WA CARE Act Fund extended for an additional 18 months

Legislation working on finding immediatesolutions

MEGAN SOKOL, STAFF WRITER

OLPYMPIA - On Dec. 23, Gov. Jay Inslee announced that the Long-term care tax would be put on hold past the Jan. 1, 2022 due date. Now both House Democrats and House Republicans are introducing substitute bills that hope to mend holes within the original bill.

The Long-term care tax, or what is commonly dubbed the Care tax, is a bill meant to provide long-term care and services to those who do not currently have a private long-term insurance plan.

Benefits include covering reimbursing unpaid family caregivers. The benefits are capped at $36,500, with an annual increase that is determined by future inflation.

Employers would take a 0.58% tax out of every worker's paycheck. After 10 years, employees can start drawing funds from their individual account, or within 3 years if they experience a disabling/traumatic event.

The Care tax was signed into law back in April of 2019, however many workers and those who would be most affected by the bill did not hear about the Care tax until nearly before or after the Nov. 1 deadline to opt-out.

The drawbacks to this bill include lack of coverage for those nearing retirement in less than 10 years, no income cap for those who make a higher income, and permanent restriction to the accrued Care act funds home-delivered meals and once a resident moves out tax, specifically to "enable further notice.

Employees wanting to optout are required to include proof of a separate private long-term care insurance plan. In addition, employees would be permanently exempt from the CARE Act Fund once they opt-out.

On Nov. 9, a class action lawsuit was filed against the Long-term care act, claiming that the program is invalid due to it being preempted by the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (ERISA), while also violating multiple state and federal

During the 60-day legislative period of 2022, the House Democrats introduced two bills. On Jan. 21, legislators officially passed the first bill: an 18-month extension given to fix program which will give them time to edit the bill. The second bill proposed additional exemptions to the military spouses, disabled veterans, border state residents, and non-immigrant visa holders to voluntarily exempt themselves from premiums for the WA Cares program." Decision on that was officially brought to the Senate's public hearing on

House Republicans also introduced two bills, one which would fully repeal the program with no other service taking its place. The second bill would also include repealing the program, but by replacing it with an affordable and optional long-term care insurance

As of now, both bills introduced by House Republicans have been referred to the appropriations committee.

Any funds taken out of an employee's paycheck meant for the WA Cares Act would need to be returned until

CHELAN HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS' BASKETBALL

By Coach Nick Longmire, CHELAN HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS BASKETBALL

Chelan varsity girls vs Cashmere January 21

CHELAN - The Lady Bulldogs of Cashmere were hosted by the Lady Goats of Chelan on Friday night for the final regular season meeting between these two teams. The Goats coming off of a win against Omak were eager to face a dominant Cashmere team who has an active 70 game CTL winning streak. The Goats were in a close one against the Bulldogs in the first meeting and looked forward to a chance to end the long streak that Cashmere has earned.

The Goats started out slow offensively, having trouble finding shot opportunities. With starting small forward Kira Sandoval out with a leg injury the Goats were going to have to find scoring and defense from other areas. The quarter ended at 9-2 in favor of the Bulldogs. The Goats hung with the Bulldogs however despite Aliyah Finch, Chelan's starting post, getting into foul trouble early and found themselves down by 8 going into halftime.

In the third quarter Chelan found their offensive rhythm but the Bulldogs stayed just out of reach as they finished with 3 more than the Goats, setting up the 4th quarter with the Goats down by 11. The Goats dug deep and upped the defensive pressure only allowing 6 points by the Bulldogs and added 8 themselves. It wasn't enough for the Mt. Goats however and the Goats ended up falling to the Bulldogs 30-39.

"We knew we were going to have to fight hard against a very good Cashmere team. I am so proud of how our team played tonight. As many teams have battled with players on the Covid roster we have hobbled through our schedule finding ourselves in a position to fight for 2nd place in our league. Though we always have room to improve, tonight's level of play was strong. I remind our kids often that it is not how we start but how we finish. They fought hard all the way through tonight's game and I can hear it in their voices that they believe we can win as we move forward," stated Chelan's Coach Nick Longmire.

ScoringAll scores were led by Aliyah Finch with 16 points. Joslynn Simmons had 6. Beau Nordby added 4 points and Arabelle Finch and Morgyn Har-

Tuesday night the Omak Pioneers traveled to Chelan. In the first match up against these two teams Omak finished on top in a 47-46 win in Omak. This was Chelan's first game in about a week and a half due to multiple Chelan athletes on the Covid roster.

In the first quarter Omak took an early lead against the Mountain Goats, closing out with a 9-5 lead. Chelan came to life and had a strong second quarter by outscoring the Pioneers 15-3.

The third quarter the tables were turned and Omak held Chelan to 4 points while scoring 12 for themselves. With the score tied going into the 4th quarter the Goats found offense from Aliyah Finch scoring 7 of her 14 in the final quarter.

The final score put the Mountain Goats on top 37-

"It is challenging coming back off of a quarantine where some of us had been out for over 2 weeks and the majority of the team being out for a week. Despite the challenges that every other team in the league is also facing, we are not playing our best basketball but are finding wins at times when we need them. We are still a little beat up and our endurance is low. I am proud of our team for continuing to fight," said Chelan Coach Nick Longmire. Scoring for the Goats was Aliyah Finch with 14, Morgyn Harrison and Beau Nordby had 7 each, Kira Sandoval with 6 and Joslynn Simmons added 3.

THE WASHINGTON OUTDOORS REPORT

Nate Harding 16

By John Kruse, The WASHINGTON OUTDOOR REPORT

The COVID Pandemic put the kibosh on trade shows for the last two years to include the Shooting, Hunting Outdoor Trade Show (SHOT Show) held every January at the Sands Expo in Las Vegas, Nevada. This year though, SHOT Show went on as scheduled though it was a very different experi-

SHOT Show is not open to the public, just to people who work in the industry which includes not only hunting and shooting sports enthusiasts, but also law enforcement and military personnel who want to check out the latest firearms, ammunition and other products available with an eye towards ordering them.

This is a huge show. In 2020 there were 2,338 exhibitors and attendees came not only from all 50 states, but also 78 countries around the world. SHOT Show is the biggest trade show of its type and the 19th largest trade show in the world. During a typical year there are north of 60,000 attendees and this year the National Shooting Sports Foundation, which runs this event, expanded the floor space for exhibitors with hundreds of booths occupying not only the two floors of the Sands Expo, but also the adjoining Ceasar's Forum. The NSSF states if you walk every aisle of the show, you'll cover 13.9 miles.

In past years you saw firearms and ammunition manufacturers from Washington State exhibit at this show but several of these Washington based businesses have either closed or moved to more politically and business friendly states that welcome the firearms industry. Despite that, there were several Washington based businesses at SHOT Show to include:

Fort Discovery Inc. – A tactical training center based in Sequim Northwest Outfitting - A deer and elk outfitting service Rite in the Rain – Manufacturing waterproof pens Seattle Engraving Center - Producing custom, engraved, premium firearms

Cascade Precision - Manufacturing accessories for weapons American Shooting Journal - published by Media Index Inc. in Tukwila

SHOT Show kicks off with an Industry Day at the Range. This takes place at the Clark County Shooting Complex in Boulder City. The sprawling complex is 2,900 acres, the largest in the nation. Media professionals arrived there on Monday morning to shoot various new models, shells and cartridges from the plethora of manufacturers there at the range. I gravitated towards the shotgun area and enjoyed shooting a well-built single shot model 555 Trap Shotgun from Savage Arms as well as a unique shotgun from the JTS Group, a Kalashnikov style shotgun with a five-round magazine. Much to my surprise, it broke flying clay pigeons with ease, not something I was expecting from a tactical firearm. Talking to Mike Reilly with the JTS group he said the shotgun actually works well for hunting and he had used it on a sandhill crane hunt this season in the Dakotas with great success. Reilly did caution you do have to put an easy to install plug in the magazine so that the firearm only shoots three rounds, the maximum limit when it comes to bird hunting.

As much fun at as the shooting was (I literally couldn't miss!) I think my favorite part of the day was taking a beefy electric bike out on a sandy, hilly and rocky test track set up in the Nevada desert. The e-bike in question was a JEEP e-bike from QuietKat. Ryan Spinks, marketing manager for the Colorado based company, told me they specialize in manufacturing tough, all-terrain electric bikes used by hunters and other outdoors enthusiasts who want to go further into the backcountry than you can on foot. Spinks also showed me trailers that can be towed by their bikes big enough to haul in a good deal of camping gear or haul out a deer. The bike performed extremely well on the test track, even for this middle-aged, somewhat overweight rider and the electric motor allowed you to climb all of the steep hills on the track with effort at all.

The rest of the week SHOT Show happened at the Sands Expo Center. Attendance was down by about a third from previous years and approximately 10 to 15 percent of the exhibitors were no shows due to covid concerns. In fact, several exhibitors who planned on attending had to cancel at the very last minute because either they or a direct family member caught the omicron variant of covid just before the show started. Usually there are a number of celebrity appearances, numerous press conferences and happy hours where beer and wine are served at certain booths by exhibitors. This year, very little of this occurred.

The bright side about the lesser attendance meant I got to spend more time with exhibitors who are normally very pressed for time. A case in point, I got to interview the presidents of three major companies as well as the Director of Wyoming Game and Fish, something I would generally never get to do at a normal, loud, crowded SHOT Show.

Overall, the shooting, hunting and outdoor trade industry is strong and just about every company was doing better than they were before the pandemic. This is due to the huge amount of new people getting involved in both hunting and the shooting sports. You can find out more about SHOT Show and the National Shooting Sports Foundation at www.shotshow.org

Unbuilt Border Wall Worth Millions Could Now Be Sold for 'A Penny on the Dollar' as Scrap Metal

CHARLOTTE CUTHBERTSON

COCHISE COUNTY, Ariz.—Millions of dollars of unfinished border wall materials have lain in the deserts of Arizona since January 2021, after President Joe Biden halted all construction on the wall on the day he took office.

"It shall be the policy of my administration that no more American taxpayer dollars be diverted to construct a border wall," Biden's Jan. 20, 2021, executive order reads. "I am also directing a careful review of all resources appropriated or redirected to construct a southern border wall."

Construction companies downed tools and left job sites the next day, and stacks of materials have languished since. Now, they're looking to sell it all for scrap, according to the Cochise County Sheriff's Office (CCSO).

"They're probably going to get a penny on the dollar for it," CCSO Sgt. Tim Williams said.

The steel bollards on fence panels are filled with concrete. Concrete culverts are sitting abandoned, filling with mud, instead of being used for the flood-prone portions of the roadway next to the fence.

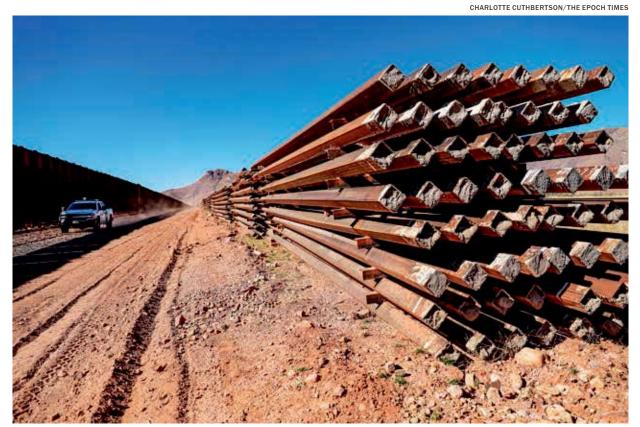

But the unfinished lighting, ground sensors, and cameras are one of the biggest issues according to Williams biggest issues, according to Williams. "Without the fiber optics and the lighting system, they'll just climb the fence and get over. It was supposed to be a four-tier approach," he said.

Border Patrol agents could be nearby, but without the cameras and sensors, they won't know that a breach is occurring. Under the cover of night, people on the Mexican side of the fence take to cutting a footer out, just wide enough for people to squeeze through. Each day, agents patch the holes and replace the concrete.

But with lighting and sensors it wouldn't happen, according to Williams.

"The big problem is that the fiber optics are in the ground already, and if they don't turn it on in the next two months, the fiber optics will go dormant and we won't get them back," he said. "So all those billions of dollars of fiber optics in the ground because there was only 24 months shelf life they can be dormant and we're at 22 months right now—we're talking about losing billions of dollars be-

Border wall panels sit untouched in Cochise County, Ariz., on Dec. 6, 2021, after President Joe Biden halted all border wall construction in January 2021.

A Customs and Border Protection official told The Epoch Times that he expects it to "take a while" to resolve what will happen with the unused border materials. On Dec. 4, 2021, the agency put out a request for comment "on proposed border barrier construction remediation actions," which expires on Feb. 3.

A report by Senate Republicans issued in July 2021 states that the construction stoppage is costing taxpayers $3 million per day.

The senators who produced the report estimated that the administration has spent between $618 million and $708 million to contractors between Jan. 20, 2021, and July 15, 2021, and will ultimately spend up to $1.2 billion more to exit the border wall projects.

Former President Donald Trump's administration prioritized border wall construction, building 453 miles of fencing along the U.S.–Mexico border. Approximately 211 miles of fencing were under construction as of Jan. 8, 2021, just before Biden took office.

Trump allocated roughly $16.4 billion to border wall construction and maintenance, with $10 billion coming from the Pentagon.

'It's Embarrassing'

Most of the 83-mile border that Cochise County shares with Mexico has some type of fencing, but the sections that were left unbuilt are vehicle barriers or barbed wire fencing, which is easy to cross.

"It's embarrassing," CCSO Detective Jake Kartchner said, referring to the waist-high barrier on Coronado Peak that was meant to be 30-foot tall steel fencing with all the accouterments of roading, lighting, cameras, and sensors.

The illegal aliens coming into Cochise County aren't turning themselves in to Border Patrol and seeking asylum. They're young, single males dressed head-to-toe in camouflage clothing and doing everything possible to avoid law enforcement.

They're mostly from Mexico or one of the Central American countries of Guatemala, Honduras, or El Salvador, according to Cochise County Sheriff Mark Dannels.

"The federal government isn't doing anything. So we're watching people commit crimes in our communities every day," Dannels said. "Two weeks ago, on just one night, there were 50 of these people running around the neighborhoods. I mean, we're out there all night chasing them. That's all you can do. Next morning, they're still out there chasing them. It's a bad deal. They're all camouflaged up."

Between Border Patrol and the sheriff's office, about 16,000 illegal aliens are detected in the county each month right now, a huge upswing that started in early 2021.

Once across the border, illegal aliens coordinate with the cartel to be picked up by a smuggler and transported to Phoenix, according to Dannels.

"It's like the cartel Uber. And there's no other way to put it. They just stage in public places all along the roadways waiting to get called up to go pick them up. It's crazy," he said.

Dannels said 80 to 90 percent of the drivers are armed, "which is totally new to us."

Border Patrol agents apprehended 353,000 illegal aliens coming into the state of Arizona in the first 11 months of 2021—a jump of 350 percent over the same period in 2020.

Legal Action

Arizona Attorney General Mark Brnovich filed an injunction in July 2021 in an attempt to void Biden's halt to border wall construction.

In April 2021, Brnovich filed a lawsuit against Department of Homeland Security (DHS) officials, alleging that the halt of border wall construction violated the National Environmental Policy Act, which requires federal agencies such as DHS to weigh environmental considerations before taking any significant federal action.

The Arizona Department of Environmental Quality "estimates that each border-crosser leaves an average of six to eight pounds of trash behind," according to the complaint.

Federal Government Mum on Non-COVID Mortality Spike in Americans Aged 18 to 49

PETR SVAB

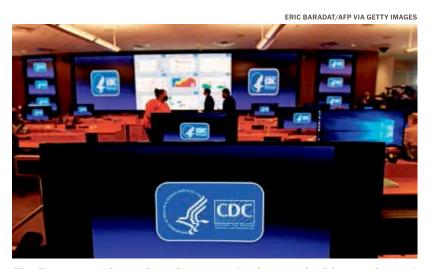

Federal authorities have yet to respond to an Epoch Times analysis that shows a dramatic increase in deaths of 18- to 49-year-olds in the United States in the past year. The majority of those deaths weren't associated with the COVID-19 disease.

Deaths in this age group rose more than 40 percent in the 12 months ending October 2021 compared to the same period in 2018–2019, before the COVID-19 pandemic, according to the analysis of death certificate data from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC).

About 42 percent of the excess deaths had COVID-19 marked on the death certificate as the cause or a contributing factor, the data showed. The agency doesn't yet have full 2021 figures, as death certificate data has a lag of up to eight weeks or more.

The Epoch Times repeatedly inquired with both the White House and the CDC about any steps they're taking to examine the issue. They have yet to respond.

Meanwhile, public health authorities in several states that recorded particularly sharp increases have told The Epoch Times that they're looking into the matter.

The highest increases occurred in Nevada (up 65 percent, of which 36 percent was attributed to COVID), Texas (up 61 percent, 58 percent attributed to COVID-19), Arizona (up 57 percent, 37 percent COVID-19), Tennessee (up 57 percent, 33 percent COVID-19), and California (up 55 percent, 42 percent COVID-19).

Texas, Florida, and Nevada indicated that they're taking some steps to evaluate the issue.

Officials in Arizona and Tennessee said they don't yet have their data finalized.

"When the 2021 data is finalized in the fall of 2022, we will have a better understanding of the data and a more detailed analysis," Sarah Tanksley, communications director for the Tennessee Department of Health, said via email

"However, we do know that fatal drug overdoses continue to increase. For example, fatal overdoses in 2020 were around 3,000 compared to approximately 2,000 in 2019. We also know that the suicide rate has remained relatively stable."

Drug overdoses could likely explain at least a part of the surge, as they increased to more than 101,000 in the 12 months ending June 2021 from about 72,000 in 2019, the CDC estimated. About two-thirds of those deaths involved synthetic opioids such as fentanyl that are often smuggled to the United States from China via Mexico.

The mortality surge appeared to be milder in the northeast. New Hampshire saw no increase, Massachusetts had a 13 percent spike (24 percent of it attributed to COVID-19), and New York was up 29 percent (30 percent attributed to COVID-19).

The CDC's detailed cause of death data isn't yet available for 2021, aside from those involving COVID-19, pneumonia, and influenza. There were close to 6,000 excess pneumonia deaths that didn't involve CO-VID-19 in the 18-to-49 age group in the 12 months ending October 2021. Influenza was only involved in 50 deaths in this age group, down from 550 in the same period pre-pandemic. The flu death count didn't exclude those that also involved COVID-19 or pneumonia, the CDC noted.

For those aged 50 to 84, mortality increased more than 27 percent, with about 77 percent of the deaths involving COVID-19.

For those 85 or older, mortality increased about 12 percent, with more than 100,000 excess deaths. There were more than 130,000 COVID-related deaths in this group, indicating these seniors were less likely to die of a non-COVID-related cause from November 2020 to October 2021 than during the same period of 2018–2019.

Comparing 2020 to 2019, mortality increased some 24 percent for those aged 18 to 49, with less than a third of those excess deaths involving COVID-19. In the 50-to-84 age group, mortality increased less than 20 percent, with over 70 percent of that involving COVID-19. In those older yet, mortality increased about 16 percent, with nearly 90 percent of it involving COVID-19.

For those under 18, mortality decreased about 0.4 percent in 2020 compared to 2019. In the 12 months ending October 2021, it fell some 3.3 percent compared to the same period in 2018–2019.

Pentagon Misses Deadline to Produce Report on Billions in Weapons Left Behind in Afghanistan

KEN SILVA

The Department of Defense (DOD) has missed a deadline to produce a report on the estimated $85 billion in U.S. weaponry left in Afghanistan, prompting a letter from 27 House Republicans demanding answers.

Congress approved legislation in September that required DOD officials to report on the property, equipment, and supplies that were destroyed, taken out of Afghanistan, or that remain in Afghanistan in connection with the August U.S. military withdrawal from the country.

This lack of information prevents Congress from being able to accurately and effectively conduct oversight over the tens of billions of dollars of equipment invested in Afghanistan over the past 20 years and creates vulnerabilities in our national security.

Group of House Republicans

The DOD had 90 days to submit that report to Congress. After the Dec. 29, 2021, deadline came and went with no word from the Pentagon, Rep. Andy Barr (R-Ky.) and 26 other Republicans demanded answers from Secretary of Defense Lloyd Austin.

"The DOD is over [two weeks] late on its reporting deadline, totally disregarding Congressional accounting of taxpayer funded equipment abandoned by this Administration and left in possession of the Taliban," the Jan. 14 letter reads. 20 years and creates vulnerabilities in our national security."

The lawmakers cited concerns from Gen. Mark Milley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, who told Congress on Sept. 29, 2021, that the conditions in Afghanistan could yield the reemergence of al-Qaeda or ISIS in the region in 36 months or less. The lawmakers said it's of the "gravest concern" that they don't have a full account of the weapons available in a potential hotbed for terrorism.

According to a Jan. 13 report from Radio Liberty affiliate Radio Mashaal in Pakistan, at least some of the arms are winding up in the hands of the Pakistani Taliban, Tehrik-e Taliban Pakistan (TTP). Citing an unnamed source with knowledge of TTP affairs, Radio Mashaal said Pakistani Taliban fighters have obtained U.S.-made M16 machine guns and M4 assault rifles fitted with night vision.

According to the report, the influx of arms has coincided with an increase in attacks by the TTP on Pakistani government forces.

"Observers say the weapons are likely from the stockpiles amassed by the Afghan Taliban, which seized millions of dollars in American-made weapons and equipment from Afghan security forces," the report stated.

Along with posing a risk to U.S. national security and regional stability in Central Asia, the abandoned U.S. military equipment in Afghanistan may also threaten the safety of America's Afghan allies. That's because the equipment left behind included U.S. surveillance tools that observers say could be used to track down those who worked with the United States during its 20-year occupation of the country.

New York-based group Human Rights First announced on Aug. 16 that Taliban fighters had captured devices known as Handheld Interagency Identity Detection Equipment, which were used by soldiers to scan the biometrics of Afghans to match fingerprints on improvised explosive devices, as well as for other such forensic investigations.

"We understand that the Taliban is now likely to have access to various biometric databases and equipment in Afghanistan, including some left behind by coalition military forces," the human rights group said in a statement. "This technology is likely to include access to a database with fingerprints and iris scans, and include facial recognition technology."

Former U.S. Army prosecutor John Maher told The Epoch Times in August that the Taliban probably doesn't have the technical skills to utilize those devices, but said they could be aided by more sophisticated governments, such as China or Iran.

The 2022 National Defense Authorization Act (NDAA), signed into law in December 2021, also calls for Pentagon audits on the equipment and weapons left in Afghanistan, including abandoned or destroyed biometric equipment or tools. The NDAA also calls for an assessment of whether the Taliban breached the DOD's Automatic Biometric Identification System (ABIS)—the central database that stores the biometrics that soldiers capture in the field—as well as an explanation of the current efforts to ensure the security of all of DOD biometric databases.

The DOD has until March to complete these reports, but the Republican lawmakers said in their letter that they shouldn't have to wait until then.

"That is why Congress required your Department to comply by December 29, 2021," they wrote to Austin. "We urge that you work with your Service Secretaries and General [Frank] McKenzie to produce the required information for Congress immediately."

The Pentagon didn't respond to email queries about the matter by press time.

Noncitizen Voting Push Is Part of Agenda to Rid America of Citizenship: Election Expert

CHARLOTTE CUTHBERTSON

The recent New York City law to allow at least 800,000 noncitizens to vote in municipal elections is unconstitutional and likely to be overturned in court, said Hans von Spakovsky, manager of the Heritage Foundation's election law reform initiative and former member of the Federal Election Commission.

"It's actually pretty clear that it violates the New York State Constitution—it has a provision that specifically says that you have to be a citizen to vote in all elections in the state of New York, and that includes local elections," Spakovsky told The Epoch Times on Jan. 19.

"I also think it is bad from a policy point of view, because it basically cheapens and diminishes the concept of citizenship.

"It ought to be something that makes American citizens mad, particularly because of the potential number of aliens that's involved."

New York City Mayor Eric Adams allowed the measure to become law on Jan. 9, which includes the provision that voting noncitizens must be in the city for 30 days or more and have authorization to work.

"I believe that New Yorkers should have a say in their government, which is why I have and will continue to support this important legislation," Adams said in a statement. "I believe allowing the legislation to be enacted is by far the best choice, and look forward to bringing millions more into the democratic process."

The following day, the Republican National Committee filed a suit in the New York Supreme Court along with City Council Minority Leader Joseph Borrelli, Rep. Nicole Malliotakis (R-N.Y.), and other Republicans.

The law applies to legal aliens, but Spakovsky said New York City's sanctuary policies that shield illegal aliens would open the floodgates.

"Does anybody really believe that the election department is going to investigate the lawful status of any alien who registers to vote?" he said.

"And so that means, of course, that lots and lots of illegal aliens will also get registered to vote."

Although he doesn't think any states will try to change their election laws to include voting rights for noncitizens, Spakovsky said there's a push from the progressive left to change the concept or definition of "citizen."

Poll workers help voters inside a polling location in Austin, Texas, Oct. 13, 2020.

"The whole point of the open borders crowd is to do two things: one, extinguish the line between legal and illegal aliens in this country. And second, to frankly, get rid of the whole concept of citizenship," he said.

New York City Councilwoman

Margaret Chin, a Democrat, told colleagues before the recent vote that many noncitizens struggle to become citizens but should still be able to vote in the meanwhile because they pay taxes and live and work in the city.

"They want to be citizens, they want to be able to vote for the president, but at least we have the opportunity to allow them to vote for the elected officials that are representing them in the city," said Chin.

However, Spakovsky said paying tax doesn't make someone a citizen.

"My response to that is that first of all, the vast majority of illegal aliens do not pay taxes. In fact, they get free rides from many jurisdictions," he said.

"This is being pushed by the progressive left today because they believe that aliens will vote for them ... and keep them in power."

Spakovsky said the inability for the Trump administration to get a question placed on the 2020 Census about citizenship status was a major win for the progressive left to blur the lines between citizen and noncitizen.

"One of the main reasons they wanted that done is for apportionment purposes, they did not want congressional seats apportioned based on citizen population—if they did, places like California would lose congressional seats," he said.

"That's why California probably has four or five more congressional seats than they should have, because of the huge population of illegal aliens in the state."

The Biden administration supports the creation of a citizenship pathway for millions of illegal immigrants in the United States. A decade-old estimate puts the number of illegal aliens at 11 million, and since then, millions more have crossed the southern border.

"I really should finish the whole prescription," I told myself as I reluctantly rolled out of bed.

Blinking bleary eyes, I staggered to the bathroom, filled a glass half full of tap water, tossed the tiny capsule into my mouth, and chugged it down. When I didn't feel the pill go all the way down, I drank another half glass of water to make sure, then went back to bed.

The next day I noticed my chest started burning every time I ate. Over the next couple of days, that burning intensified. sensation Eventually, every time I swallowed felt like a hot poker burning inside my chest.

My doctor immediately sent me to the nearest Emergency Department to ensure I didn't have a heart attack. They discovered that my last antibiotic capsule had not ended up in my stomach, after all. It had instead stuck to the lining of my esophagus, burning a hole in it.

With treatment, the burning gradually went away. However, ever since, I have trouble swallowing pills. I usually use a spoonful of peanut butter or a bite of a banana to help them "slide down" safely.

I'm not the only one who has trouble swallowing pills. Many people who struggle to take larger medicine tablets break them in half or crush them up first.

But not every pill should be cut or crushed. Some tablets have special coatings that protect them from dissolving in your stomach. These coatings shield you from medicines that can provoke stomach upset or burning. They are also used to protect destroyed by exposure to the acids in your stomach.

Other pills are specially designed to release their contents slowly, over 12 or 24 hours. Cutting them will release the entire dose of medicine immediately instead of gradually. This can cause low blood pressure, drowsiness, dizziness, or problems with balance.

Many tablets have a straight groove that runs entirely across one side of the tablet, called a score. If a tablet is scored, each half will always contain the same amount of medication when you split it along that line.

A scoreline makes it easier to break the tablet, whether you do it with your fingers, a knife, a one-edged razor blade, or, a pill-splitting device.

While some capsules contain only powder, others have tiny beads of medicine that can be sprinkled on food or divided up into several doses. You can divide the contents of capsules with less mess by twisting them apart, then dividing them into empty gelatin capsules.

The most commonly used gelatin capsule sizes are size 1, the length of a penny, and size 0, pronounced "ought," which is the length of a nickel. Online stores carry empty gelatin capsules, or your local community pharmacy could order them.

Here are 6 Tips on Cutting or Crushing Pills Safely: 1. Use the scoreline.

If you see an indented line dividing a tablet in half, cutting or breaking there gives the evenest dose.

2. Use up any unevenly tablets broken together.

Unless you can cut each one in half perfectly, you will have uneven halves. Taking several bigger or smaller halves in a row can cause a temporary increase or decrease in your medicine level. Cutting a small amount at a time and using each uneven half-close together "evens out" the differently sized doses.

3. Invest in a good quality pill cutter.

Good pill cutters are easier to use and minimize pills breaking unevenly or, worse, crumbling. Many have compartments to contain the pieces, so they don't fly off the counter.

4. Use a firm, quick cut, or snap.

the tablet to slip, creating

Going too slowly can cause an uneven split. Break oblong tablets by placing your thumbnails along each side of the scoreline, quickly pushing IN and DOWN.

5. Twist gelatin capsules open, don't cut them.

For less mess, twist capsule halves back and forth before slowly pulling them apart.

6. Ask your pharmacist.

If your medication costs the same, no matter the size of the tablet, cutting them in half should save you money. Your pharmacist can advise you if your pills or patches can be safely cut.
