Chelan neighbors work together to protect homes, properties from wildfires

For second year, community teams with Department of Natural Resources to expand Wildfire Ready Neighbors program to high-risk areas

SUBMITTED BY PAUL LEONETTI, C+C

CHELAN - Residents, community leaders, forest health experts, regional fire districts, and the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) joined in Chelan's Union Valley on April 19 to kick off this year's Wildfire Ready Neighbors program that provides homeowners, renters, and small forest landowners the resources and tools to help protect themselves from wildfires. The program – a collaboration between the Chelan community and DNR – takes a localized approach to proactive action plans. Last year, Chelan was the first county to launch this successful program. During the six-week pilot, 545 Chelan residents signed up for Wildfire Ready Neighbors and received custom plans to prepare their homes and properties ahead of wildfire season, exceeding program goals by 22%. Now in its second year, the program is building on that momentum by expanding to other high-risk communities in Chelan.

"Wildfires don't see property lines, and people with homes in areas at high risk of wildfires are only as strong as their weakest link," said

Commissioner of Public Lands Hilary Franz. "It's why neighbors who live in places like Chelan know they must band together to ready themselves, their homes, and their forests against wildfires. This is

VFW Post #6853 holds 1st Annual Bataan Memorial Death March

BY NORM MANLY, POST SERVICE OFFICER, MANSON AMERICA LEGION

MANSON/CHELAN - Members of the Lake Chelan Veterans of Foreign Wars, Post 6853 mustered at Old Mill Bay Park in Manson at 5 a.m. on April 16, 2023, embarking on their 1st Annual Bataan Memorial Death March, seven miles along Highway 150 to Chelan and the VFW bunker.

The day after Japan bombed the U.S. Naval Base at Pearl Harbor, December 7, 1941, the Japanese invasion of the Philippines began. On April 9, 1942 the United States surrendered the Bataan Peninsula, on the Philippine Island of Luzon to the Japanese. Approximately 75,000 Filipino and American troops on Bataan were forced to make a grueling 65-mile march to prisons at Camp O'Donnell, northwest of Manila. The marchers made the trek in intense heat and were subjected to cruel treatment by Japanese guards. Thousands perished during the march that began on April 9 and ended on April 17, 1942, in what became known as the Bataan Death March.

On September 2, 1945, aboard the USS Missouri, in Tokyo Bay, Japan formally surrendered to the Allies, bringing an end to World War II. The end of the war secured the release of captive soldiers who had suffering in confinement camps for two and a half years. About one-third of the prisoners died from health complications after they were freed. Walt Straka, from Min-

Through the Wildfire Ready Neighbors program, people can access experts and resources that help them understand how to reduce risk on their property through actions they can take into their own hands. This includes trimming back brush, cleaning roofs and gutters, and removing debris like leafy piles. When every property in a neighborhood takes these steps, their individual homes create a large area that is less susceptible to wildfires.

Wildfire Ready Neighbors will also expand to communities in Spokane and Yakima in May. In all three communities, the program:

- Drives people to assess risks and take action to make their properties more wildfire ready;
- Raises awareness and interest in receiving a free wildfire ready home visit or forest health consultation;
- Builds understanding of local/state resources and contractors available to assist with risk reduction activities;
- Grows and deepens community relationships and partnerships around issues of wildfire and resiliency; and,
- Creates a model for replicable future wildfire preparedness and resiliency programs that can be utilized by community partners in addition to their own existing programs or efforts.

Renters, homeowners, and private landowners – even if they do not live on their property full time – are eligible to participate. DNR and community leaders encourage participation now before the summer brings hot and dry conditions that create higher risks for wildfire. This past season, firefighters battled 1,872 fires across Washington – the second-most wildfires in record state history. More than 1.5 million acres have burned over the past two seasons.

“Communities need to understand how wildfires work and have an understanding of the surroundings by their homes,” said Johnny Synder, Union Valley Community Captain. “The education of knowing fires’ behavior and how they travel is important. Wildfire Ready Neighbors teaches you that and what can do to reduce the risk.”

To join Wildfire Ready Neighbors and get a free customized plan, community members simply sign up at www.wildfireready.com. At no cost, residents can also request a consultation where a wildfire expert will visit their property and develop a detailed action plan for wildfire preparedness. The plan includes steps they can take immediately and information about local resources and contractors to help get them started.

“We came out today to honor our comrades that paid the ultimate sacrifice, their life,” said Butch Sims, VFW Quartermaster. “I cannot even imagine what terror, fear and despair our troops endured as they were herded like cattle, on their way to slaughter, during the 65-mile march.” said Colin Hill, VFW member. Ian Schuelke, VFW Senior Vice Commander summed it up saying, “over time, people tend to forget sacrifices made by our brothers. We are not going to let that happen.”

Next year the VFW plans to grow this event, include more people, young and old, remembering our heroes. VFW Post 6853 meets the first Tuesday of each month at 6:30 p.m. at the “Bunker” located at 427 S Bradley Street. For more information email chelanvfw@gmail.com

OBITUARIES

Margaret Jean Crane

July 31, 1920 – March 28, 2022

Margaret Jean Crane died peacefully on March 28, 2022, at home with her daughters: Mary “Biz”, Trudy, and beloved caregiver, Maria Theresa at her side. She was born on July 31, 1920, in Tacoma, Washington, to Gregor and Irma McKinnon, an only child. She grew up as the much doted on child, in a household of her parents and unmarried aunts: Bess and Jen, in Sumner, Washington. Her Aunt Bess was a librarian and MJ became and remained a prodigious reader. Her father worked the night shift at the Fleischmann’s Yeast factory. During the day, she worked alongside her parents in their plant nursery, developing a work ethic and physical strength that carried her almost to her 102nd birthday.

MJ graduated from Sumner High School at age 15 and went on to Pacific Lutheran College at age 16. In her early 20’s, she was hired as the bookkeeper for Art Norman’s Furniture Store in Tacoma, and became best friends with Art’s sister-in-law, Pat Crane. This is how she came to meet her future husband, Francis. Francis and Margaret Jean were married in Sumner on February 7, 1944.

MJ and Francis came back to Brewster not long after marrying, to take over the family business. They incorporated Crane & Crane, Inc. in 1973. MJ worked as a bookkeeper for the business, and they had five children: Margaret “Trudy”, Peter, Jonathan, Barclay and Mary “Biz”. MJ seemed to have limitless energy, as a parent and business partner, with a multitude of child related activities including: Camp Fire Girls and Boy Scouts. She was known for staying up all night canning fruits and vegetables, reupholstering furniture, or sewing her daughter’s new clothing, only to continue on to a full day of work without complaint.

Her daughter, Trudy, had a disabling car accident in 1973. MJ and Francis took on the raising of their grandchildren: Karin and Katherine, in addition to Trudy’s long rehabilitation. Her son, Jonathan, died in 1982, after a difficult battle with cancer. Margaret Jean went door to door soliciting donations for cancer research in hope to prevent such a tragedy for others. She was very active in St. James Episcopal Church in Brewster, until the closure and sale by the diocese. She worked as a volunteer for Douglas County with voter registration and in person voting. She and Francis traveled extensively, including to China after it opened to the public, in 1972. They were accompanied by their good friends on some of these trips. Margaret Jean loved her garden and gardening. She kept flower beds on the Crane property for many years. More than anything, MJ loved her Great Danes: Missy, Bessie, and Duchess.

The family would like to say a special thank you to all of Margaret’s friends and caregivers, including: Maria Soria, Maria Rivera, Gabina, John, Cindy Kennel, Cindy Schmidt, Robyn, Lynn, Yani and Frontier Hospice. They would also like to thank members of the local community who brought Margaret Jean joy during her later years.

Margaret Jean is survived by children: Margaret Rose “Trudy”, Peter, Barclay, and Mary “Biz” Crane; grandchildren: Katherine Harris and Karin Brammer (Trudy), Rachel Sullivan, Kaylan Farrow (Peter), Elizabeth McDaniel, Jennifer, Daniel (Barclay), Hana, Saba, and Kirubel Zewdie (Mary); great-grandchildren: Aria and Diego (Katherine), Margie (Karin), Gregor, Ruth, Sloan, Margo (Rachel), Eleanor (Elizabeth) and Whitman (Jennifer). Margaret Jean dearly loved all her children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren.

Memorial Service will be held at the Stone Church in Brewster (formerly St. James), 515 W. Indian Ave., Brewster, Washington, on May 14, 2022, at 11 a.m. A light lunch reception will follow the memorial at The River House, 912 South Bridge St., Brewster, Washington.

THE WASHINGTON OUTDOOR REPORT

Volunteering as a State Park host

By JOHN KRUSE, THE WASHINGTON OUTDOOR REPORT

Do you love to camp? Do you own an RV? Are you a people person? Are you up for a volunteer experience that's both fun and meaningful? If the answer to all of the above is "yes" and you find yourself with some time on your hands this year you should consider becoming a park host at one of Washington's 140 State Parks.

Washington State Parks is actively looking for volunteer park hosts and the application period is open now. Essentially, you will live (rent free) at a Washington State Park in your RV for 30 to 90 days and do at least 28 hours of volunteer service a week, working five days and enjoying two days off. An example of this work could be volunteering as a campground host at a state park. While on duty you will greet campers, answer any questions they have, possibly sell firewood and ice and perform light maintenance like cleaning up litter, raking campsites or mowing grass.

There are other park host opportunities beyond the campgrounds at Washington State Parks. You can volunteer to work at one of the 11 retreat centers in our state parks, facilities that are often rented out by school or youth groups, non-profit organizations, businesses and also for family reunions. As a retreat center host, you'll help guests check in and orient them about using the facilities. Like campground hosts, you may also be doing some light maintenance.

Another host opportunity takes place at 10 interpretive centers scattered around the state or one of the museums or lighthouses found within our parks. Volunteer at one of these places and you may find yourself giving tours, working in a gift shop and assisting park staff with interpretive programs. If you enjoy history, science and sharing these topics with the public this could be a very fulfilling experience at places like the Dry Falls Interpretive Center, the Ginkgo Interpretive Center, the Mt. St. Helens Interpretive Center at Seaquest State Park or the Lewis and Clark Interpretive Center at Cape Disappointment. There are also interpretive host opportunities at other state parks that could have you taking visitors on nature walks or bird watching tours.

Another unique hosting opportunity doesn't require an RV but instead, a liveaboard boat. These one-to-two-week hosting assignments occur at Washington's Marine Parks, primarily found on islands in Puget Sound. A typical day will have you assisting boaters as they enter the park, letting them know about available moorage and park facilities and steering them towards unique areas at the park worth exploring. You'll also be keeping track of weather conditions and alerting boaters of any potential dangers.

Valerie Roberts, the Volunteer Programs Coordinator for Washington State Parks, sums it up well when she says "There's something for everyone" when it comes to park host opportunities. Roberts said there are over 80 parks in need of park hosts right now and as for deciding which one to host at, it really comes down to what your interests are. Roberts went on to say, "We're happy to help find the right volunteer opportunity for each individual host."

Roberts also emphasized that while your stay at any given park is limited to 30 or 90 days, you can actually travel to different parks around the state in need of park hosts and fulfill this function year around. Roberts says all they ask is for a 30-day commitment per park.

Other requirements for park hosts include being at least 18 years old, passing a criminal background check and being fully vaccinated against COVID 19. If you want to find out more about becoming a park host at Washington State Parks go to <https://www.parks.wa.gov/275/Park-Host-Program>. You can also contact Valerie Roberts by email with any questions at parks.volunteer@parks.wa.gov

The bottom line is this; if you are retired, on a sabbatical from work, have an RV or boat and want to work with the public in a beautiful setting while enjoying nature or history, becoming a park host could be a great fit for you.

The Pentagon Is Hemorrhaging Top IT Talent

Another senior tech official resigns, says breaking through bureaucracy was like ‘working to defy gravity’

ANDREW THORNEBROOKE

The Department of Defense (DoD) lost another top IT official on April 18 with the resignation of Preston Dunlap, the founding chief architecture officer of the Air and Space Forces.

Dunlap wrote that he was proud of the three years he spent at the Pentagon in an open resignation letter posted to social media, but that bureaucracy, a risk-averse culture, and other internal issues made innovation more difficult than it should have been.

He said the DoD fostered an environment in which it was “hard, but not impossible” to innovate and compared the effort required to break through Pentagon bureaucracy to the effort needed to push satellites past earth’s gravity.

“I’ve spent the last three years working to defy gravity and get desperately needed technology into our operators’ hands,” Dunlap said. “By the time the Government manages to produce something, it’s too often obsolete; no business would ever survive this way, nor should it.”

Dunlap’s resignation follows that of DoD Chief Software Officer Jason Weiss earlier in April and that of Air and Space Forces Chief Software Officer Nicolas Chaillan in October. Both Weiss and Chaillan used their resignations to warn that out-of-control bureaucracies were preventing a talented and dedicated workforce in the DoD from succeeding.

“This is a massive loss for DoD,” Chaillan said in reference to Dunlap’s departure. “The number of top talent leaving the Pentagon is very concerning.

“I don’t know anyone who is as good as Preston in the entire Department. [He] Will be very tough to replace, particularly since they have yet to replace me. Even worse after [Weiss] left last month too.”

Pentagon Lacks Budget, Authority, and Vision

In the eight-page document marking his departure from the Pentagon, Dunlap painted a bleak picture of a military bureaucracy run amok, with little to no resources or support available for those trying to change the status quo.

“Not unsurprisingly to anyone who has worked for or with the Government before, I arrived to find no budget, no authority, no alignment of vision, no people, no computers, no networks, a leaky ceiling, even a broken curtain,” Dunlap said. “You get the picture. Sadly, I was probably better off than most who show up to serve.

“Ironically as I’m writing this, I received notification that the phone lines are down at the Pentagon IT help desk. Phone lines are down? It’s 2022, folks.”

Dunlap noted that there was a strong cadre of dedicated individuals who had worked to stand up to the Pentagon’s efforts at building a next-generation fighting force, but that they were too often blunted by bureaucracy.

Dunlap singled out a handful of individuals for gratitude in continually supporting the mission regardless of the trials faced. Among them was Gen. John Hyten, former vice chair of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Like Dunlap, Hyten also tried to combat the growing military bureaucracy and, in the final months before his retirement in November 2021, he sounded the alarm on what he saw as a number of red flags for U.S. military readiness.

During an October interview, Hyten derided what he called a “brutal” Pentagon bureaucracy for hamstringing the U.S. military. He said weapons programs took 10 to 15 years to develop on average, with others taking far longer.

“We can go fast if we want to,” Hyten said. “But the bureaucracy we’ve put in place is just brutal.”

Still other systems were scrapped outright for not immediately succeeding, he said, as was the case with the brief U.S. effort to develop hypersonic weapons a decade ago.

Further, Hyten said U.S. military leadership was making the nation less secure through the process of overclassification, essentially blocking out knowledge of their projects from the public eye because they knew that if a project were classified, there would be less bureaucratic red tape for it to become entangled in.

Arizona Border Sheriffs Expect More Cartel Crime Once Title 42 Revoked

CHARLOTTE CUTHBERTSON

One sheriff gets the illegal alien “gotaways” in his Arizona county, while the other predominantly gets the “give-ups.”

Cochise County Sheriff Mark Dannels said that during the month of March, his office apprehended more than 7,000 illegal immigrants who were trying to avoid capture, also known as “gotaways.”

Two years ago, that number was “a manageable” 400 per month, Dannels said.

“In my section of the southeast corner in the state of Arizona ... we see 100 percent aggravated individuals that are camouflaged, they’re coming to the country for all ill intent—they’re taking advantage of current times,” Dannels told members of Congress during an April 6 House hearing.

Between 900 and 1,000 smugglers drive into Cochise County to pick up illegal aliens near the border and drive them to Phoenix for about $1,000 per head, according to Dannels.

“We need to understand that smuggling comes with criminal cartels. These transnational organizations, they have no respect for Americans, no respect for communities,” he said. “My office right now is investigating several acts here last month, where an agent—they tried to cut his throat. Had another one [where] they tried to kill the agent.”

As the Biden administration prepares to end the Title 42 public health order on May 23, border sheriffs are expecting the worst.

“We have great concern,” Dannels said. “It’s going to have a huge impact. We’re already outpaced.”

Title 42 is a Centers for Disease Control and Prevention order that was invoked in March 2020 under then-President Donald Trump to minimize the spread of COVID-19 by ensuring that only essential travel occurred at U.S. borders.

It directed that illegal immigrants could be quickly expelled back into Mexico as a pandemic precaution, rather than be processed under Title 8 immigration law, which is a much more protracted process inside the United States.

“Currently, we’re spending $17,000 a week out of a rural county sheriff’s office to address border security,” Dannels said.

Between July 1, 2021, and February, the sheriff’s office has spent $1.1 million in booking border-related criminals into the local jail.

“What we’re not talking about when it comes to our southern border is the rule of law. We’re also not talking about border security. We have immigration, and we have border security. And sadly, border security has been set aside,” Dannels said.

The ‘Give-Ups’

A 320-mile drive to the west sits Yuma County, where Sheriff Leon Wilmot is grappling with thousands of illegal immigrants walking around the unfinished border wall and waiting for Border Patrol—the “give-ups.”

Cochise County Sheriff Mark Dannels in his office in Bisbee, Ariz., on Dec. 7, 2021.

“These are not poor people; they are dressed in designer clothing with money and cell phones,” Wilmot told The Epoch Times.

“They are flying into Mexico from over 140 different countries and then taking a cab or bus to the river. They walk across the border, discarding their trash, clothing, and identification [showing] they have been granted permission to live and work in Mexico. They are exploiting the weakness of this administration’s policies on our border.”

In 2021, Yuma Sector Border Patrol agents apprehended 183,750 illegal immigrants, according to Customs and Border Protection (CBP) data. In 2020, that number was 8,758.

“Estimates are that the cartels are making an average of $15 million a week in the smuggling of humans across the Yuma Sector alone,” Wilmot said. “This has led to escalated violence along the border in Mexico as the cartels fight over control of the border.”

He’s bracing for the end of Title 42 and expects border-related crime to increase.

“In my 37 years of law enforcement in Yuma County, I have never seen such a lack of border security or concern for the safety of our country as I do today,” Wilmot said.

In the Yuma Border Patrol Sector, agents are already so busy processing large groups of illegal aliens that only four agents are available to patrol a 150-mile section of the border.

The amount of drugs being seized at the border has correspondingly plummeted, according to CBP data.

The two Arizona Senators, both Democrats, wrote to President Joe Biden on March 24, urging him to keep Title 42 in place until the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) has a plan to handle the anticipated influx.

DHS has told Border Patrol agents to be prepared to apprehend up to 500,000 illegal immigrants per month—more than double what the overwhelmed agency is currently encountering.

The leaked contingency plan from DHS shows senior officials being told that the removal of Title 42 would lead to an increase in illegal immigration and one way to respond is to quickly release many into the U.S. interior.

The agency would use “broadscale release mechanisms” such as issuing notices to appear in court or even releasing illegal immigrants without a court notice, a practice that wasn’t used until Biden took office, according to the document first published by Breitbart News.

As many as 450,000 illegal aliens could gather from the southern U.S. border through Central America in a 30-day period, according to one of the planning scenarios in the contingency plan. That could lead to “multiple surges” of 10,000 to 20,000 illegal crossings at different locations at the same time.
