County not seeing the influx of short-term rental applications it expected

SUBMITTED BY KIRSTEN RYLES, MANAGER, SHORT-TERM RENTAL DIVISION

WENATCHEE - Chelan County Community Development reminds existing owners of vacation rentals that time is slipping away for any pre-existing short-term rentals to apply to operate legally in the county.

The department opened up the application period for existing short-term rentals on Sept. 27. That application period ends Dec. 31. But as of Oct. 18, the county has received only 40 completed applications from existing operators.

However, the department estimates Chelan County has at least 1,300 businesses in the county operating as short-term rentals.

The county didn't want a rush of applications on Sept. 27; however, a few dozen applications at this point in the process is concerning, according to Kirsten Ryles, manager of Community Development's Short-Term Rental Division. "If people have questions about the process, give us a call. We are here to help."

In July, Chelan County commissioners passed a new code, Chapter 11.88.290, that establishes the operating standards of the county's short-term rental industry, which has seen rapid growth in most recent years.

Chelan County created an application process for existing short-term rentals to give current operators the opportunity to be grandfathered into the new code and not have to comply with certain requirements, such as density caps and lot size minimums that all new rentals will have to follow. That "grandfathered" rental permit process only runs through Dec. 31.

After Dec. 31, if a full application has not been handed into Community Development, short-term rental operators must apply as a new business, meaning they will be subject to any short-term rental caps and lot size and spacing restrictions established in several areas of Chelan County known to have high numbers of existing rentals.

"If you meet the requirements for an existing short-term rental in Chelan County, we encourage you to visit our website, download the application and forms, and get started on this process," Ryles said. "If operators put off the process, they may find themselves competing in the new year for limited opportunities with other new businesses."

For existing short-term rental applicants, a provisional permitting process is being used for the 2021 and 2022 permitting years because of the large volume of applications expected. Upon turning in their applications and paying their fees, applicants are issued a provisional permit, giving Community Development time to review the application and determine if a final permit will be issued, or if an issue needs to be corrected prior to issuance of the final permit. Operating a short-term rental without a valid permit after the cut-off date carries a $750 a day penalty, which may increase to $1,500 a day for repeat violations.

The application period for new short-term rentals opens Dec. 1 and runs through July 29, 2022.

Visit Community Development's Short-Term Rental page for more information: <https://www.co.chelan.wa.us/community-development/pages/short-term-rentals>

New flag disposal box

Earlier this year, Manson American Legion member, Dana Starkweather suggested the American Legion Post #108 renew the flag deposit box at the Chelan Transfer Station as the old one was falling apart. He worked with local craftsman, Jeff Stoelk in designing and building the new flag deposit box. The flag box is located inside the transfer station, by their trailer. Flags may be dropped off during regular operating hours, Tuesday-Saturday 10 a.m.- 4 p.m., 23235 State Highway 97A. All flags collected will be burned on Flag Day, June 14, 2022 with proper ceremony.

Booster doses now available for all three COVID-19 vaccine types for certain individuals

SUBMITTED BY WASHINGTON STATE DEPT. OF HEALTH

OLYMPIA - The Washington State Department of Health (DOH) is expanding the use of COVID-19 vaccine booster doses for certain individuals following recommendations from the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA), the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention's (CDC) Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices, and the Western States Scientific Safety Review Workgroup.

Last month, health care providers began offering booster doses of the Pfizer-BioNTech (Pfizer) vaccine to certain individuals. Since then, more than 345,000 additional doses (which is a combination of booster and third doses) have been given out across the state. Now, providers can also offer booster doses of the Moderna and Johnson & Johnson (J&J) vaccines to those who are eligible.

At least six months after completing the primary Pfizer or Moderna vaccine series, the following groups of people are eligible for a booster dose:

- Those 65 and older,
- Those 18 - 64 who live in long-term care settings,
- Those 18 - 64 who have underlying medical conditions or those at increased risk of social inequities, and
- Those 18 - 64 who work or live in high-risk settings.

At least two months after receiving the single-dose J&J vaccine, it is recommended that everyone 18 and older receive a booster dose. Pfizer and J&J's boosters are both full doses, while Moderna's booster is a half dose.

"Vaccination continues to be the safest and most effective tool we have to prevent serious illness, hospitalization, and death from COVID-19. Getting the unvaccinated their first shots remains a priority," said Secretary of Health Umair A. Shah, MD, MPH. "A booster dose will further protect fully vaccinated individuals by increasing the vaccine's effectiveness in their bodies, which otherwise may wane over time."

According to the FDA and CDC, studies found "mixing and matching" boosters is safe and effective. This means your booster shot does not have to be the same COVID-19 vaccine type your primary vaccination was. For example, someone who received the J&J vaccine can receive a booster dose of J&J, Pfizer, or Moderna. Likewise, someone who received two doses of an mRNA vaccine (Moderna or Pfizer) can receive a Moderna, Pfizer, or J&J booster.

COVID-19 vaccines are proven to be safe and effective and are recommended for everyone 12 and older. Currently, there is plenty of vaccine available across the state for everyone who needs a dose. To find a vaccine near you, visit Vaccine Locator: <https://vaccine-locator.doh.wa.gov/> or call the COVID-19 Information Hotline at 833-VAX-HELP. Language assistance is available.

Gambrielle announces retirement as executive director of Chelan Valley Hope

SUBMITTED BY MICHAEL GIBB, PRESIDENT, BOARD OF DIRECTOR, CHELAN VALLEY HOPE

Jean Gambrielle

CHELAN - Jean Gambrielle will retire December 31 as Executive Director after successfully serving in this role for Chelan Valley Hope (CVH) over the past two years. After a career of more than 30 years in healthcare operations and other executive roles, she will retire in Chelan and enjoy a new season that brings time with family, friends, and travel. The CVH Board of Directors have begun recruitment for Jean's successor. Qualified candidate referrals can be emailed to Michael Gibb, Board President, at michael@chelanvalleyhope.org or mailed to PO Box 2890, Chelan, WA. 98816

CVH is a thriving social services agency (founded 13 years ago), providing a broad menu of client assistance from emergency shelter to rent assistance to food and fuel vouchers.

Chelan Valley Hope will continue to be viable well into the future through the strong leadership of Jean, her successor, and the Board of Directors. Jean is fully vested in the continued success of CVH and will be staying on through year end to assure there is a seamless transition. Gibb said, "Jean's leadership has strengthened the foundational areas of operations, grants, client programs, volunteerism, technology, donor management, social media, and more. As a result of Jean's dedication and hard work, and the commitment of our staff and wonderful volunteers, the next Executive Director will be in a great position to take this organization even further".

Chelan Valley Hope seeks new board members

CHELAN - Are you looking to give back to this wonderful community of the Chelan Valley? Do you have a heart for serving others and the time and passion to invest in Chelan and surrounding communities? Chelan Valley Hope is looking for new volunteer board members.

We are searching for candidates with a background in any of these areas; service to others, law, grant writing, leadership, non-profit experience, strategic planning, marketing, health-care or a mental health background, social services, recording secretary, facilities management, personnel, English-Spanish bilingual, business management, or social media management.

The board meets virtually by Zoom in the afternoon on the 2nd Thursday of each month for 1 1/2 hours. If you have interest in being considered for a board director position, call me with questions and please send an email including a short resume to Michael Gibb at michael@chelanvalleyhope.org. Please visit our website at chelanvalleyhope.org

Flu vaccine offers best defense for people, healthcare system this season

SUBMITTED BY WASHINGTON STATE DEPT. OF HEALTH

OLYMPIA - The Washington State Department of Health is urging the public to get a flu vaccine this year to keep themselves and others safe and out of the hospital.

Flu activity may be more common this year compared to last year because the closures that were in place to prevent the spread of COVID-19 have been lifted. People are more active and mobile. Many adults have returned to in-person work and most children are back in school.

"Preventing the spread of flu will be critical in the months to come because it will reduce additional strain on our hospitals, which are currently extremely stressed due to COVID-19," said Dr. Tao Sheng Kwan-Gett, Chief Science Officer for the Washington State Department of Health. "If you haven't received your flu vaccine yet, now is the perfect time. It will help protect you, your family and friends, and your community as we get back to doing the things we love."

"Preventing the spread of flu will be critical in the months to come because it will reduce additional strain on our hospitals, which are currently extremely stressed due to COVID-19."

-Dr. Tao Sheng Kwan-Gett, Chief Science Officer, Washington State Department of Health.

Everyone six months of age and older should get an annual flu vaccine. Young children, pregnant people, those with underlying health conditions, and people aged 65 and older are at high risk for flu-related complications. The flu is a highly contagious disease that can cause mild to severe illness, and lead to hospitalization and death - even in healthy, young people. Getting a flu vaccine reduces your chance of getting the flu, and it can be safely given at the same time as a COVID-19 vaccine.

Flu illness is more dangerous than the common cold for children. Each year, millions of children get sick with seasonal flu, thousands are hospitalized, and some children die from flu. Across Washington, the flu vaccine, and all recommended childhood vaccines, are available at no cost for children from birth through age 18.

For weekly flu activity reports, educational materials, vaccine information, and other flu prevention resources, visit www.KnockOutFlu.org.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Chelan Voters:

We want to give a "shout out" for school board candidate, Barb Polley. We know her both personally and professionally. You could not have a better participant on the school board. She is an advocate for all students, wanting the best educational possible for each and every one. Her many years of teaching students whose English is their second language makes her an advocate for the Spanish speaking community. We honestly believe that she is one of the reasons our Hispanic students have succeeded so well in our town.

Barb was appointed to her present position on the school board last May when she applied to finish the term of another member. She already has experience under her belt and knows the issues the board is facing.

Please, for the sake of our students and our community, vote for Barb Polley.

Opposes spring black bear hunting season

I want to bring to your attention the upcoming spring season of black bear hunting. The Washington Fish and Wildlife Commission will be voting in November whether to hold a spring black bear hunting season in 2022.

This is a very cruel act as it leaves cubs to die from starvation, predation, or exposure to the elements due after female black bears are killed. During this time, black bears are emerging from hibernation and do not have the strength or the means to outrun hunters. Hunters are taking advantage of the vulnerability and malnourishment of these amazing animals. It is not a fair fight in any way and black bears do not have the ability to defend themselves under these circumstances.

During Washington's 2021 spring bear hunt a total of 124 bears were killed. This means that an undetermined number of cubs were left to fend for themselves. There is no necessity for this black bear trophy hunting as it does not aid in reducing the amount of human-bear conflicts.

To oppose the 2022 spring

black bear trophy hunt season email the Washington commission at 2022Springbear@PublicInput.com and ask that this hunt season not be passed.

Public asked to report sightings of tree-of-heaven, spotted lanternfly

SUBMITTED BY JULIE SANDERSON, CHELAN COUNTY NOXIOUS WEED CONTROL BOARD

NCW - State officials are seeking help from the public in mapping locations of an invasive plant called tree-of-heaven throughout October in hopes of stopping the introduction of the invasive insect, the spotted lanternfly. The spotted lantern fly uses tree of heaven to complete its lifecycle and has the potential to be a devastating agricultural pest when it arrives in Washington.

The Washington Invasive Species Council, Washington State Department of Agriculture (WSDA), Washington

State Noxious Weed Control Board and other agencies are asking the public to report sightings of tree-of-heaven and spotted lanternfly via the Washington Invasives mobile app or the Washington Invasive Species Council's online reporting site: <https://invasivespecies.wa.gov/report-a-sighting/>

To report a tree of heaven location, go to <https://invasivespecies.wa.gov/> and click on the Report A Sighting button to submit your information.

OBITUARIES

Daniel Charles Miller

January 29, 1937-
September 18, 2021

Daniel Charles Miller became a statistic at age 18. He was one of the last acute cases of Polio in the State of Washington. That was July 1955, the Salk Vaccine reached the small town of Pateros a week too late. Polio delayed Dan's dreams and goals of going to college, becoming a PE teacher, a pilot, a better golfer, playing a guitar, marrying the perfect girl and raising a family.

Dan was born in Bridgeport, Washington on January 29, 1937 to Herb and Bodel (Tanneberg) Miller. His soul left his body on Saturday, September 18, 2021, in La Conner, Washington. He is now in Heaven, running, jumping, and clapping his hands with Jesus. He has a new body and no more pain! Dan's early years were spent on his parent's wheat and cattle ranch near Mansfield. He attended school at Bridgeport, then Mansfield until 1953 when the family moved to Pateros. He graduated from Pateros High School in 1955. Dan was set to attend Eastern Washington University that fall, but the Polio virus had left his legs 80% paralyzed, his right arm 100% paralyzed, and his left arm almost useless. So instead of college, he entered Physical Therapy 101 and Rehab 102 at the old Deaconess Hospital in Wenatchee.

Dan never gave up on his goals and dreams. In his words, "inch by inch, muscle by muscle, day by day, I will work my way back". Dan entered college a year later. He continued Physical Therapy while in college. 1956 was long before any federal laws mandated public facilities be accessible to handicapped people. He could barely walk with a crutch, let alone navigate stairs to most of the classrooms. His weak left arm could not pull him up a stairway by the hand-rails. Soon word got around campus, and by some "miracle", a group of college athletes became Dan's human elevator throughout his college days. His love of music and playing a guitar came true in college. Dan and his friends formed a band called "The Stompers". They played throughout the area and around NCW. He also met that perfect girl in college and they were married in July 1959 in Pateros.

Dan graduated from Eastern in 1960 with a degree in Education and a major in PE. He taught school in Spokane and Coulee Dam. He received a Master's degree in PE from EWU in 1965. They moved to Bellingham, where Dan was hired as a PE Specialist to teach teachers new and innovative PE activities in the Bellingham School District. In 1968, the family moved to Prosser where again Dan was a PE Specialist and then a principal. In 1984, Dan was hired to be the principal at Osborn Elementary School in Leavenworth, Washington. While there, he received two Washington Distinguished Principal awards and the Excellence in Education Award from the governor. Osborn Elementary was also featured on the Seattle TV program called Evening Magazine highlighting many of Dan's fun and unique styles of leadership. During these years, Dan was also an adjunct professor for Central Washington University. He taught many classroom teachers throughout NCW his ideas for teaching PE that included all children, not just the skilled and athletic ones. In 1992 Dan left Education to become a public speaker for the next 22 years. Encouraged by his friend and former doctor, Ed Cadman of Wenatchee, Dan started telling his story of life with polio to groups all over the country. In the first six years, he ended up speaking to more than 250,000 people in 25 different states. Last count he had spoken to over 750,000 people all over this country. Thousands more have heard his story on Focus on the Family radio program. He was a guest speaker on the TV program Hour of Power. Most of Dan's dreams and goals came true. He became a very good one arm golfer and even had a hole in one at the Village Green Golf Course in Port Orchard, Washington. He became a licensed pilot, flying from the co-pilot's side, flew 900 hours pilot in command. Dan played guitar and sang gigs with his friend Perry Buster. He played and sang with the Country Gospel singers 'The Gaither's' on one of their TV programs. When speaking, audiences would hear him laugh at himself telling stories about all the things he would try and fail at. He would just say "Well, that didn't work, or let's try it a different way" or "let's see what you can do." He would laugh & tell how people would react when his legs would suddenly give out and he would fall. His sense of humor was contagious. Dan wrote his life story in a book called "Living, Laughing, and Loving Life". It has sold over 70,000 copies and is still available on Amazon. It gives encouragement and laughter to those who may not have a perfect body or are afraid to take a chance and go for their dreams. He encouraged people to be dream makers for others, and to pursue

Richard (Rick) Hendrick

November 12, 1942 –
December 6, 2020

Richard (Rick) Hendrick, 78, of Brewster, passed away on Dec. 6, 2020 after a short battle with declining health. He was born in Guilford, New York. After graduating from high school in 1961 he and his buddy, George, enlisted in the Marines. Richard was deployed to Viet Nam after attending radio school in Camp LaJune, North Carolina. He served two years of duty, earning the Purple Heart, Bronze Star, Rifle Expert and Pistol

Sharpshooter badges.

He spent the next 10 years employed in several different jobs, both back East and in Washington State including: tree pruner, roofer, seasonal orchard worker, bartender and park ranger. After years of bus trips to Washington State, and then back East he decided to stay out West and settled in the Brewster area. In July, 2000 he purchased three acres on Valley Road where he planted trees and shrubs to make an attractive place for birds and other wildlife. He took lots of photos of wildlife at his place and when out birding. He also became a beekeeper.

His favorite pastime was bird watching and learning their scientific names, which he used in his monthly and daily journals. This interest led him to volunteering for the Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife, particularly in Douglas County. He built, installed and maintained boxes for Wood Ducks and Kestrels in a large area. During the winter months he also kept many bird feeding stations well stocked. For these efforts the Department awarded him their Volunteer of the Year Award in 2006. Richard had a banding permit and banded hundreds of baby Kestrels from the boxes he maintained. He also banded small owls that sometimes used the boxes, as well as other hawks and owls when he found their nests.

Richard's interest in birds also played a part in him becoming involved with the beginning of the Chelan Ridge Raptor Migration Project, where he was one of the first official counters. In 1997 he helped the original observer, Dan Rossman build the baseline for all future counts. He spent hundreds of hours in subsequent years watching the raptors head South. He found many ways each year to contribute, as stated in the 2009 Hawk Watch International report, where he was named as their Volunteer of the Year. Reasons they gave for this honor included that "he spends at least 40 hours of his own time before the project starts clearing trails, mowing trapping sets, and even getting large rocks out of the road. He brings food to the crew from his garden and honey from his bees. Capturing sparrows for use as lure birds is another of his numerous contributions."

Each year in the fall Rick liked to drive back East, stopping at several hawk watch sites on the way to spend time at his favorite spot, Franklin Mountain near Oneonta, New York. He timed those trips so he'd be back in Washington for the Marine Corps birthday, as he provided a specially decorated cake for all local veterans to share that day.

Audubon Christmas Bird counts were something he participated in for at least 30 years. He helped establish the Bridgeport count, and attended counts in Wenatchee, Chelan, Grand Coulee and Twisp. Richard will be missed by many birders in Washington State as well as in his home state, New York.

Richard was preceded in death by his parents, and brother Lloyd. He is survived by a brother, David and his wife, Phoebe of Otego, New York. Richard's ashes were taken to the Bundy Cemetery near Oneonta, New York where he was laid to rest by his mother and brother on Oct. 2, 2021. A Celebration of his Life is planned for Thursday, Nov. 12, to be held outdoors at the Department of Wildlife office at 54 Moe Road on Bridgeport Bar. Lunch will be served, including cake and ice cream. Please come to share stories and hear about his last trip East. It is suggested that you bring your own chair and binoculars for possible birding.

CHELAN HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS SOCCER

Trinada Caro/LCM

The Chelan Lady Goats hosted the Cashmere Lady Bulldogs on Oct. 21 at Mountain Goat Field. Final score was 2-0.

SUBMITTED BY COACH AMARIS LONGMIRE, CHELAN HIGH SCHOOL SOCCER

Thursday (Oct.21). The JV will game followed.

JV action:
The Goats JV team took on the Pioneers in a shortened half and were able to come out with the 3-0 victory. Scoring for the Goats was freshman Melissa Anaya, freshman Oliva Nelson and junior Kyleigh Kiefer. The Goats were only able to get in 30 minutes of one half as the sun had set and lights were not available.

Vs. Omak Pioneers,

OMAK - This evening (Oct. 19) the Goats traveled to Omak to take on the Pioneers. This was the two team's second meeting in the last round of conference play. It wasn't long into the game that the Goats were putting pressure on the Pioneers. With multiple opportunities off of corner kicks the Goats were able to capitalize on a left footed service from Junior Kenia Sanchez across the box, where Junior Arden Paglia finished the ball into the back of the net.

The Goats continued to put pressure on the Pioneers and were able to score twice more. First in the 21st minute with a ball sent from Sophomore Jailyn Reinhart to Senior Yennifer Sanchez who slid the ball past the keeper to give the Goats the 2-0 lead. To finish off the first half Arden Paglia found Junior Irene Hernandez who added to their lead.

"At half we knew we were going to have to continue to work hard and keep control of the ball," stated head coach, Amaris Longmire. In the 51st minute Reinhart dribbled the ball down the left side of the field and sent the ball across the goal. The cross ended up in the side net giving the Goats another goal. In the 70th minute Paglia assisted Hernandez with the Goats 5th goal and again in the 73rd minute Paglia assisted Sanchez with the final goal for the Goats.

The Pioneers were able to sneak two goals. The final for the game was 6-2. The Lady Goats hosted number 1 in the CTL, Cashmere Bulldogs on

Vs. Cashmere Bulldogs

CHELAN - Today (Oct. 21) was the Goat's final home league match at Mountain Goat Field. The starting lineup for the Goats featured each player walking out with an elementary aged, future high school Goat as the introductions took place. All of the young, female athletes received a signed mini soccer ball as a game souvenir.

The Goats hosted the Cashmere Bulldogs for the second time this season and knew they were going to have to work through every play. The Bulldogs are one of the top-rated teams in the 1A girl's soccer division. They have played many other ranked teams and dominated. In the last meeting against the Bulldog's they fell 9-1. Today's match was a different story.

The Goats prepared well for what was to come and made adjustments and watched game film based on their last meeting. Knowing the Bulldogs are a solid team all around the Goats adjusted their attack on them. The Goats were able to play a very physical game against the Bulldogs and hold them to two goals on the match.

The first Bulldog goal came 4 minutes into the match off of a rebound from a penalty kick that Senior goal keeper Aliyah Finch blocked and Carly Diaz cleaned up. The Bulldog second goal was produced off of combination play.

At half the Goats were only down 1-0 which was a major turn-around from the last match being down 6-0. The Goats discussed what they would need to do to hold their attack. They knew they were going to need to keep taking the ball to the end line as they already had a near goal off of a corner kick.

Overall, the Goats played a hard-fought match and were able to control aspects of the game. "As a coach I am very proud of the work these ladies have put in over the past few weeks to overcome our previous match against the Bulldogs," explained Head Coach Amaris Longmire.

This week the Goats travel to Quincy for their final CTL match. The final game will determine if they are in 2nd place in CTL play. With a 2nd place finish the Goats would meet the Bulldogs again at a neutral site at the Apple Bowl in Wenatchee for the district title. The winner will move onto regionals and the loser will host the #3 seed.

JV Action:
The JV was able to get in a shortened match against the Bulldogs as well. Immediately following the varsity match the JV took the field in a back-and-forth battle. It wasn't until the 2nd half when the Bulldogs were able to sneak one past and gain the 1-0 lead. The Goats JV is looking to have one more match on the season in a second round match against Omak.

CHELAN HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL

SUBMITTED BY TRAVIS DOMSER, CHELAN HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL COACH

QUINCY - The Goats traveled to Quincy, earned a big win (33-7) and clinched a guaranteed crossover game to state. Our players had winning attitudes, played with great effort and we were a lot more fundamentally sound this week. Defense stepped up and forced 2 turnovers and was 3-3 stopping Quincy on 4th down. Offensively we ran the ball well and we threw the ball all over the field. This team has handled a lot of adversity and have put themselves in a position to play into state. Everyone is excited for Cashmere week with a home cross over and possible league title on the line. Big Friday night game at Sargent field.

Individual Highlights
Reed Stamps - 13 - 25 260 yards and 3 td passes 1 rushing td 7 different WR's caught passes
Charlie Bordner 3 receptions 75 yards receiving Ethan Kehl - 106 yards rushing 2 TD's
Ethan Strandberg - Interception
Austin McCardle - Interception
Alonso Benegas - 2 QB sacks

Play-Off Scenarios
1.Chelan win over Cashmere

- a. If Omak beats Cascade, Chelan would be #2 seed in CTL.
- b. If Cascade beats Omak, Chelan would be tied with Omak and Cascade for conference title, but Chelan would be #3 seed for play-offs due to number draw.
- 2. Chelan loss to Cashmere
  - a. If Omak beats Cascade, then Chelan, Cascade, and Cashmere would all be tied at 2-2 for #2-#4 seed, and also all 1-1 in head-to-head against each other. In that case, it goes to a number draw, of which Chelan would be the 2nd of the 3 teams, giving the Goats a #3 seed in CTL.
  - b. If Cascade beat Omak, then Cascade would secure the CTL #2 seed. Chelan and Cashmere would be tied for the #3 seed, but Cashmere would win the tie-breaker for head to head. Goats would be the CTL #4 seed.

Chelan High School Varsity / Junior Varsity Football Team

CHELAN - Who will win 'The Shoe' trophy? That was the headline over the this photo taken of page from the November 4, 1954 of the Chelan Valley Mirror (now the Lake Chelan Mirror). Chelan won in 1954, beating the Cashmere Bulldogs, 39-0. Chelan High School football fans will have to come out this Friday, Oct. 29 to Sargent Field at 7 p.m. to find out who will keep The Shoe, for the next year.

Coach Travis Domser leads the Chelan High Football team in his 9th season of coaching at Chelan High School and has a combined total of 25 years coaching. With six defensive, five offensive and no new players returning this year the team is well rounded in talent. Supporting Coach Domser are assistant coaches Robin Weathersby, Derek Todd, Christopher Alexander, Quinn Courtney, Rob Rainville, Terry Sanders, Dave Huewe and Jerry Lopez.

Shoe History

Bill Lippincott, a former Cashmere High School football coach, was the one who originally started up the hype about the coveted Bronze Shoe trophy.

Lippincott coached Cashmere into a winning team beginning in 1949. The Bronze Shoe trophy was molded from Lippincott's old football shoe.

Lippincott moved to Chelan in 1953 and began coaching the Chelan Goats into a winning team. That is when the rivalry between the two teams officially began.

Now, the two teams compete each year to see who will be the champions and take home the ultimate prize of the Bronze Shoe.

Pay-to-Move Programs Revitalize Small Towns

JACKSON ELLIOTT

Small cities and rural areas have discovered they can trade dollars for citizens to revitalize their economies.

Dozens of American towns facing population loss now offer up to $15,000 to those who move there and stay for one year. Most offer around $10,000.

In a world where many people work remotely, this inducement—plus lower taxes, wider spaces, and other local amenities—gives small towns a large advantage in attracting people, said Bob Ross, the spokesman for Choose Topeka Initiative in Topeka, Kansas.

“The economic impact far exceeds the $10,000,” said Ross. “If you really think about it, $10,000 isn’t a huge amount when you consider the fact that you’re coming here to purchase a home.”

The Topeka initiative pays people up to $15,000 to move to the city—nearly a fourth of the area’s average salary. The city chose this number because it was the estimated cost of moving from the coast to Topeka, said Ross.

Half the money comes from local employer-signing bonuses, and the city provides the rest, he said.

Despite the outlay, the city makes its money back and more after just one year, said Ross.

“There is a dollar impact,” he said. “They’re bringing partners with them which often have jobs as well. They’re buying homes and they’re shopping at businesses.”

When a person moves to an area, they bring much more than their tax dollars, Ross said. They add their own personal contributions to local community.

“What I’ve enjoyed about the 54 people that have moved here is almost to a person, they’re very adventurous,” Ross said. “They’re very eager to become a part of a place. They’re choosing a smaller city because they want to make an impact there.”

Since its start in 2019, Topeka’s paid-move program has brought in an estimated 200 people, he said.

For decades, towns have attempted to attract businesses to get people, said Ross. Now, paying people directly cuts out the middleman.

“Do you really need an Amazon headquarters? Or do you just need 50 to 100 of those Amazon workers able to enter the community?” he asked. “That’s the real value that comes out of those businesses coming into your community.”

Population Maintenance

Like many rural places in America, Topeka’s population has been declining. In the past decade, the dropped by 1 per cent in the county.

A crowd of people at a food truck festival in Topeka, Kansas.

Experts argue over which factors bear the most responsibility for this demographic change, but the results are indisputable. Towns disappear, local tax bases strain, and communities die. A shrinking town is a dying town.

Although Ross said the program was started as a talent-attraction move, statistics suggest that it may balance out the town’s population decline. If it continues to succeed at the same rate, the city will nearly match its population departure rate.

“We’ve been working so aggressively over the last decade to revitalize our city and to really transform it,” he said.

For other cities, paid-move programs have the primary goal of attracting population. In the 15,000-person town of Newton, Iowa, the local government currently pays people $10,000 to build new houses.

After the 2008 housing crisis, Newton struggled to add housing, said Bruce Showalter, the town’s housing director.

“In 2011, we had zero starts and zero housing permits taken out,” said Showalter.

The town then hired a consulting company, he said. After a study, the company announced Newton was dying. In response, civic leaders came up with a plan to revive it.

Newton would pay $10,000 to anyone who bought a newly constructed home in the area. With this initiative the city could fix both its housing and people shortage.

“The two reasons were to build and maintain our population and to increase our tax base,” said Showalter.

Since the beginning of the program in 2014, the city has assisted in the building of 100 new houses.

Paying the incentive for these houses cost Newton $1 million. To raise the funds the city sold bonds, said Showalter.

Bob Ross, spokesman, Choose Topeka Initiative

Tax growth from the increased population is enough to pay out the bonds, he said.

“It’s paying itself back pretty much and with the population growth, the city council is very happy.”

Chris Giesen, the economic development authority coordinator for a similar program in Harmony, Minnesota, said he was also confident his program could quickly pay for itself.

“If you have a $255,000 house, the city will collect about $12,000 in five years,” he said. “So it’s a way of foregoing those dollars for a little bit of time.”

Pandemic Plus Sides

In some ways, the COVID-19 pandemic has gifted paid-move programs with a golden opportunity, said Showalter.

“You can live anywhere and still do your job remotely,” he said.

Statistics bear his observation out. Many urban people have moved into rural areas during COVID-19.

Maine has seen a surge of applicants to its paid-move program during the pandemic, said Katie Shorey, the engagement director of Live and Work in Maine. Many urban people move to rural Maine because they want to be outdoors.

“If you were in a city during COVID, you were like, ‘Oh my God, I am confined in these walls and in these streets,’” she said. “I was able to get outside and snowshoe and walk in the woods.”

From its start in 2008, the Live and Work in Maine program has grown exponentially. In 2019, 14,751 people moved to Maine through the program, according to a graph provided by Maine Revenue Services.

Students who move to Maine get some student loan payments reimbursed by the state using tax credits. In 2019, Maine reimbursed $30 million in student loans.

But the main point Shorey emphasizes about Maine are the benefits of rural life. Free college payment may attract people, but hiking, enjoying the fall colors, and friendly neighbors keep them.

In return for these economic and personal benefits, Maine receives a stream of talented young people.

“Historically, we’ve had a big brain-drain problem and a lot of young people leave the state,” Shorey said. “So if this program can either entice them to stay after going to school, or help attract younger people here, that is a huge value add for us.”

Doctor Sam Stanfield, a Live and Work in Maine participant, said that she and her husband moved to the state for school, but chose to stay because of the student loan payment offer.

Because Stanfield works in Maine at a rural hospital, her monthly loan payments are now only $500 a month. In other places, she would have to pay over $2,500 a month, she said.

“We thought we would move to Maine for me to attend school and then relocate to be closer to our families,” she said. “But this was definitely a great reason for us to stay in Maine.”

Stanfield said she loved both Maine’s community and its natural beauty. She also said she appreciates the simplicity of loan reimbursements.

“Maine has made it super easy,” she said. “You can literally go onto the website, fill out the form, and show proof of graduation and you qualify.”

Pentagon: No Plans to Suspend COVID-19 Vaccine Mandate

ZACHARY STIEBER

The Department of Defense doesn’t plan to suspend its COVID-19 vaccine mandate, which is compelling a large portion of the U.S. military to receive a vaccine.

Republicans say the mandate raises serious questions on readiness and morale, with concerns that discharging unvaccinated troops will cripple the armed forces.

“This haphazardly implemented and politically motivated vaccine mandate must be immediately suspended or risk irrevocable damage to our national security,” Sen. Jim Inhofe (R-Okla.), the ranking Republican member on the Senate Armed Services Committee, wrote in an Oct. 18 letter to Defense Secretary Lloyd Austin.

In an emailed statement to The Epoch Times, Pentagon spokesman John Kirby said the department is aware of Inhofe’s letter and concerns and “will reply to them appropriately.”

A U.S. Air Force sergeant receives a dose of the Moderna COVID-19 vaccine at Osan Air Base in Pyeongtaek, South Korea, on Dec. 29, 2020.

“That said, Secretary Austin remains convinced that our vaccination regimen—which has helped us achieve a fully vaccinated rate of nearly 85 percent in the active component and more than 66 percent across the active, guard, and reserve components—is, in fact, one of the surest ways to bolster our readiness for the challenges we face around the world,” Kirby said.

“He remains comfortable with the service-appropriate ways in which each military department is pursuing their mandatory vaccination program. A vaccinated force is a protected force, better able to deploy and to defend our interests around the world.”

According to the most recent statistics released by the Pentagon, hundreds of thousands of service members remain unvaccinated just weeks before the mandate deadlines start arriving.

Some have filed for religious or medical exemptions, but few of those applications have been acted upon, lawyers say. Branch spokespersons either declined to say whether any exemptions have yet been approved or rejected, declined to comment, or didn’t respond to requests for comment by press time.

The first deadline is Nov. 2 for active-duty Air Force personnel, though Coast Guard members are being told to get vaccinated “immediately, as soon as operations allow,” a spokesperson said.

This haphazardly implemented and politically motivated vaccine mandate must be immediately suspended or risk irrevocable damage to our national security.

Sen. Jim Inhofe

The Pentagon faces multiple lawsuits over the mandates, including a class-action suit filed in federal court in Florida on Oct. 15.

Garland Tells Lawmakers He Missed Leftist Demonstrators' Attack on Interior Department

MARK TAPSCOTT

Attorney General Merrick Garland was caught flat-footed during a House Judiciary Committee hearing when Rep. Greg Steube (R-Fla.) held up two large photographs, one showing Jan. 6 demonstrators breaking into the Capitol and the other of demonstrators assaulting the Department of Interior on Oct. 14.

When the Florida congressman asked Garland if the October event was an example of "domestic terrorism," the attorney general demurred in his response.

"I'm not going to be able to reference that specific incident since this is the first I know of it," he said.

Steube was referring to Oct. 14 protesters from an extreme left-wing environmental activist group, People vs. Fossil Fuels, which had organized five days of protests at the Interior headquarters building in Washington. They were seeking to force President Joe Biden to stop approving fossil fuel energy projects.

As happened with the Jan. 6 breach of the Capitol, the October protestors forced their way into the building, and multiple federal security and law enforcement personnel were injured in the resulting confrontation, including some who required hospitalization. Fifty-five of the protestors were arrested.

"They forced their way into the Department of the Interior. They fought with security and police officers, sending some of those officers to the hospital. The extremists violently pushed their way into a restricted government building in an attempt to thwart the work of the department,"

Attorney General Merrick Garland testifies at a House Judiciary Committee hearing in Washington on Oct. 21, 2021.

Steube told Garland.

"Police arrested at least 55 protestors on sight, but others got away. Mr. Garland, do you believe these environmental extremists who forced their way into Interior are also domestic terrorists?" Steube asked.

Steube was surprised to learn that Garland hadn't heard about the incident prior to his question.

"This is the first you've heard about demonstrators who forced their way into a federal government building right here in D.C.?" Steube asked. "You didn't hear about this at all?"

Garland appeared to be visibly irritated by the question.

"Just because I don't know about

I'm not going to be able to reference that specific incident since this is the first I know of it.

Attorney General Merrick Garland

this particular example, it doesn't mean the Justice Department doesn't know about it," he said.

"At the Justice Department, we don't care if the violence comes from the left or the right, or the middle, or from Up or from Down. We will prosecute violations of the law according to the statutes and facts we have."

Noting that "we're mostly all lawyers here," Steube then held up the two large photographs, each showing multiple demonstrators forcing their way into government buildings.

"So looking at these pictures, and I know you say you are not aware of this one, it blows my mind that you aren't aware of violent extremists forcing their way into a federal building right here in Washington," Steube said.

"You see in both of these pictures people forcing their way into federal buildings. Would you call both of these acts domestic terrorism?"

"Look, I'm not going to comment about particular matters," Garland said.

Steube said he was only asking him about the two photos.

"In one, you very welcomingly called it domestic terrorism," Steube said. "But you are refusing to call groups like this, who committed the same atrocities, domestic terrorists."

Garland insisted that "one I know the facts of, the other I don't know the facts of."

Seeming a bit exasperated, Steube then held the two photos up higher.

"Here's the facts," he said. "Exhibit A and exhibit B."

But Garland again insisted that "with one picture, I'm not going to be able to resolve a legal determination." He also stated that "we have terabytes of video" of the Jan. 6 riots.

Steube told The Epoch Times during a recess in the hearing that Garland not knowing about the Oct. 14 violence "absolutely blew my mind... If he didn't know that that happened, it raises so many other questions, like you're telling me that you aren't paying that much attention to what's happening in the media in general, but your deputies didn't raise that to you as an issue."

Steube was then asked what Garland's deputies not telling him about the Oct. 14 incident suggests about how the department is functioning.

"It shows they don't care," he said. "The Department of Justice obviously doesn't care what happened to the Department of the Interior because it was their leftist ideologies that they support, just like all the riots we saw last summer, none of those people have been prosecuted with the full force of the department."

Billions Worth of American Tech Licenses Approved for Blacklisted Chinese Companies

ANDREW THORNEBROOKE

Suppliers to two blacklisted Chinese companies—telecom giant Huawei and China's top chipmaker SMIC—were approved to receive billions of dollars worth of licenses for U.S. technologies shipments between November and April, documents released by the House Committee on Foreign Affairs on Oct. 21 detail.

Some 301 licenses worth a total of $103 billion were approved for suppliers to sell goods to Huawei and SMIC, according to the documents prepared by the Commerce Department.

Huawei and Semiconductor Manufacturing International Corp (SMIC) were put on a U.S. trade blacklist, known as the "entity list," in May 2019 and December 2020 respectively over national security concerns. Their addition means that American companies seeking to sell to them must apply for a license with the department.

Huawei equipment was also previously banned from use by the federal government over security concerns. SMIC is the largest manufacturer of semiconductor chips in mainland China and is known to have ties to the Chinese military.

The committee voted Thursday to release the data, which it received in May.

Rep. Michael McCaul (R-Texas), the ranking member of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, issued a prepared statement saying that the bipartisan effort to release the documents indicated the seriousness of the matter.

"In addition to sanctions and other tools to impose consequences on bad actors, export controls are fundamental in restricting the transfer of technology and goods to our adversaries," McCaul said.

McCaul said that such licenses, if materialized into actual shipments, could end up being used by the Chinese military, and suggested that American technologies could be responsible for China's reported test of a nuclear-capable hypersonic weapon.

"This decision by the House Foreign Affairs Committee reflects our bipartisan support for conducting oversight over our export control system," McCaul said. "This data provides concrete statistics to a public policy issue that, until now, has been based solely on rhetoric and anecdotes."

Export controls are fundamental in restricting the transfer of technology and goods to our adversaries.

Rep. Michael McCaul

"The recent reports regarding China's hypersonic program, that has likely been supported by U.S. technology, is another frightening wake-up call for why there must be more transparency and stricter enforcement when it comes to export controls."

Statements by the Commerce Department in the documents indicated that the license applications involving Huawei and SMIC were processed under licensing policies developed by the Trump Administration and maintained by the Biden Administration.

Further, the department wrote that the aggregate numbers of licenses noted in the documents do not necessarily reflect the real number of licenses that were utilized for exports to the two companies.

This is because the documents do not include those licenses that were earmarked for denial but had not yet been denied, as well as the fact that approved licenses do not correspond directly to actual shipments made.

The Commerce Department stated that, generally, about half of such licenses are utilized, and warned that the release of the data to the public would not improve efforts to understand the effectiveness of U.S.-China trade policy.

"The public release of aggregate licensing data for certain PRC [People's Republic of China] companies on the Entity List, over an arbitrary snapshot in time, risks politicizing the licensing process and misrepresenting the national security determinations made by the Departments of Commerce, Defense, Energy, and State," the statement said.

A majority of the licenses granted did not authorize shipments of sensitive items. Of the 113 licenses approved for Huawei during the period, 80 were for non-sensitive items that only required a license because the recipient was blacklisted. For SMIC, the figure was 121 of 188.

Licenses are generally good for four years.

Huawei and SCIM did not respond to a request for comment by the time of publication.

Southwest Suffers $75 Million Loss Over Mass Flight Cancellations

JACK PHILLIPS

Southwest Airlines endured a $75 million loss over widespread cancellations and delays earlier this month that spanned several days, the Dallas-based carrier announced Thursday.

Over the span of about a weekend, Southwest canceled around 2,000 flights, according to monitoring website FlightAware. While the firm blamed poor weather conditions and unspecified staffing issues on the cancellations, other major U.S. carriers appeared to operate normally.

According to its earnings release, Southwest suffered "an estimated $75 million negative impact as a result of flight cancellations from operational challenges experienced earlier this month and related Customer refunds and gestures of goodwill." The company also said it suffered another $40 million in losses "due to the lingering effects of the Delta variant," referring to the CCP (Chinese Communist Party) virus strain.

Now, the company will cut back on flights in December to avoid a similar shortfall due to "more conservative staffing assumptions."

The company recently backed off a plan to place unvaccinated workers on unpaid leave if they haven't obtained a medical or religious exemption by Dec. 8. It's unclear if the move to cut flights in December—a month when millions of Americans travel for Christmas and New Year's—had to do with the vaccine mandate.

Southwest was also sued by its main pilots' union, the Southwest Airlines Pilots Association, which asked a court to block the company's vaccine requirement. The union argued that pilots face a unique risk from possible vaccine side-effects due to the stringent medical hurdles they have to clear in order to fly.

United Airlines, American Airlines, JetBlue, Alaska Airlines, and Hawaiian Airlines have announced similar vaccine mandates. Delta Air Lines appears to be the only major airline that hasn't done so, instead opting to charge unvaccinated workers $200 per month.

"We are aggressively hiring to a goal of approximately 5,000 new Employees by the end of this year, and we are currently more than halfway toward that goal," Southwest CEO Gary Kelly said in the Thursday news release. "We made good progress in our pandemic recovery in third quarter 2021, and I expect more in fourth quarter. I'm very excited about the demand recovery and our prospects for 2022."

The holiday season should offset any problems for the rest of 2021, Southwest's release said.

There "are lingering effects from the summer COVID-19 surge and recent operational challenges, we are encouraged with renewed momentum in leisure and business traffic, revenues, and bookings—especially over the holidays," Kelly added.

The carrier also reported a third-quarter profit of $446 million, as compared with a $1.6 billion loss a year earlier due to a boost from federal aid and leaves of absence by employees. Southwest's revenue rose to $4.68 billion in the quarter, compared with $1.79 billion during the same quarter last year, the release shows.

"MANSON PARK AND RECREATION DISTRICT Request for Qualifications
Manson Bay Marina Breakwater Replacement Planning Project Submittals are due 5:00pm PST, Friday, November 5, 2021

Manson Parks and Recreation District is seeking a consultant to complete a planning and design effort for the near-term replacement of its existing breakwater at Manson Bay Marina. Anticipated scope of work includes, but is not necessarily limited to a facility assessment; development of 95%-level plans, specifications and estimates (PS&E); and permitting for the renovation of the deteriorating breakwater. Additional work may include a high-level feasibility analysis for expansion to accommodate potential increase in marina slip capacity. Deliverables of critical elements must be compatible with Washington State RCO Boating Facilities Planning Grant Requirements. A digital copy of the RFQ may be obtained by contacting Robin Pittman, Park Director, at robin@mansonparks.com. Manson Park and Recreation District is an equal opportunity employer."
