution affirms the significance of local news in increasing civic engagement and strengthening democratic norms and practices, and acknowledges the valuable contributions of local journalism toward the maintenance of healthy and vibrant communities.

The resolution is co-sponsored by Senators Brian Schatz (D-HI), Richard Blumenthal (D-CT), Alex Padilla (D-CA), Ed Markey (D-MA), Bob Casey (D-PA), Mark Warner (D-VA), Ben Ray Lujan (D-NM), Mazie Hirono (D-HI), Mark Kelly (D-AZ), Ron Wyden (D-OR), Amy Klobuchar (D-MN), Dick Durbin (D-IL), and Cory Booker (D-NJ).

The resolution has been endorsed by PEN America; Alliance for Community Media; Free Press Action; National Press Photographers Association (NPPA); Native American Journalists Association (NAJA); Writers Guild of America, East, AFL-CIO; Ethnic Media Services; Society of Environmental Journalists; Society for News Design; Common Cause; Department for Professional Employees, AFL-CIO; National Association of Black Journalists (NABJ); Native Public Media; Public Knowledge; Society of Professional Journalists; Theatre Communications Group; National Newspaper Association (NNA); National Writers Union (NWU); and National Association of Broadcasters (NAB).

Sen. Cantwell has long championed legislation to support local journalism. In 2021, she introduced the Local Journalism Sustainability Act, which would help financially support local news organizations through tax credits to incentivize hiring more journalists, subscriptions, and advertising from local small businesses. She plans to introduce similar legislation again in this Congress. On Thursday, April 20, Washington state's Legislature passed a similar measure with strong bipartisan support.

Smiley launches nonprofit Rescuing the American Dream

Submitted by Stephen Lawson, Rescuing the American Dream

ARLINGTON, VA - On Wednesday April 18, Tiffany Smiley – nurse, veterans' advocate and former U.S. Senate candidate who ran a competitive campaign in deep blue Washington last election cycle – launched Rescuing the American Dream, a 501(c)(4) dedicated to developing, promoting, and effectively communicating solutions that will directly help American workers and their families.

“It's clear that Washington D.C. isn't working for working Americans, and there is a massive disconnect between what is being discussed inside the beltway and what is affecting the lives of everyday Americans,” said Rescuing the American Dream Chairman Tiffany Smiley. “We're going to talk directly to Americans—especially those most hurting in the Middle Class—about their fears, hopes and beliefs. That way, we can develop policy solutions based on their real life concerns and communicate them in a way that is relatable and understandable. This is the way forward—this is the pathway to rescue the American Dream and preserve it for generations to come, and that's exactly what we plan on working to achieve.”

Rescuing the American Dream conducted a unique, expansive survey of 2,000 registered voters across the country, and asked open ended questions directly to voters about their fears, hopes, and beliefs—and the results were eye opening.

- Americans still believe our country is the best in the world—and want to keep it that way. A vast majority of voters—71 percent—believe that the United States currently is the best country in the world. What's more—a whopping 81 percent of voters believe it is important that America remains the best country in the world.

- However, they also overwhelmingly believe we're headed in the wrong direction. 70 percent of all voters believe our country is headed in the wrong direction, clearly demonstrating that there is a major disconnect between Washington D.C. and the rest of America.

- Big government and a wildly unstable economy are primarily to blame. Voters overwhelmingly stated that the government was the biggest reason the country is on the wrong track at 34 percent – followed by the economy at 24 percent. This clearly shows that policies in Washington D.C. are failing – and 40-year high inflation and an unstable economic climate are the main drivers of Americans' pessimistic outlook.

- Voters indicated lowering costs on essential goods, making healthcare more affordable, and reducing taxes are the top three policy solutions that could benefit them. 47 percent identified lowering essential costs as their top policy solution — followed by lowering healthcare costs at 34 percent and lowering taxes at 29 percent. While families are struggling to afford groceries, fill up their gas tanks and buy essential goods, the data also shows that the healthcare system is unaffordable and unattainable for too many in our country. Addressing these issues would benefit the health and wellbeing of countless Americans across the country.

- Education remains a top priority for American families. When it comes to education, there is a strong desire to address school safety and protect our children when they are in the classroom. 58 percent of voters say making schools safe from violence is the most important educational issue, while 47 percent say it's keeping politics out of the classroom. It's clear voters want us to prioritize school safety and get back to focusing on reading, writing, and arithmetic – all necessary skills that will help them attain success in the future.

- And a vast majority of Americans believe in the value of a non-traditional education. A whopping 72 percent of Americans believe that getting a vocational education with job skills and training is a better way to get ahead in the current job market—with only 16 percent of those surveyed who prefer a traditional college degree.
