Jennifer Harris of Manson, Links '30 millionth rider'

By ERIC WEST, LINK TRANSIT

WENATCHEE - Link Transit, now in its thirtieth year of service to communities throughout Chelan and Douglas Counties, has reached thirty million boardings on its fixed route buses. This milestone was celebrated on Wednesday, October 6 with the awarding of the "30 millionth rider" to Jennifer Harris of Manson, Washington. Jennifer was riding Route 21, a route of over 50 miles length coming from Manson to Wenatchee. She received a weekend getaway trip to the Oregon Coast, courtesy of Sunny FM Radio in Wenatchee. "I've been working 19 days straight; and am on the way to pick up my car from the shop today. I think I picked the right day to ride the bus. I am so excited", said Harris upon finding out she was the lucky winner.

Harris has been riding Link Transit since service began in December 1991, as a teenager she and her friends would ride the bus to go to the movies and go shopping, and just to hang out. She said her parents loved the fact that they didn't have to drive the kids around, and they knew they had safe, reliable transportation. Harris continues to ride occasionally, and her kids use the bus as well.

"It is always fun to talk with our guests and hear about how they use our services", said Eric West, Link's Marketing and Communication Coordinator. "Whether they are daily users, or ride infrequently, people highly value and greatly appreciate the fact that they can rely on Link Transit to get them where they need to go safely, efficiently, and affordably. And it is especially fun when we have milestones like this to celebrate, which are only possible with the ongoing support of our riders. It's what makes it even more satisfying to provide this necessary service to our residents".

Five-year priorities focused on energy generation, customer service

SUBMITTED BY RACHEL HANSEN
CHELAN COUNTY PUD

WENATCHEE – Today (Oct. 4), Chelan PUD commissioners conducted their annual review of a five-year plan that maps out how the PUD will provide the best value for the most people for the longest time.

The five-year business plan includes large investments in dam modernization, expanded access to fiber internet, and better customer service tools.

Here's a summary of the initiatives planned to support the PUD's four strategic goals:

- 1)Invest in assets and people. The five-year plan calls for improving hydropower capability, from about 77 percent now to 89 percent in 2025, by investing in maintenance and improvements at Rocky Reach and Rock Island dams. The PUD will also invest in new customer service technology to support real-time outage and energy usage information, including mobile-friendly options.
- 2)Maintain strong and resilient financials. The PUD plans to continue to meet its financial goals with flexibility to adapt to changing circumstances. The debt leverage is expected to be well below the 35% target throughout the five-year plan, ending with less than 16% in 2026.

3)Enhance quality of life in Chelan County. The five-year plan maintains a $6-million investment annually for public power benefit projects, including the expansion of the utility's fiber internet network to 5,800 more homes by 2024.

4)Support economic development. The PUD is planning to build more electrical distribution infrastructure in Chelan County, including additional substations, to accommodate residential and industrial growth and to improve reliability.

Chelan PUD is starting this journey financially strong, with better-than-forecasted revenues in 2021 from an energy market that values renewable, carbon-free hydropower. That puts the PUD on a path to invest in capital projects without taking on new debt until 2023.

Commissioners will hear the proposed 2022 annual budget overview on Oct. 18, followed by two public budget hearings in November.

In other business, commissioners:

Lady Goats lose close game to Kodiaks

SUBMITTED BY COACH AMARIS LONGMIRE, CHELAN HIGH SCHOOL SOCCER

CHELAN - Tuesday evening (Oct. 5) the Goats traveled to the ever-formidable Cascade Kodiaks, the Goats second game in as many days, to finish out the first round of play in the CTL. Going into the game we knew it was going to be a hard-fought and physical battle from the beginning of the match. We knew we needed to play our game and connect passes to secure the victory.

During the first half the game was fairly even in play. Fouls were being called for both sides. Ultimately, one fall was called in our favor and lead to a penalty kick. Unfortunately, for us the keeper for Cascade made a great save and we were not able to capitalize on the rebound.

Going into the second half still with a zero-zero tie we tried to slow the game down more and play our game. We were much better at controlling the ball and keeping the ball on the ground. Thanks to our team play we were able to create multiple opportunities, many of which were inches away from bouncing in our favor.

At the end of regulation, we were still tied zero-zero and went into two five-minute overtimes. Chances on both ends were had, however we could not find the back of the net. This led into a shootout, which allots each team 5 shooters each. We were able to connect with three out of our five girls hammering the ball in the back of the net.

Unfortunately, the Kodiaks were able to slide one more past Aliyah Finch to secure them the 1-0 (4-3 Shootout) victory.

This was the closest game that Chelan has ever played against the Kodiaks. Fortunately, we will have a few well-deserved days of rest before we return to the field at home against the Kodiaks on Tuesday, October 12. This will not be a game that anyone will want to miss. We know what we need to work on and we will be coming back to garner our victory.

Goats defeated by Pioneers 40-19

SUBMITTED BY COACH TRAVIS DOMSER, CHELAN HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL

CHELAN - Well the tale of two halves was the story Friday (Oct. 8). Huge shout out to Chelan ASB, Finch Family Farms, Chelan Athletic Booster Club, and everyone who made homecoming a special night.

We would love to have the second half back, but that's life. The formula to win games is stop the run and protect the football and we did neither of those in the second half. They got physical with us and we did not respond like we have in the past.

The good thing is we can fix our mistakes this week during our Bye and prepare for our last two league games. We looked good at times in the pass and run game on offense, we took care of the football on special teams. We executed another outside kick as well.

Defensively we played better in the first half but gave up too much in the third quarter. We still have a lot to play for and the playoff picture is wide open. This team will bounce back for sure.

The Reign of the Trojans

BY TRINADA CARO
STAFF WRITER

MANSON – In his fifth year of coaching and an overall record of 20-14, Joey Johanson retains command, assisted by Bill Thompson (11th season), Kellen Wiggum (2nd season), Steve Nygreen (3rd season) and Andy Bloch (1st year).

Returning to the field this season are 10 seniors, four juniors and nine sophomores. Coach Johanson cites Nick Strecker (#5) as hoping to have a big year receiving. Further, the offensive line is anchored by Senior Center, Alex Solorio, who has started the last two seasons. Johanson says, “All four returning juniors have had significant varsity playing time. Hervin Chavez, Gerardo Guerrero, Marvin Valdez & Colton Vivian are a great foursome of defensive players. Quarterback Angel Lopez (#6) returns with one of his favorite targets, Ben Cullison (#10), as well as his trusty running back Cal Beazley (#1). Senior Conner Clausen (#32) will be playing football for the first time. With a large frame and good speed he is sure to have an immediate impact on the team.”

down from previous years? Thirty-six total players which is the highest turnout Coach Johanson has had in his 5 years. Last season the Trojans had an overall record of 3-2. Coach Johanson was asked who the toughest teams to beat this year are and says, “The Trojans are always looking forward to their games against Brewster & Lake Roosevelt.”

Who do you see as standouts this year?

“Offensively: Team Captain Nick Strecker (Sr.) WR #5- Speed, speed, speed and high football IQ.

Team Captain Angel Lopez (Soph.) QB #6- Has an amazing arm and can hurt you with his feet as well.

Defensively: Joe Mogan (Sr.) DT #55- Plays in the opponents’ backfield all night. Makes tackles for loss look easy. Team Captain Hugo Lopez (Sr.) LB #50- Very physical linebacker who is having a great positive influence on the younger players” says Coach Johanson.

Any comments you would like to make about this year?

Johanson says, “This is a young team, but does have some talent in the senior class. It will be a learning process, but look for this team to only get better as the season goes along. It’s also a group that just loves playing football.”

Manson High School Varsity Cross Country

Annette Quarre on Manson’s 2021 Season

BY TRINADA CARO

MANSON – Returning Trojans this year are: Jordan Castro (sophomore), Johan Cruz (sophomore), Alexis Villasenor (sophomore), Gabe Sivertson (sophomore), Oashan Sanchez (sophomore) Ella England (sophomore) and Nikolai Sanchez (Junior). There are no new runners this year as Van Keough-Michaels and Maddie Larsen are freshman athletes who ran as middle schoolers.

This year’s numbers are slightly down from last year but last season the Lady Trojans were League Champions and the Trojans were competitive.

When asked which would be the toughest team in Coach Quarre’s opinion she stated, “The team to beat would be Liberty Bell.”

Coach Annette has a few standouts this year to include: Ella England which is “the only girl runner holding it down!” Nikolai Sanchez “who has taken minutes off of his 5k time and Gabe Sivertson who is our captain.” “We are building a strong team and all athletes have improved their times drastically throughout the season. We are so happy to be back in the fall (instead of winter) and be running a full season competitively.”

The Trojan’s schedule is found on Athletic.net, Cross Country -> High School -> Washington State -> 2B-> Manson.

CIA Creating New ‘Mission Center’ Focusing on China Threats

A man crosses the Central Intelligence Agency logo in the lobby of the agency’s headquarters in Langley, Va., in this file image.

EVA FU

The Central Intelligence Agency says that it’s creating a top-level working group aimed at China, calling the regime in Beijing “the most important geopolitical threat” America faces today.

The China Mission Center aims to address “the global challenge posed by the People’s Republic of China,” CIA Director William Burns said on Oct. 7, stating that such a challenge “cuts across all of the Agency’s mission areas.”

A senior CIA official said the agency will hire Mandarin translators and mobilize Chinese specialists globally.

The new working group will “further strengthen our collective work on the most important geopolitical threat we face in the 21st century, an increasingly adversarial Chinese government,” Burns said in a statement, stressing that the threat is from the Chinese authorities, not the Chinese people.

“Throughout our history, CIA has stepped up to meet whatever challenges come our way. And now facing our toughest geopolitical test in a new era of great power rivalry, CIA will be at the forefront of this effort.”

The Justice Department started the China Initiative in 2018 to counter economic espionage and other malign actions from China. Around 80 percent of all economic espionage prosecutions would benefit the Chinese state, according to the department. In September, FBI Director Christopher Wray said his agency is “opening a new China counterintelligence investigation every 12 hours.”

The initiative from Burns marks his first major moves since taking office in March, and falls in line with the priorities he laid out before taking office.

During his confirmation hearing in February, Burns characterized “outcompeting China” as “key to our national security in the decades ahead,” although he also highlighted issues such as climate change and denuclearization as areas of “mutual interests.”

As part of the organization’s reshuffling, the CIA will merge mission centers on Iran and North Korea—both set up during the Trump administration—with the broader Middle East unit and one on East Asia-Pacific, respectively. The agency also will address the recruiting delays due to time-consuming background checks and security clearances, with a goal of cutting down the processing times to an average of six months.

The changes reflect the “regional nature of those issues in a lot of ways,” said the senior official, who added that “China is really global.”

An additional office, the Transnational and Technology Mission Center, will “address global issues critical to U.S. competitiveness,” such as emerging technologies, economic security, climate change, and global health, according to Burns.

CIA Deputy Director David S. Cohen will oversee the implementation of the new office.

SAUL LOEB/AFP VIA GETTY IMAGES

Sen. Mark Warner (D-Va.), who chairs the Senate Intelligence Committee, said he looked forward to working with the CIA to ensure that the changes “meet the challenges we are facing.”

“The strategic threat environment has been changing, and the intelligence community needs to adapt to meet that new environment,” Warner said in a statement.

The committee’s vice chair, Sen. Marco Rubio (R-Fla.), also welcomed news of the China working group.

“The threat posed by the Chinese Communist Party is real and growing,” he said in a statement. “Every part of our government needs to reflect this great power competition in message, structure, and action.”

Experts have previously noted the challenges in tackling the China challenge.

The regime “has made massive inroads, basically running around the United States with a giant vacuum cleaner for decades, stealing every secret we have on any topic under the sun,” retired CIA operations officer Sam Faddis told The Epoch Times. To him, “the idea that, in 2021, the CCP is now seen as a big problem makes [the CIA] a little late to the party.”

Senators Vow to Try Again to Bar Dishonorable Discharges for Declining Vaccine

MARK TAPSCOTT

Two Republican senators vowed late on Oct. 6 to try again to bar the Department of Defense (DOD) from dishonorably discharging members of the U.S. military who decline to be vaccinated against the CCP virus, also known as novel coronavirus, the cause of COVID-19.

“I just hope the people here realize what a dishonorable discharge really means,” Sen. Roger Marshall (R-Kan.) told more than 2,000 conservative and evangelical family advocates at the Family Research Council’s (FRC) “Pray Vote Stand Summit” conference in Leesburg, Virginia.

“You’re never going to be able to get a job again. You’re going to lose your Second Amendment [rights]. They’re going to take away your VA health care benefits and your education. It’s a big deal, is what I’m trying to say,” Marshall explained in response to a question from the moderator, FRC President Tony Perkins.

Marshall was referring to a Sept. 21 position statement issued by the White House saying the Biden administration “strongly opposes” congressional efforts to bar dishonorable discharges when service members decline to be vaccinated.

“You’re treated worse than a convicted felon,” added Sen. James Lankford (R-Okla.), who joined Marshall in the discussion with Perkins.

The U.S. military includes approximately 1.3 million active-duty members, as well as an estimated 800,000 reservists subject to immediate call-up. More than 700,000 Americans have died as a result of the CCP virus, with slightly more of the fatalities coming in 2021 than in 2020.

Marshall noted that votes will be taken later in October in the Senate on the National Defense Authorization Act (NDAA), and he plans to introduce an amendment removing the dishonorable discharge option from the available disciplinary measures that military leaders can impose on unvaccinated subordinates.

“The National Defense Authorization Act will be coming up for a vote probably the end of this month, and we’ll be offering an amendment just like we did on the continuing resolution to stop that nonsense. And we’ll need to activate your folks to help us out,” Marshall said.

The FRC summit attendees are concerned citizens from across the country who tend to be actively involved in public policy discussions and advocacy at all levels of government.

Secretary of Defense Lloyd Austin issued an Aug. 24 order requiring all service members to be vaccinated, using the vaccine developed by Pfizer. While Austin said President Joe Biden supported the decision, it’s been unclear whether service members would face a dishonorable discharge as a potential penalty.

Austin was asked by Sen. Tommy Tuberville (R-Ala.) during a Sept. 28 Senate Armed Services Committee hearing if he supports dishonorable discharges for unvaccinated service members.

“Taking a vaccine is a requirement. I’ll just leave it at that,” Austin replied.

Maj. Cesar Santiago, a DOD spokesman, told The Epoch Times on Oct. 7 that “service members cannot be unilaterally dishonorably discharged for declining the vaccination.”

Santiago explained that “a commander would have to court-martial a service member for a violation of the Uniform Code of Military Justice—in this case, failure to follow a lawful order, Article 92 of the Uniform Code—and then a court-martial would have to find the service member guilty and, in the sentencing phase of the trial, assign a dishonorable discharge.”

Nearly 96 percent of all active-duty personnel have received at least one dose of the vaccination, and more than 79 percent have received both shots, he said.

Lankford said he’s hearing from service members that military commanders in each of the five branches are often taking differing approaches on the vaccine issue.

“This is an issue all of us have been engaged in. So, as crazy as this sounds, the Air Force is handling this differently than the Army is handling it than the Navy is handling it. They don’t even have consistent policy agency to agency and even within the Pentagon.

“So when I talk to the Army, they’ve set their policies—and I’ve talked to the chaplains there, I’ve talked to the surgeon general there, the leadership for manpower—they’ll say, there’s no way we’re going to do a less than honorable discharge. We’re not going to do that. We’re just going to say you can’t get promoted anymore. You’re stuck at that level.

“The Navy and the Air Force will say, well, we wouldn’t give a dishonorable discharge, but we’d give a less than honorable discharge as a possibility. Basically, you’re kicked out and you lose some of your benefits.”

Marshall and Lankford were joined by Sen. Ted Cruz (R-Texas) and Tuberville at the end of September in a failed effort to amend a Continuing Resolution to keep the government open.

On the House side, Rep. Mark Green (R-Tenn.) authored an amendment in the House Armed Services Committee that had support from both sides of the aisle, but the proposal wasn’t adopted.

The issue continues to boil in Congress, however, because of recurring reports of service members being threatened with dishonorable discharges. Two service members have filed a federal lawsuit naming Austin, Secretary of the Department of Health and Human Services Xavier Becerra, and FDA Acting Commissioner Janet Woodcock.

The service members argue that the Pfizer vaccine being required by the Austin order is based on an FDA authorization for its use on an experimental basis. Federal law requires that individuals can’t be required to undergo treatment with an experimental drug. Days after they filed their suit, the FDA gave full approval to the vaccine.

Lt. Col. Scheller to Face Oct. 14 Trial by Court-Martial

KEN SILVA

Lt. Col. Stuart Scheller has been reportedly charged with six violations of the Uniform Code of Military Justice and will face trial by court-martial on Oct. 14.

According to a source familiar with the matter, the trial will be open to the public.

The source said Scheller’s defense team has requested a larger courtroom to accommodate the numerous reporters, lawmakers, family members, and other members of the public who are interested in the case.

Scheller’s attorney, Brian Ferguson, has declined to comment publicly on the matter.

Scheller was freed from pretrial detention on Oct. 5 after being placed in the brig in September for criticizing senior military officials over the U.S. withdrawal from Afghanistan.

According to the Army Times, he has been charged with Article 88 (contempt toward officials), Article 89 (disrespect toward superior commissioned officers), Article 90 (willfully disobeying a superior commissioned officer), Article 92 (dereliction in the performance of duties), Article 92 (failure to obey order or regulation), and Article 133 (conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman).

Numerous lawmakers and Scheller’s family have spoken out against what they view to be political persecution against the Marine veteran.

“This confinement appears to be simply for messaging, retribution, and convenience in flagrant violation of R.C.M. [Rule for Court Martial]: ‘a person should not be confined as a mere matter of convenience,’” reads a Sept. 29 letter from 35 members of Congress calling for Scheller’s release.

“He is an American war hero. He has fought for his men and women that follow him. He’s fought on the battlefield for them. I believe he has risked his life for his fellow service people and Americans. He is now risking his livelihood for them. He saw a misjustice happening at the top, and he felt that they should be held accountable for it,” Cathy Scheller, Stuart Scheller’s mother, said on NTD’s “The Nation Speaks.”

Stuart Scheller’s father, Stu Scheller Sr., said support from fellow Americans will greatly help his son. The Marine Corps will “win the battle.”

“But America is going to help Stuart win the war,” he said.

Higher Gas Prices Cut Household Income by $120 Billion: Deutsche Bank

EMEL AKAN

Retail gasoline prices have risen by a dollar over the past 12 months as the economy began to reopen, increasing the demand for fuel. Higher gas prices are now crimping consumer budgets and putting a brake on household spending on non-energy items, according to analysts.

Prices at the pump have soared to $3.20 per gallon for regular gasoline as of Oct. 5, which is slightly more than a dollar higher than they were in October 2020.

“Historically, there is a tight relationship between changes in retail gas prices and consumer spending on energy goods and services,” Deutsche Bank analysts wrote in a recent report.

This relationship suggests that a 1 cent rise in gas prices increases spending on energy and thus reduces income for non-energy-related goods and services by $1.18 billion.

“Based on this relationship, the 101 cents increase in gas prices from one year ago would be expected to lead to a reduction in income that can be spent on non-energy items of approximately $120 billion—assuming that pump prices remain near current levels over the next several months,” the report reads.

Oil prices hit a seven-year high on Oct. 4, after the Organization of the Petroleum Exporting Countries and Russia (OPEC-plus) said it would stick to its original plan and increase output modestly. The group ignored the pressures coming from the Biden administration and other oil-consuming nations and opted against boosting oil production.

In a statement, OPEC-plus “reconfirmed” its previous production plan to return its output to pre-pandemic levels, which was to increase oil production by 400,000 barrels per day in November.

West Texas Intermediate, the U.S. oil benchmark, rose by 2.3 percent following the announcement, reaching a seven-year high. Brent, the international gauge, also rose by 2.5 percent, settling at the highest level in three years.

“At first glance, the $120 billion hit to disposable income does not appear particularly concerning given very healthy household balance sheets,” the report reads.

U.S. consumers have healthy balance sheets, as they sit on $2.4 trillion in excess savings accumulated since the beginning of the pandemic, thanks to generous government stimulus.

“However, it is important to remem-

We’re going to continue to use every tool at our disposal to ensure we can keep gas prices down for the American public.

Jen Psaki, White House press secretary

ber that most of the excess savings are largely concentrated amongst higher-earning households who had cut back on services expenditures,” the report reads.

Lower-income households have lower excess savings and more exposure to energy price changes, as they spend a larger share of their income on fuel and utilities, the analysts said.

Consumer spending, which accounts for more than two-thirds of U.S. economic activity, dropped by 0.1 percent in July, according to the revised data from the Commerce Department on Oct. 1.

The weak consumer spending in July led banks to revise their near-term projections for U.S. economic growth. JPMorgan is the latest bank to lower its estimate for the third quarter. The bank’s analysts now forecast 4.0 percent annualized real gross domestic product growth for the third quarter, instead of 5.0 percent.

The continued rise in gas prices is adding to inflationary pressures in the United States. Strong recovery in global demand and slow growth in supplies have been pushing crude oil prices higher in recent months.

Worried about this trend, the Biden administration has called on OPEC-plus to raise their oil output to support global recovery from the pandemic.

“While OPEC-plus recently agreed to production increases, these increases will not fully offset previous production cuts that OPEC-plus imposed during the pandemic until well into 2022,” national security adviser Jake Sullivan said in an Aug. 11 statement. “At a critical moment in the global recovery, this is simply not enough.”

The White House reacted to the recent announcement by OPEC-plus that it wouldn’t change its course on production.

“We’re going to continue to use every tool at our disposal to ensure we can keep gas prices down for the American public,” White House press secretary Jen Psaki said during an Oct. 4 press briefing.

Measures taken by the Biden administration in response to rising gas prices include addressing the shortage of truck drivers that cause fuel delivery disruptions and monitoring the U.S. gasoline market to prevent illegal activities that drive up gas prices.

Oil industry experts have been criticizing the Biden administration’s climate policies, claiming that these policies are discouraging domestic producers.

“I think the Biden administration’s been a major factor in driving prices,” Phil Flynn, senior energy analyst at Price Future Group, told The Epoch Times. “There’s been kind of a dearth of investment in fossil fuels. So that’s going to leave us undersupplied as we go forward.”

Supreme Court Upholds Constitutional Ban on DC Voting Rights

MATTHEW VADUM

District of Columbia residents aren’t entitled to voting representation in the U.S. House of Representatives, the Supreme Court ruled, affirming a lower court decision.

The ruling came after the House approved legislation in April to make D.C. the 51st state; the bill stalled in the Senate. Democrats support the measure, arguing that all U.S. citizens should be represented in Congress, while Republicans oppose it because they believe the framers of the Constitution didn’t want D.C. to become a state, and because the new state’s two senators would almost certainly be Democrats in the Democratic Party stronghold.

The case is Castañon v. United States, court file 20-1279. The ruling, which summarily affirmed a lower court decision, came on Oct. 4. There were no oral arguments.

In the brief unsigned order, Justices Clarence Thomas and Neil Gorsuch indicated they would dismiss the appeal for lack of jurisdiction. They didn’t elaborate.

In the order, the high court referenced Adams v. Clinton, a decision it handed down in 2000. In that previous decision, the court held the District of Columbia wasn’t a state and therefore wasn’t entitled to representation in Congress under Article I, section 8 of the Constitution.

Referring to the nation’s capital that at the time the Constitution was ratified in 1788 had yet to be created, that provision gave Congress the power “To exercise exclusive

The Supreme Court in Washington on March 20, 2017.

Legislation in all Cases whatsoever, over such District (not exceeding ten Miles square) as may, by Cession of Particular States, and the Acceptance of Congress, become the Seat of the Government of the United States.”

Although President Joe Biden supports D.C. statehood, his administration urged the Supreme Court “that the appeal be dismissed or, in the alternative, that the district court’s order be affirmed.”

The petitioners, a group of Washington residents led by Angelica Castañon, previously argued in their complaint before the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia that the continuing denial of the right to vote, which “is fundamental under our Constitution,” “violates the constitutional guarantees of equal protection, due process, and the constitutional right of association.”

In March 2020, a three-judge panel of the District Court ruled against the residents.

“We recognize that District residents’ lack of the congressional franchise is viewed by many, even most, as deeply unjust, and we have given each aspect of Plaintiffs’ claims most serious consideration, but our ruling today is compelled by precedent and by the Constitution itself,” the opinion stated.

However, Washington residents aren’t completely shut out of self-governance. There is an elected District Council that takes care of day-to-day local government matters, subject to the possibility of a joint resolution of disapproval being passed by both houses of Congress, something that rarely happens. The 23rd Amendment to the Constitution, ratified in 1961, gave the District three votes in the electoral college in presidential elections.

Delegate Eleanor Holmes Norton (D-D.C.), who is a nonvoting member of the House, said she was “disappointed” by the Supreme Court ruling.

But she said in a statement that “the ruling has no bearing on the constitutionality of D.C. statehood, which would give D.C. residents voting representation in the House and Senate and full control over their local affairs. In fact, the three-judge panel expressly referred to statehood as a remedy for D.C. residents.

“In 2016, D.C. residents voted overwhelmingly for statehood, and the House has passed my D.C. statehood bill twice since June 2020. We have record support for D.C. statehood in the Senate, and we have never been closer to statehood.”

US Deaths From CCP Virus in 2021 Surpass 2020 Total: Data

JACK PHILLIPS

More Americans have died so far in 2021 with COVID-19, the illness caused by the CCP virus, than in all of 2020, according to figures released by Johns Hopkins University.

As of Oct. 6, the United States has seen 353,000 deaths this year, the university said. That surpasses the death toll of 352,000 in the 10 months following the first outbreaks of the disease in March 2020. About 44 million cases have been reported across the United States, according to the university, although that figure doesn’t account for individuals who contracted the virus but never tested for it.

But cases, deaths, and hospitalizations have trended lower in recent days, according to data from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). The seven-day average for cases on Oct. 5 was about 97,000, whereas the seven-day average on Sept. 28 was about 110,000, the CDC’s daily tracker reports.

The World Health Organization (WHO) said on Oct. 6 that all regions on Earth except Europe reported a decline in the number of new CCP virus cases. The number of reported cases stands at 234 million since the start of the pandemic, compared to about 4.8 million deaths, the WHO said.

And more than half of the world has yet to receive at least one dose of a COVID-19 vaccine, according to Our World in Data.

Despite cases trending downward, municipalities and large corporations have continued to issue or propose vaccine mandates.

The Los Angeles City Council on Oct. 6 voted to approve an ordinance that requires numerous businesses to force customers to show proof they’re vaccinated for COVID-19—described as one of the strictest mandates in the United States.

Now, individuals attempting to enter indoor restaurants, movie theaters, salons, shopping centers, gyms, sports arenas, museums, spas, indoor government facilities, malls, restaurants, and bars will have to present proof of vaccination. Individuals with a medical or religious exemption will have to show a negative COVID-19 test within 72 hours.

Unvaccinated people attempting to use city government services will be provided with “alternative arrangements for access to government services,” including online or outdoor services, or providing proof of a negative test to enter, according to the ordinance.

Elsewhere, vaccine passport systems have been implemented in New York City, New Orleans, San Francisco, and West Hollywood, whereas entire countries such as France, Israel, and several others have mandated them for different activities.

The Delta variant is now the dominant strain around the globe and has been reported in 187 out of 194 World Health Organization member countries, the organization said last week.
